4. To partition, separate, or divide, by means of a rope, so as to include or exclude something; as, to rope in a plot of ground; to rope out a crowd; to rope off the street near the fire.
5. To lasso (a steer, horse, or the like). Western U. S.
6. To draw as if with a rope; to secure; inveigle; lure; — with in; as, to rope in customers or voters. Slang, U. S.
7. To cause to become viscous, stringy, or ropy, as a fabric.
8. Horse Racing. To check (a horse) to avoid winning.
—, Intransitive: To be formed into, or to twist in the shape of, rope; to draw out or extend into a filament or thread, as by means of any glutinous or adhesive quality.

rope (rōp), adj. Of or pertaining to rope or ropes.

rope. Past & past part. of REAP. Both Obs. exc. Dial.

-rope (-rōp). A combining form of the noun rope, often written separately, as in:

backrope	footrope	match rope bell rope	gift rope	purse rope boltrope	glassrope	ridgerope breastrope	grab rope	rolling rope bushrope	guide rope	slue rope checkrope	headrope	toprope clew rope	jack rope	towrope dragrope	jaw rope	trail rope fall rope	leech rope	wheel rope fly rope	manrope

rope belting. See BELTING.

rope boring. = ROPE DRILLING.

rope brake. Mach. A kind of band brake or absorption dynamometer in which the band is replaced by a rope or ropes. Cf. PRONY BRAKE.

rope brown. A brown paper, esp. one of excellent quality made from old ropes.

rope clip. A clamp, as a U-bolt clamp, for clamping two ropes, esp. wire ropes, or two parts of a rope, together.

rope'danc'er (rōp'dăn'sẽr), n. One who dances, walks, or performs acrobatic feats, on a rope extended through the air at some height. — rope'dance' (-dăns'), n. — rope' danc'ing, n.

rope drilling. A method of sinking wells or making boreholes in which the tools are attached to the lower end of a rope or cable and lifted and dropped alternately. Called also cable system, percussion drilling.

rope grass. Any plant of the genus Restio.

rope'-grass' fam'i·ly. The Restionaceae.

rope greaser. See GREASER, 1.

rope house. 1. A storehouse for rope.
2. An open-sided shed in which salt is crystallized out from brine on ropes down which the brine trickles.

rope ladder. A ladder of rope with rungs of rope, wood, or metal.

rope'lay'ing (rōp'lā'ĭng), n. The weaving or twisting of strands into rope. — rope'lay'er (-ẽr), n.

rope machine. A machine for laying up rope from yarn, etc. Cf. CORDELIER, 3.

rope'mak'er (rōp'māk'ẽr), n. A maker or manufacturer of rope.

rope'mak'ing (-māk'ĭng), n. The process or business of manufacturing rope.

rope'man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who attends to or repairs ropes.

rope molding. = CABLE MOLDING.

rop'er (rōp'ẽr), n. 1. A maker of ropes. P. Plowman.
2. One who ropes goods; a packer.
3. One who ropes cattle; a cowboy. Western U. S.
4. One who entices, or ropes in, customers, as for a gambling establishment; a decoy. Slang, U. S.
5. Horse Racing. A jockey who ropes his horse.

rope race. Mach. See 4th RACE, 9.

rope railway. A ropeway.

rope'ripe' (rōp'rīp'), adj. & n. (One) fit for hanging. Archaic.

rop'er·y (rōp'ẽr·ĭ), n. 1. A place where ropes are made.
2. Roguery; roguish tricks. Obs. Shak.

ropes (rōps), n. pl. [ME. roppes, fr. AS. ropp; cf. MD. rop.] The bowels.

rope's'-end', v. t. To punish with a rope's end.

rope's end. A piece of rope, esp. one used as a lash for punishing; hence, punishment by beating; also, a hangman's noose.

rope'-sight', n. Bell Ringing. A ringer's knack of noting which rope is pulled immediately before and after his own.

rope'smith' (rōp'smĭth'), n. [rope + smith.] One who inspects and looks after ropes. Eng.

rope spear. See SPEAR, n., 8.

rope spinner. See SPINNER.

rope stitch. Embroidery. A stitch similar to crewel stitch, but worked from the top downward. Cf. CREWEL STITCH.

rope twine. A twine made of rope yarn.

rope'walk' (rōp'wôk'), n. A long covered walk, building, or room where ropes are manufactured.

rope'walk'er (-ẽr), n. An acrobat who walks a rope.

rope'way' (rōp'wā'), n. A fixed cable or, commonly, a pair of parallel fixed cables, suspended between supporting towers, constituting a track for wheeled carriers; also, an endless cable, from which buckets or carriers are suspended; a cableway.

rope'work' (rōp'wûrk'), n. 1. Work made of or simulating ropes.
2. A works where ropes are made.

rope yarn. The yarn or thread composing the strands of a rope; a yarn of fibers loosely twisted up right-handedly; hence, figuratively, something of small account; a trifle.

rop'ing (rōp'ĭng), adj. Ropy. Rare.

rop'ing, n. 1. Ropes collectively or generally; ropework.
2. Naut. = BOLTROPE a. roping needle. Naut. A sailmaker's needle of large size.

roping palm. Naut. A sailmaker's palm. See PALM, 9 b.

rop'ish (-ĭsh), adj. Somewhat ropy. — rop'ish·ness, n.

rop'y (rōp'ĭ), adj.; ROP'I·ER (-ĭ·ẽr); ROP'I·EST. 1. Capable of being drawn into a thread; viscous; tenacious, glutinous; as, ropy sirup; ropy lees.
2. Resembling rope; stringy.
— rop'i·ly, adv. — rop'i·ness, n.

ropy bread. Bread in a slimy condition caused by Bacillus panis.

ropy lava. Lava marked with wrinkles resembling rope; — called also pahoehoe.

roque (rōk), n. [Arbitrarily derived fr. CROQUET.] A form of croquet played on a court having a border of wood, cement, or the like, sometimes faced with rubber, used as a cushion in bank shots. The balls are 3¼ in. in diameter, the cage (center arches or wickets) 3⅜ in. wide, the other arches 3½ in. wide.

Roque'fort (rōk'fẽrt; rôk'fôr'), n. A trademark applied to a cheese made of ewe's milk and ripened in the caves of Roquefort, France, marked by veins of greenish-blue mold (Penicillium roquefortii) that imparts a characteristic flavor.

roq'ue·laure (rōk'ĕ·lōr; rôk'lōr'), n. [F., after Duc de Roquelaure, in reign of Louis XIV.] A knee-length cloak buttoned in front, worn after 1700; — now chiefly dialectal, esp. in the form rokelay.

ro'quer (rō'kẽr), ro'quist (-kĭst), n. One who plays roque.

ro·quet' (rō·kā'; Brit. rō'kā, -kĭ), v. t. & i. Croquet. To hit (another's ball); — said of a ball or of the player who strikes it. — n. Act of roqueting.

ro·quette' (rō·kĕt'), n. The rocket salad (Eruca sativa).

ro'ral (rō'răl; 181), adj. [L. ros, roris, dew.] Dewy. Rare.

Ro·ra'te Sun'day (rō·rā'tē). [L. rorate, pres. pl. imperative of rorare to drop dew.] Eccl. The fourth Sunday in Advent; — from the first word of the Introit for the day.

ro'ra·to'ri·o (rō'rȧ·tō'rĭ·ō), n. [roar + oratorio.] Oratorio. Humorous.

ro'ric (rō'rĭk; 181), adj. [L. ros, roris, dew; akin to OSlav. rosa dew, Skr. rasa juice, fluid. Cf. ROSEMARY, ROSOLIO, ROUSE to cure fish.] Of or pertaining to dew; resembling dew; dewy.

roric figures. Physics. Figures which appear on a polished surface, as glass, when near-by objects are removed and the surface breathed on. They result from alterations in the film of dense air found on the surface of all solids.

Ro·rid'u·la (rō·rĭd'ū·lȧ), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. roridus dewy.] Bot. A small genus of South African, insectivorous undershrubs (family Byblidaceae), having entire or pinnatifid leaves, and white or red flowers with a 3-celled ovary.

ro·rif'er·ous (rō·rĭf'ẽr·ŭs), adj. [L. rorifer, fr. ros, roris, dew + ferre to bear.] Generating dew. Rare.

ro·rif'lu·ent (-lōō·ĕnt), adj. [L. ros, roris, dew + fluens flowing.] Flowing with dew. Rare.

Ro·ri'pa (rō·rĭ'pȧ), n. Also Ro·rip'pa (rō·rĭp'ȧ). [NL., fr. L. ros, roris, dew, moisture, water + ripa bank, shore.] Bot. A large genus of chiefly weedy herbs (family Brassicaceae), containing the water cress (R. nasturtium-aquaticum) and the marsh cress (R. palustris). Syns. Radicula; Nasturtium.

ro'ri·to'ri·ous (rō'rĭ·tō'rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. [See RORY-TORY.] Showy; also, boisterous. Slang.

ror'qual (rôr'kwăl), n. [F. (& G.), fr. Nor. rörhval, röyrkval, fr. ON. reyðarhvalr, lit., red whale, from the red streaks in the skin.] Any whalebone whale of the genus Balaenoptera, comprising some of the largest whales; a finback. See FINBACK, SULPHUR-BOTTOM.

ror'ty (rôr'tĭ), adj. [Origin uncert.] Fine; gay; sporty. Slang. — ror'ty, adv.

ro'ru·lent (rō'rōō·lĕnt), adj. [L. rorulentus, fr. ros, roris, dew.] Abounding in, or covered with, or as with, dew.

Ro'ry O'More' (rō'rĭ ō·mōr'; 181). The title and hero of a novel (1836) and a ballad by Samuel Lover. He is a witty, honorable Irish peasant who is accused of murder, and escapes hanging only by the appearance of his supposed victim.

ro'ry-to'ry (rō'rĭ·tō'rĭ; 181), adj. Also ro'ry-cum-to'ry (-kŭm·tō'rĭ). [See the earlier TORY-RORY.] Dashing; gay; showy; also, boisterous. Dial.

Ros (rōs), n. pl. [Gr. Rhōs Russians.] The Scandinavian rulers of the Slavs in Russia in the 9th century; also known as the Varangians.

Ros-. Prefix in Cornish Names. See TRE-.

Ro'sa (rō'zȧ), n. [L., a rose. See ROSE, n.] 1. Fem. proper name. It. Rosa (rō'zä); Sp. Rosa (rō'sä); Pg. Rosa (rō'zȧ)
2. Bot. A large genus of shrubs or vines, the roses, typifying the family Rosaceae, widely scattered in temperate regions. They have compound leaves, and regular 5-petaled, red, white, pink, or yellow (but never blue) flowers with many stamens. Over four thousand horticultural varieties, with many petals, are recognized. See ROSE, n., 1.

Ro'sa A·mer'i·ca'na (rō'zȧ ȧ·mĕr'ĭ·kā'nȧ). [NL., American rose.] Any of a series of brass (Bath metal) coins (twopence, penny, halfpenny) issued in 1722–23 for use in Ireland and America; — from the inscription on the reverse.

Ros'a·bel (rōz'ȧ·bĕl) Ros'a·bel'la (-bĕl'ȧ), n. [L. rosa rose + bella, fem., pretty.] Literally, a fair rose; — fem. proper name.

‖ro'sace' (rō'zȧs'), n. [F. See ROSACEOUS.] Arch. A circular ornamental member, generally a panel enclosing a richly sculptured rosette.

Ro·sa'ce·ae (rō·zā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See ROSA.] Bot. A large family of nearly cosmopolitan trees, shrubs, and herbs (order Rosales), mostly herbs in temperate regions. They have alternate usually stipulate leaves, 5-petaled, regular flowers with numerous stamens, and dry fruits, some times on pulpy receptacles (see STRAWBERRY). Typical genera, many yielding ornamental or economic plants, are Rosa, roses; Rubus, blackberries and raspberries; Spiraea, spireas; Fragaria, strawberries; Kerria, Japan globeflower; Physocarpus ninebarks; Potentilla, cinquefoils; and Aruncus, goatsbeard. The apples, pears, etc. (Malaceae), and the almonds, peaches, cherries, and plums (Amygdalaceae) were formerly and by some are still classed under Rosaceae.

ro·sa'cean (rō·zā'shăn), n. Any plant of the Rosaceae. — ro·sa'cean, adj.

ro·sa'ceous (-shŭs), adj. [L. rosaceus, fr. rosa rose.]
1. Bot. a Belonging to the Rosaceae. b Having a regular flower with five petals, as the rose.
2. Of the color rose; rose; rosy.

Ro'sa Dar'tle. See DARTLE, ROSA.

ros'al (rōz'ăl; -l), adj. [Cf. OF. rosal.] 1. Rosy. Obs.
2. Bot. a Belonging to the Rosales. b Rosaceous.

Ro·sa'les (rō·zā'lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order or alliance of 25 plant families, typified by the Rosaceae, including also the apple, plum, pea, saxifrage, and stonecrop families. All have separate petals (more or less united in the pea family), partly united calyx, epigynous or perigynous stamens, and one or more carpels.

‖ro·sa'lia (rō·zȧl'yȧ), n. [It., from the first word of an old song.] Music. A form of melody in which a phrase or passage is successively repeated, each time a step or half step higher.

Ro·sa'li·a (rō·zā'lĭ·ȧ), Ros'a·lie (rōz'ȧ·lē), n. [It. Rosalia, G. Rosalie, fr. L. rosa rose.] Fem. proper name.

Ros'a·lind (rōz'ȧ·lĭnd; -lĭnd), n. [Cf. Sp. rosa linda pretty rose.] 1. "A feigned name, which, being wel ordered, wil bewray the very name of hys love and mistresse," given by Spenser to his early love, an unknown lady celebrated esp. in his Shepheardes Calendar.
2. The sprightly, charming daughter of the exiled duke in Lodge's Rosalynde and Shakespeare's As You Like It. She loves, and is beloved by, Orlando. See ORLANDO, 3.
3. A feminine proper name.

Ros'a·line (rōz'ȧ·lĭn; -līn), n. [Cf. ROSALIND.] 1. In Shakespeare's Love's Labour's Lost, a lady attendant upon the princess.
2. A feminine proper name.

ros·an'i·line (rōz·ăn'ĭ·lĭn; -līn; -lēn; 157), n. Also -lin. [rose + aniline.] Chem. a A white crystalline base, $NH_2(CH_3)C_6H_3C(OH)(C_6H_4NH_2)_2$, obtained in red-colored salts by oxidation of a mixture of aniline and ortho- and paratoluidine. It is the parent of many aniline dyes, as fuchsine, aniline blue, methyl green, etc. It is a methyl derivative of pararosaniline. b Any of a series of compounds (rosaniline bases) related to the above.

ro·sar'i·an (rō·zâr'ĭ·ăn), n. A cultivator of roses; a rose fancier.

ro·sar'i·o (rō·zâr'ĭ·ō), n. The color army brown.

ro·sar'i·um (-ŭm), n. [L. See ROSARY.] A rose garden.

ro'sa·ry (rō'zȧ·rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [ML. rosarium string of beads, series of prayers, anthology, garland of roses, in L., a rose garden, fr. rosarius of roses, fr. rosa a rose. See ROSE.] 1. A bed or bush of roses, or place where roses grow.
2. A chaplet, as of roses; a garland; hence, a collection, as of quotations. "A rosary . . . of good works." Jer. Taylor.
3. A string of beads used in counting prayers; specif., a string of beads by which the prayers of the rosary (sense 4 a) are counted, or a shorter string on which five of its fifteen divisions are said. Cf. CHAPLET, 5.
4. Eccl. [cap.] a A form of devotion to the Virgin Mary consisting of fifteen decades of Ave Marias, each of which, preceded by a Pater Noster and ended with a Gloria Patri, is said while meditating on a mystery (sense 9 d). b Any similar form of devotion; as, the Rosary of the seven Dolors of Mary.
5. Med. A morbid beadlike formation. See RACHITIC ROSARY.
6. Numismatics. A foreign coin of base metal circulated in England in the 13th century for a penny.

rosary pea. The seed of the Indian licorice, commonly known as the jequirity bean.

rosary plant. Indian licorice.

rosary ring. A ring having ten knobs for counting Aves, and sometimes extra ones for a Pater and a Credo.

rosary shell. Any of certain top-shaped marine univalve shells constituting the genus Monodonta (family Trochidae), which are bright-colored when polished; also, any of certain shells of the genus Nerita. They are used to make rosaries and necklaces.

ro'sa so'lis (rō'zȧ sō'lĭs). [NL., rose of the sun, altered from ML. ros solis. See ROSOLIO.] 1. a The bog asphodel. b The sundew Drosera rotundifolia.
2. A cordial, orig. flavored with juice of the sundew. Hist.

ro'sat·ed (rō'zāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Adorned or crowned with roses. Obs.

rosch'er·ite (rŏsh'ẽr·īt), n. [After Walter Roscher, Ger. mineral collector.] Mineral. A hydrous basic phosphate of aluminum, manganese, calcium, and iron, occurring in dark-brown monoclinic crystals.

ros'cid (rŏs'ĭd), adj. [L. roscidus, fr. ros, roris, dew.] Dewy. Rare. Bacon.

Ros'ci·us (rŏsh'ĭ·ŭs), n. An actor; — from Roscius, the famous Roman actor and friend of Cicero.

ros'coe·lite (rŏs'kō·līt), n. [After H. E. Roscoe, Eng. chemist + -lite.] Mineral. A brownish mica containing vanadium, and in minute scales.

rose (rōz), n. [AS., fr. L. rosa, fr. Gr. rhodon, of Oriental origin; cf. Av. vareda, whence Armen. vard. Cf. ROSARY, RHODODENDRON.] 1. Any plant or flower of the genus Rosa. Roses are erect, climbing, or creeping shrubs with mostly prickly stems, pinnate leaves, and showy solitary or clustered flowers, having five petals in the wild state, but double or semidouble in cultivation. The rose is the floral emblem of England; the wild rose has been adopted as the State flower of New York, North Dakota, and Iowa (see STATE FLOWER, Plate). The horticultural varieties have been chiefly derived by repeated hybridization of about 30 wild species. The vari-rose'a·ble. Var. of ROPABLE.

Wild Rose (Rosa carolina) Reduced.

rose'band'. Var. of ROBAND.

rose'bark', n. = LEATHERWOOD a (1).

rose'-end', n. = ROPE'S END.

rose'-end', v. t. = ROPE'S-END.

rose'like', adj. See -LIKE.

rose'trick', n. Roguery. Obs.

rose'y. Var. of ROPY. [Table.] rose'-yarn' knot. See KNOT, n., roplock. † RAPLOCH.

ropp (rŏp). Dial. var. of ROPE, intestine.

roque. † ROC.

ro'quille' (rō'kē'y'), n. [F.] See MEASURE, Table.

Ro'rī (rō'rĭ), n. See WARORI.

ro'rid (rō'rĭd; 181), adj. [L. roridus, fr. ros dew.] Dewy. Obs.

Ro·rid'u·la·ce·ae (rō·rĭd'ū·lȧ'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Roridula + -aceae.] Syn. of BYBLIDACEAE.

ro'ry (rō'rĭ), adj. [See RORY-TORY.] Gay; showy. Scot. & Dial.

ro'ry, adj. [L. ros, roris, dew + 3d -y.] Dewy. Obs.

Ro'sae Cru'cis. [L., lit., of the rose cross.] See ROSICRUSIAN.

rosaker, n. [See RESALGAR.] = RESALGAR. Obs.

rosaline point. [Rosales + -ine.] = ROSE POINT.

Ros'a·mond (rŏz'ȧ·mŭnd), n. [OF. Rosamonde, Sp. Rosamunda, It. Rosmonda, LL. Rosamunda, of Teut. origin; cf. OHG. mund hand, protection.] 1. Fem. proper name. F. Rosemonde (rōz'mōnd'); It. Rosmonda (rōz·mōn'dä); Sp. Rosamunda (rō'zä·mōōn'dä); D. Rosamond (rōz'zä·mŏnt).
2. See FAIR ROSAMOND.
3. See VINCY, ROSAMOND.

ro'sa·ru'by (rō'zȧ·rōō'bĭ), n. [L. rosa rubea red rose.] = PEASANT'S-EYE a.

Ros'ci·cru'cian. Var. of ROSICRUCIAN.

eties, numbering over four thousand, are divided according to habit or culture into 43 classes or races of which the following are the most important: climbing tea, polyantha, hybrid perpetual, hybrid tea, multiflora, Noisette, and tea (see these terms).

2. = NATIVE ROSE.

3. A rosette, esp. one on a shoe.

4. [usually cap.] The flower, as an emblem or symbol, and hence the party, either of York or of Lancaster, in the Wars of the Roses (which see under WAR, Table).

5. a A fixture, often ornamental, supporting or encircling a gas pipe, electric-light wire, etc., as where it passes through a ceiling or wall; — called also rosette. b A round plate designed for attaching to a door surface and for receiving the shank of a door knob.

6. A perforated nozzle for delivering water in fine jets; a rosehead; also, a strainer at the foot of a pump.

7. Any of the colors of varieties of roses, and, by extension, of other colors resembling these, averaging red in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. They vary in hue, from bluish red to yellowish red, in saturation from medium to very high, and in brilliance from low to high. Cf. COLOR.

8. Hence, the hue of health; a pink or ruddy flush; — usually pl.; as, the roses in her cheeks.

9. [cap.] Used as feminine proper name.

10. Arch. A rose window.

11. Her. Any of various conventional representations of a rose used as a charge or badge. It has usually five (sometimes six) petals opened wide, with barbs between, and stamens or seeds in a circular center. When blazoned proper the barbs are vert and the seeds or. See CADENCY, 2.

12. Jewelry. a A form in which diamonds and other gems are cut, used esp. when the loss to the stone in cutting it as a brilliant would be too great; also, a gem, esp. a diamond, so cut. Typically, the rose cut has a flat circular base and facets in two ranges rising to a point. The ordinary rose, or Dutch rose, has 24 facets; the Brabant rose is similar, but sometimes has 12 facets or less; the rosere·cou'pé' (rē·kōō'pā') [recut] has 36 facets. When the stone is cut so that it has 48 facets and the shape of two ordinary roses placed base to base, it is called double rose. A stone cut with an elliptical base and 24 facets is a marquise rose; one with a pear-shaped base and 24 facets is a pendeloque rose. b A diamond of such small size that it can be cut little if at all.

Rose, 12. 1 Dutch; a Side, and b Front; 2 Double; 3 Brabant; 4 Marquise; 5 Pendeloque; 6 Recoupé.

13. Math. = ROSETTE, n., 5.

14. Med. Erysipelas.

15. Music. The decoration of the circular sound hole in the top of a lute or similar instrument, sometimes serving as a trade-mark.

16. Naut. a The card of the mariner's compass; the compass rose (which see); also, a chart showing true and magnetic courses. b A circular card with radiating lines, used in other instruments.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rose-back	rose-faced	rose-leaved rose-bellied	rose-fingered	rose-lipped rose-blue	rose-flowered	rose-loving rose-bright	rose-fresh	rose-podded rose-carved	rose-gathering	rose-scented rose-clad	rose-gray	rose-sweet rose-covered	rose-growing	rose-tinged rose-crowned	rose-headed	rose-tinted rose-diffusing	rose-hedged	rose-warm rose-ensanguined	rose-hued	rose-wreathed

— under the rose. A transl. of L. sub rosa, in secret; under circumstances forbidding disclosure; — the rose being anciently a symbol of secrecy hung up at entertainments as a token that nothing there said was to be divulged.

rose (rōz), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a rose or roses; as, a rose petal or wreath; bordered or overgrown with roses; used for roses; as, a rose arbor, bower, trellis, or jar; flavored, scented, or colored, with or like roses; as, a rose bowl.

2. Rose-colored; pink; — said esp. of gems. Hence, rose opal; rose quartz; rose topaz; rose tourmaline.

rose (rōz), v. t. 1. To render rose-colored; flush.

2. To perfume, as with roses. Poetic. Tennyson.

rose (rōz), past tense of RISE.

rose. Var. of ROOSE; RUSE, to slip. Obs. exc. Dial.

-rose (-rōz). A combining form of the noun rose, as in:

coprose	guelder-rose	rockrose
cuprose	primrose	sagerose

rose acacia. a A shrub (Robinia hispida) of the southern Alleghenies, with bristly-hairy stems and large racemes of handsome pink flowers. b The clammy locust (R. viscosa).

ro'se·al (rō'zē·ăl), adj. [L. roseus, fr. rosa a rose. See ROSE.] Resembling or suggesting a rose or roses; roseate.

Rose and the Ring, The. A humorous fairy story (1855) by Thackeray.

rose aphid or aphis. Any of several species of plant lice that feed on the foliage of the rose, esp. the green and pinkish Macrosiphum rosae.

rose apple. a The large edible berry of a tropical tree (Eugenia jambos); also, the tree itself. The berry has a strong roselike fragrance. b The Burdekin plum. c The fruit of the brush cherry. See BRUSH CHERRY a. d Australia. = SWEET PLUM b. e The Java plum, or jambool.

ro'se·ate (rō'zē·āt; -ĭt), adj. [See ROSEAL.] 1. Full of, consisting of, or made from, roses; rosy; as, roseate bowers.

2. Resembling a rose; esp., tinged with the color rose; hence, figuratively, optimistic; pleasing; as, he aired his roseate views of the current political situation.

— ro'se·ate·ly, adv.

ro'se·ate (rō'zē·āt), v. t. To make rose-colored; to cover with a rosy light. Rare.

roseate spoonbill. See SPOONBILL.

roseate tern. An American and European tern (Sterna dougallii) whose breast is roseate in the breeding season. It has when adult a deeply forked tail, a black cap, pearl mantle, and red feet.

rose balm. Oswego tea.

rose'bay' (rōz'bā'), n. a The oleander. b Any species of rhododendron, esp. the great laurel. c The great willow herb. See WILLOW HERB.

rose'-bay' wil'low. The great willow herb. See WILLOW HERB.

rose beetle. a A yellowish or buff long-legged scarabaeid beetle (Macrodactylus subspinosus), which eats the leaves and flowers of various plants, and is often very injurious to rosebushes, apple trees, grapevines, etc. b The European rose chafer. c The rose weevil.

Rose Beetle a. Nat. size.

rose beige. A brown, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose ben·gale' (bĕn·gäl'). See DYE, Table.

rose berry. A rose hip. Colloq.

rose bisque. = ROSE HORTENSIA.

rose bit. Mach. A rose countersink or reamer.

rose blotch. = BLACK SPOT, 1 d.

rose blush. The color blush. — rose'-blush' (66), adj.

rose box. 1. Any shrub of the genus Cotoneaster.

2. A strainer for the end of the suction pipe of a pump; a rose. See ROSE, n., 6.

Rose Brad'war·dine. See BRADWARDINE, BARON.

rose'-breast'ed, adj. Having the breast marked with rose.

rose-breasted cockatoo. An Australian cockatoo (Kakatoë, syn. Cacatua, rosecapilla) having chiefly gray-and-pink plumage.

rose-breasted grosbeak. A handsome grosbeak (Hedymeles ludovicianus) found in eastern North America. The male is chiefly black and white, with the breast and linings of the wings rose red. The female is grayish brown streaked with paler tints, and with the lining of the wings orange.

Rose-breasted Grosbeak.

rose'bud' (rōz'bŭd'), n. 1. The flower of a rose before it opens, or when but partly open.

2. A young girl; esp., a debutante; a bud. Colloq.

3. A color, bluish-red in hue, of high saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose bug. = ROSE BEETLE a.

rose'bush' (rōz'bŏŏsh'), n. a Any shrubby species of rose. b In Australia, a small timber tree (Eupomatia laurina) with soft, coarse-grained, yellowish-brown wood. See EUPOMATIA.

rose cake. Rose petals pressed into a cake and used for perfume. Obs.

rose campion. a The mullein pink. b The corn cockle.

rose carnation. A carnation having pink-striped petals.

rose Caroline. A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose Car'thame' (rōz kär'thăm'). [F.] = CARTHAMUS RED.

‖rose' cen'dre (rōz' sän'dr'). [F.] A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and very high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose chafer. a A common European cetonian beetle (Cetonia aurata) often very injurious to rosebushes. b = ROSE BEETLE a.

Rose Chafer a. a Adult Beetle; b Larva.

rose'-cheeked' (66), adj. Having rose-colored cheeks.

rose chestnut. An East Indian timber tree (Mesua ferrea), one of the ironwoods, with very heavy hard wood used for railroad ties, its flowers yielding a perfume.

Rose City. Portland, Oregon; — a nickname.

rose cold. Med. A variety of hay fever, occurring in the spring or early summer, attributed to rose pollen. See HAY FEVER.

rose color. The color of a rose, deep pink or pale cardinal.

rose'-col'or, v. t. To color like a rose; to make rose-colored; esp., to look upon cheerfully and optimistically; as, to rose-color many of the ugly facts of life. — rose'-col'or·ist, rose'-col'our·ist, n.

rose'-col'ored, adj. Having a rose color. Hence, very fine or pleasing; alluring; optimistic; as, rose-colored anticipations.

rose-colored spectacles. Optimistic eyes; favorably disposed opinions; as, to view the world through rose-colored spectacles.

rose-colored starling or pastor. A handsome bird (Pastor roseus) of the starling family, glossy black with pink back and abdomen, chiefly of Asia, but often appearing in flocks in Europe, sometimes even in England.

rose comb. Poultry. See 1st COMB, 3. — rose'-combed' (rōz'kōmd'; 66), adj.

rose countersink. Mach. A countersink with radial teeth on its conical end. See COUNTERSINK, n., Illust.

rose cross. 1. The alleged symbol of the Rosicrucians, assumed to denote the union of a rose with a cross. It is represented by a cross in a circle, a rose on a cross, etc.

2. [caps.] A Rosicrucian. Obs.

rose crown. Coins. A silver crown of Charles II; — so called from the rose beneath the bust.

rose curculio. A small weevil (Rhynchites bicolor) common on roses. It is bright red, with black snout and underside and the larvae feed in the seed pods.

rose cut. Jewelry. = ROSE, n., 12 a. — rose'-cut', adj.

rose cutter. Mach. A milling cutter having a hemispherical end-milling surface.

rosed (rōzd), adj. Tinged with rose; rose-colored; also, adorned with roses; scented with rose perfume.

‖rose' d'al'thae'a' (rōz' dăl'tē'ä'). [F.] A color, red in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

‖rose' de nymphe' (dĕ năNf'). [F.] The color ivory yellow.

rose' de Pom'pa'dour' (dĕ pôN'pä'dōōr'), rose du Bar'ry' (dü bä'rē'). [F.] A delicate rose color used on Sèvres porcelain.

rose diamond. A diamond cut in the rose form. See ROSE, n., 12 a.

‖rose' do'rée' (rōz' dô'rā'). [F.] A color, red in hue, of high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose'drop' (rōz'drŏp'), n. A lozenge having a rose flavor.

rose ear. An ear, as of certain dogs, that folds backward so as to display part of the inside. — rose'-eared', adj.

rose elder. The guelder-rose.

rose engine. Mach. A machine, or lathe attachment, for producing an eccentric relative movement between the rotating mandrel and a cutting point so as to form on the work a variety of curved lines resembling a rosette, as on paper currency. See ENGINE TURNING.

‖rose' en so'leil' (rōz' äN sô'lĕ'y'). [F.] A rose within a sun; — a badge of the House of York.

rose family. The Rosaceae.

rose fever. Rose cold.

rose'fish' (rōz'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. A large marine food fish (Sebastes marinus) of the family Scorpaenidae found on the northern coasts of Europe and America. When mature it is usually bright rose-red or orange-red; when young, usually mottled with red and dusky brown.

Rosefish.

‖rose' France' (frĂNs'). [F.] The color peach bloom.

rose gentian. The American centaury Sabbatia angularis.

rose geranium. a Hort. Any of several South African herbs of the genus Pelargonium, esp. P. graveolens, grown for their fragrant 3–5-lobed leaves and small pink flowers. b = GERANIUM OIL a.

rose gold. Jewelry. Gold with a peculiar, ruddy, mat surface finish.

rose gray. A nearly neutral gray of medium brilliance slightly red-yellow.

rose haw. A rose hip.

rose'head' (rōz'hĕd'), n. 1. = ROSE, n., 6.

2. A many-sided pyramidal head upon a nail; also, a nail with such a head.

rose hermosa. A color, yellowish-red in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose'hill' (rōz'hĭl'; 66), rose'hill'er (rōz'hĭl'ĕr), n., rose-hill parakeet. [From Rosehill, a district of New South Wales.] The rosella.

rose hip. The fruit, often brightly colored, of the rose; a hypanthium. It consists of the enlarged fleshy calyx and the swollen torus, or receptacle.

rose Hor·ten'si·a. [See ROSE; HORTENSIA.] A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose knot. A ribbon, or other pliable band, plaited so as to resemble a rose; a rosette.

ros'el (rŏz'ĕl), n. [Var. of ROSIN.] Dial. Eng. a Resin. b Soil intermediate in nature between sand and clay.

rose lake. A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose lashing. Naut. A lashing made by passing the parts alternately over and under and finished by securing the hauling parts over the crossing.

rose lathe. A lathe provided with a rose engine (which see).

rose laurel. a The oleander. b The great laurel.

rose'let, n. A little rose.

rose lily. The Indian lotus.

rose linnet. Local, Eng. a = REDPOLL, 1 a. b The common linnet.

rose'-lit', adj. Having a rose-colored light.

Left the rose-lit dining room early. Arnold Bennett.

ro'se·lite (rō'zĕ·lĭt), n. [After G. Rose (1798–1873), Ger. mineralogist.] Mineral. A rose-red arsenate of calcium, cobalt, and manganese, $(Ca, Co, Mg)_3(AsO_4)_2 2H_2O$, in small triclinic crystals.

ro·sel'la (rō·zĕl'ä), n. [Corrupt. of Rose-hiller, fr. Rose Hill, governor's residence at Parramatta, near Sydney.] 1. A beautiful Australian parakeet (Platycercus eximius) often kept as a cage bird. The head and back of the neck are scarlet and the cheeks white, the back is dark green varied with lighter green, and the breast is red and yellow. Originally called rosehill. The name is applied also to other species of the same genus.

2. [Slang for a European who works bared to the waist (from the scarlet color of his skin), hence, sheep with bare skin.] A sheep that has shed a portion of its wool. Australia.

ro·sel'late (-lĭt), adj. [NL. rosellatus, fr. L. rosa rose.] Bot. Rosulate.

ro·selle' (rō·zĕl'), n. Also ro·sel'la. [F., dim. fr. rose rose, fr. L. rosa. See ROSE.] An East Indian annual herb (Hibiscus sabdariffa) cultivated for its fleshy calyxes, which are used for making tarts and jelly and an acid drink.

Ros'el·lin'i·a (rŏs'ĕ·lĭn'ĭ·ä), n. [NL., after Rosselini, It. botanist.] Bot. A genus of fungi (family Sphaeriaceae) having smooth perithecia with dark one-celled ascospores. It includes many saprophytes and several parasites, as R. necatrix, the cause of a widely prevalent root rot of many hosts.

rose luster, rose lustre. = DARK CARDINAL RED.

rose madder. 1. A color, red in hue, of high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

2. Paint. An alumina lake of madder or alizarin, of pale-rose color.

— rose'-mad'der, adj.

rose mallow. a Any of several plants of the genus Hibiscus, with large rose-colored flowers, esp., in the eastern United States, H. moscheutos of the salt marshes. See WILD FLOWERS, Plate. b The hollyhock.

‖rose' mal'mai'son' (mäl'mā'zôN'). [F.] = MALMAISON b.

rose'mar'y (rōz'mär'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -mĕr'ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [ME. rosemaryn, rosmarine, fr. L. rosmarinus (whence F. romarin), fr. ros dew + marinus marine. In Eng. the word has been changed as if it meant the rose of Mary. See RORIC; MARINE.] 1. A fragrant shrub (Rosmarinus officinalis) of southern Europe and Asia Minor. It has a warm, pungent, bitterish taste, and is used in cookery, perfumery, etc. It is an emblem of fidelity or constancy.

There's rosemary, that's for remembrance. Shak.

2. The costmary Chrysanthemum balsamita.

Rosemary.

rosemary oil. See OIL, Table I.

rosemary pine. a In the southeastern United States, any of three common pines: the loblolly Pinus taeda, the Georgia P. palustris, and the shortleaf P. echinata. b Mature, fine-grained lumber from any of these pines.

rose midge. A minute brownish gall midge (Dasyneura rhodophaga) whose larvae develop in the flower buds of roses.

rose mildew. A powdery mildew (Sphaerotheca pannosa) common on the foliage of cultivated roses.

rose milkweed. = SWAMP MILKWEED.

rose mill. A milling cutter with a rounded cutting edge. See MILLING CUTTER.

rose' mon·tée' (rōz' mŏn·tā'; F. môN'tā'); pl. ROSES MONTÉES (rōz' mŏn·tāz'; F. môN'tā'). [F., lit., mounted rose.] Jewelry. A doublet with a paste back; — a trade term.

rose morn. The color peach bloom.

rose moss. The garden portulaca.

rose nail. A nail with a convex, faceted head.

rose'-a-ru'by, n. = PHEASANT'S-EYE a. rose'-ge·ra'ni·um oil. See GERANIUM OIL a; OIL, Table I.

ro·sei' (rō·zī'). Var. of REZAI.

ro'se·ine (rō'zē·ēn; -ĭn), n. Also -in. = FUCHSINE, 1 a.

rose'less, adj. See -LESS.

rose'like', adj. See -LIKE.

rose maloes. Corrupt. of RASAMALA.

ros'en (rōz'ĕn), adj. [AS. rosen.] Consisting of, or resembling, roses; rosy. Obs.

Ro'sen·ber'gi·a (rō'zĕn·bûr'jĭ·ä), n. [NL., prob. after Hermann von Rosenberg (1817–88), Ger. naturalist.] Syn. of COBAEA.

ro′sen·busch·ite (rō′zĕn·bŏŏsh·īt), n. Mineral. A complex silicate of zirconium.

Ro′sen·crantz and Guil′den·stern (rō′zĕn·krănts, gĭl′dĕn·stûrn). Courtiers, in Shakespeare's Hamlet, set by the king to betray Hamlet to his death.

rose′ Ney′ron′ (rōz′ nā′rŏN′). A color, red in hue, of very high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose Nils′son (rōz nĕl′sŭn). [Prob. after Christine Nilsson, Sw. singer.] A color, red in hue, of high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

‖Ro′sen·ka′va·lier′, Der (dĕr rō′zĕn·kä′vä·lēr′) [G.] An opera (1911) by Richard Strauss.

Ro′sen·mül′ler′s fos′sa (rō′zĕn·mül′ĕrz). [After J. C. Rosenmüller (1771–1820), Ger. anatomist.] Anat. A recess behind the pharyngeal opening of the Eustachian tube.

Rosenmüller′s organ. Anat. The epoöphoron.

rose noble. See ROYAL, n., a.

ro′se·o- (rō′zē·ō-). A combining form from Latin roseus, signifying rose-red; — used specif. in chemistry in naming a series of reddish, complex cobalt salts containing ammonia. — ro′se·o (rō′zē·ō), adj.

rose of Cay·enne′ (kī·ĕn′; kā·ĕn′). [From Cayenne, French Guiana.] = BOIS DE ROSE, 1.

rose of China. = CHINA ROSE b.

rose of Crete. = CRETAN ROCKROSE.

rose of heaven. An annual herb (Lychnis coeli-rosa) of the Mediterranean region, cultivated for its rose-purple flowers.

rose of Jer′i·cho (jĕr′ĭ·kō). a A Syrian plant (Anastatica hierochuntica) which rolls up when dry, and expands again when moistened; — often called the resurrection plant. b A xerophytic plant (Odontospermum pygmaeum), family Carduaceae, of the same region. Its involucre closes firmly over the flower head when dry.

rose of May. The poet's narcissus.

rose of Plym′outh (plĭm′ŭth). The American centaury Sabbatia stellaris.

rose of Shar′on (shăr′ŭn). a A Eurasian St.-John's-wort (Hypericum calycinum) often cultivated for its large yellow flowers. The Biblical rose of Sharon has been identified by some with a species of narcissus, and by others with the meadow saffron (Colchicum autumnale). b A commonly cultivated Asiatic shrub (Hibiscus syriacus), sometimes almost treelike, with mostly 3-lobed leaves and showy, bell-shaped, rose or purple flowers. There are variegated-leaved and white-flowered horticultural varieties.

rose of Sienna. [From Siena, Italy.] The Indian mallow.

rose of the world. a The common garden camellia (Camellia japonica). b Rose of Jericho. c Rose of Sharon.

rose oil. See ATTAR; OIL, Table I.

ro·se′o·la (rō·zē′ō·lə), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. roseus rosy; cf. F. roséole, rougeole.] Med. Any rose-colored skin efflorescence in circumscribed patches of little or no elevation; also, specif., rubella; — called also rose rash. — ro·se′o·lar (-lĕr), ro′se·o′lĭ·form (rō′zē·ō′lĭ·fôrm), ro·se′o·lous (rō·zē′ō·lŭs), adj.

rose opal. See ROSE, adj., 2.

ro′se·ous (rō′zē·ŭs), adj. [L. roseus.] Rose-colored; rosy.

rose ouzel. Rose-colored starling.

rose parakeet. The rosella.

rose pastor, rose starling. = ROSE-COLORED STARLING.

rose pink. 1. The American centaury Sabbatia angularis. 2. The color rose; also, a pigment of rosy hue.

rose′-pink′, adj. Having a color like rose, or rose pink.

rose pogonia. The snakemouth.

rose point. Needlepoint lace, chiefly Venetian, with pattern of flowers in raised work connected by ornamental brides; — called also rosaline point.

rose poppy. The corn poppy.

rose purple. A color, blue-red in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR. — rose′-pur′ple (66), adj.

rose quartz. Mineral. A rose-red variety of quartz.

rose rash. Med. = ROSEOLA.

rose reamer. Mach. See REAMER, n., 1.

‖rose′ re·cou′pé′ (rōz′ rĕ·kōō′pā′). [F.] See ROSE, 12 a.

rose red. The color rose. — rose′-red′ (66), adj.

rose′-ringed′ (-rĭngd′), adj. Having a red collar; — applied to the ring parakeets.

rose′root′ (rōz′rōōt′; 200), n. A perennial, fleshy herb (Sedum roseum) whose roots have the odor of roses.

rose rust. Plant Pathol. Any of certain rusts attacking wild or cultivated roses, as those of the genus Phragmidium and Earlea speciosa causing a cane rust; also, the disease caused by one of these rusts.

rose ryal. See RYAL a.

rose sawfly. a In America, the adult of the rose slug. b In Europe, a similar insect (Hylotoma rosarum).

rose scale. A scale insect (Aulacaspis rosae) which is injurious to roses; also, the scale caused by these insects.

rose seizing. = ROSE LASHING.

rose slug. The small slimy green larva of a black sawfly (Cladius isomerus). These larvae feed in groups on the parenchyma of the leaves of rosebushes.

rose spot. Med. One of a collection of rose-colored macules or papules occurring on the skin, chiefly of the abdomen, in the first week or ten days of typhoid fever.

Rose Sunday. R.C.Ch. The fourth Sunday in Lent, when the Pope blesses the golden rose. See GOLDEN ROSE.

ro′set (rō′zĕt), n. [F. rosette.] 1. A red color used by painters. Obs. 2. The color Brazil red.

ros′et (rŏz′ĭt), n. [From ROSIN.] Resin. Chiefly Scot. — v. t. To rub with resin. Scot.

ros′et, adj. [ML. rosatus.] Compounded of roses. Obs.

rose′tan′ (rōz′tăn′), n. The color pearl blush.

rose′tan′gle (rōz′tăng′g'l), n. Any red alga belonging to the Ceramiaceae or a related family. See CERAMIUM.

rose taupe (tōp). A color, yellowish-red in hue, of very low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rose tickseed. A slender perennial herb (Coreopsis rosea) of the eastern United States, often cultivated for its delicate rose-pink flowers.

rose′time′ (rōz′tīm′), n. The season when roses bloom.

rose topaz. See ROSE, adj., 2.

rose tourmaline. See ROSE, adj., 2.

rose tree. A rosebush grown in standard form.

Ro·set′ta stone (rō·zĕt′ə). A piece of black basalt found in 1799 near the Rosetta mouth of the Nile, bearing a bilingual inscription (in hieroglyphics, demotic characters, and Greek), and famous as having given M. Champollion the first clew toward deciphering the Egyptian hieroglyphics.

rosetta wood. An East Indian wood of a reddish-orange color, handsomely veined with darker marks. It is occasionally used for cabinetwork.

ro·sette′ (rō·zĕt′), n. [F., dim. of rose a rose.] 1. An imitation of a rose made of gathered or pleated material, — used as an ornament or a badge. 2. Something resembling a rose, as in shape or color. Specif.: a = ROSET, a red color. b = ROSE, n., 5 a. c A device having terminals for connecting to the line and other terminals to which a drop cord may be attached. d On beef, a thin piece of lean flesh on the outer surface of the shoulder. 3. Arch. An ornament somewhat in the form of a roundel, and filled with leafage. 4. Bot. A very short internode bearing a cluster of leaves, either on the ground, as in the houseleek, dandelion, etc., or at the apex of a caudex, as in many tropical genera. See HOUSELEEK, Illust. 5. Math. Any of the curves named rhodoneae by the Abbé Grandi (1671–1742) from their likeness to rose petals. The polar equation is $r = a \sin m\theta$ where m is usually rational; when $m = 2$ the rosette is four-leaved; when $m = 3$, three-leaved and so on. Called also rose. 6. Metal. A thin disk, as of copper, formed by chilling the surface of molten metal with water. 7. Plant Pathol. a Any of several diseases of plants, as the apple, pecan, potato, wheat, etc., in which the leaves are grouped in dense clusters; also, a symptom of various diseases. It is the result of attacks of fungi, virus infections, nutritional disturbances, etc. b = RHIZOCTONIA DISEASE b. c A virus disease of the peanut characterized by yellowing of the leaves and extreme stunting. 8. Zool. A structure or color marking suggestive of a rosette, as the group of five petal-shaped ambulacra on spatangoid and clypeastroid sea urchins, or the groups of spots on the leopard.

Rosette, 3.

ro·sette′ (rō·zĕt′), v. t.; -SET′TED (-zĕt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -SET′TING. Metal. To obtain in the form of rosettes by superficial chilling.

ro·set′ted (rō·zĕt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Adorned with, or shaped like, a rosette or rosettes. 2. Plant Pathol. Affected with rosette.

rosette plate. Zool. One of the small sievelike plates by which the zooecia of many marine Polyzoa communicate.

ro·se′tum (rō·zē′tŭm), n. [L.] Hort. A collection of live roses.

ros′et·y, ros′et·ty (rŏz′ĕ·tĭ; -ĭ·tĭ), adj. [See ROSET rosin.] Resinous. Scot.

rose water. A watery solution of the odoriferous constituents of the rose made by distilling the fresh flowers with water, used as a perfume.

rose′-wa′ter (rōz′wô′tĕr; -wŏt′ĕr), adj. Having the odor of rose water; hence, affectedly nice or delicate; sentimental. Carlyle.

rose′-wa′ter, v. t. To sprinkle with, or as with, rose water; hence, to perfume; scent.

rose′ways′ (rōz′wāz′), adv. Also rose′wise′ (-wīz′). In the form of a rose. See -WAYS, -WISE.

rose weevil. A snout beetle (*Pantomorus fuller*i) which destroys the leaves and flowers of the rose. Its larva feeds on the roots.

rose willow. a The purple willow (Salix purpurea); also, any of several other species of Salix with purple or reddish twigs. b The silky cornel.

rose window. Arch. A circular window filled with tracery; a rose. Cf. WHEEL WINDOW.

Rose Window.

rose′wood′ (rōz′wŏŏd′), n. 1. Any of several valuable cabinet woods of a dark-red or purplish color, streaked and variegated with black, obtained from various tropical trees; also, the trees themselves. The most important commercial sources are Brazilian rosewood and Honduras rosewood, but many other trees yield woods so called, as African rosewood, Jamaica rosewood, Amboina wood, kingwood (see these terms). See BLACKWOOD a. 2. In Australia: a A tall, straight acacia (Acacia glaucescens). b The Australian rosewood Dysoxylum fraserianum. c The tree Eremophila mitchelli (family Myoporaceae). d A small tree (Heterodendron oleaefolium), family Sapindaceae, with very hard wood. e = BASTARD ROSEWOOD. 3. Rhodium wood. 4. a A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. It is redder and of slightly higher saturation than brick red. Cf. COLOR. b The color bois de rose. c The color jacaranda brown.

rosewood oil. a A thick, light-yellow essential oil, of roselike odor, obtained from rhodium wood; — called also rhodium oil. b Bois de rose oil. See OIL, Table I. c Com. A mixture of oils of rose, geranium cedarwood, and sandalwood.

rose worm. The larva of a small brown tortricid moth (Archips rosana), which lives on the rose and various other plants, rolling up the leaves for a nest, and devours both the leaves and buds. Also, any of various other species.

Rose Worm (Archips rosana) and Moth.

rose′wort′ (rōz′wûrt′), n. a Obs. Any plant of the rose family. Lindley. b Roseroot.

Rosh Ha·sha′na (rōsh hä·shä′nä). Also Rosh Ha·sho′noh (hä·shō′nō). [Heb. rōsh head of + hash-shānāh the year.] See JEWISH HOLIDAYS.

Rosh Ho′desh (kō′dĕsh) or Cho′desh (kō′dĕsh). [Heb. rōsh head of + ḥōdesh new moon.] The beginning of the month in the Jewish calendar, which is marked by a special liturgy.

Ro′si·cru′cian (rō′zĭ·krōō′shăn; rŏz′ĭ-), n. [The name is due to two anonymous pamphlets (1614), now generally attributed to Johann Valentin Andreä, which profess to give information about a secret society founded in Germany in the 15th century by Christian Rosenkreuz or (Latinized) Frater Rosae Crucis. See ROSE; CROSS.] An alleged member, in the 17th century and the early part of the 18th century, of an esoteric order of philosophers deeply versed in the secrets of nature and mysticism, said to have been founded by the probably mythical Christian Rosenkreuz. The Rosicrucians were called also Brothers of the Rosy Cross, Rosy-cross Knights, Rosy-cross Philosophers, etc. The society was revived in England in 1866 with the title Societas Rosicruciana in Anglia and on the continent in 1890. In America there are several fraternities named Rosicrucian that use the emblems of the rose and the cross and claim to share the esoteric and spiritual teachings. — Ro′si·cru′cian, adj. — Ro′si·cru′cian·ism (-ĭz′m), n.

ros′ied (rŏz′ĭd), adj. Decorated with roses or a rose color.

ro′sier (rō′zhĕr), n. [F., fr. L. rosarium.] A rosebush. Poet.

ro′si·er′e·site (rō′zĭ·ĕr′ē·sīt), n. [From the Rosières copper mine near Carmaux, France.] A hydrous aluminum phosphate containing lead and copper. It occurs in yellow to brown stalactitic masses. Sp. gr., 2.2.

ro·sil′la (rō·sĭl′ä), n. [Am. Sp.] a A sneezeweed (Helenium puberulum) of southern California. b A shrub or small tree (Eysenhardtia polystachya), family Fabaceae, of Arizona and adjacent Mexico, with small white flowers in long racemes; — called also rockbrush.

ros′in (rŏz′ĭn; -ĭn), n. [From RESIN.] The hard resin, commonly amber-colored but varying to almost black, left after distilling off the volatile oil of turpentine; colophony. It is brittle and tasteless and has a sp. gr. of about 1.08. It softens at about 80° C. (176° F.) and on further heating finally fuses. It is used for making varnishes and soaps, as a flux in soldering, for rosining violin bows, in driers for oils, etc. See ROSIN OIL. Chemically, it is a mixture of which abietic acid is the chief constituent. Rosin prepared from exuded or gum turpentine is called gum rosin; that extracted from the wood in connection with wood turpentine is wood rosin. Cf. TURPENTINE.

ros′in, v. t. 1. To rub with rosin, as the bow of a violin. 2. To add rosin to, as soap. 3. To ply with liquor. Now Dial.

Ros′i·nan′te (rŏz′ĭ·năn′tē), n. [Sp. Rocinante, fr. rocín a jaded horse, a hack + ante before. See ROUNCY.] Don Quixote's steed, very lean, bony, and full of blemishes, but regarded by the knight as incomparable; hence, any worn-out nag; a jade.

ros′in·ate (rŏz′ĭ·nāt), n. [rosin + -ate.] A salt or ester, or mixture of salts and esters, prepared from rosin; as, copper rosinate.

rosin brush. = GREASEWOOD a. Western U. S.

rosin cerate. = BASILICON b.

rosin change. Soap Mfg. See SOAP, n., 1.

rosin oil. An oil obtained by destructive distillation of rosin, collected usually in two or three fractions. The first, or light, fraction (rosin spirit) is an almost colorless, sharp-odored liquid and is used chiefly as a thinner for varnish, wood stains, etc., as an adulterant of oil of turpentine, and as an illuminant. The heavier, viscid distillate, rosin oil proper, is used as a lubricant, in printing ink, and as a substitute for other oils. It is often collected in two fractions: kidney oil and the darker, fluorescent bloom oil. Treated with milk of lime, kidney oil forms rosin grease, which is used as a lubricant for iron bearings. All the fractions are acidic, because of the presence of free abietic acid.

ros′in·ous (rŏz′ĭ·nŭs), adj. Like rosin. Rare.

rosin plant. = ROSINWEED.

rosin rose. The common St.-John's-wort (Hypericum perforatum). Eng.

rosin soap. Soap made from rosin, esp. common yellow soap. See SOAP, n., 1; RESIN SOAP.

rosin spirit. See ROSIN OIL.

ros′in·weed′ (rŏz′ĭn·wēd′), n. Any of various American plants having resinous foliage or a resinous odor; specif.: a The plant Silphium laciniatum, also known as compass plant from its habit of turning toward the sun. b The gum plant Grindelia squarrosa. c A golden aster (Chrysopsis villosa) of western North America. d = PRAIRIE DOCK a.

ros′in·y (rŏz′ĭ·nĭ), adj. Abounding in, or like, rosin.

ros′land (rōs′lănd), n. [W. rhos a moor + E. land.] Heathy land; moorish land.

ros′ma·rine (rŏz′mȧ·rēn; -rĭn), n. [(After rosmarine sea dew) fr. Dan. rosmar walrus, Nor. dial. rosmaar, rosmal, fr. ON. rosmhvalr, of obscure origin.] a A sea animal fabled to climb by its teeth to the tops of rocks to feed on the dew. It was undoubtedly the popular conception of the walrus. b Obs. The walrus.

ros′ma·rine (rŏz′mȧ·rēn; -rĭn), n. [See ROSEMARY.] Obs. 1. Rosemary. 2. Dew from the sea; sea dew.

Ros′ma·ri′nus (rŏs′mȧ·rī′nŭs; rŏz′-), n. [L., rosemary. See ROSEMARY.] Bot. A genus of low shrubs of the mint family (Lamiaceae) having as the only known species R. officinalis, the rosemary.

Ros′mers·holm′ (rŏs′mĕrs·hōlm′; Sw. -hŏlm′), n. A play (1886) by Ibsen.

Ros·min′i·an (rŏz·mĭn′ĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of or pertaining to Antonio Rosmini-Serbati (1797–1855), an Italian philosopher and Roman Catholic ecclesiastic, or his doctrines.

Ros·min′i·an, n. 1. An adherent of Rosminianism. 2. R.C.Ch. A member of a congregation, the Institute of Charity, founded, in Italy, by Rosmini, in 1828.

Ros·min′i·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n. The philosophy of Rosmini. He taught that the idea of being is innate and that through it true knowledge is made possible.

Ros·mun′da (rŏz·mŭn′dȧ), n. The title and heroine of a tragedy (1515) by Giovanni Rucellai. See ALBOIN.

ro·sol′ic (rō·zŏl′ĭk; -sŏl′ĭk), adj. [rosaniline + -ol + -ic.] a Pertaining to or designating a crystalline acid, $C_{20}H_{16}O_2$ (red by transmitted light), obtained by heating a mixture of phenol and cresol with sulphuric acid and arsenic acid, by the action of nitrous acid on rosaniline, etc. It is the anhydride of trihydroxy-diphenyl-m-tolyl-carbinol. b Designating a related acid, called also aurin. See AURIN.

ro·so′lio (rō·zōl′yō), n. [It., fr. ML. ros solis sundew, the old name of Drosera, from which the liquor was originally extracted. See RORIC; SOLAR. Cf. ROSA SOLIS.] 1. A sweet cordial of the Mediterranean region, made of brandy, sugar, raisins, etc.; rossolis. 2. A sour, unpalatable black-currant wine introduced in Thackeray's novel, The Great Hoggarty Diamond.

ro′so·lite (rō′zō·līt), n. [L. rosa rose + -lite. Cf. RHODOLITE.] Mineral. A pink variety of garnet.

ro·so′rĭ·al (rō·sō′rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. [L. rodere, rosum, to gnaw.] Pertaining to the rodents; gnawing.

ross (rŏs; 185), n. [Dan. & Nor. ros shavings, chips, rind, scale.] 1. Rubbish; waste. Obs. 2. The rough, often scaly, exterior of bark.

ross, v. t. To divest of the ross; as, to ross bark. See ROSSER.

rose′-pet′ty, n. = ROBIN'S-PLANTAIN.

ros′er (rōz′ĕr), n. [ME., fr. OF. rosier. See ROSIER.] A rosebush. Obs.

ro′ser·y (rō′zĕr·ĭ), n. = ROSARY, a rose garden.

Rose's alloy or metal (rōz′ĭz). [After V. Rose (1736–71), Ger. chemist.] See FUSIBLE METAL.

rose′-shell′ream′er. See REAMER, Illust.

Rosh (rōsh; rŏsh). Bib.

rosil. Var. of ROSELL.

ro·sil′io (rō·sĭl′yō; -sĭl′yō; 170), n. [Sp., roan.] = PINTO BEAN.

ros′i·ly (rōz′ĭ·lĭ), adv. of ROSY.

ros·in′du·line (rŏ·zĭn′dū·lĭn; -lĭn), n. Also -lin. See INDULINE a.

Ro′sine′ (rō′zēn′), n. See BARTHOLO. [See -NESS.]

ros′i·ness (rōz′ĭ·nĕs; nĭs; 119), n.

ros′in·wood′ (rŏz′ĭn·wŏŏd′), n. = ROSINWEED.

rosit. Var. of ROSET.

Ros′lyn blue. = MAZARINE BLUE.

ro·so′gli·o. Var. of ROSOLIO.

ro·so′lĭ (rō·sō′lē), n. [Sp.] = ROSOLIO, 1.

Ros'sel Cur'rent (rŏs'ĕl). [From Rossel Island, in the Louisiade Archipelago.] Oceanog. A portion of the southern equatorial current flowing westward from the Fiji Islands to New Guinea.

ross'er (rŏs'ẽr; 205), n. One who or that which rosses; specif.: a Logging. One who barks and smooths the ride of a log. b One who peels pulpwood and logs. c An attachment for a circular saw, to remove the scaly and gritty bark ahead of the kerf; also, a machine used to remove bark from pulpwood.

ross'ite (rŏs'ĭt; 185), n. [After Clarence Samuel Ross (b. 1880), Am. geologist.] Mineral. A rare hydrous calcium vanadate.

ros'so an·ti'co (rŏs'ō ăn·tē'kō). [It.] a A deep-red Grecian marble used by the ancient Romans. b A porphyritic diorite used by the ancient Egyptians and Romans.

Ross's goose, Ross's snow goose (rŏs'ĭz; 185). [After Bernard R. Ross, Brit. naturalist in service of Hudson's Bay Co.] A very small white goose (Chen rossi). It breeds in arctic America and migrates through western America.

Ross's gull (rŏs'ĭz; 185). [After Sir James Clark Ross, Brit. navigator.] A small and rare gull (Rhodostethia rosea) of the far north, having the tail wedge-shaped and the lower parts rosy when in full plumage.

Ross's, or Ross, seal. [See Ross's GULL.] An antarctic seal (Ommatophoca rossi) having but two upper incisors, very small teeth, and small claws on the forefeet and none on the hind feet.

ros'tel (rŏs'tĕl), n. [L. rostellum.] A rostellum.

ros·tel'lar (rŏs·tĕl'ẽr), adj. Pertaining to a rostellum.

ros'tel·late (rŏs'tĕ·lāt), adj. [NL. rostellatus.] Having a small beak or rostellum.

ros·tel'li·form (rŏs·tĕl'ĭ·fôrm), adj. Shaped like a rostellum.

ros·tel'lum (rŏs·tĕl'ŭm), n. [L., dim. of rostrum beak. See ROSTRUM.] 1. Bot. a The caulicle or radicle. Obs. b A small beaklike process; a diminutive rostrum. c In orchids, the morphological apex of the column, a small projection beneath the retinacula.
2. Zool. a The sucking beak of lice (Anoplura); also, more rarely, the beak of Hemiptera. b An anterior prolongation of the head of certain cestodes (as many tapeworms) bearing hooks.

ros'ter (rŏs'tẽr; rŏs'tĕr; 277), n. [D. rooster a list, prop., gridiron, fr. roosten to roast; named from the parallel lines. See ROAST.] 1. Mil. & Nav. A roll or list of officers, or enlisted men, subject to certain assignments for duty and made use of for systematic details, esp. a list which gives the order in which units or individuals are due to perform a prescribed duty.
2. Hence, any roll or list; as, the roster of his honors.

ros'ter, v. t. To list in a roster.

ros'tral (rŏs'trăl), adj. [LL. rostralis.] Pertaining to a rostrum; specif., Anat. & Zool., pertaining to or designating a plate or shield above the mouth, in certain reptiles. — ros'tral·ly, adv.

ros'tral, n. Anat. & Zool. A rostral plate or shield.

rostral column. [L. Columna Rostrata.] A memorial column, usually commemorating a naval victory; orig. [caps.] a column ornamented with beaks of ships, erected in the Roman Forum in honor of the naval victory of C. Duilius over the Carthaginians, 260 B.C.

Rostral Column of Duilius (restored).

rostral crown. = NAVAL CROWN.

ros'trate (rŏs'trāt), adj. [L. rostratus, fr. rostrum beak.] Having a rostrum or beak.

ros'trat·ed (rŏs'trāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 181), adj. Rostrate.

rostri-. A combining form from Latin rostrum, meaning a beak, as in ros·trif'er·ous, ros'tri·form. See -FEROUS; -FORM.

ros'tro- (rŏs'trō-). A combining form for rostrum, denoting rostrally, rostral and, as in ros'tro·an·ten'na·ry, ros'tro·bran'chi·al, ros'tro·cau'dal, ros'tro·lat'er·al.

ros'tro·car'i·nate (-kăr'ĭ·nāt), adj. Archaeol. Designating a type of chipped flint implement shaped somewhat like an eagle's beak, found in eastern England and believed to be of Pliocene age.

ros'troid (rŏs'troid), adj. [rostrum + -oid.] Chiefly Zool. Like a rostrum, or beak.

ros'tru·late (-trōō·lāt), adj. Zool. Having, or like, a rostrulum.

ros'tru·lum (-lŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-lä). [NL., dim. fr. L. rostrum beak.] A small rostrum; specif., the rostrum of a flea. — ros'tru·lar (-lẽr), adj.

ros'trum (rŏs'trŭm), n.; pl. -TRA (-trä), -TRUMS (-trŭmz). [L., beak, ship's beak, fr. rodere, rosum, to gnaw. See RAT.] 1. Rom. Antiq. The curved, often ornamental, end of a ship's prow, esp. the beak or ram of a war galley. Cf. ACROTERIUM c. Obs. exc. Hist.
2. pl. (ROSTRA) Rom. Antiq. The beaks; specif. [cap.], the platform in the Forum where orations, pleadings, etc., were delivered. After the Latin war, it was adorned with beaks of captured vessels. Later, any of various platforms for public orators in Rome.
3. Hence, a stage for public speaking; the pulpit or platform occupied by an orator or public speaker.
4. Anat. & Zool. A part suggesting a bird's beak; as: a The beak, snout, or proboscis of any of various insects. b The anterior median, often spinelike, prolongation of the carapace of a crustacean, as in the lobster. c The snout of a gastropod mollusk when nonretractile. d The grooved beaklike extension of any of many gastropod shells, protecting the siphon. e The guard of a belemnite shell. f The interior median spine of the body of the basisphenoid bone articulating with the vomer. g The reflected anterior portion of the corpus callosum below the genu. h A differentiated scale forming the snout of snakes. i The anterior projecting element in the chondrocranium of elasmobranch fishes.
5. Bot. Any beaklike process or prolongation; specif., one of the inner segments of the corolla in Asclepias.
6. Old Chem. The beak, or tapering tube, of a retort.

ros'u·lar (rŏz'ū·lẽr; rŏ'zū-), adj. Rosulate.

ros'u·late (rŏz'ū·lāt; rŏ'zū-), adj. [NL. rosulatus, fr. L. rosa a rose.] Bot. Arranged in the form of rosettes.

ros'y (rōz'ĭ), adj. [From ROSE.] 1. Resembling a rose, as in color, scent, or beauty; specif., blooming; blushing; also, made of, or adorned with, roses.
2. Figuratively, promising success and happiness; as, rosy prospects; also, optimistic; as, a rosy disposition.
3. Red, or flushed, with anger; hence, angry. Dial.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rosy-armed	rosy-dancing	rosy-purple rosy-blushing	rosy-eared	rosy-red rosy-bosomed	rosy-faced	rosy-tinted rosy-cheeked	rosy-fingered	rosy-tipped rosy-colored	rosy-hued	rosy-toed rosy-crimson	rosy-lipped	rosy-warm ros'y (rōz'ĭ), n. With the, wine. Colloq.

ros'y (rōz'ĭ), v. t. To make rosy; to rose. — v. i. To become rose-colored, or tinted with rose.

rosy apple aphid or aphis. Also rosy aphid or aphis. A pinkish or purplish plant louse (Anuraphis roseus) which feeds on the foliage and fruit of the apple. The summer generations occur on plantain.

rosy bush. = HARDHACK a.

rosy cross. = ROSE CROSS, 1. See also ROSICRUCIAN, n.

Ros'y-cross' Knight, Philosopher. = ROSICRUCIAN, n.

rosy finch. Any of certain finches of western North America and eastern Asia constituting the genus Leucosticte. The plumage is chiefly brownish, suffused in the adult with rosy or whitish on the upper tail coverts.

rosy gull. = ROSS'S GULL.

rot (rŏt), v.; ROT'TED; ROT'TING. [ME. rotien, fr. AS. rotian; akin to D. rotten, OHG. rōzzēn, G. rösten to steep flax, ON. rotna to rot, Sw. ruttna, Dan. raadne, ON. rotinn rotten, Dan. raadden. Cf. RET, ROTTEN.] Intransitive: 1. To undergo natural decomposition, whether putrefactive or not, induced in organic matter by fungi, bacteria, etc.; to decay.
2. Figuratively: To perish slowly; to decay; to die; to become morally corrupt; to degenerate.
3. To suffer from the rot, as a plant or animal.
4. To chaff; talk nonsense; banter. Slang, Chiefly Brit.
—, Transitive: 1. To cause to rot, or become decomposed.
2. To cause (sheep) to be infected with the rot.
3. To expose, as flax, to a process of maceration, etc., for the purpose of separating the fiber; to ret.
4. To chaff; tease; banter; joke. Slang, Chiefly Brit.
Syn. — Decompose, putrefy, corrupt, spoil. See DECAY.

rot (rŏt), n. 1. Process of rotting, or state of being rotten; decay; putrefaction; also, that which is rotten or rotting.
2. Offensive nonsense or trash; twaddle. Slang.
3. Cricket. A fall of wickets in quick succession.
4. Old Med. A wasting disease with putrescent characteristics.
5. Rotting or decay of plant tissues caused by fungi, bacteria, etc. See BITTER ROT, BLACK ROT, DRY ROT.
6. Veter. Any of a number of parasitic diseases which chiefly attack sheep and are characterized by rotting or necrosis of the tissues, etc., progressive emaciation, etc.; as, liver rot, foot rot. Specif., without a qualifying word, liver rot.

rot (rŏt), interj. An exclamation expressing irritation, disgust, impatience, or the like. Cf. DRAT.

rot, n. [D.] A file of six soldiers. Obs.

-rot. A combining form of the noun rot, often written separately, as in:

black rot	fruit rot	liver rot	red rot brown rot	grape rot	neck rot	sap rot dry rot	heart rot	pennyrot	tommyrot foot rot	hoofrot	rain rot	white rot ro'ta (rō'tä), n. [L., wheel. See ROTARY.] 1. A round or course, as of duties or studies. Rare.

2. A roll or list, as of schoolboys or soldiers; a roster.
3. [cap.] Eng. Hist. A short-lived political club formed in 1659 by J. Harrington to further his plan for rotation of magistrates and legislators, as embodied in his Oceana.
4. R.C.Ch. A court, called also Sacra Romana Rota, (that is, Sacred Roman Rota), one of the three tribunals of the Roman Curia, with jurisdiction, ordinarily appellate in civil and ecclesiastical cases. It has ten judges, called auditors, presided over by the oldest, called dean.

ro'ta (rō'tä), n. [ML. See 5th ROTE.] Music. a = HURDY-GURDY, 1 a. b A round, such as "Sumer is icumen in," or other composition with frequent repeats, refrains, etc.

ro'tal (rō'tăl; -tĭ'l), adj. Pertaining to wheels; also, pertaining to rotary motion; rotary. Rare.

Ro'tal (rō'tăl; -tĭ'l), adj. Of, pertaining to, or proceeding from, the Rota.

rot'al (rŏt'l). Variant of ROTL.

Ro·ta'la (rō·tā'lä), n. [NL. See ROTALIA.] Bot. A genus of annual, weedy herbs of the loosestrife family (Lythraceae) with 4-angled stems, opposite or whorled leaves, and small, axillary and mostly solitary flowers. R. ramosior, the toothcup, is widely distributed.

Ro·ta'li·a (rō·tā'lĭ·ä), n. [NL., fr. LL. rotalis having wheels, fr. L. rota wheel.] Zool. A genus of Foraminifera having a finely perforated test with the segments in a turbinoid spiral and with septa composed of two lamellae between which are anastomosing canals. — ro·ta'li·an (-tā'lĭ·ăn; 159), adj. & n. — ro·tal'i·form (rō·tăl'ĭ·fôrm), ro·ta'li·i·form' (rō·tā'lĭ·ĭ·fôrm'), adj.

ro'ta·man (rō'tä·măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A member of the Rota club. See ROTA, 3.

ro·tam'e·ter (rō·tăm'ē·tẽr), n. [L. rota wheel + -meter.] An instrument for measuring curved lines by running over them a small wheel connected with a recording dial. Cf. OPISOMETER; PERAMBULATOR, 2, etc.

Rotameter.

ro'tang (rō'tăng), n. [See RATTAN.] Any rattan palm of the genus Calamus.

Ro·tar'i·an (rō·tãr'ĭ·ăn), n. A member of any of a large number of clubs (Rotary Clubs) having the same constitution and affiliated under an International Association of Rotary Clubs (Rotary International). The Rotary Clubs, which exist in many countries, have as their motto, "Service." — Ro·tar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. — ro·tar'i·an·ize, v. t.

ro'ta·ry (rō'tä·rĭ), adj. [LL. rotarius, fr. L. rota a wheel. See ROLL; cf. BAROUCHE, RODEO, RODOMONTADE, ROUÉ.] 1. Turning, as a wheel on its axis; pert. to, or resembling, the motion of a wheel on its axis; having parts that rotate; rotatory; as, rotary motion; rotary traffic is one-way traffic around a circle marked at a street intersection.
2. Pertaining to rotation in office; holding office or held, as an office, in rotation. Rare.

ro'ta·ry, n. A rotary machine, as a rotary engine, compressor or converter; specif.: a A rig used for drilling a well by the rotary method. b A drill-pipe turntable and the mechanical assembly for supporting and rotating it.

Ro'ta·ry, n. Short for ROTARY CLUB, ROTARIANISM.

rotary blower. A machine for producing artificial draft by centrifugal force of rotating vanes. See 1st BLOWER, 7, Illust.

rotary bridge crane. See BRIDGE CRANE.

Rotary Club. See ROTARIAN, n.

rotary condenser. Elec. = SYNCHRONOUS CONDENSER.

rotary converter. See SYNCHRONOUS CONVERTER.

rotary cultivator. Agric. Mach. See CULTIVATOR, 2.

rotary current. Elec. A multiphase current.

ro'ta·ry-cut', adj. Spirally sliced from a log with a rotary lathe; as, rotary-cut veneers.

rotary discard. Whist. A discard of a certain suit made, by an arbitrary convention, to denote strength in a certain other suit next in order to it in rank, as the discard of a heart showing spades.

rotary drill. A rock drill that bores by a rotary action.

rotary engine. 1. Any of various engines in which power is applied to vanes, a rotor, or the like, constrained to move in a circular path, for example, a turbine. 2. A radial engine of an early aerial type in which the cylinders revolve about a common fixed crankshaft.

rotary fault. Geol. See FAULT, n., 6.

rotary gap. Elec. A kind of spark gap in which one of the electrodes is a rotating element, causing a regular change in gap length and thereby timing the condenser discharge.

rotary hoe. Agric. Mach. An implement consisting essentially of a number of rotating hoe wheels, each having long, flat, slightly curved, sharp-pointed steel fingers at its circumference.

Rotary Hoe.

Rotary International. See ROTARIAN, n.

rotary microtome. See MICROTOME, n.

rotary milling machine. Mach. See MILLING MACHINE.

rotary planer. Mach. A machine with which plane surfaces are milled on large work, by moving the work secured to the table of the machine past a revolving cutter.

rotary plow. a A plow shaped like a propeller and used for removing snow from highways. b Agric. Mach. See PLOW, n., 1.

rotary press. Print. A cylinder press with the type form curved to fit a rotating cylinder.

rotary pump. Mach. See PUMP, n., 1.

rotary shear. Mach. a A rotating bedpiece of a lathe. See SHEARS, 3. b pl. See SHEARS, 1 d.

rotary squeezer. See SQUEEZER, n., 3.

rotary transformer. A synchronous converter.

rotary vacuum filter. See VACUUM FILTER.

rotary valve. 1. Mach. A valve acting by continuous or partial rotation.
2. Music. See VALVE, 9.

ro'tate (rō'tāt or, esp. Brit., rō·tāt'), v.; RO'TAT·ED (-tāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119); RO'TAT·ING (-tāt·ĭng). [L. rotatus, past part. of rotare, fr. rota wheel. See ROTARY; cf. ROUÉ, ROVE to wander.] Intransitive: 1. To turn, as a wheel, round an axis; to revolve.
2. To perform any act, function, or operation in turn; to pass or alternate in a series; as, members of a clique rotating in office and the office rotating among them.
—, Transitive: 1. To cause to rotate, or turn, as a wheel, around an axle; to revolve.
2. To cause to succeed, pass, or act, in turn in a series; as, to rotate men in office.
3. Agric. To cause to grow in rotation; to vary by rotational planting; as, to rotate crops.
Syn. — See REVOLVE.

ro'tate (rō'tāt), adj. [L. rotatus, past part. See ROTATE, v.] Having the parts flat and spreading or radiating like those of a wheel; wheel-shaped.

Rotate Corolla of Solanum.

ro'tat·ed (rō'tāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Turned round, as a wheel.
2. Wheel-shaped; rotate.

ro'tat·ing (rō'tāt·ĭng), adj. That rotates, or revolves on its axis.

rotating band. = ROTATING RING.

rotating current. Elec. A current producing a rotating magnetic field; a multiphase current.

rotating die head. Mach. See DIE HEAD.

rotating ring. Ordn. The ring of metal around a projectile, to take the grooves of the rifling and thus impart rotation.

ro·ta'tion (rō·tā'shŭn), n. [L. rotatio.] 1. Act of rotating, or turning on an axis. See REVOLUTION, 1 b.
2. Any return or succession in a series; as, the rotation of the seasons; rotation in office.
3. In technical uses: a Anat. & Physiol. The turning of a limb or part about its long axis as if on a pivot, as when the head is turned in looking over the shoulder. b Forestry. The predetermined age at which the forest is to be cut; as, a fifty-year rotation. c Plant Physiol. The streaming movement of the cytoplasm around the wall of a cell. Cf. CIRCULATION, 12.
Syn. — Turn, revolution, spin.

ro·ta'tion·al (-ăl; -ĭ), adj. Pertaining to, or resulting from, rotation; of the nature of, or characterized by, rotation.

rotational fault. Geol. A fault in which the displacement, as measured at successive points along the strike, decreases to zero at some particular point and then increases with a throw in the opposite direction.

rotational motion. = VORTICAL MOTION.

rotational quantum number. Physics. A vector quantum number which determines the angular momentum in quantum units of the nucleus of a molecule rotating about an axis through its center of mass.

rotational vector. A vector field whose curl (see CURL OF A VECTOR FIELD) is different from zero.

rotation band. Ordn. = ROTATING RING.

rotation of crops. Crop rotation.

rotation of mutes. Philol. Lautverschiebung. See PROGRESSION, 8 b; GRIMM'S LAW. Obs.

rotation pool. Fifteen-ball pool in which the object balls must be played upon in numerical order.

ro'ta·tive (rō'tä·tĭv), adj. 1. Turning, as a wheel; rotary; rotational; as, rotative velocity.
2. Causing rotation; also, occurring in regular series; rotating.
— ro'ta·tive·ly, adv.

---

ros'ale (rŏs'ĭ). Dial. Eng. var. of WRESTLE.

ros'so·lis' (rō·sō'lĭs'), n. [F.] = ROSOLIO, 1.

rost. ✝ ROAST.

roste. ✝ ROAST, ROUST.

Ros'tel·la'ri·a (rŏs'tĕ·lā'rĭ·ä), n. [NL.] See SPINDLE SHELL a. — ros'tel·lar'i·an (-lā'rĭ·ăn), adj. & n. [TRUM, 2.]

ros'tra (rŏs'trä), n., pl. of ROSTRUM. Dial. var. of ROSIN.

rot'a·ble, adj. Liable to rot. Obs.

ro'ta·cism. Var. of RHOTACISM.

rotan, n. = 1st RATTAN.

Ro'ta·nev (rō'tä·nĕv), n. [A reversing of Nicolaus Venator, Latinized form of Niccolo Cacciatore, It. astronomer.] See STAR, Table.

ro'ta·scope (rō'tä·skōp), n. [L. rota wheel + -scope.] See GYROSCOPE.

ro'tat·a·ble (rō'tāt·ä·b'l; rō·tāt'-), adj. See -ABLE. — -bly, adv.

ro'ta·tiv·ism (rō'tȧ·tĭv·ĭz'm), n. [Pg. & Sp. rotativo rotative.] Rotation in office, esp. of political parties alternately by agreement, as formerly in Portugal.

ro·ta'to- (rō·tā'tō-). Bot. A combining form for rotate, denoting wheel-shaped and, as in ro·ta'to·den'tate, ro·ta'to·plane'.

ro'ta·tor (rō'tā·tĕr; rō·tā'tĕr), n. [L.] Anything that rotates; specif.: a Anat. [pl. ROTATORES (rō'tȧ·tō'rēz; 181).] A muscle which partially rotates a part on its axis; specif., any of certain small muscles in the dorsal region of the spine, each arising from the upper and back part of a transverse process and inserted into the lamina of the vertebra above. b The screwlike part of a ship's log that causes the log to rotate in the water. c A small fast-running electric motor specially adapted for rotating Geissler tubes, color disks, siren disks, etc.

ro'ta·to'ry (rō'tȧ·tō'rĭ; Brit. also rō·tā'tō·rĭ), adj. [See ROTATE, ROTARY.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or producing, rotation; turning on or as on an axis; having parts that rotate; rotary; as, rotatory power; rotatory motion; a rotatory engine.

2. Going in a circle or series; following in rotation or succession; as, rotatory assemblies.

rotche, rotch (rŏch), n. [For earlier rotge, appar. fr. LG. (cf. Fris. rotgoes brant, D. rotgans), fr. Scand. (cf. Nor. rotgaas brant, Dan. radgaas, ON. hrothgǎs), of imitative origin. See GOOSE; cf. RAT GOOSE, ROUT brant.] The dovekie (Alle alle).

rote (rōt), n. [Cf. ON. rauta to roar, and E. RUT, in this sense.] The noise the surf dashing upon the shore. Cf. RUT, roaring. Lowell.

rote, n. [ME. rote in by rote, also, practice, condition, custom, of uncert. origin.] 1. A fixed course or routine, as of study or speech; hence, repetition of forms of speech, often implying want of attention to the meaning; memorizing through repetition or repeating solely from memory.

2. That learned by memorizing; a memorized role. Rare.

— by rote. In a mechanical routine way; by the use of the memory with little intelligence; as, to perform duties by rote; to learn lessons by rote.

Rehearse your song by rote. Shak.

rote, v. t. To learn or repeat by rote. Now Rare. — rot'er (rōt'ĕr), n.

rote, v. i. [L. rotare. See ROTATE.] To go out or change by rotation.

rote (rōt), n. Music. = 1st CROWD, 1.

ro·tel'la (rō·tĕl'ȧ), n. [ML.] A round shield; a buckler. Obs. exc. Hist.

‖Rö'teln (rö'tĕln), n. pl. [G., fr. rot, roth, red. See RED.] Med. = RUBELLA.

ro'te·none (rō'tē·nōn), n. [Origin unknown.] Chem. A poisonous crystalline ketone, $C_{23}H_{22}O_6$, found in derris root, cube root, and other fish poisons and used as an insecticide. Cf. DERRIS, 1 & 2.

rote song. Music. A song which is to be memorized largely or entirely by imitation, as contrasted with one to be learned from notes.

rot'ge (rŏt'gē), n. The rotche.

rot grass. Local, Eng. Any of several marsh or bog plants reputed to produce rot in sheep; esp.: a Velvet grass. b The common butterwort. c The flukewort.

rot'gut' (rŏt'gŭt'), n. Bad liquor, esp. when adulterated. Slang. — rot'gut', adj.

roth'er (rŏth'ĕr), n. [AS. hrīther, hrȳther; akin to D. rund, OHG. hrind, G. rind, and to E. HART. Cf. RUNT.] Cattle; a horned beast. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

roth'er·muck (rŏth'ĕr·mŭk), n. The barnacle goose. Local, Eng.

rother nail. A nail with a very full head, used for fastening the rudder irons of ships.

Rothe'say (rōth'sā; -sĭ), n. Her. See HERALD, n., 2.

Roth'lie'gen·des (rōt'lē'gĕn·dĕs), n. [G., lit., lying red; — from the red beds of sandstone near Eisenach.] Geol. The sandstones, shales, and conglomerates of the lower Permian of Germany. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

‖rō'ti' (rō'tē'), n. [F., fr. OF. rosti, past part. of rostir (F. rôtir).] A roast. — adj. Roasted.

ro'ti·fer (rō'tĭ·fĕr), n. [NL. See ROTIFERA.] One of the Rotifera.

Ro·tif'er·a (rō·tĭf'ĕr·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. rota a wheel + ferre to bear.] Zool. A class of minute, usually microscopic, but many-celled aquatic animals having the anterior end modified into a retractile disc (corona) bearing one or two circles of strong cilia, which, when in motion, often give the appearance of rapidly revolving wheels. The posterior end usually forms a tapering tail or foot, by which many forms can attach themselves. The pharynx contains a chitinous masticating apparatus (mastax). In modern classifications, the Rotifera are the chief class of a phylum, Trochelminthes. They are most abundant in stagnant fresh water. — ro·tif'er·al (rō·tĭf'ĕr·ȧl), adj. — ro·tif'er·ous (-ŭs), adj.

A Rotifer (Hydatina senta). A Female; B Male. a Circle of Cilia; b Caudal Appendages; c Mouth; d Mastax; e Stomach; l Ovary; n Ganglion; p Penis; r Spermary; s Nephridium; v Bladder. Much enlarged.

ro'ti·form (rō'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. rota wheel + -form.] Wheel-shaped; rotate.

ro'tis'se·rie' (rō'tē's'·rē'), n. [F., fr. rôtir. See ROAST.] A cookshop where roast meats are prepared or sold; also, in the United States, a restaurant or grillroom where patrons may select meats, have them roasted within their view, and served to them; loosely, any unpretentious restaurant.

rot'l (rŏt'l), n.; pl. ARTAL (är'tăl). [Ar. raṭl.] A weight of North Africa, and of parts of Europe and Asia, corresponding to the pound, but varying greatly with the locality; also, a varying dry measure. The rotl, in Abyssinia, equals 0.69 lb. (311 grams); in Egypt, 0.99 lb. (449 grams); in Morocco, 1.12 lb. (508 grams); in Tunisia, for groceries, 1.11 lb. (504 grams); in the Balearic Islands, 0.897 lb. (407 grams); in Malta, 1.75 lb. (794 grams); in Turkey, 1.24 lb. (564 grams); in Arabia, 1.02 lb. (462 grams); in Persia, 1.01 lb. (460 grams); in southern Palestine, 6.35 lb. (2.88 kg.); in Syria (Damascus), 3.93 lb. (1.785 kg.); in ancient Arabia, 0.75 lb. (340 grams).

‖ro'to (rō'tō), n. [Sp.] Literally, a ragged person. In Chile, a workman; one of the proletariat. In Mexico, a rural Indian who wears European clothes.

ro'to (rō'tō), n. Short for ROTOGRAVURE.

ro'to·graph (rō'tō·grȧf; 83), n. [L. rota wheel + -graph.]

1. A photograph printed by a process in which a strip or roll of sensitized paper is automatically fed under the negative so that a series of prints is made; also, the photographic apparatus with which such prints are made.

2. A photographic print, as of a manuscript, book, or the like, made directly on bromide paper by the use of a reversing prism, without a negative. Letters or lines appear white on a black background.

ro'to·graph, v. t. & i. To record by rotograph.

ro'to·gra·vure' (-grȧ·vūr'; -grā'vūr; 277), n. [L. rota wheel + gravure. See ROTARY.] 1. A process of photogravure in which the impression is produced by etched cylindrical plates affixed to the rollers of a rotary printing press; hence, an illustration so printed. See PHOTOGRAVURE.

2. Also roto section. Journalism. A section of a newspaper devoted to rotogravure pictures. Cant, U. S.

‖ro'tonde' (rō'tŏnd'), n. [F.] 1. An Elizabethan ruff. Hist.

2. Rear compartment of a diligence having 3 compartments.

ro'tor (rō'tĕr), n. [Short for rotator.] 1. Mach. A part that revolves in a stationary part, esp. when both are large; specif.: a Elec. The rotating member of an electrical machine. b The rotating wheel or group of wheels in a steam turbine. Cf. STATOR.

2. Math. = LOCALIZED VECTOR. Clifford.

3. Naut. See ROTOR SHIP.

rotor ship. Naut. A ship propelled by the pressure and suction of the wind acting on one or more revolving vertical cylinders (rotors, or rotor masts). A vertical cylinder, with a height about five times the diameter, and mounted on a standard, is revolved by a small engine at a circumferential speed of about 3½ times the velocity of the wind. The effect is pressure on the side moving toward the wind, and suction on that moving from the wind. The pressure and suction may give the ship a speed of as much as 9 miles an hour.

rot'–steep' (rŏt'stēp'), v. t. Cloth Mfg. To steep (cloth) in an alkaline lye in order to remove the dressing.

rot'tan (rŏt'ăn), n. [Var. of RATTON.] A rat. Obs. exc. Dial.

rot'ten (rŏt'n), adj. [ME. roten, rotin, fr. ON. rotinn. See ROT.] 1. Having rotted; putrid; decayed; hence, offensive to the smell; fetid. "Reed of the rotten fens." Shak.

2. Affected with rot, as an animal. See ROT, n., 6.

3. Unsound, as if rotted; not firm or trusty; disintegrated or defective in solidity; as, rotten iron; also, tainted; foul, as if from putrefaction. "The rotten way." Knolles.

4. Figuratively, unsound or corrupt; esp., open to bribery, graft, etc.; as, rotten municipal government; lacking in honesty, uprightness, etc.

Something is rotten in the state of Denmark. Shak.

5. Disagreeable; as, rotten weather; bad or inferior; abominable; offensive; also, morally corrupt; evil. Slang.

Soldiering is a rotten job, anyhow. G. A. Birmingham.

Teddy was so plainly rotten that only a fool wrapped up in her own sensations would have touched him. H. G. Wells.

Syn. — Putrescent, putrefied; unstable, undermined; depraved.

Ant. — Fresh, wholesome, unspoiled, sweet; firm, sound, secure; incorruptible.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rotten-dry	rotten-red	rotten-throated rotten-minded	rotten-rich	rotten-timbered rotten-planked	rotten-ripe rot'ten, v. t. & i. To rot. Dial.

rot'ten (rŏt'ĕn). Var. of ROTTAN, a rat.

rotten borough. Any of the boroughs which, at the time of the Reform Act of 1832, contained but few voters, yet retained the privilege of sending a member to Parliament. Hence, by extension any political unit in a republican form of government that has much less than its due proportion of inhabitants.

rot'ten–egg', v. t. To pelt with rotten eggs.

rot'ten–heart'ed, adj. Corrupt to the heart; thoroughly bad; as, a rotten-hearted scoundrel. — rot'ten–heart'ed·ly, adv. — rot'ten–heart'ed·ness, n.

rotten knot. In lumber inspection, a knot that is not as hard as the surrounding wood.

rotten neck. Plant Pathol. Blast (of rice).

Rot'ten Row' (rŏt'n rō'). [Origin obscure.] A fashionable equestrian thoroughfare in Hyde Park, London. It was a part of the route of the Plantagenet kings from Westminster to the royal forests.

rot'ten·stone' (-stōn'), n. A friable siliceous stone, the residue of a siliceous limestone whose calcareous matter has been removed by the solvent action of water. Cf. TRIPOLI. — v. t. To polish or grind with rottenstone.

rot'ter (rŏt'ĕr), n. [From ROT, v.] A blackguard; one lost to all sense of moral decency; a dishonorable person; hence, more vaguely, a thoroughly objectionable person; also, one who fails to do his share in a common task; a shirker; slacker. Slang.

rott goose (rŏt). [Of Scand. origin. See ROTCHE.] The brant. Local, Eng.

rot'tle (rŏt'l), v. i. [ME. rot(e)len; cf. MD. & MLG. rötelen.] To rattle. Dial. Eng.

rot'tle. Var. of ROTL.

rot'tler·in (rŏt'lĕr·ĭn), n. [From NL. Rottlera (syn. of Mallotus), after Johann Peter Rottler, Dan. missionary.] Chem. A salmon-colored crystalline compound, $C_{32}H_{30}O_6$, the active principle of kamala.

rot'tock (rŏt'ŭk), n. [From ROT.] An old, rotten, or stuffy thing. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

rot'u·la (rŏt'ū·lȧ), n. [L., a little wheel. See ROTARY.]

1. Anat. & Zool. a The patella, or kneepan. b One of five radial pieces intervening between the alveoli and extending inward toward the esophagus in the dentary apparatus, or Aristotle's lantern, of a sea urchin.

2. Astron. A device for illustrating the motions of the earth and moon relative to the sun.

3. Pharm. A troche or lozenge.

4. Diminutive of ROTA, a round.

— rot'u·lar (-lĕr), adj. — ro·tu'li·an (rō·tū'lĭ·ăn; 159), adj.

rot'u·lad (-lăd), adv. [See 1st -AD.] Toward the patella.

rot'u·let (rŏt'ū·lĕt), n. [Dim. fr. L. rotulus. See ROLL, n.] A roll or register.

rot'u·li·form' (rŏt'ū·lĭ·fôrm'), adj. [rotula + -form.] Shaped like a rotula; patelliform.

rot'u·lus (rŏt'ū·lŭs), n.; pl. ROTULI (-lī). [L. See ROLL, n.] A roll (see ROLL, n., 3 & b), especially one of the English court rolls.

ro·tund' (rō·tŭnd'), n. 1. A rotunda. Obs.

2. Roundness; also, a round or circular object or space.

ro·tund' (rō·tŭnd'), adj. [L. rotundus. See ROUND; cf. OROTUND, ROTUNDA.] 1. Round or rounded out; spherical; as, a rotund little man; a rotund figure.

2. Rounded; full and flowing; — said esp. of speech.

The rotund and reverberating phrase. Aldous Huxley.

Syn. — Plump, chubby, round. Ant. — Lean, spare.

— ro·tund'ly, adv. — ro·tund'ness, n.

ro·tund', v. t. To round out; to fill out to a rounded form.

ro·tun'da (rō·tŭn'dȧ), n. [It. rotonda (whence F. rotonde), fr. L. rotundus round, fem. rotunda. See ROTUND.] 1. Arch. A round building, esp. one round both outside and inside and covered by a dome or cupola, like the Pantheon at Rome.

2. a A large round room; as, the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington. b Erron., a large central area in a hotel or other public building, neither circular nor dome-covered.

ro·tun'date (rō·tŭn'dāt), adj. [L. rotundatus, past part. of rotundare to make round.] Rounded, esp. at the end or corners.

ro·tun'di- (rō·tŭn'dĭ-). Bot. A combining form from Latin rotundus, round, as in ro·tun'di·fo'li·ate, ro·tun'di·fo'li·ous, ro·tun'di·form, ro·tun'di·fy. See -FOLIATE, etc.

ro·tun'di·ty (rō·tŭn'dĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [L. rotunditas.] 1. State or quality of being rotund; roundness. "The thick rotundity o' the world!" Shak.

2. Hence, rounded completeness; entirety. Fuller.

3. A round or rounded mass; a circular form.

4. Quality of being full and flowing; — said of speech.

ro·tun'do (rō·tŭn'dō), n. A rotunda. Rare.

ro·tun'do- (rō·tŭn'dō-). Bot. A combining form, from Latin rotundus, round, denoting roundly, as in ro·tun'do·o'vate, ro·tun'do·tet·rag'o·nal.

‖ro'ture' (rō'tür'), n. [F.] 1. State of being a roturier.

2. Fr. & Canadian Feudal Law. A feudal tenure of lands by one having no privileges of nobility, bound only to a payment of rent in money or in kind.

‖ro'tu'rier' (rō'tü'ryā'), n.; pl. -RIERS (F. -ryā'). [F.] A person not of noble birth; specif., a freeman holding land by roture. — ro'tu'rier', adj.

‖Rot'welsch (rōt'vĕlsh'), n. [G.] An argot.

rou·cou' (rōō·kōō'), n. [F., roucou, rocou, fr. Pg. urucú, fr. Tupi urucú. Cf. URUCŪ.] Salmon color.

roud (roud), v. i. [Cf. 5th REDD.] To spawn; — said of fish. — roud, n. Both Dial. Eng.

roud (rōōd). Var. of RUDD.

rou·é' (rōō·ā'), n. [F., prop. past part. of rouer to break upon the wheel, fr. roue a wheel, fr. L. rota. See ROTATE, ROTARY.] A man devoted to a life of sensual pleasure, esp. in his relations with women; a debauchee; a rake.

rou·elle' guard (rōō·ĕl'). [OF. roele, rouelle, prop. dim. of roue wheel.] A disk-shaped guard on a dagger.

Rou'en' (rōō'ăN'), n. [From Rouen, France.] A valuable breed of domestic ducks (Rouen ducks), derived from the wild mallard, which they resemble closely in color but exceed in size.

rou'en (rō'ĕn). Dial. Eng. var. of ROWEN.

Rou'en' cross (rōō'ăN'). [From Rouen, France.] A cross of precious metal in fretwork, in or forming a brooch or pendant; a brooch or pendant having such a cross.

‖rou'e·rie' (rōō'rē'), n. [F.] The character, characteristics, or conduct of a roué.

rouge (rōōzh), n. [F. See ROUGE, adj.] 1. A red powder consisting of ferric oxide, usually prepared by calcining ferrous sulphate; specif., a comparatively light-colored form, as distinguished from a darker, more highly calcined product called crocus. It is used in polishing glass, metal, or gems, as a pigment, etc. Jewelers' rouge is a fine, gently calcined variety.

2. Any of various cosmetics used for giving a red color to the cheeks or lips. The best is prepared from carthamin (from the flowers of the safflower), but carmine, eosin, etc., are often used.

3. A radical; a "red." Colloq.

4. Roulette. A bet on red, paying even money.

rouge, v. i. & t.; ROUGED (rōōzhd); ROUG'ING (rōōzh'ĭng). To tint with rouge, as the face or cheeks; hence, to color as if with rouge; to redden, flush, or blush.

rouge (rōōzh), adj. [F., fr. L. rubeus red; akin to L. ruber red. See RED.] Red. Rare.

rouge, n. [Origin unknown.] In the Eton and similar football games, a scrimmage; also, sometimes, a touchdown.

‖Rouge' Croix' (krwȧ'), Rouge' Dra'gon' (drȧ'gŏN'). [F., lit., red cross, red dragon.] Her. See PURSUIVANT, n., 1.

rouge' et noir' (rōō'-zhā nwär'). [F., red and black.] Trente et quarante; — so called from the colors bet on.

rouge'mont·ite (rōōzh'mŏnt·ĭt), n. [From Mt. Rougemont, Monteregian Hills, Canada.] Petrog. A leucocratic, olivine-bearing anorthite-gabbro, composed of anorthite, augite, olivine, iron ore, and a little hornblende.

rou·geot' (rōō·zhō'), n. [F. rouge red + -ot.] Plant Pathol. A nonparasitic disease of the grape characterized by an arrested growth of the tips of shoots and a red discoloration of the leaves along the margin and between the main veins.

Rou'get' cell (rōō'zhē'). [After Charles Rouget (fl. 1850–1903), French physiologist.] Anat. One of numerous branching cells adhering to the endothelium of capillaries and regarded as a contractile element in the capillary wall. See CAPILLARY, n.

rough (rŭf), adj.; ROUGH'ER (-ĕr); ROUGH'EST. [ME. rough, rou ruw, rugh, ruh, fr. AS. rūh; akin to LG. rug, D. ruig, OHG. rūh, G. rauh, rauch, Lith. raukas wrinkle, L. ruga, Skr. rūkṣa rough. Cf. CORRUGATE, RUG.] 1. Having inequalities, ridges, projections, or the like, on the surface; not of unbroken surface; not smooth or plain; as, a rough board; a rough stone; rough cloth. Specif.: a Marked by coarseness of surface; hairy; shaggy; as, a rough coat; a rough rasp; a face rough with a two days' beard; hands rough and chapped with cold. "Rough satyrs." Milton. b Not level; having a broken surface; uneven; — said of a piece of land, or of a road. "Rough, uneven ways." Shak. c Tossed in waves; not calm or smooth; — said of water.

Ro'ta·to'ri·a (rō'tȧ·tō'rĭ·ȧ; 181), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. Syn. of ROTIFERA. — ro'ta·to'ri·an (-ăn), adj. & n.

rotch'et. † RATCHET; ROCHET, a vestment.

rotch'ie (rŏch'ĭ). Var. of ROTCHE.

rote. † ROOT, ROT, ROUTE.

roth'er·beast', n. A rother. Obs.

Roth'walsch', Roth'welsch'. † ROTWELSCH.

ro·tif'er·an (rō·tĭf'ĕr·ăn), n. = ROTIFER. Rare. [a rot. Obs.] rot'mas'ter, n. Mil. Leader of rot'n. Rotten. Ref. Sp. [TOLO.

rot'o·li, rot'o·lo. Vars. of ROT-rot'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

Rot'sø (rŏt'sĕ), n. pl. = BAROTSE.

rot'ta (rŏt'ȧ) rot'te (rŏt'ē). Music. Vars. of ROTE.

rot'tel. Var. of ROTL.

rot'ten-ish, adj. See -ISH.

rot'ten·ly, adv. of ROTTEN. [Obs.] rot'ten·ly, adj. Friable, as soil.

rot'ten·ness, n. See -NESS.

rot'ting, pres. part. & verbal n. of ROT. Specif.: n. = RETTING.

rot'tler·a (rŏt'lĕr·ȧ), n. = KAMALA b.

rot'to·lo (rŏt'ō·lō). [It. rotolo, pl. -li, fr. Ar. raḥl.] = ROTL.

rot'ton. Var. of ROTTAN, a rat.

rou'ble (rōō'b'l). Var. of RUBLE.

rou'bouh (rōō'bōō), roub (rōōb), n. sing. & pl. [Ar. rubʿ one fourth.] See MEASURE, Table.

rouch (rōōk). Scot. var. of ROUGH.

rouche. Var. of ROUE.

Rou'cou'enne' (rōō'kōō'ĕn'). Var. of ROCOUYENNE.

rou'das, -des. Vars. of RUDAS.

rou'et' (rōō'ĕt'). Var. of REWET.

rou·geau' (rōō·zhō'), n. = ROUGEOT.

rouge'ber'ry (rōōzh'bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr-ĭ), n.; pl. -BERRIES (-lz). Also rouge plant. [See ROUGE, adj.; BERRY.] = BLOODBERRY.

rouge'like', adj. See -LIKE.

‖rou'get' (rōō'zhē'), n. [F., fr. rouge red.] = HOG CHOLERA.

‖rouge' vé'gé'tal' (rōōzh' vā'zhā'tăl'). [F.] = CARTHAMUS RED.

2. Coarse, rugged, or unpolished in character or appearance; unrefined. Specif.: a Harsh to the eye; wanting smoothness of outline or form; as, a rough landscape. "A visage rough." Dryden. b Not cultivated; unpolished; rude; as, rough peasants; rough hospitality. "A surly boatman, rough as waves." Prior. c Harsh to the ear; discordant; grating; hoarse; as, a rough voice; rough numbers. d Harsh to the taste; austere; as, rough whisky; rough red wine.
3. Of very coarse or poor quality, or, sometimes, not fresh; — said of food; as, rough fish. Slang, Eng.
4. Not tranquil; marked by boisterousness or disorder; tempestuous; as, rough horseplay; rough weather; a rough crowd. "He stayeth his rough wind." Is. xxvii. 8.
5. Not gentle; marked by severity or violence; harsh; severe; unpleasant; surly; rude; uncivil; as, rough measures; rough masters. "A quicker and rougher remedy." Clarendon.
6. In a crude or unfinished state; unwrought or incompletely wrought; crude; as, the rough lumber for a house; rough steel; a rough diamond; hence, hastily or carelessly done or made and therefore confessedly imperfect; as, a rough estimate; a rough outline of a design or a plot.
7. Not fully trained or broken; hard to ride; — said of horses. Rare.
8. Designating a workman qualified to do only rougher and clumsier kinds of work; as, a rough carpenter or mason.
9. Phonet. Pronounced with a breathing or aspirate; aspirated; as, a rough vowel.

Syn. — Inequal, broken; coarse; choppy, ruffled; crude, boorish; harsh, jarring; boisterous, tumultuous, turbulent; hard, stern, severe; approximate, inexact; incomplete, imperfect. — ROUGH, RUDE. With reference to behavior, ROUGH suggests harshness, severity, or violence; RUDE, uncouthness or discourtesy; as, to jostle one roughly (cf. rudely); a rough retort, a rude interruption. As applied to processes or results, ROUGH often suggests that which is offhand or hasty; RUDE, that which lacks finish or polish; as, a rough guess, a rough-and-ready theory; rude workmanship, a rude implement, rude verses. But the words are often used with little distinction. Cf. COARSE, CRUDE.

Ant. — Level, smooth, flat, even; calm, tranquil; refined, courteous; quiet, orderly, well-behaved; soft, sweet; gentle, mild; painstaking; finished, complete, perfect.

rough (rŭf), n. 1. Boisterous weather. Obs. Fletcher.
2. [Perh. orig. short for RUFFIAN.] A coarse, rude fellow; a rowdy; ruffian.
3. That which is rough; crude condition or material; specif.: a pl. Mining. Dial. Eng. Coarse, poor sands from tin dressing. b An uncut gem stone.
4. The harsh, unpleasant, or disagreeable side or aspect of anything; severe treatment.
5. A spike or calk inserted in a horseshoe to prevent the animal from slipping.
6. Ground uneven and covered with brush, stones, and the like; broken ground.
7. Golf. Any portion of the course on which grass and other vegetation are allowed to grow without effort to prepare them for play; — opp. to fairway.

— in the rough. a In an unwrought or rude condition; unpolished; as, a diamond or a sketch in the rough.
Contemplating the people in the rough. Mrs. Browning.
b Without special preparation; in the ordinary condition as to neatness, dress, etc.; as, you must take us in the rough. — *the rough. Roughness; as of a tempest. Rare.

rough (rŭf), v. Transitive: 1. To render rough; to roughen.
2. To shape, make, or dress, roughly; — esp. with out, down, in, etc.; as, to rough down lumber.
3. To speak harshly to or deal severely with; to ruffle the feelings of.
4. Football, etc. To subject (an opponent) to unnecessary and intentional violence.

——, Intransitive: 1. To live or behave roughly; to rough it.
2. To ruffle up; to become rough.
3. To subject one to unnecessary violence, as in football.

rough a horse. a To calk or otherwise make a horse's shoes rough, to prevent slipping. b To break in a horse, esp. for military purposes.

rough it. a To endure hard or rude conditions of living; to live without ordinary comforts; as, to rough it on a camping trip. b To indulge in rough conduct or contention. "You are a boy, and have undertaken to rough it with men." S. Weir Mitchell.

rough out. To draw, write, drill, block out, etc., a piece of work hastily and rudely, with the intention of finishing and polishing it later.

rough, adv. Roughly (see FLAT, adj., 11).

rough- (rŭf-). A combining form of rough, adj. & adv., forming adjectives and verbs, as in:

rough-backed	rough-haired	rough-ridged rough-barked	rough-handed	rough-roll, v.
rough-bearded	rough-handedness	rough-sawn rough-bedded	rough-headed	rough-scaled rough-billed	roughhearted	rough-seeded rough-blustering	roughheartedness	rough-sketch, v.
rough-board, v.	rough-hob, v.	rough-skinned rough-bordered	rough-hobbed	rough-spirited rough-cheeked	rough-hull, v.	rough-stalked rough-clad	rough-jacketed	rough-stemmed rough-clanking	rough-keeled	rough-stringed rough-coated	rough-leaved	rough-surfaced rough-cut	rough-legged	rough-swelling rough-edge	rough-level, v.	rough-tanned rough-edged	rough-lipped	rough-tasted rough-enter, v.	rough-living	rough-textured rough-faced	rough-looking, adj.	rough-thicketed rough-feathered	rough-mannered	rough-toned rough-finned	rough-necked	rough-tongued rough-foliaged	rough-paved	rough-toothed rough-fruited	rough-plain, v.	rough-turned rough-furrowed	rough-plastered	rough-voiced rough-grained	rough-plow, v.	rough-walled rough-grown	rough-plumed	rough-weather rough-hackle, v.	rough-podded	rough-winged rough-hackled	rough-reddened	rough-write, v.

rough (rŭf), n. = ROUGHY (fish). Australia.

rough (rŭf). Var. of RUFF, to trump; RUFF, to stamp.

rough. Obs. past tense of RECK.

rough'age (rŭf'Ĭj), n. [From ROUGH, adj.] a Any rough or coarse substance; a material for rough use, as straw bedding. b U. S. Specif., coarse food or fodder, relatively high in fiber and low in digestible nutrients, as bran, hay, silage, etc. c Chiefly U. S. Coarse food with a considerable proportion of indigestible material, or the indigestible material itself, esp. cellulose, which, by virtue of its bulk, stimulates the intestines to peristalsis.

rough alpine fern. = HOLLY FERN a.

rough amaranth. The green amaranth Amaranthus retroflexus.

rough'-and-read'y, adj. Rude or unpolished in nature, method, or manner, but prompt or effective in action or use; as, a rough-and-ready leader or workman; a rough-and-ready training. "The rough-and-ready understanding." Lowell. "Some rough-and-ready theory." Tylor. — rough'-and-read'i-ness, n.

Rough and Ready, Old. General Zachary Taylor (1784–1850); — a nickname.

rough'-and-tum'ble (66), adj. Characterized by violence not restrained by rule; as, a rough-and-tumble fight; hence, characterized by, or fitted for, hard knocks and sudden emergencies; as, a rough-and-tumble life. — rough'-and-tum'ble, n.

rough avens. The bennet Geum virginianum, of North America.

rough'-bark' dis-ease'. Plant Pathol. a A fungous disease of apples, esp. of the Yellow Newtown, caused by Phomopsis mali, and producing rough cankers on the twigs and branches. b A nonparasitic disease of apples, pears, etc., characterized by a general roughening of the bark and not by local cankers.

rough bent, rough bent grass. A slender grass (Agrostis hiemalis) (66) with widely spreading capillary panicles. It is sometimes used for dried bouquets.

rough bindweed. A European smilax (Smilax aspera), the root of which yields a kind of sarsaparilla.

rough bone set. = VERVAIN THOROUGHWORT.

rough book. = ROUGH LOG.

rough'-bore', v. t. To bore (work) approximately to size.

rough breathing. The spiritus asper.

rough buttonweed. = BUTTONWEED a.

rough carriage. Carp. = ROUGHSTRING.

rough'cast' (rŭf'kăst'; 83), n. 1. A rude model; the rudimentary, unfinished form of a thing.
2. A kind of plastering made of lime, with a mixture of shells or pebbles, used for covering buildings. It is usually thrown from a trowel forcibly against the wall.
3. The character of surface of a wall or the like made of plaster or concrete.

rough'cast' (rŭf'kăst'; 83), v. t. 1. To shape or form roughly without revision, correction, or polish; to block out; as, to roughcast a clay model; to roughcast a poem.
2. To plaster with roughcast.

rough'cast', n. = SPATTERDASH.

rough'cast'er (-kăs'tĕr), n. One who roughcasts.

rough chervil, rough cicely. The hedge parsley Torilis anthriscus.

rough cinquefoil. = BARREN STRAWBERRY c.

rough coat. The first coat, as of paint or plaster.

rough'-coat', v. t. Plastering. To apply the rough coat to.

rough cock's-foot grass. = ORCHARD GRASS.

rough comfrey. A rough-leaved European herb (Symphytum asperrimum) with bluish-purple flowers. It is sometimes cultivated for forage and is adventive in the eastern United States.

rough diamond. An uncut diamond; hence, colloquially, a person of intrinsic worth but outwardly rude.

rough'draft' (rŭf'drăft'; 66), v. t. To roughdraw. Rare.

rough'draw' (-drô'), v. t. To draw crudely or roughly.

rough'dress' (-drĕs'), v. t. To dress roughly, as stone.

rough'dry' (-drī'), adj. Laundry. Designating a type of service in which washed articles are returned to the owner dry, but needing preparation for ironing.

rough'dry' (-drī'), v. t. In laundry work, to dry without smoothing or ironing.

rough'en (rŭf'ĕn; -'n), v. t. & i.; -ENED (-ĕnd; -'nd); -EN·ING (-ĕn·ĭng; -'n·ĭng). [From ROUGH.] To make or become rough. — rough'en·er (-ĕr), n.

rough'er (-ĕr), n. 1. One who roughs or roughs out anything; one who makes or shapes anything in the rough.
2. A tool for roughing out work.
3. a pl. Woolen cloth from the loom before perching and fulling. b One who treats cloth or leather on a perch.
4. = RUFFER (in specif. sense).

rough'er-down', n. 1. One who roughs down metal.
2. One who roughdraws wire.

rough'er-out', n. One who roughs out metal.

rough'er-up', n. One who roughs up metal.

rough'et (rŭf'ĕt; -It; 119), n. A piece of rough, broken, shrub-covered land. Dial. Eng.

rough'-face' (66), v. t. Mach. To face (work) approximately to size.

rough fig. The purple fig (Ficus scabra). Australia.

rough file. See 4th FILE, 1.

rough'-foot'ed (66), adj. Having feathered feet, as certain birds.

rough'-form' (66), v. t. Mach. To form (work) approximately to size and contour.

rough'-fruit'ed spurge. The sun spurge.

rough gentian. The soapwort gentian.

rough going. A rough course, track, or the like; hence, difficulty; arduousness. — rough'-go'ing, adj.

rough goldenrod. A very common North American rough-stemmed herb (Solidago rugosa) with scabrous foliage and yellow flowers in large secund panicles.

rough green snake. See GREEN SNAKE.

rough'-grind' (66), v. t. To grind (work) approximately to size. — rough'-grind'er, n.

rough hawkbit. A rough-hairy European weed (Leontodon nudicaulis) with a rosette of basal leaves and a solitary, long-stalked head of yellow flowers. It is adventive in North America.

rough'-head'ed pop'py. = WIND ROSE, 1 a.

rough'hew' (rŭf'hū'; 66), v. t.; past tense -HEWED' (-hūd'); past part. -HEWED', -HEWN' (-hūn'); pres. part. & verbal n. -HEW'ING. 1. To hew coarsely, without smoothing; as, to roughhew timber.
2. To give the first form or shape to; to form crudely or roughly; to roughcast. "A roughhewn seaman." Bacon.

rough'hew'er (-ĕr; 66), n. One who roughhews.

rough'hewn' (-hūn'; 66), adj. Hewn roughly, without smoothing; crudely shaped; hence, figuratively, uncultivated; lacking polish; also, Rare, churlish; brutal.

rough horsetail. The scouring rush.

rough'house' (rŭf'hous'), n. Slang. An outbreak of violence or noisy sport, esp. among occupants of a house or room. — rough'hous'y (-hous'Ĭ), adj. Slang.

rough'house', v. t. To handle roughly and boisterously, but in a spirit of fun; to attack, disarrange, and tumble about. — *v. i. To start, or take part in, a roughhouse. — -hous'er (-hous'ĕr), n. — -hous'ing, n. All Slang.

rough'ie (rŭf'Ĭ; rōō'Ĭ), n. [Prob. fr. ROUGH.] Brushwood; a torch; a wick clogged with tallow. Scot.

rough'ing (rŭf'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of ROUGH. Hence: n. Action or process inherent in the verb rough, in various senses. Specif., Printing, stippling or stipple.

rough'ing-in', n. 1. The first coat of plaster laid, as on brick; also, the process of applying it.
2. The placing in a building of that part of the plumbing equipment which is concealed in walls, under floors, etc.

roughing mill. a A set of roughing rolls. b A revolving metal disk charged with an abrasive, for grinding gems, etc.

roughing rolls. Metal. A series of rolls in which wrought iron is first given the form of a bar preparatory to being reheated and finished, or through which an ingot of steel or other metal first passes in the rolling process.

rough'ings (rōōf'ĭnz; rŭf'-), n. pl. Rowen. Dial. Eng.

roughing stone. Lithography. A stone with a roughened surface against which prints are pressed to give them the appearance of oil or water-color paintings.

rough'ish (rŭf'ĭsh), adj. Somewhat rough. See -ISH. — rough'ish·ly, adv. — rough'ish·ness, n.

rough leaf. The trailing arbutus. See ARBUTUS.

rough'-leaf' tree. = CHAPARROC.

rough'-leaved' bent. See GRASS, Table.

rough-leaved fig. The purple fig. Australia.

rough'leg' (rŭf'lĕg'), n. A rough-legged hawk.

rough'-leg'ged hawk (rŭf'lĕg'ĕd; -Ĭd; -lĕgd'). Any of several large, heavily built hawks of the genus Buteo, closely related to the true buzzards but having the tarsus feathered to the base of the toes. The European rough-legged hawk is B. lagopus, represented in North America by a darker (sometimes nearly black) variety (B. l. sancti-johannis). Another species (Buteo regalis, the ferruginous roughleg) inhabits western North America, where it is sometimes called squirrel hawk. All the species feed largely on mice and other rodents and are beneficial to the farmer. They were formerly regarded as constituting a separate genus, Archibuteo, but intermediate forms occur.

Rough-legged Hawk (Buteo lagopus).

rough lemon. A natural hybrid citrus fruit of southern Florida, resembling a coarse sour orange; also, the tree bearing this fruit, much used as a stock for grafting ordinary lemons and oranges.

rough loader. See LOADER, 1.

rough lock. A chain or rope fastened around either runner of a dog sled to keep it from going downhill too fast; a bridle chain. — rough'-lock', v. t.

rough log. Naut. A first draft of a vessel's log.

rough lumber. See 1st LUMBER, 3.

rough'ly, adv. In a rough manner; as: a Without finish; coarsely; unevenly. b Rudely; harshly; severely; with violence; as, to handle one roughly. c Without completeness or exactness; approximately; as, roughly speaking.

rough'-ma·chine' (66), v. t. To machine (work) approximately to size, usually by taking heavy cuts, removing the excess metal (rather than obtaining the correct size and finish) being the chief object.

rough'-mill' (66), v. t. To mill (work) approximately to size.

rough music. A charivari. England.

rough'-mu'sic, v. t. To deride (a person) with a charivari rough mute. = ASPIRATE, n. b. Obs.

rough'neck' (rŭf'nĕk'), n. One who is rough or uncouth, esp. in manners; a boor; also, a rowdy; tough. Slang. — rough'neck', adj. Slang.

rough'ness, n. 1. Quality or state of being rough.
2. A rough place, spot, section, or the like.
3. Roughage used as fodder. Dial., U. S.

roughness and readiness. Rough-and-readiness. Rare.

rough oak. The post oak (Quercus stellata).

rough olive. Angling. An artificial fly with dark starling wings, brown-olive heron-herl body, dirty-brown-olive hackle, and gold ribbing. English anglers regard it as one of the best wet flies when the dun is hatching. British.

rough·om'e·ter (rŭf·ŏm'ĕ·tĕr), n. [See-METER.] = VIAGRAPH.

rough packer. See PACKER, 1.

rough painter. See 3d PAINTER, 2.

rough perforation. Philately. See PERFORATION, 2.

rough pigweed. The green amaranth Amaranthus retroflexus.

rough'-plane' (66), v. t. To plane (work) roughly to size.

rough'-point' (66), v. t. Stonecutting. To point (stone) with the pick or with heavy points so as to leave projections from about half an inch to an inch in height, — the preliminary operation in dressing limestone, granite, etc.

rough rail. Naut. = ROUGH-TREE RAIL. Obs.

rough'-ream', v. t. To ream (work) approximately to size.

rough rice. = 1st PADDY.

rough'ride' (rŭf'rīd'; 66), v. t. & i. 1. To ride as, or in the manner of, a roughrider. See ROUGHRIDER.
2. Figuratively, to be master (over); to ride roughshod (over); to dominate.

rough'rid'er (rŭf'rĭd'ĕr; rŭf'rīd'ĕr; 66), n. One who breaks horses to the saddle or who is noted for, or accustomed to, riding little-trained horses; specif.: Mil. a A noncommissioned officer who assists a riding master. b Colloq. An irregular cavalryman; hence [cap.], an officer or enlisted man in the 1st U. S. Volunteer Cavalry, a regiment raised for the Spanish War of 1898, composed mostly of Western cowboys and hunters and Eastern college athletes and sportsmen, largely organized, and later commanded, by Theodore Roosevelt. Sometimes, locally, a member of any of various other volunteer cavalry commands raised in 1898.

rough'root' (rŭf'rōōt'), n. The gay-feather Liatris spicata.

rough sarsaparilla. The bristly sarsaparilla.

rough'scuff' (rŭf'skŭf'), n. [rough + scuff.] A rough, coarse fellow; collectively, the rabble. Colloq., U. S.

rough'set'ter (-sĕt'ĕr), n. A mason who builds rough stonework.

rough'-shape' (66), v. t. To shape (anything) roughly or approximately.

rough'shod' (rŭf'shŏd'; 66), adj. Shod with shoes armed with points or calks; as, a roughshod horse.

— to ride, run, or travel roughshod. To ride, run, or travel without regard to difficulties or obstacles; hence, to dominate; tyrannize over; treat cavalierly.
The tractor rides roughshod through an unbroken forest. Standard Yearbook.

rough'slant' (-slănt'), n. A sportsman's lean-to. U. S.

rough sledding. Rough going; difficulty.

rough'some (rŭf'sŭm), adj. [rough + 1st -some.] Rough; uncouth; rustic. Scot. & N. of Eng.

rough'-spo'ken (66), adj. Rough or crude in speech.

rough'-square' (66), v. t. To make (anything) approximately square.

rough'-stalked' mead'ow grass. The bird grass.

rough'-stone', v. t. = HEARTHSTONE, v. t.

rough'string' (rŭf'strĭng'), n. Also rough string. Carp. A board notched out to fit the steps, and fixed to the inside of an open string to strengthen it. Cf. FACE STRING.

rough'stuff' (rŭf'stŭf'), n. 1. An undercoat of paint used to level up inequalities of a surface.
2. Boisterous behavior; violent treatment. Slang.
rough'stuff', v. t. To paint with roughstuff. rough sunflower. A coarse North American perennial herb (Helianthus divaricatus) with rough leaves and large heads of yellow ray flowers.
rough'tailed' (rŭf'tāld'), adj. Having a rough tail; specif., designating certain burrowing snakes of the family Uropeltidae with large scales or a shield on the tail. — rough'tail' (-tāl'), n.
rough thoroughwort. The vervain thoroughwort. rough tree. Naut. a A spar or mast in the rough. b Rare. That part of a mast above the deck. c Rare. A stanchion supporting the rough-tree rail. rough'-tree' rail. Naut. The rail at the top of a vessel's main bulwarks and below the topgallant bulwarks.
rough'-turn' (66), v. t. To turn (work) approximately to size. — rough turner.
rough'-weed', n. The hedge nettle Stachys palustris.
rough whelk. The drill Urosalpinx cinerea.
rough white oak. The post oak (Quercus stellata). rough'-winged' swal'low (rŭf'wĭngd'). Any swallow of the American genus Stelgidopteryx or of the African genus Psalidoprocne, having the outer web of the first primary developed into a series of minute hooks.
rough'work' (-wûrk'; 66), v. t. To work over coarsely, without regard to nicety, smoothness, or finish. Moxon.
rough'wrought' (-rôt'; 66), adj. Wrought in a rough, unfinished way. rough'y (rŭf'ĭ), n. [Prob. fr. ROUGH.] a An Australian marine spiny-finned fish (Arripis georgianus) often included in the Serranidae. b A small Australian fish (Trachichthys australis) of the family Berycidae.
Rou'gon'-Mac'quart', Les (lā rōō'gôn' mȧ'kȧr'). [F.] A family whose history is presented in a series of twenty novels by Émile Zola, intended partly as a study in heredity. The first, La Fortune des Rougon (The Rougon Family, in translation) appeared in 1871; the final volume, which is, to some extent, a summary, is Le Docteur Pascal (1892). The best-known novels in the series are Nana (1880) and La Débacle (1892), which see.
roug'y (rōōzh'ĭ), adj. Covered with, or like rouge. rouk'y (rōōk'ĭ; rouk'ĭ), adj. [Var. of ROKY.] Foggy; misty; roky. Scot. & N. of Eng.
rou·lade' (rōō·lȧd'), n. [F., fr. rouler to roll.] Music. In vocal music, an ornament consisting of a quick run, arpeggio, or other figure, sung to one syllable; a vocal flourish; a division.
rou·lade', v. i. Music. To sing with roulades. rou·leau' (rōō·lō'), n.; pl. ROULEAUX (-lōz'), ROULEAUS (-lōz'). [F., fr. rôle. See ROLL.] Literally, a little roll; specif.: a A roll of coins put up in paper. b Anat. A group of red blood corpuscles resembling, as seen under the microscope, a stack of coins. c Dressmaking & Millinery. A large piping or fold; — usually in pl. d Mil. A bundle of fascines, used in groups in siege operations.
rou·lette' (rōō·lĕt'), n. [F., fr. OF. roelete, dim. of roele. See ROWEL.] 1. A gambling game, played against a banker, in which an ivory marble is rapidly spun by hand around the inside of a bowl, the inner portion of which, called a roulette wheel, is revolved in the opposite direction, and has around the bottom numbered red and black compartments, the compartment in which the ball finally comes to rest deciding the results of the wagers permitted by the game. The wagers are made by placing the stakes on spaces, colored and numbered to correspond with the compartments of the wheel, on a table called a roulette table.
2. Any of various toothed wheels or disks, as for producing rows of dots on engraved plates, for roughening a plate in altering a mezzotint, etc., or for making short consecutive incisions in paper to facilitate subsequent division. Hence, specif.: Philately. Separating incisions so made in sheets of stamps without removing any of the paper. A series of equidistant holes pricked through the paper without removing it is often called pin perforation (cf. PERFORATION, 2). Saw-tooth roulette and serpentine roulette are so named from the shape of the incisions; they are sometimes (erroneously) called perforations.

Various forms of Roulette, 2.

3. A roller for massaging.
4. A small roller of pipe clay used in the 18th century for curling wigs.
5. Geom. The path in a fixed plane of any point in a moving coincident plane when a given curve in the latter plane rolls without sliding on a given curve in the former. See CENTRODE; CYCLOID, n., 1; EPICYCLOID.
rou·lette' (rōō·lĕt'), v. t. To make incisions in with a roulette; to separate by incisions so made; as, to roulette a sheet of stamps.
Rou·me'li·ote (rōō·mē'lĭ·ōt), n. A native of Rumelia. roun (rōōn; roun), v. i. & t. [ME. rownen, rounen, runen, fr. AS. rūnian; akin to MLG. rūnen, ON. rȳna, OHG. rūnēn, G. raunen; fr. the noun. See RUNE; cf. ROUND to whisper.] a Now Dial. To whisper. b Obs. To discuss or deliberate secretly. — roun, n. Obs. roun (rōōn). Var. of ROUND. Scot.
rounce (rouns; 232), n. [D. rons, ronde, prob. fr. rond round.] Print. The handle by which the bed of a hand press, holding the form of type, etc., is run in under the platen and out again; — also applied to the whole apparatus for moving the form under the platen. rounce (rouns), n. [G. rams, ramsch.] Cards. A variety of ramsch played with the full pack. Chiefly U. S. rounce, v. i. To be agitated; to stir; flounce about. Dial. & Colloq.
Mother is kind of rouncing round, all right. Sinclair Lewis.
roun'ce-val (roun'sĕ·vȧl), adj. [OF. Ronceval, Roncesvals, Rencesvals, the scene of the battle in OF. epic verse in which Roland was killed, F. Ronceval, Roncevaux, a town at the foot of the Pyrenees, Sp. Roncesvalles.] Large; strong; — from the gigantic bones shown at Roncesvalles as those of the paladins of Charlemagne. Obs.
roun'ce-val, n. 1. Obs. a A giant; anything large. b A virago; termagant.
2. The marrowfat pea.
roun'cy (roun'sĭ), n.; pl. -CIES (-sĭz). [OF. ronci, roncin (F. roussin), of unknown origin.] A riding horse. Archaic.
round (round), v. t. & i. [From ROUN.] To whisper to; to utter in a whisper; to talk or say privily. Archaic.
Five years long, now, rounds faith into my ears. R. Browning.

round (round), adj. [OF. roont, reont fem. roonde, reonde (F.) rond), fr. L. rotundus; akin to L. rota wheel. See ROLL; cf. 1st PRUNE, ROTUND, ROUNDEL, RUNDLET.] 1. Having every part of the surface or of the circumference equally distant from a center within; spherical, circular, or globular, or approximately so; as, a round disk or ball. "Big, round tears." Shak.
2. Circular in cross section, or approximately so; esp., cylindrical; as, the barrel of a musket is round.
3. Having a curved outline or form, esp. one like the arc of a circle or an ellipse, or a portion of the surface of a sphere; rotund; not angular or pointed; as, a round arch; round hills; round, or bellied, sails; a round handwriting; a round, or rotund, figure of a man.
4. Characterized by formation or movement in a circle; as, a round dance. Cf. ROUND DANCE.
5. Full; complete; not fractional; approximately in even units, tens, hundreds, etc.; — said of numbers.
6. Large; liberal in size, quantity, or amount; as, a round price; a round sum. "Round fines." Shak.
7. Not cramped or limited; marked by freedom, vigor, or the like; specif.: a Free and vigorous in motion; brisk; rapid; as, a round gesture; a round pace. b Uttered or emitted with a full tone; as, a round voice; a round note. c Outspoken; plain and direct; unreserved; not mincing; downright; as, a round answer, oath, tale.
Sir Toby, I must be round with you. Shak.
8. Full and smoothly expanded; not defective or abrupt; finished; polished; rounded; — said of language or style, or of authors with reference to their style; as, round sentences; a round period. Now Rare.
In his satires Horace quick, round, and pleasant. Peacham.
9. Of conduct, complete and consistent; fair; just; honest; straightforward. Rare.
Round dealing is the honor of man's nature. Bacon.
10. Complete; rounded; esp., accomplished or done by a progression (not necessarily continuous) through a series of points, places, conditions, or the like, with a final return to the starting point, condition, etc.; as, a round trip; the round procession of the months.
A round and final success. Emerson.
11. Issued or good for a round trip; — said of a railway ticket or the like. See ROUND TRIP, 1.
12. Surrounding; encompassing. Rare.
When Belgia's cities the round countries drown. John Donne.
13. Completed, or closed, by first buying and then selling, or vice versa; — said of a transaction in securities.
14. Accounting. Including all items; complete; as, a round price for bonds includes the accrued interest.
15. Boxing. Delivered with a more or less full swing of the arm; as, a round blow.
16. Handwriting. Denoting a French style of handwriting in which the letters are composed largely of round curves executed with a lettering pen having a broad nib.
17. Phonet. Rounded; labialized; labial. See ROUND, v. t., 11. — all round. See in the Vocabulary. — at a round rate. Rapidly. Dryden. — in round numbers. Approximately in even units, tens, hundreds, etc.; as, a bin holding 99 or 101 bushels holds in round numbers 100 bushels.

round (round), n. [From F. rond, ronde, and from ROUND, adj.] 1. Anything round, as a circle, a globe, a ring; as, the round, or vault, of heaven; a round structure, piece, or part; a circular location, or plot of ground; as, the Cornish rounds where the miracle plays were acted. "The golden round" [the crown]. Shak.
Not a speck or film in all the round of the sky. Burroughs.
2. A circle; a group; as, a round of politicians. Addison.
3. A circular dance; round dance. "A light fantastic round." Milton.
4. A course ending where it began; a circuit; a beat, esp. one often or regularly traversed; — often in pl.; as, to go the rounds; also, act of traversing a circuit; sometimes, a roundabout way; a long way around.
5. A series of changes, events, acts, or the like, ending where it began; a series of like events recurring in continuance; a cycle; a periodical revolution; as, the round of the seasons; a round of pleasures or duties; hence, a complete circuit or range; as, the whole round of knowledge.
The trivial round, the common task. Keble.
6. A course of action, conduct, etc., performed by a number of persons in turn, or, loosely, simultaneously or nearly so; as, a round of applause; a round of toasts or of drinking; also, a bout or turn of action participated in by two or more persons acting in competition or contest; as, a round at cards, fencing, shooting, etc.
7. Rotation, as in office; succession. Rare. Holyday.
8. A rounded or curved part of anything, as a humped part in a bent shaft, the shaft of a paddle, a coil, a rounded or convex back of a book, etc.
9. The round step of a ladder; a rundle or rung; hence, a round stick similarly placed or used, as a crosspiece between the legs of a chair or between the handles of a plow.
10. a A round of beef (which see). b A small-size beef casing. See CASING, n., 2 c.
11. State of being accurately round or circular; roundness; as, the circular saw is out of round.
12. Archery. A certain number of shots at given distances, recognized and named by rule or custom. In England the chief rounds are:

	arrows	yards
York (men's championship)	72	100
National (women's championship)	48	60
Hereford	72	80
"	48	60
"	24	50
St. George's	36	100
" "	36	80
" "	36	60

In America the chief rounds besides the English rounds are:

	arrows	yards
American	30	60
"	30	50
"	30	40
Junior American	30	50
" "	30	40
" "	30	30
Columbia	24	50
"	24	40
"	24	30
Metropolitan	30	100
"	30	80
"	30	60
"	30	50
"	30	40
Ohio	96	60
Potomac	24	80
"	24	70
"	24	60

For men's championships the Double York and Double American are added; for women's the Double National and Double Columbia. See DOUBLE ROUND.
13. Boxing. One of the periods into which a boxing contest is divided. Usually, each period is three minutes long, with one minute of rest intervening between rounds.
14. Brewing. A brewer's vessel in which the fermentation is carried out.
15. Card Playing, etc. A unit of play constituted by each player having had a turn, as in playing a card or dealing.
16. Change Ringing. pl. See CHANGE RINGING.
17. Mach. A round rod, as one of the cylindrical bars of a lantern pinion. See LANTERN PINION, Illust.
18. Mil. a One shot discharged by each soldier, gun, or cannon of a command; as, our company fired two rounds. b A unit of ammunition consisting of a projectile, a propellant, an igniting charge, and a primer.
19. Mining. A group or series of drill holes blasted in a special sequence in advancing mine working places.
20. Music. A polyphonic vocal composition in which three or four voices follow each other around in a species of canon in the unison. The earliest example (13th century) is the celebrated "Sumer is icumen in."
When the first part completes a rhythmical sentence prior to the entry of the second part and continues the melody as accompaniment to the second, and so on, . . . the composition has in England always been styled a round or catch, as distinguished from the closer canon, in which the successive parts enter without regard to the close of a phrase. Encyc. Brit.
21. Sports. A period of play in a contest or match; as, a round of golf; a round of billiards. See def. 6, above.
— in round. Of a book, in the process or state of having the back rounded from side to side. — in the round. Of figures, giving the full form in projection on all sides; — distinguished from relief. — on the round. Shoemaking. Against a shaped surface, as of a last; — opposed to on the flat (which see under 4th FLAT.) — out of round. In a condition where the roundness has been lost, as by wear; as, crankshafts wear out of round.

round (round), v.; ROUND'ED; ROUND'ING. Transitive: 1. To make circular, spherical, cylindrical, or rotund; to give a round or convex figure or outline to; as, to round the backbone of a book or the edges of anything.
Worms . . . which round themselves into balls. Bacon.
2. To turn in, or as if in, a circle; to rotate, as on an axis.
3. To trim the hair short around (the head); to crop the hair of (a person). Obs.
4. To surround; encircle; encompass. Shak.
5. To bring to completeness; to complete; hence, to bring to a finish or conclusion; as, to round a career.
6. To fill out to roundness or fullness of form; to make symmetrical; — often with off or out; as, to round periods in writing; a healthy, well-rounded figure. Swift.
7. To go round wholly or in part; to go about (a corner or point); as, to round a corner; to round Cape Horn.
8. Leather Mfg. To trim (the fleshed hides); to cut in sections for treatment
9. Math. To reduce the indicated accuracy of a result; as, to round 8.5634 to two decimals, we write 8.56.
10. Naut. To haul in a specified direction; — said of a rope, esp. one that passes through a block. See phrases below.
11. Phonet. a To draw (the lips) together laterally, making the opening more or less round, as in the pronunciation of oo. b To pronounce (a vowel or consonant) with rounding of the lips; to labialize. See Pron., § 34.
12. Shoemaking. a To cut (sole leather) to the required shape with a knife rather than a die. b To cut (the sole of a shoe) to conform to the shape of the last, after the sole has been attached.
13. Veter. To trim off the lobe of (the ear), as of a dog.
—, Intransitive: 1. To grow round, rotund, convexly curved, or full; hence, to attain to fullness, completeness, or perfection; also, with into, to develop; as, a boy rounds into a man or into manhood.
With the full moon just rounded from the horizon. Burroughs.
2. To go round; to make a circuit or rounds. Rare.
They keep watch, or nightly rounding walk. Milton.
3. To turn round; to wheel about. Tennyson.
4. To bend over and downward, as a whale in diving. Cant.
5. To turn informer; — often with on. Slang.
round down. Naut. To haul down on (a tackle) so as to lower the lower block; — more commonly overhaul down.
round in. Naut. To haul in on (a rope); — said esp. of the weather braces when hauled on to brace in the yards.
round off. a To trim off the edges and finish off. b To complete the fullness of, as by the addition of pieces or parts necessary for the purpose; as, his election to Congress rounded off his career; the purchase of the meadow lot rounded off his property. c Math. = ROUND, v. t., 9. round on. To turn on or against in anger or desertion; to assail, as with reproaches; as, he rounded on his accuser furiously; also, to betray. Colloq.
round out. a To complete; to bring to a finished state. b To regain the plumpness of health, as after an illness.
round to. a Naut. Of a vessel, to haul by the wind, that is, to bring the head to the wind, in either direction, usually preparatory to anchoring or otherwise stopping. b To regain health, strength, or good condition; as, a horse rounds to quickly or slowly after a hard race.
round up. a Naut. To haul up, esp. slack rope through its leading block, or a tackle by its fall. b Naut. To hoist in stops, ready for breaking, as a signal flag, or an ensign preparatory to a gun salute. c Western U. S. To collect (cattle) by riding around them and driving them in. d Colloq., U. S. Hence, to gather in (scattered persons or things); as, to round up a band of criminals. e To gather or coagulate in a round mass.

round (round), prep. 1. Past or outside of by a path bending back to or toward its starting point; specif.: a In a way to enclose or confine on all sides; as, to tie a rope round his neck. b In a way to pass or extend close by all sides or to all parts of successively or along approximately the whole boundary of; as, the earth revolves round the sun; on tour round the world; a rumor went round the village; to ride round the bay; hence, of time, through; throughout; as, to live there the year round. c In a way to keep each part in motion and always at the same distance from a point of support within; as, to pivot round a point; a planet rotates round its axis. d By a curving or indirect path to the opposite side of; from behind; as, to step round the obstruction; to peep round the corner; also, behind the projection of; as, waiting round the bend.
2. On all sides of or from all sides toward, so as to surround, confine, or envelop; in proximity, contact, or attachment along the outer boundary or surface of; as, to sit round a table; having a gay border round it; to view the trophies round the room; a severe pain round the heart; people pressed in crowds round him.

rought. Obs. past tense & past part. of REACH, RECK. [Dial.] rought. Var. of ROUT. Obs. exc. rouille (rōō'y'), n. [F.] Dyeing. = NITRATE OF IRON. rouk. † ROCK; RUCK, to crouch. rouk. Var. of ROKE, vapor. rouke. † RUCK.
roule. † ROLL, RULE.
Roum (rōōm), n. = RUM. roum (rōōm; roum). Var. of ROOM. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.
Rou'man (rōō'mȧn), adj. & n. = RUMANIAN.
Rou·ma'ni·an. Var. of RUMANIAN.
Rou·mansh' (rōō·mȧnsh'; -mȧnsh'). Var. of ROMANSH.
Rou·me'li·an. Var. of RUMELIAN.

3. In all directions from; in the vicinity of; here and there about or near to; as, at the top we looked round us; to emit a stench round, or for ten miles round, the plant; hence, concerning as chief subject; as, a story written round the life of Poe.
4. Of time, close to or approaching; as, round dinner time. Colloq.

round (round), adv. 1. In a direction curving continuously to the same side of a straight course and thus tending toward the starting point; specif.: a So as to pass through a progression of points and back to the starting point; so as to follow the path of a circle, ellipse, orbit, spiral, or the like; as, turning an auger round; winter has come round again. "Flying with dizzy swiftness, round and round." Shelley. b So as to reach all of an assemblage, or a number of places, in succession; through a circle, as of friends or houses; to each in turn; as, not enough to go round; to escort visitors round; to hand round cigars; through a series; as, he blessed the group round. c So as to pass, or by a line passing, outside of a boundary or along the surface or outer boundary of anything and back to the place of beginning; in circumference; as, it takes ten minutes to go round once; a ball ten inches round. d So as to reach a point by skirting what lies between or by any curved or indirect course; as, to go a long way round; to drive round to the rear. e So as to have each part in motion and always at the same distance from a fixed point or line within as a pivot or axis; in rotation; as, what makes the wheel go round? f So as to present an opposite side or hold a reversed position; through a half circle, with one part not changing position; in the contrary direction; back; as, to face the clock round; twist the rod round to the right; to turn the car round; hence, from one side, party, attitude of mind, or the like, to another, to a contrary belief, intent, etc.; as, to talk the woman round to our scheme.
2. In a direction or position away from a mid point; specif.: a Out in all directions from a point or from points along a course; as, to scatter handbills round; all the farms for ten miles round; to look round for a tree. b In the vicinity; as, to spread rapidly among the farmers round. c Chiefly U. S. Hither and thither, or here and there, esp. near one spot; as, to sit or dance round; to carry a copy of Keats round with him. d Colloq., U. S. In attendance or not far distant; as, the manager would not be round until next day.
3. On all sides of or from all sides toward a person or thing so as to confine, surround, or envelop; as, to see flowers all round on the slopes; a room hung round with tapestries; to wall them round; mountains bristling round; people crowding round.

Thine enemies shall . . . compass thee round. Luke xix. 43.
A Power Girt round with weakness. Shelley.

4. Obs. a In a full tone. Chaucer. b Smoothly and easily. Chaucer. c Directly; outspokenly. Shak.

round- (round-). A combining form of round, adj. & adv., forming adjectives, as in:

round-arched	round-edged	round-pointed round-armed	round-end	round-ribbed round-backed	round-faced	round-rolling round-barreled	round-fenced	round-rooted round-bellied	round-footed	round-seeded round-beset	round-fruited	round-shapen round-billed	round-furrowed	round-sided round-blazing	round-handed	round-skirted round-bodied	round-hoofed	round-spun round-boned	round-horned	round-stalked round-bottomed	round-leafed	round-tailed round-bowed	round-leaved	round-toed round-bowled	round-limbed	round-topped round-celled	round-lipped	round-trussed round-cornered	round-lobed	round-turning round-crested	round-made	round-visaged round-eared	round-mouthed	round-winged round-edge	round-podded	round-wombed round about. 1. Used without a noun: a Around in a circle or circular course; on all sides, esp. so as to encircle; in the vicinity. b In every direction around. c So as to face in an opposite direction. d By an indirect way. e About; approximately.

2. Governing a noun: a In an encircling course about. "Round about the caldron go." Shak. b In a circle about; surrounding; here and there round; in the vicinity of.

round'a·bout' (round'ȧ·bout'), n. 1. A revolving horizontal wheel or frame, commonly with wooden animals, etc., on which children ride; a merry-go-round.
2. A dance performed in a circle. Obs. Goldsmith.
3. A roundabout way or course; an indirect road; a detour; figuratively, a circumlocution.
4. A round trip; an excursion, as by railway, to a place and return.
5. A short, close jacket worn by boys, sailors, etc.
6. A state or scene of constant change, or vicissitude.
7. A veering breeze making a systematic diurnal variation. Local, New Eng.
8. Short for ROUNDABOUT CHAIR. Rare.
9. A circular fort. Scot.
10. Also roundabout fireside. A grate so placed that persons can sit all round it. Scot.
11. A sort of round oatcake. Scot.
— what you lose on the roundabouts you make up on the swings. Your loss in one line is made good by profits in another. Brit.

round'a·bout' (-ȧ·bout'), adj. 1. Circuitous; indirect; as, roundabout speech, road; roundabout methods.
2. Encircling; enveloping; comprehensive. "Large, sound, roundabout sense." Locke.
3. Rounded in figure; plump.
Syn. — Devious. Cf. CIRCUITOUS.
Ant. — Direct, straightforward.
— round'a·bout'ly, adv. — round'a·bout'ness, n.

roundabout chair. A chair with arms and back formed on two adjacent sides.

round'-a·bout'-face', n. An about-face. — round'-a·bout'-face', v. i.

roundabout system. See DIRECT SYSTEM.

round and round. In the same circle over and over again; in a constantly recurring series.

round angle. Math. The plane angle swept through by a half line in turning positively in a plane about its extremity as a center until it returns to its original position; that is, once around, or a complete turn. It is equal to 360° or 2π radians.

round arch. An arch semicircular in its intrados curve. See ARCH, Illust.

round'-arm' (-ärm'), adj. Characterized by an outward or horizontal swing of the arm, as a blow.

round bale. A cotton bale, cylindrical in shape, having a sewed-on cover of burlap or other coarse fabric without ties, and averaging 250 pounds in weight.

round'-bale' press. A type of hay press which makes a cylindrical bale, bound with binding twine, and having an air space running lengthwise through its center.

round barrow. See 1st BARROW, 2.

round bass (bās). A fresh-water sunfish (Centrarchus macropterus) of the southern United States.

round bone. Veter. The hipbone; the head of the femur.

round bracket. Printing. See 3d BRACKET, 4 b.

round buchu. See BUCHU.

round cell. Anat. & Med. A spherical cell. Specif.: a One of a group of small spherical cells occurring in masses or infiltrations of the affected tissue in chronic inflammation. b One of the undifferentiated cells making up certain sarcomas (round'-cell' sar·co'mas). Round cells are identical with or related to small lymphocytes.

round cheese. A skim-milk cheese molded in hoops of perforated tin. It has a mild acid flavor and firm texture.

round church. Arch. A church of circular plan, usually having a ring of columns which divide the towerlike nave from the surrounding aisle. By extension, a church of polygonal plan, because having a central or radial disposition instead of the common longitudinal one.

round clam. The quahog. See 9th CLAM, 1 a. round dance. a A country dance in which participants form a ring, sometimes separating into couples. b A ballroom dance in which couples revolve counterclockwise.

round dealing. Fair or honest dealing. — round'-deal'ing, adj.

round dock. The dwarf mallow.

round'ed (round'ĕd; -dĭd; 119), past. part. of ROUND. Specif.: adj. 1. Made round, in various senses; cylindrical in form or outline; filled out to completion; also, polished; finished; of speech, deep and sonorous.
2. Strength of Materials. Designating an assumed condition of the end of a strut which is not fixed and can be taken as bearing at a point, thus making the resistance of the strut to bending a minimum. A connecting rod under thrust is in the condition of a strut with both ends rounded.
3. Phonet. Formed by rounding the lips; also, labialized. Cf. ROUND, v. t., 11.
— round'ed·ly, adv. — round'ed·ness, n.

rounded number. Math. = ABBREVIATED NUMBER.

roun'del (roun'dĕl), n. [OF. rondel a roundelay (F. rondel, rondeau), orig., a dim. fr. rond. See ROUND, adj.; cf. RONDEL, ROUNDELAY, RUNDLE.] 1. [OF. rondele (F. rondelle).] Anything having a round form; a round figure; a circle; a round dance; a group gathered in a circle, etc. Specif.: a A small circular shield, sometimes not more than a foot in diameter, used by soldiers in the 14th and 15th centuries. Also, a plate of armor, esp. one added to protect an exposed part, as at the shoulder or elbow. b A bull's-eye of glass. c A circular tray, trencher, or small table. d Now Rare. Anglo-Indian. A sun umbrella.
2. Arch. A circular panel, window, or niche; esp., a recessed circular niche for a bust. Cf. ROSACE; ROSETTE, n., 3.
3. Fort. A semicircular casemated work serving for a bastion. Obs.
4. Her. Any of various small circular subordinaries representing balls or plates of metal or color. See BEZANT, 4; GOLPE; GUZE; 5th HURT; PELLET, n., 5; PLATE, n., 23; POMEY; TORTEAU.
5. Music. = ROUND, n., 3.
6. Poetry. a Var. of RONDEL, 4. b An English modified rondeau whose refrain comes after the first and last of three tercets and fits into the rhyme scheme (aba,B [refrain], bab, aba,B).

roun'de·lay (roun'dĕ·lā), n. [OF. rondelet, dim. of rondel. See ROUNDEL, RONDEAU; cf. ROUNDLET, RUNDLET.] 1. a A song in which a simple strain is often repeated; a simple rural strain which is short and lively. b A round dance.
2. Anything having a round form; a roundel. Obs.
3. Poetry. A kind of poem or song with a refrain recurring frequently or at fixed intervals as in a rondel. Archaic.

roun'de·leer' (roun'dĕ·lēr'), n. [See -EER.] One who invents roundels.

round'er (roun'dĕr), n. 1. One who makes rounds; one who comes or goes in some round or course; specif.: a [cap.] A Methodist preacher who goes around a circuit.

A Rounder, or Methodist local preacher. Quiller-Couch.

b Slang. One who makes the rounds of disreputable resorts or of imprisonment and release; a habitual petty criminal. Also, with less opprobrium, a dissolute spendthrift; a sport.
2. A worker who makes something round, as pencils, backs of books, etc.; also, a trimmer who cuts round, as soles, hat brims, etc.; a tender of a rounding machine.
3. One that makes round; specif., a tool for making an edge or surface round. Cf. ROUNDER AND BACKER.
4. A round or the completion of a round; specif.: a Colloq. A round of applause. b A circuit of the bases made on a single hit in the game of rounders.
5. A blow made with a full swing. Colloq.
6. pl. A game, originally and chiefly English, somewhat resembling baseball. It is played with a soft ball and a kind of miniature cricket bat or a thick stick.

rounder and backer. Bookbinding. A machine that accepts a book with a flat back, rolls it out to give concave front and convex back edges, and completes the shaping by backing. See BACK, v. t., 9; cf. ROLLER BACKER.

round'-eyed' (66), adj. Having the eyes wide open, as with surprise or wonder.

round file. See 4th FILE, 1.

round'fish' (round'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. a Any ordinary fish, as distinguished from a flatfish. b The Menominee whitefish.

round game. A card game in which the number of players is indefinite, and one may retire or enter at any time.

round gang. A gang of saws for cutting a round log into boards at a single operation. Local, U. S.

round hand. A style of penmanship in which the letters are formed in nearly an upright position, and each separately distinct; — distinguished from running hand.

round'head' (round'hĕd'), n. 1. [cap.] Eng. Hist. In the reign of Charles I and later, a Puritan or member of the Parliamentary party who wore his hair cut short; — so called in derision by the Cavaliers, who usually wore ringlets.
2. A brachycephalic person.
3. A Swede. Slang, Northwestern U. S.

round'head'ed (-hĕd'ĕd; -ĭd; 66; 119), adj. Having a round head; as: a Brachycephalic. b Having the hair closely cropped, like the Roundheads. c Rounded on the top or end. d Arch. Having the head, or upper part, semicircular; — said of an arch or vault. — round'head'ed·ness, n.

round'-heart', n. The purple meadow parsnip.

round herring. Any of a number of small, mostly tropical, marine fishes (order Isospondyli) resembling the herrings but having no serrations on the belly. Etrumeus sadina is a species common on the Virginia coast.

round'house' (round'hous'), n. 1. A constable's prison; a lockup, watchhouse, or station house. Obs. exc. Archaic.
2. A circular building for housing and repairing locomotives.
3. Naut. a A cabin or apartment on the after part of the quarter-deck, having the poop for its roof; the coach. b A privy on deck near the bow.

roundhouse curve. Baseball. A wide, slow outcurve with little or no drop. Cant.

round'ing (roun'dĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of ROUND. Hence: n. 1. Act or process of making or becoming round; specif., Leather Mfg., the trimming and cutting of hides.
2. Something which has been made round; a rounded object, surface, or corner.
3. A going around; an encircling.
4. Naut. Small rope or spun yarn, wound round a rope to keep it from chafing; — called also service.
5. Phonet. = LIP-ROUNDING.

round'ing, adj. 1. Round or nearly round; roundish.
2. [From ROUNDING, verbal n.] Of or pert. to, or used for or in, rounding something; as, a rounding table on which rough edges are trimmed from hides; a rounding tool; etc.
3. Encircling; encompassing. Poet.

rounding adz. An adz with a curved blade.

round iron. A bulbous-headed iron tool used when hot to smooth off soldered joints.

round'ish, adj. Somewhat round. — round'ish·ness, n.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

roundish-deltoid	roundish-leaved	roundish-ovate roundish-faced	roundish-obovate	roundish-shaped roundish-featured	roundish-oval round'-leaved' win'ter-green'. A wintergreen (Pyrola americana) with small round leaves.

round'let (round'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. [OF. rondelet. See ROUNDELAY.] 1. A little circle or round object; a disk.
2. A kind of small, round hat worn by men during the 15th century. It could be slung over the shoulder, and carried by an attached streamer.
3. = RUNDLET.
4. Her. A roundel. Rare.

round ligament. Anat. a A fibrous cord resulting from the obliteration of the umbilical vein of the fetus) passing from the umbilicus to the notch in the anterior border of the liver and along the under surface of that organ. b Either of a pair of rounded cords arising from each side of the uterus and traceable through the inguinal canal to the tissue of the labia majora, in which they become lost. c A triangular ligament of the hip joint implanted by its apex into a depression near the middle of the head of the femur, and by its broad base into the margins of the cotyloid notch of the innominate bone.

round'line' (round'līn'), n. Naut. A three-stranded, right-handed line used for seizings.

round'ly (-lĭ), adv. 1. In a round form or manner; as: a Circularly or globularly. b Openly; boldly; peremptorily; plumply. Addison. c Briskly; vigorously; outspokenly.

She informed me roundly that French beans were a subject which I did not understand. Arnold Bennett.

d Wholly; thoroughly. e Sharply; bitterly; scathingly.
2. Without regard to detail; in round numbers; generally.

In speaking roundly of this period. H. Morley.

round meal. A kind of coarse oatmeal for porridge. Eng.

round'ness, n. Quality or state of being round; as: a Circularity or orbicularity; rotundity. b Fullness; completeness; symmetry; as, the roundness of a period; roundness of tone. c Openness; straightforwardness; directness; plainness; boldness; positiveness; as, the roundness of an assertion. d Vigor; sharpness; severity.

round'nose' (round'nōz'), round'nosed' (-nōzd'; 66), adj. Having a round, or rounded, nose; rounded on its corners or edges; specif., pertaining to a tool or the like whose nose, or cutting edge, is round.

roundnose chisel. See COLD CHISEL, WOODWORKING CHISEL.

round of beam. Shipbuilding. The rise of a vessel's beams at the center above the ends.

round of beef. The part of the thigh below the aitchbone, or between the rump and the leg. The inside muscles are often called top (round) and those outside bottom (round). See BEEF, Illust.

round of roodles. See ROODLE.

round peg in a square hole. A person unfitted to his environment, occupation, etc.

round pompano. A small pompano (Trachinotus falcatus) found from Florida northward, sometimes to Cape Cod.

round potato. An Irish potato. Southern U. S.

round radish. The turnip radish.

round'ridge' (round'rĭj'), v. i. Agric. To plow into round ridges.

round robin. [Perh. F. rond round + ruban ribbon.] a A written petition, memorial, protest, or the like, the signatures to which are made in a circle so as not to indicate who signed first. b The cigarfish. c The angler (Lophius piscatorius). d Devon, Eng. A small pancake. e Obs. = CUTTOO, n.

round'-root', n. The nut grass.

round rush. The nearly cosmopolitan rush Juncus effusus.

round scale. = CIRCULAR SCALE (insect).

round'seam' (round'sēm'), n. 1. A seam used in glove-making, in which the two edges are brought together back to back and stitched through and over.
2. A seam used to join the edges of two canvas strips, as when sewing the bottom into a sea bag.

round seizing. See SEIZING, 2 b; KNOT, Table.

round shot. A spherical projectile for ordnance, now very rarely used.

round'-shoul'dered (-shōl'dĕrd; 66), adj. Having the shoulders stooping, rounded, or projecting.

rounds'man (roundz'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). 1. One who makes rounds; specif.: a U. S. A police officer, ranking next below a sergeant, who makes rounds of inspection. b Eng. A retail delivery man who sells milk, bread, etc.
2. Formerly, in England, a pauper who received relief under the so-called (obsolete) roundsman system, under which the paupers went about seeking rural employment, their employer giving them the parish allowance and receiving from the parish the difference between that and what he was willing to pay for the labor rendered.

round splice. A long splice keeping the shape of the rope.

round stave basket. See BASKET, n., 2.

round steak. A beefsteak cut from the round.

round stern. See SQUARE STERN.

round sunfish. The round bass.

Round Table. 1. a A huge circular marble table, at which, according to the old romancers, King Arthur and his knights were accustomed to sit. The number of persons who could sit around it is variously given as from thirteen to one hundred and fifty. b The knights of King Arthur collectively; as, the deeds of the Round Table. c Hist. Hence, in imitation, any assembly of knights held for a tournament, as that of Edward III in 1345.
2. [not caps.] Hence, any meeting place of a group, or of representatives of different groups, for conference, discussion, deliberation, and decision upon questions of mutual interest; also, the group meeting for such a purpose, or the discussion or debate at such meeting.
— round'-ta'ble, adj.

round'-ta'ble con'fer·ence. A conference of representatives of opposing parties or organizations, or of delegates, seated at a round table at which no precedence in rank can be indicated, for the purpose of free discussion.

round'tail' (round'tāl'), n. The hardtail (Gila robusta).

round'-tailed' musk'rat'. A small swamp-living vole (Neofiber alleni) of Florida, resembling the muskrat but having the tail cylindrical and tapering instead of keeled.

round'-the-cor'ner, n. A sequence in which the king and deuce both connect with the ace. At poker, when counted, it ranks below a skip, or Dutch straight.

round timber. Untapped turpentine-yielding pine trees. Southern U. S.

round'top' (round'tŏp'), n. Naut. A top; a platform at a masthead, formerly round in shape. Now Rare.

round tower. A circular stone tower, with a conical cap, ranging in height from 60 to 150 feet. Many of these towers were erected in Ireland from the 9th to the 13th century as refuges from Viking invaders. About 80 still remain, a score of which are in good preservation.

round trip. 1. A trip to a place and back.
2. At pinochle, the four marriages in one meld.

round'-trip', adj. Of, pertaining to, or designating a round trip, as on a railroad, steamship, automobile, or the like; as, a round-trip ticket, excursion, etc. — round'-trip'per, n.

round turn. Naut. a One turn of a rope round a timber, a belaying pin, etc. It is often used around a bollard on a pier to stop a vessel suddenly; hence, to bring up with a round turn, to check sharply in a course. b See 1st HAWSE, 4.

round turn and elbow. See 1st HAWSE, 4.

round turn and half hitch. See 2d KNOT, 1.

round'up' (round'ŭp'), n. 1. A rounding up, or upward curvature or convexity, as in the deck of a vessel; a camber (sense 1).
2. Act or process of collecting or gathering together cattle on the range by riding around them and driving them in, as for branding. Also, the men and horses engaged in a roundup, collectively. Western U. S.
3. Hence, a gathering in of scattered persons or things; as, a roundup of criminals. Colloq., U. S.

round whitefish. The Menominee whitefish. Brit. Amer.

round window. Anat. The fenestra cochleae.

round'worm' (round'wûrm'), n. A nematode worm, as distinguished from a flatworm or tapeworm. See NEMATODA.

round'y (roun'dĭ), adj. Round; rounding. Obs. exc. Dial.

round yam. The Burdekin vine.

roup (roup; rōōp), v. i. [MD. roepen; akin to AS. hrōpan, G. rufen.] To shout; call hoarsely; croak. Now Scot. & Dial. Eng. — v. t. To sell at auction; to sell up. Scot.

roup, n. [From ROUP, v.; cf. MD. roep.] Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. Eng. 1. Clamor; shouting. Obs.
2. Auction; a sale by outcry.

roup (rōōp), n. [Prob. of imitative origin.] 1. Hoarseness; a cold.
2. Veter. A common disease of poultry, characterized by hoarseness, discharge from the nostrils and eyes, formation of patches of cheesy matter in the mouth and throat, and the symptom known as pip. Two kinds have been distinguished, one contagious and the other nutritional, the latter resulting from a deficiency in the diet.

roup'er (roup'ĕr; rōōp'ĕr), n. One who roups. Scot. & N. of Eng.

roup'et, roup'it (-ĭt), adj. Roupy. Scot.

roup'ing-wife' (roup'ĭn-wīf'; rōōp-), n. A woman who traffics in goods purchased at auction. Scot.

roup'y (rōōp'ĭ), adj. [From ROUP hoarseness.] 1. Hoarse. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
2. Veter. Affected with roup; pert. to the roup of poultry.

rouse (rouz), n. [From CAROUSE.] 1. A bumper of liquor, esp. in honor of a toast; hence, a toast. Obs.
2. A carousal; a festival; a drinking frolic. Tennyson.

rouse (rouz), v. i. & t. [Prob. the same word as rouse to start up.] Naut. To pull or haul strongly and all together.

rouse and bitt. Naut. To turn out for one's watch. Slang.

rouse (rouz), v.; ROUSED (rouzd); ROUS'ING (rouz'ĭng). [Origin uncert. Cf. AROUSE.] Transitive: 1. To cause to start from a covert or lurking place; as, to rouse a deer.

Like wild boars late roused out of the brakes. Spenser.

2. To wake from sleep or repose; as, to rouse one early.
3. To excite to physical, mental, or spiritual activity from a state of idleness, languor, stupidity, or indifference; as, to rouse the faculties, passions, or emotions.

To rouse up a people, the most phlegmatic. Atterbury.

4. To put in motion; to stir up; to agitate.

Blustering winds, which all night long Had roused the sea. Milton.

5. To raise; to make erect. Obs. Spenser. Shak.
6. Brewing. To blow air through (fermenting wort) to aid development of the yeast.

—, Intransitive: 1. To get or start up; to rise. Obs.
2. To awake from sleep or repose; to be aroused or excited to activity from a state of torpor, indolence, or the like.
3. To speak angrily; to upbraid a person. Slang, Australia.
4. To carouse. Rare.

The favor of Venus and Bacchus was with those who roused by night. Pater.

Syn. — Start, raise; waken; disturb, upset, excite, stimulate; stir.

Ant. — Quiet, pacify, calm, lull, soothe; dull, blunt.

rouse (rouz), n. 1. Act of rousing; an awakening; a sudden start, as from inaction; also, a signal for action.
2. Mil. A signal for arousing; esp., the reveille. Brit.

rouse (rouz), v. t. [From earlier arrouse to besprinkle (with salt), moisten, F. arroser, earlier arrouser, fr. VL. arrosare, fr. L. ad to + ros dew. See RORIC.] To cure (fish, esp. herring) by packing loosely with salt and stirring.

rouse (Scot. rōōz, rûz). Var. of ROOSE. Obs. exc. Scot.

rouse'a·bout' (rous'ä·bout'), n. A man of all work, esp. one employed on a sheep farm at shearing time to assist the shearers without doing any shearing himself; — called also roustabout. Australia.

rous'ed·ness (rouz'ĕd·nĕs; -ĭd-; -nĭs; 119), n. State or quality of being roused, awake, alert, etc.

rouse'ment (rouz'mĕnt), n. An arousal or awakening; also, that which rouses; specif., U. S., a stirring appeal in a religious discourse.

rous'er (rouz'ĕr), n. One who or that which rouses; specif.: a Colloq. Something that arouses astonishment, admiration, or the like; anything remarkable of its kind; as, his speech was a rouser. b Brewing. A stirrer or mechanical stirring apparatus in a copper for boiling wort. c Eng. = COBBERER.

rous'ing (rouz'ĭng), adj. 1. Having power to awaken or excite; exciting; as, a rousing appeal.
2. That rouses astonishment, admiration, or the like; remarkable of its kind; as, a rousing fire or lie. Colloq.
3. Awakening; rising from, or as from, slumber.
— rous'ing·ly, adv.

Rous'seau' di'a·gram (rōō'sō'; Brit. rōō'sō). [After E. Rousseau, Belgian engineer.] Photom. A curve plotted in rectangular (instead of polar) co-ordinates, showing the candle power of an incandescent lamp for various directions.

Rous'seau'ism (rōō'sō'ĭz'm), n. The theories of Jean Jacques Rousseau (1712–78) or of his followers; esp., his views of the inherent equality of men, of the general will as the basis of government, and of the corruption and degradation of human nature by civilization. Cf. SOCIAL CONTRACT. — Rous'seau'an (-ăn), adj. — Rous'seau'ist (-ĭst), n. — Rous'seau·is'tic (rōō'sō·ĭs'tĭk), adj. — Rous'seau'ite (rōō'sō'ĭt), n.

Rous·sel'li·an (rōō·sĕl'ĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of or pertaining to Rousseau.

rous·sette' (rōō·sĕt'), n. [F.; — in allusion to the color. See RUSSET.] a A fruit bat. b Any small shark or dogfish of the genus Scyliorhinus.

Rous'sil'lon' (rōō'sē'yōn'), n. A red wine of the Burgundy type, made in the old province of Roussillon, France.

roust (rōōst), n. [Of Scand. orig.; cf. ON. röst.] A strong tide or current, esp. in a narrow channel. Chiefly Dial. Eng.

roust (roust; rōōst), v. t. [From ROUSE, v.] To rouse; stir; rout out. Colloq. & Dial. — (pron. roust), v. i. To move or act with energy or briskly. Colloq.

roust (roust; rōōst), n. [ON. raust.] Roaring; bellowing; tumult. Scot. — v. i. To roar; bellow. Scot.

roust (roust; rōōst), adj. Rousting.

roust'a·bout' (roust'ä·bout'), n. [From ROUST, v.; cf. dial. rouse-about a rough, bustling person.] 1. A wharf laborer or deck hand, esp. on a river steamboat, who moves, loads, and unloads cargo, and the like; in mines, oil fields, etc., a general laborer; in an opprobrious sense, a shiftless vagrant who lives by chance jobs. U. S.
2. A rouseabout. Australia.
3. On ranches in the western United States, a general handy man.
— roust'a·bout', adj.

roust'a·bout', v. i. To work as a roustabout; to do odd jobs or act as handy man.

roust'ing (roust'ĭng; rōōst'ĭng), verbal n. A stirring up and about; an awakening to activity; specif., Thieves' Cant, a jostling of a person for the purpose of robbing him.

rout (rout), v. i. [AS. hrūtan.] To snore loudly; hence, to slumber. Wycliffe.

rout (rout; rōōt), v. i.; ROUT'ED; ROUT'ING. [ON. raута.] Obs. exc. Dial. To roar; bellow; low; bray; snort. — v. t. To roar out; shout out.

rout (rout), n. A bellowing; a shouting; noise; clamor; uproar; tumult. Shak.

This new book the whole world makes such a rout about. Sterne.

The minster bell tolls out Above the city's rout. Thackeray.

rout (rout), v. [Var. of 1st ROOT.] Intransitive: To root, search, or rummage, as a swine in the ground; to root. Edwards.

—, Transitive: 1. To root up; as, swine routed the corn.
2. To scoop out with a gouge or other tool; to furrow; specif., Print., Engraving, etc., to scoop out or cut away (blank parts of an engraving, electrotype, or the like) with a tool or machine. Cf. ROUTER, n. d.
3. Mach. To remove (metal, wood, or the like) with a gouge, or other hand-operated cutting tool, as with a milling cutter fed and guided by hand.

rout out. a To turn up to view; to discover. b Colloq. To turn out by force or compulsion; as, to rout one out of bed.

rout, n. Act or process of routing something up or out; a rummaging around after something.

rout, v. i. [OF. router. See ROUT troop.] To assemble; to collect in company. Obs.

rout (rout), n. [OF. route a throng, troop, defeat, fr. VL. rupta, fr. rumpere, ruptum, to disperse a crowd, send men apart, prop., to break. See RUPTURE, REAVE; cf. ROUTE, 1st RUTTER.] 1. A troop; throng; company; assembly; esp., a moving company or throng of persons. Obs.
2. A disorderly and tumultuous crowd; a mob; hence, the rabble; the herd of common people. Milton.

The endless routs of wretched thralls. Spenser.

3. A retinue; band of followers or retainers.
4. State of being disorganized and thrown into confused flight or retreat; — said esp. of an army put to flight in disorder or panic; also, the act of defeating and breaking up an army; total defeat or repulse; as, the rout of political opponents; in the battle of the Marne the Germans suffered a defeat, but not a rout.
5. Law. A disturbance of the peace by persons assembled together with intent to do a thing and actually making a motion toward the execution of that thing, which, if executed, would make them rioters. Hawkins's Pleas of the Crown.
6. Hence, disturbance; fuss; trouble; ado.
7. A fashionable assembly; a drum; esp., a large evening party. Archaic. "At routs and dances." Landor.

rout (rout), v.; ROUT'ED; ROUT'ING. Transitive: To break the ranks of, as troops, and put them to flight in disorder; to put to rout; to defeat or repulse utterly.

—, Intransitive: 1. To give way in disorderly flight; to be routed.
2. To act in a boisterous and disorderly manner; to disturb the peace; to riot. Obs.

Syn. — Defeat, discomfit, overpower, overthrow, vanquish.

rout, n. & v. t. Knock; strike; beat. Obs. exc. Dial.

rout, v. i. [AS. hrūtan.] To rush; to dart. Obs.

rout, n. [Of Scand. origin, cf. Icel. hrota. See ROTCHE.] The brant.

rout. Var. of ROUTE.

rout cake (rout). A small, fancy cake made for routs, or parties.

rout chair. = ROUT SEAT.

route (rōōt; 277: see note below), n. [OF. (& F.) route, fr. L. rupta (sc. via), fr. ruptus, past part. of rumpere to break; hence, lit., a broken or beaten way or path. See ROUT troop; cf. ROUTINE, RUT a track, 2d RUTTER.] 1. The course or way which is or is to be traveled or passed; a course; road; path; march.

Wide through the furzy field their route they take. Gay.

2. A trodden or usual way; hence, a routine. Rare.
3. Mil. An order (no longer used in the United States Army) for troops to march from one place to another, esp. that part of the order which indicates the location of headquarters for each evening.
4. Med. The path in, or part of, the body through which a remedy is administered; as, the alimentary or subcutaneous route.

☞ Rōōt is now the generally accepted pronunciation, but in certain special cases rout (ou in out) prevails, as in military use, among railroad men, and, colloquially, of a delivery route.

— to go the route. To continue to the very end, as of a race or game.

route (rōōt; 277: see note under ROUTE, n.), v. t.; ROUT'ED (rōōt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); ROUT'ING. 1. To send, forward, or transport, by a certain route; as, the troops were routed to Chicago via Albany; to send along a circuit, series of stations, or the like; as, to route films over a chain of motion picture houses.
2. To prearrange and direct the order and course of procedure of (a series of operations, processes, transactions, etc.) in a factory or industrial or commercial organization; to send (material, documents, etc.) through a course of procedure.
— rout'er (rōōt'ĕr), n.

route (rout). Var. of ROUT, a troop; ROUT, bellow.

route army. A mobile army; an army prepared for, or actually on, the march.

route march. Mil. A march executed, as at a distance from the enemy, in a manner to conserve the comfort of the men, who are not required to keep step, maintain silence, or hold their arms in any one position, although the ranks preserve their formation and distance. — route'-march', v. i.

route marker. A highway marker.

route order. Mil. The order in which a route march is made.

rout'er (rōōt'ĕr; see ROUTE, n.), n. One who routes persons or things.

rout'er (rout'ĕr), n. One that routs, or scoops out; any of various devices or machines for routing; as: a A plane resembling a spokeshave, for working the inside edges of circular sashes, etc. b A routing plane. See 4th PLANE, 2. c The lip on a centerbit or a similar bit, that cuts within the radius of the nicker. d Mach. A machine with a rapidly revolving vertical spindle and cutter for milling out the surface of wood or metal, as for blanks on an electrotype, line engraving, or other printing plate.

rout'er, v. t. To cut out with a router; to rout.

route step. Mil. The order or manner in which a route march is made; also, the command at which such order is taken.

routh (rōōth; routh), n. [Origin obscure.] Plenty; abundance. Chiefly Scot.

routh, adj. Also routh'y (-ĭ). Plentiful; abundant; also, having plenty. Chiefly Scot.

routh (rōth; rōōth). Var. of ROWTH, rowing.

routh'er·cock' (rōōth'ĕr·kŏk'; routh'-), n. [See ROUT brant.] Barnacle goose. Eng.

‖rou'tier' (rōō'tyā'), n.; pl. -TIERS (-tyā'). [OF., fr. route a band, troop. See ROUT troop.] One of a class of brigands or adventurers employed by the early French kings in their struggles with the feudal lords; hence, any wandering robber or plunderer; a free lance.

rou'ti·nar'y (rōō'tĭ·nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nĕr·ĭ), adj. Involving, or pertaining to, routine; ordinary; customary. Rare.

rou·tine' (rōō·tēn'; 66), n. [F., fr. route a path, way, road. See ROUTE.] 1. A round, as of business, amusement, or occupation, daily or frequently pursued; esp., a regular or customary course of business or official duties.
2. Any regular course of action or procedure adhered to through force of habit.

rou·tine', adj. Of the nature of routine; performed, or occurring, regularly. — rou·tine'ly, adv.

rou·tine', v. t. To assign or dispose of according to routine.

rou'ti·neer' (rōō'tĭ·nēr'), n. One who follows routine. Rare.

routine order. Mil. An order relating to military matters which continue irrespective of combat.

rou·tin'ism (rōō·tēn'ĭz'm), n. Adherence to routine; the practice of doing things with undiscriminating, mechanical regularity. — rou·tin'ist (-ĭst), adj. — rou·tin'ist (-ĭst), n.

rou·tin'ize (-īz), v. t. To perform in a routine manner; also, to organize so that work can be done in a routine manner. — rou·tin'i·za'tion (rōō·tēn'ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.

rou'ti·va'rite (rōō'tĭ·vä'rīt), n. [From Routivara, Swedish Lapland.] Petrog. A fine-grained igneous rock of parallel texture, composed of plagioclase, olivine, magnetite, a little orthoclase, and garnet. It is related to olivine-gabbro.

rout'ous (rout'ŭs), adj. Uproarious; noisy. Archaic.

rout'ous·ly (rout'ŭs·lĭ), adv. Law. With that violation of law called a rout. See 7th ROUT, 5.

rout seat. A kind of light chair supplied by caterers for a rout, or fashionable assembly. Eng.

rou·vil'lite (rōō·vĭl'ĭt), n. [From Rouville Co., Quebec, Canada.] Petrog. A leucocratic nephelite-gabbro composed of a granular aggregate of labradorite, nephelite, titanaugite, and apatite.

‖roux (rōō), n. [F. beurre roux brown butter.] A cooked mixture of flour and butter used to thicken soup and sauces. Brown roux differs from white roux only in the toasting of the flour.

rove (rōv), v. t.; ROVED (rōvd); ROV'ING (rōv'ĭng). [Prob. from or akin to reeve.] 1. To draw through an eye or similar aperture.
2. To draw out into flakes; to card, as wool. Jamieson.
3. Textiles. To draw out and twist slightly, as slivers of wool or cotton, before spinning.

rove, n. [See 1st ROVE.] Textiles. A roll or sliver of wool, cotton, silk, etc., drawn out and slightly twisted; a roving; — also collective.

rove (rōv), n. [Var. of ROOVE.] A copper washer upon which the end of a nail is clinched in boat building.

rove, v. [Prob. fr. MF. rouer to roam, ramble, prowl (fr. L. rotare; see ROTATE), but coalescing with rove to practice piracy, fr. rover, or fr. MD. rōven, D. rooven, to rob (see ROVER).] Intransitive: 1. In archery, to shoot at rovers; hence, Obs., to speak at random; to conjecture.
2. Hence, to wander; to ramble; to range; to go, move, or pass, without certain direction, in any manner, as by sailing, walking, riding, flying, or otherwise.
3. To practice robbery, esp. on the seas; to wander on the seas in piracy. Obs. Hakluyt.

—, Transitive: 1. To shoot (an arrow) at a casual target.
2. To wander over or through.
3. To pierce, as with arrows or a sword. Obs.
4. To plow into ridges by turning two furrows together.
5. To turn (stone or the like).

Syn. — Roam, stroll. See RAMBLE.

---

round'tree', n. = MOUNTAIN ASH b (1). roun'dure, n. [See RONDURE.] Roundness; a circle. Obs.

round'wise', adj. See -WISE.

round'wood', n. = MOUNTAIN ASH b (1). Local, U. S. roun'er, n. [From ROUN to whisper.] A whisperer. Obs.

rounge, v. t. & i. [OF. roungier (F. ronger).] To gnaw. Obs.

roun'spik, n. = RAMPIKE. Obs.

roun'tree' (rōn'trē'). Obs. or Scot. var. of ROWAN TREE.

roupie. † RUPEE.

roup'i·ly, adv. of ROUPY.

Rou·sa'li·a. Var. of ROSALIA.

roust. † ROOST, RUST.

roust'er (rous'tĕr), n. = ROUSTABOUT, 1.

routh'y, routh'ie (rōōth'ĭ; routh'ĭ), adj. = ROUTH, plentiful. Scot. & N. of Eng. — routh'i·ness, n.

rout'ing (rōōt'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of ROUT, to scoop out.

routing plane. Joinery. See 4th PLANE, 2.

rove (rōv), n. 1. Act of roving or wandering; a ramble.
In thy nocturnal rove one moment halt. Young.
2. Act or process of plowing into ridges by turning the earth of two furrows together. Dial. Eng.
rove. Obs. var. of ROOF. rove (rōv). Early & dial. past tense & dial. past part. of RIVE. rove, past tense & past part. of REEVE. rove (rōv), n. = ARROBA. Obs.
rove beetle. Any of numerous beetles constituting the family Staphylinidae, having a long body, but very short wing covers, beneath which the wings are folded transversely. They often occur on decaying animal and vegetable matter, and can run swiftly. Many species are predatory and the larvae of some are parasitic.

Rove Beetle (Staphylinus). Nat. size.

rov'er (rōv'ĕr), n. One who runs a roving machine; also, the machine.
rov'er (rōv'ĕr), n. [ME. rovere, fr. MD. rōver robber, fr. rōven (D. rooven) to rob; akin to E. reave. In sense 2, and partly in 3, fr. rove to shoot at random, wander. See REAVE; cf. ROBBER, 4th ROVE.] 1. One who practices robbery, esp. on the seas; a pirate; also, a pirate ship.
2. a In archery, a casual mark at an uncertain distance. b One of a series of fixed marks at long range. c A strong arrow used in shooting at rovers. d An archer shooting at rovers.
3. One who wanders about by sea or land; a wanderer; a rambler; a vagrant.
4. Hence, a fickle, inconstant person.
5. A division of the Boy Scout organization including boys over 17 years old; also, a boy of this group.
6. Arch. A molding or the like which follows a curve.
7. Also rover ball. Croquet. A ball which has passed through all the arches and which would go out if it hit the stake, but is continued in play; also, the player of such a ball.
— at rovers. At casual marks; hence, at random; as, shooting at rovers. See def. 2 a, above. Addison.
Bound down on every side with many bands because it shall not run at rovers. Robinson (More's Utopia).
‖ro·ve'scio (rō·vĕsh'ō), adj. [It., reverse.] Reversed; specif., Music, see A ROVESCIO. ro·vet' (rō·vĕt'), ro·vet'to (rō·vĕt'ō), n. [rovetto, Italianized form of Sicilian ruvettu raspberry, bramble, whence NL. ruvettus escolar.] The escolar. rov'ing (rōv'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of (either) ROVE. Specif.: n. 1. [See 1st & 2d ROVE.] The operation of forming the rove, or slightly twisted sliver or roll of wool or cotton, flax, or similar fiber, by means of a machine for the purpose, called a roving frame or machine; also, a rove.
2. [See 4th ROVE.] Act of one who roves, or wanders.
3. Act or practice of one who shoots at rovers.
rov'ing (rōv'ĭng), part. adj. That roves. — rov'ing·ly (rōv'ĭng·lĭ), adv. — rov'ing·ness, n. roving Charley. = GROUND IVY a. roving commission. A commission, as to the commander of a privateer, allowing wide latitude as to function and scope of operations.
roving head. Worsted Mfg. A kind of roving frame roving mark. Archery. = 2d ROVER, 2 a. roving plate. An iron or steel scraper for truing up a grindstone.
roving reel. A device consisting of a drum, turned by a crank, a small presser roller, and an indicating dial, used for measuring the length of rovings, etc.

Roving Reel.

row (rou), n. [Prob. fr. rouse, n., taken as a pl.] A noisy or turbulent quarrel; a brawl; fuss. Colloq.
row, v. i.; ROWED (roud); ROW'ING. To pick or have a row with; to scold or abuse noisily. Colloq. — v. t. To engage in a row; to be abusive or quarrelsome; as, he was always rowing. Colloq.
Maybe when we all get to rowing, it's just as much my fault as it is theirs. Sinclair Lewis. row (rō), v.; ROWED (rōd); ROW'ING. [AS. rōwan; akin to D. roeijen, MHG. rüejen, Dan. & Sw. ro, ON. rōa, G. ruder oar, OIr. rāme, L. remus, & Gr. eretmon, Skr. aritra. Cf. RUDDER, TRIREME.] Transitive: 1. To propel with oars along the surface of water; as, to row a boat.
2. To convey, propel, or transport, as a person, in, or as if in, a boat propelled with oars.
3. To be equipped with (a stated number of oars) for rowing; as, each boat rowed eight oars.
4. To use (an oar or oars) as a contestant in a rowing race; as, to row stroke oar in the shell; also, to match rowing strength and skill against (a contestant); as, Yale rows Harvard on the Thames.
—, Intransitive: 1. To use an oar or oars in rowing a boat.
2. To be moved by oars; as, the boat rows easily.
3. To meet a contestant in a rowing contest; as, Oxford rows against Cambridge in the spring; also, to be a member of a racing crew; as, he rowed in the eight against Princeton.
4. To paddle its way as with oars, as a duck or swan. row against the tide (stream, wind, etc.). To struggle against difficulties. row down. To overtake, as another racing shell, in a rowing race. row dry. a Colloq., Eng. To row without splashing. b To go through the motion of rowing in a boat not in the water, as for punishment, exercise, etc.
row wet. To splash in rowing. Colloq.
row, n. Act of rowing; an excursion in a rowboat. row (rō), n. [ME. rowe, rawe, rewe, fr. AS. rāw, rǣw; akin to D. rij, G. reihe, Skr. rekhā a line, stroke.] 1. A series of persons or things arranged in a continued line; a line; catalogue; list; rank; file, etc.; as, a row of trees or houses; a row of seats in a theater.
2. A straight line; specif., a line of writing. Obs. "The first row of the pious chanson." Shak.
3. A line of plants, shrubs, or the like; as, rows of corn.
4. A line of houses, connected or close together, constituting an architectural whole, or a division of a street, or a short street; as, Rochester Row, London.
5. A passage. Obs., exc. in the Rows, of Chester, England. These are passageways or galleries along the fronts of lines of houses, over the ground floor. They make the first upper story available for shops and are reached from the street by stairs.
6. Math. = RANGE, n., 18 a.
7. Philol. = SERIES, 12.
— a hard, long, difficult, stiff, etc., row to hoe. A difficult, or lengthy, task to perform. — in a row. In a line; in a series. — to hoe one's own row. To tend to one's own business. — the Row. = ROTTEN ROW.
row (rō), v. t. To arrange or place in a row or line; to mark, or the like, with a row or rows of something; as, a field rowed with ditches; rowed poplars by the roadside.
row (rou), v. t. To raise the nap of (cloth). Dial. Eng.
-row (-rō). A combining form of the noun row, a series, a line, as in:

beadrow	crossrow	king row
checkrow	hedgerow	windrow

row (rou). Var. of ROUGH. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
row (rou). Var. of RAW. Scot. & N. of Eng.
row'a·ble (rō'ȧ·b'l), adj. That may be rowed, or rowed on.
row'an (rō'ăn; rou'ăn), n. a The rowan tree. b A rowanberry. —row'an, adj.
row'an (rou'ăn), n. [For rowing roving, fr. row, dial. var. of ROUGH.] A rove, or roving, of wool, cotton, flax, or the like. Scot. row'an·ber'ry (rō'ăn·bĕr'ĭ; rou'ăn-), n.; pl. -RIES (-ĭz). The fruit of the rowan tree.
Row'an pre'mi·um sys'tem (rō'ăn). See PREMIUM SYSTEM. row'an tree (rō'ăn; rou'ăn). [Of Scand. origin; cf. Nor. raun, rogn, Dan. rān, ON. reynir; akin to E. RED.] a A Eurasian tree (Sorbus aucuparia) with pinnate leaves, and flat corymbs of small white flowers followed by red berrylike pomes. b Either of the related American trees S. americana and S. decora, usually called mountain ash.
row'-barge' (rō'bärj'), n. A man-of-war's barge or a passenger boat propelled by oars. Obs. exc. Hist.
row'boat' (rō'bōt'), n. A boat designed to be rowed. row crop. A crop usually planted in rows. — row'-crop', adj.
row culture (rō). Agric. Cultivation of crops in rows or drills. row'dy (rou'dĭ), n.; pl. -DIES (-dĭz). [Cf. ROW a brawl, ROWDYDOW.] One who engages in rows, or noisy quarrels, or in rough behavior; a ruffianly fellow; a rough.
row'dy, adj.; ROW'DI·ER (-dĭ·ĕr); ROW'DI·EST. 1. Characteristic of, or of the nature of, a rowdy; rowdyish; as, rowdy behavior.
2. Tricky; vicious; obstinate; — said of cattle and horses. Australia.
— row'di·ly, adv. — row'di·ness, n. row'dy, v. i. To act in a rowdy manner; to be noisy and rough. row'dy·dow' (-dou'), n. [Cf. ROWDY.] Hubbub; rumpus. Colloq. — row'dy·dow', adj. Colloq.
row'dy·dow'dy (-dou'dĭ; 66), adj. Uproarious; boisterous; Colloq.
row'dy·ish, adj. Resembling a rowdy in temper or conduct; characteristic of a rowdy; noisy and rough. — row'dy·ish·ly, adv. — row'dy·ish·ness, n.
row'dy·ism (-ĭz'm), n. The conduct of a rowdy; vulgar disorder, or vulgarly offensive conduct.
rowed (rōd), adj. Formed into, or having, a row or rows; as, a six-rowed ear of corn. Also, having lines; striped.
rowed of all. Naut. An order to stop rowing. row'el (rou'ĕl), n. [OF. roele, rouele, prop., a little wheel (F. rouelle collop, slice), fr. (LL. &) ML. rotella little wheel, dim. fr. L. rota. See ROLL; cf. 1st ROTA.] 1. A little wheel or circle. Obs.
2. A little wheel on some spurs, having a number of radiating sharp points. "Rowels dyed in blood." Cowper.
3. A little flat ring on old-time bits for horses.
The iron rowels into frothy foam he bit. Spenser.
4. Something resembling a spur rowel, as in shape, purpose, etc.; as, a rowel, or wheel-shaped candelabrum, in a church; a rowel of twigs or branches of a tree; specif., a spiked wheel in a kind of soil pulverizer.
5. Veter. A roll of hair, silk, etc., passed through the flesh of horses, answering to a seton in human surgery.
row'el (rou'ĕl), v. t.; ROW'ELED (-ĕld) or ROW'ELLED; ROW'EL·ING or ROW'EL·LING. 1. To spur, esp. with a rowel.
2. To furnish with a rowel; as, a roweled spur.
3. Veter. To insert a rowel, or roll of hair or silk, into (as the flesh of a horse). Mortimer.
row'el·head' (-hĕd'), n. The axis on which a rowel turns. row'en (rou'ĕn), n. [From ONF. noun corresponding to OF. regain, fr. rewaïmer, regaïmer, v., fr. gaïn rowen, harvest. Cf. GAIN to acquire.] a A stubble field left unplowed till late in the autumn, to be grazed by cattle. b A second-growth crop; aftermath. row'en. Var. of ROWAN. Scot. & N. of Eng.
Row·e'na (rō·ē'nȧ), n. 1. In British legend, the daughter of Hengist and wife of Vortigern.
2. A beautiful and noble Saxon lady of royal descent, ward of Cedric in Scott's Ivanhoe. See REBECCA, 3.
3. Feminine proper name.
row'er (rou'ĕr), n. One who rows, or engages in noisy disturbances. row'er (rō'ĕr), n. One who rows with an oar. row'er (rou'ĕr), n. [From row to nap, fr. row rough.] One who naps cloth by hand. Hist. row'et (rō'ĕt; -ĭt), n. [F. rouet.] Also rowet work. The lock of a musket or pistol. Obs. exc. Hist.
row'et (rō'ĕt; -ĭt), n. = 1st ROWEN. — row'et·y (-ĕ·tĭ; -ĭ·tĭ), adj. Both Dial. Eng.
row galley. A galley propelled only by rowing. Hist.
row'i·ness (rō'ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Quality or state of being rowy. row'ing (rō'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of ROW. Specif.: n. The practice or sport of rowing a boat, shell, or the like.
row'ing, part. adj. That rows, or is adapted for being rowed. rowing machine. A gymnasium device for exercising the muscles in a manner similar to rowing in a boat.
Row'land (rō'lănd; rou'-), n. Masc. proper name. See ROLAND, 1.
Rowland, Childe (rō'lănd). See CHILDE ROWLAND. row'land·ite (rō'lănd·ĭt), n. [After Henry A. Rowland, Am. physicist.] A massive grayish-green yttrium silicate.
Row'latt Acts (rou'lăt). [After Justice Rowlatt.] Two acts passed by the Indian Legislative Assembly (Jan. 1919) giving the government emergency powers to deal with revolutionary crimes and conspiracies. row'let (rou'lĕt; -ĭt), n. [Dim. fr. OF. roele, prop., a little wheel.] A little roller. Rare.
Row'ley, Thomas (rō'lĭ). A fictitious priest of Bristol, pretended by Chatterton to have lived in the 15th century, and to have written several remarkable poems, of which Chatterton himself was really the author. Hence, Row'lei·an, Row'ley·an (rō'lĭ·ăn), of a pseudo-archaic diction.
row'lock (rō'lŏk; rŭl'ŭk), n. [For earlier oarlock. See 3d ROW; LOCK, n. Cf. OARLOCK.] 1. Naut. A contrivance or arrangement serving as a support for an oar in rowing. It may consist of a notch in the gunwale, of a pair of pins called tholepins, of a metal fork or stirrup pivoted in the gunwale or on an outrigger and supporting the oar, or of a single pin passing through a hole in the oar or having the oar attached to it, as commonly by a grommet.

Various forms of Rowlocks.

2. Arch. A ring in a rowlock arch.
3. Building. A course of brick laid on edge with the ends exposed.
row'lock, or rol'lock (rŏl'ŭk), arch. An arch in which the voussoirs are arranged in separate concentric rings, each ring forming an arch.
rowlock, or rollock, wall. Masonry. A hollow wall made of brick on edge placed as headers and stretchers in Flemish bond.
row'-off', n. A race rowed to establish a winner among oarsmen or crews who have previously rowed a dead heat. row'port' (rō'pōrt'; 181), n. Naut. An opening in the side of small vessels, near the water, for a sweep for rowing in calm weather. row'ty (rou'tĭ), adj. Inclined to stir up trouble; quarrelsome. Local, U. S. row'ty (rou'tĭ), adj. Coarse; rank; rowety; — said of grass. Scot. & N. of Eng.
row'y (rō'ĭ), adj. Having rows, lines, or stripes; streaked; streaky; — used chiefly of cloth with thin places extending across the piece.
rox (rŏks), v. i. To decay; rot. Dial. Eng.
Rox·an'a (rŏks·ăn'ȧ; -ā'nȧ), n. [L. Roxane, fr. Gr. Rhōxanē, of Per. origin; cf. Av. raoxshna brilliant.] Fem. proper name. F. Roxane (rŏk'sàn'). — Dim. Roxy (rŏk'sĭ).
Rox·an'a and Sta·ti'ra (stȧ·tī'rȧ). The rival queens in Nathaniel Lee's tragedy of that name. In history, Roxana was wife of Alexander the Great; Statira, of Darius, King of Persia. In the play both were wives of Alexander, and Roxana stabs Statira.
Rox'bur'y (rŏks'bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr·ĭ), n. Also Roxbury Russet. [From Roxbury, Mass.] Hort. An American variety of apple, golden russet in color and famed for its good keeping quality.
Rox'o·la'ni (rŏk'sō·lā'nī), n. pl. [L.] A Sarmatian people of ancient times, dwelling north of the Black Sea, sometimes preying upon the Roman provinces, sometimes serving as Roman auxiliaries. rox'y (rŏk'sĭ), adj. Decayed; softened. Dial. Eng.
Rox'y (rŏk'sĭ). Dim. of ROXANA.
Roy (roi), n. [OF. roy (F. roi) king.] Masc. proper name.
roy, n. [F. roi.] A king. Obs.
roy'al (roi'ăl; formerly, & still dial., rī'ăl; cf. PAIRIAL, etc.), adj. [ME. roial, riall, fr. OF. roial, reial (F. royal), fr. L. regalis, fr. rex, regis, king. See RICH; cf. REAL a coin, REGAL, RIAL.] 1. Kingly; of or pertaining to the crown or the king or sovereign; belonging to the royal prerogative; regal; as, royal power; a royal stag; royal family; also, of or pertaining to the government of a kingdom; as, the royal army and navy.
2. Under the patronage of royalty; holding a charter granted by the sovereign; hence, broadly, belonging to, or devoted to, the service of the sovereign; as, the royal forest.
☞ The word royal (often cap.) is used in many phrases with this general sense, as in:

Royal Albert Hall	Royal Indian Navy
Royal Army Ordnance Corps	Royal Irish Constabulary
Royal Army Service Corps	Royal Marines
Royal Botanical Gardens	Royal Military Academy
Royal College of Art	Royal Military College
Royal College of Music	Royal Mint
Royal College of Physicians	Royal National Hospital
Royal College of Science	Royal Naval Air Service
Royal College of Surgeons	Royal Naval College
Royal Court of Justice	Royal Naval Reserves
Royal Engineers	Royal Navy
Royal Eye Hospital	Royal Society of Arts
Royal Geographical Society	Royal United Service Institution
royal guard
Royal Humane Society	Royal Yacht Squadron
Royal Indian Marine

3. Characteristic of or befitting a king; magnificent; princely; splendid; majestic; munificent; as, royal state or splendor; royal hospitality; royal companions.
How doth that royal merchant, good Antonio? Shak.
4. Very large, excellent, or the like, of its kind.
5. Chem. Noble; as, royal gases; royal metals.
Syn. — See KINGLY.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

royal-born	royal-rich	royal-spirited royal-chartered	royal-souled	royal-towered royal-hearted

roy'al (roi'ăl), n. 1. A royal person; a member of the royal family.
2. a A former English coin. See ROYAL a. b See PAVILION, n., 3 b. c A real. Cf. REAL.
3. The tres-tine of a deer's antler.
4. A stag of eight years or more having antlers with at least twelve points, that is, rights and three points at the top of each horn.
5. A size of paper, originally bearing as a watermark the royal crest, a fleur-de-lis, of France. See PAPER, Table.
6. Change ringing on ten bells. See CHANGE RINGING.
7. Any of the colors royal blue.
8. Auction Bridge. A royal spade. Now Rare.
9. Naut. A small sail on the royal mast immediately above the topgallant sail. It is the highest sail usually carried on a square-rigged vessel, though there may be light sails, as skysails, above it. See SAIL, Illust.
10. Ordn. A small mortar. Obs. exc. Hist.
— the Royals. Mil. The first regiment of foot of the British Army, formerly so called; later called the Royal Scots, and at present the Lothian Regiment.

---

row. ✝ ROE, spawn; Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of ROLL. [DOW.] row'-de-dow'. Var. of ROWDY-row'dy-proof' (66). See -PROOF. row'eld. Roweled. Ref. Sp. row'ey. Var. of ROWY.
row graves (rō grāvz). = REHENGRÄBER. rowk. Var. of ROKE, vapor.
Row'ley proc'ess (rou'lĭ). See WHITE LEAD a. rowl'y-powl'y (rōl'ĭ·pōl'ĭ). Scot., Ir., & dial. Eng. var. of ROLY-POLY. rowm. Var. of ROOM. Scot. rown. Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of ROWAN. [var. of RAUN. rown (rōn). Obs. exc. dial. Eng. rowp (roup). Scot. var. of ROUP. rows (rōz), n. pl. See 2d ROUGH, 3 a. rowse. ✝ ROUSE.
rowt. Var. of ROUT, to roar, noise. rowte (rout). Scot. var. of ROUT, to roar, noise. rowth. Var. of ROUTH.
Rox'ane' (rŏk'sān'), n. [F.] See CYRANO DE BERGERAC.
Rox'burgh (rŏks'bŭr·ō; Brit. -bŭ·rȧ, -brŭ), adj. See BOOKBINDING, Table.
Rox'burgh·i·a'ce·æ (rŏks'bŭr·gĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of STEMONACEÆ.
Roxbury waxwork. = BITTERSWEET, 3 b.

royal abbey. An abbey which was under the jurisdiction of the king.

Royal Academy, or, in full, Royal Academy of Arts. Eng. An institution established in 1768 by George III for the improvement and encouragement of painting, sculpture, and architecture. Its first president was Sir Joshua Reynolds; it has about 40 members and 30 associates. Abbr. R.A.

royal agaric. Bot. A widely distributed mushroom (Amanita caesarea) with a smooth, deep-orange pileus, yellow gills, a large membranaceous annulus, and a white volva which covers the whole plant when young. It is edible, but resembles somewhat the poisonous fly agaric.

Royal Air Force. Brit. An organization for defense in the air, formed in April, 1918, by amalgamation of the Royal Naval Air Service and the Royal Flying Corps. It is represented in the government by the Air Ministry, formed in January, 1918. The control of the Royal Air Force is vested in an Air Council, presided over by the Secretary of State for Air (Air Minister).

Royal Ann. = 2d NAPOLEON, 6.

royal antelope. A tiny West African antelope (Neotragus pygmaeus), one of the smallest of ruminants, standing only 12 inches high at the shoulder. The male has short spikelike horns and is bright russet above and white below.

Royal Antelope. (1/16)

royal antler. See ANTLER.

Royal Arcanum. A large fraternal and beneficiary society founded in Boston, 1877. Provision of insurance for its members is its chief object. See FRATERNAL EMBLEMS, Plate.

royal arch. Also Royal Arch. Masonry. In the United States, the seventh degree in the York rite. In England, a fourth degree considered as the perfection of the third. — Royal Arch Mason. — Royal Arch Masonry.

royal artillery. See ROYAL REGIMENT OF ARTILLERY.

royal assent. Eng. Parliamentary Law. The official, but purely formal, approval of the king necessary to the passage of all parliamentary acts. Ordinary bills are assented to by the formula le roi (roy) le veult (which see).

royal bay. The laurel Laurus nobilis. See 1st LAUREL, 1 a.

royal blue. a A color, reddish-blue in hue, of very high saturation and low brilliance; — called also Hathor. Cf. COLOR. b The color smalt. c The color Prussian blue. — roy'al-blue' (66), adj.

Royal Bokhara. See BOKHARA, 2.

royal bracken or brake. The royal fern.

royal burgh. See BURGH, n.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police. See NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE.

royal cashmere. A fine, light, woolen fabric.

royal cassino. A variation of cassino in which jacks are worth 11, queens 12, and kings 13, and may be used to take in smaller cards, a 9 and 2 being taken by a jack, or jack and 2 by a king.

royal coachman. [After Tom Bosworth, noted fisherman and coachman to George IV, William IV, and Queen Victoria.] An artificial fly with white wings, peacock-herl body with red band, brown hackle, and gold tag. Cf. COACHMAN, n., 4.

royal colony. A colony governed directly by the crown through a governor and council appointed by it. Originally some, and ultimately most, of the American colonies of Great Britain that became the United States were royal colonies. Cf. CHARTER COLONY, PROPRIETARY COLONY.

royal color. Mil. In the British Army, one of the two flags carried by a regiment, usually the union jack, but in the Foot Guards a crimson flag with royal and regimental devices.

royal crown. A South African bulbous plant (Eucomis undulata), family Liliaceae, bearing a rosette of basal leaves and a leafy-topped scape with greenish flowers.

royal demesne, domain. = CROWN LAND a. royal door. In a Greek church, one of the doors leading from the narthex into the church, esp. the center one of these doors.

ro'yal' d'or' (rwä'yäl' dôr'). [F.] = PAVILION, n., 3 b.

Royal Dresden china or ware. A superior grade of Dresden china. See DRESDEN CHINA.

royal duke. See DUKE, n., 4.

roy-ale' (roi-äl'), n. [F.] A kind of fine grosgrain.

royal eagle. The golden eagle.

roy'al-et (roi'äl-ĕt; -ĭt), n. A petty or powerless king. Rare.

Royal Exchange. The building in London devoted to the exchange business. The original Royal Exchange was built by Sir T. Gresham in 1566 and so named by Queen Elizabeth, and the name is retained for the present building.

royal fern. A common and widely distributed fern (Osmunda regalis) with large bipinnate fronds bearing the panicled sporophylls at their summit.

royal fish. Eng. Law. Fish in which the crown has special rights. In England, certain fishes (whales, sturgeons, and porpoises), and, as sometimes given, grampuses) which, when taken in territorial waters, belong to the crown or its grantee, though caught by another person. In Scotland, whales of large size. In Scotland salmon fishing in the sea and in public and private rivers, mussel and oyster fishing, except in private rivers, are enjoyable only by the crown or persons deriving title under it.

royal flush. Poker. A straight flush with the ace highest card.

Royal Flying Corps. Brit. An organization formed in 1912 under the administration of the War Office. It was later amalgamated with the Royal Naval Air Service (see ROYAL AIR FORCE).

royal green. 1. Light Brunswick green. See BRUNSWICK GREEN c.
2. Paris green.

royal hart. A red deer with fully developed antlers. See ROYAL, n., 4.

Royal Highlanders, the. See BLACK WATCH.

Royal Highness. a A title used in referring to or addressing the children of the sovereign or of the sovereign's sons in Great Britain. b A person properly referred to, or addressed, as Royal Highness; a prince or princess.

Royal Horse Guards. See HORSE GUARDS, 1.

roy'al-ism (roi'äl-iz'm), n. [Cf. F. royalisme.] The principles or characteristics of monarchical government; adherence to a king or a royal government.

roy'al-ist (roi'äl-ĭst), n. [Cf. F. royaliste.] An adherent of a king, or one attached to monarchical government; specif., [cap.]: a A supporter of Charles I in his struggles with the Puritans and Parliament; a Cavalier. b An adherent of George III or the British government in the American Revolution. c An adherent of the Bourbon dynasty in France during and since the French Revolution.

roy'al-ist, roy'al-is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, royalism or royalists; as, royalist ideas; the royalist army.

roy'al-ize (-īz), v. i. To act the king or sovereign; to have or assume royal power, dignity, or the like. — v. t. To make royal or kingly; hence, to render distinguished or memorable. — roy'al-i-za'tion (-ĭ-zā'shŭn; -ī-zā'-), n.

royal jelly. A special kind of food, derived from the salivary glands, fed by the workers to the larvae of queen bees.

Royal Kalendar. See RED BOOK b.

roy'al-ly, adv. In a royal or kingly manner; like a king; as becomes a king; as, royally entertained.

Royal Marine forces. Formerly the Royal Marine Light Infantry and the Royal Marine Artillery of Great Britain. The duties of these corps are those of marines generally. By an order in council (1923) the two branches were united in one corps of Royal Marines. See MARINE, n., 2 b.

royal marriage. Card Playing. See MARRIAGE, 6.

royal Martyr. Charles I of England, beheaded January 30, 1649.

royal mast. Naut. The mast next above the topgallant mast and usually the highest on a square-rigged vessel. The royal, or royal sail, and the royal yard are carried on it. See 3d MAST, 1; cf. SHIP, Illust.

royal maundy. The alms distributed annually by or on behalf of the sovereign on Maundy Thursday.

royal metal. Gold; — an old name.

royal moth. Any of certain large handsome moths of Citheronia and allied genera, as the regal moth and imperial moth.

royal muscadine. An excellent European grape having large, round, pale amber-colored berries.

Royal Oak. Eng. Hist. a The oak tree at Boscobel, Shropshire, in which Charles II hid in his flight after the battle of Worcester (1651). b A game of lottery, in the 17th century, authorized by royal license to be carried on in various places; — so called by way of imitation of the original Italian name oca di Catalonia, literally, goose of Catalonia.

Royal Oak Day. = OAK-APPLE DAY.

royal octavo. See OCTAVO, n.

royal osmund. The royal fern.

royal packet. A size of paper. See PAPER, Table.

royal palm. a A tall, graceful, pinnate-leaved palm (Roystonea regia) of southern Florida and Cuba, with a whitish trunk often enlarged or swelled out at the base. It is widely planted for ornament throughout the tropical world. b Often, but erroneously, the cabbage palm Roystonea oleracea.

royal palmetto. The cabbage palmetto (Sabal palmetto).

royal peculiar. See PECULIAR, n., 6.

royal pink. A color, red in hue, of high saturation and medium brilliance. It is of lower brilliance than rose madder. Cf. COLOR.

royal poinciana. A gorgeous tropical tree (Delonix regia), originally a native of Madagascar, but widely planted for its immense racemes of scarlet and orange flowers. Its flat woody pods, often two feet long, and its graceful twice-pinnate leaves, are also very striking. Called also peacock flower and flamboyant.

royal prerogative. See PREROGATIVE, n., 4.

Royal Psalmist. King David; — sometimes so called as the reputed author of many of the Psalms.

royal purple. a Originally, a crimson. b Now, usually, a color, bluish blue-red in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance; — called also king's purple, regal purple. Cf. COLOR. — roy'al-pur'ple (66), adj.

royal red. 1. Any of several lakes prepared from eosin by precipitation of eosin upon a base of orange lead, orange lead and barium sulphate, or the like.
2. The color vermilion or a color like it.
— roy'al-red' (66), adj.

royal regiment of artillery. Also royal artillery. Mil. All the artillery forces of Great Britain. There are now two divisions for purposes of seniority and promotion, one including the horse and field artillery, and the other the garrison artillery and mountain batteries.

royal road. A road prepared for royalty; hence, a smooth easy road; figuratively, a way made easy, as a short cut; as, there is no royal road to learning.

royal rock snake. A python (Python regius) of western Africa.

royal sail. Naut. = ROYAL, n., 9.

royal scarlet. The red form of mercury iodide (which see).

Royal Scots. See the Royals, under ROYAL, n.

Royal Society, or, in full, Royal Society of London for the Advancement of Science. A society incorporated under Charles II (1662) to give governmental support to scientific investigations. It awards four medals annually for achievements or publications of scientific merit. Abbr. R.S.

royal spade. Auction Bridge. A spade trump when every trick over six taken by the successful bidder scores 9.

royal standard. An emblem of royal authority, now usually a flag or square banner smaller than the national flag; specif., Gr. Brit., a flag bearing the arms of England quartered with those of Scotland and Ireland, formerly used as a naval flag of command, now only to designate the actual presence of the sovereign in a palace or castle or on board a vessel.

royal stars. The four astrological stars Aldebaran, Antares, Fomalhaut, and Regulus.

royal straight flush. Poker. = ROYAL FLUSH.

royal tennis. Court tennis. See TENNIS.

royal tern. A large tern (Thalasseus maximus) of the southern United States and farther southward. It is white with a black crown and crest and pearl-gray mantle.

royal tiger. The tiger, the hunting of which is a sport fit for kings or princes.

royal touch. The touching of a diseased person by the hand of a king, esp. for healing the king's evil.

roy'al-ty (roi'äl-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. roialté, royauté (F. royauté). See ROYAL; cf. REGALITY.] 1. State or status of being royal; royal station, birth, etc.; kingship.
2. The person of a king; royal person; sometimes, collectively, royal persons; as, in the presence of royalty.
3. An emblem of a person of royal rank; usually, pl., regalia. Obs.
4. Character of or proper to a king; kingliness; regal quality or nature; magnificence; pomp; munificence. "His royalty of nature." Shak.
5. A royal domain, province, or manor; also, royal government, or a political unit having such government.
6. A right, prerogative, due, or perquisite belonging to a king or sovereign; as: a A seigniorage on gold and silver coined at the mint. b (1) Eng. Law. Any of the royal rights constituting the regalia (which see), including various rights in land, such as the right to all gold and silver mines (called royal mines); hence, a percentage paid to the crown of gold or silver taken from mines, or a tax exacted in lieu of such share; an imperialty. (2) Coal Mining. Eng. A tract of coal-mining land, or a portion thereof.
7. Hence: a A share of the product or profit (as of a mine, forest, etc.) reserved by the owner for permitting another to use the property. b A duty or compensation paid to the owner of a patent or a copyright for the use of it or the right to act under it, usually at a certain rate for each article manufactured, used, sold, or the like; also, a percentage, as on output, paid to the owner of an article, esp. a machine, by one who hires the use of it.
8. Scots Law. A territory subject to royal jurisdiction, esp. that of a royal burgh; pl., the bounds of a royal burgh.

Royal Victorian. See ORDER, n., 1.

royal walnut. a The English walnut. b Hort. A hybrid between the black walnuts Juglans nigra and J. californica.

royal water lily. See VICTORIA, n., 8.

Royal Worcester. See WORCESTER CHINA.

royal yard. Naut. See ROYAL MAST.

royal yellow. 1. King's yellow.
2. = LEMON YELLOW, 1 a.
— roy'al-yel'low, adj.

Roy'e·na (roi'ĕ·nä; roi-ē'nä), n. [NL., after Adrian van Royen, Dutch botanist.] Bot. A genus of South African shrubs or trees (family Ebenaceae) distinguished by monoclinous flowers with bell-shaped accrescent calyx and reflexed corolla lobes. R. lucida is the African snowdrop tree.

roy'et (roi'ĕt; -ĭt), adj. [Cf. RIOT.] a Unruly; wild. b Mischievous; romping. — roy'et, n. — roy'et·ness, n. — roy'et·ous, adj. — roy'et·ous·ly, adv. All Scot.

Roys'ton crow (rois'tŭn). [From Royston, Eng.] The hooded crow. Local, Eng.

Roy·sto'ne·a (roi-stō'nē·ȧ), n. [NL.] Bot. A small genus of chiefly West Indian pinnate-leaved palms with smooth, often spindle-shaped, stems, and large, graceful leaves. R. regia is the royal palm; R. oleracea, the cabbage palm. Syn. Oreodoxa.

roz'um (rŏz'ŭm), n. [Cf. E. dial. rozim a quaint saying; prob. of Scand. origin; cf. ON. ras impetuosity, Sw. ras wildness; akin to E. RACE a running.] A person with queer or fantastic ideas. Dial. Eng.

rrh. See RH.

-rrha·chid'i·an (-rȧ·kĭd'ĭ·ăn). A combining form of rachidian, as in brachio*rrhachidian.*

-rrha'chis (-rā'kĭs). [NL.] A combining form from Greek rhachis, the spine, as in haem'a·tor·rha'chis, hy'dror·rha'chis, pneu'mor·rha'chis.

-rrhage (-răj). = -RRHAGIA, as in lymph*orrhage.*

-rrha'gi·a (-rā'jĭ·ȧ). [NL.] Med. A combining form, Greek -rrhagia (see HEMORRHAGE), from rhēgnynai, to burst, used to signify a bursting forth, abnormal or excessive discharge or flow, as in the list below. Derivative adjectives are formed in -rrhag'ic (-răj'ĭk), as in blenno*rrhagic.*

archorrhagia	dermatorrhagia	menorrhagia balanorrhagia	elytrorrhagia	metrorrhagia blennorrhagia	encephalorrhagia	myelorrhagia bronchorrhagia	gastrorrhagia	pneumorrhagia cholerrhagia	hepatorrhagia	splenorrhagia colporrhagia	lochiorrhagia	urethrorrhagia cystorrhagia	lymphorrhagia

-rrhagy. = -RRHAGIA.

-rrhaphy. Surg. A combining form, Greek -rrhaphia, from rhaphē, meaning a sewing, suture, as in:

angiorrhaphy	enterorrhaphy	myorrhaphy autorrhaphy	gastrorrhaphy	neurorrhaphy blepharorrhaphy	hepatorrhaphy	periosteorrhaphy bronchorrhaphy	herniorrhaphy	proctorrhaphy cholecystorrhaphy	hysterorrhaphy	tenorrhaphy colporrhaphy	laparorrhaphy	urethrorrhaphy cystorrhaphy

-rrhe'a, -rrhoe'a (-rē'ȧ). [NL.] Med. A combining form, Greek -rrhoia, from rhein, to flow, denoting flow, discharge, as in:

amenorrhea	dermatorrhea	logorrhea archorrhea	diarrhea	menorrhea blennorrhea	gastrorrhea	ophthalmorrhea bronchorrhea	gonorrhea	otorrhea cholorrhea	graphorrhea	rhinorrhea colporrhea	hepatorrhea	seborrhea cystorrhea	leucorrhea

-rrheu'ma (-rōō'mȧ). = -RHEUMA, as in ac'ror·rheu'ma.

-rrhex'is (-rĕk'sĭs). [NL.] Med. A combining form, Greek -rrhēxis, from rhēxis, a break, meaning rupture, as in:

arteriorrhexis	desmorrhexis	myorrhexis colporrhexis	hepatorrhexis	ovariorrhexis

-rrhin'i·a (-rĭn'ĭ·ȧ). A combining form from Greek rhis, rhinos, the nose, denoting a (specified) nasal condition, as in an'ky·lor·rhin'i·a, blen'nor·rhin'i·a, brach'yrhin'i·a, cac'or·rhin'i·a.

ru'ach (rōō'ăk), n. [Heb. rūaḥ spirit.] Cabalism. The second degree of the soul, the seat of knowledge of good and evil.

ru·an'a (rōō·ăn'ȧ), n. [Prob. fr. Skr. ravaṇa sounding; akin to E. RUNE.] Music. A kind of viol instrument used in India.

rub (rŭb), v.; RUBBED (rŭbd); RUB'BING. [ME. rubben; akin to Fris. rubben, Nor. rubba, and E. REAVE.] Transitive: 1. To subject (a body) to the action of something moving, esp. back and forth, over its surface with pressure and friction; as, to rub the flesh with the hand; to rub wood with sandpaper.
2. To scour, smooth, burnish, polish, or brighten by rubbing; — often with up or off; as, to rub up silver.
The whole business of our redemption is to rub over the defaced copy of the creation. South.
3. To cause (a body) to move with pressure and friction along a surface; as, to rub the hand over the body; rubbing the hands together.
4. To spread a substance thinly over; to smear; as, to rub a salad bowl lightly with garlic.

roy'alme, n. [OF. roialme (F. royaume). See REALM.] Realm. Obs. royd. Var. of ROID. royle, v. i. & t. To roll. Obs. royn'ish, adj. Mangy; scabby; hence, mean; base; coarse. Obs. royn'ous, adj. [AF. roinos (F. rogneux).] Scabby; mangy; scurvy; dirty. Obs. royst'er, royst'er-er, royst'er-ous. Vars. of ROISTER, ROISTERER, ROISTEROUS. royt. Var. of ROYET.
Ro·za'li·a. Var. of ROSALIA. roze. Rose. Ref. Sp.
ro·zelle'. Var. of ROSELLE. roz'et (rŏz'ĭt). Scot. var. of ROSET. roz'et·ty. Var. of ROSETT.
Roz'i·man'ta. Var. of ROSINANTE.
-rrha'phi·a. = -RRHAPHY.
-rrhine, -rrhi'nus, etc. Vars. of -RHINE, -RHINUS, etc.
-rrhi'za. Var. of -RHIZA.
-rrhoe'a. Var. of -RRHEA.
R'-shaped', adj. See -SHAPED.
R star. See SPECTRAL TYPE.
'rt. Contraction of art. Archaic.
R'-type' star. See SPECTRAL TYPE. ru (dial. rōō, rū). Obs. or dial. Eng. var. of RUE, regret.
ru. ✝ ROUGH.
Ru'a (rōō'ȧ), n.; sing. of WARUA. ru'at cae'lum. [L.] Though the heavens fall; let the heavens fall. See FIAT JUSTITIA, etc. ru'ay, n. sing. & pl. [Burmese ruai.] Adenanthera pavonina, and its seed used as a weight. See WEIGHT, Table.

5. To treat or deal with by rubbing in a manner indicated by an accompanying adverb; as, to rub off rust; to rub in a stain; to rub out a mark; to rub down the roughness with pumice stone.

We rub each other's angles down. Tennyson.

6. To start, as a flame, by the friction of rubbing; as, they rubbed fire by turning the end of a hard piece of wood on the side of one that was soft and dry.
7. To take a rubbing of. See RUBBING, n., 2.
8. Figuratively, to subject to mental or moral friction; hence, to check, stimulate, furbish, or the like.

You should rub him on this point, for his recollection becomes rusty the instant I leave town. Scott.

9. To irritate. Slang.
10. Needle Making. To straighten (a wire or needle) by rubbing while hot. See 1st RUBBING, 1.

—, Intransitive: 1. To move along the surface of a body with pressure; to grate; as, a wheel rubs against the gate-post.
2. To fret or chafe with friction; as, to rub upon a sore.
3. To move or pass with friction or difficulty; as, to rub through woods, as huntsmen; to rub through the world.
4. To admit of being rubbed, as for erasing or obliterating; as, pencil writing rubs out easily.
5. To rush; hurry; run; — usually with off. Obs.
6. Bowls. Of a bowl, to come in contact with some impediment on the green.
7. Card Playing. To take all the cards of one suit. Cf. ROB. Obs. Oxf. E. D.

rub down. a To rub from top to bottom or head to foot; specif., to comb or curry; as, to rub down a horse. b To search (a person), as for weapons, by passing the hand over his body.

rub elbows, or shoulders, with. To associate closely with.

rub in. a To apply, as colors, by rubbing. b To harp on, insist on, continue to recall, emphasize, or the like (something unpleasant); as, to rub in a failure by making it public; to rub in a rebuke by repeating it.

rub off. To remove by rubbing; to erase; obliterate.

rub out. To erase; obliterate; hence, Slang, U. S., to kill; wipe out.

rub (one, the fur, etc.) the wrong way. To irritate; to arouse the antagonism, antipathy, or displeasure of; as, his very tones rubbed me the wrong way. Colloq.

rub up. To polish up; figuratively, to renew or revive association with; recall; as, to rub up on Latin and Greek.

rub (rŭb), n. [From RUB, v.] 1. A rubbing; friction with pressure.
2. That which rubs; that which tends to hinder or obstruct action; hindrance; obstruction; impediment.

To sleep, perchance to dream; ay, there's the rub. Shak.

One knows not, certainly, what other rubs might have been ordained for us by a wise Providence. W. Besant.

3. Something grating to the feelings, as a gibe, sarcasm, harsh criticism, or the like; as, a hard rub.
4. An unevenness or inequality of surface, as of the ground in the game of bowls; hence, an unevenness of character; an imperfection; fault; flaw. Shak.
5. A rubstone for sharpening tools. Dial. Eng.
6. Probably, a chance. Obs. Chapman.

rub′-a-dub′ (rŭb′ȧ-dŭb′), n. [Imitative.] The sound of drumbeats; hence, a repeated clamor; a clatter.

The rub-a-dub of the abolition presses. D. Webster.

Ru·bā′i·yāt′ (rōō-bī′yăt′; rōō-bī′yăt; rōō′bĭ-yăt), n. pl. [Ar. rubā′iyāt, pl. of rubā′iyah quatrain, fem. of rubā′i composed of four.] a Stanzas consisting of four hemistichs; quatrains. b The common title of the poem of Omar Khayyam (see Biog.), whose stanzas consist each of four lines. c The translation of this poem by Edward FitzGerald (first published in 1859).

ru·basse′ (rōō-băs′), n. [F. rubace. See RUBY.] A kind of quartz stained a ruby red; — called also Ancona ruby, Mont Blanc ruby.

ru·ba′to (rōō-bä′tō), adj. [It.] Literally, robbed; specif., Music, elastic; fluctuating; — applied to tempo on the theory that time is stolen from certain notes and made up on others in the same phrase. — n. = TEMPO RUBATO. See 2d TEMPO, 1.

rubbed (rŭbd), adj. Worn; abraded; — said of bindings in cataloguing books.

rub′ber (rŭb′ẽr), n. 1. One who or that which rubs; specif., one whose work is rubbing, by hand or machine, to polish, straighten, smooth, render supple, etc.; esp., one who massages, esp. in a Turkish bath.
2. An instrument or thing used in rubbing, polishing, or cleaning, as a towel, a brush, or the like; specif.: a A large coarse file. b A whetstone; a rubstone. c An eraser, esp. one made of rubber (sense 3). d Something that chafes or annoys; hence, something that grates on the feelings; a sarcasm; a rub. e A rough or prepared surface, as on a match box, to ignite matches by friction.
3. [From its earliest European use, the manufacture of erasers.] A substance obtained from the milky juice (rubber latex) of many tropical plants, and usually characterized by its elasticity, though its properties vary widely, depending upon its source and preparation, whether it is in the crude state or whether, and with what, it has been mixed and vulcanized; — called also caoutchouc and India rubber. Perfectly pure rubber is a white unsaturated hydrocarbon (often called the rubber hydrocarbon) having the composition $(C_5H_8)_x$ or $(C_{10}H_{16})_x$. It is yielded by plants belonging chiefly to the families Euphorbiaceae, Moraceae, and Apocynaceae. The principal source of the world's supply of crude rubber is now plantation rubber, from plants (almost entirely from the tree Hevea brasiliensis) cultivated on plantations, esp. in the Malay Peninsula, the Dutch East Indies, and Ceylon. Before 1909, native, or wild, rubber (from uncultivated trees) was the only variety on the market. Native rubber comes chiefly from South and Central America (see CEARÁ RUBBER, PARÁ RUBBER, CAUCHO), Asia (from Ficus elastica), and Africa (from Funtumia elastica and species of Landolphia). Crude or raw rubber is obtained by tapping the trees, coagulating the latex (usually with heat and smoke, or with a coagulant, as acetic acid), and collecting the sticky coagulum. It is exported in various shapes. Plantation rubber is dried and shipped in thin crinkled sheets (crepe rubber) or in thicker smooth or ribbed sheets, which are usually dark brown from being smoked to dry them (smoked sheets). To increase its useful properties, crude rubber is plasticized, mixed (compounded) with many out of hundreds of materials, as pigments (reinforcing pigments, as gas black and zinc oxide, and fillers, as whiting), softeners (oils, paraffin, tars, etc.), vulcanizing agents (chiefly sulphur and sulphur monochloride), accelerators of vulcanization (as litharge and diphenylguanidine), and age resistors (antioxidants, as para-aminophenol), and molded and vulcanized. See VULCANIZATION. After vulcanization it is harder and stronger, is less affected by heat, cold, acids, and alkalies, is insoluble in the crude-rubber solvents, and resumes its original shape after deformation (crude rubber does not). It is resistant to abrasive wear, flexible, extensible, waterproof, relatively impermeable to gases, has a high frictional resistance on dry surfaces and low on wet, is a good electrical and heat insulator, and resists the action of many chemical agents. By virtue of these and other properties it finds use in tires, hose, elastic bands, raincoats, balloons, transmission belting, bearings for deep-well pumps, telephone receivers, etc. See HARD RUBBER. Rubber is often combined with textile fabrics, metals, concrete, wood, glass, etc., to strengthen them or to increase their rigidity. See also RECLAIMED RUBBER, SYNTHETIC RUBBER.
4. Something made of rubber (sense 3). Specif.: a Colloq. An overshoe of rubber; — called also gum. b A cord, string, or band, of rubber, as to hold papers, bills, etc. Cf. ELASTIC, n.
5. A soft brick; a cutter (sense 6).
6. A rough, uneven place in a bowling green; a rub; hence, impediment; difficulty; also, misfortune; trouble.
7. Agric. Mach. A plank drag. Eng.
8. Baseball. (1) The home plate. (2) The pitcher's plate. See PLATE, n.
9. Ice Hockey. The puck. Colloq.
10. pl. Stock Exchange. Securities issued by the tire and rubber companies.
11. Type Founding. One who smoothes the rough edges of the completed type by rubbing on a hard flat surface; a finisher.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rubber-coated	rubber-headed	rubber-soled rubber-collecting	rubber-mixing	rubber-spreading rubber-cored	rubber-producing	rubber-testing rubber-covered	rubber-proofed	rubber-tired rubber-cutting	rubber-reclaiming	rubber-varnishing rubber-faced	rubber-set	rubber-yielding rubber-growing	rubber-slitting rub′ber (rŭb′ẽr), adj. Of or producing rubber, esp. India rubber.

rub′ber, v. t. To make of rubber; to coat with rubber; to rubberize.

rub′ber, n. 1. In some games, as whist, the odd game when there is a tie between the players; also, a contest determined by the winning of two out of three games.
2. Hence, any match; contest; round. Obs.

rub′ber (rŭb′ẽr), n. Short for RUBBERNECK.

rubber belt. A belt made of plies of cotton duck held together by an India-rubber mixture.

rubber belting. See BELTING.

rubber boa. A harmless blunt-tailed snake (Charina bottae) of the boa family, rubbery in smoothness and suppleness of appearance and usually less than eighteen inches long, found in the moister regions of western North America; — called also two-headed snake. Cf. BALL PYTHON.

rubber boot. A boot made of fabric heavily coated with rubber.

rubber cement. A cement consisting of a solution of unvulcanized rubber, as in solvent naphtha or carbon disulphide. See RUBBER, n., 3.

rubber check. A check returned by the bank as not good because of insufficient funds in the account on which the check is drawn. Slang, U. S.

Rubber City. Akron, Ohio; — so called because of the importance of its rubber industry.

rubber cloth. Cloth covered with rubber.

rubber dam. Dent. A thin sheet of elastic rubber for stretching about a tooth to keep it dry.

rub′ber-down′, n. One who rubs down, as in smoothing leather, wood, etc., or in reducing pulp.

rubber elastic. = 1st RUBBER, 4 b.

rubber fig. The rubber plant Ficus elastica.

rubber hydrocarbon. See 1st RUBBER, 3.

rub′ber·ize (rŭb′ẽr-īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ′ING (-īz′ĭng). To coat or impregnate with rubber or a rubber solution or preparation, as silk.

rubber knife. A revolving circular knife, fed with water at the edge, for cutting rubber; — called also rubber saw.

rubber latex. See 1st RUBBER, 3.

rub′ber-lined′ (66), adj. Lined with rubber, as fire hose.

rub′ber·neck′ (rŭb′ẽr-nĕk′), n. One who cranes his neck or gapes in curiosity. — rub′ber·neck′, adj. — rub′ber·neck′, v. i. & t. — rub′ber·neck′er (-nĕk′ẽr), n. All Slang, U. S.

rubber neck. Bowling. The game of candlepins.

rub′ber·nose′ (-nōz′), rubbernose sturgeon. The lake sturgeon.

rub′ber-off′, n. One who rubs off; a fettler.

rubber oil. A mixture of hydrocarbons (including isoprene, dipentene, etc.) obtained by the dry distillation of rubber; — called also caoutchouc oil and caoutchoucin. It is used as a rust preventive, as a denaturant of alcohol, etc.

rubber plant. Any of several plants which yield rubber (see RUBBER, 3); specif., the commonly cultivated East Indian tree Ficus elastica, the source of Assam rubber. See Ficus.

rub′bers (rŭb′ẽrz), n. A disease in sheep characterized by heat and itching; — called also scab and shab.

rubber saw. A rubber knife.

rubber snake. = RUBBER BOA.

rubber spreader. See SPREADER.

rubber stamp. a A stamp of rubber, for making imprints or impressions. b Slang, U. S. Figuratively, a person who merely echoes the words or opinions of others; one without originality; also, a stereotyped expression; a conventional phrase. — rub′ber-stamp′ (66), adj. Slang, U. S.

A flat, conventional, rubber-stamp comment. Dorothy Canfield Fisher.

rub′ber-stamp′, v. t. a To sign with a rubber stamp. b Hence figuratively, to approve, endorse, or dispose of (as a document or policy) as a matter of routine, usually without the exercise of one's judgment. Colloq., U. S.

rub′ber·stone′ (rŭb′ẽr-stōn′), n. A kind of sandstone used for whetstones, esp. shoe stones. Local, U. S.

rubber tissue. Rubber in very thin sheets, as for use in surgery.

rubber tree. Any tree yielding rubber, esp. of the genera Hevea, Castilla, etc. (see RUBBER, 3); specif., the rubber plant Ficus elastica; — called also India-rubber tree.

rubber varnisher. See VARNISHER.

rubber vine. a The India-rubber vine. b A woody vine (Forsteronia floribunda), family Apocynaceae, of Jamaica, yielding a wild rubber.

rubber warper. See WARPER.

rub′ber·y (rŭb′ẽr-ĭ), adj. Of the consistency of India rubber; resembling rubber, as in elasticity.

rub′bing, pres. part. & verbal n. of RUB. Hence: n. 1. Act of chafing, polishing, or the like.
2. A copy of a raised or indented surface obtained by placing paper over it and rubbing the paper with heelball, graphite, or the like.

rub′bing, adj. Pertaining to or used for rubbing; that sustains rubbing.

rubbing batten. Naut. A wooden batten on the fore side of a mast to prevent chafing by yards or spars.

rubbing block. a An abrasive block, commonly of sandstone, for cleaning, smoothing, or polishing marble, building stone, bricks, or the like. b Elec. Railways. The part of a plow that rubs against a conductor rail in a conduit.

rubbing paunch. = RUBBING BATTEN.

rub′bing-stone′ (rŭb′ĭng-stōn′), n. A stone used for rubbing.

rubbing varnish. Varnish used to form a hard surface for rubbing.

rub′bish (rŭb′ĭsh), n. [ME. robys, rubus, robous; prob. akin to RUB. Cf. RUBBLE.] Waste or rejected matter; anything worthless or valueless; trash; debris; specif., fragments of building materials or ruined buildings.

What rubbish and what offal! Shak.

rub′bish, adj. 1. Worthless; trashy.
2. Of or for rubbish; taking care of rubbish.

rub′bish, interj. An exclamation expressing an opinion of some statement, opinion, or the like, as worthless, ridiculous, or trashy.

rub′bish·ing, adj. Rubbishy. — rub′bish·ing·ly, adv.

rub′bish·ly (rŭb′ĭsh-lĭ), adj. Rubbishy.

rub′bish·ry (-rĭ), n. Rubbish.

rub′bish·y (rŭb′ĭsh-ĭ), adj. Consisting of, or of the quality of, rubbish; trashy; worthless.

Look what a rubbisky affair this is. Marryat.

rub′ble (rŭb′l), n. [ME. robyl, robel; akin to RUBBISH.] 1. Waterworn or rough broken stones, broken bricks, etc., used in coarse masonry, or to fill up between the facing courses of walls; also, masonry composed of rubble; rubblework.
2. Rough stone as it comes from the quarry; also, among quarrymen, the upper fragmentary and decomposed portion of a mass of stone; brash.
3. Hence, any mass made up of rough irregular pieces; a collection of loose broken pieces; specif., Geol., a mass or layer of fragments of rock lying under alluvium; also, talus.
4. Ice in hard, roughly rounded blocks from two to five feet in diameter, as in the Arctic seas.
5. Rubbish; trash; also, nonsense; foolishness.
6. A hard chalk used in making paths, etc. Local, Eng.
7. pl. The whole of the bran of wheat before it is sorted into pollard, bran, etc. Eng.

rub′ble (rŭb′l), adj. Made of, consisting of, or constructed with, rubble (sense 1); as, a rubble wall; rubble masonry.

rub′ble, v. t. To cover with rubble, or worn or broken stones. "The ground is rubbled with stones — fallen and still falling." Galsworthy.

rubble ashlar. Ashlar with rubble backing.

rubble car. Railroads. A push car or truck for carrying rails, ties, ballast, and other heavy material.

rubble masonry. Masonry composed of unsquared stone.

rub′bler (rŭb′lẽr), n. A part-time worker; an assistant; specif., Slate Quarrying, one who does not work regularly; also, a beginner, or green worker; a boy. Eng.

rub′ble·stone′ (rŭb′l-stōn′), n. Rubble.

rub′ble·work′ (-wûrk′), n. Masonry of unsquared or rudely squared stones, irregular in size and shape.

rub′bly (rŭb′lĭ), adj. Relating to, abounding in, or resembling, rubble; as, rubbly formation; rubbly coal.

rub′down′ (rŭb′doun′), n. 1. Act of rubbing or chafing; esp., the rubbing of the body, as after a bath.
2. A glass of whisky. Obs. Scot.

rub′-dub′ (rŭb′dŭb′), n. A drumming sound; a rub-a-dub.

"With a rub-dub of hoofs on the trail, we heard several men ride up." Mary S. Watts.

Rube (rōōb; 242), n. 1. Short for REUBEN.
2. [also not cap.] An awkward, unsophisticated person; esp., one unaccustomed to city ways. Slang, U. S.

ru·bed′i·nous (rōō-bĕd′ĭ-nŭs), adj. [LL. rubedo redness.] Reddish.

ru·bed′i·ty (-ĭ-tĭ), n. Ruddiness; redness.

ru′be·fa′cient (rōō′bē-fā′shĕnt), adj. [L. rubefaciens, pres. part. of rubefacere to make red, fr. rubeus red + facere to make.] Causing redness, as of the skin. — n. Med. A substance for external application, producing redness of the skin.

ru′be·fac′tion (-făk′shŭn), n. Act or process of causing redness; also, the redness due to a rubefacient.

ru′be·let (rōō′bē-lĕt), n. A little ruby. Rare.

ru·bel′la (rōō-bĕl′ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. rubellus reddish.] Med. An acute specific disease with a dusky-red cutaneous eruption like that of measles, but with much milder symptoms; — called also German measles.

ru·belle′ (rōō-bĕl′), n. [L. rubellus red.] A red color.

ru·bel′lite (-bĕl′īt), n. [L. rubellus reddish, dim. of ruber red.] 1. Mineral. A tourmaline varying from a pale rose red to a deep ruby-red. Fine gems are found in California, Brazil, and the Ural Mountains.
2. A color, bluish-red in hue, of very high saturation and low brilliance. It is slightly bluer and of higher saturation and brilliance than hollyhock, and bluer and of higher saturation than amaranth purple. Cf. COLOR.

Ru·ben′si·an (rōō-bĕn′sĭ-ăn; -shăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, the Flemish painter Peter Paul Rubens (1577–1640), or the school of Rubens. — Ru·ben′si·an, n.

Ru′bens′ mad′der (rōō′bĕnz; -bĭnz). [After Peter Paul Rubens.] The color lacquer red.

ru·be′o·la (rōō-bē′ō-lȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. rubeus reddish.] Med. a The measles. b Rubella. — ru·be′o·lar (-lẽr), adj.

ru·be′o·loid (-loid), adj. [rubeola + -oid.] Resembling rubeola.

ru′be·ryth′ric (rōō′bē-rĭth′rĭk; rōō′bĕr-ĭth′rĭk), adj. [L. rubia madder + Gr. erythros red + -ic.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating a yellow, crystalline acid, $C_{26}H_{28}O_{14}$, occurring in madder root. It is a glucoside, yielding on hydrolysis the dye alizarin and dextrose.

ru·bes′cence (rōō-bĕs′ĕns; -′ns), n. Quality or state of being or becoming rubescent; a reddening; a flush.

---

ruban, n. [F.] A ribbon. Obs. rub′bage (rŭb′ĭj). Obs. or Scot. & dial. var. of RUBBISH. rub′berd. Rubbered. Ref. Sp.
rub′ber·er, n. = RUBBERNECKER. rub′ber-less, adj. See -LESS. rub′ber-wise′, adv. See -WISE. — rub′ber-wise′, adj.
rub′bidge (rŭb′ĭj). Dial. var. of RUBBISH. rub′bio (rōōb′byō), n.; pl. RUBBI (-bē). [It.] See MEASURE, Table.
rubbish pulley or wheel. = GIN BLOCK. rubbish unloader. See UNLOADER. rub′bit (rŭb′ĭt). Scot. past part. of RUB. rubd. Rubbed. Ref. Sp.
ru′bel·lo′sis (rōō′bĕ-lō′sĭs), n. [NL., fr. L. rubellus reddish + -osis.] = PINK DISEASE. ru·ber′y·thrin′ic (rōō-bĕr′ĭ-thrĭn′ĭk), adj. = RUBERYTHRIC.

ru·bes'cent (rōō·bĕs'ĕnt; -'nt), adj. [L. rubescens, -entis, pres. part. of rubescere to grow red, v. incho. fr. rubere to be red. See RUBY.] Growing or becoming red; erubescent; reddening; flushing.

Rü'be·zahl' (rü'bē·tsäl'), n. [G., also Rübezaqel, lit., turnip-tail.] In German legend, a mountain spirit of the Riesengebirge in Silesia. He is the weather lord of those mountains. He assumes various forms, but esp. that of a monk in ash-colored cowl, holding a stringed instrument, which he strikes so violently that the earth shakes. He is friendly toward good men. He is the subject of an opera by Weber (1804).

Ru'bi·a (rōō'bĭ·ȧ), n. [L., madder; akin to L. ruber red. See RUBY.] 1. Bot. A large genus of Old World herbs, the madders, type of the Rubiaceae. They resemble Galium, but have pentamerous flowers and fleshy fruit. R. tinctorum is the common madder.

2. [not cap.] The yellow prickle. Puerto Rico.

Ru'bi·a'ce·ae (rōō'bĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Rubia, type genus.] Bot. A family of mostly tropical plants, the madder family, typifying the order Rubiales, and containing about 450 genera and 5,500 species. They are herbs, shrubs, and trees, of very diverse habit, with opposite stipulate leaves and regular flowers, the stamens being borne on the corolla tube. The ovary is 1–10-celled, usually with numerous ovules; it becomes in fruit a capsule, a berry, or one or more distinct nutlets. The family includes the genera Coffea, Rubia, Cinchona, Cephaëlis, Gardenia, Bouvardia, Houstonia, Galium, etc. The North American representatives of the family are largely inconspicuous herbs, except Cephalanthus. — ru'bi·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Ru'bi·a'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order containing the Rubiaceae, Caprifoliaceae, and Adoxaceae, having opposite leaves, an inferior compound ovary, and epigynous stamens equal in number to the lobes of the corolla.

ru'bi·an'ic (rōō'bĭ·ăn'ĭk), adj. Ruberythric.

ru'bi·ate (rōō'bĭ·āt), n. Any madder-root pigment. — ru'bi·ate, adj.

rub'i·a'tor (rŭb'ĭ·ā'tĕr), n. [Dial. also rabiator. Cf. ML. rubator, robator, robber.] A bully; rake; rascal. Scot.

ru'bi·can (rōō'bĭ·kăn), adj. [F., fr. rabican, fr. It. rabicano, fr. Sp. rabicano, fr. rabo tail + cano gray.] Red bay, sorrel, or black, with flecks of white or gray, esp. on the flanks; — said of horses.

Ru'bi·con (rōō'bĭ·kŏn), n. [L. Rubico.] Anc. Geog. A small river which separated Italy from cisalpine Gaul. By leading an army across this river, contrary to the prohibition of the civil government at Rome, Caesar precipitated the civil war which made him supreme; hence, to pass, or cross, the Rubicon is to take the irrevocable decisive step by which one is committed to a hazardous enterprise.

rubicon bezique. A variation of bezique played with four packs (128 cards) shuffled together. There is a score of 50 for carte blanche, and triple or quadruple combinations may be shown and scored. Double bezique is 500; triple, 1,500; quadruple, 4,500. Combinations may be broken up and re-formed repeatedly. Each deal is a game, the difference winning. If the lower score is not 1,000, all its points are added to the winning score, even if that is not 1,000.

ru'bi·coned (rōō'bĭ·kŏnd). [See RUBICON PIQUET.] In certain card games, defeated with a score so low that it is added to the winner's. Cf. 3d LURCH, 2.

rubicon piquet. [From RUBICON.] A variation of piquet in which six deals is a game, the lower score is then deducted from the higher, and 100 added to the difference. If either fails to reach 100 in six deals, the one with more points is the winner and adds all the loser's points to his own, together with the 100 bonus. The point is reckoned by the number of cards in the suit, the pip value being resorted to only in case of ties.

ru'bi·cund (rōō'bĭ·kŭnd), adj. [F. rubicond, fr. L. rubicundus, fr. rubere to be red. See RUBY.] Inclining to redness; ruddy; red. "His rubicund face." Longfellow.

ru'bi·cun'di·ty (-kŭn'dĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ML. rubicunditas.] Quality or state of being rubicund; ruddiness.

ru·bid'ic (rōō·bĭd'ĭk), adj. Chem. Of or pertaining to rubidium.

ru'bi·dine (rōō'bĭ·dēn; -dĭn), n. Also -din. [L. rubidus red.] Chem. A nitrogenous oily base, $C_{11}H_{17}N$, obtained from coal tar. It is homologous with pyridine.

ru·bid'i·um (rōō·bĭd'ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. rubidus red, fr. rubere to be red. See RUBICUND.] Chem. A soft, silvery metal which decomposes water with violence and inflames spontaneously in air. Symbol, Rb; at. no., 37; at. wt., 85.48. Sp. gr., 1.53; melting point, 38.5° C. (101.3° F.). Rubidium compounds are found with those of cesium in many minerals, in mineral waters, etc., but in small amounts only (cesium more sparingly than rubidium). These two elements were discovered in 1860 by Bunsen and Kirchhoff with the spectroscope and named accordingly (rubidium from its two prominent red lines, cesium from two bright-blue ones). Both are alkali metals like potassium in general properties. They are prepared in metallic form by electrolysis of the hydroxides or cyanides, by heating the hydroxides with magnesium, etc.

ru'bied (rōō'bĭd), adj. Made like a ruby in color.

ru'bied, adj. Short for RUBICONED. Colloq.

ru·bif'ic (rōō·bĭf'ĭk), adj. [L. rubere to be red + E. -fic.] Rubefacient.

ru'bi·fi·ca'tion (rōō'bĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [Cf. F. rubification.] Act or process of making red. — ru'bi·fi·ca'tive (rōō'bĭ·fĭ·kā'tĭv), adj.

ru'bi·fy (rōō'bĭ·fī), v. t. [OF. rubifier (F. rubéfier). See RUBIFIC.] To redden. Rare.

ru·big'i·nous (rōō·bĭj'ĭ·nŭs), adj. Also ru·big'i·nose (-nōs). Rust-colored; also, affected with rust.

ru'bi·jer'vine (rōō'bĭ·jûr'vēn; -vĭn; 157), n. Also -vin. [L. rubeus red + E. jervine.] Chem. A nonpoisonous crystalline alkaloid, $C_{26}H_{43}NO_3$, found with jervine in green hellebore.

ru'bine, ru'bin (rōō'bĭn), n. [Cf. ML. rubinus, It. rubino. See RUBY.] 1. A ruby. Obs.

2. a Any of certain synthetic red dyes; as, Congo rubine. b Specif., fuchsine.

ru·bin'e·ous (rōō·bĭn'ē·ŭs), adj. [See RUBINE.] Ruby red.

ru'bi·ous (rōō'bĭ·ŭs), adj. [See RUBY.] Red; ruby. Rare.

rub iron. A carriage guard.

ru'ble (rōō'b'l), n. Also rou'ble. [Russ. rubl', perh. through Per. fr. source of E. RUPEE.] The prewar gold monetary unit of Russia, worth about 51.5 cents, or 2s. 1⅜d., and divided into 100 kopecks; also, a silver coin of this value. Formerly, the ruble in gold was worth about 77 cents and the silver ruble somewhat less. See CHERVONETS; COIN, Table.

ru'blis (rōō'blĭs), n. [Lett., fr. Russ. rubl'.] A ruble, or 100 kapeikas; — a money of account in Latvia, 1918 to 1922. Only paper notes were issued and it was replaced by the lat as the monetary unit.

rub of the green. Golf. Anything happening to a ball in play which affects its course or status, not caused by a player or caddie involved in the match.

ru'bor (rōō'bôr), n. [L., redness.] Med. Hyperemia, esp. of the skin, as in inflammation.

ru'bric (rōō'brĭk), n. [ME. rubrike, rubriche, fr. OF. rubrique, rubriche (F. rubrique), fr. L. rubrica red earth for coloring, red chalk, the title of a law (because written in red), fr. ruber red. See RED.] 1. Red chalk; red ocher. Archaic.

2. A part of any work in the early manuscripts or print which was colored red; hence, specif.: a A title page, or part of it, esp. that giving the date and place of printing, or an initial letter or letters, etc., when printed in red. b The title of a statute or law, anciently in red letters. Also, a name, as of a saint, entered in red in the church calendar. c Liturgies. A direction, injunction, or prescribed rule for the conduct of service, formerly always in red.

3. A section heading of a discourse or writing; a head; — from the former practice of printing such in red; hence, a class or group; a category.

The groups of opinion inculcated by instruction are again found to fall into five "rubrics" — animism, cosmogony, mythology, metaphysic, and science. J. W. Powell.

4. A paraph.

5. Red. "Your thoughts in rubric." Tennyson.

6. A form or thing established or settled, as by authority.

Nay, as a duty, it had no place or rubric in human conceptions before Christianity. De Quincey.

7. Pharm. See PURITY RUBRIC.

ru'bric (rōō'brĭk), adj. Also ru'bri·cal (-brĭ·kăl). Colored, written, printed in, or marked with, red; placed in rubrics; also, of or pertaining to the rubric or rubrics.

ru'bric, v. t. To adorn with red; redden.

ru'bri·ca (rōō'brĭ·kȧ), n. [Sp. rúbrica.] A rubric (sense 4).

ru'bri·cal (rōō'brĭ·kăl), adj. Of or pertaining to the rubrics; according to, or indicated by, the liturgical rubrics.

ru'bri·cal'i·ty (rōō'brĭ·kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. State of being rubric; hence, state of being something formally specified; a formality.

ru'bri·cal·ly (rōō'brĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv. of RUBRIC, RUBRICAL.

ru'bri·cate (-kāt), adj. [L. rubricatus, past part.] Marked with red.

ru'bri·cate (-kāt), v. t.; -CAT'ED (-kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT'ING (-kāt'ĭng). [L. rubricatus, past part. of rubricare to color red. See RUBRIC, n.] To mark or distinguish with red, as titles in a book, also, to arrange as in a rubric; to fix in form.

ru'bri·ca'tion (-kā'shŭn), n. 1. Act or process of rubricating, as a manuscript or book, or letters or words in it.

2. That which is rubricated, as a letter or word.

ru'bri·ca'tor (rōō'brĭ·kā'tĕr), n. One who rubricates or illuminates books, etc.; esp., a member of a medieval brotherhood who added the illuminations, initial letters, etc., to the books produced in the monastery.

ru·bri'cian (rōō·brĭsh'ăn), n. One skilled in the knowledge of, or tenaciously adhering to, the rubric or rubrics.

ru'bri·cism (rōō'brĭ·sĭz'm), n. Practice of following the rubrics. — ru'bri·cist (-sĭst), n.

ru·bric'i·ty (rōō·brĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Redness.

2. Adherence to, or conformity with, the rubric or rubrics.

ru'bri·cize (rōō'brĭ·sīz), v. t. [See -IZE.] To rubricate.

ru'bri·cose (-kōs), adj. [L. rubricosus full of red ocher. See RUBRIC.] Rubricate; reddish.

ru·brif'ic (rōō·brĭf'ĭk), adj. Causing redness; reddening.

ru'bri·fy (rōō'brĭ·fī), v. t. [See RUBRIC; -FY.] To make red; redden. — ru'bri·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. Both Rare.

ru'bro·spi'nal (rōō'brō·spī'năl; -n'l), adj. [NL., fr. L. ruber red + -o + spinal.] Anat. Of or pertaining to the red nucleus and the spinal cord. See SPINAL CORD, Illust.

rub'stone' (rŭb'stōn'), n. A sandstone or grit for scouring, polishing, or sharpening; specif., a whetstone.

Ru'bus (rōō'bŭs), n. [L.] Bot. A large genus of often prickly shrubs (family Rosaceae), the brambles, including the blackberry, raspberry, etc. They have 3–7-foliolate or simple lobed leaves, white or pink flowers with a flat persistent calyx bearing the numerous stamens, and a mass of carpels ripening into an aggregate fruit composed of many drupelets. See BLACKBERRY; RASPBERRY, 1; DEWBERRY.

ru'by (rōō'bĭ; 242), n.; pl. RUBIES (-bĭz). [OF. rubi (F. rubis, ML. rubinus), fr. L. rubeus red; akin to L. rubere to be red, ruber red. See RED.] 1. A precious stone, a red crystallized variety of corundum; — called also true, or Oriental, ruby. The best-known localities are: for the deep, clear-red rubies, Burma; for the light-red, Ceylon; for the dark brownish-red, Siam. Fine large Burma rubies are much more costly than diamonds of the same size. See also RUBY SPINEL.

2. A thing made of the ruby; esp., Horol., a bearing, roller, or other part, made of ruby, or one made of a substitute material.

3. The color of the ruby, red in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

4. That which resembles, or is likened to, the ruby in color, as red wine, or a red blain or carbuncle.

5. A Brazilian hummingbird of the genus Clytolaema. The males have a ruby-colored throat or breast.

6. Her. Gules, in blazoning by precious stones.

7. Print. A size of type (5½ points). Eng. See AGATE, n., 5.

8. Stained Glass Mfg. Short for RUBY GLASS.

9. [cap.] A feminine proper name.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

ruby-berried	ruby-eyed	ruby-necked ruby-budded	ruby-faced	ruby-set ruby-circled	ruby-headed	ruby-studded ruby-colored	ruby-hued	ruby-tinctured ruby-crested	ruby-lipped	ruby-toned ruby-crowned	ruby-lustered	ruby-visaged ru'by (rōō'bĭ), v. t. To redden.

ru'by-and-to'paz hum'ming-bird'. A handsome hummingbird of northern South America.

ruby blende. A red or reddish-brown transparent variety of sphalerite.

ruby copper, ruby copper ore. Cuprite.

ruby fly. = CUCKOO FLY b.

ruby glass. Glass of a deep-red color, produced formerly by the addition of an oxide of copper or by the use of gold chloride, under modern conditions chiefly with selenium.

ruby grass. = NATAL GRASS.

ruby of arsenic or sulphur. Realgar.

ruby of zinc. = RUBY ZINC.

ruby port. See 1st PORT, 1.

ruby red. = RUBY, n., 3.

ru'by-red' (66), adj. Of the redness of a ruby.

ruby silver, ruby silver ore. Pyrargyrite.

ruby spaniel. An English toy spaniel of a rare variety solid red in color but otherwise similar to the other varieties. See ENGLISH TOY SPANIEL.

ruby spinel. Mineral. A variety of spinel used as a gem, and called, when deep red, spinel ruby; when rose-red, balas or balas ruby; when yellow or orange-red, rubicelle; when violet, almandine.

ruby sulphur. Realgar.

ru'by-tail' (rōō'bĭ·tāl'), n., or ru'by-tailed' fly (-tāld'). Any of certain cuckoo flies, esp. the common European Chrysis ignita, having part of the abdomen metallic red.

ru'by-throat' (-thrōt'), n. a The ruby-throated hummingbird. b Any of several red-throated Asiatic warblers of the genus Calliope.

ru'by-throat'ed (66), adj. Having a ruby-colored throat.

ruby-throated hummingbird. The only hummingbird (Archilochus, syn. Trochilus, colubris) occurring in the eastern United States. The back is bright bronzy green, the under parts are whitish, and the throat of the adult male is red with metallic reflections. See BIRD, Plate.

ru'by-tint'ed, adj. Tinted with the color of the ruby; red-tinted. See -TINTED.

ruby wasp. = CUCKOO FLY b.

ruby wedding. The forty-fifth wedding anniversary.

ruby wood. a The red sandalwood. b The shea tree. See SHEA BUTTER.

ruby zinc. Ruby blende; also, a similar variety of zincite.

ru·cer'vine (rōō·sûr'vīn; -vĭn; 156), adj. [NL. Rucervus, the genus. See RUSA; CERVUS, CERVINE.] Zool. Of, like, or pertaining to, a deer of the genus or subgenus Ru·cer'vus (-vŭs), which includes the swamp deer of India.

rucervine antler. An antler with long and simple brow tine and doubly dichotomous beam.

Rucervine Antler. a Brow Tine; b Trestine; c Surroyal.

ruche (rōōsh), n. [F. ruche ruche, beehive, fr. OF. rusche beehive, fr. ML. rusca bark, basket made of bark, of Celt. (Gaulish) origin; cf. W. rhisg bark, Gael. rūsg, Ir. rusc.] 1. A plaited, quilled, or goffered strip of lace, net, ribbon, or the like, used in place of a collar or cuff, or as a trimming for a dress or bonnet.

2. The honeycombed surface of the hemipenes of certain snakes.

ruch'ing (rōōsh'ĭng), n. A ruche, or ruches collectively; also, material for making ruches.

ruck (rŭk; dial. rŏŏk), v. i.; RUCKED (rŭkt); RUCK'ING. [ME. ruken, rouken, of Scand. origin; cf. Dan. ruge to brood, Nor. dial. rūka to crouch, rūka a heap. See 2d RUCK.] To sit, as a bird on eggs; to cower; crouch; squat. Now Dial.

ruck, n. [Of Scand. origin; cf. Nor. dial. rūka, Sw. dial. rūga, ON. hrūga, hraukr. See RICK; cf. 1st RUCK.] 1. A heap, stack, or pile; a rick. Now Dial.

2. Horse Racing. The horses running in a group behind those that set the pace.

3. The undistinguished multitude; the crowd of ordinary persons or things; as, freed from the common ruck.

The general ruck of dream experiences. Edmund Gurney.

ruck, v. t. To rake into a heap, or "ruck." — ruck'er, (-ĕr), n.

ruck, n. [ON. hrukka. See WRINKLE.] A wrinkle or crease in a piece of cloth, or in needlework, or in paper as it passes from the feedboard of a printing press.

ruck, v. t. & i. [From RUCK a wrinkle.] To draw into wrinkles or folds; to crease; pucker; — often with up; as, to ruck up a carpet.

ruck (rŭk), n. [Cf. Nor. dial. ruk a ridge where potatoes are planted, and E. RUCK wrinkle.] Rut or furrow, as in a road. Dial. Eng.

ruck'le (rŭk''l; rŏŏk''l), n. [Dim. of RUCK a heap.] A heap; pile; ruck. — v. t. To heap; pile. Both Chiefly Scot. & Dial. Eng.

ruck'le (rŭk''l; rŏŏk''l), v. i. [Of Scand. origin; cf. Nor. dial. rukla.] To make a hoarse rattling sound, as that caused by suffocation. Scot & Dial. Eng. — n. The sound so made. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

ruck'le, v. t. & i. [From RUCK to crease.] To form or work into folds; crumple. Eng.

ruck'sack' (rŭk'săk'; G. rŏŏk'zäk'), n. [G.] A loosely made flat bag supported on the back by straps over the shoulders.

ruck'sey (rŭk'sĭ), v. i. [ME. rukken. See 1st RUCK.] To bend; stoop; yield. Dial. Eng.

ruck'us (rŭk'ŭs), n.; pl. RUCKUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [Prob. a blend of ruction and rumpus.] Rumpus; ruction; quarrelsome uproar; ado. Slang & Dial.

ruck'y (rŭk'ĭ; rŏŏk'ĭ), adj. Full of rucks, creases, or ruts. Dial.

ruc·ta'tion (rŭk·tā'shŭn), n. [LL. ructatio, fr. ructare to belch.] Act of belching wind. Now Rare.

ruc'tion (rŭk'shŭn), n. [From the Irish insurrection of 1798.] An uproar; a quarrel; a rough-and-tumble fight; a noisy outbreak. Chiefly Dial.

rud (rŭd; rŏŏd), n. Also rudd. [AS. rudu, akin to AS. rēad red. See RED; cf. RUDD, RUDDY.] 1. Ruddy color; redness; also, hue; complexion. Obs. exc. Dial.

2. Red ocher; ruddle. Chiefly Dial. Eng.

3. Var. of RUDD.

rud (rŭd; rŏŏd), v. t. Also rudd. To redden; to color with rud. Obs. exc. Dial.

rud (rŏŏd; rŭd), n. & v. Spawn. Obs. exc. Dial.

rud (rŭd). Var. of ROOD. Obs. exc. Dial.

ru'das (rōō'dăs), n. [Origin uncert.] An ugly foul-mouthed old hag; a beldam. Scot. — adj. Coarse; foulmouthed; forward. Scot.

What can ail them to bury the auld carlin (a rudas wife she was) in the nighttime? Scott.

Rud·beck'i·a (rŭd·bĕk'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Olaus Rudbeck (1630–1702), Sw. botanist.] Bot. a A genus of 30 species of North American perennial herbs, the coneflowers (family Carduaceae), having showy pedunculate heads with a hemispherical involucre, mostly yellow rayed flowers, and a conical chaffy receptacle. R. hirta is the black-eyed Susan. See GOLDEN GLOW. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus, esp. R. hirta.

---

rubible. ✝ RIBIBLE.

ru'bi·celle (rōō'bĭ·sĕl), n. Mineral. See RUBY SPINEL.

Ru·bie'o·la (rōō·bĭk'ō·lȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. rubus a blackberry bush + colere to inhabit.] Zool. Syn. of PHILOHELA.

ru'bid. Rubied. Ref. Sp.

Ru'ble el'e·va'tor. = GRIZZLY ELEVATOR.

rubriche. ✝ RUBRIC.

ru'bric t. Rubricted. Ref. Sp.

ru'brish, n. Rubric. Obs.

ru'brish·er, n. [ME. rubrysshe rubric, fr. OF. rubriche.] A rubricator. Rare.

ru'by-crowned' king'let. See KINGLET.

ruby-crowned wren. = RUBY-CROWNED KINGLET. See KINGLET.

ru'by·like', adj. See -LIKE.

ru'by·wise', adv. See -WISE. — ru'by-wise', adj.

Ruch'bah (rŭk'bä), n. [Ar. rukbah knee. Cf. RUKBAT.] See STAR, Table.

ruck'ling, n. = RECKLING.

ruc'us. Var. of RUCKUS.

Ru'da·bah' (rōō'dȧ·bȧ'), n. [Per.] See ZAL.

rudd (rŭd), n. [See RUD, n.; cf. RUDDLE, RUDDOCK.] A fresh-water European fish (Scardinius erythrophthalmus) of the carp family. It resembles the roach, but it has the dorsal fin farther back, a stouter body, and red irises and fins.

Rudd.

rudd. Var. of RUD.

rud'der (rŭd'ĕr), n. [ME. rother, fr. AS. rŏther a paddle; akin to D. roer rudder, oar, G. ruder, OHG. ruodar, and to E. ROW with an oar.] 1. Naut. A flat piece or structure of wood or metal attached upright to the sternpost or, in single-screw vessels, to the rudderpost of a vessel by hinges, or pintles and gudgeons, so that it can be turned, as by a tiller, causing the vessel's head to turn in the same direction, because of the resistance offered to the water by the rudder. See SHIP, Illust.

2. Hence: a In an aircraft, a hinged or pivoted surface, usually attached at the rear end, serving to control its direction of flight by impressing yawing moments on the craft. b An analogous protruding part for guiding a balloon. c Agric. Mach. A plate or wheel at the rear end of a lister to guide and steady the moldboards and assist in bearing the weight.

3. That which resembles a rudder as a guide or governor; that which guides or governs the course.

For rhyme the rudder is of verses. Hudibras.

rud'der, v. t. To steer; also, to provide with a rudder.

rudd'er (rŭd'ĕr). Var. of RIDDER.

rudder band. Naut. a An iron band round the head of a rudderstock. b Rare. = RUDDER BRAKE.

rudder bar. In an aircraft, the foot bar for operating the central cables leading to the rudder. See AIRPLANE, Illust.

rudder bird, rudder duck. The ruddy duck. Local, U.S.

rudder brake. Naut. An eccentric friction band for controlling the motion of a rudder, as in a seaway.

rudder breeching. Naut. A rope for lifting the rudder so as to ease the strain on the pintles.

rudder chain. The lead from the rudder to the tiller ropes.

rudder crosshead. Naut. An athwartship metal bar or casting, secured to the rudder head in lieu of a tiller, to which the connecting rods of the steering gear are secured.

rudder fish. Any of certain fishes that follow or accompany vessels: a = PILOT FISH a & b. b A blackish fish, Palinurichthys perciformis (family Stromateidae), common off the New England coast. c Any of various fishes of the family Kyphosidae; esp., the chopa blanca.

Rudder Grange. A novel (1879) by Frank R. Stockton.

rud'der-head' (rŭd'ĕr-hĕd'), n. Naut. The upper end of the rudder stock to which the tiller is attached.

rud'der-hole' (-hōl'), n. Naut. The hole in the deck through which the rudderstock passes.

rudder iron. A pintle or gudgeon for a ship's rudder.

rud'der-post' (-pōst'), n. Naut. a = RUDDERSTOCK. b An additional sternpost in single-screw vessels to which the rudder is attached.

rud'der-stock' (-stŏk'), n. Naut. That part of a rudder by which it is pivoted to the sternpost or rudderpost.

rudder tackle. Emergency tackle for use when the mechanical steering gear fails to function.

rudder torque. The twisting effect exerted by the rudder of an aircraft on the fuselage, due to the relative displacement of the center of pressure of the rudder.

rud'died (rŭd'ĭd), adj. Made ruddy or red.

rud'die (rŭd'ĭ), n. [See RUD, n.] 1. Red ocher. 2. The color bole.

rud'dle (rŭd'l), v. t.; RUD'DLED (rŭd'ld); RUD'DLING (-lĭng). To mark, paint, or color with ruddle, or red ocher; to rouge; hence, to redden; flush.

rud'dle-man (rŭd'l-măn; rōōd'l-), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). a = RADDLEMAN. b A shepherd who marks his sheep with a daub of red.

rud'dock (rŭd'ŭk), n. [AS. rudduc. See RUD, n.] 1. The European robin. 2. A piece of gold money; — prob. because the gold of coins was often reddened by copper alloy. Obs.

rud'dy (rŭd'ĭ), adj.; RUD'DI-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); RUD'DI-EST. [AS. rudig. See RUD, n.] 1. Of the color red; red, or reddish; as, a ruddy sky.

2. Having a healthy reddish color; tanned; as, ruddy cheeks; also, red or reddish, as from blushing.

3. By extension, glowing; lively; vivid; as, ruddy memories. "Ruddy convictions." Stevenson.

4. Contemptible; infamous; "bloody"; — used for emphasis or as a low epithet. In Great Brit., a Vulgarism.

COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

ruddy-bright	ruddy-complexioned	ruddy-headed ruddy-brown	ruddy-faced	ruddy-leaved ruddy-cheeked	ruddy-gold	ruddy-purple ruddy-colored	ruddy-haired	ruddy-spotted rud'dy (rŭd'ĭ), v. t. & i.; -DIED (-ĭd); -DY-ING. To make or become ruddy; to redden. Rare.

ruddy diver. The ruddy duck.

ruddy duck. An American duck (Erismatura jamaicensis rubida) having a broad bill and a wedge-shaped tail of stiff, sharp feathers. The adult male has the upper parts largely rich brownish red. The female and young male are dull brown mixed with blackish on the back, and grayish below. It is good eating, and is rapidly diminishing in numbers.

Ruddy Duck. Male. (1/10) ruddy plover. The sanderling.

ruddy sheldrake. See SHELDRAKE.

ruddy turnstone. See TURNSTONE.

rude (rōōd; 242), adj.; RUD'ER (rōōd'ĕr); RUD'EST. [ME. rude, fr. OF. rude, fr. L. rudis; perh. akin to L. raudus lump of metal, Lith. rauda red color, and to E. RED. Cf. ERUDITE, RUDIMENT.] 1. Characterized by roughness; rough; crude; as, a rude sketch. Specif.: a Roughly or imperfectly finished; ill-fashioned. "Rude was the cloth." Chaucer. b Of the weather, winds, storms, etc.: Violent; tumultuous; harsh; severe; as, the rude winter. c Of war, conflict, etc.: Fierce; bloody; impetuous; as, the rude shock of armies. d Of sound: Harsh; jarring; discordant. e Of land, scenery, etc.: Broken; rugged; as, a rude countryside.

2. Lacking delicacy or refinement; boorish; ungentle; unpolished. Specif.: a Of untaught or unpolished manners or customs; as, a rude people; uncultured; simple; hence, of low rank. "Mine ancestors were rude." Chaucer. b Of fierce or bloody temper; savage; ferocious; brutal. c Uncivil or impolite in manner or action; insulting; impudent; as, a rude hussy; a rude servant. d Lacking artistic or refined expression; inelegant. "The rude Irish books." Spenser. "Rude am I in speech." Shak. e Lacking absolute accuracy; fairly, but not wholly, correct; as, a rude estimate, or approximation.

3. Characterized by lack of training or skill; unskillful; inexpert; raw; ignorant; as, rude workmanship; he was but a rude scholar; a rude mechanic.

4. Characterized by ruggedness; stalwart; sturdy; vigorous; as, rude health; rude strength.

Syn. — Clumsy, makeshift; turbulent, boisterous, inclement; uncivilized, barbarous; impertinent, insolent, discourteous; coarse, vulgar, uncouth; untrained, unskilled; rugged. See ROUGH.

Ant. — Elaborate; quiet, subdued; civilized; courteous, mannerly; refined, polished, cultured; skilled.

COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rude-fanged	rude-looking	rude-thoughted rude-featured	rude-spoken	rude-tongued — rude'ly, adv. — rude'ness, n.

rude (rōōd), adv. Rudely. (See FLAT, adj., 11.)

COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rude-carved	rude-growing	rude-mannered rude-ensculptured	rude-hewn	rude-spun rude-fashioned	rude-made	rude-washed ru·den'ture (rōō-dĕn'tŭr), n. [F., fr. L. rudens a rope.] Arch. Cabling.

ru'der·al (rōō'dĕr·ăl), adj. [See RUDERA.] Bot. Growing in rubbish or in waste places.

rudes'by (rōōdz'bĭ), n. [See RUDE.] An uncivil, turbulent fellow. Archaic.

Rü'des·hei'mer (rü'dĕs·hī'mĕr), n. [G.] A white wine made near Rüdesheim, on the Rhine. See RHINE WINE.

rudge gown (rŭj). = RUG GOWN.

rudge wash. A kind of kersey cloth of unwashed fleece wool.

Rü'di·ger (rü'dĭ·gĕr), n. [G. See ROGER.] In the Nibelungenlied, a high-minded margrave, a vassal of Etzel's, who, in fulfillment of a vow unsuspectingly given to Kriemhild, fought with the Huns against the Burgundians, with whom he had plighted faith, losing his life.

ru'di·ment (rōō'dĭ·mĕnt), n. [L. rudimentum, fr. rudis unwrought, ignorant, rude. See RUDE.] 1. That which is unformed or undeveloped; the principle underlying any development; an unfinished beginning.

The single leaf is the rudiment of beauty in landscape. I. Taylor.

2. Hence, an element or first principle of any art or science; a beginning of any knowledge; a first step; as, the rudiments of mathematics or Greek.

3. Biol. A part or organ so deficient in size, or oftener in size and structure, as to entirely prevent its performing its normal function. Specif.: a An organ or part just beginning to develop; anlage (which see, sense 1). b One whose development has been arrested at an early stage. c The vestige or remains of a part functional only in an earlier stage of the same individual or in his ancestors.

ru'di·ment, v. t. To furnish with first principles or rules; to instruct in the rudiments.

ru'di·men'tal (-mĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. Rudimentary.

ru'di·men'ta·ry (-mĕn'tă·rĭ), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to rudiments; consisting in first principles; elementary; initial; as, rudimentary essays.

2. Biol. Having the character of a rudiment; very imperfectly developed or represented only by a vestige.

— ru'di·men'ta·ri·ly, adv. — ru'di·men'ta·ri·ness, n.

ru'di·men'ta·ry, n. Biol. = RUDIMENT, 3.

ru'di·men·ta'tion (-mĕn·tā'shŭn), n. Act of making, or state of being made, elementary.

rud'ish (rōōd'ĭsh), adj. Somewhat rude.

Ru·dis'ta (rōō·dĭs'tă), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. rudis rude, ignorant; — because nothing was known of their ligaments, muscles, or habitat.] Paleontol. A group of pelecypods with one valve elongate, conical, thick-shelled, the other small, lidlike. They are characteristic of the Cretaceous. — See HIPPURITES, Illust. — ru·dis'tan (-tăn), adj. & n. — ru·dis'tid (-tĭd), n. & adj.

ru'di·ty (rōō'dĭ·tĭ), n. [L. rudĭtas ignorance, fr. rudis rude.] Rudeness; ignorance. Rare.

Ru'dolph (rōō'dŏlf), Ru·dol'phus (rōō·dŏl'fŭs), n. [From G. Rudolf, perh. through a Latinization of the OG. name; cf. ML. Rodulfus, and OHG. Rudolf, Hrodulf, AS. Hrodhwulf, and for the first part of the name E. Robert, and for the second E. wolf.] Masc. proper name. L. Rodolphus; F. Rodolphe (rō'dôlf'), Raoul (rà'ōōl'); It. Rodolfo (rō·dôl'fō), Ridolfo (rē·dôl'fō); Sp. Rodolfo (rō·dôl'fō); Pg. Rodolpho (-dôl'fōō); G. Rudolf (rōō'dŏlf).

Ru·dol'phine ta'bles (rōō·dŏl'fĭn). [After Rudolph II, emperor of Germany.] Astron. A set of astronomical tables computed by Kepler (1571–1630), and founded on observations by Tycho Brahe (1546–1601).

Ru'dra (rōōd'rà), n. [Skr.] Vedic Myth. A god of storms, sometimes of fire also, who inflicts diseases, but may also heal them. He is identified with Siva in later Hindu mythology.

rue (rōō; 242), n. [OF. rue, fr. L. ruta, fr. Gr. rhytē.] 1. A European, strong-scented, perennial woody herb (Ruta graveolens) having yellow flowers and decompound leaves, with a bitter taste. It is used in medicine. From association with rue meaning repentance, the rue was formerly known as herb of grace or herb grace.

2. Short for FEN RUE, MEADOW RUE, etc.

rue (rōō), v.; RUED (rōōd); RU'ING (rōō'ĭng). [ME. rewen, reouwen, to grieve, make sorry, fr. AS. hrēowan (cf. also hrēowian to repent); akin to OS. hreuan, D. rouwen, OHG. hriuwan, G. reuen, ON. hryggr grieved, hrygth sorrow. Cf. RUTH.] Transitive: 1. To regret extremely; to suffer remorse for; to repent of.

2. To repent of and withdraw from, as a bargain; to try to be free of or released from.

3. Obs. a To suffer harm or loss at the hands of. b To feel pity or sorrow for; to pity; also, to arouse pity or sorrow in (a person). c To cause to grieve or repent; to afflict; — often used impersonally. "God wot, it rueth me." Chaucer.

—, Intransitive: 1. To feel sorrow and regret; to be repentant or remorseful; to repent.

Work by counsel and thou shalt not rue. Chaucer.

2. Obs.: a To feel pity or compassion. b To suffer grief or harm.

rue back. To repent of and try to withdraw from an agreement, bargain, or the like. Dial., U.S.

rue (rōō; 242), n. [AS. hrēow. See RUE, v.; cf. RUTH.] 1. Bitterness; disappointment; regret.

2. Sorrow; compassion; also, repentance. Obs. exc. Scot.

‖rue (rü), n. [F.] Street.

rue anemone. [From 1st RUE.] A delicate vernal herb (Anemonella thalictroides) having decompound leaves, and white flowers resembling those of the wood anemone.

rue bargain. Money or its equivalent surrendered as a forfeit for withdrawing from an agreement. Chiefly Dial.

Rue Crown. See ORDER, n., 1.

Rue' de la Paix' (rü'dĕ'là pĕ'). [F., lit., street of the peace.] A famous street of Paris, on which are located many of the best-known shops dealing in luxuries.

rue family. The Rutaceae.

rue fern. The wall rue.

rue'ful (rōō'fŏōl; -f'l), adj. 1. Exciting pity or lament; woeful; lamentable; pitiable.

2. Expressing sorrow, pity, or regret; mournful; sorrowful. "He sighed, and cast a rueful eye." Dryden.

3. Feeling mercy or compassion; merciful; pitiful.

Syn. — See DOLEFUL.

— rue'ful·ly, adv. — rue'ful·ness, n.

ru·elle' (rōō·ĕl'), n. [F., lit., alley, dim. fr. rue street.] 1. The space between a bed and the wall. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. Hence, from the French custom during the 17th and 18th centuries of holding select morning receptions in the bedchamber, a private assembly; a select social gathering.

Ru·el'li·a (rōō·ĕl'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Jean Ruel (16th century), French botanist.] Bot. a A very large genus of herbs and shrubs (family Acanthaceae), mainly of tropical America, having showy solitary or paniculate flowers in which the style is recurved at the apex, and the ovary is 2-celled. R. tuberosa is the manyroot. b [not cap.] A plant or flower of this genus.

rue'ly (rōō'lĭ), adj. [AS. hrēowlīc.] Rueful. Obs.

rue oil. See OIL, Table I.

Rue'ping proc'ess (rü'pĭng). [After its originator, Rueping, of Germany.] A treatment for preserving wood with the use of a minimum amount of coal-tar creosote. By alternating the pressure and vacuum, only the walls of the wood cells are coated without filling the cells themselves.

ru'er (rōō'ĕr), n. One who rues, or repents; one who feels pity.

rue'some (rōō'sŭm), adj. Sorrowful; pitiful. Poetic. — rue'some·ness, n. Rare.

rue spleenwort. The wall rue.

rue'wort' (rōō'wŭrt'), n. Any plant of the Rutaceae.

Ru·fa'iyah (rōō·fī'yȧ), n. pl. [Ar. rifā'iyah, pl. of rifā'i, after Ahmad al-Rifā'i (d. 1175), their founder.] See DERVISH, 1.

ru·fes'cence (rōō·fĕs'ĕns; -'ns), n. Quality or state of being rufescent; a reddish or bronze color.

ru·fes'cent (-ĕnt; -'nt), adj. [L. rufescens, pres. part. of rufescere to become reddish, fr. rufus red.] Reddish.

ruff (rŭf), n. [OF. roffle, ronfle, fr. triomphe. See TRUMP at cards.] Card Playing. a Obs. A game similar to whist, and the predecessor of it. b Obs. Trump. c Act of trumping.

ruff, v. i. & t.; RUFFED (rŭft); RUFF'ING. Card Playing. To play a trump card on a plain-suit lead; to trump. Specif., at whist or bridge, to lead a suit that one's partner can trump. Cf. FORCE.

ruff out. At bridge, to establish (a suit) by trumping small card leads on which the adversaries' higher cards must fall.

ruff, ruffe (rŭf), n. [ME. rowe, ruffe, prob. fr. ROUGH, adj.] a A small fresh-water European perch (Acerina cernua). b The black ruff. c The sunfish Eupomotis gibbosus.

ruff (rŭf), n. [See RUFFLE to wrinkle, RUFFLE a frill.] 1. A kind of wheel-shaped collar worn by men and women in the late 16th and 17th centuries, made of stiffly starched muslin, linen, or the like, arranged in rows of radiating tubular or S-shaped folds or "sets" whose outer edges were often trimmed with cutwork or lace.

Ruff, 1.

2. = RUCHE, 1.

3. Something suggestive of a ruff; as: a Zool. A fringe of hairs or a set of lengthened or otherwise modified feathers around or on the neck. b Mach. A collar to prevent endwise motion, as at either end of a shaft journal. c The loose ornamented boot top common in the 17th century.

4. [Prob. fr. its ruff of feathers.] a A common sandpiper of Europe and Asia (Philomachus, syn. Machetes, pugnax). The males during the breeding season have a large ruff of erectile feathers on the neck, and yellowish naked tubercles on the face. They are polygamous, and noted for their pugnacity in the breeding season. The female is called reeve. b A variety of the domestic pigeon, having a ruff on its neck.

Ruff (Philomachus pugnax). a Male; b Female, or Reeve.

5. An exhibition of vanity or haughtiness; pride; vainglory. "Princes . . . in the ruff of all their glory." L'Estrange. Also, a huff; anger; as, sent away in a ruff.

6. [Cf. RUFFLE tumult, RUFFLE to grow rough.] Wanton or tumultuous procedure or conduct. Obs.

ruff (rŭf), v. t. & i.; RUFFED (rŭft); RUFF'ING. 1. To arrange in or as in a ruff; to plait.

2. To ruffle; to disorder. Spenser.

3. Hawking. To hit, as the prey, without fixing it.

ruff, n. [Imitative. Cf. RUFFLE in this sense.] Mil. A low drumbeat; a ruffle.

ruff, v. t. Scot. 1. To beat a ruffle on (a drum).

2. To stamp; to applaud.

ruff, v. t. a To hackle (flax) with a ruffer. b Formerly, to nap (hats).

ruff. Dial. var. of ROOF.

ruff'a·ble (rŭf'ȧ·b'l), adj. See -ABLE.

ruffed (rŭft), adj. Furnished with a ruff.

ruffed bustard. The houbara.

---

rud'der·less, adj. See -LESS. rud'der·like', adj. See -LIKE. rud'di·ly, adv. of RUDDY. rud'di·ness, n. See -NESS. rud'dish, adj. Reddish; ruddy. Obs. rud'did. Ruddled. Ref. Sp.

rud'dle (rŏōd'l). Dial. Eng. var. of RIDDLE, a sieve. [exc. Dial.] rud'dle. Var. of RADDLE. Obs. rud'dy·ish, adj. See -ISH. rude. † ROOD, RUD, RUDDY. ru·dent'ed, adj. [F. rudenté, fr. L. rudens a rope.] = CABLED, 3.

ru'der·a (rōō'dĕr·ȧ), n. pl. [L., pl. of rudus crushed stones mixed with lime; rubbish.] Ruins; debris. Obs. ru'der·ate (-ĭt), v. t. [L. ruderare.] To pave with broken stone. Obs. — ru'der·a'tion, n. Obs.

Rudge, Barnaby. See BARNABY RUDGE. rudge (rŭj). Dial. var. of RIDGE.
Ru·dis'tae (rōō·dĭs'tē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of RUDISTA.
Rud'mas·day' (rŏōd'mȧs·dā'), n. [See ROOD; MASS; DAY.] = HOLY-ROOD DAY a & b. [DOLPH.]
Ru'dolf (rōō'dŏlf). Var. of RU-Ru'dolf Ras'sen·dyll. See RASSENDYLL, RUDOLF. [SKIN.]
ru'dous (rōō'dŭs). Var. of RUrue'like', adj. See -LIKE.
ru'en (rōō'ĕn), n. [Origin obscure.] = 1st RENNET, 1.
ruf. Rough, ruff. Ref. Sp. ruf'en, ruf'end, ruf'en·ing. Roughen; roughened; roughening. Ref. Sp.
ruff and honors. = 1st RUFF a. ruffe (rŭf). Var. of RUFF (fish).

N O P Q R

ruffed grouse. A North American grouse (Bonasa umbellus) valued as a game bird in the wooded parts of the eastern United States and Canada. It is called partridge in the North and pheasant in the South. The male is about 17 inches long, varied with rufous, black, and gray, and has a dark band on the tail and tufts of large glossy black feathers on the sides of the neck. It is noted for its drumming with its wings in the breeding season. Related varieties replace it in northwest Canada and a darker one (B. u. sabini), the Oregon ruffed grouse, on the Pacific coast.

Ruffed Grouse (Bonasa umbellus).

ruffed lemur. A large black-and-white lemur (Lemur varius) having fringes of long hair on the sides of the head.

ruff'er (rŭf'ĕr), n. One that ruffs, as a hat corder; specif., a coarse kind of flax hackle consisting of a board studded with long teeth.

ruf'fi-an (rŭf'ĭ-ăn; rŭf'yăn; 277), n. [F. rufian, fr. It. ruffiano, prob. of Teut. origin; cf. MLG. ruffer a pimp. See RUFFLE to grow rough; cf. ROUGH ruffian.] 1. A pimp; pander; a paramour. Obs.
2. A boisterous, cruel, brutal fellow; a desperate fellow ready for murderous or cruel deeds; a cutthroat.
3. [often cap.] The Devil. Obs.

ruf'fi-an, adj. Of, pertaining to, characteristic of, or like, a ruffian; esp.: a Obs. Lustful; licentious. b Brutal; cruel; murderous; as, ruffian rage. c Boisterous; violent; stormy. "Ruffian billows." Shak. — ruf'fi-an-ly, adj.

ruf'fi-an, v. i. To play the ruffian; rage. Rare.

ruf'fi-an-age (-ĭj), n. Ruffians, collectively; a body of ruffians.

ruf'fi-an-ish (-ĭsh), adj. Ruffianly.

ruf'fi-an-ism (rŭf'ĭ-ăn-ĭz'm; rŭf'yăn-), n. Action or conduct of a ruffian; ruffianly qualities.

ruf'fi-an-ize (-ĭz), v. t. [See -IZE.] To turn into a ruffian; to give a ruffianly character to.

ruf'fle (rŭf''l), v. t.; RUF'FLED (-'ld); RUF'FLING (-lĭng). [ME. ruffeln; akin to EFris. ruffeln, ON. rýfja to break, and E. REAVE. Cf. RUFF collar, RUFFLE, n.] 1. To make into a ruff; to draw or contract into puckers, plaits, or folds.
2. To furnish with ruffles; as, to ruffle a shirt.
3. To erect in or like a ruff, as feathers.
4. To discompose; agitate; disturb. Specif.: a To roughen the surface of, as of water; to make uneven by agitation or commotion. "The ruffled seas." Dryden. b To throw, as an enemy, into confusion. c To irritate; vex.
5. To insult; annoy; attack; bully. Obs. exc. Scot.
6. To throw or pile together in a disorderly manner; to disarrange; rumple.
7. To riffle (the leaves of a book); to shuffle (cards).
8. To shake; brandish. Obs.
Syn. — Disarrange, disorder; fret, irritate, nettle.
Ant. — Smooth, arrange; soothe, placate, appease.

ruf'fle (rŭf''l), v. i. [ME. ruffelen to struggle, swagger; prob. akin to LG. ruffeln, MLG. ruffen, to fornicate, and to E. REAVE. Cf. RUFFIAN.] 1. To grow rough, boisterous, or turbulent; to be quarrelsome; also, to fight.
2. To become disordered; to be tossed about. Rare.
3. To put on airs; to swagger; — often with the indefinite pronoun it; as, to ruffle it before the gaping throng.

ruf'fle, n. [From ruffle to wrinkle; in sense 3 partly fr. ruffle to grow rough.] 1. That which is ruffled; specif., a strip of lace, cambric, chiffon, etc., plaited or gathered, as on one edge, and used as a trimming; a frill.
2. Something resembling a ruffle in shape or position. Specif.: a = 4th RUFF, 3 a. b = 4th RUFF, 3 c. c The mesentery of an ox or other food animal. d Mach. The group of wings on a metal gudgeon for a wooden shaft. See 2d GUDGEON, Illust.
3. State of being ruffled, or disturbed; irritation; as, to put the mind in a ruffle; also, a commotion; confusion; a tumult; brawl.
4. An irritating or annoying experience or incident.
5. A roughness or irregularity of surface; a ripple; as, a ruffle of foam on the coral reef.
6. Display; showy activity; proud splendor.
7. A hole in a boat's keel through which a rope is rove by which to haul the boat up a beach, etc.; — often in pl.

ruf'fle, v. t. [See RUFF, n., in this sense.] Mil. To beat with the ruffle, as a drum. — v. i. To beat a ruffle on a drum.

ruf'fle, n. Mil. A low, vibrating beat of a drum, not so loud as a roll; — called also ruff.

ruf'fled (rŭf''ld), adj. a Having ruffles. b Hort. Having a distinctly waved margin.

ruf'fler (rŭf'lĕr), n. 1. One who ruffles; a swaggerer; braggart; boaster.
2. A ruffian; bully; also, a thieving beggar or tramp. Obs.
3. That which ruffles; specif., a sewing machine attachment for making ruffles.

ruf'fling (rŭf'lĭng), n. A ruffle, or ruffles collectively.

ruf'fly (-lĭ), adj. Like a ruffle; having plaits, folds, or puckers. — ruf'fli-ness (-lĭ-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

ruff'y-tuf'ty (rŭf'ĭ-tŭf'tĭ), adj. Tousled; tumbled; disordered. Nonce Word.

ru'fi- (rōō'fĭ-). A combining form from Latin rufus [see RED], red, as in: ruficarpous, ruficaudate, ruficoccin, ruficornate, rufigallic.

ru'fo- (rōō'fō-). A combining form from Latin rufus, red, denoting reddishly, as in ru'fo-fer-ru'gi-nous, ru'fo-ful'vous, ru'fo-fus'cous, ru'fo-pic'e-ous, ru'fo-tes-ta'ceous. See FERRUGINOUS, etc.

ru'fous (rōō'fŭs), adj. [L. rufus. See RED.] 1. Of any of several colors, averaging reddish red-yellow in hue, of high saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.
2. Hence, reddish; of a sanguine complexion.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rufous-backed	rufous-colored	rufous-rumped rufous-banded	rufous-crowned	rufous-spotted rufous-bellied	rufous-edged	rufous-tailed rufous-billed	rufous-haired	rufous-tinged rufous-breasted	rufous-headed	rufous-toed rufous-brown	rufous-hooded	rufous-vented rufous-buff	rufous-naped	rufous-winged rufous-chinned	rufous-necked	rufous-yellow ruf'ter hood (rŭf'tĕr). Also ruf'ter, n. [Cf. 4th RUFF.] Falconry. A kind of hood for a newly taken hawk.

ruf'ty-tuf'ty (rŭf'tĭ-tŭf'tĭ; 66), adj. [Cf. ROUGH, adj.] Harsh; violent; rough; also, dirty; unkempt.

ru'fu-lous (rōō'fū-lŭs), adj. [L. rufulus.] Somewhat rufous.

ru'fus (rōō'fŭs), adj. [L.] Rufous.

Ru'fus (rōō'fŭs; 242), n. [L.] 1. Literally, red; red-haired; — masculine proper name.
2. William II, king (1087–1100) of England; — so called from his ruddy complexion.

rug (rŭg), n. [Of Scand. origin; cf. Nor. dial. rugga a coarse rug, Sw. rugg entangled hair, ruggig rugged, shaggy; akin to ON. rögg tuft, shagginess, and to E. ROUGH. Cf. RAG.] 1. A kind of coarse, heavy frieze, formerly used for garments; also, a garment of this material.
2. A piece of thick, heavy fabric, usually with a nap or pile, and commonly of wool, used for various purposes, as for floor covering, as a portière, for a wrap or lap robe, etc.; also, a mat, etc., made from the pelts of animals. In general, a floor rug differs from a carpet in being woven either in one piece of a definite shape (square or rectangular) and design, or (made rugs) in breadths so made as to form a definite design when they are united, and in not being intended to cover the floor entirely. See ORIENTAL RUG.
☞ Rug often forms part of phrases indicating the nature, purpose, or origin of the particular rug; as, Oriental rug; steamer rug; automobile rug; camel's hair rug.
3. A covering or blanket, as for a horse or cow. Brit.
4. A kind of strong liquor. Obs.
5. A rough, woolly, or shaggy dog. Obs.

rug (rŭg), adj. Comfortable; cozy; snug.

rug (dial. rŭg, rōōg), v. t. & i. [ME. ruggen, of Scand. origin; cf. ON. rugga to rock (a cradle), Nor. dial. rogga to put in motion, drive; akin to E. ROCK, v.] To pull; wrench; tear. — n. A pull; tug; haul; also, a good bargain; a haul. Both Obs. exc. Dial.

ru'ga (rōō'gȧ), n.; pl. RUGÆ (-jē). [L. See ROUGH.] Nat. Hist. A wrinkle; fold; — chiefly in pl.; as, the rugæ of the mucous membrane of the stomach.

ru'gate (rōō'gāt), adj. [L. rugatus, past part. of rugare to wrinkle, fr. ruga a wrinkle.] Wrinkled; rugose.

Rug'bei'an (rŭg-bē'ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Rugby in England, esp. to Rugby school. — n. A pupil at Rugby school.

Rug'by (rŭg'bĭ), n. Also Rugby football. [So named because orig. played at Rugby school, Rugby, Warwickshire, Eng.] A kind of football game. See FOOTBALL, n., 2.

Rugby game. See FIVES.

rug'ged (rŭg'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [See RUG, n.] 1. Having a rough uneven surface; not smooth; irregular; rough; as, a rugged mountain; a rugged path; rugged bark.
2. Specif.: a Not neat or well kept; uneven; unkempt.
His well-proportioned beard made rough and rugged. Shak.
b Rough with bristles or hair; shaggy. "The rugged Russian bear." Shak. c Full of furrows and ridges; seamed; wrinkled; as, a rugged road, forehead.
3. Harsh; hard; austere; sometimes, sour; surly; crabbed; — said of temper, character, appearance, etc., or of persons.
4. With no mark of refinement or culture; rude; uncivil; ungracious; unpolished, — said of conduct, manners, etc.
5. Characterized by active violence; fierce; turbulent; tempestuous; stormy; as, rugged weather.
6. Rough to the ear; harsh; — said of sound, style, etc.
The harsh cadence of a rugged line. Dryden.
7. Vigorous; robust; strong; sturdy; hardy; — said of health, physique, etc.; as, rugged common sense.
— rug'ged-ly, adv. — rug'ged-ness, n.

Rug-gie'ro (rōōd-jā'rō), or Ro-ge'ro (rō-jā'rō), n. [It.] In Ariosto's Orlando Furioso, a young Saracen knight born of Christian parents, who falls in love with, and finally marries, Bradamante, Ruggiero having become a Christian. From their union Ariosto derives the house of Este. Ruggiero is noted for having a hippogriff, and also a veiled shield whose dazzling splendor blinded all who saw it.

rug'ging (rŭg'ĭng), n. A coarse kind of woolen cloth used for rugs, wrapping, blanketing, etc.

rug'gle (rŭg''l; rōōg''l), n. & v. [See RUG to pull.] Shake; tug; pull. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

rug gown. A gown made of rug, or of coarse, shaggy cloth; hence, one wearing such a gown, as a watchman. — rug'-gowned, adj.

rug'gy (rŭg'ĭ), adj. Rugged; rough. Obs. exc. Dial.

ru-go'sa rose (rōō-gō'sȧ). A race of garden roses descended from the Japanese Rosa rugosa.

ru'gose (rōō'gōs; rōō-gōs'), adj. [L. rugosus, fr. ruga a wrinkle.] Wrinkled; full of wrinkles; as, rugose cheeks; specif., Bot. & Plant Pathol., having the veinlets sunken and the spaces between elevated, as leaves of sage or horehound. — ru'gose-ly, adv.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
rugose-leaved, rugose-punctate.

ru-gos'i-ty (rōō-gŏs'ĭ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [LL. rugositas; cf. F. rugosité.] Quality or state of being rugose; a wrinkled place; a wrinkle.

ru'gous (rōō'gŭs), adj. [Cf. F. rugueux.] Wrinkled; rugose.

ru'gu-lose (rōō'gū-lōs), adj. Having small rugæ; finely wrinkled.

ru'in (rōō'ĭn; 242), n. [ME. ruine, fr. OF. ruine, fr. L. ruina. See CONGRUOUS.] 1. Act of falling or tumbling down; fall. Now Rare.
2. Such material, moral, or spiritual change in anything as to destroy it or impair its effectiveness; injury; destruction; overthrow; as, the ruin of a ship, health, character.
3. That which causes or promotes, or the act of causing or promoting, such destruction or impairment of effectiveness; ruination; as, drink will be the ruin of him.
4. That which is fallen down and become worthless from injury or decay; as, his mind is a ruin; esp., pl., the remains of a destroyed or dilapidated house, city, or the like.
5. State of being decayed, or of having become ruined or worthless; as, to go to ruin.
6. Gin; esp., gin of inferior quality. Slang, Eng.
Syn. — Downfall, perdition, subversion, defeat; wreck.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

ruin-breathing	ruin-heaped	ruin-loving ruin-crowned	ruin-hurled	ruinproof ru'in (rōō'ĭn), v.; RU'INED (rōō'ĭnd); RU'IN-ING. [F. ruiner. See RUIN, n.] Transitive: 1. To bring to ruin or destruction; to cause to fall to pieces and decay; to impair essentially; to overthrow; destroy.

By thee raised, I ruin all my foes. Milton.
2. Specif.: a To bring to financial ruin or bankruptcy. b To bring to moral ruin; to deprive (a woman) of chastity.
3. To damage; injure; harm; spoil; as, you have ruined your gown with that coffee stain.
—, Intransitive: 1. To rush headlong or plunge downward.
2. To fall to ruin; to go to ruin; to become decayed or dilapidated; to perish; as, we shall ruin the faster.
Syn. — Destroy, subvert, demolish.
Ant. — Preserve, save.

ru'in-a-ble (rōō'ĭn-ȧ-b'l), adj. See -ABLE.

ruin agate. Mineral. A variety of agate, usually brown, showing, on a polished surface, markings suggestive of ruined buildings.

ru'in-ate (rōō'ĭ-nāt), v.; -AT'ED (-nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -AT'ING (-nāt'ĭng). [ML. ruinatus, past part. of ruinare to ruin. See RUIN.] Transitive: 1. To demolish; subvert; overthrow; destroy; ruin.
I will not ruinate my father's house. Shak.
2. To reduce to poverty or wretchedness.
3. To cause to fall; to cast down. Obs. Spenser.
—, Intransitive: To fall; to tumble; to fall into ruin. Rare.

ru'in-ate, adj. [ML. ruinatus, past part.] Ruined.

ru'in-a'tion (-nā'shŭn), n. 1. Act of ruining, or state of being ruined.
2. Cause of ruin; destructive element or factor; as, that habit will be the ruination of him. Collog.

ru'in-a'tious (-nā'shŭs), adj. Ruinous. Local, U. S.

ru'in-a'tor (rōō'ĭ-nā'tĕr), n. Ruiner. Rare.

ru'ined (rōō'ĭnd), adj. That has suffered decay, dilapidation, or impairment of effectiveness; gone to ruin.
Reminiscences of a ruined generation. G. Smith.
Syn. — RUINED, DILAPIDATED. RUINED implies utter downfall or decay, which may not be inconsistent with (often tragic) dignity; that is DILAPIDATED (see etym. of v. t.) which is falling into partial ruin or decay, esp. through neglect; the word often connotes a certain degree of contempt; as, "nor appeared less than Archangel ruined" (Milton); "There is a power and magic in the ruined battlement, for which the palace of the present hour must yield its pomp" (Byron); "this dilapidated wharf . . . along which . . . the track of many languid years is seen in a border of unthrifty grass" (Hawthorne); a dilapidated hat.

ru'in-er (rōō'ĭ-nĕr), n. One who or that which ruins.

ru'ing (rōō'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of RUE. Hence, n. Sorrow; grief; lament; repentance.

ru'in-i-form' (rōō'ĭ-nĭ-fôrm'; rōō-ĭn'ĭ-), adj. [F. ruiniforme.] Having the appearance of ruins; — said of certain minerals.

ruin marble. A brecciated limestone giving, when cut and polished, a mosaic effect suggesting a picture of ruins.

ru'in-ous (rōō'ĭ-nŭs; 242), adj. [OF. ruineux. See RUIN.] 1. Causing, or tending to cause, ruin; destructive; baneful; pernicious; as, a ruinous project.
2. Characterized by ruin; ruined; dilapidated; as, an edifice, bridge, or wall in a ruinous state.
3. Composed of, or consisting of, ruins.
The old town is a desolate ruinous place. Borrow.
Syn. — Deadly, subversive; decayed, demolished, tumbledown. Ant. — Favorable, beneficial; well-kept.
— ru'in-ous-ly, adv. — ru'in-ous-ness, n.

rukh (rŭk), n. [Hind. rakh.] Forest; jungle. Kipling.

rukh (rōōk). Var. of ROC.

rul'a-ble (rōōl'ȧ-b'l), adj. That may be ruled, subject to rule; accordant or conformable to rule.

Ru'län'der (rōō'lĕn'dĕr), n. [G.] A kind of Baden wine. See RHINE WINE.

rule (rōōl; 242), n. [ME. reule, riule, fr. OF. riule, reule, rieule, fr. L. regula a ruler, rule, model, fr. regere, rectum, to lead straight, to direct. See RIGHT, adj.; cf. REGULAR.]
1. A prescribed guide for conduct or action; a governing direction; an authoritative enactment; a regulation; prescription; precept; as, the rules governing a school; a rule of etiquette or propriety; the rules of cricket.
2. Specif.: a The laws or regulations prescribed by the founder of a religious order for observance by its members; as, the rule of St. Dominic. b A regulation or by-law governing procedure in a legislative or corporate body, esp. such as determine the order of business, guarantee freedom of opinion, limit the use of time, etc.; as, the Committee on Rules in the House. See 1st JOINT RULE.
3. That which is done in conformance with a prescribed plan or system; uniform or established course of things; systematic method or practice; usual course or manner of procedure; as, my rule is to rise at six o'clock.
'T is against the rule of nature. Shak.
4. A limit set by order or regulation; a definite boundary or limited area, as that formerly established near a prison for prisoners of certain classes, as debtors; as, to live on rule. Hist.
5. Common practice; usual or normal case, condition, quality, action, or the like, accepted as standard; as, we have cold winters as a general rule; in many ways politically Switzerland is an exception to the rule.
6. Conduct in general; behavior. Obs. "This uncivil rule." Shak. Specif.: Scot. & Dial. Eng. Behavior tending to be unruly; also, a rude or unruly person.
7. Act of ruling; administration of law; government; sway; empire; authority; control; as, absolute rule over the natives; also, the period during which a (specified) government exercises sway; as, during the rule of Elizabeth.
8. a A straight strip of wood, metal, or the like, which serves as a guide in drawing a straight line; a ruler. b A measuring instrument consisting of a graduated bar of wood, ivory, metal, or the like, which is usually marked so as to show inches and fractions of an inch or centimeters and millimeters, and often jointed so that it may be folded compactly, esp. when intended for workmen's use.
9. Regular or serial order; a line; row. Obs.
10. A ruling, or straight line drawn on paper.
11. [cap.] Astron. = NORMA, 5. Rare.
12. Gram. A general principle concerning the formation or use of words, or a concise statement thereof; as, the rules for forming plurals of nouns.
13. Law. An order or direction made by a court, usually in writing, regulating court practice (general rule) or regulating the action of parties in special cases (special rule).

---

ruf'fi-an-dom, n. See -DOM. ruf'fi-an-hood', n. See -HOOD. ruf'fi-an-like', adj. See -LIKE. ruf'fi-a'no (rōō'fĭ-ä'nō), ruf-fi'a-no (rō-fē'ȧ-nō), n.; pl. RUFFIANI (-ä'nē), RUFFIANI (rōō-fē'ȧ-nē). [It. See RUFFIAN.] = RUFFIAN. Obs. ruf'fi-an-ous, adj. Ruffianly. Obs. ruf'fle (rŭf'l). Var. of ROUGHY. ruf'fin, n. [often cap.] [Origin obscure; cf. RUFFIAN.] = RUFFIAN, n., 3. ruf'fin-ous, adj. Ruffianly. Obs. ruf'fle-head'ed (66), adj. See -HEADED. ruf'fle-less, adj. See -LESS. ruf'fle-ment (-mĕnt), n. See -MENT. ruff'like', adj. See -LIKE. ruff'mans, n. Hedge. Obs.
ruff'-necked', adj. See -NECKED. ruff'peck', n. Bacon. Obs. ruff'y. Var. of ROUGHY. ruf'l. Ruffle. Refl. Sp. rufous hummingbird. See HUMMINGBIRD. ruft. Var. of RIFT, belch. ruft. Ruffed. Ref. Sp.
Rugby tan. = ARAB BROWN. rugg. Var. of RUG, pull.
Rug'ger (rŭg'ĕr), n. = RUGBY. Slang, Eng. rug'head'ed, adj. Having shaggy hair; shockheaded. Obs. ru'gine, n. [F.] 1. Swg. A raspatory. Obs.
2. A soft cloth. Obs. ru'gine, v. t. [F. ruginer to scrape.] To scrape. Obs. rug'like', adj. See -LIKE. rug'mak'er, n. See MAKER. — rug'mak'ing, n. & adj.
Ru-go'sa (rōō-gō'sȧ). [NL.] Syn. of TETRACORALLA. [BAIC. rugose mosaic. See POTATO MO-Ru-ha'mah (rōō-hä'mȧ; -hä'-mȧ). Bib. [cont.]
Ruhm'korff coil. = INDUCTION ru'i-nek. Var. of ROONEK. ru'in-like', adj. See -LIKE.
Ruk'bat (rŭk'băt), n. [Ar. rukbah knee, in full rukbat al-rāmi the archer's knee. Cf. RUCHBAH.] See STAR, Table.

---

14. Math. A determinate method prescribed for performing any operation and attaining a certain result.
15. Print. a A thin type-high plate of metal (usually brass) with a line or lines as its face. Single rule has one light line; parallel rule, two light lines; double rule, a light and a heavy line; dotted rule, a line of dots; wave rule, a wave line. b A dash. British. c A composing rule.
Syn. — Law, maxim, guide, canon, order, method; direction. See PRINCIPLE.
— as a rule. As a general thing; usually; ordinarily; as, he behaves well, as a rule. — under the rule. New York Stock Exchange. In accordance with a rule providing for sales or purchases to be made by an officer of the exchange for the account of members not fulfilling their contracts made on the floor.

rule (rōōl; 242), v.; RULED (rōōld); RUL'ING (rōōl'-). [OF. reuler, ruiler, fr. L. regulare. See RULE, n.; cf. REGULATE.] Transitive: 1. To control the will and actions of; to exercise authority or dominion over; to govern; manage. "One that ruleth well his own house." 1 Tim. iii. 4.
2. To control or direct by influence, counsel, or persuasion; to guide. "She will be ruled . . . by me." Shak.
3. To be dominant in; to form the controlling part, factor, or influence of; as, a note of quiet humor rules the essay.
4. To establish or settle by or as by a rule; to fix by universal or general consent or practice. Now Rare.
That's a ruled case with the schoolmen. Atterbury.
5. To decide; to command authoritatively; specif., Law, to require or command by rule; to give as a direction, order, or determination of court.
6. To keep within reasonable limits; to moderate or restrain; as, to rule one's passions or desires.
7. To mark with lines made with a pen, pencil, etc., guided by a rule or ruler; to print or mark with lines by means of a rule or other contrivance effecting a similar result; as, to rule a sheet of paper; also, to mark (a line) on a paper as with a ruler; as, he ruled vertical lines on the sheet.
8. Hence, to arrange in more or less regular order; to mark off; arrange; also, Obs., to decorate; ornament.
—, Intransitive: 1. To have power or command; to exercise supreme authority; — often followed by over.
By me princes rule, and nobles. Prov. viii. 16.
2. Com. To keep within a (certain) range for a time; to be in general, or as a rule; as, prices rule lower today.
3. Law. To lay down and settle a rule or order of court; to decide an incidental point; to enter a rule.
Syn. — Influence, counsel, persuade. See GOVERN.

rule out. Also rule off. Horse Racing. To debar (a horse, rider, or driver) from a race or heat.

rule the roast. To be at the head of affairs. Cf. rule the roost, under ROOST, n. "The new-made duke that rules the roast." Shak.

rule against perpetuities. See PERPETUITY, 4 b.

Rule Britannia. A patriotic song, regarded as a British national anthem, composed (1740) by Thomas Augustine Arne (see Biog.) for his masque of Alfred, to commemorate the accession of George I. Handel used it in his Occasional Oratorio (1746).

ruled surface (rōōld). Geom. A surface, properly a skew surface, generated by a moving straight line; also, sometimes, a developable surface where consecutives intersect; scroll; regulus.

rule in Shelley's case. Law. See SHELLEY'S CASE.

rule joint. A knuckle joint having shoulders that abut when the connected pieces are opened out fully, and thus permit folding in one direction only.

rule'mon'ger (rōōl'mŭng'gĕr), n. A stickler for rules; a slave of rules.

rule ni'si (nī'sī). Law. A rule upon condition, to become absolute unless cause is shown to the contrary.

rule of coss (kŏs). [It. regola di cosa rule of thing, the unknown quantity being called the cosa, or the thing.] Algebra. Obs.

rule of eleven. Whist. The rule that when a player leads his fourth best card of a suit, other than an honor, the number of its pips subtracted from eleven gives the number of higher cards of the same suit not in the leader's hand.

rule of faith. A final standard for the determination of truth in religion. Specif., Theol., the repository and authoritative criterion of Christian belief, identified by Roman Catholics with the Scriptures and ecclesiastical tradition, by the older Protestantism with the Scriptures alone, and by some Modernists with Jesus Christ religiously interpreted as revelation of God.

rule of false, falsehood, or false position. a The approximation to a zero of a function $f(x)$ obtained by assuming that $f(x)$ is a linear function of x in the interval $a \leq x \leq b$, where a and b are two nearly equal values of x for which $f(x)$ has values of opposite sign. b A rule for the approximate construction of a geometrical figure by a succession of trials.

rule of proportion. The rule of three.

rule of supposition. = RULE OF FALSE a.

rule of the air. Any provision of the code of regulations governing the meeting and overtaking of other aircraft, the use of defined air lanes of travel, height of flying over cities, etc. In some jurisdictions there are statutory provisions.

rule of the road. 1. Law. Any of the various regulations imposed upon travelers by land or water for their mutual convenience or safety. In the United States it is a rule of the road that land travelers passing in opposite directions shall turn out each to his own right, and generally that overtaking persons or vehicles shall turn out to the left; in England the rule for vehicles (but not for pedestrians) is the opposite of this.
2. Naut. Any of the rules making up a code governing vessels as to the lights to be carried, the signals to be made, and the action of one vessel with respect to another when risk of collision exists. The International Rules of the Road apply on the high seas, the Inland Rules of the Road apply in United States waters within certain geographical limits, and on the Great Lakes and certain rivers. The Pilot Rules amplify the Inland Rules.

rule of three. Math. The rule for finding the fourth term of a proportion where three are given. The rule states that the product of the means equals the product of the extremes.

rule'-of-thre'. n. The birthroot Trillium erectum.

rule of thumb. Also rule o' thumb. Any rude process or operation, like that of using the thumb as a rule in measuring; hence, judgment and practical experience as distinguished from scientific knowledge.

rule of trial and error. Math. = RULE OF FALSE b.

rul'er (rōōl'ĕr; 242), n. 1. One who or that which rules; specif.: a One who exercises sway, authority, or dominating influence; esp., one who exercises the governing powers commonly associated with a king, or the like. b A worker who, or a machine that, rules paper.
2. A straight or curved strip of wood, metal, etc., with a smooth edge, used for guiding a pen or pencil in drawing lines; a rule or straightedge.

rul'er (rōōl'ĕr; 242), v. t. To strike with a ruler.

rul'er·ship, n. The office, function, or status of a ruler; sovereignty; rule.

rul'ing (-ĭng), n. 1. Act of one who rules; government.
2. Act of drawing ruled lines; also, a ruled line, or ruled lines, specif. those of a diffraction grating.
3. Law. A decision or rule of a judge or a court, esp. one on a point of law, usually given orally.
4. Math. A generator of a ruled surface.

rul'ing, adj. 1. That rules, or controls; predominant; reigning; as, a ruling passion; a ruling sovereign.
2. [From RULING, n.] Pertaining to, or used in, making ruled lines.
3. Com. Of prices, prevailing at a given time; current; as, the ruling cost of hogs in Chicago; also, average; as, the ruling price of wheat over the last thirty years.
— rul'ing·ly, adv.

ruling elder. A lay presbyter or member of a Presbyterian church session; — in distinction from a minister, who is a teaching (and ruling) elder. See 2d ELDER, 3.

ruling engine. Physics. An exceedingly accurate and delicately adjusted form of ruling machine for ruling diffraction gratings, and other fine and accurately spaced rulings.

ruling grade. Railroads. The grade, on any particular road, regarded as limiting the weight of a train that can be drawn by one engine. See PUSHER GRADE.

ruling pen. A draftsman's pen for ruling lines, having a pair of adjustable metal blades or points between which the ink is contained, the thickness of the line being regulated by a screw which closes the blades or allows them to open.

rull (rōōl), v. t. [Var. of ROLL, v.] To wheel or trundle, as ore. — rull'er (-ĕr), n.

rul'lion (rŭl'yŭn), n. [AS. rifeling. See RIVELING; cf. RILLING.] Chiefly Scot. 1. A kind of shoe or sandal made of untanned leather.
2. A large rough-looking person or creature; esp., a coarse, masculine woman.

rum (rŭm), n. [Short for RUMBULLION. Cf. RUMBOOZE.]
1. An alcoholic liquor prepared by fermenting molasses, macerated sugar cane, or other saccharine cane product, and distilling. The new (white) rum is colored with caramel and aged. Rum is made chiefly in the West Indies. Its flavor is partly due to ethyl butyrate, called rum essence in the manufacture of factitious rum.
2. Hence, loosely, any intoxicating liquor; intoxicating liquor in general; as, the crimes due to rum. U. S.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rum-bred	rum-fired	rum-producing rum-crazed	rum-flavored	rum-selling rum-drinking	rum-nosed	rum-smelling rum (rŭm), adj. [From obs. rum, rome, a slang word for good, used in various combinations, prob. fr. Romany rom a husband, a gypsy. See ROMANY.] Slang. 1. Queer; odd; — sometimes with derogatory implication.

Authors are a rum lot. Stephen McKenna.
2. Sometimes, dangerous; serious; "tough"; as, he would be a rum customer to handle; a rum go.
3. Unusually fine; excellent.

rum (rŭm), n. Anything queer or odd; a country parson; a rum one. Slang, Obs.

rum (rōōm), n. [Assamese rām.] A blue dye, resembling indigo, from an East Indian shrub (Strobilanthes flaccidifolius).

rum (rŭm), n. = 2d RUMMY.

rum (rōōm; rŏŏm). Var. of ROOM. Obs. exc. Dial.

Rum (rōōm), or Roum (rōōm), n. [Ar. Rūm, pl. of Rūmī belonging to Rome.] An indefinite term applied originally in medieval times by Moslems to Europeans and esp. to the peoples of the Byzantine empire, including Asia Minor; also, later, the Seljuk empire in Asia Minor.

ru·mal' (rōō·mäl'; -môl'), n. [Hind. & Per. rūmāl, fr. Per. ru face + māl wiping.] a A kerchief used for a headdress by men in India. b A fabric of cotton or silk made in Bombay, India.

Ru·ma'ni·an (rōō·mā'nĭ·ăn; -mān'yăn), adj. Officially Ro·ma'ni·an (rō·mā'nĭ·ăn; -mān'yăn). [NL. Rumania ⟨cf. F. Romanie), fr. Rumanian word Ruman Rumanian, fr. L. Romanus Roman. See ROMAN.] Of or pertaining to Rumania, which was formed by the union of Moldavia and Walachia in 1861 and became a kingdom in 1881. — n. a An inhabitant of Rumania or one whose native speech is Rumanian. b The language of Rumania, a Romance language containing many words from other tongues, as the Slavic, Turkish, and Greek. Modern Rumanian employs a Latin alphabet. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

Rumanian Church. The Orthodox Church of Rumania. The Rumanian Constitution of 1923 recognizes, also, as a state church the Greek Catholic (which see).

Rumanian Uniat. See UNIAT.

‖rum'ba (rōōm'bä; U. S. rŭm'bä), n. [Sp., prob. of Afr. origin.] In Cuba, a Negro dance of violent movements, the performance of which is forbidden by law; also, U. S., a dance imitative of this.

rum barge. A powerful drink. Cf. RUMBOOZE. Obs. exc. Dial.

rum'be·low' (rŭm'bē·lō'), n. Obs. 1. A meaningless burden in ancient songs, esp. sea songs.
2. [Cf. ML. rumbula, an insulting appellation of a woman.] A wanton; a prostitute.

rum'ble (rŭm'b'l), v.; -BLED (-b'ld); -BLING (-blĭng). [ME. romblen; akin to D. rommelen, G. rummeln, Dan. rumle; of imitative origin.] Intransitive: 1. To make a low, heavy, rolling sound; to sound, esp. low and continuously. "Let music rumble." Marlowe.
In the mean while the skies 'gan rumble sore. Surrey.
2. To travel or go with an accompanying low, heavy, rolling sound; as, he rumbled down the avenue in his truck.
3. To speak in a low, rolling tone; also, to move or stir about heavily and noisily.
4. To murmur; ripple. Spenser.
—, Transitive: 1. To stir up; knock about; esp., to roll or move around or along so as to make a noise.
2. To utter or give forth in a low, rolling voice.
3. To polish or otherwise treat in a rumble (sense 4).

rum'ble (rŭm'b'l), n. 1. A noisy report; rumor; also, a complaint; a grumble. Obs.
2. A noisy disturbance; uproar. Obs.
3. A low, heavy, continuous sound like that made by heavy wagons or the reverberation of thunder.
4. A tumbling barrel or rattler.
5. a A seat for servants, behind the body of a carriage. b Short for RUMBLE SEAT.

rum'ble (rŭm'b'l), v. i. To ramble. Obs.

rum'ble–bum'ble, n. Jumble; hodgepodge; miscellaneous mass or mixture. Colloq.

rum'ble·gar'ie (rŭm'l·gär'ĭ), adj. Careless; disorderly; harum-scarum. Scot.

rum'ble·gump'tion (-gŭm'shŭn), n. [See GUMPTION.] Good judgment; sense; intelligence. Scot.

rum'ble·ment (rŭm'b'l·mĕnt), n. A rumbling sound. Rare.

rum'bler (rŭm'blĕr), n. One who or that which rumbles; specif.: a A tumbling barrel. b A worker or machine that rumbles castings, etc.

rumble seat. A folding seat in the back of an automobile, not covered by the top, as in a coupé or roadster.

rum'ble–tum'ble, n. 1. = RUMBLE, n., 5 a.
2. A heavy coach or cart that moves with a deep, rumbling sound.

rum'bling (rŭm'blĭng), n. 1. A low continued rolling or jarring sound, as of thunder.
2. Med. A rumbling noise produced by gas in the bowels.

rum'bling, adj. That rumbles. — rum'bling·ly, adv.

rum blossom. A grog blossom. Colloq.

rum'bly (rŭm'blĭ), adj. a Causing rumbling or rattling; rough; — said of a road, path, or the like. b Tending to rumble or rattle; — said of thunder, a cart, wheel, etc.

rum'bo (rŭm'bō), n. [Cf. RUM liquor.] Grog. Archaic.

rum·booze' (rŭm·bōōz'), n. [From RUM, adj.] Now Rare. a Excellent liquor; good wine. b = RAMBOOZE.

rum·bow'ling (-bō'lĭn), n. [See RUMBULLION.] Grog. Sailors' Slang.

rum·bul'lion (rŭm·bŭl'yŭn; dial. rŭm·bŏŏl'-), n. [Appar. fr. RUM, adj. Cf. RUM, n.] 1. Uproar; fracas.
2. Rum.

rum·bump'tious (rŭm·bŭmp'shŭs), adj. Overbearing; bumptious; also, rambunctious. Slang.

rum·bus'ti·cal (-bŭs'tĭ·kăl), adj. Rumbustious. Colloq.

rum·bus'tious (rŭm·bŭs'chŭs), adj. Rambunctious. Slang. — rum·bus'tious·ness, n.

rum cherry. The wild black cherry (Padus serotina), the fruit of which is used for making wine and sometimes for flavoring liquors.

rum·chun'der, n., or rum·chun'der silk (rŭm·chŭn'dĕr). A silk fabric of fine texture. India.

rum'–dum', adj. Also rum'–dumm'. [Prob. fr. G. rum rum + dumm stupid, silly.] Intoxicated; reeling from drunkenness. — rum'–dum', rum'–dumm', n. Both Colloq.

Ru·me'li·an (rōō·mē'lĭ·ăn; -mēl'yăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Rumelia, the name given (from the 15th century to the administrative changes of 1870–75) to the Turkish possessions on the Balkan peninsula. The population was mainly Bulgarian. — n. A native or inhabitant of Rumelia.

ru'men (rōō'mĕn), n.; pl. -MINA (-mĭ·nä). [L. rumen gullet; akin to L. ruminari, ruminare, to chew the cud, Skr. romantha chewing the cud, Lith. raumuo, -mens, muscle, flesh. Cf. RUMINATE.] 1. The first stomach or paunch of ruminants. See RUMINANTIA, Illust.
2. The cud of a ruminant.

ru'men·i'tis (rōō'mĕn·ī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. rumen + -itis.] Veter. Inflammation of the rumen.

ru'men·o·cen·te'sis (rōō'mĕn·ō·sĕn·tē'sĭs), n. [NL. See RUMEN; CENTESIS.] Veter. Puncture of the rumen with a trocar and cannula to permit the escape of gas.

ru'men·ot'o·my (-ŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [rumen + -tomy.] Vet. Surg. Incision into the rumen.

rum essence. See 1st RUM, 1.

Ru'mex (rōō'mĕks), n. [L., sorrel.] Bot. A large genus of plants (family Polygonaceae), the docks and sorrels, natives mainly of north temperate regions. They are herbs or rarely shrubs, having small flowers in axillary clusters, often aggregated in a large panicle. The fruit is 3-angled and wingless, enclosed in the persistent perianth, of which the inner segments often bear conspicuous tubercles (grains). See 1st DOCK, SORREL, CANAIGRE.

rum·fus'tian (rŭm·fŭs'chăn), n. A hot drink composed of strong beer, white wine or sherry, gin, egg yolks, sugar, and spices.

rum·gump'tion (rŭm·gŭm'shŭn; rŏŏm·gŏŏm'-), n. Keenness or shrewdness. Scot. & N. of Eng.

rum·gump'tious (-shŭs), adj. Keen; shrewd; also, bold; quarrelsome. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

Ru·mi'na (rōō·mī'nä), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. The goddess of nursing mothers.

ru'mi·nal (rōō'mĭ·năl; -n'l), adj. [L. ruminalis.] Ruminant. Rare.

ru'mi·nant (-mĭ·nănt), adj. [L. ruminans, -antis, pres. part. See RUMINATE.] 1. Chewing the cud; characterized by chewing again what has been swallowed; of or pertaining to the Ruminantia.
2. Hence, given to, or engaged in, pondering; meditative. — ru'mi·nant·ly, adv.

ru'mi·nant, n. A ruminant mammal.

Ru'mi·nan'ti·a (rōō'mĭ·năn'shĭ·ä), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A division of even-toed hoofed mammals including those that chew the cud, as the oxen, sheep, goats, antelopes, giraffes, deer, chevrotains, and camels. They are divided into three principal groups: the Pecora (which see), or true ruminants, in which the complex stomach is completely four-chambered; the Tylopoda, or camels and llamas, in which it is imperfectly four-parted; and the Tragulina, or chevrotains, in which it is three-parted. The first and largest division of the stomach of typical ruminants is the rumen, or paunch; the second, the reticulum; the third, the omasum, psalterium, or manyplies; and the fourth, the abomasum, or rennet bag. The herbaceous food is swallowed unchewed, and passes into the rumen or the reticulum, whence it is regurgitated in masses which are then thoroughly masticated and mixed with saliva while the animal is at rest. It is then swallowed, mixed with saliva to a semifluid mass, and passes through the reticulum and omasum into the abomasum, where it is acted on by the gastric juice.

Ruminantia. Stomach of a true Ruminant opened to show Internal Structure. A Esophagus; B Rumen; C Reticulum; D Omasum, Psalterium, or Manyplies; E Abomasum; F Intestine.

ru'mi·nate (rōō'mĭ·nāt; 242), v.; RU'MI·NAT'ED (-nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -NAT'ING (-nāt'ĭng). [L. ruminatus, past part. of rule'a·ble. Var. of RULABLE. rule'dom, n. See -DOM. rule'less, adj. See -LESS. rull'ey, rull'y (rŏŏl'ĭ). Vars. of ROLLEY. Dial. Eng. rullichie. Var. of ROLLICHE. rul'lock (rŭl'ŭk). Var. of ROWLOCK. rul'y (rōōl'ĭ), adj. [Cf. OF. reulé, riulé, rieulé, prop. past part. See RULE.] Orderly; obedient. Obs.

---

Ru'mah (rōō'mä). Bib.
Ru'man (rōō'măn), n. = WALACHIAN, n.
Ru·man'. Var. of ROUMAN.
Ru·manesh'. Var. of ROMANESH. rumb. Var. of RHUMB. rum'bld. Rumbled. Ref. Sp. rumbling mill. = TUMBLING BARREL. rum·bow'line (rŭm·bō'lĭn). Var. of ROMBOWLINE. rum'el·gump'tion. Var. of RUMBLEGUMPTION. Scot.

ruminari, ruminare. See RUMEN.] Intransitive: 1. To chew the cud; to chew again what has been chewed slightly and swallowed.
2. To bring up something again and again for mental consideration; to muse; meditate; ponder; reflect.
Apart from the hope of the gospel, who is there that ruminates on the felicity of heaven? T. Taylor.
—, Transitive: 1. To chew over again.
2. To meditate, think of, or ponder over; to muse on.
Mad with desire, she ruminates her sin. Dryden.
Syn. — See CONSIDER.

ru'mi·nate (rōō'mĭ·nāt), adj. Bot. Mottled as if chewed; — applied to the endosperm of certain seeds, as those of the nutmeg, in which the dark inner layer of the testa is infolded into the lighter endosperm.

ru'mi·nate, n. Cogitation; thought; meditation. Obs.

ru'mi·nat'ing (rōō'mĭ·nāt'ĭng), adj. Ruminant; contemplative. See RUMINATE, v. — ru'mi·nat'ing·ly, adv.

ru'mi·na'tion (-nā'shŭn), n. [L. ruminatio.] 1. Act or process of ruminating, or chewing the cud. See RUMINANTIA.
2. Act of ruminating, or considering at more or less length; deliberate meditation or reflection.
3. Med. Regurgitation, esp. with rechewing, of previously swallowed food, as in certain disorders of infants or adults; merycism.

ru'mi·na'tive (rōō'mĭ·nā'tĭv), adj. Inclined to, or engaged in, rumination or meditation; also, marked by careful consideration; fully meditated. — ru'mi·na'tive·ly, adv.

ru'mi·na'tor (-nā'tĕr), n. [LL.] 1. One who ruminates, or muses; one who deliberates or reflects.
2. Med. One who or that which ruminates.

rum'kin (rŭm'kĭn), n. A tailless fowl. Dial.

rum'kin (rŭm'kĭn), n. [Cf. MD. roomerken, and E. RUMMER. See -KIN.] A drinking vessel. Obs.

rum'mage (rŭm'ĭj), n. [MF. arrumage (F. arrimage), fr. arrumer (F. arrimer) to stow goods in the hold of a ship, fr. OF. aruner to arrange (fr. run hold) and rum, run, hold of a ship, of Teut. origin. See ROOM.] 1. Naut. A place or room for the stowage of cargo in a ship; also, act of arranging or stowing cargo. Obs.
2. Act or process of stirring. Obs.
3. A searching carefully by looking into every corner, and by turning things over; hence, an upheaval; derangement; confusion; turmoil.
4. Rubbish; litter; confused mass. Chiefly Dial.
5. Short for RUMMAGE SALE.

rum'mage (rŭm'ĭj), v.; -MAGED (-ĭjd); -MAG·ING (-ĭj·ĭng). Trans.: 1. Naut. To make room in, as a ship, for cargo; to move about, as packages, ballast, etc., for stowage; pack. Obs.
2. To search or examine thoroughly by looking into every corner, and turning over or removing goods or other things; to ransack; as, to rummage a dictionary for a satisfactory word. Also, Obs., to stir, as a liquid; to disarrange; put in confusion.
3. To bring to light by or as by a thorough search; to gather or collect as by searching.
Theobald had rummaged up a conclusion from some odd corner of his soul. Samuel Butler.
4. To search (an incoming ship) for dutiable or prohibited goods; — used of the customs officials. Eng.
—, Intransitive: 1. To stow cargo in the hold of a ship. Obs.
2. To make a search, as by looking into every corner.
I have often rummaged for old books in Little Britain. Swift.
3. To create a turmoil or confusion.

rum'mag·er (rŭm'ĭj·ĕr), n. One who or that which rummages; specif.: Obs. a An instrument for stirring a liquid, as in distilling. b Naut. A person on shipboard in charge of stowing the cargo.

rummage sale. A clearance sale of unclaimed goods in a public store, or of odds and ends accumulated in a shop or elsewhere, or collected for a sale for charity.

rum'mag·y (rŭm'ĭj·ĭ; rōōm'-), adj. Rubbishy; untidy. Dial. Eng.

rum'mer (rŭm'ĕr), n. [D. roemer, romer; cf. G. römer; perh. properly, Roman.] A large tall glass or drinking cup, esp. for wine.

rum'mes (rŭm'ĕs; -ĭs), rum'mish (-ĭsh), v. i. [Origin obscure.] To bellow; roar. Obs. Scot.

Rum millet. Among Moslems, the community of Greeks; specif., Orthodox Greeks.

rum'my (rŭm'ĭ), adj.; RUM'MI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); RUM'MI·EST. [From RUM, adj.] = RUM, queer; odd. Slang. — rum'mi·ly, adv. — rum'mi·ness, n.

rum'my (rŭm'ĭ), n. [Prob. fr. RUMMY rum, adj.] 1. A round game at cards played by drawing from the talon or taking the card face up beside it and discarding sequences, triplets, etc. The first player rid of all cards scores the pip value of those still held by other players.
2. Any odd or queer person; a chap; — often in a somewhat derogatory sense. Slang.

rum'my, adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, rum.

rum'my (rŭm'ĭ), n. One who drinks rum; a drunkard; also, a dealer in, or distiller of, rum or intoxicating liquors. Slang, U. S.

rum'ness, n. Quality or condition of being rum, or queer; oddity; idiosyncracy. Colloq.

rum'ney (rŭm'nĭ), n. [OF. romenie, rommenie, a kind of Greek wine, fr. Romenie, Roumenie, ML. Romania, the Roman Empire, Eastern Empire.] A heavy, sweet Greek wine, in use in England from the 14th to the 17th centuries.

ru'mor, ru'mour (rōō'mĕr; 242), n. [OF. rumor, rumour (F. rumeur), fr. L. rumor. See RUNE.] 1. A prolonged, indistinct noise; clamor; uproar. Obs.
2. A message; word; voice. Obs.
3. A flying or popular report; the common talk; tidings; hence, public fame; notoriety; reputation.
This rumor of him went forth throughout all Judea, and throughout all the region round about. Luke vii. 17.
4. A story or report current without any known authority for its truth; — in this sense often personified.

ru'mor, ru'mour, v. t.; -MORED, -MOURED (-rōō'mĕrd); -MOR·ING, -MOUR·ING. To tell by rumor; to give out tidings of; to noise abroad.

ru'mor, ru'mour, v. i. To murmur; complain. Obs.

ru'mor·er, ru'mour·er, n. One who spreads rumors.

ru'mor·ous (rōō'mĕr·ŭs), adj. 1. Pertaining to, or of the nature of, a rumor; filled with rumor or rumors.
2. Resounding; also, murmuring. Archaic.

rump (rŭmp), n. [ME. rumpe, of Scand. origin; cf. Dan. rumpe, Icel. rumpr; akin to D. romp trunk, body, LG. rump, G. rumpf.] 1. The posterior end of the body of an animal, generally including the buttocks; in birds, the region of the sacrum, or posterior part of the back, only.
2. Among butchers, the piece of beef back of the upper part of the sirloin. See BEEF, Illust.
3. The hind or tail end; a fag end; a remnant.
4. a [cap. with the] = RUMP PARLIAMENT. b Hence, any small remaining group of a party or body; — often attrib.; as, a rump cabinet; a rump caucus.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
Rump-branded, rump-feathered, rump-galled, rump-spotted.

rump (rŭmp), v. t. 1. Scot. & Dial. Eng. a To dock, as a horse. b To deprive of possessions; to bankrupt; also, to plunder.
2. Formerly, to insult, as by turning one's back upon. Slang.

rum'pad (rŭm'păd), n. The highway. Old Slang.

rum·pade' (rŭm·pād'), v. t. [From RUMPAD.] To hold up; rob. — rum'pad·der (rŭm'păd·ĕr), n. Both Old Slang.

rump bone. The sacrum.

-rumped (-rŭmpt). A combining form of rumped, adj., as in: goose'rumped', red'-rumped', square'-rumped', white'-rumped'.

Rum'pel·stilz'chen (rōōm'pĕl·shtĭlts'kĕn; -shĕn), n. Also Rum'pel·stilts'kin. [G.] In German legend and fairy tales, a kindly dwarf, or kobold.

Rump'er (rŭmp'ĕr), n. A member or a supporter of the Rump Parliament. Obs. exc. Hist.

rump'-fed', adj. Perhaps, fattened in the rump; pampered. "The rump-fed ronyon." Shak.

rum'ple (rŭm'p'l), v. t.; RUM'PLED (-p'ld); RUM'PLING (-plĭng). [MD. rumpelen, rompelen; akin to D. rimpelen to wrinkle, rompelig rough, uneven, G. rümpfen to wrinkle, OHG. rimpfan, AS. gehrumpen wrinkled, Gr. krambos dry, shriveled. Cf. FRUMP, RAMP, RIMPLE.] To make uneven; to form into irregular inequalities; to wrinkle; crumple; tousle; muss. — v. i. To form into wrinkles or creases; to muss.

rum'ple, n. [MD. rumpel, rompel. See RUMPLE, v.] A fold or plait; a wrinkle.

rum'ple (rŭm'p'l; rōōm'p'l), n. [From RUMP.] Rump; tail. Scot.

rump'less (rŭmp'lĕs; 119), adj. Lacking the coccygeal vertebrae, as certain domestic fowls; tailless.

rum'ply (rŭm'plĭ), adj. Rumpled.

Rump Parliament, or the Rump. The remnant of the Long Parliament after Pride's Purge. It was expelled by Cromwell in 1653, restored in 1659, and dissolved by Gen. Monk in 1660.

rump'scut'tle (rŭmp'skŭt''l), n. A wild hoydenish woman.

rump steak. A steak cut from the rump. See BEEF, Illust.

rum·pun'cheon (rŭm·pŭn'chŭn), n. A puncheon of rum.

rum'pus (rŭm'pŭs), n. [Origin obscure.] A disturbance; noisy confusion; a fracas. Colloq.

rum ram ruf. A humorous expression representing alliterative versification. Chaucer.

rum'run'ner (rŭm'rŭn'ĕr), n. One engaged in bringing prohibited alcoholic liquor ashore or across the border; one transporting alcoholic liquor. — rum'run'ning, n. U. S.

rum'shop' (-shŏp'), n. A saloon. U. S.

rum shrub. A drink composed of rum, water, sugar, and lime, lemon, or orange juice, with some flavoring extract.

rum sucker. The moss Polytrichum commune.

rum'swiz'zle (rŭm'swĭz''l), n. A fabric made in Ireland from imported undyed wool.

rum'ty·too' (rŭm'tĭ·tōō'; 66), adj. Also rum'ti·too'. [Of imitative origin.] Ordinary; commonplace. Colloq. & Dial. "A collection of rumtytoo people." Galsworthy.

run (rŭn), v.; past RAN (răn) or, Dial., RUN; past part. RUN; pres. part. & verbal n. RUN'NING. [ME. rinnen, rennen (pret. ran, past part. runnen, ronnen), fr. ON. and fr. AS. rinnan (pret. ran, past part. gerunnen), and iernan, irnan, to run, to flow (pret. orn, arn, earn, past part. urnen); akin to MD. rinnen, rennen, OS. & OHG. rinnan, G. rinnen, rennen, ON. rinna, renna, Goth. rinnan, and L. orior I rise, Gr. ornymi I stir up, rouse, OSlav. roniti to pour out, Skr. arṇas wave, flood, stream. See RIDE, RILL, RISE, ROAM; cf. EMBER, adj., IRRITATE, ORIENT, ORIGIN, RENNET.] Intransitive: 1. To move swiftly, smoothly, or with quick action; — said of animate or inanimate things, as a stream, a wagon, a person, etc.; to go rapidly; hasten.
2. Specif.: a To move rapidly by springing steps so that there is an instant in each step when neither foot touches the ground; — disting. from walk, trot, lope, etc. b Of a horse: to move in an accelerated gallop, each leg acting in turn as a propeller and supporter, and all four legs being for an instant in the air under the body. See 1st GAIT, 3.
3. Hence, to move, go, pass, or proceed.
As fast as our time runs, we should be very glad in most part of our lives that it ran much faster. Addison.
Specif.: a To go back and forth; to ply; as, the boat runs to Albany. b To steal off; to flee.
My conscience will serve me to run from this Jew. Shak.
c To contend in a race; also, to win a specified place in a contest; as, his horse ran third.
Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run, that ye may obtain. 1 Cor. ix. 24.
d To turn, as a wheel; to rotate on an axis or pivot; as, a wheel runs smoothly; more broadly, to hinge; turn; as, the argument runs on one point. e To migrate or move in schools; — said of fish; esp., to ascend a river to spawn.
f To extend; reach; as, his memory runs not back so far; his lineage runs back to King Alfred. g To pass from one state to another; as, to run into evil practices; to run in debt. h To pass or go quickly in thought or discourse. "Vergil . . . has run into a set of precepts foreign to his subject." Addison. i To flow, as a liquid; to ascend or descend; to course; as, rivers run to the sea; her blood ran cold. ‖ Now Dial. To curdle, as milk. k To become fluid; to melt; fuse, as ice, iron, etc. l To grow or develop, or tend to grow or develop; as, children run up rapidly.
A man's nature runs either to herbs or weeds. Bacon.
m To spread, diffuse out, or dissolve, as a color from a fabric in washing; to spread or blend together, as colors.
In the middle of a rainbow the colors are . . . distinguished, but near the borders they run into one another. I. Watts.
n To discharge pus or other matter; as, an ulcer runs.
o To have a course or direction; as, the line runs east.
Where the generally allowed practice runs counter to it. Locke.
p To accrue or become payable in due course; specif., to continue to accrue or become due in an amount increasing with the lapse of time; as, interest runs from July 1st. q To be in form of expression; to be written or inscribed; as, the writ runs in the king's name; the words of the song run as follows. r To be popularly known; to be generally received.
Neither was he ignorant what report ran of himself. Knolles.
s To creep, climb, or extend, up or along; to spread; as, the vine runs along the fence; fire ran along the roof. t To ravel lengthwise as in knitted goods, esp. stockings, owing to a dropped or broken stitch. u To continue over a period of time to be of a specified character, size, extent, or the like; as, the peaches are running unusually fine this season; the fish are running large. v To continue in existence, force, or operation; to remain effective; as, a contract that runs for five years.
4. To move, go, pass, happen, etc., repeatedly or in succession. Specif.: a To continue in a certain course; as, the cards run badly. b To continue treating a thing in thought or speech; — with on; as, how he does run on about his work. c To keep in action or motion; to proceed continuously; as, this engine runs night and day. d To make numerous drafts or demands for payment, as upon a bank; — with on. e To be played on the stage a number of successive days or nights; as, the piece ran for six months. f To continue at a certain rate or value; as, the ore runs as high as $200 to the ton. g To keep recurring, as ideas, thoughts, tunes, etc., in the mind; also, of the mind, to think repeatedly of some specified thing; as, the tune runs in his head; his thoughts run on the events of the day. h To pass as current; to circulate; as, old coins that still run in remote districts; a rumor that runs as truth. i Slang. To act as messenger, errand boy, or the like; as, he is running for the First National Bank; also, to act as a tout. j Colloq. To gad about; to roam; rove.
5. To deviate from a correct path; — said of a saw cut.
6. Agric. To become fluid or pasty when wet, as soil.
7. Cards. To proceed in one's score.
8. Golf. To roll or bound along the ground after touching it, subsequent to the carry; — said of the ball.
9. Law. To have a legal course; to continue in or have force, effect, or operation; also, to accompany as a valid obligation or right; thus, in conveyancing, covenants the rights and liabilities of which pass to assignees run with the land.
10. Music. To sing or play quickly; as, to run up the scale.
11. Naut. To sail before the wind, in distinction from reaching or sailing close hauled; — said of vessels.
12. Politics. To enter into a contest; to be or become a candidate; as, to run for office.
—, Transitive: 1. To cause to run (in various senses of RUN, v. i.); as, to run a horse, a whippet; to run a rope through a block.
2. To bring to a specified condition by, or as if by, running; as, he ran himself to death in her service; he ran the firm into debt.
3. To run in pursuit of; to pursue; hunt.
4. To pass over, traverse, or cover by, or as if by, running; as, the steamer ran twenty knots an hour; their children run the streets; run your eye over this column.
5. To go through, accomplish, or perform, by or as by running; as, to run a race, a tilt, a career, errands.
6. To follow (a specified way); to pursue (a course); as, airplanes that run the great circle across the ocean.
7. To pursue in thought; to carry in contemplation; to trace; as, to run the rumor back to its source.
8. To cause to enter; to thrust; as, to run a sword into or through the body; to run a nail into the foot; also, to cause to move, slide, flow, etc., in some specified direction or into some specified position; as, to run clothes through a wringer; to run letters into a file; to run in the remaining cards, that is, into their respective positions, as in numerical or alphabetical order.
9. To drive or force; to cause, or permit, to be driven.
They ran the ship aground. Acts xxvii. 41.
Others, accustomed to retired speculations, run natural philosophy into metaphysical notions. Locke.
10. To drive (sheep, cattle, etc.) to or on a grazing place; as, to run cattle on the range; also, to graze or feed over; as, the sheep in summer run the ranges.
11. a To fuse; melt; also, to mold; cast; as, to run bullets. b To render (a resin) soluble in oil by subjecting it to destructive distillation. c To treat; process; refine; as, to run oil in a still.
12. To cause to be drawn; to mark out; indicate; determine; as, to run a contour line, in surveying.
13. To cause (contraband or dutiable goods) to pass or evade official restrictions; to smuggle.
14. a To encounter or incur, as a danger or risk; as, to run the risk of loss. "He runneth two dangers." Bacon. b To put at hazard; venture; risk. Rare.
15. To vie with; compete with, as in a foot race or political contest; also, to compare with; as, he ran him close second; the Plymouth Rock runs the White Leghorn close in egg-laying qualities.
16. To cultivate the society of; to favor socially.
17. To permit (charges, accounts, bills) to accumulate before settling; as, to run an account at the grocery.
18. To flee from; desert; avoid by flight; as, he ran the country after the defalcation was discovered.
19. To discharge; to emit; also, to be so drenched with as to drip; as, the pipe or faucet runs hot water.
At the base of Pompey's statue, Which all the while ran blood, great Caesar fell. Shak.
20. To cause to thicken or coagulate; — often with together; as, to run the milk together, as for making cheese.
21. To be charged with, or to contain much of, while flowing; as, the rivers ran blood.
22. To conduct; manage; carry on; as, to run a factory, a hotel, or a business. Colloq., U. S.
23. To operate; as, to run a taxicab, a mowing machine, etc.; to run a steamer between coastal ports.
24. To sew, as a seam, by passing the needle through material in a continuous line, generally taking a series of small even stitches on the needle at the same time.
25. To form (a molding) with plaster.
26. To pour into the cracks and joints of a pavement.
27. Bookbinding. = FAN, v. t., 9.
28. Cards. To lead (a suit) until it is exhausted.
29. Croquet. To play one's ball through (an arch) or against (a stake).
30. Games. In certain games, as billiards and pool, to make (a number of successful shots, strokes, or the like) in succession; as, to run fifteen.
31. Golf. To strike (the ball) in such a way as to cause it to run along the ground, as when approaching a hole; as, he ran his ball up to the lip of the cup.
32. Lacemaking. To embroider (net).
33. Mining. To contain; to assay; to analyze; as, tailing runs 2 per cent zinc.
34. Painting. To apply by flowing; as, to run a wash.
35. Politics. To put forward as a candidate, or support, for office; as, the Republicans ran him for governor.
36. Sports. a To cover (a specified distance) in a contest; as, to run the hundred yard dash. b To enter, register, enroll, or the like, as a contestant; as, he ran the filly in the half mile.
37. Starch Mfg. To pass over a run. See RUN, n., 40.
Syn. — Hurry, speed; elapse; fly; operate, function; stretch, extend; flow, stream; liquefy; tend; blend; discharge, suppurate.

run a blockade. To get to, or away from, a blockaded port in safety. run across. To meet with by chance. run after. To pursue or follow; to search for; esp., Colloq., to seek the company of; to associate with.
run against. a To run across. b To act or operate against or in opposition to; as, to run against the political machine.
run a level. Surv. To level. run along. Be off with you. Colloq.
run amuck. To rush out in a state of frenzy and attack everyone met; to assail recklessly and indiscriminately.
run a rig. To engage in a trick, frolic, or escapade.
run at check. To follow base game; — said of hunting dogs. run a temperature. To have a fever. run away. To flee; to escape; to elope; to run without control or guidance.
run away with. a To convey away hurriedly; to accompany in escape or elopement. b To drag with uncontrolled violence; also, to become the most conspicuous person in, as in a theatrical performance; as, though not nominally the star, she ran away with the show. c Naut. To take in the hauling part of a fall, tackle, brace, etc., by holding fast to it and running along the deck. run before one can walk. To attempt something before one is fitted for it. run chances. To take chances; to incur risks.
run cunning. = run false, below. run division. To execute a musical division. Also used figuratively. Obs.

> That kiss again! she runs division of my lips. Marlowe.

run down. a To chase (game) till it is exhausted; hence, figuratively, to pursue until overtaken or captured; as, to run down a criminal. b To crush; to overthrow; to overbear; also, to run against and knock down, as with an automobile. c To disparage; to traduce. d To cease to work or operate because of the exhaustion of the motive power; — said of clocks, watches, etc. e To decline in condition; as, to run down in health. f Naut. To run against, esp. to collide with and sink, as a vessel. run down the latitude. To sail north or south on a meridian until the latitude of the destination is reached. Now Rare.
run false. Hare and Hounds or Hunting. To save distance by running directly for the hare or game instead of following the scent or track. run (something) fine. = CUT IT FINE. See under CUT, v. run foul, or afoul, of. Naut. To collide with.
run hard. a To press in competition. b To urge or press importunately. run in. a Engin. To have its valves so set that the top of the flywheel runs toward the cylinder; — said of reciprocating steam engines. b Mach. To operate (a newly built machine) long enough and at the proper speeds to cause the bearing surfaces to so wear that the machine may be satisfactorily operated under service conditions. c Print. (1) To come to less than was estimated; — said of matter. (2) To make (matter) continuous without a paragraph or break. (3) To insert as additional material. d Rugby Football. To run across the opponents' goal line carrying the ball. e Slang. To place under arrest.
run in or into. a To enter; to step in; esp., to rush in. b To come in collision with. c To change or transform into; to merge in. d Slang. To arrest. run in the blood. To be a family, national, or racial trait. run in the family. To be a family trait. run into money. To amount to a considerable sum; to cost a considerable amount. run into the ground. To carry to an absurd extreme; to overdo. Slang, U. S. run in with. a Rare. To close, comply, or agree with. b Naut. To make toward; to near; as, to run in with the land.
run mad. a To become wild with excitement. b To run wildly about under the influence of hydrophobia; to become affected with hydrophobia. run mad after. To pursue with infatuation or immoderate desire. run off. a To cause to flow away, as a charge of molten metal. b To take to flight; flee; of liquids, to flow away. c To dash off; as, to run off an editorial, a speech. d To decide (a race) by a runoff. e Print. To print; impress. f Sports. To cause (a race) to be run; hence, also, to cause (a match, tournament, etc.) to be played to a finish. g Stock Exchanges. (1) Of bills payable, to cease to exist by being paid at maturity. (2) To become exhausted; — said of margins. (3) To decline in price.
run on. a To be continued, as accounts; also, to keep going, talking, etc.; as, he ran on endlessly about the game. b To press with jokes or ridicule; to abuse with sarcasm. c To be taken up with; as, all his thoughts were running on the coming contest. d Print. To carry on or continue (matter in type) without a break or new paragraph.
run on pattens. To run clatteringly; — said of the tongue.
run on sorts. Print. To use or require an unusually great number of some particular letters, figures, or marks. run on, or upon, the rocks. To be wrecked.
run out. a To thrust or push out; to extend. b To waste; to exhaust; squander; as, to run out an estate; also, Slang, to cause to leave; to expel; as, to run a person out of town. c To flow out, as a liquid. d To pass freely out from some source; as, the anchor cable runs out quickly. e To jut out; as, the headland runs out into the sea. f To come to an end; to expire, as a lease. g To extend; to spread. h To expatiate; as, to run out into beautiful digressions. i To be wasted or exhausted; to degenerate; to become extinct; as, an estate managed without economy will soon run out. j To exhaust or expend one's strength in running; as, he ran himself out in the first half mile. k Bookbinding. = FAN, v. t., 9. l Cricket. See 2d CRICKET. m Print. To fill out a line with quadrats, leaders, points, or ornaments. run out a warp or rope. Naut. To carry or send a warp or rope out from the vessel, as in mooring. run out of. To exhaust the supply of.
run over. a To overflow. b To go over, examine, or rehearse cursorily. c To ride or drive over. d Engin. To throw over. See under THROW, v. i.; e To exceed; to be more than enough. run over the heel. To wear off one side of the heel more than the other.
run rings around. To defeat decisively or overwhelmingly; to show marked superiority over. run riot. a To act wantonly or without restraint. b Hunt. To pursue the wrong scent, or base game.
run short. a Of persons, to lack sufficient of something, as supplies, food, courage, to accomplish one's purpose; as, to run short of meat, brains. b Of supplies, etc., to be or become insufficient in amount, quantity, etc.
run the cards. Seven-up. To deal the requisite cards when the eldest hand begs. run the chances, or one's chances. To encounter all the risks of a certain course.
run the gantlet. To suffer the punishment of the gantlet; hence, to go through the ordeal of severe criticism or controversy, or ill treatment at many hands.
run the guard. To pass the watch or sentinel without leave.
run the hazard. To take the chance or risk.
run through. a To transfix; to pierce with or as with a sword. b To go through, inspect, treat, etc., hastily. c To spend or consume wastefully. d To be present in; pervade; as, a minor strain runs through the entire composition. run to earth. To hunt to its hiding place, home, starting point, or origin. run to seed. To expend or exhaust vitality in producing seed, as a plant; figurative and colloq., to cease growing; to lose vital force, as the body or mind. run to waste. To flow off as waste; — said primarily of liquor; hence, to be exerted or expended uselessly. run true to form, or type. To operate as might be expected by its inherent nature. run under. To throw under. See 2d throw over, under THROW, v. run up. a To thrust up, as anything long and slender. b To increase; to enlarge by additions, as an account. c To increase by bidding; to bid up, as at an auction or sale. d To erect hastily, as a building; as, to run up an apartment house, a circus tent. e To add rapidly, as a column of figures. f To rise; grow; increase; as, debts run up fast. g In cardsharping, to shuffle (the pack) so that certain combinations shall come out in desired order. h Golf. To strike (the ball) so as to send it low and close to the ground, when approaching a hole. i Sports. To be runner-up.
run upon. a To make sport of; to make a butt of. b To meet; also, to incur. c To be occupied with or absorbed in; as, his thoughts ran upon mechanical schemes. run wild. To go unrestrained or untamed; to live or grow without culture or training.
run with. a To be drenched or filled with, so that streams flow. b To associate with; as, to run with the younger set. c To agree with; as, my ideas run with yours on the subject.
run with the hare and hold, or hunt, with the hound or hounds. To keep in favor with both parties to a fight, argument, etc.; to play a double role.

run (rŭn), n. [From RUN, v.; cf. AS. ryne a run, running, course, watercourse, flow.] 1. Act of running; continued and more or less rapid movement; as, a long run; a fast run; to go on the run; a run of fifteen minutes.
2. Specif.: a Act of migrating, or ascending a river to spawn; — said of fish; also, an assemblage or school of fishes which migrate, or ascend a river to spawn. b A quickened gallop. See GAIT, n., 3. c Act of continuing in a certain course or series; as, a run of good or bad luck. d A continuing urgent demand, esp. one on a bank or treasury for payment of its obligations. e Obs. Escape.
3. A series; succession; as, a run of cards from the nine to the ace. Specif.: a An unbroken course of being repeated on the stage; — said of a play; as, to have a run of a hundred successive nights. b An unusual repetition in series of a winning or losing number or event.
4. A small, freely-flowing watercourse or rivulet, normally smaller than a creek, having a swift or very appreciable current; a beck; race; brook; branch. Run is in use as a geographical term in Va., Md., N.J., N.Y., Pa., Ohio, W. Va., Ky., N.C., S.C., D.C. In all the States of this compact group run is used in place of the customary brook of England and New England in the names of small streams. In most of the States named, branch is also used in the same sense. See BRANCH, BROOK, CREEK.
5. That which runs, or flows, in the course of a certain operation, or during a certain time; as, a run of must in wine making; the first run of sap in a maple orchard; also, the operating or the operation of a machine, plant, or the like; hence, the period during which a machine, plant, or the like is in operation; specif., see WATER GAS, 1.
6. a The usual or normal kind, character, type, or group; as, the general run of people, of automobiles, of modern fiction; the run of the mine. The average run of Oxford and Cambridge men. Samuel Butler. b A class of things as taken in the aggregate; as, the run of the corn is poor. Colloq. c The quantity of lumber cut from a log.
7. The distance or extent of territory covered or to be covered, or the amount of work turned out, during a special course, time, or operation; the ship's run was only 300 miles; a run of 3,000 copies on a press; an engineer's run. Specif.: a A range or extent of ground for feeding or exercising stock or other animals; as, a sheep run; a chicken run. b The distance between two degrees or assigned points on an arc or curved scale, as of a surveying instrument; also, the value of a division of the scale in seconds of arc. c A prescribed distance or length used as a measure of work done or to be done; as, in some systems of estimating worsted yarns, a run is 1,600 yards.
8. A trip or course; a journey.

> I think of giving her a run in London. Dickens.

9. A course or route mapped out and traveled with more or less regularity; as, the run of the "Twentieth Century Limited" between New York and Chicago; the harriers' run through the North woods.
10. An inclined course for coasting; as, the Cresta run at Saint Moritz, Switzerland.
11. A way, track, or path frequented by animals; as, a rabbit run; a rat run; a beaver run.
12. Prevalence, as of a disease; as, a run of diphtheria.
13. The condition of the course covered or to be covered; the going; as, How is the run on this road?
14. Extent measured linearly; as, a load on a bridge of 500 pounds per foot run; excavation is paid for by the run.
15. The stretch; extent. "Over those mountains to the left, and the run of salt water that lies behind them." Borrow.
16. A rave in a knitted fabric, as in jersey cloth or silk hose, running the way of the goods and caused by the breaking or dropping of one or more threads or stitches; a ladder.
17. Strength or ability to run, as in a race; as, too little run was left in him to close up the gap. Colloq.
18. A contest, esp. a hard-fought contest; as, the democrat gave his opponent a close run for the election.
19. Freedom to go about at will; as, his dog had the run of the office. Colloq.
20. The number of animals born in one season; as, the run of lambs.
21. The bower of a bowerbird. See BOWERBIRD.
22. A pronounced swell, or markedly choppy condition, of the surface of the water.

> There was a run of sea in the harbor. Masefield.

23. [Trans. of Gael. ruith run (akin to L. rota wheel; see ROLL).] In Gaelic popular tales, a stereotyped passage of narrative or description introduced into different tales.
24. The length of the base of a right triangle; — used in the phrase, the rise-and-run method.
25. Arch. The horizontal distance covered by a step without including nosing; the horizontal distance measured from the face of one riser to that of the next; also, the horizontal distance covered by a flight of steps.
26. Athletics. A running race; as, a mile run; — sometimes distinguished from dash. Cf. 2d DASH, 14.
27. Bowling. The clear space, not less than 15 feet in length and immediately back of the foul line, from which the bowler delivers his ball.
28. Games. a In various games, etc., the act of making a number of successful shots, strokes, or the like, successively; also, the score thus made; as, a run of 15 balls in pool; a run of 20 in billiards. b In certain games, as baseball, cricket, etc., the completion by a player of a prescribed course, as around the bases or between wickets, which counts as a score.
29. Golf. a The movement communicated to a golf ball by running. See RUN, v. t., 31. b The distance a ball travels after touching the ground from a stroke.
30. Mech. a Deviation of a tool from a correct path. b A support, as a track, or a pipe or trough, on or in which something may run.
31. Milling. A pair or set of millstones.
32. Mineral. = CHALCOPYRITE.
33. Mining. a Direction, as of a vein. b Caving in of a working, etc. c A fall of the cage in a shaft due to a failure in the hoisting apparatus. d An inclined passage between levels. e A settling trough for slimes. f An irregular ore body. g Horizontal distance to which a drift is or may be carried. h A more or less irregular, elongate, roughly horizontal body of ore. i A train of cars. j The edge, as of a pile of coal.
34. Music. a A rapid scale passage, in vocal music usually sung on a single syllable. b = RUNNING, n., 7.
35. Naut. The after part of the underwater body from where it begins to curve, or slope, upward and inward, to the stern. Cf. ENTRANCE, n., 8.
36. Ore Dressing. A test, or proof, as of a process, an ore, or a machine; as, a laboratory run; a mill run.
37. Petroleum Refining. a A single distillation of a given amount of material. b = PIPE-LINE RUN.
38. Piquet, Cribbage, etc. A number of cards of the same suit in sequence; a sequence; as, a run of four in hearts.
39. Quarrying. A direction of secondary or minor cleavage; grain. Cf. 1st RIFT, 3.
40. Starch Mfg. A long, slightly inclined table, as that used in washing starch free from gluten, fiber, etc.
41. Theater. An inclined plane for a passageway; a ramp.
— a run for one's money. a Some measure of satisfaction for one's efforts, or for the money one has expended or staked. b A competitive effort in order to secure money, a reward, etc. — by the run. a Coal Mining. A measure of work equivalent to a linear yard of breast excavated. It is sometimes used in estimating the pay of miners. b Naut. So as to run freely; — said of letting go, in contrast to slacking away gradually, as in lowering sail. — in the long run. In the course of time, trial, use, experience, or the like. "[Man] starts the inferior of the brute animals, but he surpasses them in the long run." J. H. Newman. — the run, or the common run. Ordinary persons; the generality or average of people or things; also, that which ordinarily occurs; ordinary course or kind.

> His whole appearance was . . . out of the common run. Irving.

— to have, or get, the run of. a To learn how to operate, manage, or the like. b To be given freedom of access and movement about or through.

run (rŭn), adj. [Prop. past part. of run, v.] 1. Melted, or made from molten material; cast in a mold; as, run metal.
2. Smuggled; as, run goods. Colloq.
3. Scot. a Thorough; outright. b Continuous; running; as, a run line of a psalm.
4. Having made a migration or run; — said of fish.
5. Spent from running.

run'a-bout' (rŭn'ȧ-bout'), n. 1. One who runs about, as a young child; also, a gadder; vagabond; runagate.
2. a A kind of light uncovered wagon. b Automobiles. A light roadster. c A light motorboat.

run'a-gate (rŭn'ȧ-gāt), n. [ME. renegat, fr. ML. renegatus, confused with E. run, and agate, adv.; cf. F. renégat. See RENEGADE.] 1. A renegade.
2. A fugitive; runaway; also, a vagabond; wanderer.

run'-a-round', n. Something that runs around; as: a Colloq. A whitlow encircling the finger nail, but not affecting the bone. b A track, way, channel or the like around some (usually temporary) obstacle. c The distance that a scraper traverses in completing one cycle of operations, as loading, transporting, dumping, and returning to the starting point. d Mining. A passage driven in a shaft pillar to connect workings on opposite sides of the shaft.

run'a-way' (rŭn'ȧ-wā'), n. 1. One who flees from danger, duty, restraint, etc.; a fugitive.
2. Act of running away, esp. of a horse or team; also, a horse that is running away, or out of control.

run'a-way', adj. 1. Running away; fleeing from danger, duty, restraint, etc.; as, a runaway slave or horse.
2. Accomplished by running away or elopement, or during flight; as, a runaway marriage.
3. Orig., Racing, won by a long lead; as, a runaway race; hence, settled by a marked advantage; decisive.
4. Com. Subject to rapid changes, usually toward higher levels; — said of prices, market conditions, etc.

runaway motion. Mach. = SAFETY STOP c (1).

runaway star. Astron. The star Groombridge 1830, in Ursa Major, having the very large proper motion of 7″ annually. Since this name was applied, other stars have been found to have larger proper motions.

run'back' (rŭn'băk'), n. Amer. Football. A run made after catching an opponent's kick.

run'by' (rŭn'bī'), n.; pl. RUNBYS (-bīz'). 1. In a hoistway, the clearance space between the top of the car frame and the lowest portion of the overhead work.
2. Railroading. An extra piece of track to permit a train to back past a crossover without using it.

runch (rŭnch; rōōnsh), n. Scot. & N. of Eng. a Charlock. b Wild radish or jointed charlock.

runch'weed' (-wēd'), n. The charlock Brassica arvensis.

runcible spoon (rŭn'sĭ-b'l). [Perh. orig. in jocose allusion to the slaughter at the battle of Roncevaux, because it has a cutting edge. Cf. RONCEVAL.] A kind of fork with three broad prongs or tines, one having a sharp edge, curved like a spoon, used with pickles, etc.

---

run'a-ga'do. [From renegade, after runagate.] A renegade. Obs.

Ru'na-si'mi (rōō'nä-sē'mē), n. [Quechua, lit., man's talk, fr. runa man + simi word.] = QUECHUA c.

run'board', n. = RUNNING BOARD.

run-ca'tion (rŭng-kā'shŭn), n. [L. runcatio, fr. runcare to weed out.] A weeding. Obs.

runch (runsh), n. & v. Crunch. Obs. exc. Scot.

N O P Q R

run'ci·nate (rŭn'sĭ·nāt), adj. [L. runcinatus, past part. of runcinare to plane off, fr. runcina a plane.] Bot. Pinnately cut with the lobes pointing downwards, as the leaf of the dandelion. See LEAF, Illust.

run'dale (rŭn'dāl), n. [See RUN, v.; DALE a share.] In Scotland and Ireland, a form or system of holding land or of distribution of lands among tenants or owners, by which the land is apportioned so that a single tenant's or owner's holding consists of strips lying between those of others. Also, the order or arrangement of the strips so held. Run-rig, rig and rendal, and changedale are names applied to systems of the same or a similar nature.

run'dle (rŭn'd'l), n. [Var. of ROUNDEL.] 1. A ball; sphere; also, a circle; coil. Obs.
2. A round; a step of a ladder; a rung.
3. Something which rotates about an axis, as a wheel.
4. Mach. A pin or trundle of a lantern pinion.

run'dle (rŭn''l; rŏŏn''l). Dial. Eng. var. of RUNNEL, a stream.

run'dle (rŭn'd'l; rŏŏn'-). Var. of RUNNEL, a tree. Dial. Eng.

rund'let (rŭnd'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. Also run'let. [OF. rondelet, dim. of rondelle a little tun, fr. rond round. See ROUND; cf. ROUNDLET.] A small barrel of varying capacity; hence, an old liquid measure, fixed by statute in England in 1439 at 18½ wine (or U. S.) gallons, but latterly reckoned at 18 such gallons (about 15 imperial gals. or 68 liters). See MEASURE, Table.

run'-down' (66), adj. a Dilapidated; gone to rack and ruin. b Exhausted; worn out; in poor health. c Of a watch, clock, etc.: unwound; stopped for want of winding.

rune (rōōn; 242), n. [AS., Dan., and ON.; AS. rūn a rune, a secret, a mystery; akin to Dan. rune, ON. rūn, OHG. & Goth. rūna a secret, secret colloquy, OIr. rūn a secret, and to L. rumor noise, report, raucus hoarse, Skr. rauti he roars, cries. Cf. ALRAUN, RAUCOUS, ROUN, RUMOR, RUT of animals.] 1. Any of the characters or signs of the alphabet formerly in general use by the Teutonic, or Germanic, peoples from about the 3d century A.D. In its early form the runic alphabet, generally known as the futhorc, or futhark (see FUTHORC), consisted of 24 characters, some being dropped in later forms, as the Norse. The origin of these symbols is obscure, but they are probably from both Latin and Greek. The runes were employed as magic signs, and in writing, secret or otherwise. In England the runic alphabet preceded the Roman, and for inscriptions it survived almost to the end of the Anglo-Saxon period. Runes are found in several Anglo-Saxon manuscripts, and in a number of inscriptions notably those on the Ruthwell cross, Dumfries, Scotland, and the Bewcastle cross, Cumberland, England.

Runes representing the name "Cynewulf."

2. Speech; conversation; language; counsel. Obs.
3. Mystery, esp. as connected with the invisible world of spirits; hence, craft in magic; magic.
4. pl. Old Finnish poetry expressed in runes; sometimes, old Norse poetry.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

rune-bearing, adj. runefolk runesmith runecraft rune-inscribed runeword runed (rōōnd), adj. Inscribed with runes.

run'er (rŏŏn'ĕr), n. A bard, among the Goths.

rune'smith' (rōōn'smĭth'), n. One who writes in or deciphers runes.

rune'staff' (-stăf'; 83), n. [Sw. runstaf.] A clog almanac.

run'fish' (rŭn'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -z; 119). See PLURAL, Note. [run, v. + fish.] A spent salmon.

rung (rŭng), n. [ME. ronge, fr. AS. hrung a staff, rod, pole; akin to G. runge a short, thick piece of iron or wood, MD. ronghe a prop, support, Goth. hrugga a staff. See CROSS, RICK, RIDGE, RING circle.] 1. A heavy stick of wood; a stout staff or cudgel. Scot. & N. of Eng.
2. Specif.: a A spoke of a wheel; esp., Mach., one of the radial handles projecting from the rim of a steering wheel; also, one of the pins or trundles of a lantern pinion. b Archaic. A floor timber in a ship. c One of the rounds of a chair, or of a ladder. d One of the stakes of a cart. e A stair; tread; step.

rung (rŭng), past tense & past part. of RING. Specif.: part. adj. a Girdled, as a tree. b Hooped, as the head of a pile to prevent splitting when struck by the pile driver. c Wearing a ring, as an animal with a ring through its nose.

rung'head' (rŭng'hĕd'), n. Shipbuilding. The upper end of a floor timber.

run'hold'er (rŭn'hōl'dĕr), n. One who owns or leases a run for cattle.

ru'nic (rōō'nĭk; 242), adj. Of or pertaining to a rune, runes, or the Norsemen; composed in runes; as, runic verses, letters, names, rhyme. — ru'ni·cal·ly, adv.

runic, or Runic, alphabet. a See RUNE. b See ORKHON.

runic cross. = CELTIC CROSS. See CROSS, Illust.

runic knot. A form of interlaced ornament used on jewels, tools, etc., among the early northern European nations.

runic staff. See CLOG ALMANAC.

runic wand. A willow wand bearing runes, formerly thought to have been used by the Teutons in magic rites.

run'i·form (rōōn'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [See -IFORM.] Resembling the ancient runes in form or appearance.

run'-in', n. Something inserted, as a paragraph in printed matter, a word within a main vocabulary entry, etc. See VOCABULARY ENTRY. — run'-in', adj.

run'-in', n. 1. The finish of a horse race or hunt.
2. A tiff; altercation; quarrel. Slang, U. S.

run'keep'er (rŭn'kēp'ĕr), n. Also run'man (-măn). A supervisor of a run, as one in which starch is deposited from grain.

run'let (rŭn'lĕt; -lĭt), n. [run + -let.] A runnel. J. R. Lowell.

run'let. Var. of RUNDLET.

run'nel (rŭn'ĕl; -'l), n. [From ME. rinel, influenced by run. See RINDLE.] A rivulet; a brook; streamlet; runlet.

run'nel (rŏŏn''l), n. 1. A pollard tree; a tree that is dwarfed or aged. Dial. Eng.
2. A young tree. Obs.

run'ner (rŭn'ĕr), n. [From RUN, v.] 1. One who or that which runs, as a racer, an engine driver, a whippet dog, a horse, etc.; specif.: One whose business or occupation requires physical movement from place to place; as: a One who runs errands, makes reports, etc., as for a bank, bookmaker, carter, etc. b Mil. A private used as a messenger between headquarters of units, esp. when in action. c One who runs a blockade; also, a ship that runs a blockade. d Slang, Eng. A detective or police officer. See Bow STREET OFFICER. e Colloq. A smuggler. f Colloq. A traveling salesman. g Eng. A kind of traveling supervisor or agent for a commercial house, esp. before the introduction of railroads. h U. S. One employed to solicit patronage, as for a steamboat, hotel, etc. i Chiefly Eng. One who makes a business of running for things in return for the gratuities received; as, a runner called a cab for him. j Obs. (1) A strolling vagabond. (2) A runaway.
2. One who operates, or manages, something; specif., a workman who operates a carrying vehicle, as in mines; a carrier; also, one who operates a machine, as in mills.
3. In various technical senses: a A sliding or reciprocating piece; as: (1) The movable ring, or ferrule, sliding on the round central rod of an umbrella. (2) See HANGER, 8. (3) A steel-shod poling board, driven into unbroken (loose) ground as excavation progresses. (4) Either of the (usually) steel-shod longitudinal pieces on which a sled or sleigh slides; also, the blade or part of a skate that slides on the ice. (5) Either of the sliding centers of a watchmaker's lathe. b The rotating stone of a set of millstones. c A movable slab or rubber used in grinding or polishing stone, etc. d A tool on which lenses are fastened in a group, for grinding or polishing. e A kind of tackle. See TACKLE, n., 3. f A horizontal longitudinal timber on the top of a scaffold or staging, carrying a line of rails for a hoisting apparatus, etc., used in building. g A part, as a groove, on or in which something slides. h A roller. i The revolving part of a water turbine, etc. j A skate. k A rope used to increase the power of a tackle.
4. A ship of exceptional speed, esp. one used for dispatches without convoy.
5. a A bird that characteristically runs or scuttles along the ground; specif., Local Eng., the water rail. b The black snake or racer.
6. A long, narrow strip of material, as of roofing, carpeting, etc. Specif.: a Among Oriental rugs, a long narrow carpet, generally woven in pairs, used on either side of the kali (which see) in a Persian room, or as a divan cover. b Hence, any rug adapted by its long and narrow shape for running, or extending, along halls, passageways, etc. c Also, a similarly shaped decorative cover of linen, silk, etc. for a table or the like.
7. A vertical ravel as in hosiery.
8. [cap.] A breed of small domestic ducks of the egg-laying type. They have long narrow bodies and erect carriage, and there are fawn-and-white, white, and penciled varieties. They are commonly called Indian Runner, though now known to have originated in Belgium and Holland.
9. Agric. Mach. That part of a stubrunner or curved-runner furrow opener which bears on the soil.
10. Bot. a A slender prostrate branch which roots at the joints or end, forming new plants, as in the strawberry. b A plant which spreads by this method; also, improperly, any twining vine.

1 Strawberry Plant; 2 Runner.

11. Horol. A train of wheels for regulating the speed of striking in a repeating watch.
12. Hort. Any of several varieties of twining beans, esp. the scarlet runner.
13. Mach. a Rare. An idle wheel. b An impeller.
14. Metal. & Founding. A channel or trough for conducting molten metal; a gate or sprue. See 4th GATE.
15. Mining. a = RUN, n., 33 c. b = BRIDGE, n., 18 b. c A fault-slip, or fault (sense 6).
16. Plumbing. = JOINT RUNNER.
17. pl. Print. Letters or figures on the side margin of a page to show the position of any line.
18. Sports. a One who engages in running races. b In certain games, as baseball and cricket, the players who are running over the prescribed course in the attempt to make a score.
19. Zool. a An amberfish (Elagatis bipinnulatus) widely distributed in warm seas; — so called from its rapid leaps from the water. b The leather jack. c A jurel (Paratractus, or Caranx, crysos), common from Cape Cod southward.

Runner, 19 e. (½)

runner and tackle. See TACKLE.

runner peanut. A peanut having a low prostrate plant, with pods at the base and along procumbent rooting stems. Cf. BUNCH PEANUT.

runner stick. = GATE PIN.

run'ner-up', n. 1. One who runs up, in various senses; specif.: a A machine sewer who partly hems handkerchiefs before they go to the crosser; also, in ropemaking, a follower. b One who raises, or runs up, bids at an auction.
2. The competitor in a contest who finishes next to the winner; as, the runner-up in a golf tournament.

run'net (dial. rŭn'ĭt; rŏŏn'-), n. Rennet. Obs. exc. Dial.

run'ning (rŭn'ĭng), n. 1. Act of one who or that which runs, in various senses; as: a Act of passing a blockade to or from a port; also, smuggling. b Process of manufacturing or operating; operation; as, it was easy in olden times to have a running of spoons, for many families had spoon molds; also, the period during which such process is carried on.
2. Management; care; charge; control of operation; as, a trained mechanic has the running of the machine.
3. Strength or ability to run; as, there was a great deal of running in the horse at the finish.
4. A trip, course, or journey; also, the condition of a course to be covered; as, the running is good. Colloq.
5. An assault or attack; a skirmish. Obs. Scot.
6. That which runs or flows; as: a The quantity of a liquid which flows in a certain time or during a certain operation; as, the first running of a still. b The discharge from an ulcer or other sore. c = CREEPING, 2 b.
7. Music. A leakage of wind in an organ causing one or more pipes to sound when the digital is pressed without the stops being drawn; also, the sound thus produced.
8. Naut. Action of sailing, esp. when close-hauled before the wind.

— in, or out of, the running. Entered, or not entered, as a competitor in a contest; also, with, or without, hope of winning in a contest.

run'ning, adj. 1. Moving or advancing by or as if by running. Specif.: a Of a horse, going at a run rather than at a trot or pace. b Trained and kept, or peculiarly fitted, for running races. c Of water, flowing. d Fleeing; running away. e Of plants, spreading rapidly, as by runners.
2. Continuous; keeping along step by step or from place to place; as, a running fire of musketry; a running engagement, that is, one between pursuers and pursued; running commentary, that is, a series of comments during the course of reading or performance. Hence, made during passage by or through; passing; casual; as, a running inspection.
3. Successive; one following the other without break or intervention; — said of periods of time; as, to be away two days running; to sow land two years running.
4. Measured linearly; linear; as, per running foot.
5. Flowing; easy; cursive; as, a running hand in writing; a running rhythm in music or poetry.
6. Easily operated; moving smoothly, as a piece of machinery.
7. Not fixed or definite in its effect or application, but left open for future determination, as in case of (1) a lease allowing the lessee the use of all the land he can clear in his lifetime in a larger described tract, or (2) a policy of insurance, often called an open policy (see 3d POLICY, 1) leaving the value or the object insured to be fixed in the future or from time to time, or (3) a general writ.
8. Quickly prepared; light and hasty.

Provide a running banquet. Marlowe.

9. Prevalent; current; existing at the time; as, a running rumor through the town.
10. Of or pertaining to a run or the act of running; used for or in running; as, the running time of a train.
11. Initiated or performed with impetus from running; specif., in sports, executed with a running start (which see).
12. Med. Discharging pus; as, a running sore.

running account. A continuous statement of amounts due and paid.

running balance. See BALANCE, n., 14.

running bale. Usually pl. A bale of cotton as it comes from the gin. Actually it is about 508 pounds in weight, but is statistically assumed to be just 500 pounds.

running birch. The creeping snowberry.

running blackberry. The dewberry Rubus flagellaris.

running block. A movable pulley block which rises or sinks with the weight which is raised or lowered; — disting. from standing block. Cf. 1st PULLEY, 1st Illust.

running board. A footboard, as one on the side of an automobile or locomotive, on the roof of a freight car, etc. U. S.

running bond. Masonry. See 3d BOND, 17.

running bowline. A bowline knot made around its own standing part. See 2d KNOT, 1.

running bowsprit. = REEFING BOWSPRIT.

running days. Com. The total consecutive days occupied on a voyage under a charter party.

running expenses. Daily, current, or ordinary and indispensable expenses.

running fire. Mil. Formerly, the rapid successive discharge of firearms from right to left by soldiers formed in ranks; hence, any rapid, continuous succession of events; as, a running fire of remarks.

running fist. Running hand. Obs.

running fit. See 5th FIT, 4.

running fits. Veter. A disease of dogs characterized by periodic spells of running and barking with great excitement and fright.

running gate. Founding. A gate, or any of several gates, through which molten metal runs into the mold.

running gear. a The wheels and axles of a vehicle, and their attachments, in distinction from the body; all the Running Gear of a Farm Truck. 1 Tongue; 2 Singletree or Whiffletree; 3 Doubletree; 4 Stay Chain; 5 Hub; 6 Reach or Coupling Pole; 7 Hound; 8 Bolster; 9 Stake; 10 Tire; 11 Felly; 12 Spokes.

working parts of a locomotive or other machine, in distinction from the framework. b The parts of an automobile chassis not used in developing, transmitting, and controlling power, such as the frame, springs, axles, and wheels. c = RUNNING RIGGING. See RIGGING.

running hand. A style of rapid writing in which the letters are usually slanted and the words formed without lifting the pen; — distinguished from round hand.

running head, running headline. Print. A headline repeated on consecutive pages in a book or the like.

running inventory. = BOOK INVENTORY.

running knot. See 2d KNOT, 1.

running lights. Naut. The lights carried according to international agreement by vessels under way between sunset and sunrise; namely, a green light on the starboard and a red light on the port side, and, in the case of steamers, a white light at the foremast head. If towing, a vessel carries the side lights, and two or three white lights arranged vertically at the foremast head, depending on the length of the tow.

running mallow. The dwarf mallow.

running mate. 1. Horse Racing. A horse entered in a race to set the pace for part of the distance for a horse of the same owner or stable, the latter horse being ridden to win.
2. U. S. Politics. A candidate running for a subordinate place on a ticket; esp., in a presidential election, the candidate for vice-president considered in relation to the candidate for president.
3. Colloq. A person frequently seen in close association with another.

running milkweed. = NEGRO VINE.

running myrtle. The common periwinkle (Vinca minor).

running noose. A running knot. See 2d KNOT, 1. running ornament. An ornamental decoration, as of moldings, formed with continuous design.

run'ning-out' fire. Iron Works. A refinery.

running part. Naut. That part of a tackle that is hauled upon; — disting. from the standing part.

running pine. The club moss (Lycopodium clavatum).

running raspberry. = DWARF RASPBERRY.

running rigging. See RIGGING.

running rope. A rope suitable for running on pulleys.

running shoe. Athletics. A shoe especially designed to support the foot in running.

running side. Billiards. See ENGLISH, n., 5. Brit.

---

run'cle. † RUNKLE, wrinkle.

rund (rŭnd; rŭn; rŏŏn; rŭn), n. = BAND, border, strip. Scot. & N. of Eng.

run'del (rŭn'd'l). Dial. var. of RUNDLE.

Run'di (rŏŏn'dĭ), n. = KIRUNDI. See also BARUNDI.

run'dl. Rundle. Ref. Sp.

run'dled, adj. Rounded. Obs.

rune. † ROUN, v.

rune'less, adj. See -LESS.

rune'like', adj. See -LIKE.

rung. Obs. past part. of REIGN.

rung. ‡ WRING.

rung'less, adj. See -LESS.

run'i·form al'pha·bet. See ORKHON.

ru'nite (rōō'nīt), n. Petrog. = [GRAPHIC GRANITE.

run'kle (rŭng'k'l; rŏŏng'-), n. & v. [Of Scand. origin. See RUCK wrinkle.] Wrinkle. Obs. exc. Scot. — run'kly, adj. Scot.

run'less, adj. See -LESS.

run'man, n. See RUNKEEPER.

run'na·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

run'ning-down' clause. Marine Insurance. = COLLISION CLAUSE.

run'ning·ly, adv. of running, pres. part. of RUN.

running spider. Any of certain spiders (esp. of the family Lycosidae) which build no web, but hunt their prey by running.

running start. In sports, the setting off of the competitors from a point behind the starting line, so that they are in rapid motion when crossing that line; hence, figuratively, great initial impetus in carrying out any project.

running string. A drawstring.

running title. The fixed or general title of a volume as printed at the top of all left-hand pages or, sometimes, all pages.

running toad. The natterjack.

running track. a Railroads. A track reserved for movement through a yard. b A track for running races, as horse races, foot races, etc.

running trap. Plumbing, etc. A trap, as a U trap, in a pipe, permitting liquid flow, but forming a barrier against sewer gases.

running walk. A certain gait of a horse, intermediate between a walk and a rack.

run'ny (rŭn'ĭ), adj. Having a tendency to run; esp., to be soft and liquid; as, a runny dough; meringue that turns runny.

run'off' (rŭn'ôf'; 185), n. 1. That which runs off. Specif.: a Hydrog., the water which is removed from soil by either surface or under drainage; flowoff. b Sugar Mfg. Sirup that has been drawn off the sugar crystals.
2. Horse Racing. A final race to decide a dead heat.

run'off', adj. 1. Final, or deciding; as, a runoff primary.
2. Running away as waste; as, the loss of soluble salts in runoff water.

runoff primary. U. S. Politics. In some Southern States, as Texas and Georgia, a second primary election to decide which of the two highest candidates for an office in the first primary shall get the party nomination.

run of (the) mine. a Mining. Ore or coal as mined. b Figuratively, persons or things taken just as they come, without special selection.

ru·nol'o·gy (rōō·nŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [rune + -logy.] The science of runes. — ru·nol'o·gist (-jĭst), n.

run'–on' (66), adj. That runs on; specif.: Pros. Running over without rhetorical pause from one line into another; characterized by enjambment (which see); — contrasted with end-stopped. — n. That which is run on, as in printed matter.

run–on sentence. Gram. a A sentence formed with a comma splice. b A sentence that "runs on" or rambles by the slipshod adding on of clauses.

run'out' (rŭn'out'), n. a The amount that one surface, as the outside surface of a cylindrical sleeve, lacks of being true with another surface of the same part, as the inside surface of the sleeve. b The greatest distance that a moving part of a machine can travel away from a fixed reference point; as, the runout of the plunger of a hydraulic press.

run'o'ver (-ō'vĕr), n. An extension, as of printed matter, beyond the space allotted; overmatter; also, U. S., the part of an article continued from a preceding page.

run'–o'ver (66), adj. a Extending beyond the allotted space; as, run-over material in printing. b Worn at one side; as, run-over heels.

run'rig' (rŭn'rĭg'), n. See RUNDALE. Scot. & Ireland. — adv. In "runrigs," or rundale. Scot.

run'round' (rŭn'round'), n. A felon, or whitlow. Colloq., U. S.

run sheep run. A form of hide-and-seek in which a "shepherd" calls these words to warn those hidden (the sheep) that they may safely elude "it" (the wolf) in a dash for the goal.

run steel. The material of malleable iron castings.

runt (rŭnt), n. [Scot., an old cow, an old, withered woman, a hardened stem or stalk, the trunk of a tree; cf. MD. runt, D. rund bullock, ox, cow. See ROTHER.] 1. An ox or cow, esp. a small one; specif., Rare, pl., undersized cattle.
2. Hence, any animal, esp. any domestic animal, unusually small as compared with others of its kind; specif., Dial, U. S., the last one of a litter of pigs, usually undersized and puny.
3. A dwarf, or a person of small or stunted growth; also, a mean, despicable, boorish person; — used opprobriously; figuratively, anything small and contemptible.
4. A pigeon of a very large domestic breed, usually blue or silvery with barred wings and iridescent neck.
5. The dead stump or trunk of a tree; also, the stem of a plant. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.
6. Hence, an old withered person. Chiefly Scot.

runt'ed, adj. Runty; stunted. Obs. exc. Dial.

run'tee (rŭn'tē), n. [Corrupt. of F. arrondi rounded. See ARRONDISSEMENT.] An ornament consisting of a disk of shell with one or more perforations from edge to edge, used by American Indians of the Middle Atlantic coast of the United States.

run'–through', n. 1. A cursory reading, or the like.
2. A follow shot.

runt'ish (rŭn'tĭsh), adj. Runty; stunted; dwarfed. — runt'ish·ly, adv. — runt'ish·ness, n.

runt'y (rŭn'tĭ), adj.; RUNT'I·ER (-tĭ·ĕr); RUNT'I·EST. Like a runt; diminutive; also, mean; boorish; churlish. — runt'i·ness (-tĭ·nĕs; 119), n. Both Colloq. or Dial.

run'–up', n. Act of running up something; as, a run-up of a golf ball to the putting green; a run-up of a polo ball to the goal; a run-up of prices in the stock market.

run'way' (rŭn'wā'), n. 1. The channel of a stream.
2. The beaten path made by deer or other animals in passing to and from their feeding grounds; trail.
3. A passageway for animals, esp. poultry; specif., a fenced lot or area in which animals, esp. chickens, may exercise; a run.
4. A road on which logs are skidded; a gutter road.
5. A way or gauged track for wheeled vehicles, etc.
6. In a theater, a narrow platform or bridge leading from the stage into the auditorium to enable the players to perform in the midst of the audience.
7. Aeronautics. a A level rectangular strip on a landing field kept in condition for the landing and take-off of airplanes. b An inclined surface leading from a seaplane hangar into the water.
8. Athletics. A path along which a jumper or pole vaulter runs in approaching the take-off.
9. Bowling. A track or channel over which balls that have been bowled are returned to the players, usually by the force of gravity.

ru'pa (rōō'pä), n. [Skr. rūpa form, color.] Hinduism & Buddhism. Body; visible form.

ru·pee' (rōō·pē'), n. [Hind. rūpiyah, rupayā, fr. Skr. rūpya silver, stamped or coined silver, fr. rūpa form. Cf. RUBLE.] 1. An East Indian silver coin weighing approximately 175 grains, but varying in weight and fineness with the time and locality. Specif., the principal silver coin of British India, having a statutory value of 1s. 6d. or 36.5 cents since Apr. 1, 1927. It contains about 165 grains of pure silver and was at one time worth over 45 cents. The sum of 100,000 rupees is called a lac, and of 10,000,000 rupees a crore. A system of arithmetical notation based on these is used, all sums between 100,000 and 10,000,000 being written in lacs, thousands, etc., and all sums above 10,000,000 being written in crores, lacs, thousands, etc. For example, 73,57,000 = 73 lacs, 57 thousand; 6,37,64,000 = 6 crores, 37 lacs, 64 thousand; but it is usual to express large sums in tens of rupees, as Rx 1,000,000 = 10,000,000 rupees. The sicca rupee, or sicca, once current in Bengal, was more valuable by 1/15. Half, quarter, and eighth rupees are also coined. In India the rupee is equivalent to 16 annas; in Ceylon, Mauritius, etc., where the Indian rupee is the monetary unit, it is equivalent to 100 cents.
2. A money of account corresponding to the coin. It is divided into 16 annas. Abbr., pl. Rs., sing. R., Re.

Ru'pert (rōō'pĕrt), n. [From G. Ruprecht, perh. through F. See ROBERT.] Masc. proper name. L. Rupertus (rōō·pûr'tŭs).

Rupert of Debate. The fourteenth Earl of Derby (1799–1869); — a nickname likening his impetuous eloquence to the fiery charges of the Cavalier Prince Rupert, nephew of Charles I.

Ru'pert's drop (rōō'pĕrts). A kind of glass drop with a long tail, made by dropping melted glass into water, and remarkable for the property (due to internal strain) of bursting into fragments when the surface is scratched or the tail broken; — so called from Prince Rupert, nephew of Charles I, who first brought them to England. Called also Rupert's ball, Rupert's tear, etc.

ru·pes'tral (rōō·pĕs'trăl), adj. [NL. rupestris, fr. L. rupes rock.] Rupestrian.

ru·pes'tri·an (rōō·pĕs'trĭ·ăn), adj. [L. rupes rock.] Composed of rock; inscribed on rocks.

ru·pes'trine (-trĭn; 156), adj. [L. rupes rock + -trine as in lacustrine, palustrine.] Rupicolous.

ru·pi'a (rōō·pē'ä), n. [Pg., fr. Hind. rūpiyah. See RUPEE.] A Portuguese colonial coin corresponding to the Indian rupee, but formerly equal to two xerafins. See XERAFIN.

ru'pi·a (rōō'pĭ·ä), n. [NL., fr. G. rhypos filth, dirt.] Med. An eruption, occurring esp. in tertiary syphilis, consisting of vesicles having an inflamed base and filled with serous, purulent, or bloody fluid, which dries up, forming large, blackish, conical crusts. — ru'pi·al (-ăl), adj.

Ru'pi·ca'pra (-kā'prä; -kăp'rä), n. [L., a chamois, fr. rupes rock + capra she-goat.] Zool. The genus consisting of the chamois, sometimes made the type of a subfamily, Ru'pi·ca·pri'nae (-kä·prī'nē). — ru'pi·cap'rine (-kăp'rĭn; -rīn), adj.

Ru·pic'o·la (rōō·pĭk'ō·lä), n. [NL., fr. L. rupes, gen. rupis, a rock + colere to inhabit.] Zool. The genus containing the cock of the rock, the type of a subfamily Ru·pic'o·li'nae (-lī'nē), of Cotingidae.

Cock of the Rock (Rupicola rupicola).

ru·pic'o·line (rōō·pĭk'ō·lĭn; -līn; 156), adj. Rupicolous.

ru·pic'o·lous (rōō·pĭk'ō·lŭs), adj. [See RUPICOLA.] Bot. & Zool. Living among, inhabiting, or growing on, rocks.

ru'pi·e (rōō'pĭ·ē), n. [G., fr. Hind. rūpiyah. See RUPEE.] A silver coin of the former German East Africa, equivalent to 1.33 mark (about 32 cents) and containing 64 pesas (1890–1905) or 100 heller (1905–18). See COIN, Table.

ru·pit'ic (rōō·pĭt'ĭk), adj. Rupial.

Rup'pi·a (rŭp'ĭ·ä), n. [NL., after Heinrich Bernhard Ruppius, Ger. botanist.] Bot. A small genus of widely distributed, submerged marine herbs (family Zannichelliaceae) having capillary stems, slender alternate leaves, and monoecious flowers destitute of perianth. R. maritima, the tassel, or ditch, grass, is common nearly throughout the world.

rup'tile (rŭp'tĭl; 155), adj. [L. rumpere, ruptum, to break.] Bot. Dehiscing irregularly. Rare.

rup'tion (rŭp'shŭn), n. [LL. ruptio, fr. rumpere, ruptum, to break.] A bursting; rupture; also, Rare, a ruction.

rup'tive (-tĭv), adj. [L. rumpere, ruptum, to break.] Rupturing or tending to rupture.

rup'tu·ar'y (rŭp'tū·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), n. [Cf. ROTURIER.] A plebeian; a roturier. Rare.

rup'tur·a·ble (rŭp'tûr·ä·b'l), adj. That may be ruptured, or broken.

rup'ture (rŭp'tûr), n. [F. or L.; F. rupture, fr. L. ruptura, fr. rumpere, ruptum, to break. See REAVE; cf. ABRUPT, CORRUPT, ERUPTION, INTERRUPT, ROUT a defeat, ROUTE.] 1. A breaking apart, or separating, or state of being broken apart; as, the rupture of the skin, of a blood vessel; rupture of an agreement or compact.
2. Breach of peace or concord; specif., open hostility or war between nations; as, they came to a rupture.
3. Med. Hernia. See HERNIA.
Syn. — Breach, break, burst, disruption. See FRACTURE.

rup'ture, v. t. & i.; -TURED (-tûrd); -TUR·ING (-tûr·ĭng).
1. To part by violence; break; burst; as, to rupture a vein.
2. To produce a hernia (in).

rup'tured (rŭp'tûrd), adj. Broken; separated; specif.: Med. Having a rupture, or hernia.

rup'ture·wort' (rŭp'tûr·wûrt'), n. a The burstwort. b A tropical American herb (Achyranthes polygonoides) somewhat resembling burstwort. c The allseed.

ru'ral (rōōr'ăl; 242), adj. [F., fr. LL. ruralis, fr. rus, ruris, the country. See ROOM; cf. RUSTIC.] 1. Of or pertaining to the country, as distinguished from a city or town; living in, suitable for, or resembling, the country; rustic; as, rural scenes. "A rural fellow." Shak.
2. Of or pertaining to country people, farmers, peasants, etc.; as, rural dances, manners, customs; esp., of or pertaining to agriculture; as, rural economy, problems.
3. Civil Law. Designating, or pertaining to, a tenement in land adapted and used for agricultural or pastoral purposes; — opposed to urban.

The test whether a tenement is rural or urban is not the place where the property is situated, but the use to which it is devoted.
13 S. C (Cape Colony) 62.

Syn. — RURAL, RUSTIC, PASTORAL, BUCOLIC. RURAL refers to the country itself, esp. in its pleasant aspects; RUSTIC commonly implies a contrast with the refinements of the city or the town, and often connotes rudeness or lack of polish; as, "The pleasures [which the summer retreats] afforded were merely rural; the company splenetic, rustic, and vulgar" (Goldsmith); "He . . . buried himself in the rural, or rather rustic, solitude of Buriton" (Gibbon); "He had no taste for rural loveliness, green fields and vineyards, . . . but he would often have his tongue in his cheek at the simplicity of rustic dupes" (Stevenson); cf. a rustic bridge. That is PASTORAL (see etym.) which has to do with the life of shepherds, or (esp.) with conventional rural life; as, "All good poetry descriptive of rural life is essentially pastoral" (Ruskin). BUCOLIC is a literary (sometimes humorous) synonym for rustic.
Ant. — Urban.

ru'ral (rōōr'ăl; 242), n. 1. A rustic; dweller in the country.
2. [cap.] A variety of potato. See POTATO, 2.

ru·ral' (rōō·räl'), n.; pl. RURALES (rōō·rä'lās). [Amer. Sp., fr. Sp. rural rural.] A municipal police officer. Sp. Amer. & Southwestern U. S.

Rural Credits Act. See FEDERAL LAND BANK.

rural dean. Eccl. a R.C.Ch. See ARCHPRIEST a. b Ch. of Eng. = DEAN OF CHRISTIANITY. See CHRISTIANITY, 4. Hence: rural deanery.

Rural Dionysia. See DIONYSIA.

rural district. In England, Wales, and Northern Ireland, a subdivision of an administrative county embracing usually several country parishes. It is governed by a council similar to that of an urban district (which see), but with less extensive powers. See DISTRICT, 3 a (2).

rural free delivery. U. S. The free delivery of mail by carrier on designated routes in rural districts. Abbr., R. F. D.

ru'ral·ism (rōōr'ăl·ĭz'm), n. Quality or state of being rural; ruralness; also, a rural idiom or expression.

ru'ral·ist (-ĭst), n. Also ru'ral·ite (-īt). a An inhabitant of the country; a peasant; farmer. b One who advocates life in the country as contrasted with life in a city.

ru·ral'i·ty (rōō·räl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [Cf. ML. ruralitas.] Ruralism; also, a rural place.

ru'ral·ize (rōōr'ăl·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To render rural; to give a rural appearance to. — v. i. To become rural; to rusticate. — ru'ral·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.

rural servitude. Law. See SERVITUDE.

ru'ri·dec'a·nal (rōōr'ĭ·dĕk'ä·năl; -dē·kā'năl; -n'l), adj. [L. rus, ruris, the country + decanus. See DEAN.] Of or pertaining to a rural dean.

ru·rig'e·nous (rōō·rĭj'ē·nŭs), adj. [L. rurigena.] Born in the country. Rare.

Ru'ri·ta'ni·an (rōōr'ĭ·tā'nĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of or pertaining to the imaginary kingdom of Ru'ri·ta'ni·a (-ä) in Anthony Hope's Prisoner of Zenda. See RASSENDYLL, RUDOLF. — Ru'ri·ta'ni·an, n. ru'ru (rōō'rōō), n. [Maori.] The New Zealand morepork.

Rus (rōōs), n. pl. The Ros, esp. those that settled on the Dnieper and around Kiev. Hence, the name of the country, Russia.

Ru'sa (rōō'sä), n. [NL. See RUSINE.] Zool. a A genus or subgenus (of Cervus) of maned East Indian deer, including the sambar. b [not cap.] Any species of this genus.

ru'sa (rōō'sä). [Hind. rūsā.] Var. of ROOSA.

Rus'cus (rŭs'kŭs), n. [L., butcher's broom. See BRUSQUE.] Bot. a A small genus of European evergreen shrubs (family Convallariaceae) bearing leaflike phylloclades, small greenish flowers, and red berries. R. aculeatus, the butcher's broom, is often cultivated. The twigs when dyed are used for bouquets, etc. and for whisk brooms. See BUTCHER'S-BROOM. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

ruse (rōōz; 242), n. [F., a trick, detour, fr. ruser to detour, dodge, fr. OF. reüser to retreat, repel, prob. fr. (assumed) VL. refusare. See REFUSE; cf. RUSH, v.] An artifice; trick; stratagem; wile; fraud; deceit.
Syn. — See ARTIFICE.

ruse (rōōz; rüz), v. i. [OF. ruser, reüser. See RUSE, n.] To slip; fall. Dial.

ruse (rōōz; rüz). Var. of ROOSE. Obs. exc. Scot.

‖ruse' de guerre' (rüz' dĕ gâr'). [F.] A war stratagem.

rush (rŭsh), n. [ME. rusch, risch, fr. AS. rysc, risc; akin to MHG. rusch(e), MLG. rusch, risch.] 1. a Any of various plants of the genus Juncus, having cylindrical, often hollow, stems; also, less correctly, any of several species of Scirpus. Cf. BULRUSH. Rushes are used in bottoming chairs and plaiting mats, and the pith is used in some places for wicks and rushlights. They were formerly strewn over floors. b Loosely, any of certain other more or less similar plants; — chiefly in combination; as, bog rush. c The cattail, or reed mace.
2. The merest trifle; a straw; as, not worth a rush.
3. Short for RUSH RING. Shak.
4. A brushy undergrowth. Dial. Eng.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

rush-bordered	rush-girt	rush-seated rush-bottomed	rushland	rush-stemmed rush-floored	rush-leaved	rush-strewn rush-fringed	rush-margined	rush-wove rush, adj. Of or pertaining to a rush or rushes.

rush (rŭsh), v. t. To strew with, work with, or make with, rushes. — v. i. To gather rushes.

rush (rŭsh), v.; RUSHED (rŭsht); RUSH'ING. [ME. russhen, fr. AF. russher, russer, OF. ruser, reüser. See RUSE.] Intransitive: 1. To move forward with impetuosity, violence, tumultuous rapidity, or haste.
2. To act with undue haste and eagerness, or without due deliberation or preparation; as, to rush into business.
3. American Football. To advance the ball by carrying it.
—, Transitive: 1. To push or urge forward with impetuosity or violence; to hurry onward; to force hastily and violently.
2. To make an onset on; to charge; attack; also, to carry by assault; to occupy with a rush; as, to rush a barrier.
3. To destroy; overthrow; defeat; also, to drive back (an enemy); repulse.
4. To press one's attentions on; to court the favor of; as, to rush a girl; to rush a freshman for a fraternity. Slang, U. S.
5. To recite (a lesson) or pass (an examination) with great ease and few errors. College Cant, U. S.
6. Croquet. To roquet (a ball) so that it travels a considerable distance.
7. Football. To carry forward by a rush or continued rushes; as, to rush the ball ten yards.

rush the growler. To fetch beer from a saloon in a pail, pitcher, or the like. Slang, U. S.

rush (rŭsh), n. 1. A moving forward with rapidity and force or eagerness; a violent motion or course; as, a rush of troops; a rush of winds; a rush of water.
2. A thronging of many people to some new place, as to a newly discovered ore field; esp., a gold rush. Also, Australia, the new gold field itself.
3. An onset; attack; combat; specif., in colleges, academies, etc., a contest or trial of strength between two classes, or delegations from two classes, for temporary possession of a walk, fence, cane, etc.; as, a cane rush; fence rush. U. S.

run'nion (rŭn'yŭn). Var. of RONYON.	run'proof' (66). See -PROOF.	ru'pel·lar'y, adj. [From L. rupes a rock.] Rocky. Obs.	ru'ral·i·sa'tion. Var. of RURALIZATION.
run'sy. ✝ ROUNCY.			ru'ral·ly, adv. of RURAL.
			ru'ral·ness, n. See -NESS. ru'ric, adj. [L. rus, ruris, country.] Rustic. Obs. Scot.

4. That which by its accumulation or pressure causes unusual activity and haste; as, a rush of business. Colloq.
5. An insistent demand; as, a rush on tableware; a rush for seats at the opera.
6. Attention; flattering notice; as, to give a girl a rush at a dance; a rush of a freshman for a fraternity. Slang, U. S.
7. A stampede of cattle. Australia.
8. A ready and nearly faultless recitation, examination, or the like. College Cant, U. S.
9. A brook; runlet. Local, U. S.
10. Amer. Football. a One of certain players in the rush line; as, the center or an end rush. b Act of carrying the ball.

rush (rŭsh), adj. Involving haste; requiring special speed in preparation, process, action, etc.; as, a rush job; rush order; — often used absolutely on an order, paper, etc.

rush (rŭsh; rōōsh). Scot. & dial. Eng. of RASH, an eruption.

rush bearing. A kind of rural festival, marking or commemorating the dedication of a church, during which the parishioners bring rushes to strew the church. Archaic. Eng. — rush'-bear'er, n.

rush broom. a An Australian plant (Viminaria denudata), family Fabaceae, having slender branches. b The Spanish broom.

rush'bush' (rŭsh'bŏŏsh'; rōōsh'-), n. A clump of rushes. Dial.

rush candle. A candle made of the pith of certain rushes, peeled except on one side, and dipped in grease.

rush daffodil. A daffodil (Narcissus triandrus) of southern Europe.

rushed (rŭsht), adj. Overgrown, or overlaid, with rushes.

rush'en (rŭsh'ĕn; -ĭn; rōōsh'-), adj. Made of rushes. Chiefly Dial.

rush'er (rŭsh'ĕr), n. One who rushes. Specif.: a One who does things rapidly; a quick, energetic person; — sometimes implying too great haste for careful consideration. b Amer. Football. A player in the rush line (which see). c Colloq. or Cant. One who joins in the rush to a freshly discovered ore field.

rush'er, n. a Obs. One who strewed the floor with rushes, as at dances. b One who weaves rushes into frames of chairs.

rush family. The Juncaceae.

rush garlic. The wild onion Allium vineale.

rush grass. Any grass of the genus Sporobolus, having wiry stems and sheathed panicles.

rush'-grown', adj. 1. Tapering like a rush. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.
2. Overgrown by rushes, as land.

rush-grown arrow. = BOBTAILED ARROW.

rush hour. The period when the demands of traffic, business, customers, etc. are at the peak; as, traffic on the subway during the rush hours. — rush'-hour' (66), adj.

rush'ing, adj. That rushes, or accompanies a rush; hence, briskly active; as, a rushing trade. — rush'ing-ly, adv. — rush'ing-ness, n.

rush'-leaved' daf'fo-dil. The Jonquil.

rush'light' (rŭsh'lĭt'), n. A rush candle, or its light; hence, a small, feeble light. — rush'light'ed (-lĭt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), rush'lit' (-lĭt'), adj.

rush'like' (-lĭk'), adj. Resembling a rush; weak.

rush lily. Any large-flowered species of the genus Sisyrinchium, esp. S. grandiflorum of western North America.

rush line. Amer. Football. The players of the forward line of attack or defense, normally including the center rush, two guards, two tackles, and two ends.

rush marsh grass. See GRASS, Table.

rush nut. The chufa.

rush ring. Formerly, a ring made of plaited rushes sometimes used as a wedding ring. Hence, rush-ring wedding, figuratively, an unstable union.

rush toad. The natterjack.

rush wheat. = COUCH GRASS, 1 a. rush'y (rŭsh'ĭ), adj.; RUSH'I-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); RUSH'I-EST. 1. Abounding with rushes.

2. Made of or resembling rushes; as, a rushy couch. — rush'i-ness (rŭsh'ĭ-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

Ru'sin (rōō'sĕn), n. One of the northern Little Russians.

ru'sine (rōō'sĭn; -sīn; 156), adj. [NL. Rusa, the genus, fr. Malay rusa deer. Cf. RUCERVINE.] Zool. Of, like, or pertaining to, the deer of the genus or subgenus Rusa.

rusine antler. An antler with the brow tine simple and the beam simply forked at the tip.

Rusine Antler. a Brow Tine; b Tr e s t i n e; c Sur-royal.

rusk (rŭsk), n. [Sp. rosca a roll, twist (of bread).] 1. A light, soft bread made with yeast and eggs, often crisped in an oven; also, a kind of sweet biscuit.
2. A kind of hard bread, as for ships' stores. Obs.
3. Bread or cake made brown and crisp in an oven; often, also, such bread grated or pulverized.

rusk, v. t. [From RUSK, n.] To toast or crisp (bread or cake) into rusk.

rus'kin (rŭs'kĭn), n. [Ir. ruscán. See RUSKY.] A receptacle, as for butter, made of bark; also, butter kept in such a receptacle. Dial. Eng.

Rus·kin'i·an (rŭs·kĭn'ĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of, or in the manner of the writings of, John Ruskin.

rus'ky (rŭs'kĭ), n. [Gael. rusgan. See RUCHE.] A rude kind of straw basket or hamper. Scot.

rus'ma (rŭz'mä), n. [F. & It., fr. Turk. khirizma, fr. Gr. chrisma unguent. See CHRISM.] A depilatory of orpiment and, usually, quicklime.

rus'ot (rŭs'ŏt), rus'wut (-wŭt), n. [Hind. rasaut, raswat.] An extract from the wood or roots of various shrubs of the genus Berberis used in India, mixed with opium, as an application to infected eyelids. It is said to be the lycium of the ancients.

rus·po'ne (rōōs·pō'nā), n. [It.] A gold coin of Florence of the 18th and 19th centuries, equivalent to three sequins.

Russ (rŭs), n.; pl. RUSS, RUSSES (rŭs'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [F. Russe.] A Russian, or the Russians; the Russian language.

Russ, adj. [F. russe.] Of or pertaining to the Russians.

rus'sel (rŭs'ĕl; -l), n. A woolen twill used for clothing in England from the 15th century onward. Obs.

russel cord. A kind of rep made of cotton and wool, used for women's dresses, scholastic gowns, bags, etc.

rus'se-let' (rōō'sĕ·lā'), n. [F. rousselet.] A variety of russet-colored pear. Obs.

Rus·se'li·a (rŭ·sē'lĭ·ä; -sēl'yä), n. [NL., after Alex. Russell (d. 1768), a physician at Aleppo.] Bot. A small genus of often nearly leafless Mexican shrubs (family Scrophulariaceae) having red flowers with a tubular corolla, four stamens, and a nearly globose 2-celled capsule. R. equisetiformis, one of the coral plants, is commonly cultivated for ornament.

Rus'sell·ite (rŭs'ĕl·īt), n. One of a sect founded by Charles T. ("Pastor") Russell (1852–1916), whose preaching and writings (esp. Millennial Dawn) sought to establish the doctrine that the second coming of Christ took place invisibly in 1874, and that the end of the age would occur in 1914. Since 1916 the leader of the movement has been "Judge" Rutherford, author of the slogan, "Millions now living will never die." The Russellites constitute a society called the International Bible Students' Association. Called also Millennial Dawnist. — Rus'sell-ite, adj.

Rus'sell's vi'per (rŭs'ĕlz; -lz). [After Patrick Russell (1727–1805), physician at Aleppo.] A beautifully marked venomous snake (Vipera, syn. Daboia, russellii) of southern and southeastern Asia. It is brown, with three rows of white-margined spots. Called also daboia, jessur, and katuka.

rus'set (rŭs'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), adj. [OF. rousset, rosset, dim. of rous, ros, red (F. roux), fr. L. russus; akin to E. RED. Cf. ROUSSETTE.] 1. Of the color russet.
2. Reddish brown, or (with some) reddish gray; also, yellowish brown.

The morn, in russet mantle clad. Shak.

3. Made of coarse cloth of a dull reddish-brown color; also, wearing clothing of such cloth; hence, coarse; homespun; rustic. Archaic.
4. Leather. Designating, or pertaining to, leather finished except for the coloring and polishing.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

russet-backed	russet-colored	russet-pated
russet-bearded	russet-golden	russet-robed russet-brown	russet-green	russet-roofed rus'set (rŭs'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. 1. Originally, homespun cloth or clothing, formerly commonly worn by country people; hence, cloth or clothing of reddish-brown color and (often) coarse texture; also, country dress.

2. Any of a group of browns varying in hue from reddish red-yellow to red-yellow. Cf. RUSSET BROWN, COLOR.
3. Any of a group of winter apples having rough skins of a russet color, as the Roxbury russet.
4. Russet leather. See RUSSET, adj., 4.
5. = RUSSETING, 4.

rus'set, v. Transitive: 1. To cast a russet glow over. R.
2. Plant Pathol. To infect with russeting.
—, Intransitive: To become russet in color, as leaves in autumn.

rus'set-backed' thrush. A common thrush (Hylocichla ustulata) of the Pacific coast, somewhat darker than the allied olive-backed thrush of eastern North America.

russet brown. A color, red-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. It is slightly yellower and of slightly lower saturation than golden brown, and slightly yellower and of higher saturation and brilliance than burnt umber. Cf. COLOR.

russet coat. A coat of russet; also, one who wears such a coat; hence, a rustic; a peasant. — rus'set-coat'ed, adj.

russet dwarf. Plant Pathol. A virus disease of the potato characterized by dwarfing, browning, or rusting, of the leaves, and leaf fall.

russet green. A color, yellow in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

rus'set·ing, n. 1. A russet apple. Obs.
2. One wearing russet; a rustic. Obs.
3. = RUSSET, n., 1.
4. Plant Pathol. A brownish roughened area on the skin of fruits, as apples, pears, and citrus fruit, caused by frost, insect or fungous injury, or spraying; — so called from the resemblance to the normal skin of a russet apple. Cf. SCURF; RUST MITE.

rus'set·ish, adj. [See -ISH.] Somewhat russet in color.

russet orange. The color chrome scarlet.

russet scab. Rhizoctonia disease of potatoes.

Rus'sia (rŭsh'ä), n. A country of Europe and Asia.

rus'sia, n. Russia leather.

Russia braid. = SOUTACHE.

Russia calf. See RUSSIA LEATHER.

Russia Company. = MUSCOVY COMPANY.

Russia duck. A variety of strong linen duck for men's garments.

Russia grass. The floating fescue.

Russia iron. A kind of sheet iron having a lustrous blue-black coating of oxide which protects it slightly against corrosion.

Russia leather. Leather made from various skins by tanning with barks of the willow, birch, or oak, and then rubbing the flesh side with birch oil, which imparts a peculiar odor and protects from insects. It was originally made from the skins of young cattle in Russia and hence called Russia calf. Russia leather is often colored red with brazilwood and stamped with diamond-shaped markings. It is used in fine bookbinding, for purses, etc.

Russia matting. Matting manufactured in Russia from the inner bark of the European linden (Tilia vulgaris).

Rus'sian (rŭsh'ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Russia, its inhabitants, or their language.

Rus'sian, n. 1. One of the people of Russia; esp., a member of the dominant Slavic-speaking race, or races, of Russia. Linguistically the Russians fall into three divisions: (1) Those speaking Indo-European languages, chiefly Balto-Slavic tongues, with Russian, Polish, Lithuanian, and Lettish foremost. Of these, the Russian-speaking peoples are subdivided into the Great Russians, of the central and northeastern areas; the Little Russians, of Little Russia and Ukraine and including the Ruthenians and the Cossacks; and the White Russians, a relatively small group in west Russia, adjoining the Poles and Lithuanians. (2) Those speaking the Ural-Altaic languages, chiefly Finno-Ugric tongues (see FINNO-UGRIC LANGUAGES, Table), together with such Turkic idioms as Chuvash, Kirghiz, Kazan Tatar, etc., of southeastern Russia. (3) The linguistic families of Caucasia (see CAUCASIAN, n., 1). Ethnically, according to Ripley, Russia is peopled by an aboriginal, tall, red-blond, dolichocephalic race, probably of Finnish speech, intermixed, in the Russians proper, with Slavic-speaking conquerors of the brachycephalic Alpine race; while in the extreme north, southeast, and east, Mongolian races have settled and modified the type in varying degrees. Deniker finds in central and northern Russia and Finland representatives of his Northern, Sub-Northern, and Eastern European races; in eastern and southern Russia, traces of the Cevenole race; in Poland, of the Vistulian; and in the southern provinces, of the Adriatic and Sub-Adriatic as well. Linguistic and race boundaries have only a general correspondence.
2. The dominant language of Russia. It is an East Slavic speech, and in a wide sense includes: Great Russian (usually called Russian), which furnishes the standard literary language, based on the dialect of Moscow; Little Russian, or Ukrainian, spoken in Ukraine and southern Poland; and White Russian, the speech of five or six million people of western Russia and northeastern Poland, now, like Little Russian, a literary language. Russian records are as old as the 10th or 11th century, but the literature dates chiefly since the time of Peter the Great, in whose reign the old form of the Russian alphabet, which differed little from the Cyrillic, was reduced from 48 to 35 letters. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

Russian almond. An Asiatic dwarf almond (Amygdalus nana), cultivated for its rosy-red flowers.

Russian apple. Any variety of apple originating in Russia, as the Red Astrachan.

Russian backgammon. A variety of backgammon in which all the pieces are entered on the same table, as determined by throws of the dice.

Russian bagatelle. See BAGATELLE, 2.

Russian ballet. A form of ballet developed early in the 20th century by certain teachers and students of the Russian Imperial Ballet Academy; also, a group of dancers trained in such a ballet. The Russian ballet employs many of the intricate steps and poses of the older, or Italian, school, from which it derives, but its characteristic emphasis is upon the execution of dramatic, symbolic, or interpretative pantomime through rhythmic plastic movements and postures with the aid of appropriate costumes and setting. It has thereby achieved artistic independence of the opera.

Russian bank. A card game for two players, resembling solitaire, each having his own pack. The eight aces as they appear are placed in the center for foundations, to be built up in sequence and suit. On each side four cards form the tableaux, to be built down in alternate colors, each player having his own stock and discard pile. The winner is the one who first gets rid of all his cards.

Russian bast. The fibrous inner bark of a European linden (Tilia vulgaris). It resembles raffia.

Russian bath. A vapor bath, variously modified, consisting essentially in a prolonged exposure of the body to steam, followed by washings, friction, and a cold plunge or douche.

Russian blouse. = BLOUSE, 4 a.

Russian blue. A color, blue in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Russian braid. = SOUTACHE.

Russian Py'ron. Aleksandr Sergyeevich Pushkin, the most celebrated poet of Russia. He was influenced by the poetry of Byron.

Russian cactus. The Russian thistle.

Russian calendar. The Julian calendar, used in Russia down to Feb. 1, 1918. See CALENDAR, n., 1.

Russian calf. A brown, red-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance; called also Cappagh brown, carob brown, fudge, India tan. Cf. COLOR.

Russian cedar. The Swiss pine (Pinus cembra).

Russian Church. Before the abdication of Czar Nicholas II (1917), the established church of the Russian Empire. (See ORTHODOX CHURCH.) The Czar was the head of the Church, and the governing body since the abolition of the Patriarchate by Peter the Great (1721), the Holy Synod. In August, 1917, the Patriarchate was restored in the person of Tikhon, Archbishop of Wilno. In January, 1918, the Church was disestablished by the Bolshevists, and, later, by the aid of former Orthodox priests, the government organized a rival religious organization called The Living Church.

Russian crash. A strong unbleached linen fabric of varying quality, used for garments, towels, and in embroidery.

Russian deal. The wood of the Scotch pine.

Russian dressing. Mayonnaise dressing with pungent additions, as chili sauce, or chopped pickles, pimientos, etc.

Russian embroidery. Simple conventional patterns embroidered esp. on wash materials.

Russian flax. The ordinary flax (see FLAX); — so called because largely grown in countries of northern Europe now or formerly a part of Russia.

Russian gray. The color slate gray.

Russian green. A color, greenish yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also verd russe. Cf. COLOR.

Rus'sian·ism (rŭsh'ăn·ĭz'm), n. Inclination toward Russian ideals, methods, character, etc.; advocacy of, or adoption of, things characteristically Russian, as dress, manner, speech. — Rus'sian·ist, n.

Rus'sian·ize (rŭsh'ăn·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'-ĭng). 1. To make Russian, or more or less like the Russians; to imbue with Russian character and ideals; to Russify.
2. To treat (leather) by a process similar to, or intended to produce similar results to, that used on Russia leather. — Rus'sian·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.

Russian knapweed. A Eurasian herb (Centaurea picris), introduced into the central United States, and a trouble some weed.

Russian marten. Fur of the American opossum.

Russian millet. = MILLET, 1 a.

Russian mulberry. A small bushy variety (Morus alba tatarica) of the white mulberry.

Russian musk. A variety of musk from Siberia. It comes in large pods and is inferior to that from China.

Russian muskrat. The Desman; also its fur.

Russian oleaster. = OLEASTER a.

Russian olive. The oleaster (Elaeagnus angustifolia), often planted as a windbreak in the central United States.

Rus'sian-owned', adj. See -OWNED.

Russian pool. = 4th CARLINE.

Russian red clover. A drought-resistant variety (Trifolium pratense pallidum) of the common red clover.

Russian Revolution. See REVOLUTION, Table.

Russian sable. = SIBERIAN SABLE.

Russian saltwort. The Russian thistle.

Russian sauce. Velouté sauce thickened with egg yolks and containing cream, grated horse-radish, and fine herbs.

Russian sheep dog. = OWTCHAH.

Russian sheet iron. = RUSSIA IRON.

Russian sunflower. A large-seeded variety of the common sunflower (Helianthus annuus), used as food in Russia.

Russian tapestry. A strong fabric of hemp or coarse linen, used for window curtains, embroidery, etc.

Russian thistle or tumbleweed. A prickly European herb (Salsola pestifer), which is a serious pest in North America.

Russian turnip. The rutabaga.

Russian turpentine. See TURPENTINE, 1 b.

Russian walnut. The English walnut.

Russian willow. The golden willow.

---

rush'le, v. i. [From RUSH, v.] To rush. Obs.

rusht. Rushed. Ref. Sp.

rusien. † RESE, to shake.

‖ rus in ur'be. [L.] The country in the city.

Martial (Epigrams, XII. 57, 21).

russche. † RUSH, a plant, etc.

Rus·sene' (rŭs·sēn'), n. = RUTHENE.

rus'set·like', adj. See -LIKE.

rus'set·y, adj. = RUSSET, adj., 2

Russian wolfhound. A gigantic dog of a breed originating in Russia and long bred and trained for hunting. Its extreme speed and the tenacious grip of its powerful jaws make it a deadly hunter of wolves. The long, slightly domed head, arched neck, deep chest, roachback, straight forelegs, and muscular, long hindquarters make it one of the most graceful of dogs. The coat, which may be flat or curly, is long and silky, with feathering on legs, tail, and chest. It is usually white, with lemon, tan, brindle, gray, or black markings. The height is from 26 to 31 inches, and the weight from 60 to 105 pounds.

Russian Wolfhound, or Borzoi. (1/45)

Russia sheet iron. = RUSSIA IRON.

Rus'si·fy (rŭs'ĭ·fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING. [Cf. F. russifier. See -FY.] To convert to Russian ideals, practices, laws, etc.; to render Russian; as, to Russify conquered tribes. — Rus'si·fi·ca'tion (rŭs'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. — Rus'si·fi·ca'tor (rŭs'ĭ·fĭ·kā'tĕr), n. — Rus'si·fi'er (-fī'ĕr), n.

Russ'ine (rŏŏs'ēn), n. A division of the Little Russians.

Rus'sism (rŭs'ĭz'm), n. Russianism.

Russ'ni·ak (rŭs'nĭ·ăk), n. [Pol. & Ruthenian Rusnjack.]
1. = RUTHENIAN, 1.
2. People of northern Little Russia.

Rus'so- (rŭs'ō-). A combining form denoting: a Russia, Russiane, as in:

Russolatrous	Russophile	Russophobia
Russolatry	Russophilism	Russophobiac
Russomania	Russophilist	Russophobism
Russomaniac	Russophobe	Russophobist Russomaniacal

b Russian and; — in adjectives, as in Russo-Byzantine.

Russo-Caucasian	Russo-Greek	Russo-Polish
Russo-Chinese	Russo-Japanese	Russo-Serbian
Russo-German	Russo-Persian	Russo-Turkish

See the word with which Russo- is combined.

Rus'so-By·zan'tine, adj. Having Byzantine characteristics modified by Russian influence; esp., designating the typical Russian architecture previous to 1700.

Rus'so-Jap'a·nese' War. See WAR, Table.

Rus'so-Swed'ish War. The conflict (1700–21) between Russia under Peter the Great and Sweden under Charles XII (to 1718), marked by the battles of Narva (1700) and Poltava (see BATTLE, Table), and closed by the Treaty of Nystad.

Rus'so-Turk'ish War. Any one of the wars between Russia and Turkey, esp. those of 1827–29 and 1877–78.

rus'sud (rŭs'ŭd), n. [Hind. rasad, fr. Per. rasad entering into.] Grain, forage, etc., provided by local officers at a military camping ground. India.

Rus'su·la (rŭs'ū·lā), n. [NL., fr. LL. russulus reddish, dim. fr. L. russus red. See RUSSET, adj.] Bot. A large genus of white-spored agaricaceous fungi differing from Lactarius by the absence of milky juice. The brittle pileus may be red, purple, yellow, green, or blue. Some species are edible.

rust (rŭst), n. [AS. rūst (and prob. rust); akin to D. roest, G. rost, ON. ryth, and to E. RUD, RED.] 1. The reddish, porous, brittle coating formed on iron as when chemically attacked by moist air; by extension, the coating produced on any of various other metals by corrosion. Iron rust consists essentially of hydrated ferric oxide, but usually contains some ferrous oxide and perhaps iron carbonates. The presence of carbon dioxide (yielding carbonic acid) is favorable, if not essential, to its formation.
2. That which resembles rust in appearance or effects; a rustlike coating or stain. Specif.: a A composition used in making a rust joint. b A rusty discoloration found on cured fish, giving it a bad flavor. In the case of cod, haddock, and other ground fish, it is due to colonies of bacteria.
3. Corrosive or injurious accretion or influence.
Sacred truths cleared from all rust and dross. Eikon Basilike.
4. Inaction; idleness. "A life of rust." P. L. Ford.
5. The color of iron rust, reddish red-yellow in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. It is yellower than burnt sienna. Cf. COLOR.
6. Bot. a Any of numerous minute parasitic fungi (order Uredinales) causing spots or discoloration of the tissues in higher plants. They are primitive basidiomycetes, often heteroecious, passing through their life stages on different hosts. Typically a rust exhibits a pycnial stage, an aeciostage, a uredostage, and a teliostage, but one or more of these may be wanting. The wheat rust Puccinia graminis is a well-known example of a rust destructive to grain crops. See WHEAT RUST, PUCCINIA. b The disease caused by such fungi; also, any morbid brown or reddish appearance of vegetation or fruit.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rust-cankered	rust-preventing	rust-stained rust-complexioned	rust-removing	rust-worn rust-eaten	rust-resisting	rust-yellow rust (rŭst), v.; RUST'ED; RUST'ING. [ME. rusten, rousten. See RUST, n.] Intransitive: 1. To contract rust; to be or become oxidized.

If gold ruste, what shall iron do? Chaucer.
2. To be affected with the parasitic fungus called rust; also, to acquire a rusty appearance, as plants.
3. To turn or become the color of rust; to become reddish brown, as with rust.
4. To degenerate in idleness; to become dull, slow, impaired, or the like, by inaction.
—, Transitive: 1. To cause to contract rust.
Keep up your bright swords, for the dew will rust them. Shak.
2. To blast or wither by or as by the rust fungus. Rare.
3. To turn to the color of rust; to cause to become reddish brown; as, the frosts rusted the foliage.
4. To impair or corrode by or as by time and inactivity.

rust (rŏŏst), n. & v. [Cf. D. rust, n., rusten, v.] Rest. Dial. Eng.

Rus'tam, Rus'tum (rŭs'tŭm), n. [Per. Rustam.] A legendary hero of the Persian epic Shah Namah and other poems. His exploits, even in childhood, are marvelous. In old age he slays in single combat his son Sohrab, whose birth had been concealed by the mother from him. This episode is the subject of a poem, Sohrab and Rustum, by Matthew Arnold.

rust brown. The color rust. — rust'-brown' (66), adj.

rust cement. = IRON CEMENT.

rust coat. A coat of a brown, rusty color, as a homespun garment of a peasant.

rust fungus. A fungus of the order Uredinales. See RUST, 6.

rus'tic (rŭs'tĭk), adj. [L. rusticus, fr. rus, ruris, the country; cf. F. rustique. See RURAL; cf. ROISTER.] 1. Of or pertaining to the country; rural; as, the rustic gods of antiquity.
She had a rustic, woodland air. Wordsworth.
2. Awkward; rough; unpolished; as, rustic manners; sometimes, rude; boorish.
3. Befitting the country; plain; simple; sturdy; as, a rustic entertainment; rustic dress.
4. Simple; artless; unadorned; unaffected. Pope.
5. Masonry. Of or pertaining to rustic work (which see); as, a rustic joint, quoin, etc.
Syn. — Rude, boorish, coarse; artless, honest. See RURAL.
Ant. — Sophisticated, worldly-wise, urbane.

rus'tic (rŭs'tĭk), n. 1. An inhabitant of the country, esp. one who is rude, coarse, or dull; a clown.
2. A rural person naturally simple in character or manners; an artless, unaffected person.
3. = RUSTIC MOTH.
4. Ceramics. A surface artificially roughened.

rus'ti·cal (rŭs'tĭ·kŭl), adj. & n. Rustic. — rus'ti·cal·ly, adv. — rus'ti·cal·ness, n.

rus'ti·cate (rŭs'tĭ·kāt), v.; -CAT'ED (-kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT'ING (-kāt'ĭng). [L. rusticatus, past part. of rusticari to rusticate. See RUSTIC.] Intransitive: 1. To go into, or reside in, the country; to ruralize.
2. To spend a period of rustication as a punishment.
—, Transitive: 1. To compel to reside in the country.
The town is again beginning to be full, and the rusticated beauty sees an end of her banishment. Idler.
2. To punish by requiring temporary absence, esp. in the country, as from a college.
3. To cause to become rustic; to implant rustic ideals, manners, diction, etc., in.
4. Masonry. To bevel or rebate, as blocks on the edges so as to make the joints conspicuous.

rus'ti·ca'tion (rŭs'tĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [L. rusticatio.]
1. Act of rusticating, or state of being rusticated; retirement to, or residence in, the country.
2. Specif., a dwelling or abiding in the country upon suspension from a college, university, or the like; also, a period of such punishment.
3. Masonry. Act of rusticating, also, rustic work.

rus'ti·ca'tor (rŭs'tĭ·kā'tĕr), n. One who rusticates.

rustic brown. A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance; — called also casserole, Eskimo, gingerspice. Cf. COLOR.

rustic capital. Paleog. A Latin book hand much used from the 1st to the 7th century, and occasionally until the tenth. The letters were formed in a manner natural to the pen, as opposed to the square capitals, which imitated letters carved in stone. Cf. CURSIVE; UNCIAL.

rustic comedy. Comedy representing country people and their life.

rustic drab. The color drab.

rus·ti'cial (rŭs·tĭsh'ăl), adj. Rustic.

rus'ti·cism (rŭs'tĭ·sĭz'm), n. A rustic phrase, manner of speaking, habit, or custom.

rus·tic'i·ty (rŭs·tĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. or L.; F. rusticité, fr. L. rusticitas.] 1. Quality or state of being rustic; as: a Rustic manners; awkwardness. b Simplicity; artlessness.
2. A mark or instance of the lack of sophistication to be found in rural communities; hence, ignorance; stupidity.
The rusticity of an unmannerly person who does not know his place. John Morley.

rus'ti·cize (rŭs'tĭ·sīz), v. t. To render rustic, as in looks.

rustic moth. Any of various moths (family Noctuidae), esp. those belonging to Agrotis and allied genera. Their larvae are called cutworms.

rustic nard. = BACCHAR. Obs. Holland.

rust'i·coat' (rŭs'tĭ·kōt'), adj. Rusty-coated. "How much more luxurious it would be to me to dine . . . upon rusticoat potatoes with Portia." John Adams.

rustic servitude. = RURAL SERVITUDE. See SERVITUDE.

rustic ware. A variety of terra cotta, light brown in color with a brown glaze, often used in architectural work.

rustic work. a Masonry. Cut stone facing which has the joints rusticated. b Summerhouses collectively, or furniture for summerhouses, etc., made of rough limbs of trees.

‖rus'tiques' fi'gu'lines' (rŭs'tēk' fē'gü'lēn'). [F.] Faïence of Bernard Palissy, a French potter of the 16th century, with reliefs of small animals, plants, etc.

One style of Plain Rustic Work.

rust joint. A joint made with iron cement, which causes the formation of rust between iron or steel surfaces.

rus'tle (rŭs'l), v. i.; RUS'TLED (-'ld); RUS'TLING (-lĭng). [ME. rustle, rustel, rouschel, of imitative origin; cf. D. ritselen, G. rauschen.] To make a quick succession of small sounds, like the rubbing or moving of silk cloth or dry leaves; as, he was startled by the rustling of leaves.
Prouder than rustling in unpaid-for silk. Shak.
— v. t. To cause to rustle, as leaves; to move or stir with a rustling sound.

rus'tle (rŭs'l), n. A quick succession or confusion of small sounds, like those made by shaking leaves or straw, by rubbing silk, or the like; a rustling.
As she entered there was a little rustle throughout the congregation. Edna Ferber.

rus'tle, v. [A modern blend of rush and hustle.] Intransitive: To act with great energy in any occupation, esp. in business. Cf. RUSTLE, v. i., 2. Slang, U. S.
—, Transitive: 1. To get, as money, by rustling or hustling; to handle actively and energetically; as, rustle that wood for the fire. Slang, U. S.
I'll guarantee to rustle up a fresh bank roll. Irvin S. Cobb.
2. To steal, as cattle. Orig. Western U. S.

rus'tle, n. Act of engaging actively and energetically in some pursuit; a hustle; as, war for them had become simply a rustle for food.

rus'tler (rŭs'lĕr), n. [See 1st RUSTLE.] One who or that which rustles; esp., a plant whose leaves make a rustling sound in the wind.

rus'tler (rŭs'lĕr), n. [See 3d RUSTLE.] One who or that which rustles. Specif.: Slang, U. S. a A bovine animal that can care for itself. b An alert, energetic, driving person; a hustler. c Orig. Western U. S. A cattle thief.
Villages to the north had risen against the invasion of gentile settlers and the forays of rustlers. Zane Grey.

rus'tling (rŭs'lĭng), adj. That rustles; as, rustling silk; rustling leaves. — rus'tling·ly, adv. — rus'tling·ness, n.

rust'ly (rŭs'lĭ), adj. Rustling. Rare.

rust mite. Any of certain small gall mites which burrow in the surface of leaves or fruits, usually producing brown or reddish patches. The citrus rust mite (Phyllocoptes oleivorus) causes a russeting of the orange and a silvering of the lemon.

Rust Mites of the Orange (Phyllocoptes oleivorus). Much enlarged.

rust'proof' (rŭst'prōōf'; 66), adj. See -PROOF.

rust'-proof', v. t. To make rustproof. — rust'-proofed', adj.

rus'tre (rŭs'tĕr), n. [F.] 1. Medieval Armor. A metal scale of oval or lozenge shape.
2. Her. A lozenge pierced with a round opening to show the tincture of the field behind.

rus'tred (rŭs'tĕrd), adj. Having, or composed of, rustres.

rust red. The color rust. — rust'-red' (66), adj.

rust'y (rŭs'tĭ), adj.; RUST'I·ER (-tĭ·ĕr); RUST'I·EST. [AS. rūstig.] 1. Covered or affected with rust; as, a rusty knife or sword; stiff in action, as if clogged with rust; as, a rusty hinge.
2. Figuratively, impaired by inaction, disuse, or neglect; giving the appearance of suffering from a long period of neglect; as, rusty old men in rusty old clothes.
3. Foul; vile; abominable; as, rusty sin. Obs.
4. Of the color rust.
5. Discolored; stained; not clean. Obs. or Dial.
6. Bot. Resembling, or affected with, rust; rubiginous.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

rusty-branched	rusty-colored	rusty-looking rusty-brown	rusty-crowned	rusty-rested rusty-coated	rusty-dusty	rusty-spotted rusty-collared	rusty-leaved	rusty-throated — rust'i·ly (rŭs'tĭ·lĭ), adv. — rust'i·ness, n.

rust'y (rŭs'tĭ), adj. [From resty, var. of RESTIVE.] 1. Surly; morose; crusty; sullen; uncivil. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.
2. Stubborn; obstinate; rebellious; — esp. in the phrase to ride, or turn, rusty, to become stubborn or rebellious.

rust'y, v. t. & i. To render or become rusty.

rust'y (rŭs'tĭ), n. Traitor; informer. Thieves' Cant.

rust'y (rŭs'tĭ; rōōs'tĭ). Var. of REASTY, rancid.

rust'y·back' (rŭs'tĭ·băk'), n. a Dial. Eng. The scale fern. b = DEER FERN.

rusty blackbird. A blackbird (Euphagus carolinus), of the eastern United States. The adult male has a white iris and is a uniform blue-black in spring but in the fall the edges of the feathers become rusty.

rusty blotch. Plant Pathol. A disease of barley caused by an imperfect fungus (Helminthosporium californicum), characterized by irregular brown blotches on the leaves.

rusty coat. = RUST COAT.

rusty dab. The sand dab Limanda ferruginea.

rusty fig. The fig Ficus rubiginosa.

rust'y-fust'y (66), adj. Rusty and fusty; old, rusted, and stuffy. Colloq.

rusty gold. Mining. Native gold having on it some coating which prevents it from amalgamating readily. Gold itself does not rust.

rusty grackle. The rusty blackbird.

rust'y·ish (rŭs'tĭ·ĭsh), adj. [See -ISH.] Somewhat rusty. R.

rust'y-red' (66), adj. Of the color rust.

rusty woodsia. A common rock-inhabiting fern (Woodsia ilvensis) of the North Temperate Zone, with rusty-brown stipes and lanceolate, pinnate fronds, the pinnae crowded and sessile.

rut (rŭt), n. [F., fr. OF. ruit, fr. L. rugitus roaring, fr. rugire to roar; akin to Gr. ὀρυγή a roar, howling, OSlav. rykati to roar, and ult. to E. RUNE. Cf. RIOT.] Physiol. Sexual desire or oestrus of deer, cattle, and other mammals; heat; also, the period during which the oestrus exists.

rut, v. i.; RUT'TED; RUT'TING. To have a strong sexual impulse at the reproductive period; — said of deer, cattle, etc. — v. t. To cover in copulation.

rut, n. [OF. rote, route, way (F. route). See ROUTE.]
1. A track worn by a wheel or by habitual passage of anything; a groove in which anything runs.
2. A furrow; wrinkle. Obs.
3. A usual or fixed practice; a regular course; esp., a routine method of action or procedure from which one is not easily stirred; a groove.

rut (rŭt), v. t.; RUT'TED; RUT'TING. To make a rut or ruts in; to furrow.

rut (rŭt), n. [Hind. rath, fr. Skr. ratha. See ROLL, v.] A native carriage drawn by a pony or by oxen; also, a car to bear images in a procession. Cf. RATH. India.

rut, n. [Cf. ROUT to roar, ROTE, in this sense.] Roaring, as of waves; an uproar. Obs.

rut (rōōt). Var. of ROOT. Obs. exc. Dial.

Ru'ta (rōō'tă; 242), n. [L., rue. See RUE.] Bot. A large genus of Eurasian strong-scented herbs and undershrubs typifying the family Rutaceae. They have yellow or greenish flowers, the 4–5-toothed petals borne on the receptacle. R. graveolens is the common rue.

ru'ta·ba'ga (rōō'tȧ·bā'gȧ), n. [Sw. dial. rotabagge; cf. F. rutabaga.] A kind of turnip (Brassica napobrassica) commonly with a very large elongated yellowish root; — called also Swedish turnip and Russian turnip. It is used as food both for stock and for human beings.

Ru·ta'ce·ae (rōō·tā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. rutaceus, adj. See RUTA.] Bot. A family of herbs, shrubs, and trees (order Geraniales), often glandular and strong-scented. The flowers are tetramerous or pentamerous, with a compound ovary of four or five distinct or somewhat united carpels. There are about 111 genera (including Citrus, Dictamnus, Ptelea, and Zanthoxylum), and nearly 800 species. — ru·ta'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

ru'tae·car'pine (rōō'tē·kär'pēn; -pĭn; 157), n. Also -pin. Chem. A light-yellow crystalline alkaloid, $C_{18}H_{19}N_3O$, found in the fruit of an Asiatic shrub or small tree (Evodia rutaecarpa).

ru'tate (rōō'tāt), n. Chem. A caprate.

rutch (rŭch), v. i. [G. (& D.) rutschen, of imitative origin.] To move with a crunching or shuffling noise. Rare.
No sound except the rutching of heavily loaded bare feet on the paving stones. Talbot Mundy.

Ru'te·li'nae (rōō'tĕ·lī'nē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A subfamily of vegetable-feeding scarabaeid beetles, often brilliantly colored, as the goldsmith beetle. — ru·te'li·an (rōō·tē'lĭ·ăn), n.

‖ru'te-mark' (rōō'tĕ·märk'), n. [Sw.] Commonly pl. a A surface marking, found in arctic regions, consisting of a row of loose stones enclosing a polygonal area. These markings usually occur in groups. b A mud or soil crack of similar form.

---

rust'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

rust'a·bout', Var. of ROUSTABOUT.

Rus'tem. Var. of RUSTAM.

rust'ful, adj. See -FUL.

rus'tic·ly, adv. of RUSTIC.

rus'tic·ness, adj. See -NESS.

rus'tl, rus'tld. Rustle; rustled. Ref. Sp.

rust'less, adj. See -LESS.

Rus'tum. Var. of RUSTAM.

rus'wut. Var. of RUSOT.

rute. Var. of ROOT. Obs.

ru'te (rōō'tē), n.; pl. RUTEN (-tĕn). Also, formerly, ru'the. [G. See ROOD.] See MEASURE, Table.

ru'te-car'pine. Also -pin. Chem. Var. of RUTAECARPINE.

N

O

P

Q

R

ruth (rōōth; 242), n. [ME. reuthe, reowthe, fr. AS. hrēow(e) sad; cf. AS. hrēow sorrow, ON. hryggth, hyrgth. See RUE, v. & n. (sorrow).] 1. Compassion for misery of another; pity; mercy. "They weep for ruth." Chaucer.

And shadow his displeased countenance With happy looks of ruth and lenity. Marlowe.

2. Sorrow; grief; sadness; esp., sorrow for one's own faults; repentance; regret; remorse.

3. Something causing sadness; esp., cruel action. Now Rare.

4. That which is the occasion of pity or compassion; misery; a pitiful sight; a sad thing. Obs.

It has been hard this ruth for to see. Chaucer.

ruth, adj. Compassionate; pitiful. Poetic.

Now, before thy silence ruth Commune with the voice of truth. Henry Newbolt.

Ruth (rōōth; 242), n. [LL., fr. Heb. Rūth.] 1. Fem. proper name.

2. An Old Testament heroine, a Moabitess who became the wife of Boaz; also, the Book of Ruth. See OLD TESTAMENT.

ruth (rŭt), n. = 2d RATH.

ru'the·nate (rōō'thĕ·nāt), n. Chem. a Any of a series of compounds regarded as salts of the hypothetical ruthenic acid, H_2RuO_4. b See PERRUTHENATE.

Ru·thene' (rōō·thēn'), n. Also Rus·sene' (rŏŏ·sēn'). A Ruthenian, or Little Russian.

Ru·the'ni·an (rōō·thē'nĭ·ăn; 159), n. [ML. Rutheni Russians.] 1. a One of a branch of the Little Russians, formerly chiefly of Galicia in Austria, now of Ruthenia, the eastern part of Czechoslovakia. b The Little Russian, or Ukrainian, language, especially as spoken in Galicia and other parts of former Austria-Hungary. See RUSSIAN, n.

2. Eccl. A member of the Church of the Little Russians which united with the Holy See in 1595; — a religious rather than a racial designation. At the Third Partition of Poland in 1795 those who became Austrian subjects continued as Uniats to follow the Byzantine rite in Old Slavonic, and are now found in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and the United States. Called also Ukrainian. — Ru·the'ni·an, adj.

ru·then'ic (rōō·thĕn'ĭk; rōō·thē'nĭk), adj. Chem. Of or pertaining to ruthenium; — used specif. of compounds in which ruthenium has a relatively high valence.

ruthenic acid. a See RUTHENATE a. b Ruthenium tetroxide.

ruthenic oxide. Ruthenium dioxide.

ru·the'ni·o- (rōō·thē'nĭ·ō-). Chem. A combining form for ruthenious.

ru·the'ni·ous (rōō·thē'nĭ·ŭs), adj. Chem. Of or pertaining to ruthenium; — used specif. of compounds in which ruthenium has a relatively low valence.

ru·the'ni·um (rōō·thē'nĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. ML. Ruthenia Russia, the metal having been found in the Ural Mountains.] Chem. A rare element of the light platinum group, associated with platinum ores, and separated as a hard, brittle, grayish-white metal, very infusible and almost insoluble in acids. Symbol, Ru; at. no., 44; at. wt., 101.7; sp. gr. (crystalline form), 12.2. It was first isolated by Claus in 1845. Chemically it resembles osmium.

ruthenium oxide. Chem. Any oxide of ruthenium. Ruthenium sesquioxide, Ru_2O_3, is obtained as a dark-blue powder. Ruthenium dioxide, RuO_2, forms crystals with a green metallic luster. Ruthenium tetroxide, RuO_4, is an explosive, volatile, golden-yellow crystalline compound with an odor resembling ozone and has been improperly called also ruthenic acid or perruthenic acid. See PERRUTHENATE.

ruthenium red. An ammoniated basic ruthenium chloride, $Ru_2(OH)_2Cl_4.7NH_3.3H_2O$, obtained as a brownish-red powder and used as a microscopic stain and as a test for pectin, gum, etc.

ru·the'no- (rōō·thē'nō-). Chem. = RUTHENIO-.

ru'the·nous (rōō'thē·nŭs), adj. Ruthenious.

Ruth'er·ford at'om (rŭth'ĕr·fĕrd). [After Sir Ernest Rutherford, Brit. physicist.] Physical Chem. The atom pictured by Rutherford. See ATOMIC THEORY.

ruth'er·ford·ite (rŭth'ĕr·fĕrd·īt), n. Also ruth'er·ford·ine (rŭth'ĕr·fĕrd·ĭn; -ēn). Mineral. A highly radioactive alteration product, UO_3CO_2, of pitchblende. It forms yellow crusts. Sp. gr., 4.82.

ruth'ful (rōōth'fŏŏl; -fl), adj. Full of ruth; as: a Pitiful; tender. b Full of sorrow; woeful. c Causing sorrow. — ruth'ful·ly, adv. — ruth'ful·ness, n.

ruth'less, adj. Having no ruth; cruel; pitiless.

Ruin seize thee, ruthless King!
Confusion on thy banners wait! Gray.

— ruth'less·ly, adv. — ruth'less·ness, n.

ru'tic (rōō'tĭk), adj. [L. ruta rue + -ic.] Chem. Of or pertaining to capric acid; — from the occurrence of capric acid in rue (Ruta). Now Rare.

ru'ti·do'sis (-tĭ·dō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. rytidōsis.] Med. A wrinkling, esp. of the cornea.

ru'ti·lant (rōō'tĭ·lănt), adj. [L. rutilans, pres. part. of rutilare, fr. rutilus red. See RUTILE.] Having a reddish glow; shining.

ru'ti·late (-lāt), v. i. [L. rutilare, rutilatum.] To shine. Obs. — ru'ti·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. Obs.

ru'ti·lat'ed (rōō'tĭ·lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Characterized by enclosed rutile needles; as, rutilated quartz. See SAGENITE.

ru'tile (rōō'tēl; -tĭl), n. [F. rutile, G. rutil, fr. L. rutilus red, golden red; akin to L. ruber. See RED.] Mineral. A mineral consisting, like octahedrite and brookite, of titanium dioxide, TiO_2, usually of a reddish-brown color and brilliant metallic adamantine luster, and occurring in tetragonal crystals or, occasionally, massive. It usually contains a little iron. The crystals are commonly prismatic with striations, and often geniculate as a result of twinning. When deep red or black, they have been cut into very brilliant gems. H., 6–6.5. Sp. gr., about 4.2.

ru'ti·lous (rōō'tĭ·lŭs), adj. Rutilant.

ru'tin (rōō'tĭn), n. [L. ruta rue.] Chem. A pale-yellow crystalline glucoside, $C_{27}H_{30}O_{16}$, found in rue (Ruta graveolens), buckwheat, and other plants. It is used for strengthening capillary blood vessels. On hydrolysis it yields quercetin and ru'ti·nose (-tĭ·nōs), a sugar.

Rut'i·o·don (rŭt'ĭ·ō·dŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. rhytis a wrinkle + -odon.] Paleontol. A genus of subaquatic, crocodile-like Triassic reptiles with very elongate, narrow skull, and four or more rows of dermal scutes. Syn. Rhytidodon.

Rut'land leath'er (rŭt'lănd). [From Rutland Co., Eng.] A high-grade flexible roan, used esp. for binding of books.

rut'tee (rŭt'ē), n. [Hind. rattī. See JEQUIRITY.] a A jequirity bean. b = RATTI.

rut'ter (rŭt'ĕr), n. One that ruts; specif., a plow for cutting ruts in a logging road for the runners of the sleds to run in.

rut'ter (rŭt'ĕr), n. [MD. rutter, rüter (D. ruiter), fr. OF. routier, routeur, ML. rutarius. See ROUTIER.] A horseman or trooper, orig. one of certain German forces common in the 15th and 16th centuries; also, a dashing gallant. Obs.

rut'ter, n. [Also ruttier, fr. F. routier a guide to the ways, fr. route road. See ROUTE.] Naut. A chart of a course.

rut'tish (-ĭsh), adj. Inclined to rut; lustful, salacious. — rut'tish·ly, adv. — rut'tish·ness, n.

rut'tish, adj. Making, or tending to make, ruts, as in a road. — rut'tish·ness, n.

rut'tle (rŭt''l; rŏŏt''l), n. & v. [ME. rutelen to rattle; cf. MLG. rutseln.] Rattle; gurgle, as the breath of one dying. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

rut'ty (rŭt'ĭ), adj.; RUT'TI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); RUT'TI·EST. Full of ruts, as a road. — rut'ti·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

rut'ty (rŭt'ĭ), adj. Ruttish; lustful. — rut'ti·ness, n.

Rut'u·li (rŭt'ū·lī), n. pl. [L.] An ancient Italian people whose capital in 442 B.C. was Ardea. Probably they were representatives of an early Indo-European people. In the Aeneid (vii–xii), Turnus is king of the Rutuli.

ru'tyl (rōō'tĭl), n. [See RUTIC; -YL.] Capryl. Rare.

ru'ty·lene (-tĭ·lēn), n. [rutic + acetylene.] An unsaturated liquid hydrocarbon, $C_{10}H_{18}$.

ru'vid (rōō'vĭd), adj. [It. ruvido.] Harsh; rough. R.

rux (rŭks), v. i. & i. To worry; also, to play; sport. Slang.

Ruy Blas' (rōō'ē blăs'). In Victor Hugo's drama of this name, a Spanish valet who gains the love of the queen, kills his master to prevent him from taking revenge on her, and poisons himself to save her honor.

Ruy Lo'pez (lō'pĕth; 267). [After Ruy López de Sigura, a Spaniard, author of a book on chess.] See 1st CHESS, 1.

-ry (-rĭ). A reduced form of the suffix -ERY; as in jewelry, revelry, yeomanry. See -ERY.

ry-. For various words formerly spelled ry-, see RI-.

ry'al (rī'ăl), n. Also ri'al. [ME. ryal, rial, lit., royal. See RIAL.] a A former English gold coin, first issued by Edward IV in 1465 as an improved noble (called rose noble from the rose stamped on it). It weighed 120 grains, had the intrinsic value of £1 1s. 3d., or $5.17, and was current for 10s. Under Elizabeth it was current at 15s. The rose ryal and spur ryal of James I were worth 30s. (or 33s.), and 15s. (or 16s. 6d.), respectively, the last two issues of this reign being raised 10 per cent by proclamation. b A Scottish gold coin of James V and of Mary Stuart. c A large silver coin issued by Mary Stuart.

ryb'at (rĭb'ăt; -ĭt), n. [Cf. RABBET.] A polished stone at the side of a door or window. Scot.

Ryd'berg (rĭd'bûrg), or Ryd'berg's (bûrgz), con'stant. Phys. Chem. A universal wave-number constant originally derived in an empirical equation for the prediction of wave lengths of lines in a spectral series and later theoretically confirmed in the Bohr theory as the value 109677.759 ± 0.05 cm.$^{-1}$ for hydrogen, 109722.403 ± 0.05 cm.$^{-1}$ for ionized helium, and 109732.42 ± 0.06 cm.$^{-1}$ for infinite mass.

ry'der (rī'dĕr), n. 1. = RIDER, n. Obs.

2. [D. rijder, prop., a rider.] A former gold coin of the Netherlands, worth about $5.63, bearing a horseman on the obverse. There was also a rijderdaalder of silver.

rye (rī), n. [Romany rei, rai, lord, fr. Skr. rājan king. See RAJA.] A gentleman, as, "Romany rye," a gypsy gentleman, or a gentleman who speaks the tongue of, and fraternizes with, gypsies. Gypsy.

rye (rī), n. [ME. ry, rie, reye, fr. AS. ryge; akin to ON. rugr, Sw. råg, Dan. rug, D. rogge, OHG. rocko, roggo, G. roggen, Lith. rugys, pl. rugiai.] 1. A hardy annual cereal grass (Secale cereale) having loose spikes with an articulate rachis, the lemmas long-awned. Rye is widely cultivated as a food grain, esp. in northern continental Europe, where it is the chief ingredient of the so-called black bread. In the United States it is grown extensively as a cover crop and for soil improvement, and frequently for forage.

2. The seeds or grain of this plant. Rye flour is darker and less nutritious than wheat, but superior to barley. The roasted seeds have been used as a substitute for coffee. In the United States rye has been used extensively in the manufacture of whisky, as a bread grain, and as a feed for poultry and other farm animals.

3. Short for rye whisky.

rye, adj. Of or pertaining to rye; from or due to rye; as, rye asthma.

rye (rī), n. A disease in a hawk causing a swelling of the head.

rye (rē). Var. of REE, v. Dial. Eng.

rye and Indian (rī). Bread made of rye flour and Indian meal, often baked in a pot in colonial days.

rye bread. Any bread made wholly or in part from rye flour including black bread, pumpernickel, knäckebröd, and a light loaf usually containing caraway seed.

rye grass. [From earlier ray grass, fr. ME. ray darnel, fr. D. raai, raaigras; akin to OS. rādo, OHG. rāto, G. raden.] a A perennial grass (Lolium perenne) with spikelets borne in a zigzag spike. It is useful in meadows and pastures. Called also English meadow grass and perennial rye grass. See also GIANT RYE GRASS. b The wild rice Zizania aquatica.

Rye Grass.

Rye House Plot. Eng. Hist. A plot to kill Charles II and James, Duke of York, discovered in June, 1683; — so called from a house in Hertfordshire, the alleged meeting place of the conspirators. Lord Russell and Algernon Sidney, who were supposed to be concerned in it, were executed.

ry'en (rī'ĕn), adj. Of rye. Rare.

rye rust. Any smut of the several rusts of the genus Puccinia attacking rye.

rye smut. Any smut attacking rye, esp. the stem smut.

rye whisky. A whisky distilled from rye, or from a mixture of rye and malt. See RYE, WHISKY.

ryke (rĭk; rēk), v. i. To reach. Scot.

ryme (rīm), n. [Var. of RIM.] Naut. The surface of water.

The gate was backed against the ryme. Masefield.

Rym'er, Thomas. See THOMAS RYMER.

Ry'mer's Foed'er·a (rī'mĕrz fĕd'ĕr·ä). A collection, begun by Thomas Rymer and continued after his death, of the historic documents concerning treaties, alliances and state affairs of England, from 1101 to 1654.

Ryn·chos'po·ra (rĭng·kŏs'pō·rä), n. [NL. See RHYNCHO-; SPORE.] Bot. A large genus of widely distributed herbs, the beak sedges (family Cyperaceae), having leafy culms and variously clustered spikelets. The perianth consists usually of barbed bristles, and the achene is crowned by the persistent style base (tubercle).

ryn·chos'po·rous (-pō·rŭs), adj. Having a beaked fruit or seed.

rynd, rind (rīnd; rĭnd), n. [ME. rynd; akin to MLG. rin, ryn, MD. rijn.] A piece of iron crossing the hole in the upper millstone by which the stone is supported on the spindle; — called also balance rynd.

rynt (rĭnt), v. i. [Cf. AROINT.] To get away; move off. Dial. Eng.

ry'ot (rī'ŏt), n. [Hind. raiyat, ra'iyat, fr. Ar. ra'īyah. See RAIA.] A peasant or cultivator of the soil. India.

ry'ot·war' (-wär'), adj. [Hind. raiyatwār(ī). See RYOT.] Pertaining to or designating a system of collecting land rent or taxes in which the government settlement is made directly with the ryots. — n. The system itself. India.

ry'ot·wa'ri, ry'ot·wa'ry (-wä'rĭ), adj. & n. Ryotwar.

ry'po (rī'pō), n. [Dan.] A ptarmigan.

rype (rīp). Var. of RIPE, to search.

ry'peck (rī'pĕk), n. [Origin uncert.] A pole driven into a river bed as a holdfast for boats, etc. Local, Eng.

ryt'i·do'sis (rĭt'ĭ·dō'sĭs), n. Rutidosis. Rare.

Ryt'i·na (rĭt'ĭ·nä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. rhytis a wrinkle.] a Zool. Syn. of HYDRODAMALIS. b [not cap.] The Steller's sea cow.

---

ru·the'ni·ate. Chem. Var. of RUTHENATE.

ru'the·nite (rōō'thē·nīt), n. Chem. A ruthenate (sense a). Obs.

ruth'er (rŭth'ĕr). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of RUDDER.

ruth'er. Dial. var. of RATHER.

Ruth'well cross (rŭth'wĭl). [From Ruthwell, Eng.] See RUNE, 1.

ru·til'i·an (rōō·tĭl'ĭ·ăn; -tĭl'yăn). Var. of RUTELIAN. rut'l. Var. of ROTL.

rutte. Obs. past tense of ROUT, to roar, bellow.

rut'ter·kin, n. [2d rutter + -kin.] A braggart; bully. Obs.

rut'ting·ly, adv. Gallantly; dashingly; brilliantly. Obs.

ry'el. Var. of RIAL.

ryelly. † RIALLY.

rye'peck. Var. of RYPECK.

ryit. † REEF, Naut.

ryg (rĭg). Obs. or Scot. & Dial. Eng. var. of RIDGE.

Ry·man'dra (rī·măn'drä), n. [NL.] Syn. of KNIGHTIA.

rym'ar (rīm'ĕr). Var. of RIMER, n. & v.

rynd. Var. of RIND.

ry'o·lite. Rhyolite. Ref. Sp.

ry·sim'e·ter. Var. of RHYSIMETER.

Rys'wick (rĭz'wĭk), n. See TREATY, Table.

Ryu'kyu' (rĭ'yōō'kyōō'), n. See AGGLUTINATIVE LANGUAGES.

ryvaye. † REVAY.

S

S, s (ĕs), n.; pl. S's, s's, Ss, ss (ĕs′ĕz; -ĭz; 119). 1. The nineteenth letter of the English alphabet. It comes through the Latin from the Greek (sigma), which borrowed the character from the Phoenician (Hebrew sin, shin; transliterated ṣ, sh). In English, S represents a voiceless sibilant sound (soon; hates; hats) or, in certain positions, the corresponding voiced sound (deserve; loves; heads); it sometimes has the value of sh or zh (sure; measure). In a few words it is silent (isle; debris). With the letter h it forms the digraph sh (ship). See Pron., §§ 217–229. In cognate words, English s corresponds to German s, Latin s or r, Greek s or h (rough breathing), Sanskrit s or ṣ (sit; G. sitzen; L. sedēre; Gr. hezesthai; Skr. sadas, a seat). English and German s represents also an Indo-European s which developed from s before voiced sounds and later often disappeared (nest — akin to sit; G. nest; L. nidus; Skr. nīḍa; Lithuanian lizdas). See ALPHABET, ESS.

☞ In handwriting, s often appears as ſ (the upstroke being orig. a ligature with a preceding letter); and formerly ſ, esp. in combination with a following s, was common. In printing, the form ſ, formerly much used, now appears but rarely, joined with a following consonant as s or t.

2. a An instance of the letter S, s, printed, written, painted, etc. b A printer's type, a stamp, etc., for the letter S, s. c The sound or any sound of the letter S. d [cap.] In medieval Roman numerals, 7 or 70, or, in the form S, 70,000.

3. Anything having the shape of the letter S.

4. As a symbol, used to denote or indicate anyone or anything arbitrarily or conveniently so designated, esp. as the eighteenth or (see K, 4) nineteenth in order or class.

5. As an abbreviation: cf. Abbreviations, in Appendix.

S, s, adj. 1. Eighteenth or (cf. K, adj., 1) nineteenth in order or class.

2. [cap.] Having the form of capital S; as, an S curve.

-s. 1. [ME. -s, -es, fr. AS. -as, masc. ending. Cf. 1st -ES.] The suffix used to form the plural of most nouns. See PLURAL, n.; 1st -ES.

2. [ME. -s, -ses, a Northern form replacing Midland -eth (AS. bindeth he binds). Cf. 2d -ES.] The suffix used to form the third person sing. indic. of English verbs (falls). See 2d -ES.

-s. An adverbial suffix, as in towards, needs, always, -wards; — orig. the genitive or possessive ending, as in Sundays, of a Sunday; to lie awake nights, that is, at night. See 1st -'s.

-'s. [ME. -s, -es, fr. AS. -es, gen. sing., masc. and neut. ending.] The suffix used to form the possessive of nouns: a In the singular, as in boy's, man's. b In plurals not ending in s, as in women's, children's.

's. Colloquial contraction of: (1) is, has; as, he's here; he's lost it. (2) his, implying God's, in nouns and oaths, as in 'sblood, 'sdeath. (3) us; — now Dial. exc. in "let's."

saa, saah (sä; sä·ä′), n. sing. & pl. [Ar. ṣāʿ.] See MEASURE.

‖Saal (zäl), n. [G.] Hall; esp., a large room or hall.

Sa′an (sä′ăn; săn), n. pl. [Nama San, pl. of Sab, appar. of Bushman origin.] Bushmen. See BUSHMAN.

Saar′brück′en (zär′brük′ĕn), adj. [After Saarbrücken (see Gaz.).] Geol. Designating or pertaining to the chief division of Carboniferous beds of northern Germany.

sab (săb), v. & n. Sob. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

‖sa·ba′ (sä·bä′), n. [Tag.] A variety of Musa, used as food when cooked; also, a fine textile from its fiber. Phil. I.

Sa′ba (sā′bə), n. [L.] = SHEBA. See SABAEAN.

sab′a·dil′la (săb′ə·dĭl′ə), n. [Sp. cebadilla, dim. of cebada barley.] A Mexican plant (Skoinolon officinale), family Melanthaceae; also, its seeds, used as a source of veratrine and in the preparation of an insecticide, esp. for head lice.

sab′a·dine (săb′ə·dēn; -dĭn; 157), n. Also -din. [Sabadilla + -ine.] Chem. A crystalline alkaloid, $C_{32}H_{49}NO_9$, found in sabadilla seeds.

Sa·bae′an (sə·bē′ăn), adj. [L. Sabaeus, fr. Gr. Sabaios, fr. Ar. Saba′ Saba.] a Of or pertaining to Saba (the Biblical Sheba), an ancient people and kingdom which flourished in southwestern Arabia before the Himyarites, attaining their prime about the middle of the first millennium B.C. b Pertaining to or designating the language and alphabet of the Sabaeans, in which a number of inscriptions were discovered in the latter part of the 19th century. The Sabaean characters may represent an early branch of the Sinaitic alphabet (which see). The language differed only dialectically from the Himyarite. See SEMITIC LANGUAGES, Table. Cf. MINAEAN.

Sa·bae′an, n. 1. One of the people of Saba, who were southern Arabs, anciently noted for their wealth; also, their language.

2. One of the Mandaeans (which see).

Sa·bae′an·ism (sə·bē′ăn·ĭz′m), n. Also Sa′bi·an·ism (sā′bĭ·ən·ĭz′m). The religion of the Sabaeans. Sometimes used erroneously for Sabaism.

Sa′ba·ism (sā′bə·ĭz′m), n. [Heb. tsēbhā host (of heaven), army + -ism. Cf. SABAOTH.] a Star worship. b Erron. for SABIANISM a. — Sa′ba·ist (-ĭst), n.

sab′a·kha (säb′ä·kä). Var. of SEBKHA.

Sa′bal (sā′bəl), n. [NL., of unknown origin.] 1. Bot. A small genus of tropical American dwarf fan palms (family Arecaceae) having creeping horizontal or subterranean stems, and long petioled leaves with obscure or rudimentary midribs. S. palmetto is the cabbage palmetto.

2. [not cap.] Pharm. The partly dried, ripe fruit of the saw palmetto, used as a diuretic sab′a·lo (säb′ä·lō), n. [Sp. sábalo shad.] a The tarpon. b The milkfish.

‖sa′ba·na (sä′bä·nä; 98), n. [Sp. See SAVANNA.] A plain; esp., a high plateau. Cf. SAVANNA. Sp. Amer.

sa′ba nut (sä′bä). [Prob. fr. Sp. sapote bobo, zapote bobo, name of the tree, prop. (appar.) false sapota. See SAPODILLA, SAPOTA.] The edible seed of the provision tree (Pachira aquatica). Cen. Am.

Sab′a·oth (säb′ä·ŏth; sə·bā′ŏth), n. pl. [LL. Sabaoth, fr. LGr. Sabaōth, fr. Heb. tsĕbhā′ōth armies.] 1. Armies; hosts; — used twice in the Greek Bible, in the phrase the Lord of Sabaoth.

2. One of the divine names in Gnostic and cabalistic literature. It is a common inscription on Gnostic talismanic gems.

3. The Sabbath; — a confusion of terms. Obs.

Sa′ba′thé′s′ cy′cle (sä′bä′tāz′). In internal-combustion engines, a cycle of operations in which the combustion takes place partly explosively and partly at constant pressure. It resembles partly the Otto cycle and partly the Diesel cycle. See INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE.

Sa·ba′zi·os (sə·bā′zĭ·ŏs), n. [L. Sabazius, fr. Gr. Sabazios.] Gr. and Rom. Relig. A god of Phrygian origin, often identified with Dionysus. His orgiastic cult was closely associated with the worship of snakes. — Sa·ba′zi·an (-ăn), adj. — Sa·ba′zi·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n.

sab′bat (säb′ăt), n. [F. See SABBATH.] [often cap.] In medieval demonology, a midnight assembly in which demons, sorcerers, and witches were thought to celebrate their orgies.

Sab′ba·tar′i·an (săb′ə·târ′ĭ·ăn), adj. a Of or pertaining to the Sabbath. b Of or pertaining to the Sabbatarians.

Sab′ba·tar′i·an, n. [L. Sabbatarius. See SABBATH.] 1. One who regards and keeps the seventh day of the week as holy, in conformity with the letter of the fourth commandment in the Decalogue. Some early Christians did this, and certain modern Christians, esp. Seventh-Day Baptists and Seventh-Day Adventists, do so.

2. One who regards the Lord's day (Sunday) as a Christian Sabbath, to be observed as strictly as the seventh day under the Old Testament economy; specif., one who would make compulsory by law abstinence on the Sabbath from all secular occupations or recreations.

3. A Russian sect, scarcely distinguishable from Jews. — Sab′ba·tar′i·an·ism, n.

Sab′bath (säb′ăth), n. [ME. sabath, sabat, fr. AS. sabat, (fr. L.) and fr. OF. sabat (F. sabbat), fr. L. sabbatum, fr. Gr. sabbaton, fr. Heb. shabbāth day of rest, fr. shābath to rest. Cf. SABBAT.] 1. A season or day of rest. Specif.: a The seventh day of the week in the Jewish calendar, corresponding to the period from Friday evening to Saturday evening, the observance of which as a day of rest and worship was enjoined in the Decalogue. It is kept by the Jews and some Christians. In the Eastern Churches Saturday is a half holiday on which the Liturgy is celebrated and no fasting is allowed (except on Holy Saturday). Menial work, however, is permitted. b The first day of the week, Sunday, observed by Christians as a day of rest and worship. c Jewish Antiq. The institution of such a day of rest and worship. d Mohammedanism. Friday.

2. [not cap.] A time of rest or repose; intermission of pain, effort, sorrow, or the like.

Peaceful sleep out the sabbath of the tomb. Pope.

3. [not cap.] = SABBAT.

4. [not cap.] A sabbatical year.

Syn. — See SUNDAY.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

Sabbath dress, Sabbathkeeper, Sabbathkeeping.

Sab′ba·tha′ian (säb′ə·thā′yăn), n. An adherent of Shabbetai Zebi, or Zevi (1626–76), a Jewish cabalist of Smyrna, who proclaimed himself the Messiah and was accepted as such by many Jews. Imprisoned by the sultan, he embraced Mohammedanism, and later formed a half-Jewish, half-Mohammedan sect of cabalists. — Sab′ba·tha′ian, adj.

Sab′bath·break′ing (säb′ăth·brāk′ĭng), n. The infraction of laws or customs pertaining to the observance of the Sabbath. — Sab′bath·break′er (-ər), n.

Sabbath day. The day of the week observed as a Sabbath. — Sab′bath–day′, adj.

Sab′bath–day′ house. In early Connecticut, a house built near the church and heated on winter Sundays in order that worshipers might warm themselves between the services held in the unheated church.

Sab′bath–day′s′ jour′ney. A distance of 2,000 cubits, which, under rabbinic law, the Jews might travel on the Sabbath, from the walled limits of a town or city.

Sabbath school. = SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Sab·ba′ti·a (sə·bā′shĭ·ə; -băt′ĭ·ə), n. [NL., after Liberatus Sabbati, It. botanist.] Bot. a A genus of smooth slender North American herbs (family Gentianaceae) with opposite leaves and showy white or rose-pink cymose flowers; the marsh or sea pinks. S. stellaris (see WILD FLOWERS, Plate) is common in salt marshes along the Atlantic coast. b [not cap]. A plant of this genus. See AMERICAN CENTAURY.

sab·ba′ti·a, n. [ML.] The sabbat.

Sab·ba′tian (sə·bā′shăn), n. Eccl. Hist. One of the followers of the Novatianist presbyter Sabbatius (4th century), who held that the feast of the Passover (Easter) should be kept at the same time by Christians and Jews. See QUARTODECIMAN.

Sab·bat′ic (-băt′ĭk), adj. [F. sabbatique, fr. Gr. sabbatikos, fr. sabbaton. See SABBATH.] [often not cap.] Sabbatical.

Sab·bat′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or suited to, the Sabbath; as, a Sabbatical sermon; Sabbatical laws or peace.

2. [usually not cap.] Of the nature of the Sabbath or a similarly recurring period of rest; as, a sabbatical leave of absence.

sab·bat′i·cal, n. [also cap.] a A sabbatical year or leave of absence. b pl. Sabbatical, or Sunday, clothes.

Sab·bat′i·cal·ly, adv. of SABBATICAL.

Sabbatical river. Also Sabbatical pool. In Jewish legend, a river or pool which in its current or flow was said to observe the Sabbath.

sabbatical year. a Jewish Antiq. Every seventh year, in which the Israelites were commanded to suffer their fields and vineyards to rest, or lie without tillage. Cf. JUBILEE, 1. b A leave of absence granted every seventh year, as to a college professor, or the like, for rest, travel, or research.

sab′ba·tine (säb′ə·tĭn), adj. [ML. sabbatinus.] Pertaining to Saturday; sabbatical. Rare.

sab′ba·tism (säb′ə·tĭz′m), n. [LL. sabbatismus, fr. Gr. sabbatismos, fr. sabbatizein to keep the Sabbath. See SABBATH.] a Intermission of labor, as on the Sabbath; rest. b The strict observance of the Sabbath.

Sab′ba·tist (säb′ə·tĭst), n. = SABBATARIAN, 1.

Sab′ba·tist, n. Rom. Relig. A devotee of a cult of Oriental origin, probably of a goddess of Asia Minor, Sam·ba′the or Sab′ba·be, and her consort Sab′ba·tis′tes or Sa·bath′i·kos. Many Semites attached themselves to this cult and brought into it some new elements from their own mythology.

Sab′ba·tize (säb′ə·tīz), v. i. & t. [LL. sabbatizare, fr. Gr. sabbatizein.] To keep, or keep as, the Sabbath. — Sab′ba·ti·za′tion (-tĭ·zā′shŭn; -tĭ·zā′-), n.

sab′ba·ton (-tŏn), n. [Pr. sabató, sabatoun. See SABOT.] Armor. A covering for the foot; later, a solleret broad and blunted at the toes.

Sabbaton.

sab′—cat′ (säb′kăt′), n. [sabot + cat.] An emblem of the I.W.W., consisting of a black cat and a wooden shoe; hence, Slang, a specialist in sabotage.

sa·bec′a (sə·bĕk′ə), n. [Aram. sabbĕkhā. Cf. SAMBUCA.] Music. An ancient instrument, probably a kind of harp, mentioned in the Bible.

Sa·bel′la (sə·bĕl′ə), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. sabulum sand.] Zool. A genus of tubicolous polychaetous annelids having plumose gills around the head; also [not cap.], a worm of this genus.

sa·bel′lan (-ăn), adj. Gritty; sandy.

Sab′el·la′ri·a (säb′ĕ·lā′rĭ·ə; 79), n. [NL. See SABELLA.] Zool. A genus of tubicolous polychaetous annelids having a greatly developed peristome, and the posterior end of the body narrow and taillike. — sab′el·lar′i·an (-lâr′ĭ·ăn), adj. & n.

Sa·bel′li (sə·bĕl′ī), n. pl. [L.] Rom. Hist. Samnites; — used as a poetic variant of Samnites by Vergil and Horace, sometimes extended to other peoples of central Italy, including the Sabines.

Sa·bel′li·an (sə·bĕl′ĭ·ăn; 159), n. One of a group of early Italian peoples comprising Sabines, Samnites, and others. Also, a minor group of pre-Latin dialects.

Sa·bel′li·an (sə·bĕl′ĭ·ăn), adj. Also Sa·bel′lic (-ĭk). a Designating a little-known ancient branch of the Italic languages, related to Oscan. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table. b East Italic.

Sa·bel′li·an (sə·bĕl′ĭ·ăn), n. Eccl. Hist. & Theol. A follower of Sabellius, a leader of the modalistic monarchians in the 3d century, whose theory, which underwent many changes, is not precisely known. In general he held that there is but one divine essence, and that the Father, the Logos (the Son), and the Holy Spirit are three different manifestations of the one God. Also, in general, any modalistic monarchian (see MONARCHIANISM). — Sa·bel′li·an, adj. — Sa·bel′li·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n. — Sa·bel′li·an·ize (-īz), v. t.

Sa·bel′li·dae (-ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family consisting of Sabella and allied genera. — sa·bel′lid (-ĭd), adj. & n. — sa·bel′loid (-oid), adj. & n.

sa′ber, sa′bre (sā′bĕr), n. [F. sabre, fr. G. sabel (now säbel), of Slav. origin; cf. Russ. sablya, Pol. szabla; ult. source unknown.] 1. An arm akin to the sword and with similar parts except that the blade is usually curved, used either as a cutting weapon or for both cutting and thrusting, the convex edge, and sometimes the concave edge near the point, being sharp.

2. Figuratively, the military power or forces; sometimes, pl., a body of soldiers armed with sabers.

3. Glass Mfg. A tool used for skimming molten glass.

sa′ber, sa′bre, v. t.; SA′BERED or SA′BRED (-bĕrd); SA′BER·ING (sā′bĕr·ĭng) or SA′BRING (sā′brĭng). [Cf. F. sabrer.] To strike, cut, or kill, with a saber.

To saber and bayonet us into submission. Burke.

saber bean. The jack bean.

sa′ber·bill′, sa′bre·bill′ (sā′bĕr·bĭl′), n. a A curlew. b A South American dendrocolaptine bird of the genus Campylorhamphus, having a long decurved bill.

sa′bered, sa′bred (sā′bĕrd), adj. Armed with sabers.

saber fish. A cutlass fish.

saber knot. Mil. A knot of leather or gilt fabric, worn on the handle of a saber to attach it to the wrist or simply as ornament.

sa′ber–leg′ged, sa′bre–leg′ged (-lĕg′ĕd; -ĭd; -lĕgd′), adj. Veter. Sickle-hocked. — sa′ber·leg′, sa′bre·leg′ (-lĕg′), n.

saber rattling. An ostentatious, offensive, or threatening display of military power or prowess.

saber shin. Med. A shin, or tibia, having a pronounced anterior convexity resembling the curve of a saber. It occurs in congenital syphilis.

sa′ber·tooth′, sa′bre·tooth′ (sā′bĕr·tōōth′), n. A saber-toothed tiger.

Saber. 1 Tang; 2 Pommel; 3 Grip; 4 Guard; 5 Plate; 6 Blade.

S

sa. Var. of SAVE; SAY, SSSAY; SO. Obs. exc. Dial.

sa. † SAY, to speak.

saame. Var. of SAIM, fat.

Sa·an′a·nim (sā·ăn′ə·nĭm). D. Bib. [(-rĭm). D. Bib.]

Sa′a·phan (sā′ə·făn), Sa′a·rim (sā′ə·rĭm), saate. † sai, past tense of SIT.

sab. † SAHIB.

sa·bad′i·nine (sə·băd′ĭ·nēn; -ĭn), n. Also -nin. [sabadine † -ine.] = CEVINE.

Sa′bae·ism (sā′bē·ĭz′m), Sa′baism (-bē-). Vars. of SABAEANISM.

sa′ba·ni grass (săb′ĭ). [Hind. sabai (Watt).] = BHABAR a.

Sa·ba′im (sə·bā′ĭm). D. Bib.

Sab′a·la′ce·se (säb′ə·lā′sē·ē), n. pl. Syn. of ARECACEAE.

Sab′a·ma (säb′ə·mə). D. Bib.

Sa′ban (sā′băn). Var. of SABAEAN. [BUNDER.]

sabandar, sabander. † SHA-

Sab′a·ni′a (säb′ə·nĭ′ə). D. Bib.

‖sab′a·ra′im (-rā′ĭm), n. pl. See RABBI.

Sab′a·rim (säb′ə·rĭm). D. Bib.

Sab′ba·tar′y, Sab′ba·tar′ie (säb′ə·tär′ĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. = SABBATARIAN a. Obs. [Christian. Obs.

Sab′ba·tar′y, n. A seventh-day.

Sab′ba·te′an (säb′ə·tē′ăn), n. pl. = SABBATHAIAN.

Sab′ba·tha′ist (säb′ə·thā′ĭst), n. a = SABBATHAIAN. b = SABBATIAN. — Sab′ba·tha′ic (-ĭk), adj.

Sab′bath·ar′i·an (säb′ə·th·ăr′ĭ·ăn; 79), n. Eccl. a Obs. Sabbatarian. b = SOUTHCOTTIAN.

Sab′ba·the′us (säb′ə·thē′ŭs). Bib.

Sab·ba′thi·an (sə·bā′thĭ·ăn). Var. of SABBATIAN.

Sab′bath·ism (säb′ə·thĭz′m), n. = SABBATARIANISM. Rare.

Sab′bath·ize (säb′ə·thīz), v. i. = SABBATIZE.

Sab′bath·less, adj. See -LESS.

Sab′bath·like′, adj. See -LIKE.

Sab′bath·ly, adj. See -LY, 1 b.

Sab·bat′i·cal·ness, n. See -NESS.

Sab·be′us (sə·bē′ŭs). Bib.

sab′bi·tha (säb′ĭ·thə), n. sing. & pl. [Per. sabadkah.] See MEASURE, Table.

sab′by (säb′ĭ). Var. of SAVVY.

sab′da·rif′fa (säb′dä·rĭf′ə), n. [NL., fr. Ar. sabī ʿarf odoriferous mallow.] = ROSELLE.

Sab′di (säb′dĭ). Bib.

sa′be. = SAVVY.

Sa·be′an, Sa·be′an·ism. Vars. of SABAEAN, SABAEANISM.

Sa′be·e (sā′bē·ē). D. Bib.

Sa′be·ism (sā′bē·ĭz′m), n. Var. of SABAEISM.

sa′be·line (sā′bē·lĭn; -lēn), n. [OF.] The fur of the sable; sable. Obs.

sabendor. † SHABUNDER.

sa′berd. Sabered. Ref. Sp.

sa′ber·like′, sa′bre·like′, adj. See -LIKE.

sa′ber·proof′, sa′bre·proof′ (56), adj. See -PROOF.

sa′ber·shaped′, sa′bre·shaped′, adj. See -SHAPED.

sa'ber–toothed', sa'bre–toothed', adj. Having long trenchant canine teeth; machairodont.

saber–toothed tiger or cat. Any of various extinct catlike mammals of a subfamily (Machairodontinae) of the cat family, found from the Oligocene to the Pleistocene in the Old and the New World. Their chief characteristic is the lengthening of the upper canines and a corresponding reduction of the lower canines. In the largest and most specialized of them (equaling the tiger in size) the long, curved and swordlike upper canines extended seven inches or more below the lower jaw. Machairodus and Smilodon are the most important genera.

1/14

Skull of the Saber-toothed Tiger (Machairodus neogaeus) from the Pleistocene of Argentina.

sa'ber-wing', sa'bre-wing' (sā'bĕr-wĭng'), n. Any of various South American hummingbirds of the genera Pampa, Campylopterus, and Eupetomena, in which the outer primaries are strongly falcate.

Sa'bi·a (sā'bĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Hind. sabjā, fr. Per. sabza verdure.] Bot. A genus of tropical Asiatic erect or climbing shrubs, type of the family Sabiaceae, having alternate petioled leaves and small, axillary, regular flowers, the stamens, petals, and sepals being opposite throughout.

Sa'bi·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of tropical shrubs and trees (order Sapindales), containing 4 genera and about 65 species. They have small paniculate flowers with a 2–3-celled compressed or lobed ovary, the fruit consisting of one-seeded nutlets. — sa'bi·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Sa'bi·an (sā'bĭ-ăn), n. [Ar. Ṣābi'ah, fr. Aram. tsĕbha' to immerse.] 1. One of a group mentioned in the Koran as entitled to religious toleration along with Jews and Christians. The group has been identified by some with the Mandaeans.

The Sabians — a name which, of course, has no connection with that of the Sabaeans — seem to have been a sect, or group of sects, of the half-Christian, half-heathen type. Camb. Med. Hist.

2. A worshiper of the stars; — an erroneous use.

Sa'bi·an (sā'bĭ-ăn), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to Sabaism. 2. Of or pertaining to the Sabians.

Sa'bi·an (sā'bĭ-ăn). Var. of SABAEAN; — formerly used esp. with reference to Sabaeanism.

Sa'bi·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. [Sabian + -ism.] a The religion of the Sabians. b Erron. var. of SABAEANISM.

sab'i·cu' (săb'ĭ·kōō'; Lat. săb'ĭ·kū), n. [Sp. sabicu, prob. of Taino origin.] a The hard dark-brown wood (sabicu wood) of a West Indian tree (Lysiloma sabicu) somewhat resembling mahogany in texture and valued for furniture making; also, the tree. b A West Indian timber tree (Peltophorum adnatum), family Caesalpiniaceae, with twice-compound leaves and yellow flowers; also, its dark-red or purplish mahoganylike wood, used for furniture, trim, etc.

Sa'bik (sā'bĭk), n. [Ar. sābiq the preceding one, perh. erron. for sā'iq, colloq. sāyiq, driver.] See STAR, Table.

Sa·bi'na (sȧ·bī'nȧ), n. [L.] Literally, a Sabine woman; — fem. proper name. F. Sabine (sȧ'bēn'); G. Sabine (zȧ·bē'nĕ).

Sa·bi'na (sȧ·bī'nȧ), n. [L., savin. See SAVIN.] 1. Bot. A section of the genus Juniperus maintained by some botanists for the red cedar J. virginiana, and allied species. 2. [not cap.] [Sp.] Var. of SABINO b.

sa·bi'na (sȧ·bī'nȧ; sȧ·bē'-), n. [L. See SAVIN.] = SAVIN a.

Sa'bine (sā'bĭn or, esp. Brit., săb'-), adj. [L. Sabinus.] Of or pertaining to the ancient Sabines, whose chief seat was the Apennines northeast of Latium. They were conquered and incorporated by Rome in 290 B.C. — n. One of the Sabine people; also, the language of the Sabines, a Sabellian idiom. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table; cf. SAMNITE.

sab'ine (săb'ĭn), n. [F. See SAVIN.] Savin.

Sa'bine farm (sā'bĭn). A rural abode; — so called from the villa of Horace near Tivoli. Also used attributively; as, Sabine farm ideals of literature.

Sab'ine pine (săb'ĭn). a The Digger pine (Pinus sabiniana), the soft wood of which yields abietene by distillation. b The Torrey pine.

Sab'ine's gull (săb'ĭnz). [After Sir Edward Sabine, British explorer.] A small gull (Xema sabini), breeding in arctic regions, which has a dark-gray head, black collar, white wing tips, and a slightly forked tail.

Sa·bi'ni·an (sȧ·bĭ'nĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pert. to Massurius Sabinus, Roman jurist (1st cent. A.D.). — Sa·bi'ni·an, n.

sa·bi'no (sȧ·bī'nō; sȧ·bē'-), n. [Sp. sabina savin. See SAVIN.] a The bald cypress. b In Mexico, the ahuehuete; also, the rock cedar (Juniperus mexicana). c In Puerto Rico, the tree Magnolia splendens.

‖sa'bi·o (sä'bē-ō), n. [Sp.] A wise man; sage; also, a priest. Borrow.

Sa·bir' (sȧ·bēr'), n. [From a jargonlike chant, Se ti sabir . . ., in Molière's Bourgeois Gentilhomme.] The Mediterranean lingua franca, esp. a late variety, compounded largely of Spanish, French, and Italian, spoken in Algiers and other parts of North Africa; also, the Franco-Jewish dialect of Algiers. See LINGUA FRANCA a.

sa'ble (sā'b'l), n.; pl. SABLES (-b'lz), sometimes SABLE. See PLURAL, Note. [OF., fr. ML. sabelum, of Slav. origin; cf. Russ. sobol', Pol. sobol; ult. source unknown. Cf. ZIBELINE.] 1. A carnivorous mammal (Martes zibellina) belonging to the same genus as the martens, found in northern Europe and parts of northern Asia. It becomes about eighteen inches long, exclusive of the tail, and is dark brown with gray on the head and tawny on the throat and under parts. It is one of the most valued of fur-bearing animals, very dark skins being the most highly prized. Also, any of various related species, esp. the pine marten (M. americana), of northern North America, which has somewhat lighter-colored, and hence generally less valuable, fur. This species inhabits only unsettled country.

Sable (Martes zibellina). (1/8)

2. The fur or pelt of the sable, esp. M. zibellina; also, pl., pieces of this fur as a part of dress; as, a coat trimmed with sables. See also ALASKA SABLE.

3. A special quality of Russia iron, formerly marked with a sable.

4. The color of sable; black (sense 1 b).

5. A mourning garment; a funeral robe; — usually in pl.

6. Her. Black. See TINCTURE, n., 5.

7. Painting. A brush of sable's hair.

8. Zool. The sable antelope.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

sable-bordered	sable-robed sable-cinctured	sable-spotted sable-cloaked	sable-stoled sable-colored	sable-suited sable-hooded	sable-vested sable-lettered	sable-visaged

Sable, 6.

sa'ble (sā'b'l), adj. 1. Black in color; arrayed or garbed in black; dark; darkened as by night. Poetic. "Fair veins in sable marble." Keats. "Is the sable warrior fled?" Gray. "Down the sable flood we glided." C. Brontë.

2. Figurative senses: a Sad; gloomy; dismal. b Poetic. Darkly mysterious or threatening.

3. Black (sense 9); as, his sable majesty.

sa'ble (sā'b'l), v. t. a Archaic & Poetic. To make sable or dark; to clothe in black. b To adorn with sables (the fur).

sa'ble, n. [D. or G. sabel. See SABER.] A saber. Obs.

sable antelope. A large and handsome East African and South African antelope (Egoceros niger) having large curved annulated horns, a tufted tail, and a slight mane. The adult male is glossy black except for the white under parts and facial markings. It is approaching extinction.

Sable Antelope. (1/20)

sa'ble·fish' (sā'b'l-fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. The beshow.

sable iron. = SABLE, n., 3.

sable mouse. A lemming. Obs.

sa'ble·ness (sā'b'l-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. The quality or state of blackness or gloominess.

sa'ble's–hair' pen'cil (sā'b'lz-hâr'). = 1st SABLE, 7.

sa·bot' (sȧ·bō'; săb'ō), n. [F. (OF. çabot), after bot, botte, boot, fr. savate (OF. çavate) old shoe, of uncert., but prob. not Oriental, origin. Cf. SABBATON, SABOTAGE, SAVATE.] 1. A kind of wooden shoe worn chiefly by the peasantry in various European countries; — called also GETA.

2. Mil. A thick circular disk of wood to which the cartridge bag and projectile were formerly attached in fixed ammunition for smoothbore cannon; also, a piece of soft metal formerly attached to a projectile for a muzzle-loading rifle, to take the grooves of the rifling.

sab'o·tage' (săb'ō-tȧzh'; săb'ō-tĭj; F. sȧ'bō'tȧzh'), n. [F., fr. saboter to practice sabotage, to work carelessly, orig., to tread with wooden shoes, fr. sabot. See SABOT.] 1. Malicious waste or destruction of an employer's property by workmen, as during labor troubles; also, the refusal to perform work assigned and the obstructing in all possible ways of the regular process of production.

2. Law. A course of malicious destruction of or injury to the property of an employer with intent to injure him. It is made a crime by statute in many states.

sab'o·tage' (săb'ō-tȧzh'), v. t. & i. -TAGED' (-tȧzhd'); -TAG'ING (-tȧzh'ĭng). To practice sabotage (on); also, figuratively, to destroy; as, an attempt to sabotage the League of Nations.

sa·boted' (sȧ·bōd'; săb'ōd), adj. Furnished with sabots.

sab'o·teur' (săb'ō-tûr'), n. [F.] One who resorts to sabotage.

‖sa'bo'tier' (sȧ'bō'tyā'), n. [F.] One who wears sabots; hence, in contempt, a Waldensian.

sab'o·tine' (săb'ō-tēn'), n. A makeshift shoe worn during the World War by soldiers at rest. The forward part was made of hide, the heels of wood. Local.

Sa'bra (sā'brȧ), n. In old ballads of St. George and the Dragon, the king's daughter rescued by the hero.

sa'bre·tache' (sā'bĕr-tȧsh'; săb'ĕr-), n. [F., fr. G. säbeltasche, fr. säbel saber + tasche a pocket.] Mil. A leather case or pocket sometimes worn, suspended on the left, from the saber belt, by cavalry.

Sabretache.

‖sa'breur' (sȧ'brûr'), n. [F.] Literally, one who carries a saber; a cavalryman. Cf. BEAU SABREUR.

Sa·bri'na (sȧ·brī'nȧ), n. [L., the river Severn.] 1. Fem. proper name.

2. In British legend, the virgin daughter of Locrine and Estrildis, thrown into the Severn by Guendolen, Locrine's wife. In Milton's Comus and in Fletcher's Faithful Shepherdess she is transformed into a river nymph, who aids distressed maidens.

Sabrina work. Fancywork on cloth, characterized by fastening floral appliqués with blanket stitches.

Sa·bro'min (sȧ·brō'mĭn), n. Pharm. A trade-mark for a pale yellowish powder, calcium dibromobehenate, $Ca(C_{22}H_{41}Br_2CO_2)_2$, used in place of inorganic bromides where administration over a long period is required; hence [sometimes not cap.], this preparation.

Sa'bu·jâ' (sä'bōō-hä'), n. An Indian of a Cariri tribe. See CARIRIAN.

sab'u·line (săb'ū-lĭn; -lĭn), adj. [L. sabulum sand.] Sandy; arenaceous; sabulous.

sab'u·lite (săb'ū-lĭt), n. [L. sabulum sand + -ite.] A high explosive containing usually ammonium or barium nitrate, calcium silicide, and T.N.T., tetryl, or the like.

sab'u·lose (-lōs), adj. [L. sabulosus.] Sabulous.

sab'u·los'i·ty (săb'ū-lŏs'ĭ-tĭ), n. Sandiness; grittiness.

sab'u·lous (săb'ū-lŭs), adj. [L. sabulosus, fr. sabulum. See SAND.] Sandy; gritty; arenaceous.

sa·bur'ra (sȧ·bûr'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. saburra sand, ballast.] a Med. Foulness of the mouth or stomach. b Veter. = SAND DISEASE. — sa·bur'ral (-ăl), adj.

sa·bur'rate (-āt), v. t. [L. saburratus, past part. of saburrare.] To ballast (a ship). Obs.

sab'ur·ra'tion (săb'ū-rā'shŭn), n. Med. Arenation.

sa'bu·tan' (sā'bōō-tăn'), n. [Tag. sabotan.] A coarse fiber or straw from a species of Pandanus, used in making hats, mats, etc. Phil. I.

sab'zi (sŭb'zē), n. [Hind. sabzī, fr. Per. sabzī greenness.] 1. Any green vegetable. India.

2. The larger leaves and the seed capsules of Indian hemp, used for making bhang. India.

sac (săk), n. [F., fr. L. saccus a sack. See SACK bag.] 1. Bot., Anat., & Zool. A baglike part of an animal or plant; a soft-walled cavity or pouch, usually having only a narrow opening or none at all, and in many cases containing some special fluid; as, a synovial sac; lachrymal sac.

2. A bag. Rare.

3. Var. of 4th SACK, 6.

Sac (săk; sôk), n. Also Sauk (sôk). One of a tribe of Algonquian Indians formerly dwelling in Michigan, then in Wisconsin, and later on both banks of the Mississippi in Illinois and neighboring States, now in Oklahoma, Iowa, and Kansas. They were confederated with the Foxes in 1760. In 1832, under Black Hawk, they resisted execution of the treaty by which they had agreed to relinquish their lands east of the Mississippi.

sac (săk), n. [ME. sak, sake, fr. AS. sacu strife, lawsuit. See 1st SAKE.] A.-S. Law. A matter or cause in dispute between litigants; — used chiefly in sac and soc. See SOC, SOKE. Obs. exc. Hist.

sac (săk). A.-S. Law. Var. of SAKE.

Sa'cae (sā'sē), n. pl. Also Sa'ka, Sha'ka (shä'kä). An ancient people, possibly Scythian, who invaded India in the 2d century B.C. The Balti may be their descendants. The Shaka era is derived from them. See SHAKA.

sac'a·lait (săk'ȧ-lăt), n. a The crappie. b The warmouth. c A killifish (Fundulus similis).

sac'a·line' (-lēn'), n. [From the Russian name of the island Sakhalin.] A coarse herb (Polygonum sachalinense) of Sakhalin, cultivated as forage and for lawn decoration.

sac'a·ton' (săk'ȧ-tŏn'), n. [Sp. zacatón, aug. of zacate, sacate, grass, fr. Nahuatl çacatl, zacatl, grass, reed.] Zacaton, esp. a coarse perennial grass (Sporobolus wrightii) of the southwestern United States, useful for hay in alkaline regions.

sac'a·tra (săk'ȧ-trȧ), n. [F., of uncert. origin.] A person of about seven eighths negro and one eighth white blood.

sac'brood' (săk'brōōd'), n. [sac + brood.] Beekeeping. A virus disease of the honeybee affecting the larvae, causing them to shrivel and become scalelike.

sac·cade' (sȧ·kād'), n. [F., fr. saquer to pull, take, fr. (assumed) VL. saccare. See SACK pillage.] 1. Manège. A quick, violent check of a horse by a single pull or twitch of the reins.

2. Music. A sudden strong pressure of the violin bow, causing two, three, or even four strings to sound simultaneously.

sac·cad'ic (sȧ·kăd'ĭk), adj. [From SACCADE.] Jerky; twitching.

saccadic movement of the eyes. Psychol. The quick movement by which the gaze is transferred from one fixation point to another.

Sac·cam'mi·na (sȧ·kăm'ĭ·nȧ), n. [NL.] Zool. A genus of Foraminifera having a thick, arenaceous, spherical, pear-shaped, or fusiform test, remarkable for having survived from the Ordovician to the present time. Certain Carboniferous strata consist chiefly of their remains.

sac'cate (săk'āt), adj. [NL. saccatus, fr. L. saccus a sack, bag.] Biol. a Having the form of a sac or pouch. b Encysted.

-sac'cate (-săk'āt). ‖ A combining form of saccate, as in bisaccate.

sac'cat·ed (săk'ăt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Biol. Saccate.

sacchar-. = SACCHARO-, as in:

saccharamide	saccharephidrosis	saccharulmin saccharase	saccharulmic	saccharuria sac'cha·rate (săk'ȧ-rāt), n. Chem. a A salt or ester of saccharic acid. b Less desirably, a compound of a sugar, esp. of sucrose (and then better called a sucrate), with calcium oxide, barium oxide, sodium hydroxide, or the like.

sac'cha·rat'ed (-rāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [ML. saccharum sugar.] Pharm. Mixed or combined with sucrose (saccharose); as, saccharated ferrous carbonate.

sac·char'ic (sȧ·kăr'ĭk), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or obtained from, saccharine substances.

2. Chem. a Pert. to or designating a diacid, $(CHOH)_4(CO_2H)_2$, occurring in three optically different modifications, d-, l-, and dl-. Ordinary, or d-, saccharic acid is obtained as a deliquescent mass by oxidation of sucrose (saccharose), dextrose, and other carbohydrates, d-sorbitol, etc. b Saccharinic (senses a and b).

sac'cha·ride (săk'ȧ-rĭd; -rĭd), n. Also -rid. [See SACCHARINE.] Chem. a A compound with sugar; a saccharate (sense b). b A carbohydrate; specif., a monosaccharide. See CARBOHYDRATE. c An ester of sucrose (saccharose).

sac'cha·rif'er·ous (-rĭf'ĕr-ŭs), adj. [ML. saccharum sugar + E. -ferous.] Producing or containing sugar.

sac·char'i·fi·ca'tion (sȧ·kăr'ĭ-fĭ·kā'shŭn; săk'ȧ-rĭf'ĭ-), n. [ML. saccharum sugar + E. -fication.] Chem. Act or process of saccharifying or of becoming converted into sugar.

sac·char'i·fi'er (-kăr'ĭ-fī'ĕr; săk'ȧ-rĭ-fī'ĕr), n. [See SACCHARIFY.] An apparatus for saccharifying starch, cellulose, or the like.

sac·char'i·fy (sȧ·kăr'ĭ-fī; săk'ȧ-rĭ-fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [ML. saccharum sugar + -fy.] To convert into, or to impregnate with, sugar.

sac'cha·ril'la (săk'ȧ-rĭl'ȧ), n. A kind of muslin.

sac'cha·rim'e·ter (săk'ȧ-rĭm'ē-tĕr), n. [F. saccharimètre, fr. Gr. sakchari sugar + metron measure.] Any device for measuring the amount of sugar in a solution, esp. a form of polarimeter particularly adapted for distinguishing different kinds of sugar in solution. Cf. SACCHAROMETER. — sac'cha·rim'e·try (-trĭ), n., sac'cha·ri·met'ric (-rĭ-mĕt'rĭk), -met'ri·cal (-rĭ-kăl), adj.

sac'cha·rin (săk'ȧ-rĭn), n. Also sac'cha·rine (-rĭn; -rēn). [ML. saccharum sugar, fr. L. saccharon, fr. Gr. sakcharon, fr. Pali sakkharā, fr. Skr. śarkarā gravel, grit, sugar. See SUGAR.] 1. Chem. A bitter crystalline lactone, $C_6H_{10}O_5$, easily formed by loss of water from saccharinic acid (see SACCHARINIC a); also, a lactone of any saccharinic acid (see SACCHARINIC b and c).

2. Chem. A crystalline compound, $C_6H_4 <^{CO}_{SO_2}> NH$(o), white in color, and remarkable for its sweetness, which varies, according to the purity of the product, from 300 to 550 times that of cane sugar. It is manufactured on a large scale from the toluene of coal tar, and is used in many ways as a sugar substitute, as in cases of diabetes. It has no food value, however, and is antiseptic.

sac'cha·rin·ate (săk'ȧ-rĭ-nāt), n. Chem. a A salt or ester of saccharinic acid. b A salt of saccharin (sense 2), formed Sa'bi (sā'bī). Bib.

Sa'bi·e (sā'bĭ-ē). Bib.
sabir. † SAMBAR. sa'ble·ise, v. = SABLE a. Obs. sa'bly, adv. of SABLE.

sa·bo'ra (sȧ·bō'rȧ; 181), n.; pl. -RAIM (-rā·ĭm). [Aram. sābhōrā a reasoner.] See RABBI. sa'bre. Var. of SABER.
sa'bre·bill', sa'bre·leg', sa'bre·tooth', sa'bre·toothed', etc. Vars. of SABERBILL, etc.
Sab'ta, Sab'tah (săb'tȧ). Bib.
Sab'te·cha, Sab'te·chah (săb'tē-kȧ). Bib.

sab'u·lum (săb'ū-lŭm), n. [L., sand.] = BRAIN SAND. — sab'u·lous (-lŭs), adj.
Sa'car (sā'kär). Bib. [CATS.] sa·ca'te (sȧ·kä'tē). Var. of ZACATE.

sacc-. = SACCO-. saccadge, saccage. † SACKAGE, plunder. sac'ca·ton'. Var. of SACATON. sac'ca·tra. Var. of SACATRA.

Sac'cha (săk'chä), n. = COLORADO, 3. sac'cha·rase (săk'ȧ-rās), n. [saccharr + -ase.] Biochem. = INVERTASE a.

by the replacement of the hydrogen of the NH group by a metal.

sac'cha·rin·at'ed (săk'ȧ·rĭ·nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Mixed with, or containing, saccharine matter; saccharated.

sac'cha·rine (săk'ȧ·rĭn; -rīn; 277), adj. [See SACCHARIN; -INE.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, sugar; sweet; as, a saccharine taste; saccharine matter or fermentation; yielding or containing sugar; as, saccharine vegetables.

2. Sweetening; sweet; now, more often, ingratiatingly or sickishly sweet; as, a saccharine smile; saccharine poetry. — sac'cha·rine·ly, adv.

sac'cha·rin'ic (-rĭn'ĭk), adj. a Pertaining to or designating a monoacid, $C_4H_7(OH)_2CO_2H$, isomeric with the hexoses, obtained in solution by treating dextrose with alkali, esp. calcium hydroxide, and easily passing over into saccharin (sense 1). b By extension, pertaining to or designating any of various similar acids isomeric with the above, as metasaccharinic acid, obtained from lactose. c By further extension, pertaining to or designating any of various similar acids isomeric with any monosaccharide and obtained in the same manner from any sugar. d Saccharic (sense 2 a).

sac'cha·rin'i·ty (-rĭn'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being saccharine; sweetness.

sac'cha·rize (săk'ȧ·rīz), v. t. & i.; -RIZED (-rīzd); -RIZ'ING (-rīz'ĭng). To saccharify; of wine, etc.; to ferment. — sac'cha·ri·za'tion (-rĭ·zā'shŭn; -rĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

sac'cha·ro- (săk'ȧ·rō-), sacchar-. A combining form from Greek sakcharon, sugar, used to denote: a Sugar, as in *saccharo*meter, *Saccharo*myces. b Saccharine and; — in adjectives, as in sac'cha·ro·far'i·na'ceous, sac'cha·ro·mu'ci·lag'i·nous. See FARINACEOUS, MUCILAGINOUS.

saccharobacillus	saccharohumic	saccharophylly saccharobutyric	saccharolactonic	saccharorrhea saccharochemotropic	saccharolytic	saccharoscope saccharocolloid	saccharometabolic	saccharostarchy saccharogalactorrhea	saccharometabolism	saccharotriose saccharogenic

sac'cha·ro·bi'ose (săk'ȧ·rō·bī'ōs), n. [saccharose + bi- + -ose.] Chem. A disaccharide; specif., sucrose (saccharose). See SUGAR, 1.

sac'cha·ro·cep'tor (-sĕp'tĕr), n. [saccharo- + ceptor.] A receptor for sweet tastes. — sac'cha·ro·cep'tive (-tĭv), adj.

sac'cha·roid (săk'ȧ·roid), adj. [sacchar- + -oid.] Resembling loaf sugar in texture; crystalline and granular; — chiefly of stone.

sac'cha·roid, n. A saccharoid substance.

sac'cha·roi'dal (-roi'dăl; -d'l), adj. Saccharoid.

sac'cha·rom'e·ter (-rŏm'ĕ·tĕr), n. Any device for measuring the amount of sugar in a solution, esp. a hydrometer with a special scale (see BRIX SCALE) which can be used where the presence of other dissolved solids does not interfere, or a fermentation saccharometer. The latter consists of a tube arranged for the collection and measurement of the gas evolved in the fermentation of sugars, as in saccharimeter. Cf. SACCHARIMETER. — sac'cha·rom'e·try (-rŏm'ĕ·trĭ), n.

— sac'cha·ro·met'ric (-rō·mĕt'rĭk), adj.

Sac'cha·ro·my'ces (-rō·mī'sēz), n. [NL., fr. saccharo- + -myces.] Bot. a A genus of unicellular sac fungi (Ascomycetes), the yeasts, distinguished by the facility with which they reproduce vegetatively by gemmation, although asci are occasionally developed. S. cerevisiae is the common beer yeast, S. pasteurianus and one or two other species are also concerned in the operation of brewing. S. ellipsoideus is the wine yeast. See YEAST; FERMENTATION, 3. b [not cap.] Any yeast of this genus.

Sac'cha·ro·my'ce·ta'ce·ae (-rō·mĭ'sē·tā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SACCHAROMYCES.] Bot. The most important family of fungi of the order Sac'cha·ro·my'ce·ta'les (-lēz), typified by the genus Saccharomyces. — sac'cha·ro·my'ce·ta'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

sac'cha·ro·my·cete' (-mī·sēt'; -mī'sēt), n. Bot. A yeast fungus. — sac'cha·ro·my·ce'tic (-mĭ·sē'tĭk), adj.

sac'cha·ro·my·co'sis (-mī·kō'sĭs), n. [NL.] Med. Any diseased condition caused by yeast fungi.

sac'cha·ro·nate (săk'ȧ·rō·nāt), n. A salt of saccharonic acid.

sac'cha·ron'ic (-rŏn'ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or designating a diacid, $C_6H_{10}O_7$, formed from saccharin (sense 1) by oxidation and passing immediately into its lactone, sac'cha·rone (săk'ȧ·rōn), $C_6H_8O_6$, a white crystalline compound. The acid is a trihydroxy derivative of α-methyl glutaric acid.

sac'cha·rose (săk'ȧ·rōs), n. Chem. a Sucrose; cane or beet sugar. See SUGAR, 1. b Any of the compound sugars, including the disaccharides and trisaccharides but esp. the former; — disting. in an old classification from glucose and amylose.

sac'cha·ro·su'ri·a (-rō·sū'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. saccharose + -uria.] Med. Condition marked by presence of saccharose in the urine.

Sac'cha·rum (săk'ȧ·rŭm), n. [NL. See SACCHARIN.] 1. Bot. A genus of large reedlike grasses of the Old World tropics. They have expanded panicles with very small paired spikelets intermixed with numerous silky hairs. The sugar cane is S. officinarum.

2. [not cap.] Sugar; specif.: a Pharm. Cane sugar. b Commerce. Invert sugar.

‖sac'cha·rum lac'tis (lăk'tĭs). [NL.] Milk sugar. See LACTOSE a.

‖sac'cha·rum sa·tur'nĭ. [NL.] Sugar of lead. See LEAD ACETATE a.

sacci-. A combining form from Latin saccus, a bag, usually denoting sac, as in sac·cif'er·ous, sac'ci·form. See -FEROUS; -FORM.

sac'co- (săk'ō-), sacc-. A combining form, Greek sakko-, sakk-, from sakkos, meaning a bag, usually denoting sac, as in *Sacco*pharynx, *Sacc*ammina.

Sac'co·bran'chus (-brăng'kŭs), n. [NL., fr. sacco- + Gr. branchia gills.] Zool. A genus of catfishes (Siluridae). See AIR SAC.

sac'co·derm (săk'ō·dûrm), adj. [sacco- + -derm.] Bot. Having the cell wall consisting of a single piece, as certain desmids. See MESOTAENIACEAE.

Sac'co·la'bi·um (-lā'bĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. sacco- + L. labium lip; — from its bagged labellum.] Bot. a A large genus of epiphytic orchids of East India and the Malay Archipelago, some having showy, racemose flowers. b [not cap.] A plant or flower of this genus.

Sac'co·my·i'na (-mĭ·ī'nȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The Saccomyoidea. — sac'co·my'ine (-mī'ĭn), adj.

Sac'co·my·oi'de·a (-mī·oi'dē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. fr. sacco- + Gr. mys mouse + -oid.] Zool. A superfamily of rodents including those with external cheek pouches, as the pocket gophers and kangaroo rat. — sac'co·my'oid (-mī'oid), sac'co·my·oi'de·an (-mĭ·oi'dē·ăn), adj.

Sac'co·phar'ynx (săk'ō·fär'ĭngks), n. [NL., fr. sacco- + Gr. pharynx throat.] Zool. A genus of deep-sea fishes (order Lyomeri) allied to the pelican fish, but having a shorter head and smaller mouth. There is probably only one species (S. ampullaceus), which attains a length of six feet. It is the type of a family, Sac'co·pha·ryn'gi·dae (-fȧ·rĭn'jĭ·dē).

Sac'co·rhi'za (săk'ō·rī'zȧ), n. [NL., fr. sacco- + -rhiza.] Bot. A small genus of marine brown algae (family Laminariaceae) having above the holdfast a bulblike swelling formed by whorls of tentacular outgrowths, whence the name sea furbelows.

sac'cos (săk'ŏs), n. [Gr. sakkos sack.] Gr. Ch. An alblike vestment covered with crosses; a tunicle. A saccos in the shape of a dalmatic is now worn, instead of the phelonion, by most bishops during the Liturgy.

sac'cu·lar (săk'ū·lĕr), adj. Like a sac.

sac'cu·late (săk'ū·lāt), v. t. [See SACCULE.] To enclose as in a sac.

sac'cu·late (-lăt), adj. Sacculated.

sac'cu·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Furnished with or formed of a sac or sacs; having a series of saclike expansions.

sac'cu·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. State of being sacculated; process of sacculating; also, a saclike structure.

sac'cule (săk'ūl), n. [L. sacculus, dim. fr. saccus sack. See SACK bag.] A little sac; specif., Anat., a part of the membranous labyrinth of the ear. See 1st EAR, 1.

sac'cu·lus (săk'ū·lŭs), n.; pl. SACCULI (-lī). [L. See SACCULE.] A little sac; esp., Anat., the saccule of the ear (see 1st EAR, 1). sac'cus (săk'ŭs), n.; pl.-CI (-sī). [L., a sack.] Biol. A sac.

‖sac' de nuit' (săk' dĕ nwē'). [F.] Literally, bag for night; an overnight case or bag.

sac·cu'lus (sȧ·sĕl'ŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-ȧ). [L., dim. of sacrum a sacred place.] 1. Rom. Antiq. An unroofed space consecrated to a divinity.

2. Eccl. A small monumental chapel in a church.

sac'er·do'cy (sās'ĕr·dō'sĭ), n. [L. sacerdotium.] Priesthood; priestly office, character, or order.

‖sa'cer·dos (sās'ĕr·dŏs), n. [L.] A priest; esp., a Roman Catholic priest.

sac'er·do'tage (sās'ĕr·dō'tĭj), n. Priesthood; sacerdotalism; — often derisive.

sac'er·do'tal (sās'ĕr·dō'tăl; -t'l), adj. [F., fr. L. sacerdotalis, fr. sacerdos, -otis, a priest, fr. sacer holy, sacred + prob. (but cf. DO) a root akin to dare to give. See SACRED; 2d DATE. Cf. TRAITOR.] 1. Of or pertaining to priests, esp. as making oblations to a god or God at an altar; relating to the priesthood or to the priestly office or function; priestly; as, sacerdotal dignity, functions. See PRIEST, 2.

2. Belonging to the priesthood; as, a sacerdotal teacher; also, characterized or influenced by a belief in a divinely-authorized priesthood.

Sacerdotal developments of Anglicanism. Morley.

— sac'er·do'tal·ly, adv.

sac'er·do'tal·ism (-ĭz'ĭm), n. 1. The priesthood, its character, office, or function; the priestly class; — often disparaging.

2. The doctrine or belief that ordination confers special powers and rights which are necessary for the exercise of the ministry.

sac'er·do'tal·ist (-ĭst), n. One who upholds sacerdotalism. — sac'er·do'tal·ist, adj.

sac'er·do'tal·ize (-īz), v. t. To make sacerdotal; to subject to sacerdotalism.

sac'er·do'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj. Sacerdotal sac'er·do·tism (sās'ĕr·dō·tĭz'ĭm), n. Sacerdotalism. Rare.

‖sa'cer·do'ti·um (sās'ĕr·dō·shĭ·ŭm), n. [ML.; in L., priesthood.] The dominion of the church. Medieval Hist.

sac'er va'tes (sās'ĕr vā'tēz). [L.] A holy prophet.

sac fungus. Any fungus of the class Ascomycetes; an ascomycete; — so called because the spores are formed in a sac (ascus). See ASCUS, Illust.

Sach'a·ris'sa (săk'ȧ·rĭs'ȧ), n. A poetical name given by the poet Waller (1606–87) to Lady Dorothy Sidney, eldest daughter of the Earl of Leicester, to whom he paid poetic court. She married Henry Spencer, first Earl of Sunderland.

sa'chem (sā'chĕm), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Narraganset sāchimau chief, Abnaki sākimau. Cf. SAGAMORE.] 1. Orig., the supreme chief of a confederation among the Algonquian tribes of the North Atlantic coast. Also, any North American Indian chief. See SAGAMORE.

2. A chief, as of a political party; specif., one of the twelve governors of the Tammany Society. See GRAND SACHEM. — sa'chem·dom (-dŭm), n. — sa·chem'ic (sā·chĕm'ĭk; sā'chĕm-), adj.

sa·chet' (sȧ·shā' or, esp. Brit., săsh'ā), n. [F., dim. of sac. See SAC.] Orig., a small bag, pouch or reticule; now, usually, a scent bag, or perfumed pad or the like, to be laid among garments, etc.

sachet powder. Perfumed powder used to scent sachets.

Sa·chev'er·ell (sȧ·shĕv'ĕr·ĕl; sȧ·chĕv'-), n. [Said to be after Henry Sacheverell, Eng. clergyman.] A kind of blower once used on stoves. Franklin.

Sachs, Hans (häns zȧks). The chief character in Wagner's opera Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg. See MEISTERSINGER; Sachs, Hans, in BIOG.

Sach'sen·spie'gel (zăk'sĕn·shpē'gĕl), n. [G., mirror of the Saxons.] A treatise on the law of the Saxons, written in Latin by Eike von Repgow sometime between 1220 and 1235 and not long afterwards translated into German. It is the beginning of German law writing.

sack (săk), n. [Formerly seck, for wyne seck dry wine, fr. F. vin sec (cf. G. sekt champagne, fr. D. sek, fr. F.), fr. L. siccus dry, harsh; prob. akin to L. sitis thirst. See PHTHISIS; cf. DESICCATE, SEC, SECK.] Formerly, any of various strong white wines from southern Europe. Originally, sack was only a dry wine, but in the 17th century the term was applied to any of the white wines imported to England from the south. "Sherris sack" [i. e., sherry]. Shak.

sack (săk), n. [F. sac, fr. It. sacco, fr. VL. (ML.) saccare to sack, take by force, prob. fr. L. saccus. See SACK bag.] 1. The pillaging or plundering of a captured town or city by its conquerors; — often in phrases, as to put to sack, to deliver up to sack; hence, ruin through despoliation.

2. Plunder realized from sack; loot. Tennyson.

sack, v. t. [From SACK pillage.] To plunder or pillage after capture, as a city or its buildings; to strip of valuables, as a person, house, or the like; to loot; as, to sack Rome or the churches of Rome.

Syn. — Plunder, desolate. See RAVAGE.

sack (săk), n. [ME. sacke, fr. AS. sacc, fr. L. saccus, fr. Gr. sakkos, of Sem. origin; cf. Heb. saq. Cf. SAC, SACK pillage, SATCHEL.] 1. A bag, typically large, oblong, and of coarse material, for holding and carrying goods of any kind, but esp. grains, fruits, coals, etc.

2. Cloth for sacks; sacking; sackcloth. Obs.

3. A measure of capacity, being the quantity contained, or supposed to be contained, in a sack. It varies, and has varied, greatly, according to the substance and the locality; thus, the sack of Paris (used for plaster) was less than a bushel, and the sack of Hamburg (used for charcoal) nearly 6 bu. Formerly English statutes fixed the sack for flour and meal at 280 lb.; salt, 5 bu.; coal, 3 bu.; wool, 364 lb. The British sack since 1870 has been 4 imperial bu., but local usage varies from 3 bu. to 5 bu.; a sack of cotton is reckoned as 280 lb. In the United States the sack is not a fixed measure, but, on the average, is 3 bu. or a little more; a sack of salt is reckoned as 215 lb.; cotton, 140 lb.; flour for export, 140 lb.; ordinarily a sack of flour or meal weighs 100 lb. A sack of Rio coffee is said to average 200 lb., but in official export statistics Brazilian sack designates a weight of 60 kilos (132 lb.).

4. Discharge; dismissal; — used esp. in phrases; to get the sack, to be discharged; also, to be jilted in a love affair; to give the sack to, to discharge; also, to jilt. Slang.

5. Short for SACK COAT.

6. Also sac (săk), sacque (săk). a Orig., a loose-bodied or unstayed gown or overdress; specif., a gown or overdress of the late 17th and early 18th centuries, distinguished by a back with box plaits or folds, hanging from the shoulders; — called also robe à la française. Cf. WATTEAU BACK. b Later, a short coat or jacket fitting somewhat loosely, worn by women or children; as, a sealskin sack; a dressing sack; a flannel sack.

7. Baseball. A bag; a base. Slang.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

sack baler	sack-formed	sack running sack baling	sack hand	sack-sailed sack beater	sack hoist	sack searcher sack carrier	sack holder	sack sewer sack checker	sack lifter	sack shaker sack cleaner	sack machinist	sack-shaped sack coal	sackmaker	sack shoot sack collector	sackmaking	sack sorter
sack cutter	sackman	sack store sack doubler	sack mender	sack superintendent sack elevator	sack packer	sack tackle sack emptier	sack printer	sack weight sack examiner	sack repairer

— the sack. a A punishment of being drowned sewn in a sack. b See sense 4 above.

-sack (-săk). A combining form of the noun sack, as in grip*sack*, wool*sack.*

sack (săk), v. t. 1. To put or pack in a sack or sacks; to bag; as, to sack corn.

2. Specif.: a To tie up (one to be drowned) in a sack. b To put in one's sack or purse; to pocket. c U. S. To arrange in sack lots.

3. To pile up as if in sacks; to heap up. Obs.

4. To carry in a sack on the back or the shoulders. Colloq.

5. To give the sack to (see 4th SACK, 4); to discharge; dismiss.

6. To defeat decisively; to overcome in a contest.

sack the rear. Logging. To follow a drive and roll in logs that have lodged or grounded.

sack the slide. Logging. To return to a slide logs that have jumped out.

sack'age (săk'ĭj), n. The action of sacking or pillaging; devastation resulting from being sacked. Now Rare.

sack'age, v. t. [F. saccager.] To sack; to plunder. Obs.

sack'bag' (săk'băg'), n. A canvas sack used as a traveling bag.

sack'-bear'er, n. One who bears a sack or sacks; specif., any of various moths of the family Lacosomatidae.

sack borer. Mining. A device for sinking shafts in soft ground by boring to the full size with a very large augerlike tool; — so called because large openmouthed sacks are attached behind the cutters to catch the material as it is removed.

sack'but (săk'bŭt), n. [F. saquebute, fr. MF. saqueboute sackbut, orig., a hooked lance, fr. saquer to pull, draw (fr. VL. saccare) + bouter to thrust, shove. See SACK pillage; BUTT to thrust.] 1. Music. An early form of the slide trombone. b A player on this instrument.

2. [Mistranslation of Aram. sabbĕkhā, Dan. iii. See SAMBUKE.] = SABECA.

sack'but', sack'butt' (săk'bŭt'), n. A butt, or cask, of sack; — usually with punning allusion to the musical sackbut.

sack'cloth' (-klŏth'; 185), n. Linen or cotton cloth such as sacks are made of; coarse cloth; sacking; also, garb of penitence. The sackcloth of the Bible was probably a coarse, dark cloth of goats' or camels' hair, used for sacks, saddlecloths, etc., and was worn as a sign of mourning, distress, penitence, etc.

Gird you with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner. 2 Sam. iii. 31.

— in sackcloth and ashes. Wearing sackcloth next to the skin and ashes on one's forehead as a penance for one's sins; figuratively, in a state of abject remorse; suffering harsh and humiliating retribution.

sack'clothed' (-klŏtht'; 185), adj. Clothed in sackcloth.

sack cloud. Well-developed mamma to-cumuli, collectively.

sack coat. A man's short, loose-fitting, single-breasted or double-breasted coat for informal wear.

sack'-coat'ed (66), adj. Wearing a sack coat.

sack'dou'dle (săk'dōō'd'l), v. i. [See DOODLESACK.] To play on the bagpipe. Scot.

sacked (săkt), adj. a Encased in or contained in a sack or sacklike covering. b Wearing a sack, or sacque; as, a sacked friar, a friar of a 13th-century order in England and France.

sacked (săkt), part. adj. of SACK, v., to pillage.

sack'en (săk'ĕn), adj. Of sackcloth. Obs. — n. Sacking; sackcloth. Dial.

sack'er (săk'ĕr), n. [From the sack, or bag, that makes a base.] Baseball. A baseman; as, a second-sacker. Slang.

sack'er, n. One who sacks, or pillages.

sack'er, n. One who makes, fills, or has charge of sacks.

sack'et (săk'ĭt), n. A small sack or wallet; also, a small, stupid, or rascally person. Scot.

sac'rine·ish, adj. See -ISH c.

sac'cha·rine sorghum. = SORGO.

Sac'cha·ro·my·ce'tes (săk'ȧ·rō·mĭ·sē'tēz), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of SACCHAROMYCETACEAE.

sac'cha·ron (săk'ȧ·rŏn), n. [L., sugar.] = SUCROSE.

sac'cha·rous (sĂk'ȧ·rŭs), adj. = SACCHARINE, 1.

sac'cho·lac'tic (săk'ō·lăk'tĭk), adj. [F. sacchalactique. See SACCHARO-; LACTIC.] Mucic. Obs. — sac'cho·lac'tate (-tāt), n. Obs.

sac·chol'ic, adj. Mucic. Obs. — sac'cho·late, n. See -ATE. Obs.

Sac'co·bran'chi·a'ta (săk'ō·brăng'kĭ·ā'tȧ), n. pl. [NL. See SACCUS; BRANCHIATE.] Syn. of ASCIDIACEA. — sac'co·bran'chiate (-brăng'kĭ·āt), adj. & n.

Sac'co·my'i·dae (-mĭ'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. sacco- + Gr. mys mouse + -idae.] Syn. of HETEROMYIDAE. — sac'co·my'ian (-yăn), adj. & n. — sac'co·my'id (-ĭd), n.

Sac'co·mys (săk'ō·mĭs), n. [NL., fr. sacco- + Gr. mys mouse.] Syn. of HETEROMYS.

sac·coon' (săk·kōōn'). Fencing. Archaic var. of SECONDE.

Sac'cu·li'na (sĂk'ū·lī'nȧ), n. [NL.] Sa'chem·ship, n. See -SHIP.

sac'cu·lo·u·tric'u·lar (-lō·ū·trĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. = UTRICULOSACCULAR.

sace. ✝ CEASE, SAUCE.

Sach'a·cha (săk'ȧ·kȧ). D. Bib.

sach'a·mak'er, sack'a·mak'er, n. = SACHEM, 1.

sa'chine. Var. of SACENE. See MEASURE, Table. [NORTH ARYAN.]

Sa'ci·an (sā'shĭ·ăn), n. See sack'ful (săk'fŏŏl), n. The quantity that fills or would (literally or figuratively) fill a sack.

sack'ful (-fōōl; -fl), adj. Bent on plunder. Obs.

sack'ing (săk'ĭng), verbal n. of 3d SACK.

sack'ing, verbal n. of 5th SACK. Specif.: a Obs. Prostitution. b The action of vanquishing; also, decisive victory; drubbing.

sack'ing, n. [sack bag + -ing, 2; cf. AS. saeccing bed.] Stout, coarse cloth of which sacks, bags, etc., are made.

sack'less, adj. [AS. sacleās. See 1st SAKE; -LESS.] 1. Free from sac or sake (see 1st SAKE, 1); hence, unmolested. Obs. 2. Guiltless; innocent. Archaic. 3. Scot. & Dial. a Weak; dispirited; bashful. b Harmless; peaceable.

sack moth. The adult of a sack-bearer.

Sack of Coals. The Coalsack.

sack race. A race run by persons each with his legs in a sack. — sack racer, sack racing.

sack tree. Also sacking tree. The upas tree, whose bark is cut into lengths and turned inside out to form sacks.

sack'-winged' (săk'wĭngd'), adj. Having wings resembling or furnished with sacklike formations; specif., designating certain emballonurine bats having a peculiar glandular pouch developed near the front edge of the wing. They constitute the genus Saccopteryx.

sa'cope (sā'kōp), n. [Tag. sakop.] A subject or vassal. Phil. I.

sacr-. = SACRO- (which see), as in sa·cral'gi·a, sa·crec'to·my, sa'cro·dyn'i·a. See -ALGIA; -ECTOMY; -ODYNIA.

sa'crad (sā'krăd), adv. [See 1st -AD.] Toward the sacrum.

sa'cral (sā'krăl), adj. [L. sacer, neut. sacrum, sacred.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or designed for use in, religious rites and ceremonies; as, sacral laws; a sacral formula. Chiefly Anthropol.

2. [NL. sacralis.] Anat. Pertaining to, or in the region of, the sacrum.

sa'cral, n. A sacral vertebra (see SACRUM) or sacral nerve.

sacral canal. The part of the spinal canal lying in the sacrum.

sacral index. Anat. The ratio of the length of the sacrum (taken as 100) to its breadth.

sa'cral·i·za'tion (sā'krăl·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n. Anat. Fusion of the last lumbar vertebra with the sacrum.

sacral nerve. Anat. Any of the spinal nerves of the sacral region. Their anterior and posterior branches pass out through foramina, the anterior and posterior sacral foramina, in the sacrum.

sacral plexus. Anat. A nerve plexus supplying the posterior limb and pelvic region. In man it is formed by the anterior divisions of the fourth and fifth lumbar, and first, second, and third sacral nerves.

sac'ra·ment (săk'rȧ·mĕnt), n. [ME. sacrement (fr. OF.), sacrament (fr. L.); OF. sacrement, fr. L. sacramentum, fr. sacrare to consecrate, fr. sacer sacred. See SACRED.] 1. Eccl. One of certain religious acts, ceremonies, or practices distinguished from all others in Christian rites as having been observed or recognized by Christ and given a certain character by him. According to some, sacraments were instituted by Christ (see INSTITUTION, 6) as the visible means by which Divine grace is sought and conferred; according to others, they are observed in memory of him and as a sign, seal, or symbol of a Christian experience or profession. In most cases, a sacrament is administered by a clergyman and to those only who have fulfilled the conditions considered proper to its valid reception. The Roman Catholic and the Eastern churches recognize seven sacraments (usually called Mysteries in the latter), viz., baptism, confirmation, the Eucharist, penance, extreme unction, holy orders, and matrimony. In general, Protestants accept only two sacraments, baptism and the Lord's Supper, but among members of certain churches, as the Anglican and Lutheran, others of the seven are recognized as of a salutary but subordinate character, though not usually regarded as having been instituted by Christ himself.

2. Esp., with the and often cap., the Eucharist, Holy Communion, Lord's Supper, or Mass; also, R.C.Ch., usually with the epithets blessed or holy, the consecrated Host.

3. a The pledge or token of an oath or solemn covenant; hence, a token or symbol. b A sacred ceremony used to impress an obligation; an oath, as in compurgation.

4. A mystery; a thing secret or of secret meaning.

5. Something sacred in character or significance; a spiritual sign, seal, or bond; a covenant, esp. one between God and man.

To the true mystic, life itself is a sacrament. W. R. Inge.

6. Rom. Antiq. The oath of allegiance taken by Roman soldiers.

sac'ra·ment (săk'rȧ·mĕnt), v. t. 1. To bind (oneself or a group) solemnly, as by an oath, a covenant, or an obligation; — now often with to or together.

2. To make holy or sacred.

sac'ra·men'tal (-mĕn'tăl; -tl'), adj. [LL. sacramentalis; cf. F. sacramental, sacramentel.] 1. Of or pertaining to sacred rites; specif., of or pertaining to the Christian sacraments or one of them, esp. the Eucharist; of the nature of a sacrament; characterized by or connected with belief in the sacraments; as, sacramental acts, bread, oils, or rites; sacramental marriage; a sacramental doctrine.

2. Solemnly binding, bound, or motivated, by or as by a covenant; as, a sacramental obligation.

The sacramental host of God's elect. Cowper.

3. Outwardly signifying, or significative of, something invisible, esp. something spiritual; symbolic.

I cannot think that nature was so sacramental, as to point out the holy . . . Trinity by the triangle of the heart. J. Taylor.

4. Belonging to an occasion by time-honored use. Jocose.

5. Communicating. Scot.

— sac'ra·men'tal·ly, adv. — sac'ra·men'tal·ness, n.

sac'ra·men'tal, n. R.C.Ch. A ceremony or a sacred object, as the Angelus or holy water, differing from a sacrament in that it was instituted by the Church and not by Christ; also, something connected with or used in the administration of a sacrament.

sac'ra·men'tal·ism (-ĭz'm), n. The doctrine and use of sacraments; the attaching of great importance to sacraments; esp.: a The doctrine that sacraments are inherently efficacious. (See SACRAMENT, 1.) b = SACRAMENTARIANISM. c The view according to which the sacraments are symbolic of spiritual experiences and divine realities. d The view according to which all nature and life are full of spiritual meaning and symbolic of the unseen and eternal.

sac'ra·men'tal·ist (-ĭst), n. a = SACRAMENTARIAN a. b One who holds that the sacraments are inherently efficacious.

sac'ra·men·tal'i·ty (săk'rȧ·mĕn·tăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Sacramental nature or quality.

sac'ra·men·tar'i·an (-mĕn·târ'ĭ·ăn; 79), adj. 1. [cap.] Of or pertaining to the Sacramentarians.

2. Of or pertaining to the sacraments or sacramentalism.

sac'ra·men·tar'i·an, n. [ML. sacramentarius.] Eccl. a [cap.] One who holds the sacraments to be simply visible symbols (SEE SACRAMENT, 1); — a name given in the 16th century and after to Zwinglians and Calvinists. b A sacramentalist. c One who holds that the sacraments are not mere symbols, but effectual signs of the spiritual experiences they symbolize, by virtue of certain spiritual or supernatural properties with which they have been invested by divine authority. — -tar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n.

sac'ra·men'ta·ry (săk'rȧ·mĕn'tȧ·rĭ), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a sacrament or the sacraments; sacramental. Now Rare.

2. Sacramentarian. Now Rare.

Sac'ra·men'ta·ry (săk'rȧ·mĕn'tȧ·rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [ML. sacramentarium.] 1. R.C.Ch. An early service book in the Western Church containing the celebrant's (bishop's) part of the Mass together with prayers for baptism, ordinations, blessings, and consecrations. There are many books of this kind: the Leonine, after Pope Leo I (440–461) though composed much later; the Gelasian (after Pope Gelasius, 492–496), the authorship and date of which, though much later than Gelasius, are uncertain; the Gregorian (Pope Gregory I, 590–604), which in its present form is a Gallicanized, perhaps 9th century, adaptation of the Roman rite accepted later in Rome, and as such the basis of the present Roman missal. There are also several Gallican Sacramentaries.

2. = SACRAMENTARIAN, n., a.

3. [not cap.] = SACRAMENTALIST b.

sacrament chapel. A chapel in which the Host is preserved.

sacrament cloth. = PYX CLOTH.

sac'ra·ment·er (săk'rȧ·mĕn·tĕr), n. a Rare. One who frequently receives the Sacrament. b [cap.] = SACRAMENTARIAN a.

sacrament house. An ambry or tabernacle, as distinguished from a hanging pyx for the reserved Eucharist. Hist.

sac'ra·ment·ize (săk'rȧ·mĕn·tĭz), v. i. To administer the sacraments. Fuller.

Sac'ra·men'to (săk'rȧ·mĕn'tō), n. A river in the State of California; also, the capital city of California.

Sacramento cat. The horned puma.

Sacramento perch. A perchlike fish (Archoplites interruptus), closely related to the crappie, of the Sacramento and San Joaquin river basins. It is the only fresh-water percoid fish native to the Pacific coast region of America.

Sacramento pike. The squawfish.

Sacramento salmon. The quinnat salmon.

Sacramento sturgeon. The white sturgeon (Acipenser transmontanus).

Sacramento sucker. A sucker (Catostomus occidentalis) of the streams of California. It reaches a length of one foot.

Sacrament Sunday. The Sunday or one of the Sundays of the year on which the Lord's Supper is celebrated.

sac'ra·men'tum (săk'rȧ·mĕn'tŭm), n. [L.] Rom. Law. A deposit of money by way of pledge made by each party to a civil action and forfeited to the state by the loser. From the name it is conjectured that at one time there was an oath and that the money was an expiatory offering. — sac'ra·men'tal (-tăl; -tl'), adj.

sa'cra per'e·gri'na (sā'krȧ pĕr'ē·grī'nȧ), n. pl. [L.] Rom. Relig. Festivals in honor of cults of foreign origin.

‖sa'cra pri·va'ta (prī·vā'tȧ). [L.] Rom. Relig. The private religious rites of a family, gens, or household.

sa·crar'i·um (sȧ·krâr'ĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -IA (-ȧ). [L., fr. sacer sacred.] 1. Rom. Antiq. a A shrine or sanctuary, either in a temple or in a private house, in which sacred objects were kept; sometimes, an oratory; chapel. b A building erected for the performance of religious rites by a sacred person.

2. Eccl. a Anciently, the sanctuary. b In the Middle Ages, a sacristy. c R.C.Ch. (1) A Eucharistic tabernacle; — so used by the Council of Trent. (2) = PISCINA, 2.

3. The synsacrum.

— sa·crar'i·al (-krâr'ĭ·ăl), adj.

Sa'cra Ro·ma'na Ro'ta (rō·mā'nȧ rō'tȧ). [L.] R.C.Ch. See ROTA, n., 4.

‖Sa'cra Vi'a (sā'krȧ vī'ȧ). [L.] The principal street of ancient Rome. It ran from between the Esquiline and Caelian Hills past the Forum to the Capitol.

sa'cre (sā'k'r), v. t. [ME. sacren. See SACRED.] Obs. a To consecrate (the Eucharistic elements, a king, a bishop); to consecrate as king or bishop. See SACRING. b To celebrate (the Eucharist, a marriage); also, to unite in marriage. c To sanctify; to make holy. d To dedicate.

sa'cre (sā'k'r), n. [F.] A sacred solemnity, as consecration. Obs.

sa'cre, adj. [L. sacer.] Sacred. Obs.

‖sa'cré' (sȧ'krā'), adj. [F.] Sacred; — used also as a minced oath.

sa'cred (sā'krĕd; -krĭd; 119), adj. [Orig. past part. of ME. sacren to consecrate, fr. OF. sacrer, fr. L. sacrare, fr. sacer sacred, holy, cursed; akin to L. sancire to sanctify, sanction, ordain, sanctus holy, sacred, and to ON. sáttr, sætt covenant, agreement. Cf. CONSECRATE, DESECRATE, EXECRATE, SACERDOTAL, SACRAMENT, SACRIFICE, SACRILEGE, SACRISTY, SACROSANCT, SAINT, SEXTON.] 1. Consecrated; as, the sacred elements (of the Eucharist).

2. Dedicated; set apart in honor of, or as dear to, one, as a god; as, a tree sacred to Jupiter; hence, devoted exclusively to the service or use of a certain person, or to a certain end; as, a fund sacred to charity; a study sacred to the master of the house.

3. Holy; now, more often, hallowed by association with the divine, the consecrated, or the like; worthy of religious veneration; as, the sacred name of Jesus; Jerusalem's sacred soil; hence, entitled to reverence and respect; venerable; as, old age is sacred; a sacred memory.

4. Religious in nature, association, or use; of or pertaining to religion, its doctrines, rites, history, etc.; not secular or profane; as, sacred vestments; sacred history, seasons.

5. Inviolable or inviolate; protected by some sanction, religious, moral, legal, etc. against violation, breach, intrusion, etc.; not, or not to be, profaned; as, a sacred right, vow, or obligation; to hold all laws sacred.

6. Accursed; baleful; consuming.

Urged through sacred lust of praise. Pope.

Syn. — Divine; sacrosanct. SACRED, HOLY. SACRED and HOLY (the stronger word) are often practically synonymous in the sense of consecrated to (or by) religion or some religious use, hallowed; as, "innumerable sound of hymns and sacred songs" (Milton); "hymns devout and holy psalms" (id.); "When as sacred light began to dawn in Eden" (id.). "Hail, holy light, offspring of Heaven first born!" (id.). But holy often emphasizes inherent or essential character; as, "Ye shall be holy, for I the Lord your God am holy" (Lev. xix. 2). Sacred (not holy) is opposed to secular; as, sacred history.

Ant. — Impious; blasphemous; secular. See PROFANE.

— sa'cred·ly, adv. — sa'cred·ness, n.

sa'cred (sā'krĕd; -krĭd; 119), n. A sacred rite or oblation, or something used in such. Obs.

sacred ape. = SACRED MONKEY.

sacred baboon. A baboon (Papio hamadryas) venerated by the ancient Egyptians.

sacred bamboo. See NANDINA.

sacred bark. Cascara sagrada; also, the cascara buckthorn which yields it.

sacred bean. The seed of the Indian lotus; also, the plant.

sa'cred–bean' fam'i·ly. The Nelumbonaceae. See NELUMBO.

sacred beetle. The scarabaeus, held sacred by the Egyptians. See SCARABAEUS, 1 a.

sacred book. Any book, as the Bible or Koran, regarded by a religious body as an authoritative source or divinely inspired statement of its doctrine and law.

sacred bo tree. The pipal.

sacred bull. The zebu.

sacred canon. See 1st CANON, 3 a.

sacred college, the. The college of cardinals at Rome.

sacred concert. A concert wholly or chiefly of sacred music.

sacred cow. A person or thing regarded as sacrosanct and immune from violation, attack, criticism, or the like. Jocose.

sacred cubit. See MEASURE, Table.

sacred ear, or sacred earflower. The fragrant, spicy, ear-shaped flower of a Mexican and Central American shrub or small tree (Cymbopetalum penduliflorum), family Annonaceae, prized by the Aztecs for flavoring chocolate and for its supposed tonic properties. It is still sold for that purpose in Guatemala.

sacred fig. The pipal.

sacred fish. Any one of several fishes of the genus Mormyrus, esp. M. oxyrhynchus, inhabiting the river Nile, held in veneration by the ancient Egyptians because it was thought to have devoured a member of the god Osiris. See MORMYRIDAE.

Sacred Fish (Mormyrus oxyrhynchus).

sacred grass. See GRASS, Table.

sacred harlot. See PROSTITUTION b.

Sacred Heart. R.C.Ch. The heart of Jesus and his love for men, the subject of a formal devotion originated in the 17th century by St. Margaret Mary Alacoque and extended to the whole church by Pius IX in 1850. See FEAST OF THE SACRED HEART.

Sacred Heart, Society of the. R.C.Ch. A religious order of women, known as Religious of the Sacred Heart, founded in France in 1800, and approved in 1826. The members devote themselves to the training of girls, esp. in the higher branches of education.

sacred ibis. See IBIS.

sacred lily of China. = CHINESE SACRED LILY.

sacred lotus. = INDIAN LOTUS.

sacred malady. Med. Epilepsy.

sacred monkey. Any of several monkeys regarded as sacred by natives of the regions they inhabit; esp., the entellus, the rhesus monkey, or the sacred baboon.

sacred mushroom. Mescal button. See MESCAL, 1.

sacred music. Music, esp. choral music, suitable for performance at a religious service.

sacred orders. See ORDER, n., 21 a.

Sacred Penitentiaria. = PENITENTIARY, 1 b.

sacred place. Civil Law. The place where a person is buried.

Sacred Roman Rota. See ROTA, n., 4.

sacred thread. 1. Hinduism. A cotton thread (yajnopavita) of three strands placed by the guru on a youth of one of the three twice-born castes at the ceremony of initiation (upanayana), usually at the age of from eight to twelve, and constantly worn thereafter. The thread is worn on the left shoulder and across the body to the right. A thread is also worn by some of the upper classes of Sudras.

2. The analogous Parsi kusti.

Sacred, or Holy, War. Anc. Gr. Hist. Any of four wars waged by members of the Amphictyonic League for the protection of the temple and oracle of Delphi. The first was c. 590 B.C.; the second, in 448 B.C.; the third, in 357–or 356–346 B.C.; the fourth in 339–338 B.C. sacred weed. The vervain Verbena officinalis.

Sacred Writ. The Scriptures.

sa·crif'i·ca·ble (sȧ·krĭf'ĭ·kȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being sacrificed; acceptable as a sacrifice. Sir T. Browne.

Sa·crif'i·ca'ti (sȧ·krĭf'ĭ·kā'tĭ), n. pl. [LL.] Eccl. Hist. Persons who, under Roman persecution, renounced Christian belief and sacrificed to the gods.

sac'ri·fi·ca'tion (săk'rĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [L. sacrificatio.] A making sacrifice. Rare sac'ri·fi·ca'tor (săk'rĭ·fĭ·kā'tĕr), n. [LL.] A sacrificer; esp., a priest.

sac'ri·fi·ca'to·ry (săk'rĭ·fĭ·kā'tō·rĭ), adj. Of or pert. to sacrifice, esp. the sacrifice of the Mass.

sac'ri·fi·ca'ture (-tūr), n. Sacrifice as a religious act or oblation. Rare.

sac'ri·fice (săk'rĭ·fīs; -fĭs; -fĭz; 277), n. [OF., fr. L. sacrificium, fr. sacer sacred + -ficare to make. See SACRED; -FY.] 1. Act or process of making an offering, to a deity or spiritual being, of animal or vegetable life or of food, drink, incense, or the like. Typically sacrifice is made at or on an altar before an image or symbol of the deity, or, in case of offerings to the dead, at the grave. The sacrificial offering may be: (1) A sacramental offering, the offering being in part devoted to the god, in part consumed by the worshiper. (2) A whole offering, entirely devoted to the god, the holocaust, or whole burnt offering, being the ordinary form. (3) A sin, or piacular, offering, also devoted to the god or his ministers, and sometimes taking the form of a surrogate, or scapegoat, supposed to bear away sack'like', adj. See -LIKE. sackt. Sacked. Ref. Sp. sac'like', adj. See -LIKE. sa'co (sā'kō), n. [Sp., a sack.] See WEIGHT, Table.

sacque (săk), n. [Pseudo F. form of E. sack. See 4th SACK.] = 4th SACK, 6. sa'cra, pl. of SACRUM. sacramental fast day. See FAST DAY. sacramental offering. See SACRIFICE, n., 1. sac'ra·men·ta'ri·ist, n. = SACRAMENTARIAN a. Pusey. sac'ra·ment·ism, n. = SACRAMENTARIANISM. Gladstone. sac'ra·ment·ly. Obs. var. of SACRAMENTALLY. sac'ra·ry, n. [See SACRARIUM.] Eccl. Sacrarium; sacristy. Obs. sa'crate, v. t. To consecrate. Obs.
— sa·cra'tion (sȧ·krā'shŭn), n. Obs. sa'crate, adj. [L. sacratus, past part. of sacrare.] Consecrated. Obs. sa'cre. + SAKER, a cannon. sacrement. + SACRAMENT. sacri. + SACRE. sac'ri·fi'a·ble, adj. [sacrify + -able.] = SACRIFICABLE. Obs.
sa·crif'ic (sȧ·krĭf'ĭk), sa·crif'i·cal (-l·kăl). Obs. vars. of SACRIFICIAL.
sa·crif'i·cant (-l·kănt), n. [L. sacrificans, pres. part.] = SACRIFICER. Rare.

the burden of the sin. A libation, or drink offering, is commonly of blood, wine, milk, or oil. Offerings of precious objects, such as images, memorial tablets, jewels, weapons, etc., intended to adorn the shrine or sanctuary, are called votive offerings, in distinction from the sacrificial. Cf. ALTAR, 1.

2. Something offered in sacrifice (sense 1); anything consecrated and offered to God or to a divinity; an immolated victim or an offering of any kind laid on an altar, or otherwise presented in the way of religious thanksgiving, atonement, conciliation, or the like.

3. a Destruction or surrender of anything for the sake of something else; giving up of some desirable thing in behalf of a higher object, or devotion of it to a claim deemed more pressing; as, the sacrifice of principle to expediency. b The loss or disadvantage consequent upon such action. c The thing so devoted or given up.

4. A victim devoted to some purpose or abandoned to something hostile.

5. A great lessening of the amount of, or a complete loss of, profit; also, an article sold under such conditions.

6. Baseball. Short for SACRIFICE HIT.

7. Chess. Voluntary loss, as of a pawn, for positional advantage.

8. Theol. The crucifixion of Christ, viewed as his offering of himself to reconcile God and men.

Syn. — Oblation; victim, offering; privation; loss.

sac'ri·fice (săk'rĭ·fīs; -fīz; 277), v.; -FICED (-fīst; -fīzd); -FIC'ING (-fīs'ĭng; -fīz'ĭng). [From SACRIFICE, n.] Transitive: 1. To offer as a sacrifice, esp. as a sacrificial victim; to make a sacrifice, or religious oblation, of; to immolate; as, Abraham, about to sacrifice Isaac.

2. To suffer loss of, give up, renounce, injure, or destroy, for an end (specified or implied) regarded as superior; as, to sacrifice an inheritance for a principle, one's life in the cause of freedom.

3. To sell at a sacrifice. Tradesmen's Cant.

4. Baseball. To advance (a base runner) by a sacrifice hit.

—, Intransitive: 1. To offer up or perform rites of a sacrifice.

2. Baseball. To make a sacrifice hit.

sacrifice hit. Baseball. A bunt or a fly ball (called then specifically sacrifice fly) that allows a runner to advance a base while the batter is put out and does not count as a time at bat. See TIME AT BAT.

Sacrifice of the Mass. The Mass viewed as the sacrifice of the body and blood of Christ.

sac'ri·fic'er (săk'rĭ·fīs'ẽr; -fīz'ẽr), n. One who sacrifices; specif., a sacrificing priest.

sac'ri·fi'cial (-fĭsh'ăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, of the nature of, or involving, sacrifice; sacrificing.—sac'ri·fi'cial·ly, adv.

sac'ri·fic'ing (săk'rĭ·fīs'ĭng; -fīz'ĭng), part. adj. & verbal n. of SACRIFICE. Specif.: adj. Sacrificial.

sac'ri·lege (săk'rĭ·lĕj; -lĭj), n. [OF., fr. L. sacrilegium, fr. sacrilegus one who steals, prop., gathers or picks up, sacred things, fr. sacer sacred + legere to gather, pick up. See SACRED; LEGEND. See SELECT.] 1. The crime of stealing, misusing, violating, or desecrating that which is sacred, or holy, or dedicated to sacred uses. Specif.: a R.C.Ch. The sin of violating the conditions for a worthy reception of a sacrament. b Robbery from a church; also, that which is stolen. c Alienation to laymen, or to common purposes, of what has been appropriated or consecrated to religious persons or uses.

2. One guilty of a sacrilege. Obs.

Syn. — See PROFANATION.

sac'ri·lege, v. t. & i. To commit sacrilege (on). — sac'ri·leg·er (-lĕj·ẽr; -lĭj·ẽr), n. Both Now Rare.

sac'ri·le'gious (săk'rĭ·lē'jŭs; -lĭj'ŭs), adj. [From SACRILEGE.] Committing sacrilege; characterized by or involving sacrilege; polluted with sacrilege; as, sacrilegious robbers, depredations, or acts.

> Above the reach of sacrilegious hands. Pope.

— sac'ri·le'gious·ly, adv. — sac'ri·le'gious·ness, n.

sa'cring (sā'krĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SACRE. Hence: n. Act of consecrating. Specif.: a Consecration of the sacramental elements; the Consecration of the Mass. b Archaic. Consecration to office or orders, as of a king or bishop.

sacring bell. a A small hand bell, sometimes of silver, rung at the Elevation in Mass. b The tolling of the church bell that announced the Elevation. c Obs. A church bell announcing a service, esp. that of Morning Prayer.

Sac'ri·pant (săk'rĭ·pănt), n. [It. Sacripante.] King of Circassia in Boiardo and Ariosto. His charger is stolen from between his legs without his knowing it; hence, Rare, a braggart; a boastful coward.

sa'crist (sā'krĭst), n. [ML. sacrista. See SACRISTAN.] A sacristan.

sac'ris·tan (săk'rĭs·tăn), n. [ME. sacristane, fr. ML. sacristanus, fr. sacrista, fr. L. sacer. See SACRED; cf. SEXTON.] An officer of a church in charge of the sacristy, of the utensils or movables, and, sometimes, of the church in general; also, a sexton.

sac'ris·ty (-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ML. sacristia, fr. sacrista. See SACRISTAN.] A room in or attached to a church where the sacred utensils, vestments, etc., are kept; a vestry.

sa'cro- (sā'krō-). A combining form for sacred, denoting sacred and, as in sa'cro·pic·to'ri·al, sa'cro·sec'u·lar.

sa'cro- (sā'krō-; săk'rō-), sacr-. Anat. A combining form from sacrum, denoting: a The sacrum, as in sa·crot'o·my (sā·krŏt'ō·mĭ). See -TOMY. b Sacral and; — in adjectives, as in sa'cro·cau'dal, sacral and caudal. For words below, see the word with which sacro- b is combined.

sacrococcygeal	sacroinguinal	sacropubic
sacrococcygean	sacroischiac	sacrorectal sacrocostal	sacroischiadic	sacrosciatic sacrocotyloid	sacroischiatic	sacrospinal sacrocotyloidean	sacrolumbar	sacro-uterine sacrofemoral	sacropectineal	sacrovertebral sacroiliac	sacroperineal sa'cro (sā'krō), n. [It. sagro.] = SAKER, 2.

sa'cro·coc·cyg'e·us (sā'krō·kŏk·sĭj'ē·ŭs; săk'rō-), n. [NL., fr. 2d sacro- + coccygeus.] Anat. Either of two muscles (anterior and posterior) extending between the sacrum and COCCYX.

sa'cro·coc'cyx (-kŏk'sĭks), n. [NL., fr. 2d sacro- + coccyx.] Anat. The fused sacrum and coccyx.

sa'cro·cox·al'gi·a (-kŏks·ăl'jĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. See SACRUM; COXALGIA.] Med. Pain in the sacroiliac joint.

sa'cro·cox·i'tis (-kŏks·ī'tĭs), n. [NL. See SACRUM; COXITIS.] Med. Inflammation of the sacroiliac joint.

sa'cro·dor'sal (sā'krō·dôr'săl; -s'l; săk'rō-), adj. [See 2d SACRO-; DORSAL.] Anat. Of or pert. to elements of the synsacrum derived from dorsal vertebrae, as in certain reptiles.

sa'cro·lum·ba'lis (-lŭm·bā'lĭs), n. [NL. See SACRO-; LUMBAL.] Anat. The iliocostalis muscle. — sa'cro·lum'bal (-lŭm'băl), adj.

sa'cro·pos·te'ri·or (-pŏs·tēr'ĭ·ẽr), adj. [2d sacro- + posterior.] Obstetrics. With the sacrum directed dorsally; — applied esp. to a fetal position.

sac'ro·sanct (săk'rō·săngkt), adj. [L. sacrosanctus. See SACRED; SAINT.] Most holy or sacred; secure from violation; — now sometimes ironical. — sac'ro·sanct·ness, n.

sac'ro·sanc'ti·ty (săk'rō·săngk'tĭ·tĭ), n. Sacrosanct state or quality.

sa'cro·spi·na'lis (sā'krō·spī·nā'lĭs; săk'rō-), n. [NL. See 2d SACRO-; SPINAL.] Anat. A muscle extending the length of the back and neck, consisting of many distinct parts attached to the crest of the ilium, the vertebrae, and the ribs.

sa'cro·spi'nous (-spī'nŭs), adj. [See 2d SACRO-; SPINOUS.] Anat. Designating a ligament on either side, passing from the back of the sacrum to the spine of the ischium, converting the greater sciatic notch of the innominate bone into the greater sciatic foramen.

sa'cro·tu'ber·ous (-tū'bẽr·ŭs), adj. [See 2d SACRO-; TUBEROUS.] Anat. Designating a ligament on either side passing from the back of the sacrum to the tuberosity of the ischium and converting the lesser sciatic notch of the innominate bone into the lesser sciatic foramen.

sa'crum (sā'krŭm), n.; pl. -CRA (-krȧ). 1. [L., neut. of sacer sacred.] Gr. & Rom. Antiq. Something consecrated; a sacred thing, as a utensil, a temple, a religious act, etc.; pl., religious rites or objects of worship; specif., private religious rites, as of a gens.

2. [NL., fr. L. os sacrum the lowest bone of the spine.] Anat. & Zool. That part of the vertebral column which is directly connected with, or forms a part of, the pelvis by articulation with the ilia. It may consist of a single vertebra or of several more or less consolidated. In man it forms the dorsal, or posterior, wall of the pelvis, and consists of five united vertebrae, which diminish in size to the apex, which bears the coccyx. The expanded ends of the transverse processes are fused into a solid bony mass on each side, the upper end of which is termed the ala. The broad upper end of the whole bone is called the base. In birds the sacrum (synsacrum) includes numerous vertebrae, but many of these represent lumbar or caudal elements.

sac'—wrist', adj. Not slit at right angles to the wrist; — said of a glove.

sad (săd), adj.; SAD'DER (-ẽr); SAD'DEST. [ME., sated, tired, satisfied, firm, steadfast, fr. AS. sæd satisfied, sated; akin to D. zat, OS. sad, G. satt, OHG. sat, ON. sathr, saddr, Goth. saths, Lith. sotus, OIr. sāith satiety, L. sat, satis, enough, satur sated, Gr. amenai to satiate, hadēn enough. Cf. ASSETS, SANE, SATE, SATIATE, SATISFY, SATIRE, SATURATE, 1st SOIL.] 1. Sated; satisfied; surfeited; hence, weary; tired. Obs.

2. Obs. exc. Dial. Solid; dense; specif.: a Stiff or thick; — of land. b Heavy or soggy from failure to rise; — of cooked food.

3. Fixed or established firmly; settled in status or determination; steadfast. Archaic & Dial. "Sad resolution." Milton.

4. Obs. a Maturely steady; grave; serious; — of character, appearance, and judgments. b Stout; valiant. c Profound; deep.

5. Affected with or expressive of grief or unhappiness; cast down with affliction; downcast; gloomy; mournful.

> First were we sad, fearing you would not come;
> Now sadder, that you come so unprovided. Shak.

6. Characterized by or associated with sorrow; melancholy; as, the sad light of the moon.

7. Afflictive; calamitous; causing sorrow; grievous; as, a sad accident; a sad misfortune.

8. Dull; somber; of low saturation; formerly, dark-colored; — said of colors. "Sad-colored clothes." Walton.

9. a Bad; naughty; troublesome; wicked; — often used playfully. "Sad tipsy fellows, both of them." J. Taylor. b Slang. Inferior in quality; poor; as, a sad recitation.

Syn. — Solemn, sober; sorrowful, dejected, depressed, cheerless; melancholy, doleful; distressing; deplorable.

Ant. — Joyous. See GAY.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

sad-eyed	sad-looking	sad-seeming sad-faced	sad-natured	sad-tuned sadhearted	sad-paced	sad-voiced sad, adv. 1. Fixedly; steadily. Obs.

2. Sadly. Poetic.

sad (săd), v. t. [ME. sadden to make solid, confirm, fr. AS. sadian to satisfy.] = SADDEN, v. t. Obs. exc. Dial. — v. i. To become sad. Obs.

sad. Obs. past tense & past part. of SHED.

sad'—a—vised' (săd'ȧ·vīst'; -vīzd'), adj. Gloomy-faced. Cf. BLACK-A-VISED.

sad cake. An unleavened or soggy cake. Dial.

sad'—col'ored, adj. Dark-colored; in a very deep or a dull shade of a color.

sad'den (săd'n), v. Transitive: To make sad. Specif.: 1. a Now Dial. To render firm, solid, or thick, as soil by treading; to make stiff or compact, as porridge. b To make sad or gloomy in spirits or appearance; to depress.

> Her gloomy presence saddens all the scene. Pope.

2. To make dark or, esp., dull; as, to sadden cloth in dyeing; sage is saddened green.

—, Intransitive: 1. To become or grow sad, as in texture or spirits.

2. To make or become of a sad color, as cloth; to desaturate (a color).

Syn. — Grieve. Cf. DISTRESS. Ant. — See CHEER.

sad'den·ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SADDEN. Hence: n. Dyeing. A rendering dull or dark-colored; also, in wool dyeing, the process of applying the mordant after the dyestuff instead of before it; — the colors so produced formerly being usually sad, owing to the mordants (iron and copper).

sad'dik (sä'dĭk), n. [Heb. ṣaddīq just, righteous.] 1. In Biblical and rabbinic usage, a righteous man; an observer of priestly and prophetic teaching; a saintly person.

2. In modern usage, the spiritual leader of a Hasidic community. Cf. HASIDIM.

sad'dish (săd'ĭsh), adj. Somewhat sad.

sad'dle (săd'l), n. [ME. sadel, fr. AS. sadol; akin to D. zadel, G. sattel, OHG. satal, satul, ON. söthull, Dan. & Sw. sadel; perh. ult. akin to OSlav. sedlo, L. sella a rest, and E. sit. See SETTLE, n.; cf. SEDAN.] 1. A seat for a rider on horseback. Saddles have differed and still differ greatly in form. They are commonly leather-covered, raised in front and rear, padded to span comfortably a horse's back, secured by a girth passing under the horse's belly, and provided with stirrups for the rider's feet. The

A English Riding Saddle. 1 Pommel; 2 Cantle; 3 Jockey; 4 Pad; 5 Skirt; 6 Knee Puff; 7 Thigh Puff; 8 Girth; 9 Stirrup Strap; 10 Stirrups. B U. S. Cavalry Saddle. 1, 2, 9, & 10 as in A; 3 Side Bar; 4, 4 Quarter Straps; 5 Quarter-strap Ring; 6 Safe; 7 Stirrup Tread; 8 Stirrup Hood; 11 Cinch Strap; 12 Coat Straps; 13 Carbine Boot; 14 Saber Strap. C Medieval War Saddle. D Cowboy Saddle. 1 Horn; 2, 9, 10 as in A; 3 Front Outside Rigging; 4 Front, & 5 Back, Jockeys; 6, 6 Saddle Skirts; 7, 7 Latigos; 8 Sudadero; 11 Seat Jockey; 12 Saddle Strings; 13, 13 Cinches.

McClellan saddle, originated during the Civil War, is simple in form, being a leather-covered, (usually) beechen, saddletree, with pommel and cantle moderately high, and with or without leather skirts covering saddlebags. The English cavalry saddle, or English saddle, is marked by long, (usually) beechen, side bars, with pommel and cantle of steel, and leather seat, supported by broad webbing stretched between saddlebow and cantle. The stock saddle (cowboy, Texas, Mexican, etc.) usually has a high knobbed pommel, high cantle, rope or woven-hair cinches, and heavy-looking leather skirts and fenders.

2. A seat, of any of various shapes, for a rider on a bicycle, tricycle, motorcycle, or the like.

3. Something suggestive of, analogous to, or corresponding in position to, a saddle. "Perhaps the worst sight of all was that of deer with saddles of snow on their backs. The snow froze to the hair . . . the saddles grew larger and larger on scores of deer, until the victims succumbed." Thompson Seton. Also, any of various devices suggestive of a saddle; as: a A saddlelike ridge or marking, as on harp seals, saddle shells, and certain leaves. b A block hollowed out to support a round object, as a rod on a bench. c A seating for a cylindrical steam boiler. d An insulator bracket on top of a telegraph pole. e A railroad chair. f The bearing of an axle box. g The metal covering of a roll on a metal-covered roof. h A strip of thin board covering the floor joint on the threshold of a door. i A bridging piece between a pair of cylinders in a locomotive. j A block over which the cables of a suspension bridge pass, or to which they are anchored. k In bookbinding, the central or middle part of the back of the binding.

Saddle, 3 d. a Pole; b Saddle; c Insulator.

4. Arch. A horizontal piece set on top of a post to diminish the unsupported span of a beam; a cricket.

5. Cookery. a The whole upper back portion of a carcass, including both loins; the hindsaddle; as, a saddle of mutton. b The undivided loins prepared for roasting. c The lower part of the back and the hind legs, as of a frog.

6. Dent. A piece of vulcanized rubber, gold, or other material, fitting over the gums as a bed for a dummy tooth or teeth secured to a bridge behind. It is frequently supported at each end by an artificial crown.

7. Harness. A padded part worn on a horse's back, being fastened with a girth. It keeps the breeching in place, carries guides for the reins, etc. See HARNESS.

Saddle, 7.

8. Logging. In a skid road, a transverse log with a depression cut in it to guide the logs.

9. Mach. A bridge piece or carriage made to run on a guideway, as such a piece carrying the tool post in a lathe planer, etc.

10. Mining. A gold-bearing quartz vein of anticlinal form, occurring esp. in Australian saddle reefs.

11. Naut. a A block of wood bolted between, and extending above and below, the jaws of a gaff and hollowed to fit the mast, to render lowering and raising the gaff easier. b A forked or hollowed-out support for a boom or other spar, such as the chock on the end of a bowsprit in which the heel of a jib boom rests. c A ridge whose summit divides a coaling hatch so that the coal is diverted into the bunkers at each side. d A collar attached to a mast to support the boom.

12. Ordn. In some types of carriage, the part which supports the trunnions.

13. Paleontol. In cephalopod shells, a portion of a suture which forms an angle or curve whose convexity is directed toward the orifice of the shell; — opposed to lobe.

14. Phys.Geog. & Meteorol. A ridge connecting two higher elevations; a low point in the crest line of a ridge; a col.

15. Poultry. The rear part of the back of a male fowl extending to the tail. It is covered by long narrow feathers, the saddle feathers or saddle hackles, which resemble the true hackle. See POULTRY, Illust.

16. Shoemaking. A piece of leather covering the instep and generally extending from the forward part of the shank on one side across the front to a corresponding position on the other side of the shank.

17. Zool. a The clitellum of an earthworm. b = EPHIPPIUM b.

---

sac'ri·fi'er, n. [See SACRIFY.] A sacrificing priest. Obs.

sac'ri·fy (săk'rĭ·fī), v. i. & i. [OF. sacrifier, fr. L. sacrificare.] To sacrifice. Obs. [SACRILEGER.]

sac'ri·le'gist (săk'rĭ·lē'jĭst), n. = sac'ri·leg·y, n. Sacrilege. Obs.

sac'ri·lum'bal, sa'cri·lum·ba'lis. Vars. of SACROLUMBAL, SACROLUMBALIS. Rare.

sac'ro·sanc'ti·ous, adj. Sacrosanct. Obs.

sa'cro·sci·at'ic fo·ra'men (sā'krō-; săk'rō-). = SCIATIC FORAMEN.

sacrosciatic notch. = SCIATIC NOTCH.

sa'cry, n. = SACRING a. Obs.

Sad'ach·bi'a (sȧd'ȧk·bē'ȧ), n. [Ar. sa'd al-akhbiyah the good luck of the mansions.] See STAR, Table.

Sad'al·mel'ik (-ĭ·mĕl'ĭk), n. [Ar. sa'd al malik the good luck of the king.] See STAR, Table.

Sad'al·su·ud' (sȧd'ăl·sōō·ōōd'), n. [Ar. sa'd al-su'ud the good luck of good luck.] See STAR, Table.

Sad'a·mi'a (sȧd'ȧ·mĭ'ȧ). Bib.

Sad'al·ud'a (-ăl·ōō'ȧ). Bib.

sad'ar a·da'lat, sad'ar ni za'mat (sŭd'ăr). Vars. of SADR ADALAT, etc.

Sa'das (sä'dăs). Bib. [SEDD.]

sadd (săd), n. [Ar.] Var. of sad'den·ing·ly, adv. of saddening, pres. part.

Sad·de'us (sȧ·dē'ŭs). Bib.

sad'dhu. Var. of SADHU, Hindu ascetic. India.

sad'dir·ham' (sȧd'dĭr·hăm'), n. sing. & pl. [Per. sad a hundred + Ar. dirham. See DIRHEM.] See WEIGHT, Table.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

saddle band	saddle house	saddle rack saddle-billed	saddle hub	saddle room saddle carpenter	saddle iron	saddle rug saddle case	saddle lap	saddle seamer saddle chimes	saddle lashing	saddlesick saddle crutch	saddle leather	saddlesore saddle currier	saddle maker	saddlesoreness saddle cutter	saddle-making, adj.	saddle spot saddle-fast	saddle making	saddle-spotted saddle fitter	saddle mat	saddle spring saddle flap	saddle nail	saddle staple saddle gall	saddle ox	saddle stirrup saddle-galled	saddle pad	saddle stitcher saddle-girt	saddle pin	saddle strap saddle girth	saddle pistol	saddle trunk saddle glacier	saddle plate	saddle-wired saddle hand	saddle pocket	saddle wiring saddle hip	saddle pommel	saddle withers saddle horn	saddle press	saddle worker

— in the saddle. In a position to dictate or command; in control; also, in readiness.

-sad'dle (-săd''l). A combining form of the noun saddle, as in pack*saddle*, side*saddle*.

sad'dle (săd''l), v.; SAD'DLED (-ld); SAD'DLING (-lĭng). [AS. sadelian.] Transitive: 1. To put a saddle upon; — sometimes with up.

Abraham rose up early, . . . and saddled his ass. Gen. xxii. 3.

2. To ride astride of (as a horse); to ride; hence, to place or fix in a straddling position; to straddle.

Barn swallows which . . . saddled their nest in the loop of a rope. Burroughs.

3. To fix as a charge or burden upon; to load; encumber; as, to saddle one with debts; to saddle a gift with conditions.

4. To place or fix the burden of or responsibility for; — with upon; as, to saddle one's debts upon another; to saddle a robbery upon an innocent person.

5. To put in place, support, join, shape, or the like, by means of a saddle (see specific senses) or in a manner suggesting a saddle.

6. To control. Lowell.

—, Intransitive: 1. To break a horse to the saddle. Rare.

2. To mount a saddled horse.

sad'dle, adj. 1. Ridden with a saddle; as, a saddle horse or pony.

2. Saddle-shaped; as, a saddle flange or key.

3. a Saddled; traveling on horseback; as, a saddle preacher. b Attached to or carried on a saddle; as, a saddle holster, pistol.

sad'dle-back' (săd''l-băk'), n. 1. Anything that is saddle-backed; esp., a hill or ridge having a concave outline at the top.

2. An animal having a marking on the back suggesting a saddle; as: a The male harp seal. b The black-backed gull. c The hooded crow. d A passerine bird (Creadion carunculatus) native to New Zealand, resembling the starling. The adult has black plumage with a chestnut-colored band on the back and wings.

3. A saddle-backed horse.

4. A wrapping paper 45 inches by 36, used esp. for packing cotton goods in the mills.

5. The saddleback caterpillar.

6. = SADDLE OYSTER.

7. A saddle roof; also, a coping with a slope on the two sides.

8. Agric. Mach. A potato ridge harrow, comprising teeth set in four parallel arched transverse steel bars, used for cultivating and weeding. Eng.

9. Mining. Two supporting members (usually of timber) placed in the form of an inverted V; as, saddleback stulls.

sad'dle-back', adj. Resembling or suggesting in shape, marking, etc., a saddle or the seat of a saddle; saddle-backed.

saddleback caterpillar. The larva of a moth (Sabine stimulea), of the family Cochlidiidae, which has a bright-green, saddle-shaped patch on the back.

Saddleback Caterpillar. a Larva; b Imago.

sad'dle-backed' (săd''l-băkt'), adj. 1. Having the outline of the upper part, back, or the like, concave like the seat of a saddle.

2. Having a low back and high neck, as a horse.

3. Having a saddlelike marking. See SADDLEBACK, n., 2.

saddleback roof. Arch. = SADDLE ROOF.

saddleback stitch. Bookbinding. See 2d STITCH, 8.

sad'dle-bag' (săd''l-băg'), n. 1. A large bag or pouch of leather or, in the Orient, of a textile fabric, carried hanging from one side of a saddle. It is commonly one of a pair, which are often united by a band or strap and so hung that the weight is evenly distributed. The front of an Oriental saddlebag is hand-knotted like a rug, the back tapestry-woven. They always come in pairs, the size for donkey, mule, and horse being about 1½ ft. square, that for the camel (used mainly in Turkestan) about 2 ft. by 4 ft.

2. A kind of cloth used for furniture covering, made in imitation of Persian saddlebags.

3. A kind of double shack or cabin, the units being separated by several feet but covered by one roof.

Saddle-billed Stork.

sad'dle-bag', v. i. Logging. To catch on an obstruction and swing around it, as applied to a log boom. U.S.

saddle bar. 1. Saddlery. A side bar of a saddletree, connecting the pommel and cantle on either side.

2. Arch. One of the slender iron bars to which the lead panels of a glazed window are secured.

sad'dle-billed' stork. A large black-and-white West African stork (Ephippiorhynchus senegalensis) allied to the wood ibis Mycteria americana. The bill is red with a black median band. Cf. JABIRU b.

saddle blanket. A blanket folded beneath a saddle to prevent galling the horse.

saddle boiler. A boiler with an arched base serving as a flue.

sad'dle-bow' (săd''l-bō'), n. [ME. sadelbowe, fr. AS. sadulboga; akin to G. sattelbogen, OHG. satilpogo.] The bow or arch in the front, or the pieces forming the front, of a saddle.

saddle bracket. = SADDLE, n., 3 d. sad'dle-check' chair. A wing chair; — an 18th-century name.

saddle clip. = SPRING CLIP a.

sad'dle-cloth' (săd''l-klŏth'; 185), n. A cloth under a saddle, and extending out behind; a housing.

sad'dled (săd''ld), past tense & past part. of SADDLE. Specif.: adj. Zool. = SADDLE-BACKED, 3.

saddle feathers. Poultry. See SADDLE, n., 15.

saddle flange. A pipe flange curved to fit snugly against a cylindrical pipe, etc.

saddle fungus. A fungus of the genus Helvella; — so called from the saddle-shaped fruiting body.

sad'dle-graft', v. t. Hort. To perform saddle grafting on (a tree, branch, etc.)

saddle grafting. Also saddle graftage. Hort. A mode of grafting in which a deep cleft is made in the end of the cion and the end of the stock is made wedge-shaped to fit the cleft in the cion, which is placed upon it saddlewise. See GRAFTAGE, Illust.

saddle gun. A light hand-operated dusting machine designed to be carried on the back of a mule or horse.

saddle hackle. Poultry. See SADDLE, n., 15.

saddle horse. A horse of any of various mixed breeds, esp. suited for riding because of its strong back, and typically having a well-rounded body with long sloping pasterns and shoulders, a stylish carriage, and several gaits, commonly the walk, trot, and canter.

saddle joint. 1. In sheet-metal roofing, a joint formed by bending up the edge of a sheet and folding it downward over the turned-up edge of the next sheet.

Saddle Joint, 1.

2. In a weathered course of masonry, as a coping or sill, a joint between adjoining stones whose ends are cut higher than the surface of the weathering between.

3. Anat. A joint with saddle-shaped articular surfaces (convex in one direction and concave in another), permitting movements in all directions except axial rotation, as the carpometacarpal joint of the thumb.

saddle key. See 2d KEY, 21 a.

sad'dle-leaf' (săd'l-lēf'), n. The tulip tree Liriodendron tulipifera. U.S.

sad'dle-less (-lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Without a saddle, as a horse; also, Obs., unhorsed, as a rider.

sad'dle-like' (-līk'), adj. Resembling or suggesting a saddle, as in shape. See -LIKE.

sad'dle-nose' (-nōz'), n. Med. A nose marked by depression of the bridge, resulting from any injury or pathological process causing destruction of the septum, as congenital syphilis, abscess, fracture, etc. — sad'dle-nosed' (-nōzd'), adj.

saddle oyster. A marine bivalve (Placuna sella) of the Indian and Pacific oceans, related to the Anomiidae, and having a broad arch like a saddle. Cf. SADDLE SHELL.

saddle pile. A sheet pile driven into the ground in the ordinary way and made concave on the top edge to support a sewer pipe or the like in soft ground. — saddle piling.

saddle plant. The pitcher plant Sarracenia purpurea.

sad'dler (săd'lĕr), n. 1. One who makes, repairs, or sells saddles and other horse furniture.

2. A saddle horse.

3. The male harp seal.

saddle reef. A lobe composed of a nearly vertical succession of saddles, or, less commonly, of a single saddle.

saddle rock. Any large prime oyster; — from a rock so called, it is said, in Little Neck Bay, Long Island. Local, U.S.

saddle roof. Arch. A roof having two gables and one ridge; — said of such a roof when used in places where a different form is more common.

sad'dler's awl (săd'lĕrz). See AWL.

saddlers' seam. A seam for sewing leather, esp. gloves, made by pricking a stitch on the right side of the leather.

sad'dler-y (săd'lĕr-ĭ), n.; pl. SADDLERIES (-ĭz). 1. The trade or employment of a saddler.

2. Saddles, harness, and other articles, collectively.

3. A saddler's shop or storehouse.

saddle seam. Shoemaking, etc. A seam formed by stitching through and through, the pieces first being laid so that the edges are even and then pressed flat.

saddle seat. A thick wooden seat shaped like a saddle, esp. as used in a Windsor chair.

sad'dle-shaped' (săd''l-shāpt'), adj. Shaped like a saddle. Specif.: a Bot. Bent down at the sides so as to give the upper part a rounded form. b Phys. Geog. In the form of an anticlinal fold. Cf. SADDLE, n., 14.

saddle shell. A thin plicate bivalve shell of Anomia or an allied genus; — so called from its shape.

saddle skirt. The part of a saddle extending down on the flank of a horse, — usually in pl.

saddle stitch. Bookbinding. See 2d STITCH, 8.

saddle stone. Masonry. Capstone of the coping of a gable.

saddle tank. A water tank straddling a locomotive boiler.

sad'dle-tree' (săd''l-trē'), n. 1. The frame of a saddle.

2. The tulip tree Liriodendron tulipifera. U.S.

saddle wire stitch. Bookbinding. See 2d STITCH, 8.

Sad'du-ca'ic (săd'ū-kā'ĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to, or characteristic of, the Sadducees; as, Sadducaic reasonings.

Sad'du-cee (săd'ū-sē), n. [LL. Sadducaei, pl., fr. Gr. Saddoukaioi, fr. Heb. Tsadduūqīm, prob. so called after Zadok (Heb. Tsādhōq, Gr. Saddouk; cf. Ezekiel, xl. 46, etc.).] 1. One of a party or sect among the Jews (2d century B.C. to latter part of 1st century A.D.), composed largely of the priestly aristocracy and politically and doctrinally opposed to the Pharisees. They rejected the traditions of the elders, regarding as obligatory only those observances enjoined in the written law. They denied the resurrection, personal immortality, retribution in a future life, fate, the existence of angels, spirits, and demons, and postulated the freedom of the will.

2. [sometimes not cap.] One whose beliefs or views resemble those of the Sadducees; esp., one who denies immortality and tends to materialism or religious indifferentism. — Sad'du-ce'an (-sē'ăn), adj. & n.

Sad'du-cee-ism (săd'ū-sē-ĭz'm), n. Also Sad'du-cism (săd'ū-sĭz'm). The tenets, disposition, or point of view of the Sadducees.

Sad'du-cee'ist (-sē'ĭst), n. = SADDUCEE, 2.

Sad'du-cize (săd'ū-sīz), v. i.; -CIZED (-sīzd); -CIZ'ING (-sīz'ĭng). To adopt the principles of the Sadducees.

sade (sād), v. i. [AS. sadian; akin to E. SAD.] To satiate; weary. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. — v. t. To become or be satiated. Obs. exc. Dial.

sa-de' (sä-dā'). Var. of SADHE.

sadh (sädh), n. A sadhu.

sa-dhe' (sä-dā'), n. [Heb. tsādē.] The eighteenth letter (צ, ץ) of the Hebrew alphabet, representing a strong sibilant, like ss, but pronounced by many as tsa. As a numeral, = 90. See ALPHABET, Table, page 75.

sa'dhu (sä'dōō), n. [Skr. sādhu.] A Hindu ascetic or holy man.

sad'ic (săd'ĭk), adj. Sadistic; perversely cruel.

Sa'die (sā'dĭ), n. Dim. of SARAH; — used as fem. proper name.

sad'i'ron (săd'ĭ'ẽrn), n. [sad heavy + iron.] An iron for smoothing clothes; a flatiron.

sad'ism (săd'ĭz'm; sā'dĭz'm; säd'ĭz'm), n. [F. sadisme; — after Count de Sade (1740–1814), who depicted the perversion.] a A sexual perversion in which gratification is obtained by torturing the loved person. b Love of cruelty conceived as a manifestation of sexual desire. — sad'ist (-ĭst), n. & adj. — sa-dis'tic (sä-dĭs'tĭk; sā-), adj. — sa-dis'ti-cal-ly (-tĭ-kăl-ĭ), adv.

Sa'dite (sā'dīt), n. Moham. Relig. One of an order of dervishes (the Sa'di dervishes), whose chief used to ride over the prostrate bodies of his followers without injuring them. See 1st DOSA.

sad'ly (săd'lĭ), adv. 1. In a sad manner or way. 2. Obs. a Heavily; forcibly. b Closely; firmly; securely; fast. c With fixed determination; resolutely. d Soberly; gravely; seriously; in earnest. e With little noise or motion; quietly. f Steadfastly; constantly. g In dull or somber color; as, sadly dressed.

3. With sorrow or so as to cause sorrow; as: a Grievously; sorrowfully; as, sadly sighing. b Wretchedly; miserably. c Badly; deplorably; as, sadly deficient in humor.

4. In poor health. Chiefly Dial.

sad'ness (săd'nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. 1. The state, quality, or fact of being sad; specif.: a Obs. Solidity; stability; seriousness; steadfastness in faith. b Sorrowfulness; unhappiness; gloominess.

'T is all blank sadness, or continual tears. Pope.

2. An instance, as a mood or an appearance, of being sad; something sorrowful, gloomy, or depressing.

She talked about death as she spoke . . . of any of the sadnesses of nature. W. Cather.

Syn. — Sorrow, dejection. See MELANCHOLY.

sa-do' (sä-dō'), sa-doo', n. [Corrupt. of F. dos-à-dos.] A carriage like the dos-à-dos. Java.

sadr (săd''r), n. [Per. sadar, fr. Ar. sidr.] The lotus tree Zizyphus lotus.

Sadr, n. [Ar. ṣadr al-dajājah the breast of the hen.] See STAR, Table.

sadr (sŭd''r). Var. of SUDDER.

sad tree. The hursinghar.

sae (sā). Dial. var. of SEA, SO.

sae'beins' (sā'bĭnz'), conj. [For so being.] So being. Scot.

saec'u-lum, sec'u-lum (sĕk'ū-lŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-lä). [L.] Literally, a generation; hence, a period of long duration; an age, as an astronomical or geological age.

Saei'ma (sā'mä), n. [Lett.] The parliament of Latvia, composed of 100 members elected for three years by universal suffrage. It elects the president.

‖Saeng'er (zĕng'ẽr), n. [G. sänger.] See MEISTERSINGER.

‖Saeng'er-bund' (zĕng'ẽr-bŏŏnt'), n.; pl. -BÜNDE (-bün'dĕ). [G. sängerbund.] Music. A singers' union; an association of singers or singing clubs, esp. German.

‖Saeng'er-fest' (zĕng'ẽr-fĕst'), n.; pl. -FESTE (-fĕs'tĕ). [G. sängerfest.] A German singing festival.

saer (sār), n. [MIr. sāer, sōer, free.] Early Irish Law. A tenant (ceile) entitled to hire stock animals from the flaith, under legal provisions, without surety other than his promise, and without impairing his status in the community, in return for rent and certain services to the clan. Cf. DAER.

saer (sār). Scot. var. of SORE.

saer'na-ite (sär'nä-īt), n. [From Särna, Dalarne (Dalecarlia), Sweden.] Petrog. A cancrinite-aegirite-syenite.

sae'ter (sē'tĕr), n. [Nor. sæter, ON. sætr, setr.] A meadow or mountain pasture. Shet. & Ork.

S.A.E. thread. Mach. A series of screw threads standardized by the Society of Automotive Engineers and now superseded by the American National screw thread. See SCREW THREAD, Table.

Sa-far' (sä-fär'), n. [Ar. Ṣafar.] See MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR.

sa-fa'ri (sä-fä'rĭ), n. [Ar., referring to a journey, traveling.] A journey or expedition; also, a caravan of an expedition (of any kind), with carriers, camels, carts, automobiles, etc.; esp., a hunting expedition or its caravan. E. Africa.

sa-fa'ri, v. i. To journey in a safari.

safari ant. Any foraging ant. Africa.

Sa-fa'wid, Sa-fa'vid (sä-fä'wĕd), n. Also Sa-fa'vi (-wē). [Ar. Safawi descended from Ṣafī-al-Dīn, a Persian saint of Arab lineage.] A Persian dynasty (1502–1736). See SOPHY. — Sa-fa'wid, adj.

safe (sāf), adj.; SAF'ER (sāf'ẽr); SAF'EST (sāf'ĕst; -ĭst; 119). [ME. sauf, fr. OF. sauf, fr. L. salvus safe, well, sound; akin to L. salus health, safety, salubris wholesome, sollus whole, entire, solidus solid, Gr. holos whole, Skr. sarva entire, unharmed. Cf. CATHOLIC, SAGE a plant, SALUBRIOUS, SALUTARY, SALUTE, SALVATION, SALVO, SAVE, SOLID, SOLEMN, SOLICIT.] 1. Freed from harm, injury, or risk; untouched or no longer threatened by danger or injury; unharmed; unhurt; as, to arrive safe and sound; safe from disease, storms, foes.

2. Obs. a Restored to health; well. b Saved from sin. c Morally sound; sane. d Keeping safe; saving. Cf. SAVE, prep.

3. Secure from threat of danger, harm, or loss.

Established in a safe, unenvied throne. Milton.

4. Affording or conferring safety; securing from harm; not exposing to danger; as, a safe harbor; a safe bridge.

5. Without risk of mishap, error, or failure; as, a safe policy; it is safe to conclude.

6. To be relied upon; trustworthy; cautious; as, a safe guide. "The man of safe discretion." Shak.

7. Made incapable of doing harm; no longer dangerous; in secure care or custody; as, the prisoner is safe.

Syn. — SAFE, SECURE. In earlier usage, secure had the sense of "free from anxiety," and was often contrasted with safe; as, "From being anxious or secure . . . deliver us" (Donne); "Man may securely sin, but safely never" (B. Jonson). In present usage, secure and safe are often interchangeable. But SECURE commonly applies to that about which one need feel no anxiety, while SAFE suggests rather objective freedom from danger; as, "Serene and inaccessibly secure, [he] stood on an isolated pinnacle" (Shelley); "Let the great world rage! We will stay here safe in the quiet dwellings" (id.). Safe only is used of that which has escaped danger; as, they came safe to land.

Ant. — Insecure, hazardous, perilous.

— safe'ly, adv. — safe'ness, n.

safe (sāf), n. 1. A place or receptacle specially designed sad'dle-stead, n. See -STEAD. sad'dle-wise', adv. See -WISE. sad'dling, pres. part. of SADDLE.

---

Sad'duc (săd'ŭk). Bib.
Sad'du-cae'an. Var. of SADDUCEE. sad'end. Saddened. Ref. Sp.

sad'l, sad'ld. Saddle, saddled. Ref. Sp. sa'doc (sä'dŏk). Bib.

sad'o-mas'och-ism (săd'ō-măz'ŏk-ĭz'm; sā'dō-; säd'ō-), n. See SADISM; MASOCHISM.] = ALGOLAGNIA.

sa'do-wa (sä'dō-wĕ), n. See BATTLE, Table. saec'u-lar. Var. of SECULAR.

saex. † SAX, a knife.
saf. Var. of SAFE, adj.; SAVE. Obs. exc. Dial.

āle, chāotic, cāre, ădd, ăccount, ärm, ask, sofā; ēve, hēre (116), ĕvent, ĕnd, silĕnt, makēr; īce, ĭll, charity; ōld, ōbey, ôrb, ŏdd, sôft, cŏnnect; fōod, fo͝ot; for keeping articles safe; as: a A ventilated or refrigerated chest or closet for securing provisions from noxious insects, etc., and from the effects of the weather. b A box or chest, now universally made of metal and sometimes built into a wall or vault, for containing money or other valuables. Modern safes are designed to be proof against fire and burglars. c A box or holder to keep anything from undesirable contact with other things; as, a match safe.

‖ Foreign Word. † Obsolete Variant of. + combined with. = equals. Abbreviations, Signs, etc., are explained on pages immediately preceding the Vocabulary.

2. A piece of leather, etc., under a buckle to prevent chafing, as in harness.
3. A safe edge of a file or rasp.
4. Plumbing. A tray under a bath, roof tank, etc., to catch drippings or overflow.

☞ PHRASES are:

safe builder	safe lifter	safemaking safe finisher	safe lock	safe painter safe fitter	safemaker	safe stuffer safe (sāf), adv. Safely; securely; — in combination, as in:

safe-bestowed	safe-hidden	safe-moored safe-borne	safe-marching	safe-sequestered safe (sāf). Var. of SAVE. Obs. exc. Scot. safe (sāf), v. t. To make safe or right; to conduct to safety. Obs. safe'blow'ing (sāf'blō'ĭng), n. The action of using explosives to open a safe to be burglarized. — safe'blow'er (-ĕr), n. safe'break'er (-brāk'ĕr), n. One who breaks open safes to steal. — safe'break'ing, n.

safe'–con·duct (-kŏn'dŭkt), n. [OF. sauf-conduit. See SAFE; 1st CONDUCT.] That which assures a safe passage; as: a Protection furnished by means of a convoy or guard to a person in an enemy's country or a foreign country. b A writing, pass, or warrant of security, given by one in authority to a person to enable him to travel with safety, esp. in an enemy's country.
safe'–con·duct' (sāf'kŏn·dŭkt'; -kŏn'dŭkt), v. t. To conduct safely; to give safe-conduct to.
safe'crack'ing (sāf'krăk'ĭng), n. Safeblowing. — safe'–crack'er (-ĕr), n.
safe deposit. A place to store valuables in safety. — safe'–de·pos'it, adj. safe'–de·pos'it com'pa·ny. A form of warehouse company formed to receive as bailee valuables for safekeeping and to rent receptacles, as vaults or safes, for the purpose of such storage. Hence, safe'–de·pos'it box, vault, etc.
safe edge. a A smooth uncut edge of a file or rasp. b Photog. A narrow strip of nonactinic paper round a negative on the glass side, used in carbon printing. — safe'–edge', adj.
safe'guard' (sāf'gärd'), n. [OF. sauvegarde, prop., a safe-keeping. See GUARD, n.; cf. SAGGER.] 1. Defense; protection; safety; safe-conduct. Archaic.
2. A means of defense or protection; a guard.

Thy sword, the safeguard of thy brother's throne. Granville.

Specif.: a A convoy, guard, or escort, to protect a traveler or property. b A pass; a passport; a safe-conduct. Shak. c A technical contrivance or device to prevent accident.
3. A means of preventing some undesirable outcome or tendency. "A safeguard for public liberty." Macaulay.
4. A protective petticoat worn outside a riding habit. Obs.
safe'guard' (sāf'gärd'), v. t. To guard; to protect; to provide a safeguard for. — v. i. To serve as a protection; esp., to protect industry by tariff. — safe'guard'er (-gär'dĕr), n. safe'guard'ing du'ty. A protective duty on certain goods, usually preferential in favor of the British dominions. Eng.
safe hit. Baseball. A hit enabling the batter to reach first base without the aid of an error.
safe'hold' (sāf'hōld'), n. A refuge, esp. from attack.
safe'keep'ing (sāf'kēp'ĭng), n. Act of keeping or preserving in safety from injury, loss, or escape; care; custody; protection. — safe'keep'er (-ĕr), n. safe'light' (sāf'līt'), n. Photog. 1. A color filter, commonly a sheet of glass or of colored gelatin protected by glass plates, transmitting light, in which a sensitive paper, plate, or film may be manipulated and developed without danger of fogging.
2. A darkroom lamp with its filter. safe'–pledge', n. Law. A surety for the appearance of a person at a given time. Obs.
safe'ty (sāf'tĭ), n. [OF. sauveté, fr. ML. salvitas, -atis, fr. L. salvus safe. See SAFE.] 1. Condition or state of being safe; freedom from danger or hazard; exemption from hurt, injury, or loss; as, a committee of safety.
2. Obs. a Redemption; salvation. b Custody. c A means of protection; a safeguard. d Act of saving; deliverance.
3. Quality or state of being devoid of whatever exposes one to danger or harm; safeness; hence, the quality of giving confidence, justifying trust, etc.; dependableness.
4. Short for SAFETY BELT, SAFETY BOLT, SAFETY GEAR, SAFETY BICYCLE, etc. Colloq.
5. Preservation from escape; close custody. Rare.

Deliver him to safety; and return. Shak.

6. A keeping of oneself or others safe, esp. from danger of accident or disease; as, safety education.
7. A device, as on a firearm, to prevent accidental discharge; also, condition of a firearm when the safety is in action; as, to carry a piece at safety.
8. Amer. Football. Any act resulting in the ball's being declared dead on, above, or behind the goal line, in the possession of a player guarding his own goal, provided the impetus which sent the ball to or across the line was given by the side defending the goal; also, a score (2 points) so made. Cf. TOUCHBACK.
9. Baseball. A safe hit.
10. Billiards & Pool. A shot made to leave the balls in an unfavorable position for the opponent.
11. Polo. Act of hitting the ball across the back line by one of the defending side.

Syn. — Security, assurance. Ant. — See DANGER.

safe'ty (sāf'tĭ), adj. 1. Designed or adapted to ensure safety; as, a safety lamp or trigger.
2. Of or pertaining to safeguarding the public, a factory's employees, or the like, esp. from accident; as, safety measures; safety engineers.
safety arch. An undecorated arch used for purely constructional reasons; esp., a discharging arch. safety belt. = LIFE BELT. safety bicycle. A bicycle with equal or nearly equal wheels, usually 28 inches in diameter, driven by pedals connected to the rear (driving) wheel by a multiplying gear. safety bolt. A bolt to fasten a door, gate, etc.; esp., a bolt of a kind that cannot be moved from the other side of the door or gate. safety buoy. = LIFE BELT. safety cage. Mach. A cage for an elevator or mine lift, having appliances to check the fall if the rope breaks. safety catch. In elevators and hoisting appliances, a device to ensure safety from falling in case the mechanism fails to operate properly.
safety chain. a Railroads. A normally slack chain for preventing excessive movement between a truck and a car body in sluing. b An auxiliary watch chain, secured to the clothes, usually out of sight, to prevent stealing of the watch. c A chain of sheet metal links with an elongated hole through each broad end, made up by doubling the first link on itself, slipping the next link through and doubling, and so on.

Safety Chain c.

safety clause. Life Insurance. The clause inserted in the policy of a stipulated-premium association, providing for additional assessments or reduction in amount of policy values when the collections fail to meet the losses.
safety curtain. Theater. An asbestos curtain to be lowered in case of fire. safety disk. Steam Boilers. A thin copper disk over the boiler end of an escape pipe, designed to break and thus permit escape of steam under excessive pressure. safety dog. Mach. See DOG, n., 12 d. safety edge. A safe edge of a file or rasp. safety explosive. See EXPLOSIVE, n., 1. safety factor. = FACTOR OF SAFETY.
safe'ty–fund' sys'tem. Banking. A system under which banks are required by law to have or provide a fund as a pledge for the redemption of their circulation, as where a common fund is provided for by a small tax, as under the law adopted for State banks in the State of New York in 1829 and maintained, with amendments, till 1866. safety funnel tube. See FUNNEL TUBE. safety fuse. a = BICKFORD FUSE. b A fuse consisting of a cotton or hemp tube holding a slow-burning composition. c Elec. See 1st FUSE, 2. safety glass. Glass Mfg. a A plate consisting of two sheets of glass with an adhering transparent medium pressed between them. The plate is transparent, and resists shattering. It is used in automobile windshields, etc. b Wired glass. safety hanger. Railroads. A strap or loop under a car, etc., to stop broken rods, etc., from falling on the track. safety hoist. A hoisting gear which does not overhaul when the tension is released on the fall, or one provided with a special attachment to prevent overhauling.
safety island or isle. A narrow platform, usually of concrete, raised above the level of the roadway, or a space marked out by painted lines or movable iron standards, located near the center of a street where traffic is heavy, as a protection for pedestrians and as a help in controlling traffic. safety lamp. A miner's lamp constructed with a view to avoiding explosion in an atmosphere containing inflammable gas. In the common form, of which the original Davy lamp, invented by Sir Humphry Davy (in 1815), is an example, the flame is enclosed by fine wire gauze, which, owing to its cooling effect, prevents the flame from passing. Firedamp, if present in quantity, enters and burns, forming a bluish "cap" over the lamp flame, whence safety lamps are used in testing for this gas.

One type of Safety Lamp. a Glass Cylinder; b, b, b Cylinders of Wire Gauze, protected by a Bonnet of Sheet Iron (c). The Arrows show directions of Air Currents.

safety lift. = SAFETY HOIST. safety link. 1. Railroads. A device used for the same purpose as a safety chain.
2. A link in a safety chain. safety lock. 1. A lock specially devised to prevent picking.
2. Firearms. That part of the breech mechanism of a small arm which, when in action, locks the firing parts and prevents discharge until turned.
safety match. A match which can be ignited only on a surface specially prepared. See 1st MATCH, 4 b. safety nut. A lock nut. safety paper. A paper difficult to duplicate (as the silk-fibered paper of the United States currency or the water-marked paper of Bank of England notes) or so made that erasures, changes, etc., in matter written or printed on it are easy to detect. safety pin. 1. A pin, used esp. for fastening clothes, made in the form of a clasp, with a guard covering its point so that it will not prick the wearer.
2. Horol. A pin in the lever of a lever escapement by means of which the pallets are prevented from leaving the escape wheel when the hands are turned back.
safety pinion. Horol. A center pinion which allows the barrel to recoil if the mainspring breaks. safety rail. A guardrail. safety razor. A razor provided with a guard or guards for the blade to prevent cutting the skin. See RAZOR, Illust. safety setscrew. See SETSCREW. safety stop. Any of various devices to stop an undesirable motion or action; as: a An attachment for an elevator to prevent accidental falling. b Firearms. The part of a safety lock that prevents discharge. c Mach. (1) A device to close the supply valve and so stop the engine in case of accident to the governor belt. (2) A contrivance to prevent a pulley tackle, etc., from overhauling. (3) A device in a lathe, etc., to prevent a carriage from colliding with the headstock. d Railroads. A track attachment interlocked with a signal so that when the latter indicates danger the attachment will trip a valve on a passing engine and so apply the brakes. e Spinning. A device in spinning machines, etc., to stop the motion when a yarn, thread, or the like, breaks. safety switch. See SWITCH, n., 5. safety switchboard. See SWITCHBOARD. safety tube. Chem. A tube to prevent explosion, or to control delivery of gases by an automatic valvular connection with the outer air; esp., a safety funnel tube. See FUNNEL TUBE. safety valve. 1. a An automatic escape or relief valve for a steam boiler, hydraulic system, or the like, held shut by an arrangement exerting a definite, usually adjustable, pressure so that the valve will lift and the steam, water, etc., escape when the pressure exceeds a predetermined amount; — sometimes called external safety valve. Safety valves may be divided into three principal classes: (1) The dead-weight safety valve, in which the pressure is caused by a weight acting directly on the valve. (2) The lever safety valve in which the pressure is applied by a lever, supporting a heavy weight adjustable along its length. (3) The spring safety valve, in which the pressure is communicated by a spring. Varieties of this last type are: the pop safety valve (so called from the popping noise with which it opens), so constructed that when the valve lifts a little, a larger area is exposed to the steam or other pressure than when the valve is shut, so that it keeps open until the pressure falls considerably; and the Ramsbottom safety valve, used esp. on locomotives, in which two valves are pressed down by a single spring attached to a crosspiece prolonged to form a hand lever by which the valves may be eased up to test their adjustment. A safety valve devised so that no extra pressure can be put on it by the man in charge is called a lockup safety valve. b Sometimes, a similar valve opening inward to admit air to a vessel in which the pressure is less than that of the atmosphere, to prevent collapse; — called also internal safety valve.

A Lever Safety Valve. a Perspective View; b Sectional Detail showing Valve, Seat, Lever Fulcrum, etc. B Pop Safety Valve with Part cut away to show Interior. a Lever to test working of Valve.

2. Hence, something serving as an outlet or vent for pent-up or excessive energy, emotion, or the like. safety zone. A space in a highway, as a safety island, marked out for use of pedestrians exclusively.
Saf·fa'ri·an (săf·fā'rĭ·ăn), n. A Saffarid.
Saf·fa'rid (săf·fā'rĭd), n. [From the Ar. name of its founder, al-Ṣaffar (the coppersmith) Ya'qūb ibn-al-Layth.] One of a Mohammedan dynasty which established itself in eastern Persia in the 9th century.
saf'fi·an (săf'ĭ·ăn), n. [Russ. safeyan, fr. Rumanian saftian, through Turk. fr. Per. sakhtiyān goat's leather, fr. sakht hard. There has been frequent confusion with morocco leather and with the name Safi, Saffi, a Moroccan seaport.] A kind of leather made of goatskins or sheepskins tanned with sumac and dyed with bright colors.
saf·flor'ite (sȧ·flōr'īt; 181), n. [G. safflorit safflower, fr. saffior, fr. OF. safior. See SAFFLOWER.] Mineral. A cobalt arsenide, $CoAs_2$, like smaltite in composition, but orthorhombic. It occurs usually in masses of tin-white color. H., 4.5–5. Sp. gr., 6.9–7.3. saf'flow (săf'lou), n. The safflower. saf'flow'er (săf'lou'ĕr), n. [Earlier also safflore, saflor, fr. (perh. through D. safflorers) OF. saflor, safleur, fr. Olt. saffiore, zaffrole, prob. fr. Ar. aṣfar yellow, a yellow plant. European forms influenced by words for flower.] 1. An Old World thistlelike herb (Carthamus tinctorius), having large orange-colored flower heads.
2. a A dyestuff prepared from the flower heads of the above plant, and used (now rarely except in the Orient) for dyeing silk and cotton light red. Its valuable component is carthamin. b The color Carthamus red.
3. Pharm. A drug consisting of the dried florets of this plant. It is used in medicine like, or in place of, saffron.
safflower carmine. A commercial preparation of carthamin. safflower oil. See OIL, Table I. safflower red. = CARTHAMUS RED. saf'fron (săf'rŭn), formerly săf'ĕrn; cf. APRON, IRON), n. [ME. saffran, fr. OF. safran, fr. ML. safranum, ult. fr. Ar. za'farān.] 1. A species of crocus (Crocus sativus) with purple flowers, widely cultivated throughout southern Europe for the drug and dyestuff which it yields.
2. A deep orange-colored substance consisting of the aromatic, pungent, dried stigmas of this plant. It is used to color and flavor foods, and was formerly much used as a dyestuff, and as a stimulant antispasmodic emmenagogue in medicine.
3. The color saffron yellow.
4. Old Chem. A saffron-colored substance, as colcothar, used in alchemy.
5. Safflower (senses 1 & 3). It is used as an adulterant of saffron. Called also false saffron, bastard saffron, etc.
6. = SATINLEAF b, the saffrontree.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

saffron cake	saffron cordial	saffron-hued saffron-colored	saffron gatherer	saffron kiln saf'fron, adj. Of the color saffron yellow; also, figuratively, sensational. saf'fron, v. t. [Cf. F. safraner.] To color or flavor with saffron. saffron crocus. = SAFFRON, 1. saf'froned (săf'rŭnd), adj. Dyed or flavored with saffron; of a saffron color.

Saffron Hill. A district of London north of Holborn, formerly a haunt of ballad singers. saffron oil. a An essential oil obtained from the saffron plant. b Safflower oil. See OIL, Table I. saffron plum. = WILD SAFFRON. saffron thistle. The safflower.
saf'fron·wood' (săf'rŭn·wŏŏd'), n. The yellowish wood of a South African timber tree (Elaeodendron croceum); also, the tree. saf'fron·y (săf'rŭn·ĭ), adj. [Cf. F. safrané, past part.] Having the color of saffron; yellowish. saffron yellow. A color, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of high saturation and high brilliance; — called also crocus, saffron. Cf. COLOR.
Sa'fi (sä'fē), n. sing. & pl. One of a widely spread people in Afghanistan on the slopes of the Hindu Kush, speaking an Afghan dialect.
Sa'fine (sā'fīn; -fĭn), n. [From the Samnite name.] a See SAFINI. b Philol. The language of the Sabines, Samnites, and Oscans; the Oscan language. — Sa'fine, adj.
Sa·fi'ni (sȧ·fī'nī), n. pl. [L.] An ancient people in central Italy. Their language is called Sa'fine. Cf. SABINE. saf'ra·nin (săf'rȧ·nĭn), n. Chem. a Obs. Carthamin. b Safranine. saf'ra·nine (săf'rȧ·nēn; -nĭn), n. Also -nin. [See SAFFRON.] 1. Chem. Any of a class of synthetic dyes which are diamino derivatives of azonium bases. Cf. INDAMINE. Properly, the safranines are bases, but they are used in their safe'–edge' file. See 4th FILE, 1. saf'ft (sȧf'ĭ). Var. of SAPHIE. saf'fire. Sapphire. Ref. Sp. saf'flor, n. = SAFFLOWER. saf'flor, Var. of SAFFLOWER. saf'fio, n.; pl. -FI. [It. saffo, zaffo.] Bailiff. Obs. saf'fra·nine, saf'frole, etc. Vars. of SAFRANINE, SAFROLE, etc. saf'fron·tree', n. = SATINLEAF b. saf'fie (sȧf'ĭ). Var. of SAPHIE. safir. † SAPPHIRE.

---

salts. These are usually red, and in solution can be made to undergo various color changes depending on dissociation phenomena. Blue safranines are also known. The simplest member is phenosafranine, $C_{18}H_{14}N_4OH$, which is used as a desensitizer in photography. Tolusafranine, $C_{18}H_{11}(CH_3)_3N_4OH$, is made by oxidizing a mixture of aniline, orthotoluidine, and tolylenediamine.
2. Any of various mixtures of safranine salts, designated by such symbols as T, extra G, etc. Common safranine is a reddish-brown powder used (now less than formerly) in calico printing, in dyeing silk, paper, etc., and as a microscopic stain.

saf'ra·no·phile (săf'rȧ·nō·fīl; -fĭl), -phil (-fĭl), adj. [safranine + Gr. philos loving.] Physiol. Staining readily with safranine; — said of cells.

saf'ra·no pink (săf'rȧ·nō). [See SAFFRON.] A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

saf'role (săf'rōl), n. Also saf'rol (-rōl; -rŏl). [F. safran saffron + 2d -ol.] Chem. A poisonous, colorless oil, $C_{10}H_{10}O_2$, the chief constituent of oil of sassafras, occurring also in other plants, as the camphor tree; 1-allyl-3,4-methylene-dioxy-benzene. It is used for perfuming, and in preparing piperonal.

saft'ly (săft'lĭ; sȧft'-). Softly. Scot.

sag (săg), n. 1. Fact, state, instance, or degree of sagging.
2. Specif.: a A part or place that is sunken, as in a roadbed. b Drift, or tendency to drift, as of a vessel to leeward. c In a log boom, the curve in the line of chained logs caused by wind or current.
3. Aeronautics. A distortion of an airship in which the longitudinal axis becomes concave upward so that both ends rise.
4. Com. A temporary decline in prices, as of a particular commodity. Slang.

sag (săg), v.; SAGGED (săgd); SAG'GING (săg'ĭng). [Late ME. saggen, prob. of LG. or Scand. origin; cf. MLG. sacken, D. zakken, Sw. sacka, Nor. dial. sakka, sagga.] Intransitive: 1. To droop, sink, or settle below a level, a straight line, or an established or normal position, through being pressed down, losing tautness, becoming warped or decayed, or the like; esp., to bend down at the middle; as, a cable, a clotheline, or a chin that sags; a door sagging from its hinges.
2. To lose firmness, resiliency, vigor, or the like; to droop or weaken, as the body; to yield under pressure, as the mind or spirits; to fall gradually, as prices.
3. To walk as if dragging oneself along; to proceed wearily.
4. To bulge; to become protuberant. Chiefly Dial.
5. To flow after application to a vertical or sloping surface, producing irregular films; — said of paint or the like.
6. Naut. To drift.
7. Shipbuilding. To sink in the middle. Cf. HOG.
—, Transitive: To cause to sag, esp. to bend down in the center.

sag to leeward. Naut. To make leeway.

sag (săg; săg), n. [Var. of SEG sedge.] Rush; reed; sedge; also, water flag. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

sag (săg). Var. of SAW, n. & v. Obs. exc. Dial.

sag. Obs. var. of SAW, a saying.

sa'ga (sä'gȧ; 277), n. [ON. See SAW a saying.] 1. A story, historical or legendary or both, of an Icelandic hero or heroes; specif., such a story committed to writing in the Middle Ages, typically in prose, highly conventional in form, and recounting in detail, with fictitious elaboration, a series of heroic adventures.
2. Hence: a A tale, often a poetic narrative, having the real or fancied characteristics of an Icelandic saga; as, an American saga; old sagas of the seas. b Now Rare. A type of story centering about a character and made up of details drawn from various sources; as, the growth of the Arthurian saga. c A story of heroic deeds. d A detailed recital of events.
— Saga of Burnt Njal. = NJALS SAGA.

Sa'ga, n. a Norse Myth. A goddess described as drinking from golden beakers with Odin. See ASGARD. b [not cap.] A seeress; a witch.

sa'ga (sä'gȧ), n. sing. & pl. [Malay, prop., the seeds of Adenanthera pavonina.] See WEIGHT, Table.

sa·ga'ci·ate (sȧ·gā'shĭ·āt; -gāsh'ĭ-), v. i. [From SAGACIOUS.] To fare; thrive. Slang, Southern U. S.

sa·ga'cious (sȧ·gā'shŭs), adj. [L. sagax, sagacis; akin to L. sagire to perceive keenly. See PRESAGE.] 1. Quick or keen in sense perceptions, esp. in scenting, as a dog; acutely aware by scent; — often with of. "Sagacious of his quarry." Milton.
2. Having or indicating quick intellectual perceptions; of keen penetration and judgment; discerning and farsighted in judging men, motives, means to an end, etc.; shrewd; as, a sagacious man; a sagacious remark.
Syn. and Ant. — See SHREWD.
— sa·ga'cious·ly, adv. — sa·ga'cious·ness, n.

sa·gac'i·ty (sȧ·găs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. sagacité, fr. L. sagacitas. See SAGACIOUS.] 1. Quality of being sagacious; quickness or acuteness of sense perceptions; keenness of discernment or penetration with some degree of judgment; shrewdness; ability to see what is relevant and significant.

Some [brutes] show that nice sagacity of smell. Cowper.
Natural sagacity improved by generous education. V. Knox.

2. pl. Sagacious remarks, judgments, or the like.
Syn. — Penetration, discernment, judiciousness.
Ant. — Dullness, stupidity.

Sa·gai', n., or Sa·gai' Ta'tar (sä·gī'). One of a group of twelve or more small tribes on the Abakan River, including the Beltir and the Koibal, speaking a Turkic dialect.

sa·gaie' (sȧ·gā'; F. sȧ'gĕ'), n. [F., var. of zagaie, fr. Pg. (a)zagaia. See ASSAGAI.] 1. = ASSAGAI, n., 1.
2. Archaeol. A javelin point of bone, characteristic of the Magdalenian epoch but found sometimes in the Solutrean.

sa'ga·man' (sä'gȧ·mȧn'; sä'gȧ·mȧn), n. The narrator of a saga.

sa·ga'mi·té' (sȧ·gä'mē·tā'), n. [Can. F., of Algonquian origin; cf. Cree kisâgamitew hot liquid.] A kind of mush made of maize meal. U. S.

sag'a·more (săg'ȧ·mōr; 181), n. [See SACHEM.] Orig., among the Algonquian Indians of the North Atlantic coast, a lesser chief, or the chief of a tribe forming part of a confederation; — sometimes synonymous with sachem.

sag'a·pe'num (săg'ȧ·pē'nŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. sagapenon, sacopenium, fr. Gr. sagapēnon.] A bitter, yellowish or brownish gum resin, of strong odor, containing an essential oil, formerly used as a cure for hysteria. It is derived from a Persian plant, probably a species of Ferula, and like galbanum contains umbelliferone.

sag'a·thy (săg'ȧ·thĭ), n. [Cf. F. sagatie, Sp. sagati.] A light-weight say, or serge, probably mixed with silk; later, a similar cotton and silk fabric; — called also sayette.

sage (sāj), n. [ME. sauge, fr. OF. sauge, fr. L. salvia, fr. salvus well, in allusion to its reputed healing virtues. See SAEF.] 1. a A half-shrubby mint (Salvia officinalis) with grayish-green pungent and aromatic leaves, which are much used in flavoring meats, etc., and as a mild tonic and astringent. Also, any other species of Salvia, as the scarlet sage, wild sage, etc. See SALVIA. b The sagebrush; also, the sagebrush regions of the western United States; — chiefly in attributive use; as, sage dog; sage riders.
2. The color sage green.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

sage ale	sage-covered	sage oil
sage-colored	sage-leaved	sage wine

sage (sāj), adj.; SAG'ER (sāj'ẽr); SAG'EST (sāj'ĕst; -ĭst; 119). [OF., fr. L. sapiens and (or) sapidus, fr. sapere to have taste, to understand, to be wise; akin to L. sapor taste, savor, and OS. afsebbian to perceive, remark. Cf. INSIPID, INSIPIENT, SAP, n., SAPID, SAPIENCE, SAVANT, SAVOR.] 1. Eminent in wisdom, esp. wisdom gained through reflection and experience; prudent and philosophic in judgment, views, etc.

For I, who hold sage Homer's rule the best. Pope.

2. Proceeding from, or characterized by, wisdom, prudence, and good judgment; as, sage counsel; sage observations; sage saws.
3. Grave; sober; solemn. Now Rare.

And if aught else great bards beside
In sage and solemn tunes have sung,
Of tourneys, and of trophies hung. Milton.

4. Engaged in midwifery; — used with woman, dame, etc., as a translation of F. femme sage, a midwife.
Syn. — Sapient, discerning, judicious. See SHREWD.
Ant. — See INJUDICIOUS, SIMPLE, FOOLISH.
— sage'ly, adv. — sage'ness, n. — sage'ship, n.

sage (sāj), n. [OF.] One distinguished for wisdom, as a profound philosopher or eminently wise counselor; also, a mature or venerable man rich in experience and sound in judgment; as, the Seven Sages of Greece; the Sage of Concord.

sage (sāg; sȧg). Var. of SAW, n. & v. Obs. exc. Dial.

sage apple (sāj). A gall commonly formed on a European sage (Salvia pomifera) by a cynipoid gallfly (Cynips salviae). It is sometimes eaten as a fruit.

sage'brush' (sāj'brŭsh'), n. Any of several North American species of Artemisia, esp. A. tridentata, hoary undershrubs with a bitter juice and sagelike odor, often covering vast tracts on the western alkaline plains. The sagebrush has been adopted as the State flower of Nevada; see STATE FLOWER, Plate.

sage'brush'er (-brŭsh'ẽr), n. One who lives in a sagebrush region of the western United States.

sage brush green. A color, greenish-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Sagebrush State. Nevada; — a nickname.

sage cheese. A Cheddar cheese flavored with sage leaves, or colored green and flavored with sage extract.

sage, or sagebrush, chippy. Brewer's sparrow.

sage cock. The sage grouse; specif., the male sage grouse.

Sage Cock.

sage green. A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sage grouse. A very large grouse (Centrocercus urophasianus), with plumage of mottled gray, black, and buff, native of the dry sagebrush plains of western North America. Its flesh is often poor and bitter in consequence of its feeding on the buds of the sagebrush; nevertheless it has been exterminated in many parts of its habitat.

sage hare. A sage rabbit.

sage hen. a The sage grouse, or, specif., the female sage grouse. b [caps.] An inhabitant of Nevada; — a nickname.

sage mullein. Also sage'leaf' (sāj'lēf'), n., sage'-leaf' mul'lein. Bot. Any mint of the genus Phlomis, esp. the Jerusalem sage P. tuberosa.

sa·gene' (sȧ·jēn'), n. [L. sagena.] A seine; a network.

sa'gene (sä'zhĕn), n. [Russ. sazhen'.] See MEASURE, Table.

sag'e·nite (săj'ē·nīt), n. [F. sagénite, fr. L. sagena a large net. See SEINE.] Mineral. Acicular rutile occurring in reticulated forms, often embedded in quartz or other minerals.

sag'e·nit'ic (-nĭt'ĭk), adj. Mineral. Containing sagenite, or similar acicular crystals of other minerals, as of tourmaline or of actinolite; — said of quartz or other minerals.

sage of Bethlehem. a The spearmint (Mentha spicata). b = LUNGWORT, 2 a.

Sage of Chel'sea (chĕl'sē). Thomas Carlyle (1795–1881), who long lived in the borough of Chelsea, London.

Sage of Concord (kŏng'kẽrd). Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803–82), who lived in Concord, Mass.

Sage of Ferney. Voltaire. See FERNEY, SAGE OF.

Sage of Mon'ti·cel'lo (mŏn'tĭ·sĕl'ō). Thomas Jefferson; — so called from his country residence.

Sage of Sa'mos (sā'mŏs). See SAMIAN SAGE.

sage rabbit. Any of several rabbits (as Sylvilagus nuttalli) of western North America, varieties of, or related to, the cottontail of the east.

Sag'e·re'ti·a (săj'ē·rē'shĭ·ȧ; -tĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Augustin Sageret (1763–1852), French agronomist.] Bot. A genus of American and Asiatic shrubs (family Rhamnaceae) having opposite leaves and branches, the latter sometimes thorny, and small flowers with 5-hooded petals. The fruit of some species is edible and the leaves of S. theezans of China are used locally as a substitute for tea.

sage'rose' (sāj'rōz'), n. [sage the plant + rose.] a = ROCKROSE a. b The yellow alder.

sage sparrow. Any of several sparrows of the genus Amphispiza, inhabiting especially sagebrush regions in western North America, esp. A. belli and A. nevadensis.

sage tea. Med. A beverage prepared by infusion of sage leaves, used as a tonic.

sage thrasher. A thrasher (Oreoscoptes montanus) which inhabits sagebrush in western North America. It is pale grayish brown above and white spotted with brownish below.

sage tree. An Australian shrub (Psychotria daphnoides).

sage willow. a A low shrub (Salix tristis) of the eastern United States, growing in dry ground, and having linear-oblong leaves white-tomentose beneath. b The hoary willow. c The purple loosestrife.

sage wormwood. The mountain sage Artemisia frigida.

sag'ger (săg'ẽr), n. [E. dial. saggard a sagger, contr. fr. safeguard.] 1. Ceramics. a A box made of fire clay, in which delicate pieces are placed while being fired either for biscuit or for glaze. b The clay of which saggers are made.
2. Metal. A box in which cast-iron articles are packed in contact with hematite ore or smithy scales, to be rendered malleable by decarbonizing in the annealing furnace.

sag'ger, v. t. To treat, as stoneware, in a sagger.

sag'ging (săg'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SAG. Specif.: n. An arching downward in the middle, as of a ship after being strained. Cf. HOGGED, 1.

sag'gy (săg'ĭ), adj. Sagging. Chiefly Dial.

sag'gy, adj. = SEDGY, 2. Obs. exc. Dial.

sagh'a·vart' (săg'ȧ·värt'), n. [Armen. saghavard.] Armenian Ch. A priest's crownlike liturgical headdress.

Sa·gi'na (sȧ·jī'nȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. sagina fatness; from its supposed nutritive value.] Bot. A genus of small herbs, the pearlweeds (family Alsinaceae), natives of temperate and cool regions. They have subulate leaves and small whitish, sometimes apetalous, flowers; the styles are equal in number to the sepals (four or five) and alternate with them. The alpine S. glabra is ornamental in cultivation.

sag'i·nate (săj'ĭ·nāt), v. t. [L. saginare.] To fatten; pamper. — sag'i·na'tion (-nā'shŭn), n. Both Now Rare.

sa'ging (sā'gĕng), n. [Tag. saging, saguing.] An important Philippine tree or shrub (Aegiceras corniculatum), family Myrsinaceae, common in mangrove swamps, and a leading source of firewood at Manila.

sa·git'ta (sȧ·jĭt'ȧ), n.; pl. -TAE (-ē). [L.] 1. [cap.; gen. SAGITTAE (-ē).] Astron. A small northern constellation, north of Aquila; the Arrow.
2. The central line in the Greek letter epsilon (ε).
3. Arch. The keystone of an arch. Rare. Gwilt.
4. Zool. The larger of the two large otoliths found in the ear of most fishes.
5. Zool. a [cap.] The chief genus of Chaetognatha, including the largest and several common species of arrow-worms. b [not cap.; pl. -TAS (-ȧz), -TAE (-ē).] An animal of this genus.

Sagitta (S. elegans) seen from above. a Head and Cephalic Setae; b, c Lateral Fins; d Caudal Fins; e Ovaries.

sag'it·tal (săj'ĭ·tȧl; -t'l), adj. [NL. sagittalis. See SAGITTA.] 1. Of or pertaining to an arrow; resembling an arrow or arrowhead; furnished with an arrowlike appendage.
2. Anat. & Zool. a Designating, or pertaining to, the suture between the parietal bones of the skull. Hence: b Designating, situated in, or pertaining to, the median plane of the body in which the above suture lies, or any plane parallel thereto.
— sag'it·tal·ly, adv.

sagittal arc. The arc from the nasion to the opisthion.

sagittal crest. An elevated bony ridge which develops along the sagittal suture of many mammals, esp. in old age.

sagittal fontanelle. Anat. An unossified space in the region of the parietal foramina, usually closed at birth.

sagittal sinus. Anat. Either of two venous sinuses of the dura mater. The superior sagittal sinus begins at the foramen caecum, passes backward in the convex attached margin of the falx cerebri, and ends at the internal occipital prominence by becoming the transverse sinus, usually of the right side. The inferior sagittal sinus lies in the posterior two thirds of the concave free margin of the falx cerebri, and ends posteriorly by joining the great cerebral vein to form the straight sinus.

Sag'it·ta'ri·a (săj'ĭ·tā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. sagittarius pertaining to an arrow. See SAGITTARIUS.] Bot. A large genus of aquatic herbs of the water-plantain family (Alismaceae), found in temperate and tropical regions. S. latifolia of America and S. sagittifolia of Europe are common species, often called arrowheads. The tubers of the Asiatic S. chinensis and of some American species are eaten. See WAPATOO.

Sagittaria (S. lancifolia). Flower and Leaf. (¼) Sag'it·ta'ri·id (-ĭd), n. [See 1st -ID.] Any of the meteors whose radiant is in the constellation Sagittarius.

sag'it·ta'ri·us (-ŭs), n.; pl. -TARII (-ī). [L.] Roman Antiq. A bowman; an archer.

Sag'it·ta'ri·us (-ŭs), n.; gen. -TARII (-rĭ·ī). [L., lit., an archer, fr. sagittarius of an arrow. See SAGITTA.] Astron. a A southern constellation pictured as a centaur shooting an arrow; the Archer. It is south of Aquila and partly in the Milky Way. b The ninth sign of the zodiac, which in Astrol. is the day sign of Jupiter, a masculine diurnal sign, common, bicorporal, hot, and dry. See SIGN, n., 12.

sag'it·tar'y (săj'ĭ·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. sagittarius.] Pertaining to an arrow or to archery; resembling an arrow. Rare.

Sag'it·tar'y, n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [See SAGITTARIUS.] 1. = 2d SAGITTARIUS.
2. A building, possibly an inn, in Venice. Shak.
3. Myth. A monster fabled in medieval Troy romances to have fought in the Trojan army; also [not cap.], a centaur.

sag'it·tate (-tāt), adj. [NL. sagittatus, fr. L. sagitta arrow.] Shaped like an arrowhead; specif., Bot., elongated triangular, with the two basal lobes prolonged downward. See LEAF, Illust.

sagitti-. A combining form, Latin sagitti-, from sagitta, meaning arrow, as in sag'it·tif'er·ous, sa·git'ti·form.

Sa·git'tid (sȧ·jĭt'ĭd; săj'ĭ·tĭd), n. [Sagitta + 1st -id.] Astron. Any of a shower of meteors whose radiant is in the constellation Sagitta.

sa·git'to·cyst (sȧ·jĭt'ō·sĭst; săj'ĭ·tō·sĭst'), n. A capsule having a spindle-shaped needle produced by epidermal cells of certain turbellarians.

sag'it·toid (săj'ĭ·toid), adj. [Sagitta + -oid.] Zool. Like, or pertaining to, Sagitta or an allied genus.

sa'go (sā'gō), n.; pl. SAGOS (-gōz). [Malay sagu.] 1. a A dry granulated or powdered starch from the East Indies and the Philippines, used in puddings, as an article of diet, and for stiffening textiles. It is prepared chiefly from the saft (sȧft; sȧft), saf'ten. Scot. & dial. vars. of SOFT, SOFTEN. safte. † SAFETY.

---

sag'a·pen, n. Sagapenum. Obs.
sagar. † CIGAR.
sag'a·vard' (săg'ȧ·värd'). Var. of SAGHAVART. sag'but. † SACKBUT. sage'bush' (sāj'bŏŏsh'), n. = SAGEBRUSH.
sa·geer' (sȧ·gēr'). Var. of SAKIER. sa'gesse, n. [F.] Wisdom. Obs. sage'wood', n. = SAGEBRUSH. sag'gar. Var. of SAGGER. sag'gard (săg'ẽr(d)). Var. of SAGGER. Dial. Eng. sag'gon (săg'ŭn), n. [Cf. SAG a reed.] = SAG, a reed. Scot. & Ir. sagh. Obs. past tense of SAY, SEE. saght. † SAUGHT. sag'less, adj. See -LESS.
Sa'glir·miut (sä'glĭr·mŭt), n. See ESKIMO. sagirstane. † SACRISTAN.

pith of the sago palm, but also from the trunks of the gebang, jaggery, gomuti palms, and from several cycads (Cycas revoluta, Zamia integrifolia, etc.). When powdered it is called also sago flour. Cf. ARROWROOT; ARUM, 2. b The sago palm.
2. A pudding made by boiling sago in water or milk and adding desired flavorings; as, apple sago.

sago fern. = SILVER TREE FERN.

sa·goin' (sā·goin'), n. [F. sagoin, saqouin, fr. Pg. saguim, fr. Tupi saguin, saguim. Cf. SAKI.] A marmoset, esp. of the genus Callithrix.

sago palm. 1. Any palm which yields sago, mostly obtained from the crushed and washed pith; specif.: a Any species of Metroxylon, esp. M. laeve or M. rumphii, lofty pinnate-leaved palms of India and Malaysia, widely cultivated for their product. b In Malacca, Phoenix farinifera. c In Java, the gebang palm. d In India, the gomuti, the jaggery, or the palmyra. e W. Ind. The cabbage palm Roystonea oleracea.
2. a See CYCAS. b The coontie.

Sago Palm (Metroxylon rumphii). Very much reduced.

sago plant. The cuckoo-pint.

sago spleen. A spleen affected with amyloid degeneration, in which the amyloid is deposited in the Malpighian corpuscles so that these appear in a cross section as gray translucent bodies resembling grains of sago.

sago tree. The coontie.

sa·gua'ro (sä·gwä'rō; sä·wä'rō; 142), n.; pl. -ROS (-rōz). [Sp., of Piman origin; cf. Opata sahuaro, Tarahumara saguarichic, lit., place of the saguaro.] An arborescent cactus (Carnegiea gigantea) of desert regions in the southwestern United States and in Mexico. It has a tall, columnar, simple or sparsely branched trunk, attaining a height of 60 feet. It bears pale-yellow flowers; its fruit is edible. It is the State flower of Arizona; see STATE FLOWER, Plate.

‖sa'guing (sä'gēn), n. [Tag. saging, saguing.] The banana. Phil. I.

sa'gum (sā'gŭm), n.; pl. -GA (-gȧ). [L. sagum, sagus, of Gaulish origin. Cf. SAY a kind of serge.] Ancient Costume. A capelike cloak worn esp. by soldiers, made of a rectangular piece of cloth and fastened at the right shoulder. In Rome the sagum was the garb of war as the toga was the garb of peace.

sa·gu'ran (sä·gōō'rän), n.; pl. -RANES (sä'gōō·rä'nās). [Visayan sagodan.] A textile of the fiber of leaves of the buri palm, used for packing. Phil. I.

sag'vand·ite (säg'vȧn·dīt; säg'-), n. [From Sagvand Lake, near Tromsö, Norway.] Petrog. A medium- to fine-grained granular aggregate of bronzite and magnesite (breunnerite) and accessory chromite. Mica and pyrite may occur. The rock forms a dike in crystalline schists.

sa·gwire' (sȧ·gwīr'), n. [Pg. saqueiro sago palm. See SAGO.] The gomuti palm; hence, toddy, or palm wine. Colloq., India.

sag'y (sā'ĭ), adj. Full of sage; seasoned with sage.

sah (sä), n. [Czech sáh.] See MEASURE, Table.

Sa'ha·de'va (sä'hȧ·dā'vȧ), n. [Skr.] See MAHABHARATA.

Sa·ha'ra (sȧ·hä'rȧ; sȧ·hâr'ȧ; 277), n. 1. An arid, barren, or deserted region or expanse. See Gaz.
2. The color cocoa.
—Sa·ha'ran (-rän), Sa·ha'ri·an (-hä'rĭ·ăn; -hâr'ĭ·ăn), Sa·har'ic (sȧ·hăr'ĭk), adj.

sahh (sä), n. sing. & pl. [Perh. fr. Ar. saḥḥ dates, plentiful water, etc.] See MEASURE, Table.

sa'hib (sä'ĭb), sa'heb (-ĕb), n. [Hind. sāhib fr. Ar. ṣāḥib master, lord, fem. ṣāḥibah.] India. [usually cap.] a The title used by natives when addressing, or speaking of, a European gentleman. b A general title affixed to the name or official title of a European; as, Colonel Sahib. c Master; — specif. used among Hindus and Mohammedans in titles of men of rank; as, Raja Sahib.

Sa'hi·bah (sä'ē·bȧ), n. [See SAHIB.] Lady; mistress. India.

Sa·hid'ic (sȧ·hĭd'ĭk), adj. [Ar. Ṣa'īdi pert. to al-Ṣa'īd Upper Egypt.] Of or pertaining to, or designating, the dialect sometimes called Thebaic, of southern Egypt; as, the Sahidic version of the Bible. See VERSION. — n. The Sahidic dialect; also, the Sahidic version of the Bible. See COPTIC, n., 1.

Sa'ho (sä'hō), n. a A language in Abyssinia of Hamite and Cushite admixture. b A tribe living west of Massaua.

sa'hu (sä'hōō), n. [Egypt. sāḥ.] Egypt. Relig. The incorruptible or spiritual body, in contrast to the khet. See 1st KHET.

sa·hu'ca bean (sȧ·hōō'kȧ). The soybean.

sa'i (sä'ē), n. [Pg. saí, sahi, fr. Tupi sai, sahy. Cf. SAIMIRI.] Any monkey of the genus Cebus; a capuchin monkey.

‖saib'ling (zīb'lĭng), n. [Dial. G.] a A char (Salvelinus alpinus) of mountain streams of Europe. b The Sunapee trout.

sa'ic' (sā'ĭk'), n. [F. saïque, fr. Turk. shāyqah.] Naut. A kind of ketch common in the Levant.

said (sĕd; 71), past tense & past part. of SAY. Hence: adj. 1. Before-mentioned; already spoken of; — used chiefly in legal style.
2. Spoken; often repeated; — of an adage. Obs.

Sa·i'di (sȧ·ē'dē), n. [Ar. Sa'īdi coming from al-Sa'īd Upper Egypt. Cf. SAHIDIC.] A variety of the date in Upper Egypt, much cultivated for its prolific yield.

sai'ga (sī'gȧ), n. [Russ. saĭga.] A sheeplike antelope (Saiga tartarica) of Siberia and eastern Russia. The nasal region is inflated and the nostrils widely separated; the male has lyrate annulated horns, and tufts of long hair beneath the eyes and ears.

sai'ga (sī'gȧ), n. [ML., of obscure origin.] A small silver coin, issued under the Merovingians and current before the introduction of the denier.

sail (sāl), n. [ME. seil, fr. AS. segel, segl; akin to D. zeil, OHG. segal, G. & Sw. segel, ON. segl, Dan. seil, and to L. secare to cut. See 2d SAW.] 1. An extent of canvas or other fabric by means of which the wind is used to propel vessels through the water. Sails are of two main types, fore-and-aft sails and square sails. Square sails are bent to yards, with their foot lying across the vessel's line. Fore-and-aft sails are set on stays, gaffs, or booms, with the foot in a nearly fore-and-aft line. A fore-and-aft sail is triangular, or often quadrilateral, with the after leech usually longer than the fore leech or luff. Square sails are quadrilateral, but not square. See SAILS, Illust., p. 2201.
2. Hence: a A similar apparatus for an iceboat, a wind-driven carriage, etc. b Figuratively, that which bears one on or makes a display; as, more sail than ballast.
3. a Sails collectively; as, to make sail; under full sail. b A sailing vessel; a vessel of any kind; a craft.
I spied a sail, and gave her chase. Defoe.
Also, sailing vessels collectively.
The royal navy comprised in all twenty-seven sail. H. Cox.
4. Anything suggestive of a sail; as: a Poetic. A wing; also, a van, or winnowing fan. b The extended surface of the arm of a windmill; also, windmill sails collectively. c A fin or tentacle, as of a nautilus.
5. [From the verb.] a A passage by a sailing vessel; a journey or excursion upon the water; a voyage.
The nearest of these harbors is not two days' sail from the southern coast of Ireland. Sydney Smith.
b A smooth, gliding passage through the air, as of a discus when properly thrown.
6. Sailing ability; as, swift of sail.
7. A number sailing together, as of ships, or of birds in flight. Rare.
8. A ride. Humorous.
9. A canvas cover stretched over a wagon frame. S. Afr.
10. pl. [cap.] Astron. Vela.
11. Falconry. A hawk's wing.
12. Naut. a The handling and navigation of vessels under sail, as distinct from under steam. b pl. The ship's sailmaker; — a nickname.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

sail-bearing, adj.	sail-filling, adj.	sail room sail-borne	sail furler	sail rope sail-broad	sail grommet	sail sewer sail canvas	sail keeper	sail sewing sail carrier	sail model	sail-stretched sail-carrying, adj.	sail netting	sail thimble sail-dotted	sail packet	sail thread sail drill	sail-propelled	sail trimmer sail duck	sail pulley	sail twine

— in sail. In a sailing vessel, or in or on sailing vessels. — to bear sail, to bear low sail. See under BEAR, v. — under sail. a Having sails spread; esp., in motion with sails spread.
The ship is under sail, and here she comes amain. Shak.
b Propelled by sails, in distinction from steam or other motive power.

-sail (-sāl). A combining form of the noun sail, as in:

foresail	mainsail	spritsail
forestaysail	moonsail	staysail headsail	ringsail	topsail
lugsail	skysail	trysail sail (sāl), v.; sailed (sāld); SAIL'ING. [AS. segelian, seglian. See SAIL, n.] Intransitive: 1. a To be conveyed in a vessel on water, orig. only in a craft propelled by the wind; to travel by water; as, they sailed from London to Canton. b To manage, or take trips in, a sailboat for pleasure; to yacht.

2. a To be impelled by the action of wind upon sails, as a ship on water; hence, to be impelled on water by the action of steam or any other motive power. b To move through or on the water, as a waterfowl.
3. To move smoothly; to glide through the air without apparent exertion, as a bird or clouds; — often used with in, out, along, etc., with the implication of a certain air or show, as of pride, conceit, or indifference; as, the overdressed dowager sailed down the corridor.
4. To begin a water voyage; as, we shall sail tomorrow.
5. To rush in; to begin vigorously to do something; — with in or into; as, he saw his work and sailed in. Slang.
—, Transitive: 1. To pass or move upon, as in a ship, by means of sails; hence, to move or journey upon (a body of water) by means of steam or other motive power.
2. To direct or manage the motion of; as, to sail a vessel.
3. a To fly through; to glide or move smoothly through.
Sublime she sails
The aerial space, and mounts the wingèd gales. Pope.
b To cause to move smoothly through the air; as, to sail a discus.
4. To traverse or perform by sailing. Obs.
Syn. — See FLOAT.

sail against the wind. To go counter to public opinion, convention, or the like.

sail close to the wind. a In questionable actions, just to fall short of violating the legal or moral code. b To conform to majority or conventional views, practices, etc.; to lack initiative, originality, or the like.

sail fine. Naut. To sail as close to the wind as possible. R.

sail free. Naut. To sail with yards not braced in, or the boom hauled aft, as much as when close-hauled.

sail into. To rebuke (one) vehemently; to attack; berate.

sail near the wind. = sail close to the wind a, above.

sail under false colors. To hide one's real motives, failings, or the like, by pretense.

sail with the wind. = sail close to the wind b, above.

sail (sāl), v. i. [OF. saillir to leap, to dance.] To dance; sally. Obs.

sail, v. t. To assail. Obs.

sail'a·ble (sāl'ȧ·b'l), adj. a Navigable, as a river. b In condition to sail, as a ship.

sail'age (-ĭj), n. [sail + -age. Cf. CORDAGE.] A ship's sails collectively.

sail arm. Mach. = WHIP, n. (of a windmill).

sail'boat' (sāl'bōt'), n. A boat usually propelled by a sail; — seldom applied to large vessels.

sail burton. Naut. A top burton with a tail block seized to the lower hook, and the hauling part rove through this tail block and thence through a snatch block on deck. This arrangement is used in bending sails, the lead of the hauling part serving to guy the sail clear and keep it from twisting.

sail'cloth' (sāl'klŏth'; 185), n. a A very heavy canvas or duck used for sails, tents, etc., and, sometimes, in slightly lighter weight, for garments. b A piece of such material used as a sail, a covering, or the like.

sailed (sāld), adj. Having sails.

sail'er (sāl'ĕr), n. 1. One who sails; a sailor. Obs.
2. A sailing ship or sailboat; also, any boat or vessel with regard to the way it navigates a body of water; as, the wooden sailers of the past; a heavy sailer; a good sailer; a fast sailer.

sail'fish' (sāl'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz). See PLURAL, Note. a Any of several large pelagic fishes constituting the genus Istiophorus, related to the swordfish, but having teeth, scales, pelvic fins of a few rays, and a very large dorsal fin highest at or behind its middle. I. volador of the warmer parts of the Atlantic, the West Indies, etc., is the best-known species. b The basking shark. c A quillback sucker.

Sailfish (Istiophorus volador). (1/48) sail fluke. Any European whiff.

sail'fly'ing (sāl'flī'ĭng), n. The action of flying in a sailplane.

sail gang. Fisheries. A seine gang of a sailing vessel, esp. in the menhaden fishery.

sail ho! A call used on sighting a ship at sea.

sail hook. Sailmaking. A small hook used to hold the cloth while the sail is being made.

sail hoop. Naut. A mast hoop of a fore-and-aft sail.

sail'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SAIL. Hence: n. [AS. segling.] 1. Naut. The art of managing a vessel; esp., the art of directing a ship to a given place according to the rules of navigation; navigation; also, the art or method of determining (1) the course to be followed, (2) the direction and distance to be sailed to reach a given point, (3) the position of a ship from dead reckoning, involving the determination of two or more of the following elements: course, distance, difference in latitude, difference in longitude, and departure. In plane sailing the earth's curvature is neglected, and the distance, departure, etc., are equivalent or correspond to the sides of a plane right triangle formed by the meridian of the initial point, the parallel of the final point, and the rhumb line joining these points. In traverse sailing two or more consecutive courses are so considered the differences of latitude and departures being added algebraically, and a single equivalent course and distance found. In spherical sailing the earth is regarded as a sphere (usually as a perfect sphere, though some modern nautical tables allow for its spheroidal shape), and allowance is made for the curvature of its surface. Kinds of spherical sailing are: parallel sailing, in which the course is along a parallel, and departure is the product of cosine latitude times the difference of longitude; middle-latitude sailing, in which the course cuts parallels and meridians obliquely, and departure is measured along the parallel of latitude midway between the latitude ends of the course; Mercator sailing, in which the differences in latitude, departure, etc., are considered in their relations as plotted upon a Mercator chart, and are found from a table of meridional parts; great-circle sailing, in which the ship follows a great-circle track, and the resulting problems are treated by spherical trigonometry; composite sailing, which combines parallel and great-circle sailing.
2. a The sport or pastime of navigating or riding in a sailboat; as, to find recreation in sailing. b A trip or voyage in a ship, yacht, or the like; as, to make a fast sailing. c A departure from a port, esp. a scheduled departure of a liner; as, the June sailings of the Leviathan.

☞ PHRASES are:

sailing barge	sailing instructions	sailing packet sailing canoe	sailing launch	sailing trawler sailing car	sailing match	sailing trim sailing day	sailing orders	sailing yacht sailing boat. A sailboat.

sailing master. 1. A ship's or yacht's officer in charge of her navigation.
2. U. S. Navy. Formerly, a warrant officer, next below a lieutenant, whose duties were to navigate the vessel, and under the executive officer to attend to the stowage, etc. The grade was merged in that of master in 1862.

sailing sucker. = QUILLBACK a.

sail lizard. A large agamid lizard (Lophura amboinensis) of the Moluccas and the Philippines, having a crested tail.

sail loft. A loft or room where sails are cut out and made.

sail'mak'er (sāl'māk'ĕr), n. One whose occupation is to make or repair sails; specif., U. S. Navy, formerly, a warrant officer in charge of all sails and articles of canvas. — sail'mak'ing, n.

sail'mak'er's mate (-ĕrz). U. S. Navy. A petty officer who formerly assisted, or acted as, the sailmaker, and who now has charge of all canvas, such as bags, hammocks, awnings, etc.

sailmaker's splice. Naut. A tapered splice joining two ropes of different sizes.

sail needle. Naut. A large needle, triangular in section, for sewing sailcloth. It requires a palm (sense 9 b) to push it through the canvas.

sail'or (sāl'ĕr; 121), n. 1. One who sails; esp., one who takes part in, or understands, the practical management of a vessel; a mariner; technically, a common seaman.
2. A kind of straw hat with a flat rounded top and brim.
3. One who travels by water, with reference to his susceptibility to seasickness; as, to be a good or bad sailor.
4. = SAILER, 2. Obs.
Syn. — SAILOR, MARINER, SEAMAN, are here compared esp. in their literary uses. SAILOR and MARINER are applied broadly to those whose occupation is to sail the seas; the words have wide connotation; SEAMAN, less common as a literary word, denotes one (rarely an officer) who helps to navigate a ship; as, "Thine island loves thee well, thou famous man, the greatest sailor since our world began" (Tennyson); "Slow sailed the weary mariners" (id.); cf. "Mighty Seaman, this is he was great by land as thou by sea" (id.). Cf. MARINE, NAVAL.

sail'or (sāl'ĕr), adj. That is a sailor or sailor's; as, a sailor lad; in sailor phrase.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

sailor boy	sailor laborer	sailor-poet sailor-fashion, adv.	sailor lad	sailorproof sailor-fisherman	sailor-looking	sailor-soul sailor gang	sailor-mind	sailor suit sailor helmsman	sailor phrase	sailor-train sailor blue. A color, reddish-blue in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sailor fish. = QUILLBACK a.

sail'or·ing (sāl'ĕr·ĭng), n. The life, occupation, or duties, of a sailor; sailorizing.

sail'or·iz'ing (-īz'ĭng), n. The practice or act of sailing, esp. as a seaman; the work of a sailor; hence, making knots, splices, etc.

Sailor King. William IV, king (1830–37) of England; also, George V; — so called from their service in the navy.

sail'or·ly (sāl'ĕr·lĭ), adj. Characteristic of, or like, a sailor.

---

sa'go-like', adj. See -LIKE.
sag'o-weer'. Var. of SAGWIRE.
Sa'gra (sä'grȧ; säg'rȧ), n. [NL.] Zool. See KAROGAROO BEETLE. sa-gueir'. Var. of SAGWIRE.
Sa·gue'rus (sȧ·gwē'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. Pg. saguiro sago palm. See SAGO.] Bot. Syn. of ARENGA. sa-guire'. Var. of SAGWIRE. sah, sa'ha. Vars. of SAA. See MEASURE, Table. [Bib.] Sa·ha·du'tha (sä'hȧ·dū'thȧ).
Sa·hap'ti·an. Var. of SHAHAPTIAN. [NEZ PERCÉ.]
Sa·hap'tin (sä·hăp'tĭn), n. = sah'lite (sä'lĭt). Var. of SALITE. sahme (säm), n. [Ar. sahm.] See MEASURE, Table. sah'ou·kar (sä'ōō·kär), n. = SOUCAR. sah'ras (sä'rȧs). Var. of SARUS. sa·hua'ro (sȧ·wä'rō). Var. of SAGUARO. [CAR. sah'u·kar (sä'ōō·kär), n. = SOU-sais. + CHAY. sai'ad. Var. of SAYID.
saice. Var. of SYCE. said. Var. of SAYID.
saie. Obs. past tense of SEE.
Sai·gon' cin'na·mon (sī·gŏn'; P. sā'ē·gŏn'). See CINNAMON, n., 1. saild. Sailed. Ref. Sp. [part.] sail'ing·ly, adv. of SAILING, pres. sail'less, adj. See -LESS. sail'or·less, adj. See -LESS. sail'or·like', adj. See -LIKE.

sail'or·man (sāl'ẽr·mănˌ), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). a A sailor; seaman. b A shipyard laborer. c Metal. A former seaman used as a slinger, splicer, etc.

sailor plant. The beefsteak saxifrage.

sail'or's–choice' (sāl'·ẽrz·), n. sing. & pl. a A small porgy (Lagodon rhomboides) of the coast of the United States from Cape Cod south. b The pigfish (Orthopristis chrysopterus). c A grunt (Haemulon parra), found from Florida to Brazil. d A pinfish (Diplodus holbrooki).

Sailor's-choice a.

sailor's housewife (hŭz'ĭf). A ditty bag.

sailor's knot. A knot such as a sailor ties, esp. one in a necktie.

sail'or's–knot', n. The wild geranium Geranium maculatum.

sail'or's–to·bac'co, n. The mugwort Artemisia vulgaris.

sailor tie. A two-eyelet low shoe with a ribbon tie.

sail'plane' (sāl'plānˌ), n. Aeronautics. A glider with a wing load small enough to enable it to rise in an upward air current. — sail'plane', v. i.

sails'man (sālz'mănˌ), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who works on sailing craft.

sail'–winged', adj. a Having, or covered with, sails that resemble, or serve as, wings. b Having wings like or suggesting sails.

sail'y (sāl'ĭ), adj. Like a sail or sails. Drayton.

sail yard. A yard on which a sail is spread.

saim (sām; sĕm), n. [OF. (F. saindoux), assumed VL. sagimen, for L. sagina a fattening.] Grease; fat. — v. t. To grease. — saim'y (-ĭ), adj. All Now Dial.

sai·mi'ri (sī·mĕ'rē), n. [F. saïmiri, fr. Tupi saï monkey + miri, mirim, small. Cf. SAI.] 1. A titi.
2. [cap.] Zool. A genus of South American squirrel monkeys of arboreal, gregarious habits. Syn. Chrysothrix.

sain (sān), v. t. [ME. seynen, sainen, fr. AS. segnian, fr. L. signare. See SIGN, v. & n.] 1. To cross (oneself); to sanctify; consecrate; to bless against evil influence. Archaic & Dial.
2. To save from evil by invocation or blessing. Dial. & Poetic.
3. To heal. Poetic.

sain (sīn), n. [Appar. nasalized var. of Marathi sāi teak.] = SAJ b.

‖sain'doux' (sănˌdōō'), n. [F. See SAIM; DULCET.] Hog's grease; lard.

sain'foin (sānˌfoin), n. [F., fr. saint sacred (fr. L. sanctus; see SAINT) + foin hay (fr. L. fenum) confused with sain wholesome (fr. L. sanus; see SANE).] a A Eurasian perennial herb (Onobrychis viciaefolia) having pinnate leaves and spicate pink flowers. b In Canada, an American tick trefoil (Desmodium canadense). c Local, U. S. A perennial herb (Psoralea onobrychis) of the central United States.

saint (sānt; unaccented, as in Saint Agnes, sănt; 71), n. [OF. saint, seint (F. saint), fr. L. sanctus holy, fr. past part. of sancire to render sacred. See SACRED; cf. SANCTIFY, SANCTION, SANCTITY, SANCTUARY, SANCTUM, SANCTUS.]
1. A person who is sanctified or consecrated; a holy or godly person; one characterized by, or eminent for, piety and virtue or purity and uprightness of life; esp., one regenerated and sanctified or undergoing sanctification; a true Christian, as being redeemed and consecrated to God; as, to lead the life of a saint. In the Old Testament saint is applied to any Israelite as one of the chosen people of God, and in the New Testament to any member of a Christian church.

To all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi. Phil. i. 1.

2. One of the spirits of the departed in heaven; — disting. from angel.
3. Eccl. One generally or officially recognized or acknowledged as pre-eminent for consecration, holiness, and piety; esp., such a one who is canonized by the church; as, Saint Matthew. Abbr. St. The title Saint was first given to the apostles, the Virgin Mary, and the martyrs, and later in the Eastern Church and in the Roman Catholic Church came to be conferred by the process of canonization (which see). It is also given to certain angels; as, Saint Michael.
4. [cap.] A member of one of certain religious bodies so designated officially or popularly; as: a Hist. A Puritan, esp. during the 16th and 17th centuries.

Ha' you . . . any news of the Saints in Amsterdam? B. Jonson.

b A Latter-day Saint; a Mormon.
5. Hist. A nickname for: a A member of a religious society at Cambridge University, Eng., about 1800. b A member of a 19th-century English party zealously advocating emancipation of slaves.
6. In extended or loose uses: a In other than Christian religions, a person honored after death for virtue, piety, or the like. b Chiefly Biblical. An angel. c One extraordinarily charitable, patient, self-denying, or the like; as, enough to provoke a saint; I am no saint.
7. [cap.] A common first element in many terms, as botanical compound names, place names, etc. In this book, except in the vocabulary entries, it is regularly abbreviated to St., as in St.-John's-wort, St. Louis, etc.

PRINCIPAL SAINTS' DAYS

* Indicates information in the Vocabulary.
 Indicates information in the Biographical Dictionary.

Ag'a·tha (ăg'ə·thə), Feb. 12, or 5 (Angl. Ch.), Sicilian virgin martyr (251); Ag'nes (ăg'nĕs; -nĭs), Jan. 21; Al'ban (ôl'băn; ăl'băn), June 22, or 17 (Angl. Ch.); All Saints, Nov. 1; Al'phege (ăl'fē·jĭ), or El'phege (ĕl'fē·jĭ), April 19, Abp. of Canterbury and martyr (1012); Am'brose (ăm'brōz), Dec. 7, or April 4 (Angl. Ch.); An'as·ta'si·us (ăn'ăs·tā'shĭ·ŭs), Jan. 22, Bp. of Rome (398–402); An'drew (ăn'·drōō), Nov. 30, one of the twelve apostles; Ann(e), or Anna, July 26, or 25 (Eastern Ch.); An'selm (ăn'sĕlm), April 21; An'tho·ny (ăn'thō·nĭ) of Padua, June 13; Ath'a·na'si·us (ăth'ə·nā'shĭ·ŭs); May 2; Au'gus·tine (ô'gŭs·tēn; ô·gŭs'tĭn) of Canterbury, May 28, or 26 (Angl. Ch.); Augustine of Hippo, Aug. 28; Bar'na·bas (bär'nə·bəs), June 11; Bar·tho'o·mew (bär·thō'ō·mū), Aug. 24, or June 11 (Eastern Ch.)*; Bas'il (băz'ĭl; bā'zĭl), June 14; Bede, Venerable (bēd), May 27; Ben'e·dict (bĕn'ē·dĭkt), March 21, or 14 (Eastern Ch.); Ber'nard (bûr'nẽrd; bẽr·närd'; F. sĕrˌ bĕrˌnärˌ), Aug. 20; Bla'si·us (blā'zĭ·ŭs), or Blaise (blāz), Feb. 3, or 10 (Eastern Ch.), Armenian bishop and martyr (c. 316); Bon'a·ven'ture (bŏn'ə·vĕn'tŭr), or -tu'ra (bō'nə·vĕn·tōō'rä), July 14; Bon'i·face (bŏn'ĭ·fās), June 5; Cath'er·ine (kăth'ẽr·ĭn) of Alexandria, Nov. 25; Catherine of Siena, April 30, lived 1347–80; Ce·cil'i·a (sē·sĭl'ĭ·ə), Nov. 22*; Chad (chăd), March 2, Eng. bishop, d. 672; Chrys'os·tom, John (krĭs'ŏs·tŭm; krĭs·ŏs'tŭm), Jan. 27, and (Eastern Ch.) also Nov. 13; Clem'ent (klĕm'ẽnt) of Rome, Nov. 23, or 24 (Eastern Ch.); Cris'pin (krĭs'pĭn), Oct. 25*; Cyp'ri·an (sĭp'rĭ·ăn), Sept. 16, or 26 (Angl. Ch.); Cyr'il (sĭr'ĭl) (with Methodius), July 5, Greek missionary to the Slavs, 9th cent.; Cyr'il of Alexandria, Feb. 9; Cyril of Jerusalem, March 20; Da'vid (dā'vĭd), March 1; Den'is (dĕn'ĭs; F. dē·nē'), or Den'ys, Oct. 9*; Dom'i·nic (dŏm'ĭ·nĭk), Aug. 4; Dun'stan (dŭn'stăn), May 19; Ed'mund (ĕd'mŭnd), Nov. 20; Ed'ward (ĕd'wẽrd) (the Martyr), March 18; Elizabeth of Hungary, Nov. 19, princess and landgravine of Thuringia; Eth'el·dred'a (ĕth'ĕl·drĕd'ə), June 23, or Oct. 17 (Angl. Ch.), Northumbrian queen and abbess, d. 679; Fa'bi·an (fā'bĭ·ăn), Jan. 20, or Aug. 5 (Eastern Ch.), Bp. of Rome and martyr; Fran'cis de (of) Sales' (sālz; F. sal), Jan. 29; Francis of As·si'si (ăs·sē'zē), Oct. 4; Francis Ka'vi·er (kā'vĭ·ẽr; kăv'ĭ·ẽr), Dec. 3; Ga'bri·el (gā'brĭ·ĕl), March 24, or July 13 (Eastern Ch.); George, April 23; Giles (jīlz), Sept. 1, anchorite of 7th (?) cent.; Greg'o·ry (grĕg'ō·rĭ) (the Great), March 12, or 11 (Eastern Ch.); Hil'a·ry (hĭl'ə·rĭ) (of Poitiers), Jan. 14 or 13 (Angl. Ch.); Hugh (hū) (of Lincoln), Nov. 17, Bp. of Lincoln, d. 1200; Ig·na'ti·us (ĭg·nā'shĭ·ŭs), Feb. 1; Ig·na'ti·us Lo·yo'la (ĭg·yō'lä; lō·yō'lä), July 31; I're·nae'us (ī'rē·nē'ŭs), June 28; James, July 25*; James (with Philip), May 1*; Je·rome' (jē·rōm'), Sept. 30; John, Dec. 27; John Baptist (Nativity of), June 24; Jo'seph (jō'zĕf; -zĭf), March 19*; Jude (jōōd) (with Simon), Oct. 28, see JUDAS, 5 a*; Lam'bert (lăm'bẽrt), Sept. 17, Bp. of Maastricht and martyr (701); Law'rence (lŏr'ĕns), Aug. 10; Leon'ard (lĕn'ẽrd), Nov. 6, Frankish deacon, d. 559; Lou'is (lōō'ĭ), Aug. 25, French king and crusader; Lu'ci·an (lōō'shĭ·ăn; -shăn), Jan. 7, or 8 (Angl. Ch.), Roman missionary in Gaul and martyr (290); Lu'cy (lōō'sĭ), Dec. 13, virgin martyr of Alexandria, c. 304; Luke, Oct. 18*; Margaret, July 20, or 17 (Eastern Ch., Ma·ri'na [mə·rē'nə]), virgin martyr of Antioch, 3d cent.; Margaret of Scotland, June 10; Mark, April 25*; Martin of Tours, Nov. 11, Bp. of Tours, 4th cent.; Mary the Virgin, many days in Roman Catholic calendar, but esp., the Purification, Feb. 2, the Annunciation, March 25, the Assumption, Aug. 15, and the Immaculate Conception, Dec. 8 — in the Anglican calendar the first two only are observed with special services; Mary Magdalene, July 22, see MARY, 2 c*; Mat'thew, Sept. 21* (măth'ū); Mat·thi'as (mə·thī'ăs), Feb. 24*; Me·tho'di·us (mē·thō'dĭ·ŭs) (with Cyril), July 5, Greek missionary to the Slavs, 9th cent.; Mi'chael (mī'kĕl; -kəl) [(Angl. Ch.) and All Angels], Sept. 29; Nich'o·las (nĭk'ō·lăs), Dec. 6, Bp. of Myra; Patrick, March 17; Paul (Conversion of), Jan. 25*; Per·pet'u·a (pẽr·pĕt'ū·ə), March 7, female martyr of Carthage, c. 203; Peter, or (R.C.Ch.) Peter and Paul, June 29, see PETER*, PAUL*; Philip (with James), May 1*; Pol'y·carp (pŏl'ĭ·kärp), Jan. 26; Pris'ca (prĭs'kə), Jan. 18, Roman female martyr, c. 270; Raph'a·el (răf'ā·ĕl; rā'fā·ĕl), Oct. 24*; Re·mi' (rē·mē'), or Re·my' [L. Re·mig'ĭ·us (rē·mĭj'ĭ·ŭs)], June 1; Rich'ard (rĭch'ẽrd), April 3, Bp. of Chichester, d. 1253; Se·bas'tian (sē·băs'tyăn), Jan. 20, Roman soldier and martyr, c. 288; Si'mon (sī'mən) (with Jude), Oct. 28*; Ste'phen (stē'vĕn), Dec. 26*; Stephen of Hungary, Sept. 2; Swith'in (swĭth'ĭn), or Swith'un (-ŭn), July 15 (Angl. Ch.), Bp. of Winchester, d. 862; Syl·ves'ter, or Sil·ves'ter (sĭl·vĕs'tẽr), Dec. 31, Bp. of Rome, 4th cent.; Thomas, Dec. 21*; Thom'as A·qui'nas (tŏm'əs ə·kwī'nəs), March 7; Thomas of Canterbury, Dec. 29, see BECKET; Tim'o·thy (tĭm'ō·thĭ), Jan. 24*; Ti'tus (tī'tŭs), Feb. 6*; Val'en·tine (văl'ĕn·tīn), Feb. 14, Roman martyr, c. 270*; Vin'cent (vĭn'sĕnt), Jan. 22, Span. martyr, 304; Vin'cent' de (of) Paul' (văn'sănˌ dē pōl'; Angl. vĭn'sĕnt), July 19.

☞ All combinations and phrases beginning St. are alphabetized as if spelled Saint; thus, St.-John's-wort is alphabetized as if spelled Saint-John's-wort.

saint (sānt), v.; SAINT'ED; SAINT'ING. Transitive: 1. To beatify; to make blessed in heaven, or as if in heaven. Archaic.

God saint thee, good monk. Bale.

2. To recognize or designate as a saint; specif., to enroll among the saints by an official act, as of the Pope; to canonize.
3. To make (usually a person) an object of veneration or reverence; to enshrine; — chiefly in past participle.

There sit the sainted sage, the bard divine. Gray.

4. To give a saint's name to (a person, church, etc.). Rare.

Men whose genius and piety would have immortalized and sainted them in an earlier age. J. Hamilton.

—, Intransitive: To act or live as a saint; also, to play the saint; — often with it. See IT, 6.

saint (sānt), adj. [F.] Sanctified; holy; sacred; — sometimes used for Fr. saint or sainte; as, Saint Cross (Holy Cross); Saint Faith (Holy Faith).

‖saint (săn), adj. masc., sainte (săn), fem. [F.] Holy; saint.

saint (sānt), n. = CENT, a game. Obs.

Saint Agnes's Eve. The night of January 20, when, according to popular superstition, a maiden might by fulfilling certain conditions have a revelation as to her future husband; — so called because the eve of the feast of St. Agnes.

St.–Ag'nes's–flow'er, n. The snowflake.

St. Al'ban lime'stone' (sānt ôl'băn). Geol. See GASPÉ SERIES.

Saint Alexander. The first bishop of Cappadocia, who died in prison 251 A.D.

Saint Andrew. 1. A Scottish gold coin first issued by Robert III (1390–1406); — so called from the saint's effigy on the reverse.
2. See ORDER, n., 1.

St. Andrew's cross. A cross shaped like the letter X. See CROSS, Illust.

St.–An'drew's–cross', n. A North American and West Indian woody plant (Ascyrum hypericoides), the petals of which resemble a St. Andrew's cross.

Saint Andrew's Day. Nov. 30, a holiday in New Zealand. See HOLIDAY, n., 3.

Saint Anne. See ORDER, n., 1.

St.–Ann's'–bark', n. = RED BARK.

Saint Anthony of Padua. = ANTHONY, SAINT, 2.

Saint Anthony's cross. A T-shaped cross. See CROSS, Illust., 10.

St. Anthony's fire. Any of certain inflammations or gangrenous conditions of the skin, esp. erysipelas and ergotism, which in the Middle Ages were popularly supposed to be cured by the intercession of St. Anthony.

St.–An'tho·ny's–nut', n. An earthnut (Conopodium denudatum); — so called because St. Anthony was once a swineherd.

St.–An'tho·ny's–rape', n. Meadow crowfoot.

St.–An'tho·ny's–tur'nip, n. Meadow crowfoot.

Saint Anthony the Great. = ANTHONY, SAINT, 1.

St. Au'gus·tine grass (ô'gŭs·tēn). a A perennial much-branched creeping grass (Stenotaphrum secundatum) of the southern United States, valuable as a sand binder and sod grass. See BUFFALO GRASS, 2. b The somewhat similar grass Manisuris rugosa.

St. Aus'tin's (ôs'tĭnz), or Au·gus'tine's (ô·gŭs'tĭnz), sum'mer. See INDIAN SUMMER, a.

St.–Bar'ba·ra's–cress', n. The herb of St. Barbara.

Saint Barnabas's Day. June 11. See BARNABY DAY.

St.–Bar'na·by's–this'tle (-bär'nə·bĭz-), n. A kind of knapweed (Centaurea solstitialis) flowering about St. Barnabas's Day.

St. Bartholomew, Massacre of. See MASSACRE OF ST. BARTHOLOMEW.

Saint Bartholomew's Day. See BARTHOLOMEW, 2.

Saint bell. = SANCTUS BELL.

Saint Benedict of Aviz. See Aviz, under ORDER, n., 1.

St.–Ben'e·dict's–this'tle, n. The blessed thistle Cnicus benedictus.

St.–Ben'net's–herb' (sānt·bĕn'ĕts-; -ĭts-; 119), n. The herb bennet.

Saint Ber·nard' (bẽr·närd'). A giant dog of a breed of uncertain origin, taking its name from the hospice of Saint Bernard in the Swiss Alps, where it has been bred for nearly 1,000 years. It has gained undying fame by rescuing travelers lost in the snowdrifts of the Alpine passes. It is powerful, tall, and imposing, and has a massive head with deep stop, short muzzle, and large drop ears, a short and strong neck, sloping shoulders, broad back sloping gently from the haunches to the rump, well-developed hindquarters, and a long blunt-ended tail. It ranges in height from 25½ to 27½ inches.

Saint Bernard.

St.–Ber'nard's–lil'y (-bûr'nẽrdz-), n. An Old World herb (Anthericum liliago) with long recurved linear leaves, commonly cultivated for its racemose, greenish-white flowers.

Saint Bren'dan. Formerly Saint Bran'don. See BRENDAN, SAINT.

St. Brendan's Island. See ISLAND OF SAINT BRENDAN.

St.–Bru'no's–lil'y (-brōō'nōz-), n. A European alpine plant (Paradisea liliastrum) somewhat resembling the asphodel.

St.–Cath'a·rine's–flow'er, n. a The love-in-a-mist. b In Mexico, the poinsettia.

Saint Catherine. See ORDER, n., 1.

St.–Chris'to·pher's–herb', n. The royal fern.

Saint Clare (sănt klär'). Founder (1212) of a Franciscan order for women, canonized in 1255.

St. Clare, Augustine. The father of Little Eva (which see).

Saint Crispin. See CRISPIN, 2.

St. Croix' sand'stone' (kroi'). [From the St. Croix River, between Minnesota and Wisconsin.] Geol. A Cambrian formation of Minnesota, the equivalent of a part of the Potsdam.

St.–Cuth'bert's–beads', n. pl. The joints of fossil crinoid stems.

St. Cuthbert's duck. The eider duck.

St. Cuthbert's Well. A spring on the property (Edenhall) of the Musgrave family in Cumberland, England. According to legend, one of the family seized a goblet from the fairy king at the well. The fairy warned him:

When this cup shall break or fall, Farewell the luck of Edenhall.

St. Cyr (săn sēr'). Also St.–Cyr'–l'É'cole' (-lā'kôl'), n. The seat of the École Spéciale Militaire, a school in the military system of France, which trains candidates for commissions in infantry, cavalry, tanks, and aviation.

St.–Dab'e·oc's–heath' (dăb'ē·ŏks), n. The Irish heath.

Saint Dis'taff's Day (dĭs'tăfs). = DISTAFF DAY.

saint'ed (sān'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, befitting, or resembling, a saint or saints.

The sainted figures on the casement painted. Longfellow.

2. Saintly; virtuous; pious. "A most sainted king." Shak.
3. Entered into heaven; — euphemism for dead. Now R.

St. El'mo's fire or light (ĕl'mōz). [From the patron saint of sailors.] A flamelike appearance sometimes seen in stormy weather at prominent points on a ship, particularly at the masthead and the yardarms, and also on land, as at the tops of trees or steeples. It is called also corposant (when double, a double corposant, or Castor and Pollux), Helena, etc. It is of the nature of a brush discharge of electricity, reddish when positive, bluish when negative. Cf. CABIRI.

Saint–E'mi·lion' (săn'·tā'mē'lyŏn'), n. [From Saint-Émilion, near Libourne, France.] A red wine from extensive vineyards in the commune of Saint-Émilion and adjoining communes. The best Saint-Émilion wine is that of Château Ausone. See BORDEAUX, n., 2.

saint'–er'rant, n. A wandering saint; a missionary saint; — sometimes ironical. Cf. KNIGHT-ERRANT. — saint'–er'rant·ry, n.

‖Saint'–Es'prit' (săn'·tĕs'prē'), n. [F.] Holy Ghost. See ORDER, n., 1.

saint'ess (sānt'ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. Female saint. Now Rare.

Saint'–Es'tèphe' (săn'·tĕs'tĕf'), n. [From Saint-Estèphe, France.] A red wine from the commune of Saint-Estèphe, in the Médoc. The best wines of Saint-Estèphe are those of Cos d'Estournel and Château Montrose, second growths; Calon-Ségur, third growth; Rochet, fourth growth; Cos-Laborg, fifth growth; and Pomys, Bourgeois supérieur. See BORDEAUX, n., 2.

St. Ev'ré·monde, Charles (sănt ĕv'rē·mŏnd). See DARNAY, CHARLES.

Saint Fin'ni·an (sănt fĭn'ĭ·ăn). Founder (about 520) of the monastery and school of Clonard. See TWELVE APOSTLES OF IRELAND.

Saint Frideswide. See FRIDESWIDE, SAINT.

Saint Genevieve. See GENEVIEVE, SAINT.

Saint George. a See GEORGE, SAINT. b See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint George and the Dragon. See GEORGE, SAINT.

St. George's cross. Her. A Greek cross gules.

Saint George's Day. April 23, a holiday in New Zealand. See HOLIDAY, n., 3.

St. George's duck. The European sheldrake. Local, Eng. & Scot.

St. George's ensign. St. George's flag with a union jack in the upper left canton; the white ensign.

St. George's flag. A flag with a red cross on a white field, used widely as the national emblem of England from about 1277 to 1606. In a smaller size it is now the sign of the presence and command of an admiral.

St.–George's'–herb', n. The valerian Valeriana officinalis.

St.–George's'–mush'room', n. The horse mushroom; also, the related species Agaricus gambosus.

St. George's round. Archery. See ROUND, n., 12.

Saint'–Go'bain' glass (săn'gō'băn'). A fine variety of soda-lime plate glass; — so called from Saint-Gobain in France, the place of its manufacture.

Saint Graal. The Holy Grail. See 1st GRAIL. Obs.

Saint Gre·go'ri·us Mag'nus (sănt grē·gō'rĭ·ŭs măg'nŭs) Pope Gregory I. See in Biog.

Saint Gregory the Great. See ORDER, n., 1.

St. Grouse's Day (grous'ĭz). Aug. 12, on which day the season for grouse shooting opens in England; — facetiously so called.

St. Guy's dance (gīz). Med. Epidemic chorea.

---

sail'our, n. [OF. sailleor.] A dancer. Obs.

sail'-o'ver, n. Arch. = OVERHANG, n., 2 b.

sail'ship', n. A sailing ship.

sail'ye, n. & v. [See ASSAIL.]

Assail: essay. Obs. Scot.

saint'dom, n. See -DOM.

‖sainte (sănt), adj., fem. of 4th SAINT.

Saint'-Ger'main' (sănˌ'zhĕr'mănˌ'), n. See TREATY, Table.

Sails: Fore-and-aft and Square

SCHOONER'S SAILS.

(An inner and an outer jib are sometimes fitted instead of one jib.)

1 Flying Jib; 2 Jib; 3 Forestaysail; 4 Foresail; 5 Fore Gaff-topsail; 6 Main-topmast Staysail; 7 Mainsail; 8 Main Gaff-topsail.

FULL-RIGGED SHIP under ALL PLAIN SAIL to Skysails, with All Staysails and All Port Studding Sails.

(Sometimes an inner jib and outer jib are fitted instead of one jib, and also an upper and lower main-topmast staysail instead of one staysail, the upper stay leading just below the foretop. Double topgallant sails are sometimes fitted.)

1 Flying Jib; 2 Jib; 3 Fore-topmast Staysail; 4 Foresail; 5 Lower Fore-topsail; 6 Upper Fore-topsail; 7 Fore-topgallant Sail; 8 Foreroyal; 9 Fore-skysail; 10 Lower Studding Sail (never on the main), 11 Fore-topmast Studding Sail; 12 Fore-topgallant Studding Sail; 13 Foreroyal Studding Sail; 14 Main Staysail; 15 Main-topmast Staysail; 16 Main-topgallant Staysail; 17 Main-royal Staysail; 18 Mainsail; 19 Lower Main Topsail; 20 Upper Main Topsail; 21 Main-topgallant Sail; 22 Main Royal; 23 Main Skysail; 24 Main-topmast Studding Sail; 25 Main-topgallant Studding Sail; 26 Main-royal Studding Sail; 27 Mizzen Staysail; 28 Mizzen-topmast Staysail; 29 Mizzen-topgallant Staysail; 30 Mizzen-royal Staysail; 31 Mizzen Sail (Crossjack); 32 Lower Mizzen Topsail, 33 Upper Mizzen Topsail; 34 Mizzen-topgallant Sail; 35 Mizzen Royal; 36 Mizzen Skysail; 37 Spanker.

Small Diagram. Parts of a Square Sail (Topsail). 1 Tie; 2 Yoke; 3 Quarter Block; 4, 4 Stirrup for Footrope; 5, 5 Burton Bolt; 6, 6 Lift; 7, 7 Boom Iron; 8, 8 Pacific Iron; 9, 9 Flemish Horse; 10, 10 Bull Earing; 11, 11 Reef Tackle; 12, 12 Reef Earings; 13, 13 Bowline Bridle; 14, 14 Footrope; 15, 15, 15 Reef Points; 16, 16 Clew Line; 17 Bunt Whip; 18, 18 Topgallant Sheet; 19, 19 Reef Tackle; 20, 20 Buntline; 21, 21 Buntline Toggle; 22, 22 Sheet. A, A Head-earing Cringle; B, B Clew; C, C Leeches; D Head; E Foot.

Saint Hel'e·na (sānt hĕl'ē·nȧ). See HELENA, SAINT.

St. He·le'na black'wood' or ebony (hē·lē'nȧ). An extinct tree (Trochetia melanoxylon), family Sterculiaceae, of St. Helena, formerly much prized on account of its hard dark-colored wood.

St. Helena tea. A shrub (Beatsonia portulacifolia), family Frankeniaceae, of St. Helena, its leaves being there used as a substitute for tea.

Saint Henry. See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint Hubert. See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint Ignatius of Antioch. The Bishop of Antioch in the time of Trajan. He suffered martyrdom at Rome sometime between 107 and 117 A.D.

St.–Ig·na'tius's–bean', n. The greenish straw-colored seed of a Philippine woody vine (Strychnos ignatii), like nux vomica in its action and uses. See STRYCHNINE.

saint'ism (sānt'ĭz'm), n. See -ISM. Specif., Puritanism. R.

St.–Ja'cob's–dip'per, n. The pitcher plant Sarracenia purpurea.

St.–Ja'cob's–lad'der, n. = JACOB'S-LADDER.

Saint James of the Sword. See ORDER, n., 1.

St. James Palace. = ST. JAMES'S PALACE.

St. James's Court, St. James Court. See COURT OF ST. JAMES'S.

St.–James's'–flow'er, n. A perennial woody herb (Lotus jacobaeus) from the Cape Verde Islands, cultivated for its purple and yellow flowers.

St.–James's'–lil'y (-jāmz'zĭz-), n. The Jacobaean lily.

St. James's Palace. The London residence of the British sovereigns from William III to the accession of Victoria in 1837. It is now used for levees and drawing rooms. The Court of St. James's continues to be the official designation of the British court.

St. James's shell. The pilgrim shell.

St.–James's'–tre'foil, n. = ST.-JAMES'S-FLOWER.

St.–James's'–weed', n. The shepherd's-purse.

St.–James's'–wort', n. The ragwort Senecio jacobaea.

Saint James the Greater. = JAMES, 2 a. See JAMES OF COMPOSTELA, SAINT.

Saint James the Less. James the Less. See JAMES, 2 b, c, & d.

Saint Joan of Arc. See JOAN OF ARC, SAINT.

Saint John Co'lom·bi'ni (of Siena) (kō'lŏm·bē'nē). Founder (c. 1367) of a Christian order, suppressed in 1668. His feast is July 31.

Saint John of God. Juan Ciudad (1495–1550), of Portugal, canonized 1690 for his saintly life, and later made patron of hospitals and the dying.

Saint John of Jerusalem. See ORDER, n., 1.

St.–John's'–bread', n. = CAROB, 1 b.

St. John's dance. Med. Epidemic chorea.

Saint John's Eve. June 23; midsummer.

St. John's evil. Med. Epilepsy.

St. John's fire. Teut. Folklore. A fire lighted on the night of St. John Baptist's Day (June 24) to ward off sickness and ill luck. Cf. NEEDFIRE, 1.

St.–John's'–hands', n. sing. & pl. = MALE FERN.

St.–John's'–lil'y, n. The swamp lily Crinum americanum.

St. John's tonsure. See TONSURE.

St.–John's'–wort', n. Any plant of the genus Hypericum. The large-flowered species (H. ascyron) is often distinguished as the great St.-John's-wort.

St.–John's–wort fa'mi·ly. The Hypericaceae.

Saint John the Baptist. = JOHN, 2 a (1). See BAPTIST n., 1.

Saint John the Baptist's Day. June 24. See BAPTIST, n., 1.

St.–Jo'seph's–lil'y, n. The white lily Lilium candidum.

St. Jul'ien (sānt jōōl'yĕn; F. sĂN' zhü'lyĂN'). A type of damson plum, commonly used as propagating stock.

Saint–Jul'ien (sānt·jōōl'yĕn; F. sĂN'zhü'lyĂN'), n. [From Saint-Julien, France.] A red wine from the commune of St. Julien, one of the most important of the wine-producing communes of the Médoc. The finest wines of this commune are those of the three Léovilles (which see), two Laroses (which see), Ducru-Beaucaillou, Lagrange, Langoa, Saint-Pierre-Bontemps, Saint-Pierre-Sevaistre, Branaire Ducru, Talbot, and Beychevelle. See BORDEAUX, n., 2.

St.-John's-wort (Hypericum perforatum). Reduced.

St. Lawrence skiff. [From the St. Lawrence River.] See SKIFF, 3.

Saint Lazarus. = LAZARUS, 2 a.

St. Leg'er, the (sānt lĕj'ĕr; sĕj'ĭn·jĕr; sĭl'ĭn·jĕr). A race for three-year-old colts and fillies that have run in the Derby or Oaks, run annually in September at Doncaster, Eng., over a course 1 mile 6 furlongs 132 yards long. It was instituted in 1776 by Col. St. Leger.

saint'like' (sānt'lĭk'), adj. Resembling or befitting a saint; saintly.

Saint Louis. See ORDER, n., 1.

St. Lou'is (sānt lōō'ĭs; lōō'ĭ). Geol. Designating or pertaining to the second division from the top of the Mississippian series of the Mississippi Valley. It is chiefly limestone.

St. Lou'i·san (lōō'ĭ·zăn). A native or citizen of St. Louis, Mo.

St. Lu·cie' cher'ry (lū·sē'). The mahaleb.

St. Lu·cie' grass. A cultural variety of Bermuda grass.

Saint Luke. = LUKE, 2 a.

Saint Luke's Day. October 18. See LUKE, 2 a.

St. Luke's summer. See INDIAN SUMMER a.

saint'ly (sānt'lĭ), adj.; -LI·ER (-lĭ·ĕr); -LI·EST. Like or befitting a saint; holy; pious. "Saintly chastity." Milton.

saint maker. One who creates or sanctifies as a saint — saint'–mak'ing, adj. — saint making.

Saint Mark's Day. April 25. See 4th MARK, 3 a.

Saint Martin (of Tours). Fourth century Bishop of Tours. His day, Saint Martin's Day, is November 11.

St. Martin's bird. The hen harrier. Brit.

St. Martin's evil. Drunkenness.

St.–Mar'tin's–flow'er, n. An ornamental South American herb (Alstroemeria pulchra) cultivated for its umbel of variegated flowers.

St. Martin's fowl. The hen harrier. Brit.

St.–Mar'tin's–herb', n. A small tropical American herb (Sauvagesia erecta). It is very mucilaginous and has been used as a demulcent.

Saint Martin's Lent. See 3d LENT, 3 a.

St. Martin's summer. See INDIAN SUMMER a.

Saint Mary. See MARY, 2†a.

St. Mary-le-Bow. A famous church on Cheapside, London, within the sound of whose bells, it is said, all English cockneys are born.

Saint Mary Magdalene. = MARY, 2 c.

St.–Mar'y's–flow'er, n. a The rose of Jericho Anastatica hierochuntica. b Australia. Any plant of the genus Marianthus (family Pittosporaceae).

St.–Mar'y's–grass', n. = JOHNSON GRASS.

St.–Mar'y's–herb', n. Costmary. Obs.

St.–Mar'y's–seed', n. Either of the two sow thistles Sonchus oleraceus and S. asper of Europe, both naturalized weeds in North America.

St.–Mar'y's–this'tle, n. The lady's-thistle. Obs.

St. Matthew Passion, The. An orchestral and vocal composition (1729) by J. S. Bach. See PASSION MUSIC.

Saint Maur (sĂn mōr'). A disciple of Saint Benedict. He founded an abbey at Glanfeuil, France, in 543.

Saint Maurice and Saint Lazarus. See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint Michael. See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint Michael and Saint George. See ORDER, n., 1.

St.–Mi'chael's–or'ange (-mī'kĕlz-), n. A thin-skinned, nearly seedless variety of orange.

Saint Monday. Monday, when taken as a holiday by a workman who has spent Sunday in dissipation. Brit.

Saint Nich'o·las (nĭk'ō·lȧs). [See NICHOLAS; cf. SANTA CLAUS.] A bishop of Myra, Asia Minor (d. 7345). He is the patron saint of Russia, Greece, the kingdom of Naples, etc., and of mariners, merchants, and children. As the bearer of presents to children on Christmas Eve, his name has been corrupted to Santa Claus or Klaus.

St. Nicholas's clerk or clergyman. Obs. a A poor scholar. b A thief or highwayman.

Saint Nor'bert (sānt nôr'bĕrt; F. sĂN nôr'bâr'). Founder of the Abbey of Fürstenberg and of a religious order in the diocese of Laon, France (1119). He was canonized in 1582. See PREMONSTRATENSIAN.

Saint Olaf. See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint Pa·cho'mi·us (pȧ·kŏ'mĭ·ŭs). An Egyptian monk who is said to have been the first to organize a regular cenobitic system for hermits.

St. Partridge's Day. Sept. 1, when the season for partridge shooting opens in England; — so called facetiously.

Saint Patrick. See ORDER, n., 1.

St.–Pat'rick's–cab'bage, n. = LONDON PRIDE a.

Saint Patrick's cross. A St. Andrew's cross. See CROSS, Illust., 9.

Saint Patrick's Day. March 17, observed by the Irish as the day for the wearing of the green. See HOLIDAY, n., 3.

St. Patrick's Purgatory. According to legend, an earthly purgatory set up by St. Patrick, or a place where God granted to him that the punishment of sinners might be seen, to give ocular proof to the Irish of the truth of his teachings. This legend is said to have been first made known to Europe through a work written by Henry of Saltrey (fl. 1150), an English Cistercian monk, who related the adventures and punishments (similar to those depicted by Dante) of Sir Owain, or Owen, a knight of King Stephen's court who descended into this purgatory. Its supposed entrance was located on an islet in Lough Derg, County Donegal, Ireland, and there is a cave there now known by this name. At an early date a church and an artificial cavern were constructed on the island, and it became a great place of pilgrimage in the Middle Ages.

Saint Paul. Saul of Tarsus, the great apostle who carried the Christian doctrine to the gentiles.

St. Paul, Regular Clerks of. = REGULAR CLERKS OF ST. PAUL. See BARNABITE.

Saint·pau'li·a (sānt·pȯ'lĭ'·ȧ), n. [NL., after Baron Walter von Saint Paul, of Silesia, its discoverer.] Bot. A small genus of East African herbs (family Gesneriaceae) with nodding violet-blue flowers having five or seven erect sepals, a nearly rotate bilabiate corolla, and two stamens. S. ionantha is the African violet.

Saint Paul of the Cross. Paul Francis Danei (1694–1775), founder 1747 of a religious order. He was canonized in 1867. His feast is April 28.

St. Paul's (pȯlz). The largest and most famous church in London, in the City. It is the cathedral church of the Bishop of London, and is the finest work of Sir Christopher Wren, designed in a Renaissance style and surmounted by a large dome (102 ft. in diameter, 365 ft. above the street). There are two towers on the west front, each 221 feet in height. Saint Paul's was begun in 1675 and completed in 1710 and has been the scene of many great national services. The church of Old Saint Paul's, famous for its connection with John Wycliffe, stood on the same site from the 13th century until it was burned in the Great Fire of 1666.

St.–Paul's'–speed'well', n. The thyme-leaved speedwell (Veronica serpyllifolia).

Saint Paul's tonsure. See TONSURE.

Saint Peter. Simon Peter, the first of the apostles.

St. Peter's, St. Peter's Church. The patriarchal basilica of St. Peter, adjoining the Vatican palace at Rome, and commonly considered the focal point of religious ceremony according to the Latin Rite. It is the largest church in the world, and the place where functions of world-wide importance take place, such as canonization, opening and closing of jubilees, etc. The first basilica was built on this site by Constantine; the present was built during the years from 1506 to 1626, largely according to plans drawn by Michelangelo.

St. Pe'ters·burg Dec'la·ra'tion (pē'tĕrz·bûrg). = DECLARATION OF ST. PETERSBURG.

St. Petersburg standard or standard hundred. See STANDARD HUNDRED.

St. Petersburg standard deal. See 4th DEAL.

Saint Peter's Chains. R.C.Ch. A festival, August 1, to commemorate the imprisonment of the apostle Peter; — called also Saint Peter in Chains.

Saint Peter's Chair. R.C.Ch. a At Antioch, a festival, Feb. 22, in honor of the founding of the see of Antioch by the apostle Peter. b At Rome a festival, Jan. 18, in honor of the founding of the see of Rome by the apostle Peter.

St.–Pe'ter's–corn', n. Einkorn.

St. Peter's fish. A John Dory; — so called because the black spot on each side, behind the gills, is said to have been caused by the thumb and finger of St. Peter, when he took a coin from a fish of this species. The name is applied, also, to other fishes having similar spots, as the haddock.

Saint Peter's keys. a Theol. = POWER OF THE KEYS. b The crossed keys in the papal arms.

St. Peter's sandstone. [From the river now called the Minnesota.] Geol. A widespread early Ordovician formation of Wisconsin and adjacent States.

Saint Peter's tonsure. See TONSURE.

St.–Pe'ter's–wort', n. Any of several plants: a Any plant of the genus Ascyrum, esp. A. stans of the southeastern United States. b The European related herb Hypericum quadrangulum. c The cowslip Primula veris. d = SNOWBERRY a.

St.–Pe'ter's–wreath', n. The bridal wreath Spiraea prunifolia.

Saint'–Por'chaire' fa'ïence' (sĂn' pôr'shâr'). Ceramics. A celebrated ware, of pale-buff clay inlaid with elaborate patterns in a darker color, made at Saint-Porchaire, in Poitou, France, in the 16th century; — called also Henri Deux faïence and faïence d'Oiron.

St. Re'gis (sānt rē'jĭs). Hort. An everbearing variety of red raspberry; — called also Ranere.

St. Re'gis In'di·an (rē'jĭs). An Iroquois of a settlement on the St. Lawrence, founded by Caughnawaga Indians. The St. Regis Indians became a distinct tribe, of whom about 1,500 live in Quebec and about 1,400 in northern New York. See CAUGHNAWAGA.

St.–Rob'ert's–herb', n. The herb Robert.

St. Ro'nan's Well (rō'nănz; rōn'-). A novel (1823) by Scott, of life in the early 19th century. See DODS, MEG.

saint's bell (sānts). = SANCTUS BELL.

saint's day. The day in a church calendar on which a saint is commemorated.

Saint Sim'e·on Sty·li'tes (sĭm'ē·ŏn stĭ·lī'tēz). See STYLITE.

Saint Simon. = SIMON, 2 b.

Saint'–Si·mo'ni·an (sānt'sĭ·mō'nĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of or pert. to the Count de St.-Simon (1760–1825) or Saint-Simonianism. — n. A follower of St.-Simon, or a believer in Saint'–Si·mo'ni·an·ism (-ĭz'm), his socialistic system, in which the state owns all the property and the laborer is entitled to share according to the quality and amount of his work.

Saint–Si'mon·ist (-sī'mŭn·ĭst), n. A Saint-Simonian.

Saint So·phi'a (sānt sō·fī'ȧ). Also San'ta So·phi'a (sănt'tȧ sō·fē'ȧ). [It. Santa Sofia, ML. Sancta Sophia; Turk. Aya Sofia, fr. Gr. hagia sophia sacred wisdom.] A famous Christian church in Constantinople (Istanbul), erected by Asiatic architects (Anthemius of Tralles and Isodorus of Miletus) under Justinian, 532 to 562. Its most striking feature is the great central dome, 107 ft. in diameter, rising to a height of 180 ft., borne on four huge arches nearly 100 ft. in span. At the Turkish conquest of Constantinople in 1453 the church was converted into a mosque, four minarets being added at the corners of the structure.

Saint Stan'is·las (stăn'ĭs·lȧs). See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint Ste'phen (stē'vĕn). a = STEPHEN, n., 2. b See ORDER, n., 1.

St.–Swith'in's–ap'ple (swĭth'ĭnz; swĭth'-), n. Also St.–Swithun's'–apple (-ŭnz). An apple prematurely ripened from being worm-eaten.

Saint Swithin's, or Swithun's Day. July 15, observed as a festival in honor of St. Swithin, bishop of Winchester, England (852–862). He was not canonized by the church, but only in popular tradition. It is a traditional belief that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day it will continue to rain for forty days.

Saint Sylvester. See ORDER, n., 1.

Saint Sylvester's Eve. The night of Dec. 31, a day observed in many countries as a festival in honor of St. Sylvester, bishop of Rome (314–335).

Saint Te·re'sa (tȧ·rā'sȧ). Teresa Sánchez Cepeda Dávila y Ahumada (1515–1582), a nun of a Carmelite convent in Spain, and founder (1562) of the convent of Discalced Carmelite Nuns of the Primitive Rule of Saint Joseph. She was canonized in 1622. Her feast is Oct. 15.

Saint Thecla. See THECLA, SAINT.

Saint Thomas = THOMAS, 2.

St. Ul·lo'a's bow or circle (ōōl·yō'ăz). A fogbow.

St. Ul'mo's fire (ŭl'mōz). St. Elmo's fire.

Saint Val'en·tine's Day (văl'ĕn·tīnz). Feb. 14, observed as a festival in honor of St. Valentine, a Christian martyr of the 3d century. It was a very old notion that on this day birds begin to mate. The custom of sending love tokens at this time has no actual connection with the saint, whose name was probably introduced through some mistake.

Saint Veronica. See 1st VERONICA.

Saint Victor, Order of. See VICTORINE, 2.

St. Vincent arrowroot. [From the island of St. Vincent.] = TOUS-LES-MOIS.

St. Vi'tus's dance (vī'tŭs·ĭz). Chorea; — so called from Vitus, a child martyr of the Diocletian persecution, who was invoked by those suffering from epilepsy and nervous disorders, and, it is said, from the custom of dancing before his image as a means of securing his intercession.

Saint Wenceslaus. See WENCESLAUS, SAINT.

Saint Wen'ces·laus Bi'ble (wĕn'sĕs·lȧs). See BIBLE, n., 2.

Sa·iph' (sȧ·ĭf'), n. [Ar. sayf al-jabbār the sword of the giant (Orion).] See STAR, Table.

Sa'ite (sā'ĭt), Sa·it'ic (sȧ·ĭt'ĭk), adj. [L. Saïticus, fr. Gr. Saïtikos, fr. Saïs Saïs.] Of or pertaining to Saïs, an ancient city of the Nile delta, which became the capital of Egypt under Psamtik I, founder of the XXVIth Dynasty. — n. A native or inhabitant of Saïs.

saithe (sāth), n. sing. & pl. [Of Scand. origin; cf. ON. seithr, Dan. & Nor. sei.] The coalfish (Pollachius virens). Scot. & Dial. Eng.

Sai'va, Shai'va (sī'vȧ, shī'vȧ), n. [Skr. Śaiva.] Hinduism. A worshiper of Siva. The saiva sects mostly represent decadent philosophies. — Sai'vism, Shai'vism (-vĭz'm), n.

Sai'va, or Shai'va, Sid·dhan'ta (sĭd·dăn'tȧ). The South Indian system of philosophical Saivism.

saj, n. a (săj) [Hind. (fr. Per. & Ar.) sāj.] Arab. The teak. b (sŭj) [Nepali sāj.] An East Indian timber tree (Terminalia tomentosa) or its wood, widely used for construction.

sa·jou' (sȧ·jōō'; F. sȧ'zhōō'), n. [F. sajou, sajouassu, fr. Tupi saï-guaçú, lit., big monkey. Cf. SAI.] = SAPAJOU.

Sa'kai (sä'kī), n. a An individual of a low race of the Malay Peninsula, probably representing an aboriginal population. They are of about Malay stature, but are of light color, and have fine wavy hair. They have a rudimentary saint'hood, n. See -HOOD. saint'ish, adj. See -ISH. saint'less, adj. See -LESS. saint'li·ly, adv. of SAINTLY. Rare. saint'li·ness, n. See -NESS. saint'ling, n. See -LING.

Saint'–Mi'hiel' (sĂN' mē'yĕl'), n. See BATTLE, Table.
saint·ol'o·gy, n. = HAGIOLOGY.
— saint·ol'o·gist (-jĭst), n.
saint'ship, n. See -SHIP.
Saint–Si'mon·ism (sānt·sĭ'mŭn·ĭz'm); n. = SAINT-SIMONIANISM. saip (sāp). Scot. var. of SOAP. sair (sär), sairve (särv). Vars. of SERVE. Chiefly Scot. [New Dial.] sair (Scot. sär). Var. of SAVOR. sair'ly (sär'lĭ). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SORELY. sair'y (sär'ĭ). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of SORRY. sais (sīs). Var. of SYCE. saith (sĕth), 3d pers. sing. pres. of SAY. Archaic. sai'yid. Var. of SAYID. sa'jene. Var. of SAGENE. See MEASURE, Table.
Sāk (sāk); n. = SAKELLARIDIS.
Sa'ka. 1. See SACAE.
2. Var. of SHAKA, 2.

knowledge of agriculture and primitive manufactures. b Their language. See AUSTROASIATIC.

Sa'ka·la·ʼva (sä'kȧ·lä'vȧ), n. A tribe in western Madagascar said to show African affinities. See MALAGASY, 1.

sake (sāk), n. [ME., cause, lawsuit, fault, fr. AS. sacu strife, a cause or suit at law; akin to D. zaak cause, thing, lawsuit, G. sache, OHG. sahha, ON. sök lawsuit, accusation, guilt, Goth. sakjo strife, AS. sacan to contend, claim legally, ON. saka to contend, accuse, injure, Goth. sakan to strive, quarrel, OHG. sahhan, and to E. SEEK. Cf. FORSAKE, SAC lawsuit, SEIZE, SOC.] 1. Dispute; cause in court; lawsuit. See SAC. Obs.

2. Fault; blame; guilt; also, blemish; physical imperfection. Obs.

3. End or objective; purpose; motive; reason; as, to work for the sake of being busy; for the sake of argument; sometimes, ultimate end; final cause; as, art for art's sake; also, a special end, purpose, or motive, as the seeking or getting (of something), the considering, respecting, or serving, needs, wishes, demands, etc. (of someone or something), or the gratifying (of a specified desire, interest, or the like); as, to toil for the sake of money; to live straight for his mother's sake; for conscience' sake.

4. The good, advantage, or well-being, of a person or group; personal or social welfare, safety, benefit, or the like; as, to die for the sake of one's country; to toil for one's family's sake; let us do it for both our sakes.

Knowledge is for the sake of man, and not man for the sake of knowledge. Sir W. Hamilton.

☞ The plural sakes is often used with a possessive plural. "For both our sakes." Shak.

sa'ke (sä'kĕ; -kĭ), n. [Jap.] The chief alcoholic beverage of the Japanese, a kind of beer made by the fermentation of rice. It is usually drunk hot.

sakeber, n. [ON. sakarēberi plaintiff.] O. Eng. Law. The prosecutor in an action of handhaving.

sa·keen' (sȧ·kēn'), n. [Tibetan (s)kyin.] An ibex (Capra sibirica) of the Himalayas.

Sak'el·lar'i·dis (săk'ĕ·lăr'ĭ·dĭs), n. [After Sakellaridis, a Greek merchant.] A prominent variety of Egyptian cotton of a creamy-white color, with the staple about 1½ inches; — called also Sak and Sakel.

sa'ker (sā'kĕr), n. [F. sacre, fr. Ar. ṣaqr.] 1. Zool. a A falcon (Falco cherrug, syn. sacer) used in falconry, native of southern Europe, Asia, and northern Africa. It resembles the Indian luggars and the American prairie falcon. The male is sometimes specif. called sa'ker·et (-ĕt), in distinction from the female, which is larger. b Obs. The peregrine falcon.

2. Mil. A small piece of old-time artillery.

Sa'kha·lin' ir (sä'kȧ·lēn'). [From Sakhalin, isl. east of Siberia.] A tall evergreen tree (Abies sachalinensis) of Sakhalin and northern Japan, cultivated for its bright-green foliage and purple-green cones.

sa'ki (sä'kĭ; sȧ'kē'), n. [F., fr. Tupi saqui, saquin. Cf. SAGOIN.] Any of several South American monkeys of the genus Pithecia, having a bushy nonprehensile tail and long hair which usually forms a beard on the chin and a ruff around the face.

White-headed Sȧki (Pithecia leucocephala). (⅓) ‖sa'ki (sä'kē; sô'kē), n. [Per. (fr. Ar.) sāqi one who gives to drink.] Cupbearer.

sa'ki (sä'kĭ). Var. of SAKE.

sak'i·eh (săk'ĭ·ĕ), s a k' i · y e h (-ĭ·yĕ), n. [Ar. sāqiyah, fem. of sāqi. See 2d SAKI.] A kind of water wheel with buckets attached to its periphery or to an endless rope, used in Egypt for raising water from wells or pits.

Sak·ka'ra (sȧ·kä'rȧ), n. [Appar. fr. Sakkara, town near Cairo, Egypt; — perh. from the color of its limestone pyramid.] The color mouse gray.

Sak'ra (shŭk'rȧ; sŭk'rȧ), n. Also Sak'ka (shŭk'ȧ). [Skr. śakra mighty.] Hindu Myth. A name of Indra.

sak'ul·ya (sȧk'ŏŏl·yȧ; sŭk'-), n. [Skr., one of the same family.] Hindu Law. Any one of the three lineal ancestors (those standing in the 4th, 5th, and 6th degrees of remoteness) to whom is made the offering of the lepa, or the person who makes the offering.

Sa·kun'ta·la (sȧ·kōōn'tȧ·lȧ; shȧ-), Sha·kun'ta·la (shȧ-), n. [Skr. Sakuntalā.] The title and heroine of a famous Sanskrit drama by Kalidasa, translated into English by Sir William Jones (1789) and Sir Monier Monier-Williams (1853). Sakuntala, who has been married by a king, who met her while he was hunting in the forest, loses, while bathing in a pool, a ring which he has given her and by the sight of which he will remember her. It is found by a fisherman in a fish he has caught, and, when taken to the king, causes him to remember and go in search of Sakuntala, who has returned to the forest.

Sak'ya·mu·ni (săk'yȧ·mōō·nē; shăk'-), n. Also Shak'ya·mu·ni (shăk'-). [Skr. Śākyamuni.] A name of Gautama Buddha.

sal (săl), n. [L. See SALT.] Chem. & Pharm. Salt.

sal (săl), n. Geol. = SIAL.

sal (săl; sōl), n., or sal tree. [Hind., Beng., etc. sāl, fr. Skr. śāla.] An East Indian timber tree (Shorea robusta), the foliage of which furnishes food for lac insects; also, its light-brown, close-grained hard wood, second only to teak in value.

sal, sall (săl). Vars. of SHALL. Now Scot. & N. of Eng.

sal-. = SALO-.

Sal (săl), n. Dim. of SARAH.

‖sa'la (sä'lä), n. [Sp.] The large hall in the front part of a house; a dining hall.

sa·laam' (sȧ·läm'), n. Also sa·lam'. [Ar. salām peace, fr. salama to seek peace, surrender. Cf. MOSLEM.] A salutation or compliment of ceremony in the East by word or act; an obeisance, performed by bowing very low and placing the right palm on the forehead.

sa·laam', v. i. & t. Also sa·lam'. To make or perform a salaam; to salute or pay homage to with a salaam.

sa·laam' a·lei'kum (sȧ·läm' ȧ·lī'kōōm; ȧ·lā'-). [Ar. salām 'alaykum.] May peace be upon you; — a Moslem salutation.

sal'a·ble (săl'ȧ·b'l), adj. [From SALE.] Capable of being sold; fit to be sold; marketable; also, Now Rare, purchasable; venal.

Syn. — Cf. VENDIBLE.

— sal'a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), sal'a·ble·ness, n. — sal'a·bly, adv.

‖sal ab·sin'thi·i (săl ăb·sĭn'thĭ·ī). [NL.] Salt of wormwood. Obs.

‖sal a'ce·to·sel'lae (ăs'ē·tō·sĕl'ē). [NL.] Chem. Potassium hydrogen oxalate, KHC_2O_4. See POTASSIUM OXALATE.

Sa·la'ci·a (sȧ·lā'shĭ·ȧ), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. An ancient Italian goddess, the consort of Neptune.

sa·la'cious (sȧ·lā'shŭs), adj. [L. salax, -acis, fond of leaping, lustful, fr. root of salire to leap. See SALIENT.]

1. Having a propensity to venery; lustful; lecherous.

2. Inciting lust or sexual wantonness; — said of food.

Syn. and Ant. — Cf. LEWD.

— sa·la'cious·ly, adv. — sa·la'cious·ness, sa·lac'i·ty (-lăs'ĭ·tĭ), n.

sa'la·cot' (sä'lä·kōt'), n. [Tag.] A large native hat woven from strips of cane or from palm leaves. Phil. I.

sal'ad (săl'ȧd), n. [OF. salade, fr. Pr. salada, fr. salar to salt, fr. sal salt, fr. L. sal. See SALT; cf. SLAW.] 1. a A cold dish of green vegetables such as lettuce, cress, or endive, usually dressed with oil, vinegar, and seasonings; — called also green salad. b Any cold dish of meat, shellfish, fruit, or vegetables, served singly or in combinations, and covered with French dressing, mayonnaise, or the like. c Southern U. S. Cooked greens or poke salad with seasonings. d The course in which such a dish is served.

2. Any green vegetable or herb grown for salad; specif., in the United States, lettuce.

There sprouts a salad in the garden still. Tennyson.

3. An incongruous, heterogeneous, or haphazard mixture or collection; as, fitting the words together instead of making salad.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

salad bowl	salad dish	salad server
salad course	salad plate	salad spoon

‖sa·la'da (sȧ·lä'thȧ; 112), n. [Sp.] A salt-covered plain where a lake has evaporated. Southwestern U. S.

salad burnet. The common garden burnet (Poterium sanguisorba), sometimes eaten as a salad in Italy.

salad days. Days of youthful inexperience. Shak.

salad dressing. A savory sauce for a salad, as French dressing or mayonnaise.

sa·lade' (sȧ·lăd'; săl'ȧd), n. Var. of SALLET, helmet.

‖sa'lade' (sä'lȧd'), n. [F.] Salad.

‖sa'la·de'ro (sä'lä·thā'rō; 112), n. [Sp.] A salting place; esp., an establishment for producing salted and jerked meats.

salad fork. See FORK, 2.

salad herb. = SALAD, 2.

sal'ad·ing, n. Vegetables or herbs for salad. Brit.

salad oil. An oil for salad dressing; specif., in trade, any edible oil other than olive oil, as cottonseed, corn, or peanut oil.

salad rocket. The rocket salad.

salad tree. The redbud Cercis canadensis.

sa·la'go (sȧ·lä'gō), n. [Tag.] Any of several Philippine shrubs of the genus Wikstroemia, esp. W. indica and W. lanceolata; also, their bast fiber, sent to Japan for making bank-note paper and other strong papers.

sa'la·gra'ma (shä'lä·grä'mȧ), n.; pl. -GRAMAS (-mȧz). [Skr. śālagrāma, prop. a place name, fr. grāma village. See SAL tree.] In India, a fossil ammonite supposed by the Hindus to be a representative of Vishnu.

sal'ai tree (săl'ī). [Origin uncert.] An East Indian tree (Boswellia serrata), the resin of which is used as an incense and also in medicinally. See BOSWELLIA; GUGAL b.

sal'al (săl'ăl), n. [Chinook Jargon, fr. Chinook kl'kwushálla.] A small shrub (Gaultheria shallon) of the Pacific coast of North America. Its edible dark-purple berry is about the size of a common grape.

sal alembroth. Old Chem. See ALEMBROTH.

sal'a·man'da·rin (săl'ȧ·măn'dȧ·rĭn), n. Chem. A leucomaine from a salamander.

sal'a·man'der (săl'ȧ·măn'dĕr), n. [OF. salamandre, fr. L. salamandra, fr. Gr. salamandra of obscure origin.] 1. a A lizardlike animal (see def. 2) once popularly supposed to be able to live in fire; hence, a mythical and not clearly defined animal having the power to endure fire without harm. b In the medieval theory of elementals, esp. as formulated by Paracelsus, a being inhabiting the element fire. Cf. 2d GNOME; SYLPH, UNDINE.

2. Any of numerous amphibians of the order caudata, which superficially resemble lizards, but are scaleless, being covered with a soft, moist skin. Most of them are small, and somewhat terrestrial when adult, living in moist, dark places, but the majority pass through an aquatic larval stage during which they breathe by gills. Certain small, chiefly aquatic forms are called newts. The salamanders are harmless and feed on aquatic worms, insects, and other small animals. The best-known European species is Salamandra maculosa, which is black with large yellow or orange blotches. Species of the genus Ambystoma are well-known American forms. Cf. HELLBENDER, 1; GIANT SALAMANDER.

(½) Spotted Salamander (Ambystoma maculatum).

3. Any of various articles used in connection with the fire; as: a A culinary utensil of metal with a plate or disk, heated, and held over pastry, etc., to brown it. b A small portable stove, often burning coke, used esp. to keep concrete, plaster, etc., from freezing during the construction of a building; — called also salamander stove. c A small portable incinerator, often a wire basket. d A large poker. Chiefly Dial. Eng. e An iron used red-hot for igniting certain substances, as gunpowder.

4. A person likened to a mythical salamander in any way; esp.: a A woman who excites and foments passion but does not yield to it. b One who is not afraid to expose himself to gunfire. c A fire-eater.

5. The pocket gopher (Geomys tuza) of the southeastern United States.

6. Asbestos; — called also salamander, or salamander's, wool. Obs.

7. Metal. A mass of unfused material in the hearth of a blast furnace, usually largely metallic iron, partially reduced ore, etc.; — called also bear, sow, or shadrach.

sal'a·man'der (săl'ȧ·măn'dĕr), v. t. & i. To be or to make capable of enduring or resisting heat.

sal'a·man'dra (·măn'drȧ), n. [L.] 1. A salamander. Obs.

2. [cap.] Zool. A genus of amphibians formerly including most salamanders, but now limited to S. maculosa of Europe and a few other Old World species. It is the type of a family, Sal'a·man'dri·dae (-drĭ·dē).

— sal'a·man'dri·an (-drĭ'ăn), adj.

sal'a·man'dri·form (-măn'drĭ·fôrm), adj. Zool. Shaped like a salamander.

sal'a·man'drine (săl'ȧ·măn'drĭn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, a salamander, esp. as capable of enduring fire.

— n. A salamanderlike person or spirit.

sal'a·man'droid (-droid), adj. [salamander + -oid.] Like, or pertaining to, the salamanders.

‖sal a·ma'rum (săl ȧ·mä'rŭm; -mä'rŭm; 79). [L., bitter salt.] Epsom salt.

‖sa·la'mat (sä·lä'mät), interj. [Tag.] An exclamation of gratitude or welcome. Phil. I.

sa'lam·ba'o (sä'läm·bä'ō), n. [Tag.] In the Orient, a large net mounted on a raft for use in sea fishing.

‖sa·la'me (sä·lä'mā), n.; pl. sa·la'mi (-mē). [It. Cf. SALMAGUNDI.] Usually pl. Salt meat; esp., a kind of summer sausage.

Sal'a·min'i·an (săl'ȧ·mĭn'ĭ·ăn), adj. Of Salamis, in Cyprus.

sal ammoniac, or sal'·am·mo'ni·ac, n. Ammonium chloride; — so called because originally made from the soot from camel's dung at the temple of Jupiter Ammon in Africa.

sal'am·pore (săl'ăm·pōr), n. A chintz. India.

sal'an·gane (săl'ăng·gān), n. [F., fr. Visayan & Tag. salangan.] Any of several swifts producing the edible bird's nests (which see).

Sa·la'ni·o (sȧ·lā'nĭ·ō), n. A character in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice.

sa·lar' (sȧ·lär'), n. [L. salarius pert. to salt.] = SALINE, 3.

Sa·lar' (sȧ·lär'), n. sing. & pl. One of a Moslem people in Chinese Turkestan, speaking a Turkic dialect.

sa·lar'i·at (sȧ·lăr'ĭ·ăt), n. [salary + -riat as in proletariat.] The class or body of those who receive a salary, in contradistinction to the proletariat.

sal'a·ried (săl'ȧ·rĭd), adj. Receiving a salary; paid by a salary; having a salary attached; as, a salaried officer; a salaried office; salaried employees.

‖sa'la·rie'go (sä'lä·ryā'gō), n. [Sp.] In medieval Spain, land held by the nobles.

Sal'a·ri'no (săl'ȧ·rē'nō), n. A character in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice.

sal ar·mo'ni·ac (är·mō'nĭ·ăk) or ar·mo'ni·ak. = SAL AMMONIAC.

sal'a·ry (săl'ȧ·rĭ), n., pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [AF. salarie, OF. salaire, fr. L. salarium pension, stipend, orig., salt money, the money given to the Roman soldiers for salt, which was a part of their pay, fr. salarius pertaining to salt, fr. sal salt. See SALT.] 1. The recompense or consideration paid, or stipulated to be paid, to a person at regular intervals for services, esp. to holders of official, executive, or clerical positions; fixed compensation regularly paid, as by the year, quarter, month, or week; stipend — now often distinguished from wages.

2. Compensation; recompense; reward; also, a remuneration for services given, as a fee or honorarium. Obs.

O, this is hire and salary, not revenge. Shak.

Syn. — Pay, hire, allowance. See WAGES.

sal'a·ry (săl'ȧ·rĭ), v. t.; -RIED (-rĭd); -RY·ING (-rĭ·ĭng). [Cf. F. salarier.] To pay a salary to, as an employee; to attach a salary to, as a post; to provide salaries for those employed in, as a business; — chiefly in past participle.

sal'a·ry (săl'ȧ·rĭ). Dial. var. of CELERY.

sa·lat' (sȧ·lät'), n.; pl. SALAWAT (sȧ·lä'wät). [Ar. ṣalāh.] The ritual prayer of Mohammedans, made five times daily, in a standing position alternating with inclinations and prostrations, the worshiper facing toward Mecca.

Sa·la'thi·el (sȧ·lā'thĭ·ĕl). 1. Successor of Jehoiachin. Bib.

2. a A name sometimes given to the Wandering Jew. b The title and hero of a novel (1829) by George Croly.

‖sal At'ti·cus or At'ti·cum (ăt'ĭ·kŭs, -kŭm). [L.] Attic salt.

‖sal'band' (zäl'bänt'), n. [G. salband, sahlband, lit., self end (cf. SELVAGE). See SELF; END.] Petrog. The border of a dike or other igneous mass, usually characterized by a finer grain or even glassy texture produced by the chilling of the molten rock by the cold country rock.

‖sal ca·thar'ti·cus (kȧ·thär'tĭ·kŭs). [NL.] Epsom salt.

‖sal cu'li·na'ri·us (kū'lĭ·nā'rĭ·ŭs; 79). [L.] Old Chem. Common salt. See SALT, n., 1.

‖sal de du'o·bus (dē dū'ō·bŭs). [NL.] Old Chem. Potassium sulphate; — erroneously supposed to be composed of two salts, one acid and one alkaline.

sale (sāl), n. [Late AS. sala, fr. ON. sala. See SELL, v.; cf. HANDSEL.] 1. Law. Act of selling; a contract whereby the absolute, or general, ownership of property is transferred from one person to another for a price, or sum of money, or, loosely, for any consideration; also, a contract for such transfer of ownership in the future or upon the future fulfillment of some condition (this latter being by some differentiated as an agreement to sell). The word sale is often specifically used of the sale of personal property, as usually in the phrase the law of sales. Cf. GIFT, n, 7 b.

2. Opportunity of selling or being sold; demand; market.

Where gingerbread wives have a scanty sale. Keats.

3. The purpose, end, or fact, of selling, being sold, or being offered for purchase; exhibition for selling; also, the status of being purchasable; — chiefly in phrases, as the obsolete of sale, set to sale, and to sale, and the current on sale, to put up for sale, and for sale. Hence, for sale, to be sold. "One who sets his services to sale." Dryden. "Still is for sale, next June, that same château." Browning.

4. Public disposal to the highest bidder; auction.

5. A selling off of surplus, shopworn, or other stock, at bargain prices; an advertised disposal of marked-down goods.

— on sale or return. On approval. See APPROVAL, 2.

sale, adj. 1. Orig., intended for selling rather than home use; as, sale milk or bread; later, produced or raised in large quantities for the trade; as, sale lambs; sometimes, esp. in disparagement, ready-made; factory-made; of the common run; as, sale doors or tools.

2. Engaged in or connected with things made or raised for sale.

Sak'a·lar'i·des (săk'ȧ·lăr'ĭ·dēz). Var. of SAKELLARIDES.

Sak'el, Sak'ell (săk'ĕl), n. = SAKELLARIDES.

Sak'e·lar'i·des (săk'ĕ·lăr'ĭ·dēz), Sak'e·lar'i·dis (-dĭs), Sak'el·lar'i·des (săk'ĕ·lăr'ĭ·dēz). Vars. of SAKELLARIDES.

Sa'kha (sä'kĭ), n. = YAKUT.

sa'kha. Var. of SHAKHA.

sak'i·a (săk'ĭ·ȧ). Var. of SAKIEH.

Sak'ia. Var. of SAKKA.

sakring. † SACRING.

Sak'ta (sŭk'tȧ; shŭk'-). Var. of SHAKTA. [of SHAKTI.

Sak'ti (sŭk'tē; Skr. shŭk'-). Var.;

Sak'tism. Var. of SHAKTISM.

Sa'la (sä'lȧ). Bib.

Sal'a·i (săl'ā·ī). D. Bib.

sa·laam'like', adj. See -LIKE.

Sal'a·bo'ni (săl'ȧ·bō'nī). D. Bib.

Sal'a·bo'nite (-nīt). D. Bib.

sa·la'dang (sȧ·lä'dăng). Var. of SELADANG. [of CELANDINE.]

sal'a·dine (săl'ȧ·dēn). Dial. var.

sal'ae·ra'tus. Var. of SALERATUS.

Sa'lah (sä'lȧ). Bib.

Sal'a·i (săl'ā·ī). D. Bib.

sa·lam' (sȧ·läm'). Var. of SALAAM. [-LIKE.]

sal'a·man'der·like', adj. See

Sal'a·man·dri'na (săl'ȧ·măn·drī'nȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of MUTABILIA.

sal'a·mich, n. Salamander. Obs.

Sa·la'mi·el (sȧ·lā'mĭ·ĕl). D. Bib.

Sal'a·mi'na (săl'ȧ·mī'nȧ). D. Bib.

Sal'a·mis (săl'ȧ·mĭs), n. See BATTLE, Table. [GAME. Cen. Am.] sa·la'mo (sȧ·lä'mō), n. = DA-

Sa·lan'gi·dae (sȧ·lăn'jĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. salanx, name of a fish.] Zool. See ICEFISH a. — sa·lan'gid (-jĭd), n.

sa·lar'i·at'ed, adj. Salaried. Obs.

sal'a·ry·less, adj. See -LESS.

salary deduction or savings insurance. See LIFE INSURANCE.

Sal'a·sad'a·i (săl'ȧ·sȧd'ā·ī). Bib.

sal'ate. Dial. var. of SALAD.

Sal'a·thi (săl'ȧ·thĭ). D. Bib.

sa·lay', n. sing. & pl. [Burmese calay.] See MEASURE, Table.

Sal'cah, -chah (săl'kȧ). Bib.

sal'cion·al. Var. of SALICIONAL.

sale (sāl), n. [Cf. SALLOW.] Willow; also, a wicker net of willow. Dial.

sale, n. [AS. sæl. See SALON.] Hall; palace; chamber; bower. Obs.

‖sal'lé' (sä'lä'), adj. masc., sa'lée' (sä'lā'), fem. [F.] Salted; corned.

sale block. An auction stand; specif., a platform on which slaves for sale were exhibited.

sale'go'er (sāl'gō'ĕr), n. One who attends sales.

sa'le·le (sä'lā·lā), n. [Samoan sali.] A large swift fish (Kuhlia rupestris) of the Samoan rivers, resembling the black bass. Cf. KUHLIDAE.

sa·le'ma (sə·lē'mä), n. [Sp. & Pg. (& NL.), of unknown origin.] a A Florida and West Indian fish (Salema rhomboidalis, syn. Archosargus unimaculatus), similar to the sheepshead. b A food fish (Kyphosus analogus) of the west coast of Mexico, resembling the chopa blanca.

Sa'lem grass (sā'lĕm). Velvet grass.

‖sal e·nix'um (săl ē·nĭk'sŭm). [NL.] Crude acid potassium sulphate, used as an aperient.

sale note. Com. A memorandum given by a broker to a buyer or seller of goods, stating that the specified goods have been sold by him for the account of a (named) seller to a (named) buyer.

sal'ep (săl'ĕp), n. [F. & Sp., fr. Ar. sahlab, corrupt. of khuṣa al-tha'lab the fox's testicles (cf. ORCHIS).] The dried tubers of any of various European species of Orchis, or of any of several East Indian orchids of the genus Eulophia. Salep contains gum and starch; it is used for food like tapioca, and also as a demulcent.

sal'e·ra'tus (săl'ē·rā'tŭs), n. [NL. sal aeratus; — because "fixed air" is evolved on treatment with acids. See SAL; AERATED.] Literally, aerated salt, potassium bicarbonate or sodium bicarbonate, now commonly the latter; baking soda.

saleratus weed. The common glasswort (Salicornia europaea).

Sa·le'ri·o (sə·lē'rĭ·ō; -lĕr'ĭ·ō), n. A character in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice.

sales account (sālz). = ACCOUNT SALES.

sales agency. The commission or the place of business of a sales agent.

sales agent. One commissioned by a manufacturing concern to sell or distribute for sale its product or products within a given territory.

sales book. A book of original entry for recording sales.

sales'clerk' (sālz'klûrk'), n. An employee who makes and records sales at a counter.

sales floor. A floor where goods are offered for sale.

sales force. The sales clerks or sales agents of an establishment.

Sa·le'sian (sə·lē'shăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or named after, St. Francis de Sales (1567–1622); as, Salesian Sisters, the nuns of the Order of the Visitation of Our Lady; Salesian Fathers, a Roman Catholic order of men founded by Don Bosco, a priest of Turin, in 1864, approved by Pius IX in 1874. — n. A member of a Salesian order.

sales journal. = SALES BOOK.

sales'la'dy (sālz'lā'dĭ), n. A saleswoman. Collog., U. S.

sales ledger. A ledger containing accounts with debtors; — called also customers' ledger, accounts receivable ledger.

sales'man (sālz'măn), n. [sale's + man.] One whose occupation is to sell, as goods, merchandise, land, securities, transportation, etc., either in a store or within a given territory; specif., a commercial traveler.

sales manager. See MANAGER.

sales'man·ship (sālz'măn·shĭp), n. Com. a The art of selling. b The condition of being a salesman. c Ability in selling goods; skill in the presentation of goods for sale.

sales note. Commerce. A memorandum of the terms of a contract of sale of goods. U. S.

sales'peo'ple (sālz'pē'p'l), n. Employees whose occupation is to sell merchandise, esp. a corps of such employees of a particular business concern.

sales'per'son (-pûr'sŭn; -s'n), n. One whose occupation is selling merchandise.

sales resistance. In commerce, any condition or set of conditions serving to prevent or restrict buying of certain goods; also, the degree in which this affects sales.

sales'room' (sālz'rōōm'), n. Also sale'room' (sāl'-). A room in which sales are made; esp., an auction room.

sales talk. The presentation of arguments by a salesman designed to effect a sale.

sales tax. A tax assessed upon receipts from sales of goods.

sales'wom'an (sālz'wŏŏm'ăn), n.; pl. -WOMEN (-wĭm'ĕn; -ĭn; 119). A woman whose occupation is to sell goods or merchandise.

sale'work' (sāl'wûrk'), n. Work done for sale, esp. carelessly or slightingly.

> I see no more in you than in the ordinary > Of nature's sale work. Shak.

sale'yard' (-yärd'), n. A yard in which live stock is sold.

sal'fern (săl'fĕrn), n., or salfern stoneseed. The corn gromwell.

‖sal gem'mae (săl jĕm'ē). [NL.] Old Mineral. Rock salt, esp. when quite pure.

sali-. A combining form, French sali-, from Latin sal, salis, salt, as in saliferous, salimeter.

Sa'li·an (sā'lĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Rom. Relig. Of or pertaining to the Salii, or priests of Mars; as, Salian hymns; the Salian dance. — n. One of the Salii.

Sa'li·an, adj. Denoting, or pertaining to, a tribe of Franks who established themselves early in the 4th century on the river Sala (now Ijssel); Salic. — n. A Salian Frank. See FRANK, n., 1.

Sal'ic (săl'ĭk; sā'lĭk), adj. [F. salique, fr. the Salian Franks, LL. Salii, fr. the Teut. name, fr. the old name of the river Ijssel in the Netherlands.] Of or pertaining to the Salian Franks, or the Salic law so called.

sal'ic (săl'ĭk), adj. [salica + aluminum + -ic.] Petrog. Of or pertaining to a group of minerals, mostly siliceous and aluminous, which form one of two groups in the Cross, Pirsson, Iddings, Washington (C.I.P.W.) classification.

Sal'i·ca'ce·ae (săl'ĭ·kā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SALIX.] Bot. A family of dioecious trees or shrubs (the willow family) constituting the order Salicales, and including only two genera, Salix and Populus. They have small apetalous flowers in aments. — sal'i·ca'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

sal'i·ce'tum (săl'ĭ·sē'tŭm), n.; pl. -TUMS (-tŭmz), -TA (-tä). [L., fr. salix willow.] A collection or plantation of living willows; a willow arboretum.

sal'i·cin (săl'ĭ·sĭn), n. Also -cine (-sĭn; -sēn). [F. salicine, fr. L. salix, -icis, a willow. See SALLOW willow.] Chem. A bitter white crystalline glucoside, $C_{13}H_{18}O_7$, found in the bark and leaves of several species of willow (Salix) and poplar. On hydrolysis (by the enzyme emulsin or otherwise) it yields dextrose and saligenin. It is used in medicine as an antipyretic, antirheumatic, and tonic.

sa·li'cion·al (sə·lĭsh'ŭn·ăl; -l), n. [G. (now salizional), fr. L. salix willow.] Music. A soft-toned labial organ stop, usually of 8-foot pitch. When of 4-foot or 2-foot pitch it is often called sal'i·cet (săl'ĭ·sĕt).

Salic law. a A code or compilation of the customary laws, chiefly relating to torts, crimes, and procedure, of the Germanic tribes, including part of the laws of the Salian, or Merovingian, Franks. It was probably made near the end of the 5th century. b The provision of this law stating that "Of Salic land no portion shall come to a woman; but the whole of the inheritance of the land shall come to the male sex" (5th par., chap. 59); hence, the law or rule, consisting in an application of this law to succession to the crown, by which women were excluded from the throne in France in the contest for the French throne between Edward III of England and Philip VI of France in the 14th century and in Spain from 1714 to 1830.

sal'i·corn (săl'ĭ·kôrn), n. A salicornia.

Sal'i·cor'ni·a (săl'ĭ·kôr'nĭ·ä), n. [NL., of obscure origin; cf. F. salicor, salicot, salicorne.] Bot. a A small genus of fleshy maritime herbs (family Chenopodiaceae) having thick, jointed, leafless stems bearing the minute flowers immersed in the upper nodes, forming a spike. The utricle contains a single seed. The species, called glasswort or marsh samphire, are widely distributed. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

sal'i·cyl (săl'ĭ·sĭl), n. [salicin + -yl.] Chem. a = SALICYLYL. b The univalent radical $C_6H_4(OH).(o\text{-})$; orthohydroxy-phenyl. c Less commonly, the univalent radical, $C_6H_4(OH)CH_2$, of salicyl alcohol (saligenin).

salicyl-. Chem. = SALICYLO-, as in:

salicylaniliide	salicylase	salicylyl sal'i·cyl·al (săl'ĭ·sĭl·ăl), n. Chem. a = SALICYLALDEHYDE. b The bivalent radical, $C_6H_4(OH)CH$, of which salicylaldehyde is the oxide.

sal'i·cyl·al'de·hyde (-ăl'dē·hīd), n. [salicylic + aldehyde.] Chem. A fragrant, colorless oil, $C_6H_4(OH)CHO$, found in the flowers of meadowsweet and also formed by oxidation of salicin, saligenin, etc.; salicylic aldehyde; ortho-hydroxy-benzaldehyde.

sal'i·cyl·am'ide (-ăm'ĭd; -īd; 157), n. Also -id. Chem. A colorless crystalline compound, $C_6H_4(OH)CONH_2$, made by treating methyl salicylate with strong ammonia; salicylic amide. It is used as a substitute for salicylic acid.

sal'i·cyl'ate (săl'ĭ·sĭl'āt; sə·lĭs'ĭ·lāt; săl'ĭ·sĭl'āt), n. A salt or ester of salicylic acid.

sal'i·cyl'ate (-āt), v. t. To treat with salicylic acid.

sal'i·cyl'ic (săl'ĭ·sĭl'ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or designating a colorless crystalline acid, $C_6H_4(OH)CO_2H$, of sweetish acrid taste, occurring in many plants and in most fruits, often in the form of its methyl ester (see METHYL SALICYLATE); ortho-hydroxybenzoic (acid). It was formerly obtained from salicin, but is now made in large quantities from phenol (carbolic acid) by action of carbon dioxide on heated sodium phenolate. It is used as an antiseptic and preservative, in dye manufacture, and (in its salts) in the treatment of rheumatism.

sal'i·cyl'ide (săl'ĭ·sĭl'īd; -ĭd; 157), n. Also -id. [salicylic + anhydride.] Chem. a Any of certain anhydrides of salicylic acid; specif., a white crystalline compound, $(OC_6H_4CO)_4$, formed by condensation of four molecules of salicylic acid and called specif. tetrasalicylide as disting. from disalicylide, $(C_7H_4O_3)_2$, polysalicylide, $(C_7H_4O_3)_x$, etc. b Rare. Salicylaldehyde.

sal'i·cyl·ism (-sĭl·ĭz'ĭm), n. Med. The condition produced by the excessive use of salicylic acid or salicylates.

sal'i·cyl·ize (-īz), v. t. [salicylic + -ize.] Med. To treat (a patient) with salicylic acid or its compounds until physiological effects are produced.

sal'i·cyl'o- (săl'ĭ·sĭl'ō-), salicyl-. Chem. A combining form for salicylic.

sal'i·cyl'ous ac'id (săl'ĭ·sĭl'ŭs). Chem. Salicylaldehyde. Now Rare.

sal'i·cy·lu'ric (-sĭ·lū'rĭk), adj. [salicyl + uric.] Biochem. Pertaining to or designating an acid, $C_9H_9NO_4$, found in the urine after the administration of salicylic acid. It is a salicyl derivative of glycine. Cf. HIPPURIC.

sal'i·cyl'yl (săl'ĭ·sĭl'ĭl), n. [salicyl + -yl.] Chem. The univalent radical, $C_6H_4(OH)CO$, of salicylic acid. Cf. BENZOYL.

sa'li·ence (sā'lĭ·ĕns; 159), sa'li·en·cy (-ĕn·sĭ), n. [See SALIENT.] 1. The quality of being salient. Specif.: a Agility in leaping and springing. Leigh Hunt. b Prominence; emphasis; as, to give salience to the important points. c The quality of having a salient point or points; as, an argument without salience.

2. A salient, prominent, or significant, feature, detail, point, or the like; as, to seize the saliences of a story.

sa'li·ent (sā'lĭ·ĕnt; 159), adj. [L. saliens, -entis, pres. part. of salire to leap. See SALLY.] 1. Moving by leaps or springs; leaping; bounding; jumping.

2. a Spouting forth or up; jetting; — of water.

> He had in himself a salient, living spring of generous and manly action. Burke.

b Shooting out or up; springing; projecting.

3. Projecting outwardly; as, a salient angle (opp. to REENTERING ANGLE). See BASTION, Illust.

4. Hence, appearing above or beyond a general line, surface, or level; prominent; conspicuous; noticeable; as, one's salient traits.

5. Fort. Pointing away from the center of the fortification.

6. Her. Represented in a leaping position with both hind feet on the ground; in ancient armory, rampant leaning somewhat forward.

Syn. and Ant. — See PROMINENT.

— sa'li·ent·ly, adv.

Lion Salient.

sa'li·ent (sā'lĭ·ĕnt), n. 1. Fort. A salient angle or part.

2. Mil. An outwardly projecting part of a trench system or line of defense.

salient batrachian or amphibian. One of the Salientia.

Sa'li·en'ti·a (sā'lĭ·ĕn'shĭ·ä), n. pl. [NL. See SALIENT, adj.] Zool. An order comprising the majority of existing Amphibia, characterized by absence of the tail in the adult state. The hind legs are long and usually fitted for jumping. It includes the frogs, toads, and tree toads, and is divided into the suborders Aglossa, Linguata, and Costata. Syn. Anura. — sa'li·en'ti·an (-shĭ·ăn; -shăn), adj. & n.

salient point. a Obs. The heart as it first moves in an embryo. b Archaic. Beginning; starting point. c A prominent feature or detail. d Math. Rare. A point of a curve where the first derivative is discontinuous, or where the direction of the tangent changes abruptly.

salient pole. Elec. a A magnet pole which projects toward the armature of an electric machine. b pl. The poles at the extremities of a magnet. Cf. CONSEQUENT POLES.

sa·lif'er·ous (sə·lĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. sal salt + -ferous.] Producing, or impregnated with salt; salt-bearing.

sal'i·fi'a·ble (săl'ĭ·fī'ä·b'l), adj. [See SALIFY.] Chem. Capable of being salified.

sal'i·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. Chem. Act, process, or result of salifying; the state of being salified.

sal'i·fy (săl'ĭ·fī), v. t.; SAL'I·FIED (-fīd); SAL'I·FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [F. salifier.] Chem. a To combine or impregnate with a salt. b To form a salt with; to convert into a salt; as, to salify a base by treatment with an acid or an acid by treatment with a base.

sa·lig'e·nin (sə·lĭj'ē·nĭn), sa·lig'e·nol (-nōl; -nŏl), n. [salicin + -gen.] Chem. A white crystalline compound, $C_6H_4(OH)CH_2OH$, obtained by hydrolysis of salicin, by reduction of salicylaldehyde, etc.; ortho-hydroxy benzyl alcohol.

sal'i·got (săl'ĭ·gŏt), n. [F.] The water chestnut Trapa natans.

Sa'li·i (sā'lĭ·ī), n. pl. [L., lit., the leapers.] Rom. Relig. A priesthood consisting originally of two bodies of twelve members each, the Sa'li·i Pa'la·ti'ni (păl'ä·tī'nī), war priests of Mars, and the Sa'li·i Col·lī'ni or A'go·nen'ses (kŏ·lī'nī, äg'ō·nĕn'sēz), war priests of Quirinus, who were united in historical times in the service of Jupiter, Mars, and Quirinus. Their function was to secure the favor of the war god. The occasions of their chief ceremonials were the Quinquatrus, March 19, and the Armilustrium, October 19.

sa·li'na (sə·lī'nä), n. [Sp., fr. L. salinae, pl., saltworks, fr. sal salt. See SALT.] 1. A salt marsh, pond, or lake, enclosed from the sea.

2. Saltworks.

3. A place where deposits of crystallized salt are found.

Sa·li'na (sə·lī'nä), n. [From Salina, N. Y.] Geol. A subdivision of the American Silurian. See GEOLOGY, Chart. The formation includes the most important salt beds of New York and adjacent States.

Sa·li'na (sä·lē'nä), n. An Indian of Salinan stock.

Sa·li'nan (-năn), adj. Designating, or pertaining to, an almost extinct linguistic family comprising the Indians of the San Antonio and San Miguel missions in southern California.

sal'i·na'tion (săl'ĭ·nā'shŭn), n. Treatment with salt or salt solution.

sa'line (sā'lĭn), adj. [F. salin, fr. (assumed) L. salinus; cf. L. salinae salt works, salinum saltcellar. See SALINA.] 1. Consisting of salt, or containing salt; saliferous; as, saline particles, substances, or springs; a saline solution.

2. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, salt or salts; salty.

3. Pharm. & Med. Consisting of or pertaining to the salts of the alkali metals or of magnesium; as, a saline cathartic.

sa'line (sā'lĭn or, esp. Brit., sä·lēn'), n. [See SALINE, adj.; cf. SALINA.] 1. A salt spring; a natural deposit of common salt or of any other soluble salt, such as may be left by the evaporation of a lake; a salina.

2. a A metallic salt; esp., a salt of potassium, sodium, or magnesium with a cathartic action; also an aqueous solution of one or more such salts. b A crude potash obtained from beetroot residues and similar sources.

3. pl. Collectively, the naturally occurring soluble salts, as common salt, sodium carbonate, sodium nitrate, potassium salts, borax, etc.

4. Physiol. A saline solution, esp. physiological salt solution for mammals.

saline dome. Geol. A salt dome.

Sal'i·nel'la (săl'ĭ·nĕl'ä), n. [NL.; so called because found in salines and raised in saline aquariums.] Zool. A genus of minute animals of doubtful relationship (see MESOZOA), having the body composed of a single layer of cells surrounding a central digestive cavity.

sal'i·nelle' (săl'ĭ·nĕl'), n. [F.] Geol. A mud volcano which erupts saline mud.

saline water. See MINERAL WATER.

sa·lin'i·fi·ca'tion (sə·lĭn'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [saline + -fication.] Process of making salt. Rare.

sa·lin'i·form (sə·lĭn'ĭ·fôrm), adj. Having the form or qualities of a salt.

sa·lin'i·ty (-tĭ), n. The quality or degree of being saline; saltness.

sa'lin·ize (sā'lĭn·īz), v. t. [saline + -ize.] To impregnate or treat with a salt.

sa·li'no- (sə·lī'nō-). A combining form from saline, denoting saline and, as in sa·li'no·sul·phu're·ous, sa·li'no·ter're·ous.

sal'i·nom'e·ter (săl'ĭ·nŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [L. sal salt + -meter.] An instrument for measuring the amount of salt in a solution; a hydrometer specially graduated so as to indicate directly the percentage of a particular salt (esp. common salt) in a solution of it. — sal'i·nom'e·try (-trĭ), n.

Sa'lish (sā'lĭsh), n. An Indian of Salishan stock; esp., a Flathead; also, the language of these Indians. See FLATHEAD, 1 b.

Sa'lish·an (sā'lĭsh·ăn; săl'ĭsh-), adj. Pertaining to or designating an American Indian linguistic family, formerly occupying a large area including the southern half of British Columbia, most of the State of Washington, and parts of Oregon, Idaho, and Montana. The Salishan languages have been classified as Interior Salish, with seven subdivisions, and Coast Salish, with nine. They were spoken by 97 tribes of which the Bellacoola, Chehalis, Clallam, Coeur d' Alêne, Flathead, Nisqually, and Twana were among the most important.

sale. † SAIL, SHALL, SOUL. sale'a·ble, etc. Var. of SALABLE, etc. sal'eb (săl'ĕb). Var. of SALEP.
Sal'e·bim (săl'ē·bĭm). D. Bib. sal'e·bros'i·ty (săl'ē·brŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Roughness; ruggedness. Obs. sal'e·brous (săl'ē·brŭs), adj. [L. salebrosus.] Rough; rugged. Obs.
Sal'e·cha (săl'ē·kä). D. Bib. salem. † SALAAM.
Sa'lem (sā'lĕm). Bib. [D. Bib.] Sa·le'moth (sä·lē'mōth; -mŏth). sal'em·pore. Var. of SALAMPORE. sal'e·nix'on, n. = SAL ENIXUM. sale'-o'ver, n. Arch. = OVERSAIL. sal'er, n. [OF. saliere. See SALTCELLAR.] A saltcellar. Obs. sal'et. Var. of SALLET. sal'et. Var. of SALAD. Obs. exc. Dial. salew. † SALLOW, willow; SALUE. sale'ware', n. Merchandise. Obs. sal'i·ant. Var. of SALIENT, adj.
Sa'li·ar'ic (sā'lĭ·ăr'ĭk), adj. = SALIAN. sa'li·ance, n. [See SALIENCE, SALLY.] Onslaught. Obs.
Sa·li'ba (sä·lē'bä). Var. of SALIVA.
Sal'i·ca'les (săl'ĭ·kā'lēz), n. pl. [NL.] See SALICACEAE.
Sal'i·car'i·a'ce·ae (săl'ĭ·kăr'ĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Salicaria (obs. syn. of Lythrum) + -aceae.] Syn. of LYTHRACEAE. salicyl alcohol. = SALIGENIN. salicylic aldehyde. = SALICYLALDEHYDE. sal'i·cyl'i·dene (săl'ĭ·sĭl'ĭ·dēn), n. [salicylic + -idene.] = SALICYLAL. b. sal'i·gram (săl'ĭ·grăm), sa'li·gra'ma. Vars. of SALAGRAMA.
Sa'lim (sā'lĭm). Bib.
sal·im'e·ter (săl·ĭm'ē·tĕr), n. = SALINOMETER. — sal·im'e·try (-trĭ), n. sa'lin (sā'lĭn). Var. of SALINE, n. sa'line·ness (sā'lĭn·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. = SALINITY. sal'i·nif'er·ous (săl'ĭ·nĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [saline + -ferous.] = SALIFEROUS. sa·li'nous (sə·lī'nŭs), adj. Saline. Obs.
Sa'lique' (sä·lēk'; săl'ĭk). Var. of SALIC.
Sal'i·sa (săl'ĭ·sä). D. Bib.
Sal'is·bu'ri·a (săl'ĭs·bū'rĭ·ä), n. [NL., after R. A. Salisbury (1761–1829), Eng. botanist.] Syn. of GINKGO.
Salis'bur'y steak (sôlz'bĕr'ĭ). = HAMBURG STEAK.

sa'lite (sā'lĭt; săl'-), n. Also sah'lite (sä'-). [From Sala, town in Sweden.] A variety of pyroxene.

sa'lit·ed (sā'lĭt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Containing or impregnated with salt. Now Rare.

sa·li'va (sȧ·lī'vȧ), n. [L. See SALLOW, adj.] The fluid secreted by the glands discharging into the mouth; spittle. In man it is a mixture of the secretions of the salivary glands proper, the parotid, submaxillary, and sublingual (see SALIVARY GLAND), and the small glands of the mucous membrane. It is a somewhat turbid and viscid fluid, generally having a weakly alkaline reaction. Saliva serves to moisten the mucous membrane and the food, aiding in tasting, mastication, and especially in swallowing. Its most important constituent is ptyalin.

Sa·li'va (sȧ·lē'vȧ), n. An Indian of a Salivan tribe. — adj. = SALIVAN.

sa·li'val (sȧ·lī'vȧl), adj. [ML. salivalis.] Salivary. Now Rare.

Sa·li'van (sȧ·lē'vȧn), adj. Pertaining to or designating a South American Indian linguistic family occupying a large area in the upper valley of the Orinoco. It comprises the Makus, the Salivas, and probably the Piaroas, tribes of very primitive culture. See PIAROA.

sal'i·vant (săl'ĭ·vȧnt), adj. [L. salivans, pres. part. of salivare. See SALIVATE.] Causing or increasing the flow of saliva.

sal'i·vant, n. A salivant drug or agent; a sialagogue.

sal'i·var'y (săl'ĭ·vĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -vēr·ĭ), adj. [L. salivarius.] Physiol. Of or pertaining to saliva or the glands which secrete it; producing or carrying saliva.

salivary calculi. See CALCULUS, 1.

salivary corpuscles. See TONSIL.

salivary gland. Anat. & Zool. A gland which secretes saliva; in a broad sense, any of various glands discharging a fluid secretion into the mouth cavity; in man, esp., any of the large compound racemose glands known as the parotid, sublingual, and submaxillary glands. The poison glands of snakes are modified salivary glands.

sal'i·vate (săl'ĭ·vāt), v.; -VAT'ED (-vāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -VAT'ING (-vāt'ĭng). [L. salivatus, past part. of salivare to salivate. See SALIVA.] Transitive: 1. To produce an abnormal flow of saliva in; to produce salivation or ptyalism in, as by the use of mercury.

2. Zool. To chew or mix with saliva, as in the production of a cementlike material by termites for nest building.

—, Intransitive: To secrete or have a flow of saliva, esp. in excess.

sal'i·va'tion (-vā'shŭn), n. [F. or L.; F. salivation, fr. L. salivatio.] Physiol. Act or process of salivating; an excessive secretion of saliva, often accompanied with soreness of the mouth and gums; ptyalism.

sal'i·va'tor (săl'ĭ·vā'tĕr), n. Med. A sialagogue. — sal'i·va'to·ry (-vā'tō·rĭ), adj.

sa·li'vous (sȧ·lī'vŭs), adj. [F. or L.; F. saliveux, fr. L. salivosus slavering.] Pertaining to saliva; of the nature of saliva.

Sa'lix (sā'lĭks), n. [L., the willow. See SALLOW, n.] Bot. a A large genus of shrubs and trees typifying the family Salicaceae; the willows, osiers, and sallows. They are distinguished from Populus by having the bracts of the ament entire, and by the few stamens (2–10). The 200 or more species are widely distributed in temperate and cold regions. See WILLOW; OSIER, 1; SALLOW. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

salle (săl), n. [Perh. fr. F. sale soiled.] Paper Mfg. Spoiled paper.

‖salle (sȧl), n. [F.] A room; a hall.

‖salle' à man'ger' (sȧl' ȧ mȧN'zhā'). [F.] Dining room.

sal'lee (săl'ē), n. [Eng. dial. sally, var. of SALLOW, n.] In Australia: a Any of several wattles. b Black sally.

sal'lee·man (săl'ē·mȧn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). [From Sali, or Sallee, Morocco.] 1. A Moorish pirate; — called also Sallee rover.

2. A velella.

sal'len·ders (săl'ĕn·dĕrz), n. pl. [F. solandres, solandre.] Veter. An eczematous eruption similar to malanders, occurring on the hind leg of a horse, in front of the hock.

sal'let (săl'ĕt; -ĭt), n. [F. salade, fr. It. celata, fr. L. (cassis) caelata, fr. caelare, caelatum, to engrave in relief; — from its engraved figures.] A light kind of helmet of simple form, with or without a visor, and with a projection over the neck, common during the 15th century. See HELMET, Illust.

sal'let. Archaic & dial. var. of SALAD.

sal'li·er (săl'ĭ·ẽr), n. One who sallies.

sal'lies (săl'ĭz), n. pl. Saloon pistols; — a schoolboy nickname. Kipling.

sal'loo (sȧl'ōō), n. Also sal'lo. [Hind. sālū.] An East Indian red twilled cotton or calico or a similar cloth made in England.

sal'low (săl'ō), n. [ME. sallow, salwe, tr. AS. sealh; akin to OHG. salaha, G. salweide, ON. selja, L. salix, OIr. sail. See SALLOW, adj.] 1. Any European broad-leaved species of willow, esp. Salix caprea, the great sallow. Its wood is used for charcoal and various implements, and its bark for tanning.

2. A willow twig or shoot.

3. = SALLEE.

sal'low (săl'ō), adj.; SAL'LOW·ER (săl'ō·ẽr); SAL'LOW·EST. [AS. salu; akin to D. zaluw, OHG. salo, Icel. sölr dirty yellow, and perh. to L. saliva saliva, salix willow; basic idea: dirty gray. See SALLOW, n.; cf. SALIVA.] a Having any of several colors averaging reddish-yellow in hue, and of low saturation and high brilliance. b Of a pale reddish-yellow color, suggesting sickliness; — usually said of the skin, complexion, etc.

Syn. — Yellowish, muddy; pallid, wan.

Ant. — Clear; rosy.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

sallow-cheeked	sallow-complexioned	sallow-looking sallow-colored	sallow-faced	sallow-visaged sal'low (săl'ō), v. t.; -LOWED (-ōd); -LOW·ING. To make sallow.

sallow thorn. The sea buckthorn.

sallow willow. The great sallow. See SALLOW, n., 1.

sal'low·y (săl'ō·ĭ), adj. Abounding in sallows.

sal'ly (săl'ĭ), n.; pl. -LIES (-ĭz). [F. saillie, fr. saillir to gush out, to project, in OF. also to leap, dance, rush, fr. L. salire to leap, spring; akin to Gr. hallesthai, Skr. ucchalati he springs up. Cf. ASSAIL, DESULTORY, 1st EXILE, EXULT, INSOLENT, INSULT, RESILIENT, SALACIOUS, SALIENT, SALMON, SALTATION, SALTIER, SOMERSAULT.] 1. A rushing or bursting forth; specif.: a A sortie of troops from a place besieged to attack the besiegers. b = SALLY PORT a.

2. A brief outbreak into activity or expression; an outburst, as of affection or temper.

> Fretted with sallies of his mother's kisses. Wordsworth.

3. An excursion, esp. one away from the usual track; also, a trip or jaunt; as, to make a sally into the country.

4. a A flight of fancy, liveliness, wit, or the like; a flashing forth of a quick and active mind. "The . . . mirth with which she enjoyed his sallies." Scott. b A spoken or written passage of brilliant, witty, or audacious character.

5. Transgression of the limits of soberness or steadiness; a bold violation of custom or propriety, escapade.

6. A leaping forth; a darting; a spring. Archaic & Dial.

7. Arch. A projection, esp. of a rafter or the like notched to fit over a plate or horizontal beam so as to jut beyond it.

8. Change Ringing. a = HANDSTROKE, 2. b The grip of a bell rope.

sal'ly (săl'ĭ), v. i.; SAL'LIED (-ĭd); SAL'LY·ING. [From SALLY, n.] 1. To leap or rush out; to burst forth; to issue suddenly, as troops from a fortified place to attack besiegers.

2. To leave one's home, station, or the like, as for a walk or journey; — usually with forth.

3. To leap, spring, or dance. Obs.

sal'ly (săl'ĭ; sȧl'ĭ), n. a Ir. The European house wren. b Brit. A stone fly.

sal'ly (săl'ĭ; sȧl'ĭ). a Dial. var. of SALLOW, adj. b Dial. Eng. var. of SALLOW, willow. c Australia. = SALLEE.

Sal'ly, Sal'lie (săl'ĭ), n. Dim. of SARAH; — used as fem. proper name.

Sal'ly·bloom' (săl'ĭ·blōōm'), n. [E. dial. See 1st SALLOW; BLOOM.] The great willow herb. See WILLOW HERB.

Sally Brass. See BRASS, SAMPSON.

Sal'ly Lunn' (lŭn'). Also sal'ly lunn'. [From a woman, Sally Lunn, said to have first made the cakes, and sold them in the streets of Bath, Eng.] A teacake slightly sweetened, and raised with yeast, baked as biscuits or in a thin loaf, and eaten hot with butter.

sal'ly·man (săl'ĭ·mȧn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). [See SALLEEMAN.] The velella.

Sal'ly Nix'on (săl'ĭ nĭk's'n). Corruption of SAL ENIXUM.

sally picker [sally sallow (i. e., willow).] a Chiffchaff. b Willow wren. c Ireland. Sedge warbler.

sally port. a Fort. A postern gate, or a passage underground, from the inner to the outer works or from the covered way to the glacis, for troops in a sortie. b Nav. Formerly, a large port on each quarter of a fire ship, for escape of the men when the train was fired; also, a large port in an old-fashioned three-decker.

sal'ly·wood' (săl'ĭ·wōōd'), n. a Willow (sallow) wood. b = MOUNTAIN HOLLY a.

sal'ma (săl'mȧ), salm (sȧlm), n. [It. salma burden, load.] a A varying measure of capacity of Italy, Sicily, etc. See MEASURE, Table. b See WEIGHT, Table.

Sal'ma·cis (săl'mȧ·sĭs), n. [L. Salmacis, fr. Gr. Salmakis.] A fountain in ancient Caria, fabled to effeminate all who drank of it; also, the nymph of this fountain. See HERMAPHRODITUS.

sal'ma·gun'di (săl'mȧ·gŭn'dĭ), n. [F. salmigondis, of obscure orig.; cf. It. salame salt meat, and It. & L. condire to pickle.] 1. A mixed dish, as of chopped meat and pickled herring, with oil, vinegar, pepper, and onions.

2. Hence, a heterogeneous mixture; medley; potpourri.

3. [cap.] A periodical, devoted chiefly to political and social satire, published 1807 in New York, by Washington Irving and James K. Paulding.

sal'mi (săl'mĭ), n. [F.] Cookery. A ragout of game partly roasted and then stewed in a sauce.

sal'mi·ac (săl'mĭ·ăk), n. [Cf. F. salmiac, G. salmiak.] Old Chem. Sal ammoniac. See AMMONIUM CHLORIDE.

‖sal mi'cro·cos'mi·cum (săl mĭ'krō·kŏz'mĭ·kŭm). [NL.] Old Chem. Microcosmic salt.

sal'mine (săl'mēn; -mĭn), n. Also -min. Biochem. A protamine obtained from the sperm of fishes of the genus Salmo.

‖sal mi·ra'bi·le (săl mĭ·răb'ĭ·lē). [NL.] Old Chem. Glauber's salt.

Sal'mo (săl'mō), n. [L., salmon.] Zool. A genus of which the salmon of the Atlantic (S. salar) is the type. In its broader and older sense it includes all the salmons and trouts. In its restricted sense it excludes the salmon of the Pacific, the chars, and other forms, but it still contains many forms of trout of Europe and western North America.

salm'on (săm'ŭn), n.; pl. SALMON, rarely SALMONS (săm'ŭnz). See PLURAL, Note. [ME. saumoun, salmon, fr. OF. saumon, fr. L. salmo, salmonis, prob. fr. the root of salire to leap. See SALLY.] 1. A large soft-finned fish (Salmo salar) living in the sea near the coasts, and ascending, for the purpose of spawning, many European and American rivers tributary to the northern North Atlantic. Its size, gameness, and beauty, and the excellence of its rich and characteristically flavored flesh, which is of an orange-pink color when cooked, make it the most highly esteemed of game fishes. It attains an average weight of fifteen pounds. Though the salmon enters the streams in the spring or summer, the eggs are laid in the fall, and the young remain for a year or two in fresh water before descending to the sea. It varies much in color and appearance according to age, locality, season, etc., and various names (cf. PARR, GRILSE, SMOLT) distinguish these conditions. See LANDLOCKED SALMON, OUANANICHE.

Salmon (Salmo salar).

2. In a broader sense (often with a qualifying term), any of certain fishes closely allied to the above; esp., those of the genus Oncorhynchus, which live in, and ascend the rivers tributary to, the northern North Pacific. Six species are known, of which the quinnat salmon (O. tschawytscha) and the blueback, or red salmon (O. nerka), are the most important as food fishes. The salmons of this genus spawn but once, and die without returning to the sea.

3. In local or popular usage (often with qualifying terms), any of various other fishes having some point of resemblance (in some cases flesh of a pink color) to a true salmon; as: a A spiny-finned fish (Arripis trutta) of the coasts of Australia and New Zealand, little valued. b The barramunda (see CERATODUS). c Southern U. S. A weakfish (Eriscion nebulosus). d The walleyed pike.

4. The fresh or cured flesh of any variety of this fish, esp. S. salar and several species of Oncorhynchus, used as food. The latter is canned in large quantities.

5. The color of the salmon's flesh, reddish red-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) and PHRASES are:

salmon-breeding	salmon fishing	salmon rod salmon color	salmon hatchery	salmon smelt salmon-colored	salmon-haunted	salmon spear salmon fisher	salmon-rearing	salmon spearing salmon fisherman	salmon-red	salmon steak salmon fishery	salmon river	salmon-tinted salm'on (săm'ŭn), adj. Of the color salmon.

Sal'mon (săl'mŏn), n. [LL., fr. Gr. Salmōn, fr. Heb. Salmōn.] Masc. proper name. Bib.

salm'on·ber'ry (săm'ŭn·bĕr'ĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-ĭz). a A large red-flowered raspberry (Rubus spectabilis) native to the northern Pacific coast; also, its salmon-colored edible berry. b A white-flowered raspberry (R. parviflorus) of the United States, the western representative of the purple-flowering raspberry; also, its fruit. c = CLOUDBERRY.

salmon brick. An underburned brick.

salmon cloud. = NOAH'S ARK d.

salmon disease. A disease of dogs, coyotes, and foxes, caused by eating salmon or trout infested with cysts of flukes (Nanophyes salmincola), which mature in the intestines, producing depression, weakness, emaciation and edema of the face.

Sal'mo·nel'la (săl'mō·nĕl'ȧ), n. [NL.] Bacteriol. a A genus of aerobic Gram-negative bacteria of the family Bacteriaceae, associated with acute inflammations in the intestines of animals. They grow well on artificial media and form acid and gas on many carbohydrates but not on lactose, sucrose, or salicin. S. (syn. Bacillus) enteritidis is the cause of epidemic meat poisoning; S. paratyphi (syn. Bacillus paratyphosus A) and S. schotimülleri (syn. B. paratyphosus B) of paratyphoid fever; S. (syn. Bacterium) psittacosis of psittacosis, or parrot fever; S. (syns. Bacillus, Bacterium) pullorum of bacillary white diarrhea of poultry; S. (syn. Bacillus) gallinarum of fowl typhoid; and S. (syns. Bacillus, Bacterium) suipestifer of salmonellosis. b [not cap.; pl. -LAE (-ē).] Any bacterium of this genus.

sal'mo·nel·lo'sis (săl'mō·nē·lō'sĭs), n. [NL.] Infection with bacteria of the genus Salmonella; specif., Veter.: a A slightly contagious disease of swine caused by Salmonella (syn. Bacterium) suipestifer and resembling hog cholera. b = FOWL TYPHOID.

salm'on·et (săm'ŭn·ĕt), n. [salmon + -et. Cf. SAMLET.] Samlet.

Sal·mo'neus (săl·mō'nūs; -nē·ŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Salmōneus.] Gr. Myth. A son of Aeolus, killed by a thunderbolt for his presumption in deeming himself equal to Zeus and for his impiety in imitating lightning.

salmon family. The Salmonidae.

salmon fly. 1. A stone fly, esp. the larger species. Western U. S.

2. Any of various artificial flies used in salmon fishing.

salmon herring. Milkfish. Australia.

Sal·mon'i·dae (săl·mŏn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See SALMO.] Zool. A family of soft-finned fishes (order Isospondyli) including the salmons and allied forms. As generally understood it includes the salmons, trouts, New Zealand whitebaits, whitefishes, graylings, smelts, and numerous others distinguished especially by their rather elongate form, small scales, and the presence of an adipose fin. As now commonly restricted, it constitutes a suborder Sal'mo·noi'de·i (săl'mō·noi'dē·ĭ), syn. Sal'mo·noi'de·a (-dē·ȧ), each of the fishes mentioned above being made the type of a family; Salmonidae being restricted to the salmons and trouts. — sal'mo·nid (săl'mō·nĭd), n. & adj. — sal'mo·noid (-noid), adj. & n.

sal·mon'i·form (săl·mŏn'ĭ·fôrm), adj. Resembling a salmon.

salmon ladder, leap, or stair. = FISH LADDER.

sal'mo·noid (săl'mō·noid), adj. [salmon + -oid.] Like, or pert. to, the typical salmons. — n. A salmonoid fish.

salmon oil. See OIL, Table II.

salmon peal or peel. A young salmon.

salmon pink. The color salmon. — salm'on-pink', adj.

sal'mons·ite (săl'mŭnz·ĭt), n. [After F. A. Salmons, Am. mineralogist.] Mineral. A hydrous manganese iron phosphate occurring in buff-colored, cleavable masses. Sp. gr., 2.9.

salmon trout. a The European sea trout (Salmo trutta). b The namaycush. c Locally, the cutthroat trout, the steelhead trout, or other large trout of western North America. d Alaska. The Dolly Varden trout. e In Australia, the young of the fish Arripis trutta. See SALMON, 3 a.

salmon wheel. A device for catching salmon in large quantities, consisting of a large revolving wheel which is suspended in the water and turned by the current. Attached to it are scoop nets which catch the fish passing beneath.

sal·na'tron (săl·nā'trŏn), n. [L. sal salt + E. natron.] Crude sodium carbonate.

sal'o- (săl'ō-), sal-. Comb. form for salicylic, as in salol.

Sal'ol (săl'ōl; -ŏl), n. [salicylic + 2d -ol.] A trade-mark for phenyl salicylate, $C_6H_4(OH)CO_2C_6H_5$, used as an antiseptic and antipyretic; also [not cap.], the substance bearing this trade-mark.

Sa·lo'me (sȧ·lō'mē), n. [LL., fr. Gr. Salōmē, fr. Heb. shālōm peace, completeness, welfare. Cf. SOLOMON.] 1. Fem. proper name. F. Salomé (sȧ'lō'mā'); G. Salome (zȧ'lō·mȧ).

2. Bib. Daughter of Herodias, who, instructed by her mother, asked for the head of John the Baptist from Herod as a reward for her dancing. Matt. xiv. 8.

3. Bib. A woman who was present at the crucifixion and who visited the burial place of Jesus.

4. The title and heroine of an opera (1905) by Richard Strauss, based upon the drama (1891) by Oscar Wilde.

sa·lom'e·ter (sȧ·lŏm'ē·tĕr), n. a A salinometer. b An apparatus for determining ash, as in sugar products, by conductivity measurements. — sa·lom'e·try (-trĭ), n.

sal'o·mon (săl'ō·mŏn), n. The Mass; — used as a beggars' oath. Archaic.

‖sa·lon' (sȧ'lôN'), n.; pl. SALONS (-lôN'). [F. See SALOON.] 1. Orig., a saloon (sense 1); now, usually, a drawing room, esp. in a fashionable French home.

2. A reception held in a French salon, esp. one at which celebrities gather; hence, a fashionable assemblage or "at sal'i·var'i·ous, a. [L. salivarius slimy.] Salivous. Obs.

---

sall. ✝ SALE, hall; SELF.

sall (dial. sĭl, sȧl). Var. of SHALL. Obs. exc. Dial.

sal'lad. ✝ SALLET.

Sal'la·i (săl'ȧ·ĭ; săl'ĭ). Bib.

sallam. ✝ SALAAM.

‖salle' d'armes' (sȧl'dȧrm'). [F.] Literally, room of arms; specif., a fencing school or room.

‖salle' d'at'tente' (dȧ'tȧNt'). [F.] Waiting room.

‖salle' de jeu' (dĕ zhŭ'). [F.] Gambling hall.

sallendine. ✝ CELANDINE.

sal'lid. Sallied. Ref. Sp.

Sal'lie. Var. of SALLY. [3.]

Sal'lier' pa·py'ri. See PAPYRUS, sal'low·ish, adj. See -ISH.

sal'low·ness, n. See -NESS.

Sal'lu (săl'ū). Bib.

Sal·lu'mus (sȧ·lū'mŭs). Bib.

salm. ✝ PSALM.

Salm (sȧlm), n. See STAR, Table.

Sal'ma, Sal'mah (săl'mȧ). Bib.

Sal'ma·na (săl'mȧ·nȧ). D. Bib.

Sal'ma·na'sar (-nā'sẽr). Bib.

Sal·mi'as (sȧl·mĭ'ȧs). D. Bib.

sal'mis (săl'mĭ; F. sȧl'mē'), n. = SALMI.

Sal·mo'na (sȧl·mō'nȧ). D. Bib.

Sal·mo'ne (-nē). Bib.

salm'on·like', adj. See -LIKE.

salm'wood', n. = PRINCEWOOD a.

salob. ✝ SALEP.

Sa'lom (sā'lŏm). Bib.

Sal'o·mi (săl'ō·mĭ). D. Bib.

Sa·lo'mith (sȧ·lō'mĭth). D. Bib.

Sal'o·mon (săl'ō·mŏn). D. Bib.

Sal'o·mon. ✝ SOLOMON.

Sal'o·mo'ni·a (săl'ō·mō'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. ML. sigillum Salomonis Solomon's seal.] Syn. of POLYGONATUM.

Sal'o·mo'ni·an (săl'ō·mō'nĭ·ȧn), Sal'o·mon'ic (-mŏn'ĭk), adj. = SOLOMONIC.

bome" which takes its character from the kind of notables in attendance; as, to see a certain poet regularly at Mrs. B's literary salons.
3. An apartment for the reception and exhibition of works of art; hence [cap.], an annual exhibition of paintings, sculptures, etc., held in Paris by the Société dēs Artistes Français (Society of French Artists); — sometimes called the Old Salon. New Salon is a popular name for an annual exhibition of paintings, sculptures, etc., held in Paris at the Champs de Mars, by the Société Nationale des Beaux-Arts (National Society of Fine Arts), a body of artists who, in 1890, seceded from the Society of French Artists.

Sa·lon′del Pra′do (sä·lōn′ dĕl prä′thō; 112). See PRADO, 1.

sa·lon′ mu′sic (sȧ′lŏn′; säl′ŏn). Instrumental music of a light, pleasing, and often, sentimental character, suitable for the drawing room rather than for serious, artistic performance.

sa·loon′ (sȧ·lōōn′), n. [F. salon, fr. It. salone, aug. of sala hall, room, of G. orig.; cf. OHG. sal house, hall, G. saal; akin to AS. sæl, sele, D. zaal, ON. salr.] 1. A spacious, lofty, and elegant apartment, as in a palace or manor house, for the reception and entertainment of guests or for works of art; a large and elaborate drawing room.

The gilded saloons in which the first magnates of the realm . . . gave banquets and balls. Macaulay.

2. An apartment or hall, usually elaborately decorated, serving as a drawing room, ballroom, or the like, or for some other (specified) purpose; as, a restaurant with a saloon; the dining saloon of a ship; a shaving saloon. Specif., a large cabin on shipboard esp. for first-class passengers.
3. = SALON, 2. Now Rare.
4. In British usage: a Also saloon carriage. A first-class railway coach without compartments and somewhat similar in arrangement and furnishings to an American parlor car. b Also saloon car. A type of automobile resembling the sedan.
5. a U.S. A shop where intoxicating liquors are sold and drunk, commonly without meals. b Brit. In full saloon bar. The best of the bars in an ordinary public house.

saloon deck. The deck on which the saloon is located.

sa·loon′ist (sȧ·lōōn′ĭst), n. One who keeps, frequents, or advocates a saloon or saloons. U.S.

sa·loon′keep′er (-kēp′ẽr), n. One who owns or manages a drinking saloon. U.S.

saloon pistol or rifle. A small light weapon used principally in a shooting saloon or gallery. Chiefly Eng.

sa·loop′ (sȧ·lōōp′), n. Also sa·lop′ (sȧ·lŏp′). [From salop, salup, vars. of SALEP.] 1. = SALEP.
2. The common sassafras.
3. A hot drink served with milk and sugar, and made from an infusion of powdered salep, or, sometimes, of sassafras. — sa·lo′pi·an (sȧ·lō′pĭ·ăn), adj.

Sa·lo′pi·an (sȧ·lō′pĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pert. to Salop, or Shropshire, England. — n. A native or inhabitant of Salop.

Salopian ware. Ceramics. a Roman pottery, usually of red or white clay, found in Shropshire. b A modern Shropshire ware, generally porcelaneous, but rather coarse and opaque, first made towards the end of the 18th century.

salp (sälp), n. Zool. A salpa.

Sal′pa (säl′pȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. salpa kind of stockfish, fr. Gr. salpē.] Zool. A genus of transparent barrel-shaped or fusiform free-swimming oceanic tunicates abundant in all warmer latitudes. Each species exists in two forms, one of which lives solitary, and produces, by budding from an internal organ, a series of the other kind. These are united side by side in a chain or cluster. Each individual of the chain is hermaphroditic, usually carrying only a single egg, which develops into an individual of the solitary kind. Also [not cap.], any member of this genus.—sal·pa′cean (säl·pā′shăn), n. & adj.

Salpa. A Solitary Individual. B Individual from a chain. m Branchial Aperture; a Atrial Aperture; b, b′ Muscular Bands; n Nerve Ganglion; r Dorsal Lamina; h Heart; o Nucleus; s Chain of young Zooids developing from the Stolon t.

sal′pi·an (säl′pĭ·ăn), sal′pid (-pĭd), n. A salpa. Rare.

sal′pi·con (säl′pĭ·kŏn), n. [F., fr. Sp. salpicón.] A ragout or rich compound of chopped meat or fish and vegetables with savory sauce, variously used.

Sal′pi·dae (säl′pĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family consisting of the genus Salpa. Cf. HEMIMYARIA.

sal′pi·form (-fôrm), adj. [Salpa + -form.] Resembling a salpa.

Sal′pi·glos′sis (säl′pĭ·glŏs′ĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. salpinx trumpet + glōssa tongue; — in allusion to its tongulike stigma.] Bot. a A small genus of Chilean herbs of the potato family (Solanaceae), having large funnel-shaped variously colored flowers, often beautifully marked. The calyx is tubular and 5-cleft. Several are cultivated for ornament. b [not cap.] A plant or flower of this genus.

salping-. = SALPINGO- (which see), as in sal′pin·gec′to·my (säl′pĭn·jĕk′tō·mĭ), sal′pin·gem·phrax′is. See -ECTOMY, etc.

sal·pin′gi·an (säl·pĭn′jĭ·ăn), adj. Pertaining to a salpinx.

sal·pin′gi·on (-ŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. salpinx tube.] Craniol. The apex of the petrous portion of the temporal bone.

sal·pin·gi′tis (säl′pĭn·jī′tĭs), n. [NL., fr. salping- + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of a salpinx, esp. a Fallopian, less commonly a Eustachian, tube. — sal·pin·git′ic (-jĭt′ĭk), adj.

-sal′pin·gi′tis. [NL.] A combining form of salpingitis, as in metro*salpingitis*, peri*salpingitis*.

sal·pin′go- (säl·pĭng′gō-), salping-. Anat., Med., & Surg. A combining form, Greek salpingo-, salping-, from salpinx, salpingos, meaning a trumpet, used to indicate connection with, or relation to: a A Eustachian tube, as in *salpingo*palatine. b A Fallopian tube, as in *salpingo*tomy. For words below see the word or element with which salpingo (sense b) is combined.

salpingocatheterism	salpingo-ovariotomy	salpingorrhaphy salpingocele	salpingo-ovaritis	salpingoscope salpingocyesis	salpingopalatal	salpingostaphyline salpingomalleus	salpingoperitonitis	salpingostenochoria salpingonasal	salpingopexy	salpingostomatomy salpingo-oöphoritis	salpingopterygoid	salpingostomy sal·pin′go-o′ö·pho·rec′to·my, sal·pin′go-o·öph′o·ro·cele, n. See SALPINGO- b.

sal·pin′go·pal′a·tine (säl·pĭng′gō·păl′ȧ·tĭn; -tīn), adj. Anat. Pertaining to the Eustachian tubes and the palate.

sal·pin′go·pha·ryn′ge·al (-fȧ·rĭn′jē·ăl; -fär′ĭn·jē′ăl), adj. Anat. Pertaining to the Eustachian tubes and pharynx.

sal′pin·got′o·my (säl′pĭng·gŏt′ō·mĭ), n. [salpingo- + -tomy.] Surg. The cutting of a Fallopian tube.

sal·pin′go-u·re′ter·os′to·my, n. See SALPINGO- b.

sal′pinx (säl′pĭngks), n.; pl. SALPINGES (säl·pĭn′jēz). [NL., fr. Gr. salpinx, -ingos, a trumpet.] 1. Gr. Antiq. A trumpet, used for sounding signals.
2. a Anat. A Eustachian tube. b A Fallopian tube.

-sal′pinx (-säl′pĭngks). [NL.] Anat. & Med. A combining form of salpinx, as in hydro*salpinx*, meso*salpinx*, pyo*salpinx*.

‖sal plum′bi (säl plŭm′bī). [NL.] Old Chem. Sugar of lead. See LEAD ACETATE.

sal′poid (säl′poid), adj. [Salpa + -oid.] Like, or pertaining to, Salpa.

‖sal po′ly·chres′tum (pŏl′ĭ·krĕs′tŭm), sal po′ly·chres′tum Gla′se·ri (glä′zĕ·rī). [NL.] Old Chem. Potassium sulphate.

‖sal pru·nel′la (prōō·nĕl′ȧ). Also sal pru·nelle′ (-nĕl′), sal pru·nel′lae (-nĕl′ē). [NL.] Saltpeter (potassium nitrate) fused and cast in balls, cakes, or sticks.

‖sal Sa·tur′ni (sȧ·tûr′nī). [NL.] Salt of Saturn (lead).

salse (säls; säls), n. [F., fr. It. salsa, fr. L. salsus salted, salty. See SAUCE.] A mud volcano; — so called because often impregnated with salts.

‖sal se′da·tī′vum (sĕd′ȧ·tī′vŭm). [NL.] Old Chem. Sedative salt; boric acid.

sal′si·fy (säl′sĭ·fĭ), n. [F. salsifis, fr. It. sassefrica, of uncert. origin.] 1. A European biennial herb (Tragopogon porrifolius) with long-peduncled heads of purple-rayed flowers. Its long fusiform root is edible and is often called oyster plant, or vegetable oyster.
2. A dish of boiled and seasoned roots of the salsify plant.

sal·sil′la (säl·sĭl′ȧ), n. [Sp., dim. of salsa sauce, kind of garlic. See SAUCE.] Any tropical American plant of the genus Bomarea, esp. B. salsilla of the Peruvian Andes, and B. edulis of the West Indies. The root of various species is boiled and eaten.

sal soda, or sal′so′da (säl′sō′dȧ), n. A form of sodium carbonate. See SODIUM CARBONATE.

Sal·so′la (säl·sō′lȧ), n. [NL., fr. obs. It., dim. of salso salty. See SALSE.] Bot. A large genus of mostly Old World herbs or shrubs of the goosefoot family (Chenopodiaceae), with variously shaped, often prickly leaves, and small greenish flowers, whose 4–5-pated perianth remains investing the utricle. S. kali is the common saltwort; S. pestifer is the Russian thistle. See BARILLA, 1; SALTWORT a. — sal′so·la′ceous (säl′sō·lā′shŭs), adj.

‖sal suc′ci·nī (sŭk′sĭ·nī). [L., salt of amber.] = AMBER, 2.

sal·su′gi·nous (säl·sū′jĭ·nŭs), adj. Also sal·su′gi·nose (-nōs). [L. salsugo, -ginis, saltness, fr. salsus salted, salt.] Bot. Halophytic.

salt (sôlt; 86), n. [AS. sealt; akin to OS., OFris., ON., & Goth. salt, D. zout, L. sal, Gr. hals, masc. (fem., the sea), OSlav. solĭ, OIr. salann, W. halen, Tocharian B sālyi salt, Lith. saldus sweet. Cf. SAL, SALAD, SALARY, SALINE, SALTCELLAR, SAUCE, SAUSAGE, SILT, SOUSE pickle.]
1. A colorless or white crystalline compound, known chemically as sodium chloride (NaCl), occurring abundantly in nature both solid and in solution, and used for seasoning food, for the preservation of meat, etc., for the manufacture of sodium, chlorine, and their compounds, in making glass and soap, in refrigerating, etc. Salt constitutes about 2.6 per cent of sea water and is found in small quantities in fresh water. It is present in all animal fluids, esp. in the urine. Salt is obtained commercially from deposits in the earth or by evaporation of natural brines, as sea water. The commercial article usually contains small quantities of deliquescent salts (magnesium chloride, calcium chloride) which cause it to attract moisture. Called also common salt.
2. A dish for salt at table; a saltcellar.
3. A That which preserves or purifies; a corrective; an antiseptic; as, the saving salt of skepticism. Cf. with a pinch of salt, under PINCH, n. b Allowance or deduction; modification; reserve.
4. That which gives piquant or pungent flavor; hence: a Taste; savor; smack; seasoning.

We have some salt of our youth in us. Shak.

b Piquancy; wit; pungency; sense; as, Attic salt.
5. a A salt marsh. b pl. Dial. Eng. Marshes flooded by the tide.
6. a In various phrases, food or keep, esp. as provided by a host or employer; — often with further implications; as, to eat one's salt, to accept hospitality that binds one to his host in loyalty or dependence; to earn, or make, one's salt, to earn a bare living; to be worth one's salt, to be worth one's keep; also, sometimes, to be highly deserving. b Slang. Money.
7. Colloq. a A sailor; — usually qualified by old. b A person seasoned by experience.
8. Alchemy. a The fixed or earthy element in matter, the two other primary elements being mercury and sulphur. b The principle of fixity and solidity.
9. Chemistry. Any of a class of compounds derived from acids by replacement of part or all of the acid hydrogen by a metal or metallike radical; as, $NaHSO_4$ and Na_2SO_4 are sodium salts of sulphuric acid (H_2SO_4). Salts are formed by the reaction of acids with bases (with or without elimination of water) and with metals and oxides, by direct union of their elements, and in other ways. True salts are ionic in character, their cations and anions being held together by electrostatic forces. Dissolved in water or fused, they conduct the electric current (with decomposition). The names of salts of -ous acids end in -ite; salts of -ic acids end in -ate, with a few exceptions. See 1st -ATE, 3. See ACID SALT; BASIC, adj., 2 a; NORMAL, adj., 4 c.
10. Glass Mfg. = GLASS GALL.
11. Med. pl. a Any mineral salt or saline mixture used as an aperient or cathartic, esp. Epsom salts, Rochelle salt, or Glauber's salt. b Short for smelling salts.
12. Old Chem. Any of a large number of substances resembling common salt in appearance, incombustibility, taste, or the like.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

salt barrel	salt conveyer	salt dryer
salt bed	salt crusher	salt elevator
salt brig	salt crystal	salt evaporator
salt chrome	salt-cured	salt filler salt coffer	salt drawer	salt filter
salt fireman	saltmaking	salt shovel
salt firm	saltman	salt soda
salt furnace	salt millman	salt-spilling, adj.
salt grainer	salt mine	saltspoon
salt grinder	salt miner	saltspoonful
salt-hard	salt pansmith	salt spring
salt heaver	salt pocket	saltsprinkler salt holder	salt prairie	salt trimmer
salt-incrusted	salt press	salt trough salt kettle	salt rammer	salt vase
salt-laden	salt refiner	salt washer
salt loader	salt room	salt-white, adj.
salt-loving, adj.	salt screen	saltwife
salt lump	salt seller	saltworker saltmaker	salt shop	salt yard

— above (or below) the salt. At a seat toward the head (or foot) of the table; — from the old custom, among people of rank, of placing a large saltcellar, called a salt-foot, near the middle of a long table. — to put, cast, or lay salt on the tail of. To catch; to capture; — from the old practice of telling children that a bird can be caught by putting salt on its tail.

salt (sôlt; 86), adj.; SALT′ER (sôl′tẽr); SALT′EST. [AS. sealt, salt. See SALT, n.] 1. Abounding in, or containing, salt; cured or seasoned with salt; smelling or tasting of salt; salted; saline; salty; as, salt beef, water, or tears; salt breezes.
2. Overflowed with salt water; as, a salt marsh.
3. Of earth, rock, etc., mixed with salt; hence, of land, barren.
4. Living or growing in salt water.
5. Bitter; sharp; pungent. Now Rare. "Salt scorn." Shak. "A salt apology." Hooker.
6. Costly; expensive; dear. Dial. & Slang.

salt (sôlt), v.; SALT′ED; SALT′ING. Transitive: 1. To add salt to; to sprinkle, rub, impregnate, or season with salt, to preserve with salt or in brine; as, to salt fish, beef, or pork.
2. To season as if with salt; to flavor; to make piquant.

He salted his language in a manner I cannot repeat. G. Meredith.

3. Formerly, in universities, to put (a freshman) through a ceremony of taking salt. Old Slang.
4. To make salty.
5. To treat with salt or chemical salts.
6. To supply with salt; to feed salt to; as, to salt cattle.
7. To give to (something for sale or upon which a sale is based) an appearance of value, profitableness, or genuineness by fraudulent means; to plant, as a claim, or oil well; to doctor, as the accounts of a business.
8. = SALT AWAY. Colloq.
9. Mining. a To enrich artificially, usually with fraudulent intent, as a mine, by secretly placing valuable mineral in some of the working places. b To enrich, or impoverish, either intentionally or accidentally (samples taken for test purposes).

—, Intransitive: Often with out. 1. To deposit salt; — of saline solutions.
2. To be deposited from a solution; — said esp. of soap.

salt away, salt down. To prepare with, or pack in, salt for preserving, as meat, eggs, etc.; hence, Colloq., to save or invest safely, as money.

salt out. a To precipitate (a dissolved substance, as a dye or soap) from a solution by the addition of some salt, esp. common salt. b By extension, to precipitate by the addition of some substance other than a salt.

salt, adj. [From assaut, adv. & adj. Oxf. E. D.] Of animals, in heat; hence, of persons, salacious; lustful. Obs.

sal′ta (säl′tȧ), n. [L. saltare to leap. See SALTANT; cf. HALMA.] A game like halma played by two, each having 15 men, on a board of 100 squares.

salt acid. Hydrochloric acid.

sal′tant (säl′tănt), adj. [L. saltans pres. part. of saltare to dance, v. intens., fr. salire to leap. See SALLY.] Leaping; jumping; dancing. Hence: Her. Salient; — of small animals.

sal′ta·rel′lo (säl′tȧ·rĕl′ō), n. [It., fr. L. saltare to jump.] a A popular Italian dance, running with a hop step at the beginning of each measure. b Music for this dance, or having its rhythm, which is triple or sextuple and quick, and characterized by rhythmic breaks and skips and the saltereto figure. c The jack of a harpsichord.

sal tar′ta·ri (tär′tȧ·rĭ), or tar′tar. Salt of tartar.

sal′ta·ry (säl′tȧ·rĭ), n. [ML. saltarium, fr. L. saltare to leap.] A leap, usually at the limits of a preserve, which a deer could descend but not ascend. Hist.

sal′tate (säl′tāt), v. i. [See SALTANT.] 1. To leap or dance; to move with saltations. Rare.
2. To undergo or exhibit saltation.

sal·ta′tion (säl·tā′shŭn), n. [L. saltatio, fr. saltare to dance. See SALTANT.] 1. A leaping or jumping; a leap or jump; also, dancing or advance marked by leaping or jumping.
2. A spurting forth; flow in spurts; — of arterial blood.
3. A sudden or abrupt change; an advance by a leap or leaps rather than by continuous gradations.
4. Biol. A marked deviation from the normal in cultures of an organism; a cultural mutation.
5. Evolution. Discontinuous variation; mutation. Cf. SALTATORY EVOLUTION.

sal′ta·tive·ness (säl′tȧ·tĭv·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Capacity for jumping.

‖sal·ta′to (säl·tä′tō), adj. [It., past part. of saltare to leap.] Music. In a springing, jumping manner; proceeding by skips; saltando. See ARCO SALTANDO.

Sal·ta′tor (säl·tā′tŏr), n. [NL., fr. L. saltator dancer.] Zool. a A large genus of Neotropical birds of relatively large size and plain coloration, classified with either the finches or the tanagers. b [not cap.] A bird of this genus.

Sal′ta·to′ri·a (säl′tȧ·tō′rĭ·ȧ; 181), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A division of Orthoptera (including grasshoppers, locusts, and crickets), having hind legs generally adapted for leaping; — sometimes treated as an order equiv. to Orthoptera in the restricted sense. Cf. CURSORIA.

sal′ta·to′ri·al (säl′tȧ·tō′rĭ·ăl), adj. 1. Of, in the nature of, or marked by, leaping or dancing; saltatory; as, saltatorial exercises.
2. Zool. a Capable of, or adapted for, leaping. b Pertaining to the Saltatoria.

sal′ta·tor′ic (-tōr′ĭk), adj. [See SALTATORY.] Med. Saltatory.

sal′ta·to′ry (säl′tȧ·tō′rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tẽr·ĭ), adj. [L. saltatorius. See SALTANT; cf. SALTIER.] 1. Of or pertaining to dancing; as, the saltatory art.
2. Characterized by a saltation or saltations; making or adapted to making leaps and bounds; as, saltatory thinking; saltatory insects.

sa·loo′. Var. of SALLOO. salor. † SAILOR.
salowe. † SALUE. salpetre. † SALTPETER.
sal·pin′ges (säl·pĭn′jēz), n., pl. of SALPINX. sal·pin′go-phar′yn·ge′us (säl·pĭng′gō-fär′ĭn·jē′ŭs), n. [NL., fr. salpingo- + pharyngeus pharyngeal.] = LEVATOR VELI PALATINI. salptar. † PSALTER.
sals. † SAUCE.
sal′sa·fy (säl′sȧ·fĭ). Var. of SALSIFY. sal′si·fis′ (säl′sĭ·fĭs′), n. [F.] Salsify. sal·sip′o·tent (säl·sĭp′ō·tĕnt), adj. [L. salsipotens, error for salipotens.] Ruling the sea. Obs. sal′si·tude, n. [L. salsitudo.] Saltness. Obs.
Sal′so·la′ce·æ (säl′sō·lā′sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of CHENOPODIACEÆ. salss. † SAUCE.
salt, salt′a·ble. † SAULT, SAULTABLE.
‖sal·tan′do (säl·tän′dō), adj. [It.] See ARCO SALTANDO. salt′-and-pep′per, adj. = PEPPER-AND-SALT.
sal′ta·rel′la (säl′tȧ·rĕl′ȧ), n. = SALTARELLO. sal′ta·to′ri·an (säl′tȧ·tō′rĭ·ăn; 181), adj. = SALTATORY, 1. sal′ta·to′ri·ous (-ŭs), adj. = SALTATORY, 2. Rare.

3. Biol., Philos., & Psychol. Proceeding or taking place by a leap or leaps, rather than by gradual, orderly, continuous steps or transitions; as, a saltatory advance; saltatory variation; hence, discontinuous in character; as, saltatory relations (between terms). See DISCONTINUOUS VARIATION.

sal'ta·to'ry (săl'tȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), n. A leaper or dancer. Rare.

saltatory evolution. Biol. Evolution by sudden variation, or by periods of active variation with intervening periods of reproduction with little change. Cf. MUTATION, 3 b & c.

saltatory spasm. Med. An affection in which pressure of the foot on a floor produces a violent spasm of the muscles of the leg, causing the patient to spring into the air.

‖sal'ta·tras' (săl'tȧ·trăs'), n. [Sp. saltatrás.] A person of mixed blood but dominantly Negro. Cf. SACATRA. Mexico.

salt block. A saltern.

salt bottom. A flat piece of relatively low-lying alkali ground. Western U. S.

salt box. A box for holding salt; esp., one with a lid, formerly used as a burlesque musical instrument.

salt'-box' house. A type of frame dwelling, much used in colonial Connecticut, having two stories in front and one behind. The roof is double-sloping, with the longer slope to the rear.

salt'bush' (sôlt'bo͝osh'), n. Also salt'brush' (-brŭsh'). a Any of various plants of the genus Atriplex (family Chenopodiaceae), esp. any native Australian species, as A. halimoides and A. nummularia, cultivated for forage. b Any of several plants of this family, as species of Rhagodia, Kochia, and Chenopodium.

salt cake. 1. A currency substitute, formerly so used in Venice (13th century) and in China, and still so used in Abyssinia (see AMOLE).
2. Anhydrous sodium sulphate, Na_2SO_4, esp. in crude form. See SODIUM SULPHATE.
3. Salt cat for pigeons. Shelley.

salt'cat' (sôlt'kăt'), n. A lump of salt; specif., a mixture of salt, meal, lime, etc., attractive to pigeons.

salt'catch' (-kăch'), n. A vessel for catching or collecting salt, as in evaporating spent soap lyes to obtain glycerin.

salt cedar. The shrub Tamarix gallica, often planted along warm coasts. See TAMARIX.

salt'cel'lar (sôlt'sĕl'ẽr), n. [ME. salte seler, fr. salt, salte, salt + seler, saler, saltcellar, fr. OF. saliere saltcellar, ult. fr. L. sal salt. See SALT; SALARY.] A vessel, now usually small, of glass, silver, etc., used on the table for holding salt. See above the salt, under SALT, n.

salt cote or coat. A saltern. Obs.

Salt Creek. = SALT RIVER.

salt dome. Geol. A domical anticline, in sedimentary rocks, of which the core is a mass of rock salt, which has probably been forced up in plastic form by earth stresses from an underlying bed of salt.

salt duty. = GRANAGE.

salt'ed (sôl'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Treated, seasoned, or filled with salt.
2. Seasoned; hardened; experienced; proficient.
3. Planted; doctored. See SALT, v. t., 7.
4. Veter. Immune against a contagious disease, because of having had it and recovered from it. Colloq.

salt'-edged', adj. Made sharp by salt breezes; — of air. Poetic.

sal'tee (sôl'tē), n. [It. soldi, pl. of soldo a cent. See SOU.] A penny. Slang, Eng.

salt eel. = EEL, n., 4.

salt'en (sôl'tn), adj. Made of or with salt. Rare.

salt'er (-tẽr), n. 1. One who manufactures, or deals in, salt or salts, or drugs, dyes, oils, and the like; a dry salter.
2. One who salts (esp. meat, fish, or hides).
3. A vessel or trough in which meat is salted.
4. A brook trout (Salvelinus fontinalis) which has become catadromous. Chiefly Mass.

‖sal'te·ret'to (săl'tȧ·rĕt'tō), n. [It.] Music. The rhythmic figure here shown. ♩.♪♩ or ♩.♪♪

salt'ern (sôl'tẽrn), n. [AS. sealtern, -ærn, fr. sealt salt + ærn, ern, place, house. See SALT; 3d REST.] A building or place where salt is made by boiling or by evaporation; saltworks.

salt'er·y (sôl'tẽr·ĭ), n. 1. Saltworks; also, salt or salts as merchandise.
2. An establishment in which fish are salted for market.

salt'fat' (sôlt'făt'), n. [salt + fat vat.] A vessel for salt or salting, as a saltcellar, or, rarely, the tub for salting meat. Chiefly Scot.

salt fish. Salted fish, esp. cod, haddock, and similar fishes salted and dried for food.

salt flat. The salt-incrusted bottom of an evaporated lake; a playa.

salt garden. A saltern where sea water or brine is naturally evaporated in large shallow basins.

salt gauge. A salinometer.

salt glaze. A glaze produced on pottery, brick, tile, etc., by volatilizing common salt in the kiln at the height of the firing. — salt glazing. — salt'-glazed', adj.

salt grape. The saltwort Salsola kali.

salt grass. Any grass growing naturally in salt meadows or in other alkaline regions, esp. the stiff dioecious grass Distichlis spicata or any of various species of Spartina.

salt'-green' (66), adj. Sea-green in color. Rare.

salt hay. Hay made from salt grass or grass growing on tidal marshes; specif., black grass (Juncus gerardi).

salt horse. Salted beef. Slang.

salt'house' (sôlt'hous'), n. A building in which salt is made or kept.

sal'tier, sal'tire (săl'tẽr), n. [OF. sautoir, fr. ML. saltatorium a sort of stirrup, fr. L. saltatorius saltatory. See SALTATORY.] Her. A charge consisting of a cross formed by a bend dexter and a bend sinister crossing in the center. With in or per, the form of such a cross.

Saltier.

sal'tier, n. A satyr; — confused with sault(er), leap(er), dance(r). Shak.

sal·tier'ra (săl·tyĕr'rä), n. [Sp. sal salt + tierra earth.] Salt left by evaporation of certain shallow inland lakes.

sal'tier·wise', sal'tire·wise' (săl'tẽr·wīz'), adv. Also -ways' (-wăz'). Her. In the manner of a saltier; — said esp. of the blazoning of a shield divided by two lines drawn through the fess point in the direction of a bend and a bend sinister.

Sal'ti·gra'dae (săl'tĭ·grā'dē; săl·tĭg'rȧ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See SALTIGRADE.] Zool. A group of spiders approximately equivalent to the modern family Attidae.

One of the Saltigradae (Attus). ×2 sal'ti·grade (săl'tĭ·grād), adj. [L. saltus a leap + gradi to walk, go.] Zool. a Having feet or legs formed for leaping. b Pertaining to the Saltigradae. — n. One of the Saltigradae.

sal'tim·ban'co (săl'tĭm·băng'kō), n. Also sal'tim·bank (săl'tĭm·băngk), sal'tim·banque. [Fr. saltimbanque, fr. It. saltimbanco, lit., one who leaps or mounts upon a bench.] A mountebank; a quack. Archaic. — sal'tim·bank'er·y (-băngk'ẽr·ĭ), n.

salt·ine' (sôl·tēn'), n. [salt + -ine.] A thin crisp cracker, heavily dusted with salt.

salt'i·ness (sôl'tĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. The quality or characteristics of being salty.

salt'ing (sôl'tĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SALT. Specif.: n. 1. The custom of giving salt to freshmen (see SALT, v. t., 3), or of exacting money for salt (see MONTEM).
2. Act or process of glazing with salt. See SALT GLAZE.
3. Land flooded regularly by tides, often as distinguished from a salt marsh.
4. The act of enriching or impoverishing (see SALT, v. t., 9 a & b).

☞ PHRASES are:

salting bath	salting pan	salting trough salting house	salting press	salting tub salting kit	salting room salting box. Gun. A small box with a perforated lid for sprinkling mealed powder upon the fuses of spherical shells that they may ignite after firing. Obs. exc. Hist.

salt lick. = LICK, 5 a. Local, U. S.

salt marsh. Flat land subject to overflow by salt water. The vegetation of salt marshes may consist of grasses or even shrubs.

salt'-marsh' as'ter. Either of the fleshy-leaved asters Aster tenuifolius or A. subulatus, with purplish or purplish-white ray flowers.

salt-marsh caterpillar. The hairy caterpillar of an American moth (Estigmene acraea) of the family Arctiidae.

salt-marsh fleabane. Any herb of the genus Pluchea, most species of which grow in salt marshes.

salt-marsh gerardia. = SEASIDE GERARDIA.

salt-marsh goldenrod. = BEACH GOLDENROD.

salt-marsh grass. = SALT GRASS.

salt-marsh hen. The clapper rail.

salt-marsh mosquito. Any mosquito which breeds in the brackish water of salt marshes. Certain species, as Aëdes sollicitans, migrate inland for miles.

salt-marsh moth. The moth of the salt-marsh caterpillar.

salt-marsh terrapin. A diamondback terrapin. See TERRAPIN.

salt master. An owner, lessor, or operator of saltworks.

salt'mouth' (sôlt'mouth'), n., salt'mouth' bot'tle. A widemouthed bottle with glass stopper for holding chemicals, esp. crystallized salts.

‖sal'to (săl'tō), n. [It.] A jump; specif., Music, a skip or leap.

salt of amber. Old Chem. Succinic acid.

salt of hartshorn. Old Chem. a Ammonium chloride. b Ammonium carbonate (sense 2).

salt of Lem'er·y (lĕm'ẽr·ĭ). [After Nicholas Lémery (1645–1715), a French chemist.] Chem. Potassium sulphate.

salt of lemon or lemons. See POTASSIUM OXALATE.

salt of opium. Narcotine. Obs.

salt of Saturn. Old Chem. Sugar of lead (Saturn). See LEAD ACETATE.

salt of Sei'gnette' (sĕ'nyĕt'). [After Seignette, an apothecary of La Rochelle, the first to obtain it.] = ROCHELLE SALT.

salt of soda. Old Chem. = SODIUM CARBONATE.

salt of sorrel. See POTASSIUM OXALATE.

salt of tartar. Old Chem. Potassium carbonate, esp. a pure form made by heating cream of tartar.

salt of the earth. The sprinkling of people who preserve and give tone to the rest. Cf. Matt. v. 13.

salt of tin. Dyeing. Stannous chloride, esp. when used as a mordant.

salt of Venus. Old Chem. Copper sulphate; — the alchemic name of copper being Venus.

salt of vitriol. Zinc sulphate.

salt of wisdom. Old Chem. = ALEMBROTH.

salt of wormwood. Old Chem. An impure potassium carbonate obtained from the ashes of wormwood (Artemisia absinthium).

salt·om'e·ter (sôlt·ŏm'ē·tẽr), n. [salt + -meter.] A salinometer.

sal'to·rel (săl'tō·rĕl), n. Her. A diminutive of the saltier.

salt pack. A compress made with salt, used as a surgical dressing.

salt pan, or salt'pan' (sôlt'păn'), n. 1. a A large pan for making salt by evaporation. b pl. Saltworks.
2. Geol. Any undrained natural depression, as an extinct crater, tectonic basin, or the like, in which water gathers and leaves a deposit of salt on evaporation.

salt'pe'ter, salt'pe'tre (sôlt'pē'tẽr), n. [OF. salpetre, fr. ML. sal petrae, lit., rock salt, or stone salt; — so called because it exudes from rocks. See SALT; PETRIFY.]
1. Potassium nitrate; niter; — called specif., from its crystal form, prismatic saltpeter.
2. Chile saltpeter (sodium nitrate).
3. Wall saltpeter (calcium nitrate).
4. An efflorescence of salts sometimes formed on the surface of tobacco leaves during curing and fermentation.

saltpeter paper. = TOUCH PAPER.

saltpeter rot. Wall saltpeter (calcium nitrate); — because it disintegrates mortar.

salt'pe'trous (sôlt'pē'trŭs), adj. [Cf. F. salpêtreux.] Pertaining to or impregnated with saltpeter, or partaking of its qualities.

salt pit. A pit in which sea water is received and evaporated.

salt plug. A body of rock salt which resembles in form and in its relation to enclosing rock an intrusive igneous plug; a salt dome.

salt-pond. A natural or artificial pond or pan in which salt water is evaporated; a salt garden.

salt pork. Pork cured in salt or brine, specif., that from the belly, back, or side consisting almost wholly of fat.

salt reed grass. A tall reedlike grass (Spartina cynosuroides) common in salt meadows.

salt rheum. Med. Eczema.

salt'-rheum' weed. The turtlehead Chelone glabra.

Salt River. A river up which defeated political parties or candidates are supposed to be sent to oblivion. U. S.

salt shaker. A container with a perforated top adapted for sprinkling salt on food.

salt stain. On leather, a mark caused by bacterial action during the process of salting.

salt stone. = SALTCAT. Obs.

salt tree. a A small tree (Halimodendron argenteum), family Fabaceae, growing in the Caspian salt plains and in Siberia. b An East Indian tamarisk (Tamarix orientalis) with frequently salt-incrusted twigs.

sal'tus (săl'tŭs), n. sing. & pl. [L., a leap.] Break of continuity; esp., Logic, omission of a necessary step in proof.

sal'tus (săl'tŭs), n. sing. & pl. [L.] See MEASURE, Table.

salt water. 1. Water impregnated with salt, as that of the ocean and of certain seas and lakes; hence, the sea.
2. In extended or figurative uses: a Tears. b A sailor.
3. Glass Mfg. Fused sodium sulphate, a layer of which sometimes appears on top of the melt.

salt'-wa'ter (66), adj. Of, pertaining to, containing, or existing in, salt water. — salt'-wa'ter·y, adj.

salt-water bush. The staminate or male plant of the groundsel tree.

salt-water sheldrake. The red-breasted merganser. See MERGANSER, 1. U. S.

salt-water swamp oak. An Australian she-oak (Casuarina stricta).

salt-water taffy. A pulled candy made from white sugar, and variously flavored and colored.

salt-water tailor. The bluefish. Local, U. S.

salt-water teal. The ruddy duck. Local, U. S.

salt-water trout. The common weakfish (Cynoscion regalis) or the spotted weakfish (Eriscion nebulosus). See WEAKFISH.

salt'weed' (sôlt'wēd'), n. a The toad rush. b The samphire Philoxerus vermicularis. c An annual, silvery weed (Atriplex argentea) found in certain alkaline and dry regions of North America.

salt well. A bored or driven well from which brine is obtained.

salt'works' (sôlt'wûrks'), n. sing. or pl. A place where salt is made on a commercial scale; also, the process of extracting salt, as from sea water or the brine of salt springs.

salt'wort' (sôlt'wûrt'), n. a The Russian thistle or any other plant of the genus Salsola, esp. S. kali and S. soda, used in the manufacture of soda ash. See BARILLA, SALSOLA. b The glasswort (Salicornia). c The maritime shrub Batis maritima. See BATIS.

saltwort family. The Batidaceae.

salt'y (sôl'tĭ), adj.; SALT'I·ER (-tĭ·ẽr); SALT'I·EST. Of, seasoned with, or containing, salt; marked by the quality of salt.

sa·lu'bri·fy (sȧ·lū'brĭ·fī), v. t. [salubrious + -fy.] To make salubrious.

sa·lu'bri·ous (-brĭ·ŭs; 242), adj. [L. salubris. See SAFE.]
1. Favorable to health; healthful; promoting health; wholesome; as, salubrious water or food. Now Rare.
2. Conducive to well-being, esp. physical well-being; beneficial; pleasantly invigorating, bright, warm, or the like; as, salubrious air or climate; a salubrious sky.
Syn. — Wholesome, salutary. See HEALTHY.
Ant. — See HEALTHY.
— sa·lu'bri·ous·ly, adv. — sa·lu'bri·ous·ness, n.

sa·lu'bri·ty (-brĭ·tĭ), n. [L. salubritas. See SALUBRIOUS.] Quality of being salubrious; also, healthiness.

sa·lue' (sȧ·lū'), v. t. [OF. saluer. See SALUTE.] To salute; to greet. Obs.

sa·lue', n. [OF. salu (F. salut). See SALUTE, n.] A salutation; specif., a "health" in drinking. Archaic.

sa·lu'ki (sȧ·lōō'kĭ), n. [Ar. salūqi from or pert. to Salūq, ancient city in South Arabia.] A very swift, keen-sighted, graceful breed of hunting dog bred in Persia, Arabia, and Egypt for hundreds of years. It has a long, narrow skull, long, silky ears, straight forelegs, strong, widely set hind legs, and a long, well-feathered tail carried in a slight curve. Its coat, feathered or smooth, is of silky hair, with colors ranging from white or cream to black, or black and tan. The greatest height is from 23 to 28 inches. Called also gazelle hound.

sa·lung' (sȧ·lŭng'), n.; pl. SALUNG or SALUNGS (-lŭngz'). [Siamese salŭn.] a A former Siamese silver coin, equal to ¼ tical. See COIN, Table. b See WEIGHT, Table.

sa'lus (sā'lŭs), n. [L., health, welfare, greeting.] 1. Salutation. Obs.
2. [cap.] Rom. Relig. An ancient Italian goddess of welfare and health. She came to be identified to some extent with the Greek Hygeia, and hence associated with the cult of Aesculapius.

sa'lus, v. t. [Cf. OF. saluz, pl. of salu(t) salutation.] To salute. Obs.

sal'u·tar'y (săl'ū·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [F. or L.; F. salutaire, fr. L. salutaris, fr. salus, -utis, health, safety. See SAFE.] 1. Promoting health; curative; restorative; medicinal; as, salutary exercise or mineral waters.
2. Conducive to salvation; as, salutary repentance.
3. Promoting, or conducive to, a beneficial or satisfactory outcome; bringing ultimate compensations or advantages; as, salutary suffering; salutary measures.
Syn. and Ant. — See HEALTHY.

sal'u·ta'tion (săl'ū·tā'shŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. salutatio.]
1. Act of saluting, as by expressing good will or courtesy; also, a phrase, formula, gesture, act, or ceremony of greeting; specif., the introductory words of a letter, as "Dear Sir."
2. In rare senses: a = ANGELIC SALUTATION, THE. b Greetings; — with force of an interjection. c Excitation. Shak. d Hist. A ceremonious visit to a Roman's home.
3. Naut. A salute.
Syn. — SALUTATION, SALUTE. SALUTATION is a somewhat formal word for greeting, esp. as spoken; SALUTE is now almost confined to naval and military usage, and denotes a ceremonious demonstration not expressed in words; as to exchange salutations; a salute of twenty-one guns; cf. to stand at salute. Cf. GREET.

sal'u·ta'tion·al (-ăl; -ĭl), adj. Of the nature of a salutation.

---

sal'ter. + PSALTER. [KELLO.] sal'te·rel'lo. Var. of SALTA-sal'ter·wise'. + SALTIERWISE. salt'foot' (sôlt'fo͝ot'), n. Corrupt. of SALTPAT. See above the salt, under SALT, n.

sal'tire, sal'tire·wise'. Vars. of SALTIER, etc. salt'ish, adj. See -ISH. — salt'ish·ly, adv. — salt'ish·ness, n. salt'less, adj. See -LESS. — salt'less·ness, n.

salt'ly, adv. of SALT. [GRASS.] salt'-mead'ow grass. = SALT salt'ness, n. See -NESS. salt'to·ry. Var. of SALTATORY. sal tree. See 3d SAL.
salt'-ris'ing bread. See BREAD.

‖sa·lu'. [Hind. sālū.] = SALLOO.
Sa'lu (sä'lū). Bib. sa·lu'ing, n. Salutation. Obs. saluiour. + SAVIOR.
Sa'lum (sā'lŭm). Bib.
Sa·lu'mith (sȧ·lū'mĭth). D. Bib.

Sal'u·sa (săl'ū·sȧ). D. Bib.
‖sa'lus po'pu·li su·pre'ma lex es'to (pŏp'ū·lī). [L.] Let the welfare of the people be the supreme law; — the motto of Missouri, taken from the Twelve Tables, quoted by Cicero (Legibus, III. 3). sal'u·tar'i·ly (săl'ū·tĕr'ĭ·lĭ; -tĕr·ĭ·lĭ; 68), adv. of SALUTARY. sal'u·tar'i·ness, n. See -NESS. sal'u·ta'tion·less, adj. See -LESS.

sal'u·ta'tious (săl'ū·tā'shŭs), adj. Disposed to salutation.

sa·lu'ta·to'ri·an (sȧ·lū'tȧ·tō'rĭ·ăn; 181), n. The graduating student (commonly second highest in rank) who pronounces the salutatory oration. Cf. VALEDICTORIAN. U. S. sa·lu'ta·to'ry (sȧ·lū'tȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. salutatorius. See SALUTE.] 1. Containing or expressing salutations; speaking a welcome; of the nature of a greeting; — applied especially to the oration which often introduces commencement exercises. U. S.

2. Gram. = VOCATIVE.

sa·lu'ta·to'ry, n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [ML. salutatorium.] 1. An audience chamber or visitors' room, as in a church or monastery. Hist.

2. An address of greeting. Specif., U. S.: a An oration delivered at commencement usually by the graduate ranking second in his class. b A printed address to the clientele of a newly established business; esp., one in the first issue of a periodical.

3. Gram. The vocative case.

sa·lute' (sȧ·lūt'; 242), v.; SA·LUT'ED (-lūt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); SA·LUT'ING (-lūt'ĭng). [L. salutare, salutatum, fr. salus, -utis, health, welfare, safety. See SAFE.] Transitive: 1. To address with expressions of kind wishes and courtesy; to greet; hail.

I salute you with this kingly title. Shak.

2. Hence, to give (one) a sign of respect, courtesy, or good will; to compliment by an act of ceremony, esp. by some customary or conventional one, as a bow, esp. a kiss, etc.

3. To hail with the title or epithet of.

To be saluted the fathers of their country. Milton.

4. To come as if with greeting, as the sun, flowers, etc.

5. To impress (one of the senses); greet (sense 4).

6. Obs. a To honor or compliment with a gift. b To visit; pay one's respects to. c To excite; affect; influence. "If this salute my blood a jot." Shak.

7. Fencing. To make the sign of formal greeting to (an opponent).

8. Mil. & Nav. a To honor, as some person, nation, festival, or event, by a discharge of cannon, by dipping colors, by cheers, etc. b To exhibit a mark of deference to a superior in the service by assuming a position with the hand, rifle, sword, etc., prescribed by drill regulations.

—, Intransitive: To perform an act of salutation; to make a salute, esp. a military or naval salute.

Syn. — See GREET.

sa·lute', n. [OF. salut, fr. L. salus, -utis, health, prosperity. See SALUTE, v.] 1. A salutation; a greeting; now, esp., a gesture, rather than a speech, expressing welcome, recognition, or courtesy; as, to wave a salute; to return a salute.

2. A sign, token, or ceremony, expressing good will, compliment, or respect, as a kiss, a bow, etc.; specif., Fencing, the formal greeting of contestants about to engage.

3. A firework making a loud report, as a bomb.

4. Mil. & Nav. a A token of respect or honor for some distinguished or official personage, for a foreign vessel or flag, or for some festival or event, as by presenting arms, by a discharge of cannon, dipping the colors, etc. b A mark of deference paid to superiors in the service by their subordinates, made with the hand, rifle, sword, etc., in a manner prescribed by regulations and varying according to circumstances. c The position of the hand, rifle, sword, etc., or the entire attitude of a person saluting a superior; as, to bring the sword to the salute; to stand at salute.

5. Obs. exc. Hist. a A gold coin struck by the House of Anjou bearing the figure of the Virgin receiving the salutation of the angel. b A silver coin struck in Italy.

6. Health; welfare; safety. Obs.

Syn. — See SALUTATION.

sa·lut'er (sȧ·lūt'ĕr), n. One who salutes.

sal'u·tif'er·ous (săl'ū·tĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. salutifer, fr. salus, -utis, health + ferre to bring.] Salutary. — sal'u·tif'er·ous·ly, adv. Both Now Rare.

Sal'va (săl'vȧ), n. [L. salva, fem. of salvus safe.] Literally, safe; — fem. proper name. L. id.

sal'va·ble (săl'vȧ·b'l), adj. [LL. salvare to save, fr. salvus safe. See SAFE.] Capable of being saved, salvaged, or solved; admitting of salvation, salvaging, or solution. — sal'va·bĭl'ĭ·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), sal'va·ble·ness, n. — sal'va·bly, adv.

Salute, 4 c.

Sal'va·do'ra (săl'vȧ·dō'rȧ; 181), n. [NL., after J. Salvadore, Sp. botanist.] 1. Bot. A small genus of trees and shrubs of Africa and southern Asia, type of the Salvadoraceae, having opposite leaves, and small panicled flowers with a bell-shaped corolla. S. persica is the toothbrush tree.

2. [not cap.] The wild tobacco Solanum verbascifolium. Sp. Am.

Sal'va·do·ra'ce·ae (-dō·rā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of shrubs and trees (order Primulales), related to the Oleaceae, but having four stamens and four petals. There are three genera and about nine species. — sal'va·do·ra'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Sal'va·do'ran (săl'vȧ·dō'răn; 181), adj. Also Sal'va·do'rĭ·an (-rĭ·ăn). Of or pertaining to the Central American republic of El Salvador or its inhabitants, of whom about 40 per cent are of Indian blood. — n. A native or inhabitant of El Salvador.

sal'vage (săl'vĭj), n. [F., fr. LL. salvare. See SAVE.] 1. The compensation paid for saving a ship or its cargo from the perils of the sea or for the lives, property, etc., rescued in a wreck; also, the act of saving or rescuing a ship or its cargo, or, by extension, property in danger from fire or the like; as, to pay a large salvage; little time for the salvage of his effects.

2. That which is saved from destruction in a wreck, a fire, or the like; now, often, that which is extracted from wreckage, ruins, rubbish, or the like, as valuable or having further usefulness; as, lifeboats crowded with salvage; the sale of salvage to the poor; specif., grain damaged by fire, smoke, or water, as in a warehouse fire.

3. Specif.: Maritime Law. The act of one or more who voluntarily save a vessel, or her cargo, or wreck, or in some cases the lives of persons belonging to her, from peril (called specif. civil salvage) or retake and restore her or her cargo when captured in war (called military salvage); also, the compensation allowed to those who so save a ship or lives of those belonging to her from peril; also, that part of the property that survives the peril and is saved. Where there is a constructive total loss the difference between the amount of the proceeds of what is saved after salvage charges have been deducted and the total value of the property loss is called a salvage loss.

4. Fire Insurance. Insured goods rescued from fire, or their value as allowed, or their proceeds on being sold.

sal'vage (săl'vĭj), v. t.; -VAGED (-vĭjd); -VAG·ING (-vĭj·ĭng). To rescue or save from wreckage, ruins, or the like.

sal'vage·a·ble (săl'vĭj·ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable or worthy of being salvaged.

salvage corps. A body of men maintained by fire-insurance companies to protect goods, merchandise, and effects from destruction by fire or from water or chemicals used in fighting fire. Also called fire patrol, and, less commonly, insurance patrol, or protective department.

salvage man. One clad in foliage to represent a savage, as in mumming. Archaic.

sal'vag·er (săl'vĭj·ĕr), n. One who salvages.

Sal'var·san (săl'vĕr·săn), n. [G., fr. L. salvus safe + G. arsen arsenic.] Pharm. A trade-mark applied to arsphenamine; hence [sometimes not cap.], the substance bearing this trade-mark. See ARSPHENAMINE.

sal'va·tel'la (săl'vȧ·tĕl'ȧ), n. [NL.] Anat. A vein on the dorsum of the little finger and hand.

sal·va'tion (săl·vā'shŭn), n. [OF., fr. LL. salvatio, fr. salvare to save. See SAVE.] 1. The saving of man from the spiritual consequences of sin, esp. in the afterlife; as, to endanger one's own salvation; to work out one's spiritual salvation. Specif.: a A redeemed soul's deliverance from eternal punishment and entrance into heavenly beatitude. b Liberation from the bondage and results of sin by divine agency; deliverance from sin and eternal damnation through the atonement of Christ; redemption. c Deliverance from sin and its consequences through Christ as exemplar.

Godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation. 2 Cor. vii. 10.

2. The agent, the means, or the course of spiritual experiences, determining the soul's redemption; as, Christ is our salvation; to preach salvation.

3. Preservation from destruction, disintegration, failure, or other evil; final deliverance from dangers, difficulties, deficiencies, or the like; as, the salvation of an army; charged with the salvation of the state.

4. That which saves or delivers from danger or difficulty; the source, cause, or means, of preservation; as, a rest was her salvation; to find one's salvation in work.

5. Christian Science. Life, Truth, and Love understood and demonstrated as supreme over all; sin, sickness, and death destroyed. Mary Baker Eddy.

sal·va'tion·al (-ŭl; -l), adj. Having the character of one saved or redeemed. Rare.

Salvation Army. A religious and charitable organization on military lines, which has for its aim the evangelization and social betterment of the poor and degraded not reached by the churches. It began with an evangelistic movement started in 1865 by William Booth, an English Methodist minister, in the East End of London, and the organization was called the "Christian Mission" from 1869 until 1878. At this time a quasi-military character was given to the body. A distinctive feature is its open-air meetings, where conventionalities are thrown aside and all legitimate means of attracting popular attention are used. The Army's doctrines agree with those of the evangelical churches. The movement has spread to nearly all parts of the world.

sal·va'tion·ism (săl·vā'shŭn·ĭz'm), n. a Religious teaching in which the saving of the soul is particularly emphasized. b The doctrine of the salvation of the soul, esp. as taught by those stressing the need of open conversion. c [cap.] The doctrine and practices of the Salvation Army. — sal·va'tion·ist (-ĭst), n. & adj.

sal·va'tor (săl·vā'tŏr), n. [L.] One who saves; esp. [cap.], the Saviour. Obs.

sal'va·to'ry (săl'vȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), n. [ML. salvatorium.] A box or receptacle for ointment; also, a repository for safekeeping. Now Rare.

sal'va·to'ry, adj. Conducive to salvation, saving, or safety.

salve (săv; săv), n. [AS. sealf; akin to LG. salwe, D. zalf, G. salbe, OHG. salba, Goth. salbôn to anoint, Gr. elpos oil, elphos butter, Skr. sarpis clarified butter, ghee.] 1. Orig., an unctuous, adhesive composition or substance to be applied to wounds or sores; a healing ointment.

2. Something likened to a salve; as: a A remedial, comforting, soothing influence, agency, statement, or the like; as, a salve for sin; a salve to wounded feelings. b Something applied or laid on like a salve, as praise, flattery; hence, Colloq., obvious flattery.

3. Pharm. Any ointment or cerate prepared with a base consisting of a fat, oil, wool fat, petrolatum, wax, resin, etc.; as, a blistering or antiseptic salve.

salve, v. t.; SALVED (săvd; săvd); SALV'ING. [AS. sealfian to anoint.] 1. To apply salve to, or anoint, as a wound. Archaic.

2. To heal, cure, or soothe as with a salve (a disease, sin, grief, etc.); to provide a remedy or consolation for; also, to cure (a person); to heal or soothe a wound, sorrow, or the like, of. Obs.

3. To smear or cover up, as something festering, ugly, or disgraceful; to gloss over; also, to make amends for. Now R.

4. To quiet, allay, or assuage, as something irritated or likely to cause irritation; — often with over; as, to salve one's conscience with arguments; to salve one's wounded vanity.

salve (sălv), v. t. [LL. salvare to save. See SAVE; cf. 1st SALVO.] Now Rare. 1. To provide a hypothesis in explanation of, as scientific observations; to offer a solution or explanation of; to solve, resolve, or explain away. "What may we do then to salve this seeming inconsistence?" Milton.

2. To make capable of a rational or reasonable explanation, as a doctrine; to justify with arguments; to support.

But lest my liking might too sudden seem,
I would have salv'd it with a longer treatise. Shak.

3. To save or maintain intact, as one's honor or an oath; to preserve the credit or integrity of; to safeguard. "To salve his credit . . . Still will be tempting him who foils him still." Milton.

salve, n. An explanation offered as a solution, excuse, or evasion. Obs.

salve (sălv), v. t. & i.; SALVED (sălvd); SALV'ING. [From SALVAGE.] To save, as a ship or its cargo; to salvage.

sal've (săl'vĕ), interj. [L. See SALVO a volley.] An exclamation expressing greeting; hail!

sal've, n. = 2d SALVO. Obs.

salve bug (săv; săv). A large, stout isopod crustacean (Aega psora), parasitic on the halibut and codfish. It is used by fishermen in the preparation of a salve.

Sal've·lĭ'nus (săl'vĕ·lĭ'nŭs), n. [NL., fr. G. sälbling, salmling, fr. L. salmo salmon.] Zool. The genus to which the chars belong, distinguished chiefly by their small scales and the form of the vomer, which is boat-shaped, with teeth at its end only. The common European species is S. alpinus. Many of the American trout, as the brook trout (S. fontinalis), oquassa (S. oquassa), and Dolly Varden trout (S. malma), belong to this genus. — sal've·line (săl'vĕ·lĭn; -lĭn; 156), adj.

salve mull (săv; săv). Pharm. An ointment with a high melting point, intended to be melted and spread on soft muslin (mull).

sal'ver (săl'vĕr), n. [F. salve, fr. Sp. salva pregustation, the tasting of viands before they are served, salver, fr. salvar to save, to taste, to prove the food or drink of nobles, fr. LL. salvare to save. See SAVE.] 1. A tray on which anything is presented, as letters or visiting cards.

2. A bowl-shaped glass serving dish mounted on a pedestal.

salv'er (săv'ĕr; săv'-), n. [Cf. QUACKSALVER.] One who salves, or cures.

salv'er (săl'vĕr), n. A salvor, as of a ship or goods.

sal'ver-form (săl'vĕr·fôrm), sal'ver-shaped' (-shāpt'), adj. Tubular with a spreading limb; — said, Bot., of a gamopetalous corolla.

Sal'vi·a (săl'vĭ·ȧ), n. [L. See SAGE a plant.] Bot. a A very large and widely distributed genus of herbs or shrubs, the sages (family Lamiaceae), varying greatly in habit, and in the size and color of the flowers. They have a 2-lipped open calyx and two anthers, of which one is erect and perfect, the other spreading and sterile. S. officinalis is the garden sage. Many tropical species, as S. splendens, the scarlet sage, are cultivated for ornament. See 1st SAGE, 1 a; CLARY. b [not cap.] A plant or flower or this genus.

Salverform Corolla.

Salvia. Types of Inflorescence. 1 S. carduacea; 2 S. leucantha; 3 S. hians; 4 S. sessei. (All ⅙) salvia blue. A color, reddish-blue in hue, of high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sal'vi·a·nin (săl'vĭ·ȧ·nĭn), n. [From SALVIA.] Biochem. A complex anthocyanin obtained from salvia.

sal·vif'ic (săl·vĭf'ĭk), sal·vif'ĭ·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [LL. salvificus saving, fr. salvus saved, safe + facere to make.] Tending to save or secure safety. — sal·vif'ĭ·cal·ly, adv.

Sal·vin'ĭ·a (săl·vĭn'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after A. M. Salvini (1653–1729), It. scholar.] Bot. A small genus of fern allies, of wide distribution, type of the Salviniaceae. They differ from Azolla in having distichous leaves, borne mostly on simple stems. S. natans, the floating moss, is the only species found in North America.

Salvinia (S. natans), showing a cluster of Sporocarps under a pair of Fronds.

Sal·vin'ĭ·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of floating fern allies constituting with the Marsileaceae the order Sal·vin'ĭ·a'les (-lēz), and containing only the two genera Salvinia and Azolla, with about eighteen species. They have branching stems bearing small leaves; the sporocarps are one-celled, containing either megasporangia or microsporangia. — sal·vin'ĭ·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

salvinia family. Salviniaceae.

sal'vo (săl'vō), n.; pl. -VOS (-vōz). [ML. salvo jure, lit., right being reserved. See SAFE.] Now Rare. 1. A proviso; exception; reservation; also, a mental reservation; quibble; pretext; excuse.

2. = SALVE, explanation.

3. A means of safeguarding (name, honor, etc.) or of quieting or allaying (conscience, injured vanity, etc.).

sal'vo (săl'vō), n.; pl. -VOS, -VOES (-vōz). [It. salva volley, salute, fr. L. salve hail!, voc. of salvus well, taken as imper. of salvere to be well. See SAFE.] 1. Mil. a Formerly, the simultaneous discharge of several pieces of artillery, corresponding to volleys of infantry fire. It was fired either in action for increased effect or with blank charges as a salute. b In modern artillery fire, one round per gun in a battery, fired in a prescribed order and with a prescribed interval of time between shots.

2. Nav. Gunnery. a The simultaneous discharge of two or more guns of the same battery at the same target. b The projectiles so discharged in their flight.

3. Hence: a A burst of shouts or cheers from a crowd; as, salvos of applause. b Any simultaneous discharge, as of rockets.

sal'vo (săl'vō), v. t. To salute with a salvo.

‖sal vo·la'ti·le (săl vō·lăt'ĭ·lē). [NL.] Ammonium carbonate (sense 2); also, an aromatic solution of it in alcohol or ammonia water, or both.

salvo point. Coast Artillery. A point whose range and azimuth have been accurately ascertained, on which the salvo fire of several batteries may be concentrated.

sal'vor (săl'vĕr), n. [From 5th SALVE.] One who saves, esp. from sinking or drowning; a salver; a salvager; also, a ship used in salvaging.

salv'y (săv'ĭ; săv'ĭ), adj. Like salve in texture or oiliness.

Sal'wey (săl'wā), n. [After Col. Salwey, of Egham Park, Surrey, Eng.] Hort. A very late-ripening variety of yellow-fleshed freestone peach.

Salz'burg vit'ri·ol (zälts'bŏōrk). [From Salzburg, Austria.] A mixture of copper sulphate and ferrous sulphate crystallized together about in the proportion 1: 3.

sam, samm (săm), v. t. & i. [See SAMMY.] Leather Mfg. = SAMMY, v.

sam (săm), v. t. [AS. samnian.] Obs. exc. Dial. 1. To collect; assemble; unite.

2. To curdle (milk).

sam (Scot. sȧm). Var. of SAME. Obs. exc. Scot.

---

sa·lu'ta·to'ri·ly (sȧ·lū'tȧ·tō'rĭ·lĭ), adv. of SALUTATORY.

sa·lu'ta·to'ri·um (-tō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n. [ML.] = SALUTATORY.

sa'lut' d'or' (sȧ'lü' dôr'). [F.], sa·lu'to d'o'ro (sȧ·lōō'tō dō'rō). [It.] = SALUTE, 4 a. salute to the nation. See NATIONAL SALUTE b.

Sal'va·do're·an (săl'vȧ·dō'rē·ăn; 181), adj. & n. Var. of SALVADORAN.

sal'vag·ee' (-vĭj·ē'), n. See -EE.

sal'vage·proof', adj. See -PROOF.

sal'vag·ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SALVAGE.

salvd. Salved. Ref. Sp.

sal'ver-shaped', adj. See SALVERFORM.

sal'vi·ol (-ōl; -ŏl), n. [L. salvia sage + -ol.] Chem. = THUJONE.

salwe, saly. † SALLOW, willow.

Salweour. † SAVIOUR.

sale'tel'le, n. = BAGDAD, 2.

sam-. [AS. sam-. See SEMI.] A prefix denoting half, as in sam-sodden. Obs. exc. Dial.

Sam (săm), n. Dim. of SAMUEL.

Sam (săm), n. The Know-Nothing, or Native American, party, or a member of it. Obs. Polit. Slang, U. S.

Sam (săm), n. Brit. Slang. 1. Salmon, prob. orig. for Salomon, that is, Solomon; — in the now jocular oath upon my Sam.

2. The expense of a treat; — in the phrase to stand Sam.

sa'ma (sä'mä), n. [Sp., of unknown origin.] Puerto Rico. a = MUTTONFISH b. b The tripletail.

sa-ma' (sȧ-mä'), n. [Ar. samā' hearing.] Islamic Mysticism. Audition of music, singing, or dancing, leading, as with the dervishes, to trance.

Sa-mad'er-a (sȧ-mȧd'ĕr-ȧ; săm'ȧ-dē'rȧ), n. [NL.] Syn. of SAMANDURA.

samadera bark. = NIEPA.

sa-madh' (sȧ-mȧd'), n. [Hind. samādh profound meditation, self-immolation, fr. Skr. samādhi profound meditation.] A shrine or tomb built over the grave of a holy mendicant; also, the fact or the place of cremation, or self-immolation by being voluntarily buried or burned alive. India.

sa-ma'dhi (sȧ-mä'dĭ; -mȧd'hĭ; 113), n. [Skr. samādhi a putting together, contemplation, burial.] Hinduism. The superconsciousness sought by practice of yoga (which see).

sa-maj' (sȧ-mäj'), n. [Hind. samāj meeting, assembly, fr. Skr. samāja a community.] A society or congregation; a church or religious body. Cf. ARYA SAMAJ. India.

Sa'mal (sä'mäl), n.; pl. SAMALS (-mälz). A member of a Moslem Malay tribe of the southern Philippines, from Borneo to eastern Mindanao; also, one of the Sa'mal Laut (lout), or Moros of these islands, who are closely related to the Bajaus.

sa'man (sä'män), n. [Sp. samán, fr. Carib zamang. Cf. ZAMAN.] The rain tree.

sa'man (sä'män), n. [Hind. (fr. Per.) sāmān.] Furniture; stores; equipage; baggage. Cf. KHANSAMAH.

Sa-man'du-ra (sȧ-mȧn'dū-rȧ; săm'ȧn-dū'rȧ), n. [NL., fr. Singhalese samadarā, samandarā.] Bot. A small genus of East Indian and African trees (family Simaroubaceae) having flowers with a 3–5 parted perianth and 6–10 included stamens, the fruit being a dry drupe. S. indica yields the bitter bark known as niepa, or samadera bark.

Sa-ma'ni (sȧ-mä'nē), n. pl. The Samanids.

Sa-ma'nid (sȧ-mä'nĭd), n. [Ar. Sāmāni pertaining to Sāmān the first of the dynasty.] A Persian dynasty which ruled from Bokhara, 872 to 999 A.D., encouraging literature and art. — Sa-ma'nid, adj.

Sa-man'tha (sȧ-mȧn'thȧ), n. Fem. proper name.

sam'a-ra (săm'ȧ-rȧ; sȧ-mä'rȧ), n. [L. samara, samera, the seed of the elm.] Bot. A dry, indehiscent, usually one-seeded, winged fruit, as that of the ash, maple, or elm; — commonly called a key or key fruit. See FRUIT, Table & Illust.

sa-ma'ri-a (sȧ-mä'rĭ-ȧ; 79), n. Chem. Samarium sesquioxide, Sm_2O_3, a faintly yellow powder.

sa-mar'i-form (sȧ-mär'ĭ-fôrm; săm'ȧ-rĭ-), adj. [samara + -form.] Bot. Of the form of a samara.

Sa-mar'i-tan (sȧ-mär'ĭ-tăn), adj. [LL. Samaritanus.] 1. Of or pertaining to Samaria in Palestine, which was captured (722 B.C.) by the Assyrians after a siege and colonized by them, later becoming practically independent.

2. Of or befitting the good Samaritan mentioned in Luke x. 30–37; as, Samaritan kindness.

Sa-mar'i-tan, n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Samaria, the people of which in ancient times comprised descendants not only of the Israelites, but also of Mesopotamian and Elamite colonists; also, the language of Samaria. See SEMITIC LANGUAGES, Table.

2. One of a dwindling sect in Nablus (Shechem), similar in doctrine to the Jews, except for their centralization of worship at Mount Gerizim. Their Scriptures are limited to the Pentateuch.

3. One ready and generous in helping fellow beings in distress; — in allusion to the good Samaritan of Luke x. 30–37.

Sa-mar'i-tan-ism (-ĭz'm), n. 1. The religious doctrine of the Samaritans; an expression peculiar to their language.

2. Charitable helpfulness toward human sufferers.

sa-ma'ri-um (sȧ-mä'rĭ-ŭm; 79), n. [NL., fr. E. samarskite.] Chem. A pale-gray, lustrous, rare, metallic element found combined, in association with cerium, yttrium, etc., in certain minerals. Symbol, Sm or Sa; at. no., 62; at. wt., 150.43. It was discovered spectroscopically in samarskite in 1879. Samarium is chiefly trivalent.

Sam'ar-kand' (săm'ĕr-kănd'; native sȧm'ȧr-känt'), n. [From Samarkand, Uzbekistan.] A Chinese Turkestan carpet or rug; — an incorrect but generally accepted designation. See CHINESE TURKESTAN, in Gaz.

sam'a-roid (săm'ȧ-roid), adj. [samara + -oid.] Bot. Resembling a samara.

sa-mar'skite (sȧ-mär'skīt), n. [After Col. Samarski, Russ. mine official.] Mineral. A velvet-black orthorhombic mineral with splendent vitreous or resinous luster, a columbate and tantalate of iron, calcium, uranium, cerium, yttrium, thorium, etc., commonly occurring massive or in embedded grains. H., 5–6. Sp. gr., 5.6–5.8. It is a source of the thorium oxide in incandescent gas mantles.

Sa'ma–Ve'da (sä'mȧ-vā'dȧ), n. [Skr. Sāmaveda the Veda of chanted stanzas.] See VEDA.

sam'bal (săm'bȧl), sam'bel (-bĕl), n. [Malay sambal.] A curry sauce or highly seasoned condiment prepared from fish, meat, and vegetables. Malaysia.

Sam-bal' (sȧm-bäl'), n.; pl. SAMBAL or SAMBALS (-bälz'). Also Zam-bal' (sȧm-; zȧm-). One of a Christianized Indonesian people of Zambales, western Luzon. Their language is called Tino.

sam-ba'qui (sȧm-bä'kē), n.; pl. -QUIS (-kēz). [Pg., fr. Tupi sambaqui.] Archaeol. One of the prehistoric kitchen middens found on the coast of Brazil.

sam'bar (săm'bĕr; sȧm'-), n.; pl. SAMBARS (-b'rz), sometimes SAMBAR. See PLURAL, Note. Also sam'bur. [Hind. sābar, sāmbar, fr. Skr. śambara.] Any of several large Asiatic deer having a maned neck; esp., the Indian species (Cervus, or Rusa, aristotelis). It is dark brown, slightly lighter beneath, and the young are unspotted. The antlers are heavy, the brow tine is directed upward, and the beam is simply forked.

Sam-ba'ra (sȧm-bä'rȧ), n. sing. & pl. Also Sam-ba'la (-bä'lȧ). One of a Bantu-speaking tribe of the Tanganyika Territory opposite the island of Pemba.

Sam'ba-tion' (săm'bȧ-tyŏn'), n. Also Sam'ba-tyon'. [Heb. Sambatyōn, fr. Gr. Sabbation, fr. sabbaton. See SABBATH.] Jewish Folklore. A river which seethes with hot stones every day but the Sabbath.

sam-bho'ga-ka'ya (sŭm-bō'gȧ-kä'yȧ), n. See TRIKAYA.

sam'bo (săm'bō), n. [Sp. zambo negro, mulatto, monkey, prob. fr. Kongo nzambu monkey.] 1. An Indian or mulatto and negro half-breed; specif., in Honduras, a person of mixed Indian and negro blood. Cf. ZAMBO.

2. [cap.] A negro; — used esp. as a name for any negro. Colloq.

sam-bouse' (săm-bōōs'), n. [Tatar somsa.] A Turkish pasty of chopped meats and herbs. Obs.

Sam Browne belt (broun). [After Gen. Sir Samuel James Browne (1824–1901), Brit. army officer.] Mil. A leather waist belt supported by a light strap passing over the right shoulder.

Sam-bu'cus (săm-bū'kŭs), n. [L., elder tree.] Bot. A genus of shrubs, trees, or rarely herbs, the elders (family Caprifoliaceae), natives of temperate regions. They have pinnate leaves with serrate or incised leaflets and white or pink flowers in thyrsoid cymes, the corolla regular and rotate, 3–5-lobed, the stamens five. The fruit is berrylike.

sam'buk (săm'bŏŏk), n. [Ar. sunbuk.] A small kind of Arab dhow.

sam'buke (săm'būk), n. [L. sambuca, Gr. sambykē, fr. a Sem. word akin to Aram. sabbēkhā. Cf. SABECA, 1st SACKBUT, 2.] Music. a An ancient shrill-toned harp. b A sackbut. c A bagpipe. d A hurdy-gurdy.

sam'bu-nĭ'grin (săm'bū-nĭ'grĭn), n. [From Sambucus nigra the elder + -in.] Chem. A glucoside found in the berries of the common elder.

Sam-bu'ru (săm-bōō'rōō), n. sing. & pl. In British East Africa, one of a pastoral people of Hamitic appearance believed to have originated in a mixture of Galla and Somali with Nilotic Negroes.

same (sām), adj. [ME., fr. ON. same, samr (Dan. & Sw. samme); akin to AS. same, adv., OS. sama, samo, OHG. sama, adj. & adv., Goth. sana, adj., Gr. homos same, homoios like, homalos even, level, hama together with, OIr. samail likeness, L. simul at the same time, similis like, singulus (fr. sem- one) single, semper always, OSlav. samŭ same, Skr. sama same, level. Cf. ANOMALOUS, ASSEMBLE, HOMEOPATHY, HOMILY, HYPHEN, SANSKRIT, SEEM, SIMILAR, SIMPLE, SIMULTANEOUS, SINGLE, SOME.] With the definite article or a demonstrative pronoun: 1. Of a single person, thing, quality, action, etc.: Being one without addition, change, or discontinuance; being no other; having one nature or individuality; identical; not different from that referred to specifically in a following relative clause, now most commonly introduced by as or that, or in a phrase introduced by with; not different from that before mentioned or indicated in the context; also, not different in any essential regard, though viewed at different times or in different aspects or relations.

> Which never yet in the same wreath might be. Shelley.
>
> [He] held the same political opinions with his illustrious friend. Macaulay.
>
> Bees like the same odors as we do. Lubbock.

2. Of two or more: Agreeing or corresponding exactly in nature, constitution, quality, relative position, or the like; or so closely as to be undistinguishable from each other; as, the same low sob was heard from another direction; mother and son have the same black eyes; on the same day every year; of one uniform whole, type, or style; as, two books printed on the same paper; equal; as, poles the same in height.

3. Unchanged in nature, behavior, quality, or health; specif., equally desirable or undesirable; — used predicatively.

> If you should change your mind, and take the old lady — 't is the same to me. R. B. Sheridan.
>
> Through time and change, unquenchably the same. Shelley.

Syn. — See IDENTICAL.

same-. Used in combinations, as in:

same-colored	same-minded	same-sized same-featured	same-seeming	same-sounding same (sām), pron. With the definite article, formerly also with this, that: a The same person; the one just referred to; — now chiefly archaic except in legal language. b The aforesaid thing, material, item, or the like; it; they; them; — now chiefly in legal or commercial style, in which the article is sometimes omitted; as, with sleeves and gloves of the same; report the same to the superintendent. c The same action, speech, etc., as another or others; — after verbs of doing, saying, and thinking; as, when two do the same, it is not the same. d A source of unchanged or equal satisfaction; as, she knew that life could never be the same again.

same (sām), adv. With the definite article: a In the same way; with the same treatment, effect, or feeling; as, pronounced the same; also, with equal readiness or success; as, he would have questioned a colonel just the same. b Equally; just; likewise; — followed by as; as, he has to make his living the same as anyone else.

— all the same, just the same. See in the Vocabulary.

same (sām). Var. of SAIM. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

sa'mekh, sa'mech (sä'měk), n. [Heb. samekh.] The fifteenth letter [ס] of the Hebrew alphabet, corresponding to Eng. s. As a numeral = 60.

sam'el (săm'ĕl), adj. [See SAM-; ANNEAL.] Of a brick, not fully burnt, because of its outside position.

sam'el-y (-ĕl-ĭ), adj. Samel. Rare.

same'ly (sām'lĭ), adj. Monotonous from sameness. — adv. — same'li-ness (sām'lĭ-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

same'ness, n. 1. State of being the same; identity; absence of difference; near or essential resemblance; correspondence; similarity; as, a sameness of person, of manner, of sound, of terms, and the like; democracy implies a sameness of thought, dress, and vocabulary.

> Now there are two ideas reached as conceptual limits to perceptual processes which have important bearings on the geometrical representation of space. These may be expressed by the words sameness and continuity. Karl Pearson.

2. Hence, want of variety; tedious monotony.

Syn. — Identicalness, oneness; monotony, invariableness.

Ant. — Dissimilarity, unlikeness, difference.

same'some (sām'sŭm), adj. Monotonous. Dial.

Sam'gar-ne'bo (săm'gär-nē'bō), n. Bib. A Babylonian army officer. Jer. xxxix. 3.

Sam'a-a (săm'ȧ-ȧ). D. Bib.

Sam'a-chi'as (săm'ȧ-kī'ȧs). D. Bib.

Sam'a-el (săm'ȧ-ĕl). 1. Bib. = SALAMIEL. Judith viii. 1. 2. Var. of SAMMAEL.

Sam'a-i'a (săm'ȧ-ī'ȧ). D. Bib.

Sa-me'lias (sȧ-mē'lyȧs). Bib.

Sam'a-oth (săm'ȧ-ŏth; -ȯth). D. Bib. [Bib.]

Sam'a-ra'im (săm'ȧ-rā'ĭm). D. Bib.

Sam'a-rath (săm'ȧ-rȧth), Sam'a-reth (-rĕth). D. Bib.

Sam'a-ri'a (săm'ȧ-rĭ'ȧ) (1 Par. xii. 5); Common Version Shem'a-ri'ah. D. Bib. [Bib.]

Sam'a-ri'as (săm'ȧ-rī'ȧs). D.

Sa-mar'i-tan-ess, n. See -ESS.

Samaritan Pentateuch. See VERSION. [SION.]

Samaritan Targum. See VER-

Sam'a-rite (săm'ȧ-rīt). D. Bib.

sa-mar'ra, n. [LL. See SIMAR.] = SANBENITO, 2.

Sa'mas. Var. of SHAMASH.

Sam'a-tus (săm'ȧ-tŭs). Bib.

Sam-ba'the, n. See 2d SABBATIST.

sam'be-ni'to. † SANBENITO.

sam'bhar, sam'bhur, sam'boo. Vars. of SAMBAR.

sam'book, sam'bouk, sam'bouks. Vars. of SAMBUK.

Sam'bu-ca'ce-ae (săm'bū-kā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of CAPRIFOLIACEAE (in part).

sam'bul (săm'bŭl; -bōōl). Var. of SUMBUL.

sam'bur. Var. of SAMBAR.

Sa-me'ius (sȧ-mē'yŭs). Bib.

sam'en. Short for EXAMINE. Obs.

sam'en, adj. Same. Scot.

sam'en, same, adv. [AS. samen. See SAME.] Together. Obs.

samh (săm'h'), n. [Ar. samh.] A fig marigold of northern Africa (Mesembryanthemum forskahlii), the seeds of which yield a flour used by the Bedouins to make a native bread.

Sa'mhain (sä'wĭn), n. [Ir., of obscure origin.] November 1st, the beginning of the Celtic winter half year and also a feast of the dead that was observed with many religious harvest rites. On oidhche Shamhna, the eve of Allhallows, the fairies were believed to be abroad and mortals brought in closest touch with the spirit world. Cf. BELTANE, 2, LUGNAS.

Samhain Eve. Halloween.

Sam Hill (săm hĭl). A euphemism for the devil, or, vaguely, for anything extreme. Colloq., U. S.

sam-hi'ta (sŭng-hĭ'tȧ), n. [Skr. saṁhitā, prop., combination, fr. saṁhita placed together, fr. sam together + dadhāmi I place. See SANSKRIT; DO. Cf. SANDHI.] A collection, esp. any of the collections of hymns forming the Vedas; as, the Rig Veda Samhita.

Sa'mi-an (sā'mĭ-ăn), adj. [L. Samius.] Of or pertaining to the island of Samos, in the Aegean Sea.

Sa'mi-an, n. A native or inhabitant of Samos

Samian letter. = PYTHAGOREAN LETTER.

Samian Sage. Pythagoras; — from his birthplace.

Samian ware. See ARRETINE WARE.

sam'iel (săm'yĕl), n. [Turk. sam poison + yel wind.] The simoom.

sa'mi-re'site (sä'mĭ-rā'sīt), n. [From the hill of Samiresy, near Antsirabe, Madagascar.] Mineral. A titan-niobate of uranium, lead, and other metals, occurring as yellow octahedral crystals. Sp. gr., 5.2.

sam'i-sen (săm'ĭ-sĕn), n. [Jap., fr. Chin. (Pek.) san[1] hsien[4], lit., three strings.] Music. A Japanese banjo-like instrument of three strings.

Samisen. a Plectrum.

Sa'mish (sā'mĭsh), n. An Indian of a Salishan tribe of northern Washington.

sam'ite (săm'ĭt; sā'mĭt), n. [OF. samit, fr. It. sciamito, fr. ML. samitum, examitum, fr. MGr. hexamiton, fr. hexamitos woven with six threads, fr. Gr. hex six + mitos a thread. See SIX; cf. DIMITY.] 1. A heavy silk fabric, generally interwoven with gold or silver, and used in the Middle Ages for luxurious cushions, ecclesiastical garments, etc. Hist.

2. Something made of this material, as a garment. Obs.

sam'let (săm'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. [Contr. fr. salmon + -let. Cf. SALMONET.] A young or small salmon; a parr.

Sam'ma-el' (sä'mȧ-ĕl'; Eng. săm'ȧ-ĕl), n. Jewish Folklore. The prince of evil spirits, an angel of death.

sam'mel (săm'ĕl; sȧm'-), n. Sandy or loamy gravel. Chiefly Dial. Eng.

sam'mel (săm'ĕl). Var. of SAMEL, adj.

sam'mer (săm'ĕr), n. A workman who sams skins.

sam'mi-er (săm'ĭ-ĕr), n. [See SAMMY.] A machine for pressing the water from skins in tanning.

sam'my (săm'ĭ; sȧm'ĭ), adj. [Cf. dial. sam moist, half-cooked, AS. sāmsoden half-cooked.] Clammy; sodden; watery. Chiefly Dial.

sam'my (săm'ĭ), v. t. & i. [See SAMMY, adj.] Leather Mfg. To make (hides after tanning) or to become equally moist throughout; to dry partly; to sam.

Sam'my (sȧm'ĭ), n. 1. Dim. of SAMUEL.

2. [usually not cap.] Ninny; simpleton. Dial. Eng.

Sam'my (sȧm'ĭ), n.; pl. -MIES (-ĭz). [From Uncle Sam.] A soldier of the United States. Slang.

Sam'nite (săm'nīt), n. a One of an ancient people, an offshoot of the Sabines, in south central Italy; also, their language, which was Oscan. b Rom. Antiq. One of a class of gladiators so called because armed like the natives of Samnium. They bore a long shield. — Sam'nite, adj.

Sa-mo'an (sȧ-mō'ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the Samoan Islands, or their inhabitants.

Sa-mo'an, n. One of the natives of Samoa, among the finest and purest in type of the Polynesians, known for their cleanliness, dignity, and intelligence; also, their language, the most archaic of the Polynesian languages. See AUSTRONESIAN LANGUAGES, Table.

Sam'o-gi'tian (săm'ō-jĭsh'ăn), n. One of the Lithuanian lowlanders; — called also Zhmud. Also, their language; Low Lithuanian.

‖sa'mo-gon' (sä'mō-gŏn'), n. Also ‖sa'mo-gon'ka (-gŏng'kȧ). [Russ., self-distillation.] Vodka distilled and sold illegally. Russia.

Sam'o-lus (sȧm'ō-lŭs), n. [L.] Bot. A small genus of mainly tropical herbs of the primrose family (Primulaceae), having small white flowers with a perigynous corolla including five stamens and five staminodia. S. floribundus and S. valerandi are both called brookweed.

Sam'o-sa-te'ni-an (săm'ō-sȧ-tē'nĭ-ăn), n. [LL. Samosatenus pert. to Samosata, a city on the Euphrates, fr. Gr. Samosata.] Eccl. Hist. A Paulianist. — adj. Pertaining to the Paulians.

Sam'o-the'ri-um (sȧm'ō-thē'rĭ-ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Samos, island in the Aegean + -therium.] Paleontol. A genus of extinct unguiates of the Miocene of Greece. They are allied to the giraffe, but have a shorter neck and no median frontal knob. — sam'o-there (sȧm'ō-thēr), n.

Sam'o-thra'cian (sȧm'ō-thrā'shăn), adj. [Gr. Samothrakios.] Of or pertaining to Samothrace, or designating, or pertaining to, the Cabiric mysteries which were celebrated in Samothrace. See CABIRI. — n. A native or inhabitant of Samothrace.

sam'o-var (sȧm'ō-vär; sȧm'ō-vär'), n. [Russ., lit., self-boiler.] A metal urn used in Russia for making tea. The water is heated by charcoal placed in a pipe, which passes through the urn.

Sam'o-yed', Sam'o-yede' (sȧm'ō-yĕd'), n. [Russ. Samoyed.] 1. One of a Siberian Mongolian people, hunters, and fishers, related to the Finns in type. Scattered along the arctic coasts of the Ural Area and East Siberian Region, they comprise the Yurak, Tawgi, and the Ostyak.

2. An arctic dog of a basic breed originating in western Siberia. It has long been used by Samoyeds for herding reindeer and pulling sleds, and may be regarded as one of the oldest of domesticated dogs. It has moderately long sam'fire. Samphire. Ref. Sp.

Sa'mi (sȧ'mĭ). Bib.

Sa-mi'a (sȧ-mī'ȧ). D. Bib.

sa-mi'ri. Var. of SAMMRI.

Sa'mis (sā'mĭs). Bib.

sam-ka'ra (sȧng-kā'rȧ). Var. of SAMSKARA. [SANKHYA.]

Sam'khya (sȧm'kyē). Var. of Sam'lah (săm'lȧ). Bib.

samm. Var. of SAM, v.

Sam'ma-a (sȧm'ȧ-ȧ). D. Bib.

Sam'ma-i (-ĭ). D. Bib.

sam'mie. Var. of SAMMY.

Sam-mu'a (sȧ-mū'ȧ). D. Bib.

Sam'mus (săm'ŭs). Bib.

sam'my (săm'ĭ). Var. of SWAMI. India. [CASPIAN LANGUAGES.]

Sam-na'ni (sŭm-nȧ'nē), n. See Samnite Wars. See WAR, Table.

Sam'o-ed', Sam'o-id', Sam'o-jed', Vars. of SAMOYED.

samorin, samory. † ZAMORIN.

legs, medium length body, deep chest and well-sprung ribs, powerful loins and head, a sickle tail, and a glittering white or cream coat of long outer hair and soft under hair. It is from 18 to 22 inches high, and weighs from 36 to 55 pounds.

Sam'o·yed', Sam'o·yede' (săm'ō·yĕd'), adj. Also Sam'o·yed'ic (-yĕd'ĭk). Of or pertaining to the Samoyeds or their language. — n. The language of the Samoyeds. See URAL-ALTAIC LANGUAGES, Table.

samp (sămp), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Narraganset nasaump corn mush or soup, Virginian asapan. Cf. SUPAWN.] An article of food consisting of maize broken or bruised, which is cooked by boiling, and usually eaten with milk; coarse hominy. U. S.

sam'pa·gui'ta (săm'pä·gē'tä), n. [Sp. (in the Philippines), dim. of Tag. sampaga.] The Arabian jasmine. Phil. I.

sam·pa'loc (săm·pä'lŏk), n. [Tag.] The tamarind. Phil. I.

sam'pan (săm'păn), n. [(After Chin. san[1]-pan[3], fr. Pg.) fr. earlier champan, champana, fr. Pg. champão, champana, prob. fr. Sp. champán, perh. of Chibchan or Chocoan origin; cf. Choco jamba, jampua, canoe.] a A skiff, used in the river and harbor traffic of China, Japan, and neighboring islands, propelled usually with a scull. It sometimes has a sail, and usually a mat roofing over its cabin. b Any small Chinese boat.

Sampan.

sam'phire (săm'fĭr), n. [F. l'herbe de Saint Pierre. See SAINT; PETER.] a A fleshy European plant (Crithmum maritimum), family Ammiaceæ, growing along the seacoast. This and the next are sometimes pickled. b A common glasswort (Salicornia europaea). c The sea oxeye Borrichia arborescens. d A tropical American fleshy herb (Philoxerus vermicularis), family Amaranthaceæ, with dense heads of white flowers, common along beaches.

sam'ple (săm'p'l; see Pron., § 83), n. [ME. sample, asaumple, fr. OF. essample, example, fr. L. exemplum. See EXAMPLE; cf. ENSAMPLE, SAMPLER.] 1. Obs. a That which serves as a particular case to illustrate or bear out a statement. b A person's conduct, or a person, regarded as a model for imitation; an example; a pattern. "A sample to the youngest." Shak.

And every hardy knight His sample followed. Fairfax.

c A parable. d A warning.

2. A part of anything presented for inspection, or shown as evidence of the quality of the whole; a specimen; as, a sample of dress goods, of blood for analysis, or of one's workmanship.

3. Statistics. A part of a population or universe of data used for purposes of comparison, or for the calculation of statistics.

Syn. — See EXAMPLE.

☞ PHRASES are:

sample book	sample cutter	sample passer sample bottle	sample drawer	sample phial sample box	sample driller	sample picker sample boy	sample envelope	sample porter sample cabinet	sample holder	sample roll sample cards	sample maker	sample tester sample carrier	sample making	sample trunk sample case	sampleman	sample vial sample catcher	sample ore

sam'ple (săm'p'l; 83), v. t.; SAM'PLED (-p'ld); SAM'PLING (săm'plĭng). 1. Obs. a To make or show something comparable; to match; also, to hold up for comparison or as a match. b To set, or act as, an example or model for; to explain by example.

2. To take or to test a sample or samples of; to judge as to quality or worth from samples or an actual experience; as, to sample sugar, teas, wools, cloths.

3. To offer as samples or instances, as textual errors.

4. To yield as a sample; as, the ore samples 8 per cent tin.

sam'ple, adj. That serves as a sample; as, a sample ore.

sam'ple·man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who makes or distributes samples; one whose work is sampling (in sense 2).

sam'pler (săm'plĕr; see Pron., § 83), n. [ME. samplere original, model, fr. OF. essamplaire, essemplaire (F. exemplaire). See EXEMPLAR, n.] 1. A model or pattern for imitation; an original or archetype; also, a specimen or example. Obs.

2. A piece of needlework; orig., one made to preserve a pattern, or patterns; later, one made as a sample of skill, esp. one showing embroidered letters or verses.

3. Any of various devices for extracting samples, as from a bag of grain, a tub of butter, a quantity of ore, etc.

sam'pler, n. [From SAMPLE, v.] 1. One who prepares samples for inspection; one who examines samples, or by samples.

2. One whose work is sampling a (specified) thing, as in:

cotton sampler	tallow sampler	wool sampler grain sampler	tea sampler	zinc sampler sample room. a A room where samples are shown. b A room where samples from a mine, mill, or smelter are weighed and dried, ground, or otherwise prepared. c Local, U. S. A barroom or saloon.

sam'pler·y (săm'plĕr·ĭ), n. The art of making samplers.

sam'pling (-plĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SAMPLE. Hence: n. 1. A bit or small part of anything extracted as a sample for inspection or analysis; specif., white or colored paper used esp. to display textile samples.

2. The act, process, or technique of selecting a suitable sample, as for chemical analysis or psychological examination.

3. Advertising. A method of advertising by distributing a small amount of the commodity advertised for test use. Trade Slang, U. S.

sam'pling, adj. That samples, or is utilized in making or obtaining samples.

Samp·sae'an (sămp·sē'ăn; săm-), n. [Gr. Sampsaíos.] Eccl. One of a branch of the Elkesaites.

Samp'son, Dom'i·nic (dŏm'ĭ·nĭ săm's'n). A schoolmaster in Scott's Guy Mannering.

Samp'son (sămp's'n; săm'-), or Sam'son (săm's'n), fox. A red fox in an abnormal condition of pelage in which the longer hairs are absent, showing only the woolly underfur.

Samp'son, or Samp'son's, snake'root' (sămp's'n, -s'nz; săm'-; 206). a The babroot. b Any of several American gentians of the genus Dasystephana.

Sam'sam (săm'săm; native sŭm'sŭm), n. One of a mixed Malay-Siamese people on the west coast of the Malay Peninsula.

sam·sa'ra (sŭng·sä'rä), n. [Skr. saṁsāra.] Transmigration; metempsychosis; hence, the world or universe in which the law of rebirth operates.

sam'shu (săm'shōō), n. [Chin. (Pek.) san[1] three + shao[4] fire, i. e., thrice distilled.] An alcoholic liquor distilled in China from rice or large millet; also, in general, a spirituous drink.

sam·ska'ra (sŭng·skä'rä), n. [Skr. saṁskāra preparation, ceremony.] 1. Hinduism. The twelve (sometimes forty) purificatory ceremonies, or rites of passage, of the three upper castes, as, of conception, name giving, marriage.

2. Buddhism. (Pali samkara) A mental conformation; a complex; tendency.

Sam'son (săm's'n; 206), n. Also Samp'son (sămp's'n; săm'-). [LL., fr. Gr. Sampsōn, fr. Heb. shimshōn.] 1. Literally, solar, sun's man; — masc. proper name. F. Samson (săn'sôn'); Sp. Sansón (sän·sōn'); Pg. Sansão (sän·soun').

2. An Israelite judge of Bible record (see Judges xiii), distinguished for his great strength; hence, a man of extraordinary physical strength.

3. [often not cap.] Short for SAMSON POST.

sam'son (săm's'n), v. t. Logging. To direct the fall of (a tree) by means of a lever and pole.

Sam'son Ag'o·nis'tes (ăg'ō·nĭs'tēz). [Gr. agōnistēs combatant, champion.] A drama (1671) by John Milton.

Sam'son and De·li'lah (dē·lī'lä). An opera (1877) by Saint-Saëns.

Samson fish. In Australia: a A fish (Seriola hippos) of the family Carangidae. b The young of the fish Arripis trutta. See SALMON, 3 a.

Sam·so'ni·an (săm·sō'nĭ·ăn), adj. Characteristic of or pertaining to the Biblical character Samson; powerful.

Sam·son'ic (săm·sŏn'ĭk), adj. Pertaining or relating to Samson or to Milton's poem Samson Agonistes.

Sam'son·is'tic (săm's'n·ĭs'tĭk), adj. Samsonian.

sam'son·ite (săm's'n·īt), n. [From the Samson mine, St. Andreasberg, Harz.] Mineral. A silver manganese sulphantimonite, $2Ag_2S.MnS.Sb_2S_3$, occurring in steel-black monoclinic, prismatic crystals.

Samson post. [Cf. SAMSON, 2.] 1. [often not cap.] Any of various posts used in positions where great strength is requisite. Specif.: a Naut. (1) A post resting on the keelson and supporting a deck beam. (2) A post for use in securing a cable, sometimes used instead of towing bitts, etc. b Chiefly Naut. A temporary or movable pillar carrying a leading block or pulley. c Logging. A post used, together with a chain and hook, for starting a log, etc. d The post that supports the walking beam in a well-boring apparatus.

2. Also Samson's post. A kind of mousetrap falling upon the victim at the removal of a supporting post. Obs. exc. Dial.

Sa'mu·can (sä'mōō·kăn), adj. Pertaining to or designating a South American Indian linguistic family occupying the northern part of El Chaco in Bolivia. Among the more important surviving tribes are: the Samucus, Salienos, and Ugaronos.

Sa'mu·cu' (sä'mōō·kōō'), n. An Indian of a Samucan tribe, now almost extinct, dwelling in south central Santa Cruz and the adjacent portion of Chuquisaca, Bolivia. See SAMUCAN. — adj. = SAMUCAN.

Sam'u·el (săm'ū·ĕl), n. [LL., fr. Gr. Samouēl, fr. Heb. Shĕmūēl.] 1. Literally, his name is Ēl (God); — masc. proper name. F. Samuel (sä'mwĕl'); It. Samuele (sä·mwä'lā); G. Samuel (zä'mōō·ĕl); D. Samuel (sä'mōō·ĕl). — Dim. Sam, Sammy.

2. a A famous Hebrew judge and prophet. b Either of the Books of Samuel. See OLD TESTAMENT.

Sam'u·el Wel'ler. See WELLER, SAMUEL.

sam'u·rai (săm'ōō·rī), n. pl. & sing. [Jap.] a Originally, any feudal warrior, whether lord or vassal; generally, a vassal. b In the former feudal system of Japan, the class, or a member of the class, of military retainers of the daimios, constituting the gentry or lesser nobility. They possessed power of life and death over the commoners, and wore two swords as their distinguishing mark. Their special rights and privileges were abolished with the fall of feudalism in 1871. Cf. BUSHIDO, SHIZOKU. c Loosely, any Japanese army officer.

san (sän), n. [Doric name for sigma, of Sem. origin. See SIN, SHIN.] 1. A sibilant letter (ϡ), written, printed, etc. b As a numeral, with the name (ϡ) sampi [fr. san + pi], 900. Cf. GREEK NUMERAL.

San (sän), n. pl. Bushmen. See BUSHMAN, 1.

san (sän; sŭn), n. = SUNN.

san'a·ble (sän'ä·b'l), adj. [L. sanabilis, fr. sanare to heal, fr. sanus sound, healthy. See SANE.] Capable of being healed or cured; susceptible of remedy. — san'a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), san'a·ble·ness, n. All Rare.

San An·dre'as rift (sän ăn·drā'äs). Geol. The zone of faults which extends along the coast of northern California, through the San Francisco Peninsula, and southeastward toward the head of the Gulf of California. It was movement along a part of this zone that caused the San Francisco earthquake of 1906.

san'a·tive (sän'ä·tĭv), adj. [ML. sanativus.] Having the power to cure or heal; curative; tending to heal; sanatory; as, a sanative effect; also, of healing; as, the sanative process. — san'a·tive, n. Obs. — san'a·tive·ness, n.

san'a·to'ri·um (sän'ä·tō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n.; pl. L. -RIA (-ä), E. -RIUMS (-ŭmz). [NL. See SANATORY.] 1. A health resort; a locality selected as a retreat because of its salubrity; specif., a high-altitude summer station in a tropical country for European troops, officials, or residents, as Darjeeling in India.

2. An establishment for the treatment of the sick, esp. one that makes much use of natural therapeutic agents or local conditions, or that employs some specific treatment, or that treats a particular disease (as tuberculosis); a sanitarium.

san'a·to'ry (sän'ä·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [LL. sanatorius, fr. L. sanare to heal. See SANABLE.] Conducive to health; tending to cure; curative; sanative; as, sanatory ordinances; also, of or pertaining to healing.

Syn. — SANATORY and SANITARY should not be confounded. Sanatory signifies conducive to health; sanitary has the more general meaning of pertaining to health; as, the camp is not sanatory, its sanitary conditions are bad.

San·bal'lat (sän·bäl'ät). A Biblical character, a contemporary of Nehemiah. Neh. ii. 10.

san'be·ni'to (sän'bĕ·nē'tō), n. [Sp. sambenito, fr. San Benito, Saint Benedict.] 1. Originally, a sackcloth coat worn by penitents on being reconciled to the church.

2. A yellow garment resembling a scapular, worn by penitents at the auto-da-fé; also, a similar garment in black, painted with flames, figures of devils, etc., worn by those condemned and brought forth for punishment at the auto-da-fé.

San Car'los A·pach'e (săn kär'lōs ä·păch'ē). An Indian of any of several Apache tribes now on the San Carlos Reservation in eastern Arizona. See APACHE.

san'cho (săng'kō), n. [Ashanti oṣanku.] A rude guitar with fiber strings, played by American negroes.

san'cho (sän'chō), n. [Sp., prop. name.] The nine of trumps in sancho pedro.

San'cho Pan'za (sän'chō pän'zä; Sp. sän'chō pän'thä). The squire in Cervantes' Don Quixote. He is a short, pot-bellied peasant, ignorant and credulous, but shrewd and with a store of proverbial wisdom, thus being a foil to his master. See BARATARIA.

san'cho pe'dro (sän'chō pē'drō). [Sp. Pedro Peter. See 2d SANCHO.] A variety of auction pitch in which the nine (sancho) and five (pedro) of trumps are added as counting cards at their pip value, and the ten of trumps counts game.

sanct (săngkt), adj. [L. sanctus.] Sacred. Rare.

sanc'ta (săngk'tä), n. [L., fem. of sanctus holy.] In medieval times, a fragment of a host consecrated at a previous Mass placed by the Pope in the consecrated wine before Communion as a symbol of the identity of the sacrifice from one Mass to another. Cf. FERMENTUM.

sanc'ta·nim'i·ty (săngk'tä·nĭm'ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. sanctus holy + animus mind.] Holiness of mind. Rare.

‖Sanc'ta Sanc'tis (săngk'tä săngk'tĭs). [L.] Liturgy. Holy things for the holy; — an exclamation in the Eastern and Gallican rites at the Elevation of the Host.

sanc'te bell (săngk'tē). Sanctus bell. Archaic.

sancti-. A combining form, Latin sancti-, from sanctus, meaning holy, as in sanc·tif'o·quent. See -LOQUENT.

sanc'ti·fi·cate (săngk'tĭ·fĭ·kāt), v. t. [LL. sanctificatus, past part. of sanctificare.] To sanctify. Rare.

sanc'ti·fi·ca'tion (săngk'tĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [LL. sanctificatio.] 1. Act of sanctifying, or state of being sanctified; esp., Theol., the act or process of God's grace by which the affections of men are purified, or alienated from sin, and exalted to a supreme love to God and righteousness; also, the state of being thus purified.

2. Act of consecrating; consecration. Bp. Burnet.

sanc'ti·fied (săngk'tĭ·fīd), adj. Made holy or free of sin; set apart to sacred duty or use; also, made to have the air of sanctity; sanctimonious. — sanc'ti·fi'ed·ly (-fī'ĕd·lĭ; -ĭd·lĭ; 119; -fīd'lĭ), adv.

sanc'ti·fi'er (-fī'ĕr), n. One who or that which sanctifies; specif. [cap.], Theol., the Holy Spirit.

sanc'ti·fy (săngk'tĭ·fī), v. t.; SANC'TI·FIED (-fīd); SANC'TI·FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [OF. and L.; OF. saintifier, sanctifier, fr. LL. sanctificare, fr. sanctus holy + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See SAINT; -FY.] 1. To make sacred or holy; specif.: a To set apart to a sacred office or to religious use or observance; to consecrate by appropriate rites; to hallow.

God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it. Gen. ii. 3.

b Obs. To canonize. c Obs. To honor, treat, or observe (name, day, etc.) as sacred. d Obs. To make manifest as God or God's.

2. To make free from sin; to cleanse from moral corruption and pollution; to purify.

Sanctify them through thy truth. John xvii. 17.

3. To impart or impute sacredness, inviolability, title to reverence, venerableness, or respect, to; to give sanction to; as, the Church sanctified his election; also, to give the appearance of sacredness or innocence to; as, let the intention sanctify the deed.

Truth guards the poet, sanctifies the line. Pope.

4. To make efficient as the means of holiness; to render productive of holiness or piety.

A means which his mercy hath sanctified so to me as to make me repent of that unjust act. Eikon Basilike.

sanc·til'o·gy (săngk·tĭl'ō·jĭ), n. A hagiology.

sanc'ti·mo'ni·al (săngk'tĭ·mō'nĭ·ăl), adj. [LL. sanctimonialis.] Sanctimonious. Obs.

sanc'ti·mo'ni·al, n. A nun.

sanc'ti·mo'ni·ous (săngk'tĭ·mō'nĭ·ŭs; 159), adj. [See SANCTIMONY.] 1. Possessing sanctity; holy; sacred; saintly. Obs.

2. Making a show of sanctity; affecting saintliness; hypocritically devout or pious.

— sanc'ti·mo'ni·ous·ly, adv. — sanc'ti·mo'ni·ous·ness, n.

sanc'ti·mo'ny (săngk'tĭ·mō'nĭ or, esp. Brit., -mŭn·ĭ), n. [OF. sanctimonie, fr. L. sanctimonia, fr. sanctus holy. See SAINT.] 1. Holiness; devoutness; sanctity. Obs.

2. Outward or artificial saintliness; assumed or pretended holiness; hypocritical devoutness.

3. Chasteness of style. Rare.

Syn. — See SIMULATION.

sanc'tion (săngk'shŭn; 177), n. [F. or L.; F. sanction, fr. L. sanctio, -onis, fr. sancire to render sacred or inviolable. See SAINT.] 1. Formerly, a decree, esp. an ecclesiastical decree.

2. Formerly, an oath or solemn agreement; now, that which makes it binding.

3. a Solemn or ceremonious ratification. b An official act of a superior by which he ratifies and gives validity to the act of some other person or body; establishment or furtherance of anything by giving authority to it; confirmation; permission; recognition. c Approbation; countenance.

The strictest professors of reason have added the sanction of their testimony. I. Watts.

4. A thing that authorizes, confirms, or countenances.

5. See PRAGMATIC SANCTION.

6. Ethics. Any consideration, principle, or influence, which impels to moral action or determines the moral judgment as valid. According to various theories, pleas-sam'pi (săm'pĭ), n. See 1st SAN, 2 b. sam'ple·less, adj. Unexampled. Obs. [= SPLIT SHOVEL.]

sampling shovel. Ore Dressing.

‖sam·po'gna (săm·pō'nyä), n. [It.] Var. of ZAMPOGNA.

Samp'sa·mes (sămp's'ś·mēz). D. Bib.

Samp'son. Var. of SAMSON.

Sampson Brass. See BRASS, SAMPSON.

samp'su·chine, n. [L. sampsuchinus, adj., fr. Gr. sampsychinos, fr. sampsychon marjoram.] Sweet marjoram. Obs.

Sam'sai (săm'sī). D. Bib.

Sam'sa·ri (-s'ä·rī). D. Bib.

Sam'scre·tan, n. & adj. = SANSKRIT. Obs.

sam'shoo. Var. of SAMSHU.

Sam'si·en. = SAMISEN.

sam'·sod'den, adj. = HALF-BAKED. Dial. Eng.

Sam'son·ess, n. See -ESS.

Sam'son's snake'root'. Var. of SAMPSON'S SNAKEROOT.

sam't'choo. Var. of SAMSHU.

Sa·mu'a (sä·mōō'ä). D. Bib.

Sa'muin. Var. of SAMHAIN.

sa·mum', Var. of SIMOOM.

Sam'y·da'ce·ae (săm'ĭ·dā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of FLACOURTIACEAE (in part).

san'a (sŭn'ä; shŭn'ä). Var. of SUNN. [Bib.]

San'a·bas'sar (sän'ä·bäs'ĕr).

San'a·bas'sa·rus (-ä·rŭs). Bib.

san'ad (sŭn'ăd). Var. of SUNNUD.

sa'nai (sŭn'ī), n. = SUNN.

sa·na'shy. Var. of SANNYASI, a mendicant.

San'a·sib (sän'ä·sĭb). Bib.

sa·na'tion (sä·nā'shŭn), n. [L. sanatio. See SANABLE.] Healing. Obs.

san'a·tiv. Sanative. Ref. Sp.

San Blas (sän bläs). = CUNAN.

San Blas Indian. = CUNA, n.

sanc'ta, n., pl. of SANCTUM.

sanc'ti·fi'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE. — sanc'ti·fi'a·ble·ness, n. — sanc'ti·fi'a·bly, adv.

sanc·tif'i·cate, adj. Sanctified. Obs.

sanctifying grace. = HABITUAL GRACE.

sanc'ti·fy'ing·ly, adv. of sanctifying, pres. part.

ure and pain, or the findings of conscience, or the principle of the golden rule, or the goal of perfection constitute such sanctions.
7. Law. The detriment loss of reward, or other coercive intervention, annexed to a violation of a law as a means of enforcing the law. This may consist in the direct infliction of injury or inconvenience, as in the punishments of crime (punitive sanctions) or in mere coercion, restitution, or undoing of what was wrongly accomplished, as in the judgments of civil actions (civil sanctions). A sanction may take the form of a reward (remuneratory sanctions) that is withheld for failure to comply with the law.
Syn. — Ratification, authorization, authority, endorsement, support, approval. Ant. — Disapprobation, disapproval; opposition, antagonism.

sanc'tion (săngk'shŭn), v.; -TIONED (-shŭnd); -TION·ING. Trans.: 1. To give sanction to; to make valid or binding; ratify; confirm; also, to lend countenance or approval to.
2. To annex a sanction or penalty to the violation of (a right, obligation, or command).
3. Law. To define as original and fundamental law antecedent to any possible violation, penalty, or sanction; — chiefly in sanctioned rights (see RIGHT, n., 2 b).
——, Intransitive: Law. To arise as a preventive of violation of a sanctioned right or obligation; — chiefly in sanctioning rights (see RIGHT, n., 2 b).
Syn. — Authorize, countenance. See RATIFY.

sanc'tion·ar'y (-ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), adj. Of, pertaining to, or giving, sanction. Rare.

sanc'tion·a'tive (săngk'shŭn·ā'tĭv), adj. Law. Imposing, or enforcing obedience by, a sanction; as, sanctionative rights.

sanc'tion·er (săngk'shŭn·ĕr), n. One who sanctions.

sanc'ti·tude (săngk'tĭ·tūd), n. [L. sanctitudo.] 1. Pure and saintly character; holiness or sacredness; sanctity.
2. = SANCTIMONY, 3.

sanc'ti·ty (săngk'tĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [From L. and fr. ME. saunctite, saintite, fr. OF. saincteté, saintité (F. sainteté), fr. L. sanctitas, fr. sanctus holy. See SAINT.]
1. State or quality of being sacred or holy; holiness of life and character; saintliness; godliness; also, pl., sacred excellences, austerities, beings, etc.

To sanctity she made no pretense, and, indeed, narrowly escaped the imputation of irreligion. Macaulay.

2. Sacredness; solemnity; inviolability; religious binding force; as, the sanctity of an oath; also, pl., sacred objects, obligations, rites, recesses, etc.
Syn. — See HOLINESS.

Sanc·tol'o·gy (săngk·tŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [LL. sanctorum, gen. pl. of sanctus saint + -logy.] A catalogue of saints or compilation of saints' lives. Rare. — sanc·tol'o·gist (-jĭst), n.

sanc·to'ri·um (săngk·tō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n. [NL., fr. LL. sanctus saint.] A shrine. Rare.

sanc'tu·ar'ied (săngk'tū·ĕr'ĭd or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭd), adj. Used as or furnishing sanctuary.

sanc'tu·a·rize (săngk'tū·ȧ·rīz), v. t. To shelter by a sanctuary or sacred privileges.

sanc'tu·ar'y (săngk'tū·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ; 177), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [From L. and fr. ME. seintuarie, fr. OF. saintuaire, sainctuarie (F. sanctuaire), fr. L. sanctuarium, fr. sanctus sacred, holy. See SAINT.] 1. A consecrated place, as one devoted to the keeping of sacred things. Specif.: a The temple at Jerusalem, or the most retired part of it, called the Holy of Holies, in which was kept the ark of the covenant, and into which no person was permitted to enter except the high priest, and he only once a year to intercede for the people; also, the most sacred part of the tabernacle. b The most sacred part of any religious building, esp. that part of a Christian church in which the altar is placed. c A house consecrated to the worship of God; a church, temple, or other building for worship. d Gr. & Rom. Antiq. A place consecrated to some god or gods, whether open or enclosed, sometimes a grove, sometimes an enclosure containing a temple, shrines, theater, etc.; as, the sanctuary of Pandion in Athens. Also, an innermost and specially sacred room in a temple; an adytum. e Obs. A portable shrine for sacred relics. f Now Dial. A churchyard or consecrated burying ground.
2. a A sacred and inviolable asylum; a place of refuge and protection. b Immunity from law by entering such a place; shelter; refuge; protection. See ASYLUM, n., 1. c The right or privilege of conferring such immunity.

The ancient privilege of sanctuary was transferred to the Christian temples. Gibbon.

3. Figuratively: a Heaven. b Rare. The order of priesthood. c A place of resort for those who seek relief.
4. A place of refuge for birds, or for game or other animals, where predatory animals are controlled and hunting is not allowed; as, a bird sanctuary; a game sanctuary.
☞ Sanctuary and refuge are sometimes distinguished, the former being applied to a place where all forms of wild life are equally protected, the latter to a place where predaceous birds and animals are controlled for the protection of more desirable forms of wild life, as game and insectivorous birds.

sanc'tu·ar'y, v. t. = SANCTUARIZE. Obs.

sanctuary ring or knocker. A ring on a church door, which once ensured sanctuary to any laying hold of it. Hist.

sanc'tum (săngk'tŭm), n.; pl. SANCTUMS (-tŭmz), sometimes SANCTA (-tȧ). [L., neut. of sanctus holy. See SAINT.] A sacred place; hence, a study, office, or like place of retreat, where one is free from intrusion; as, an editor's sanctum.

sanc'tum sanc·to'rum (săngk·tō'rŭm; 181). [L.] a The holy of holies; the most holy place. b The inner and strictly private retreat, as of an important personage; — often used jocosely.

Sanc'tus (săngk'tŭs), n. [L., holy. See SAINT.] 1. Eccl. In the Roman rite and the Anglican Communion Service, the last part of the Preface commencing with the words, Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus (Holy, Holy, Holy); — called also Tersanctus. The Tersanctus is part of nearly all Eastern and Western rites.
2. Music. A setting of the Sanctus.

Sanctus bell. A bell rung by the server at the Sanctus in the Mass. In medieval churches the Sanctus bell was often hung in a turret or bell cot over or near the chancel arch and was rung with a rope that fell near the server's place.

san'cy·ite (săn'sĭ·īt), n. [From Sancy peak, Mont-Dore, Madagascar.] Petrog. A rhyolitelike extrusive rock, containing phenocrysts of sanidine in a groundmass, once glassy, but now composed of small crystals of andesine, biotite, augite, and magnetite, in a matrix of orthoclase microlites. Titanite and zircon are accessories.

sand (sănd), n. [AS.; akin to D. zand, G. sand, OHG. sant, ON. sandr, Dan. & Sw. sand, Gr. amathos, L. sabulum. Cf. SABULOUS.] 1. a A loose material consisting of small but easily distinguishable grains (most commonly of quartz), resulting from the disintegration of rocks. As distinguished from gravel, sand consists of particles generally less than 2 millimeters in diameter. If less than ⅛ millimeter, the particles form silt. It is used for making mortar and glass, as an abrasive, for molds in founding, etc. b A mass of this material as on a beach, a desert, etc.
2. Also pl., a A tract, region, or deposit, of sand; beach; shore. "Even as men wrecked upon a sand." Shak. b A sand bank. c A grain of sand. d Sandy soil.
3. The sand in the hourglass or a grain of it; hence, a moment or interval of time; pl., the moments of one's life.

The sands are numbered that make up my life. Shak.

4. Any sandstone or unconsolidated sand formation containing oil; — loosely, any oil-producing formation; as, the oil sands of Pennsylvania.
5. In the making of maple sugar, a granular deposit which forms during concentration of the sap. It contains chiefly calcium malate and silica.
6. Figuratively, a most unstable material, medium, etc., certain to render futile forthwith all effort expended upon it; as, a reputation built upon sand or written in the sand.
7. a Slang. Courage; pluck; grit. b Money.
8. A color, reddish-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also beach, chip. Cf. COLOR.
9. Med. Gritty particles in certain body tissues or fluids; as, brain sand; urinary sand.
10. Mining. Tailing, esp. that from a cyanide mill or stamp mill; — also used colloquially in the pl.
☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

sandbin	sand chute	sand hoist
sand-blown	sand-colored	sand mixer
sand-bottomed	sand conveyer	sand pail sand buffer	sand digger	sand-red sand-built	sand dredge	sand scoop
sand-buried	sand-etched	sand-strewn sand burner	sand-faced	sand tester
sand car	sand flat	sand walk
sand caster	sand-hemmed	sand-warped

-sand (-sănd). A combining form of sand, as in green*sand,* quick*sand.*

sand (sănd), v. t.; SAND'ED; SAND'ING. 1. To sprinkle or powder with sand; as, to sand a freshly painted surface in imitation of stone; to sand ink to dry it.
2. To cover with sand; esp.: a To bury (oysters) beneath drifting sand or mud. b To fill, as harbors, etc., with sand, as by the action of currents; — usually with up. c To treat, as clay soil, with an overspread layer of sand.
3. To mix with sand; to add sand to; as, to sand sugar.
4. To run aground upon the sand; to thrust upon a sand bar (a vessel or its occupants).
5. To smooth by grinding or rubbing with sand; specif., to rub or polish with sandpaper.

sand up. Petroleum. To choke with sand, as in a well producing sand mixed with oil or gas.

sand, n. [AS.] Obs. 1. A sending; mission; embassy.
2. A thing sent; message; order; also, gift; present.
3. A messenger.
4. A mess (of food); victuals.

san'dak (săn'dăk), n. [Yiddish sandĕk, fr. Heb. sindīqnōs, sindīqōs, fr. Gr. syntekhnos brought up from childhood together.] Jewish. The person who holds the Jewish infant on his knees while it is being circumcised.

san'dal (săn'dăl; -d'l), n. Sandalwood. Tennyson.

san'dal, n. [Ar. sandal, fr. Per. sandal skiff.] A narrow two-masted boat, used on the Barbary coast and on the Nile.

san'dal (săn'dăl; -d'l), n. [L. sandalium, fr. Gr. sandalion, dim. of sandalon, of Oriental origin; cf. Per. sandal.] 1. A kind of shoe consisting of a sole strapped to the foot; a protection for the foot, covering its lower surface only. Sandals are much worn among Orientals, and are a part of the official dress of Roman Catholic bishops and abbots.

Sandals, showing two methods of fastening.

2. A fancy slipper, sometimes containing openwork in the vamps and quarters.
3. A strap or latchet to hold on a slipper or low shoe by passing across the foot or around the ankle, — in use during the first half of the 19th century.
4. A rubber overshoe cut very low, either with an entire sole and a strip across the instep or with a sole for the fore part of the foot only and a strip back of the heel.

san'dal, v. t.; -DALED, -DALLED (-dăld; -d'ld); -DAL·ING, -DAL·LING. 1. To provide with sandals; to put sandals on.
2. To fasten with a sandal or sandals (sense 3).

san'dal. Var. of SENDAL, a silk.

sandal brick. = PLACE BRICK.

san'daled, san'dalled (săn'dăld; -d'ld), adj. 1. Wearing sandals. "His sandaled feet." Longfellow.
2. Fastened with a sandal. See SANDAL, 3.

san·dal'i·form (săn·dăl'ĭ·fôrm; săn'dăl·ĭ·fôrm'), adj. [sandal + -form.] Shaped like a sandal or slipper.

san'dal·ing (săn'dăl·ĭng; -d'l·ĭng), n. Material woven in elastic strips for sandals (sense 1).

San·dal'phon (săn·dăl'fŏn), n. [Heb. Sandelphōn, fr. Gr. Synadelphos, lit., one that has a brother.] In Jewish angelology, a very tall angel of fiercest fire placed over mankind. He receives the prayers of men, weaving them into crowns to present to God.

san'dal tree (săn'dăl; -d'l). Also san'dal. a An Indo-Malayan tree (Sandoricum koetjape), family Meliaceae, with hard, red, fine-grained timber. It is often cultivated in the tropics for its fruit, used in preserves and pickles. Cf. WILD MANGOSTEEN. b = SANDALWOOD, 1 a.

san'dal·wood' (săn'dăl·wŏŏd'; -d'l-), n. [OF. sandal, santal, fr. ML. sandalum, santalum, fr. LGr. santalon, sandanon, ult. fr. Skr. candana; akin to Skr. candra shining. See CANDID; cf. SANDERS.] 1. a The compact, close-grained, fragrant, yellowish heartwood of an Indo-Malayan, parasitic tree (Santalum album); also, the tree itself. The wood is much used in ornamental carving and cabinetwork; its odor drives away insects, and it is therefore of value for chests and boxes. b Any of various other species of Santalum or their wood, as the Polynesian S. freycinetianum, often distinguished as yellow sandalwood; the Hawaiian S. pyrularium; the Australian S. lanceolatum, etc. c Either of the Australian trees Fusanus spicatus and Exocarpus latifolius (family Santalaceae), often called scrub sandalwood; also, their wood.
2. Any of various other trees or their fragrant wood, which in some respects resembles sandalwood: a The red sandalwood. b A Russian species of buckthorn (Rhamnus dahurica) whose wood is used for dyeing leather. c In Australia, the bastard sandalwood Myoporum tenuifolium. d In Tasmania and Australia, the scentwood.
3. The color fawn.

sandalwood family. The Santalaceae.

sandalwood oil. See OIL, Table I.

sandalwood tan. = FAWN, n., 3.

san'dal·wort' (săn'dăl·wûrt'; -d'l-), n. Any plant of the family Santalaceae.

san'dan (săng'dăn), n. [Nepali sādan.] An East Indian timber tree (Ougeinia dalbergioides), family Fabaceae, with hard wood. It yields also a valuable red gum, and its bark various native remedies.

san'da·rac (săn'dȧ·răk), n. [L. sandaraca, fr. Gr. sandarakē, of Oriental origin.] 1. Realgar.
2. The sandarac tree Callitris quadrivalvis.
3. A brittle, faintly aromatic, translucent resin obtained from the sandarac tree, usually in the form of small, pale-yellow grains or tears. It is used chiefly in making varnish and as incense. Cf. 1st POUNCE, 1. Australian sandarac is from various Australian species of Callitris and forms larger tears than common sandarac.

san·dar'a·cin (săn·dăr'ȧ·sĭn), n. Chem. A constituent of the resin sandarac insoluble in ordinary alcohol. It is a mixture.

sandarac tree. a A large tree (Tetraclinis articulata), family Pinaceae, of Morocco, which yields the resin sandarac. Its hard, durable, fragrant wood is much used in building, as in the roof of Cordova Cathedral. The wood is the arar, alerce, lignum vitae, and thuja of France and Spain, and the citronwood of the Romans. See THYINE WOOD. b Any of several Australian species of Callitris.

san·das'tros (săn·dăs'trŏs), san·das'tra (-trȧ), n. [L. sandastros.] A kind of precious stone containing glistening starlike specks, considered as male or female according to its greater or less brilliancy. Obs.

San·da'we (săn·dä'wē), n. sing. & pl. Also San·da'wi (-wē). One of a tribe in Tanganyika Territory resembling the Hottentots, using the peculiar clicks of Bushman and Hottentot speech. Also, their language. See HOTTENTOT.

sand badger. a A nocturnal musteline mammal (Arctonyx collaris) of India having a naked piglike snout. The color is dull grayish with black-and-white markings on the head. b A Japanese badger (Meles anakuma).

sand'bag' (sănd'băg'; 111), n. 1. A bag filled with sand, variously used, as: a In piles forming a wall, as in fortifications. b As ballast in boats and aircraft. c As a weapon; specif., formerly, swung at the end of a staff or beam of a quintain; recently in the form of a cylindrical bag partially filled with sand for use as a club. d As a cover for a crevice to exclude drafts.
2. Mil. In the United States Army, a bag 14″ × 26½″, filled with sand and extensively used for self-supporting revetments.

sand bag. The stomach of a crab.

sand'bag' (sănd'băg'; 111), v. t.; -BAGGED' (-băgd'); -BAG'·GING. 1. To bank or stop up with sandbags.
2. To hit or stun with a sandbag; also, Slang, to coerce by crude means.

sand'bag'ger (-băg'ĕr), n. 1. One who uses a sandbag; esp., a robber who stuns his victim with a sandbag.
2. A light-draft sailboat with sandbags for ballast. Colloq.
3. Any legislative bill introduced for purposes of blackmail. Political Cant.

sand'bank' (-băngk'; 111), n. A large deposit of sand in a mound or hillside or as a bar or shoal.

sand bar. A bar or ridge of sand built up to or near to the surface by the currents in a river or in coastal waters. Cf. 4th SHOAL, 2. — sand'-bar', adj.

sand'-bar' wil'low. A much-branched North American shrub (Salix longifolia) with lanceolate silky leaves; also, its soft reddish-brown wood.

sand bath. a In a chemical laboratory, a pan of hot sand in which vessels to be heated are partly immersed. b An immersion of the body in hot sand, often for therapeutic effect.

sand bear. The sand badger.

sand bellows. A blower for sanding surfaces.

sand belt. A belt surfaced with an abrasive, as for grinding or polishing. — sand'-belt', adj.

sand'-belt' ma·chine'. A kind of sandpapering machine; a belt sander.

sand binder. Any grass or other plant which grows in sand and holds it in place by its rootstocks.

sand bird. A shore bird.

sand blackberry. A stiff, thorny blackberry (Rubus cuneifolius) of the eastern United States, having leaves white-tomentose beneath, and sweet fruit.

sand'blast' (sănd'blăst'; 83), n. 1. A stream of sand forcibly projected by air or steam for engraving or cutting glass, stone, and other hard materials, cleaning and sharpening files, removing scale from metals, etc.; also, the apparatus used to apply it.
2. A gust of wind carrying sand.
3. Figuratively, irresistible destructive action suggestive of a blast of sand.

sand'blast', v. t. To engrave, cut, clean, etc., with a sand blast. — sand blaster.

sand'-blind', adj. Purblind; weak-sighted. — sand blindness.

sand block. A block to which sandpaper is attached.

sand blower. A sand bellows.

sand'board' (sănd'bōrd'; 181), n. In wagons, etc., a board running over and parallel with the axle, the ends resting upon the hounds.

sand boil. A bubbling spring sometimes several feet in diameter which bursts through the ground at the back of a river levee. It is caused by the water in the river at flood stages being forced under the levee through a pervious stratum of soil. Called also a blowout.

sand'box' (sănd'bŏks'; 111), n. 1. A box or other receptacle containing loose sand, for various purposes, as: a Formerly, a shaker for sprinkling sand upon wet ink. b For increasing friction of wheels against rails. c Golf. For use in making tees.
2. A sand mold.

sand'box', n. a The sandbox tree. b Its explosive pod, often filled with shot and used as a paperweight.

sandbox tree. A tropical American tree (Hura crepitans), having a depressed many-celled woody capsule which, when completely dry, bursts with a loud report and scatters the seeds. See REGMA, Illust.; YELLOW SANDBOX.

sand'boy' (sănd'boi'), n. 1. A popular name for any hopping insect, such as a sand flea, found on sandy beaches.
2. Formerly, in England, a boy who peddled sand at a seaside resort. Dickens.
☞ The phrase, jolly as a sandboy, may come from either or both meanings.

sand brier. The horse nettle.

sand bug. A crustacean (Emerita talpoida) which burrows in the sand; a bait bug. See EMERITA.

sand bunker. = BUNKER, 4 & 5.

sanc'tion·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE. sanctioned. Sanctioned. Ref. Sp. sanc'tion·less, adj. See -LESS. sanc'tion·ment, n. See -MENT.
San'cy' (săn'sē'), n. See DIAMOND, 1 a. sand'dald. Sandaled. Ref. Sp. san'da·rach. Var. of SANDARAC. sand'beach' grape (sănd'bēch'). = SAND GRAPE. sand'-blight'. Var. of SANDY BLIGHT. See BLIGHT, n., 8.

sand'bur', sand'burr' (sănd'bûr'), n. Any of several weeds of waste places, having burlike fruit; as: a A North American nightshade (Solanum rostratum) with prickly foliage and racemose yellow flowers. It was the original food of the Colorado potato beetle. b An annual bristly herb (Franseria acanthicarpa), family Ambrosiaceae, of western North America, allied to the cocklebur. c The bur grass.

Sandbur a. 1 Plant much reduced; 2 Flower.

sand'-burned' (-bûrnd'), adj. Metal. Of a casting, having a hard skin due to the silica of the sand combining with the surface of the metal when the latter is poured into the mold at too high a temperature. See BLACKING, 2 b.

sand'-cast', adj. Metal. Cast in a mold made of sand.

sand'-cast', v. t. To make (a casting) by pouring metal in sand, as in ordinary founding.

sand casting. Metal. A casting made in a mold of sand.

sand cherry. A dwarf cherry (Prunus pumila) of the northern United States and Canada, with scarcely edible fruit; also, the related P. besseyi of the western plains, cultivated for its small fairly sweet fruit.

sand clam. The long (or soft) clam. See 9th CLAM, 1 a.

sand clock. = SANDGLASS.

sand clover. The kidney vetch.

sand cock. The redshank. Eng.

sand collar. The mass or nidus of eggs embedded in sand and jellylike matter, produced by certain marine snails (Natica, Polinices, and allied genera). It is shaped like a thin collar or bottomless saucer open at one side.

sand column. A phenomenon, suggestive of a waterspout, in which sand is drawn up in a swirling column. It is often seen in tropical deserts. Called also sand spout.

sand cone. A low pinnacle of ice on a glacier, protected from melting by a layer of sand.

sand corn. An herb (Zygadenus paniculatus) of the western United States, with greenish-white, racemose flowers, and foliage poisonous to cattle.

sand crab. a The lady crab. b A crab of the genus Ocypode or family Ocypodidae.

sand crack. Veter. A fissure or lesion in the horn of the hoof wall, often causing lameness. When in the front wall, it is known as toe crack, and is most common in the hind feet; when in the lateral parts of the wall, as quarter crack, and is nearly always in the forefeet.

sand crater. Geol. An opening in the earth from which sand and water are erupted during an earthquake.

sand cricket. Any of several large clumsy terrestrial cricket-like grasshoppers of the genus Stenopelmatus (family Stenopelmatidae) of sandy plains of the western U. S.

sand cusk. Any fish of the family Ophidiidae (which see).

sand dab. Any of several flounders: esp.: a Limanda ferruginea, common on the New England coast, a small but good food fish. b Hippoglossoides platessoides, common on both shores of the North Atlantic.

sand darter. Any darter (fish of the family Etheostomidae); esp., a small translucent species (Ammocrypta beanii) of the Gulf States.

sand disease. Veter. Distention, with resulting catarrh, of the stomach and small intestines in horses and cattle, caused by the ingestion of sand with feed and water, esp. in inundated districts.

sand diver. a A West Indian and tropical American lizard fish (Synodus intermedius). b = SAND DARTER.

sand dollar. Any of several flat circular sea urchins of the order Clypeastrina, which live on sandy bottoms, esp. Echinarachnius parma of the American coast.

Sand Dollar (Echinarachnius parma). (½) sand dropseed. An erect, smooth grass (Sporobolus cryptandrus) found in sandy places in eastern North America.

sand dune. 1. = DUNE, n., 1. 2. The color drab.

sand'ed (săn'dĕd; -dĭd; 119), past tense & past part. of SAND. Hence: adj. 1. Obs. a Marked with small spots; variegated with spots; speckled; of a sandy color, as a hound. b Formed or composed of sand. 2. Covered, overlaid, or sprinkled with sand; sandy. 3. Rolled in granulated sugar, as gumdrops; — a term used in candymaking. 4. Debased by an admixture of sand.

sand eel. a The sand launce. b A slender soft-finned fish (Gonorhynchus grayi) of the Pacific having both head and body completely scaled and with a single barbel in the produced snout. Related fossil forms are known.

sand'er (săn'dĕr), n. One who or that which sands; as: a (1) A device on a locomotive or electric car, operated by a steam or air blast, for sanding the rails. (2) A sand bellows or sand blower. b A sandpapering machine, or its operator.

san'der (săn'dĕr), n. Var. of ZANDER.

San'der (săn'dĕr), n. Dim. of ALEXANDER.

sand'er-ling (săn'dĕr-lĭng), n. [Cf. SAND, n.; 1st -LING.] A small sandpiper (Crocethia alba) with largely gray-and-white plumage (the adults in summer plumage with a reddish breast), which breeds in the arctic regions and migrates south along the coasts of most parts of the world.

Sanderling.

san'ders-wood' (-wŏŏd'), n. [OF. sandre. See SANDALWOOD.] a Obs. Sandalwood. b Red sandalwood.

san'ders. Var. of SAUNDERS.

sanders blue. The color azurite blue (cendres blue).

sand finish. A finish of plastering made by rubbing to a smooth surface the sand or mortar coat. — sand'-fin'ished, adj.

sand'fish' (sănd'fĭsh'; 111), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL Note. a Either of two small silvery, scaleless fishes of the North Pacific, constituting the family Trichodontidae. They burrow in the sand. b A squirrelfish Diplectrum formosum, which frequents sandy shores.

sand flag. Sandstone which splits up into flagstones.

sand flask. A frame holding a sand mold.

sand flea. a Any flea found in sandy places. b The chigoe. c A beach flea.

sand'-float' fin'ish. Plastering. A rough sand finish made with a wooden float. — sand'-float'ed, adj.

sand flotation. = CHANCE PROCESS, 2.

sand flounder. Any of certain flounders frequenting sandy bottom; a sand fluke; esp., the windowpane.

sand'flow'er (sănd'flou'ĕr; 111), n. The pasqueflower Pulsatilla ludoviciana.

sand fluke. A flounder frequenting a sandy bottom, as: a A smear dab. b Brit. = SAND DAB b.

sand fly. Any of certain small dipterous biting flies, esp. of Phlebotomus, Culicoides, or related genera. Cf. MIDGE, 1.

sand'-fly' bush. The Australian tree Zieria smithii. See TURMERIC, 2 b.

sand-fly fever. Med. A fever resembling dengue and transmitted by the sand fly Phlebotomus papatasii.

Sand'ford and Mer'ton (săn'fĕrd, mûr't'n). Harry Sandford and Tommy Merton, two schoolboys, heroes of Thomas Day's once popular tale the History of Sandford and Merton (1783–89), in which he attempted to reconcile Rousseau's naturalism with a conventional 18th-century British morality. Tommy, of wealthy parentage, is an unmitigated nuisance, while Harry, a poor boy, is replete with every virtue and is continually held up as an example to Tommy.

sand fox. A small fox of the arid regions of central Asia. Cf. CORSAC.

sand gall. A sand pipe.

sand'glass' (sănd'glăs'; 83), n. An instrument for measuring time by the running of sand. See HOURGLASS.

sand grape. A shrubby wild grape (Vitis rupestris) of the southeastern United States, having sweet black fruit covered with a bloom.

sand grass. Any species of grass growing in sand; specif.: a A tufted grass (Triplasis purpurea) with stiff awl-shaped leaves, on the Atlantic coast of the United States. b The perennial Calamovilfa longifolia. c The salt grass Distichlis spicata.

sand'-grop'er (sănd'grŏp'ĕr), n. One of the pioneers in Western Australia in the days of the gold rush among the sandy wastes of that region; hence, a native or resident of Western Australia. Slang.

sand grouse. Any of numerous birds of the family Pteroclidae and suborder Pteroclates inhabiting arid parts of southern Europe, Asia, and Africa. They are most closely allied to the pigeons in structure, but the young are downy and able to run when hatched. They are strong fliers, having long pointed wings and tail. Well-known species are Pallas's sand grouse (Syrrhaptes paradoxus) of Asia, with feathered feet, which has appeared occasionally in large flocks in central Europe and even in England; the pin-tailed sand grouse (Pterocles alchata) of southern Europe, North Africa, southwest Africa, etc., having elongated middle tail feathers; and the painted sand grouse (Pterocles fasciatus) of India.

Pin-tailed Sand Grouse (Pterocles alchata).

sand'heat' (sănd'hĕt'), n. Heat treatment by packing in heated sand.

san'dhi (sŭn'dĭ), n. [Skr. saṁdhi a placing together; akin to Skr. saṁhitā. See SAMHITA.] Phonet. The various assimilatory changes undergone in Sanskrit by sounds brought into phonetic, and usually written, combination by the conjunction of words in sentences or of stems or other elements in composition or derivation; hence, analogous phenomena, whether written or not, in any other language (the pronunciation of English don't you, did you, compared with you don't, you did). Cf. LIAISON, 5; MUTATION, 5 b.

sand hill. A natural elevation or ridge of sand; a dune. — sand'-hill', adj.

sand'-hill' bloom. = SAND-HILL ROSEMARY.

sand-hill crane. a A large crane (Grus canadensis tabida) of eastern and central North America, formerly abundant but now rare. It is chiefly bluish gray overcast with ochraceous. b The little brown crane.

sand'-hill'er, n. One of the poor whites of the sandy tract between the coast and plateau regions in Georgia and South Carolina. U. S.

sand-hill rose. = SAND-HILL ROSEMARY.

sand-hill rosemary. A small, aromatic, heathlike, evergreen shrub (Ceratiola ericoides), family Empetraceae, with reddish, whorled, axillary flowers. Southern U. S.

sand hog. a Slang. A laborer who works under compressed air, as in the driving of tunnels by the pneumatic caisson method. b Mining. = GROUND HOG c.

sand hole. a A small hole in a casting. b A water hole in sand.

sand hopper. A beach flea.

sand hornet. A sand wasp. Rare.

Sand'hurst (sănd'hûrst), n. a A village in Berkshire, England. b The Royal Military College, located there.

‖san-dí'a (sän-dē'ä), n. [Sp.] A watermelon.

San Di-e'go palm (săn dē-ā'gō). The California fan palm.

san-dif'er-ous (săn-dĭf'ĕr-ŭs), adj. Sand-bearing.

sand'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SAND. Specif.: n. 1. a A sprinkling, covering, or mixing, with sand. b Ceramics. The testing of gilding with fine sand, and water after firing. c A smoothing or polishing as with sandpaper. 2. A fraudulent practice of feeding poultry with a paste of coarse sand, etc., to increase the apparent live weight.

sanding machine. A sandpapering machine.

san'di-ver (săn'dĭ-vĕr), n. [ME. saundiver, prob. fr. OF. saïn de voirre, fr. saïn grease, fat + de of + voirre, verre, glass (see verre (see SAIM); cf. also F. sel de verre sandiver, suint sandiver.] = GLASS GALL.

san'dix (săn'dĭks), n. [L. sandix, sandyx, vermilion, fr. Gr. sandix, sandyx.] 1. Any of various red pigments, esp. a kind of minium made by calcining lead carbonate. Obs. 2. The color fiery red.

sand jack. Engin. A device, consisting essentially of a sandbox and a series of plungers, for gradually lowering into position a heavy weight (as a bridge section), supported by the plungers, by running out the sand below.

sand jack. a Willow oak. b The bluejack (Quercus cinerea).

sand jet. = SANDBLAST, n., 1.

sand lance (lăns). Var. of SAND LAUNCE.

sand'lap'per (sănd'lăp'ĕr), n. A lowlander; — a nickname. Southern U. S.

sand lark. a Any of numerous Asiatic larks of the genus Alaudula, having short toes. b Brit. A small sandpiper, or plover, as a ring plover, the sanderling, and the common European sandpiper. c An Australian plover (Charadrius ruficapillus).

sand launce (lŏns). Any of several small, elongate, marine teleost fishes of Ammodytes or allied genera. They do not exceed six or eight inches in length and associate in large schools, remaining buried in sandy beaches at ebb tide.

Sand Launce (Ammodytes tobianus). (¼) sand leek. = ROCAMBOLE.

sand lily. See LEUCOCRINUM.

sand'-lime', adj. Made from mixed sand and lime.

sand line. Well Drilling. The rope attached to the bailer.

sand'ling' (sănd'lĭng'), n. a Obs. The sand launce. b A dab, or small flounder.

sand lizard. a A common and widely distributed European lizard (Lacerta agilis). b The race runner.

sand lob. A lugworm.

sand'-lot', adj. Literally, of or pert. to a lot or piece of sandy ground, esp. as the scene of unorganized sports of boys from city streets; as, sand-lot baseball; specif., pert. to, or characteristic of, the policy or practices of the socialistic or communistic followers of the Irish agitator Denis Kearney, who delivered many of his speeches in the open sand lots about San Francisco; as, the sand-lot party, and the sand-lot constitution of California, framed in 1879, under the influence of sand-lot agitation. — sand lotter.

sand'man' (sănd'măn'), n. The genie of folklore who makes children sleepy; — in allusion to the rubbing of their eyes as if there were sand in them.

sand martin. The bank swallow. Brit.

sand mason. Zool. A terrebellid worm (Lanice, syn. Terebella, conchilega) which constructs and lives in a sand tube.

sand mold. A mold made of sand and used in sand-casting. — sand molding.

sand mole. The Cape mole rat. See MOLE RAT a.

sand monitor. A large Egyptian lizard (Varanus griseus) which inhabits dry localities. Cf. MONITOR, 5.

sand mouse. The dunlin. Eng.

sand mullet. Either of two mullets: a In Victoria, a sea mullet (Mugil dobula). b In New South Wales, the tallegalane.

sand myrtle. A low, branching evergreen shrub (Leiophyllum buxifolium) with coriaceous leaves and small pink or white flowers, which grows from New Jersey southward along the coast.

sand'nat'ter (sănd'năt'ĕr), n. [G. See SAND; 2d ADDER.] = SAND SNAKE a. sand'neck'er (sănd'nĕk'ĕr), n. = SAND DAB b.

sand nettle. The spurge nettle.

sand oat. The wild oat Avena fatua.

sand painting. In Navaho and Pueblo Indian culture, a ceremonial design made of sands of various colors upon a flat surface, altar space, or the like. Among the Navahos such designs are widely used in ceremonies of healing. — sand painter.

sand'pa'per (sănd'pā'pĕr), n. 1. Paper covered on one side with sand glued fast, — used for smoothing and polishing. Cf. GLASS PAPER. 2. Music. A kind of trap, usually two blocks covered with sandpaper rubbed together rhythmically.

sand'pa'per, v. t. To rub with sandpaper; as, to sandpaper a board to smooth it; to sandpaper a painted surface to dull its gloss. — sand'pa'per-er (-ĕr), n.

sandpaper fig. The purple fig. Australia.

sandpaper starwort. The stiff aster.

sandpaper tree. Any of several trees having tough or scabrous leaves, as the chaparro Curatella americana, and Dillenia scabrella of Asia. See CHAPARRO c.

sand partridge. Any of several small partridges of the genus Ammoperdix, allied to the red-legged partridge. They inhabit southern Asia and northeastern Africa, frequenting sandy wastes, with which their colors harmonize.

sand pear. a = SNOW PEAR. b A Chinese pear (P. serotina) cultivated as an ornamental tree, as a stock for grafting, and used to hybridize with the common pear. Its hard fruits are sometimes preserved.

sand'pep' (sănd'pĕp'), n. Any very small sandpiper sand pig. The sand badger.

sand pigeon. A sand grouse.

sand pike. a The sauger. b A lizard fish.

sand pile. A pile of sand, as for children to play in; specif., Engin., a filling of sand rammed hard in a deep round hole made by driving and withdrawing a wooden pile; — sometimes used in preparing foundations in soft soil.

sand pillar. A sand column.

sand pine. a A pine (Pinus clausa) common along the coast of Florida and Alabama. It has smooth bark, leaves in pairs, and spiny-tipped cones. b The shore pine. See LODGEPOLE PINE.

sand pipe. A pipe containing sand, or serving as a channel for sand; as, the sand piper of a locomotive; specif., a tubular cavity, from a few inches to many feet in depth, formed by solution, esp. in calcareous rocks, and often filled with gravel, sand, etc.

sand'pip'er (sănd'pĭp'ĕr; 111), n.; pl. -PIPERS (-ĕrz), sometimes -PIPER. See PLURAL, Note. 1. Any of numerous small limicoline birds distinguished from the plovers chiefly by the bill, which is moderately long, and often soft and sensitive at the tip, but not of the extreme length characteristic of the typical snipe. The legs and neck are moderately long, and the plumage usually streaked with brown, gray, or blackish above and more or less extensively white below. They chiefly frequent sandy and muddy shores, breeding mostly in the arctic regions, but migrating extensively into temperate latitudes. Of the species frequenting small inland streams Spotted Sandpiper (Actitis macularia). sand'club'. = SANDBAG, 1 c. san'dek, san'dik. Vars. of SANDAK.

San'de-ma'ni-an (săn'dē-mā'nĭ-ăn), n. See GLASSITE. — San'de-ma'ni-an-ism (-ĭz'm), n.

San'de-man-ism, n. = SANDEMANIANISM. san'de-var. Var. of SANDIVER.

sand'gi-ac. † SANJAK.
Sand'ie. Var. of SANDY. sand'i-ness, n. See -NESS.

sand'ish, adj. Like sand. Obs. sand'jak. Var. of SANJAK. sand'less, adj. See -LESS.

sand'like', adj. See -LIKE.
sand'-lime' brick. See BRICK, n., 1.

and ponds the common sandpiper of Europe (Actitis hypoleuca, syn. Tringoides hypoleucus), and the allied spotted sandpiper (which see) of America, are the most familiar. Along the American coasts and larger inland waters the least and semipalmated sandpipers (the latter replaced by the allied western sandpiper in the West) are most abundant. Allied but larger American species are the white-rumped sandpiper (Pisobia fuscicollis) and Baird's sandpiper (P. bairdi). The knot, dunlin, sanderling, ruff, and pectoral sandpiper are well-known species.
2. The sand pride.

sand pit. A pit dug in sandy soil, esp. as a place for procuring sand.

sand plain. A plain of glacial outwash.

sand plover. A ring plover.

sand plum. A western American variety (Prunus angustifolia watsonii) of the chickasaw plum, with thick-skinned fruit.

sand prey. The sand pride.

sand pride. A small European fresh-water lamprey (Petromyzon planeri).

sand pump. A pump for removing wet sand, mud, silt, or the like; as: a A centrifugal pump used on a floating dredging machine. b A simple plunger pump with a non-return valve at the bottom used for cleaning out a borehole, well, etc. — sand'-pump', v. t.

sand rat. a A pocket gopher. b Either of two small African mole rats of the genus Heterocephalus. They have the skin nearly naked. c Slang. Mil. A man detailed for duty at the target pits during target practice.

sand reed. The beach grass (Ammophila arenaria); also, the sand sedge.

sand reef. A low ridge of sand bordering the shore and built up by waves and currents. In many places sand reefs enclose lagoons.

sand reel. In a well-boring rig, a windlass to lower and raise the bailer.

sand rocket. A European yellow-flowered annual weed (Diplotaxis muralis), adventive in North America.

sand roll. A roll cast in a sand mold.

sand roller. The trout perch (Percopsis omniscomaycus).

sand runner. 1. A sandpiper or small plover.
2. Any of certain fresh-water mussels which dig trails at the surface of the sand, esp. the yellowback.

sand saucer. = SAND COLLAR.

sand screw. An amphipod crustacean (Lepidactylis arenarius), which burrows in the sandy seabeaches of Europe and America.

sand sedge. A European maritime sedge (Carex arenaria), the rootstock of which has the properties of sarsaparilla. It is naturalized along the Atlantic coast of the U. S.

sand shark. Any of several voracious sharks of the genus Odontaspis which live on sandy coasts; esp., O. littoralis (syn. Carcharias taurus) of the Atlantic coast of North America.

sand shell. = SAND RUNNER, 2.

sand shoe. A shoe designed for wear in sandy ground; as: a = CANVAS SHOE. b Mil. A shoe of wire mesh, made after the fashion of a snowshoe, and used by troops in marching over the deserts in northern Africa.

sand skink. Any of several Old World lizards of the family Scincidae, as Chalcides ocellatus.

sand skipper. A beach flea.

sand smelt. = SILVERSIDES a. See ATHERINIDAE.

sand snake. a Any of several harmless burrowing snakes of the genus Eryx, native to southern Europe, Africa, and Asia, esp. E. jaculus of India and E. johnii, used by snake charmers. b Any innocuous African snake of the genus Psammophis, esp. P. sibilans.

sand snipe. A sandpiper.

sand'spit' (sănd'spĭt'), n. A sandy point of low land projecting into the water.

sand'spur' (-spûr'), n. The common bur grass (Cenchrus tribuloides).

sand spurry. Any weed of the genus Spergularia, esp. S. rubra, a Eurasian prostrate herb with tiny pink flowers; — commonly naturalized in eastern North America.

sand squeteague. A weakfish (Cynoscion arenarius) of the Gulf of Mexico.

sand star. 1. An ophiuran; a brittle star.
2. = SAND SEDGE.

sand'stay' (sănd'stā'), n. A sand binder; specif., an Australian shrub or small tree (Leptospermum laevigatum), very effective as a sand binder.

sand'stone' (sănd'stōn'; 111), n. 1. Petrog. A sedimentary rock consisting of sand, usually quartz, more or less firmly united by some cement, as silica, iron oxide, or calcium carbonate. Sandstones vary in color, being commonly red, yellow, brown, gray, or white. See OLD RED SANDSTONE; NEW RED SANDSTONE; BEREA GRIT; 1st GRIT, 2; ITACOLUMITE; MEDINA; ORISKANIAN; POCONO SANDSTONE.
2. A brown, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also cream beige, tawny birch. Cf. COLOR.

sand'storm' (-stôrm'), n. A storm of wind that drives clouds of sand along a desert.

sand sucker. 1. a = SAND DAB b. b A whiting (Menticirrhus undulatus) of the southern California coast.
2. = SAND PUMP a.

sand swallow. Bank swallow.

sand table. 1. A table with boxlike top, holding sand for children to mold.
2. Ore Dressing. An inclined table, used for concentrating ores. Typically, it has the separating surface in motion, and a continuous feed and discharge. The motion is used to separate the feed into layers, the heavy material then being shifted for further treatment. See WILFLEY TABLE.

sand trap. a A device for separating sand from water. b Golf. A trap containing sand and constituting a hazard.

sand trout. The sand squeteague.

sand tube. A tube made of sand; specif., a tubular fulgurite formed in sand.

sand'dust' (sănd'dŭst'), n. A color, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance; — called also vanity. Cf. COLOR.

sand verbena. Any Western American herb of the genus Abronia, having flowers like the verbena, esp. A. latifolia and A. umbellata of the Pacific coast. See ABRONIA.

sand vetch. The hairy vetch.

sand vine. A scrambling vine (Gonolobus laevis) of the southeastern United States, with a milky juice, opposite leaves deeply cordate at the base, small whitish milkweed-like flowers in axillary cymes, and large follicles.

sand violet. Any of several species of violet found commonly in sandy soil; specif.: a In Europe, Viola arenaria and V. hirta. b In the United States, the bird's-foot violet.

sand viper. Locally, any of various snakes which burrow into the sand; as: a The hognose snake. b The horned viper (Cerastes cornutus). See CERASTES.

sand wasp. Any of various solitary wasps which dig burrows in sand. They belong to various families, as the Pompilidae and Sphecidae. See DIGGER WASP.

sand'weld' (sănd'wĕld'), v. t. To weld with a flux of fused sand (silica) which is hammered or squeezed out.

sand whiting. a A common sciaenoid food fish (Menticirrhus americanus) of the southern Atlantic and Gulf coasts of America. It is grayish-silvery in color with oblique dusky bars and a saddle-shaped dark patch on the nape. b See 1st WHITING c & d.

sand'wich (sănd'wĭch; Brit. usually săn'wĭj or -wĭch), n. [After John Montagu, 4th Earl of Sandwich (1718–92).]
1. Two slices of bread usually buttered and having a thin layer, as of meat, cheese, or savory mixture, spread between them.
2. Something resembling a sandwich in arrangement; a trio of objects, of which two like or similar ones enclose a different one; specif., a sandwich man (which see).

sand'wich, v. t.; -WICHED (-wĭcht); -WICH·ING. To make into a sandwich; also, to insert (a person or thing) between two other persons or things of different character; as, to find a poem sandwiched in between parodies.

sandwich beam. A flitch beam. — sandwich girder.

sandwich boy. A boy with two advertising boards suspended one before and one behind him.

Sandwich glass. Pressed glass made at Sandwich, Mass., after 1827, and widely copied in recent years.

sandwich man. A man with two advertising boards (sandwich board) suspended one before and one behind him.

Sandwich tern. A rather large European tern (Thalasseus sandvicensis) represented in North and Central America by an allied variety, T. s. acuflavidus, called Cabot's tern.

sand widgeon. Gadwall. Eng.

sand'wood' (sănd'wŏŏd'), n. [sand + wood, a translation of the specific name.] A purple-flowered tree or shrub (Bremontiera ammoxylon), family Fabaceae, a native of the Mascarene Islands, sometimes cultivated.

sand'worm' (-wûrm'), n. a Any of numerous annelids, as species of Nereis, which burrow in seashore sand. They are used as bait. b An annelid of the genus Sabellaria which constructs a tube of sand. c Rare. The chigoe.

sand'wort' (-wûrt'), n. Any plant of the genus Arenaria (which see), most species of which grow in dry, sandy soil; also, any plant of the related genus Moehringia, esp. M. lateriflora. See MOEHRINGIA.

sand'y (săn'dĭ), adj.; SAND'I·ER (-dĭ·ĕr); SAND'I·EST. [AS. sandig.] 1. Consisting of, abounding in, or containing, sand; full of sand; covered or sprinkled with sand; as, a sandy desert, road, or soil.
2. Resembling sand: a Unstable. b Rare. Uninteresting. c Of the color sand; as, sandy hair. d Gritty, as ice cream in which lactose crystals have formed.
3. Gritty; plucky. Slang.
4. That grains like sand; — of varnish, paint, chemicals, etc.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:

sandy-bearded	sandy-flaxen	sandy-red sandy-bottomed	sandy-haired	sandy-rufous sandy-colored	sandy-pated sand'y (săn'dĭ), n.; pl. SANDIES (-dĭz). [From SAND, n.] A ring plover. Local, Eng. & Scot.

Sand'y (săn'dĭ), n.; pl. SANDIES (-dĭz). a Chiefly Scot. For ALEXANDER. b A Scotsman; — used jocosely.

sandy beige. The color slate gray.

sandy blight. Med. See BLIGHT, n., 6. Australia.

sand'y-ish (săn'dĭ·ĭsh), adj. Somewhat sandy.

sandy laverock. a Scot. A ring plover. b The common European sandpiper.

sandy mockingbird. The brown thrasher. Local, U. S.

sandy pear. The snow pear.

sandy poker. The common pochard. Local, Eng.

sane (sān), adj.; SAN'ER (sān'ĕr); SAN'EST (sān'ĕst; -Ĭst; 119). [L. sanus sane, healthy; perh. akin to L. satis enough. See SAD; cf. INSANE, SANATORIUM, SANITARIUM.] 1. Mentally sound; possessing a rational mind; having the mental faculties in such condition as to be able to anticipate and judge of the effect of one's actions.
2. Of the mind or memory, sound; not deranged; acting rationally.
3. Proceeding from a sound mind; showing normal mental health; sensible; as, a sane proposal; a sane criticism; a sane action under the circumstances.
4. Of the body, bodily parts, or functions, normal and healthy; free from hurt or disease.
Syn. — Rational, lucid, sensible. See WISE. Cf. HEALTHY.
Ant. — Demented, deranged, irrational. See INSANE, FOOLISH.
— sane'ly, adv. — sane'ness, n.

sane, v. t. [L. sanare.] To cure. Obs.

sane. Var. of SAIN, v.

sane'-mind'ed (66), adj. Having good judgment; sensible.

Sa'netch (sä'nĕch), n. An Indian of a Salishan tribe of Vancouver Island.

sang (săng; Hind. sŭng), n. [Hind. saṅg association.] An association or society having as its object the unification of the different groups in Hinduism and the prevention of the conversion of Hindus to Christianity or Islamism.

sang (sŭng), n. [An old transcription of the Chin.] Music. The sheng.

sang (săng), n. [Corrupt. of GINSENG.] The ginseng Panax quinquefolium.

sang (sång), n. [F.] Blood; — used vaguely as an oath or expletive; as, my sang! Scot. & Dial.

sang (săng), n. sing. & pl. [Per., lit., stone.] See WEIGHT, Table.

sang (sång). Var. of SONG. Obs. exc. Dial.

sang (sång), past tense of SING.

san'ga (săng'gȧ), san'gu (-gŭ), n. [Amharic senga (sc. barē bull, ox) castrated.] An Abyssinian breed of long-horned humped domestic cattle allied to the zebu.

sang'a (sŭng'ȧ), sang'ah. Vars. of SANGAR.

san'-ga'ku (sän'ngȧ'kōō), n. [Jap.] Originally a humorous mimic performance, and from the 13th century to the 15th a solemn musical dancing, done in Shinto temples. See SARU-GAKU. Japan.

sang'ar (sŭng'ȧr), n. [Hind. saṅgar.] In India: a A small breastwork or rifle pit to hold a few men, often constructed of boulders round a natural hollow. b A primitive wooden bridge, with stone piers.

san'ga·ree' (săng'gȧ·rē'), n. [Sp. sangría, lit., bleeding, fr. sangre blood, fr. L. sanguis.] A drink, common in the tropics, of wine, water, and sometimes brandy, sweetened and spiced. — v. t. To make into a sangaree.

san'ga-san'ga (săng'gȧ-săng'gȧ), n. A tropical African tree (Ricinodendron africanum), family Euphorbiaceae, with small greenish flowers in dense cymes. Its nuts yield an oil.

‖sang' de boeuf' (sän' dĕ bûf'). [F.] Literally, oxblood; hence, an oxblood red found in ancient Chinese porcelain.

sang'-drag'on (săng'drăg'ŭn; F. sän'drȧ'gôn'), n. [F., lit., dragon's blood.] a Mauritius. Amboina wood. b Obs. = DRAGON'S BLOOD, 1.

sang'er (săng'ĕr), n. [From SANG ginseng.] One who digs ginseng. Southern U. S.

säng'er·bund' (zĕng'ĕr·bŏŏnt'), n. [G.] A German choral society. Also, U. S., a choral society, having as members chiefly persons of German descent.

säng'er·fest' (-fĕst'), n. [G.] A music festival of a sängerbund.

‖sang'-froid', sang'froid' (sän'frwä'), n. [F., cold blood.] Freedom from agitation or excitement; coolness in trying circumstances; composure.

Sang·gil' (säng·gēl'), n. Also San·gui'le (säng·gē'lā). One of a minor group of Moslem people in southern Mindanao. Phil. I.

san'gha (sŭng'gȧ), n. [Skr. saṁgha.] A corporation or association, esp. an order or community of Buddhist monks (bhikshus); also, a Jaina monastic community. India.

Sang'ir (säng'ĭr), Sang'i·rese' (-ĭ·rēz'; -rēs'), n. The Indonesian language of the Sangi Islands.

san'glant (săng'glănt), adj. [F.] a Obs. Bloody. b Her. Bleeding.

san·gley' (säng·glā'), n. [Chin. (Pek.) shang¹lü³ traveling merchant.] A Chinese trader in the Philippines.

san·gley', adj. [often cap.] Chinese.

sang'li·er (säng'lĭ·ĕr), n. [F., fr. L. singularis solitary.] A wild boar. Obs. exc. Her.

San'graal' (säng'grāl'), San'gre·al (säng'grē·ăl), n. [See SAINT; GRAIL.] The Holy Grail. See 1st GRAIL.

San·gra'do, Doctor (säng·grä'dō; 112). [Sp. sangrar to let blood.] A physician in Le Sage's Gil Blas, whose panacea was copious bloodletting and drinking of hot water.

san'gree·root' (säng'grē·rōōt'; 200), n. The Virginia snakeroot.

san'grel (säng'grĕl), n. [Var. of SNAGREL.] The Virginia snakeroot. U. S.

sang'sue (säng'sū), n. [F.] A leech (animal).

sangui-. A combining form, Latin sangui-, from sanguis, meaning blood, as in:
sanguicolous, sanguifacient, sanguiferous, sanguifluous, sanguivorous.

san'gui·fi'er (säng'gwĭ·fī'ĕr), n. A producer of blood.

san'gui·mo'tor (säng'gwĭ·mō'tĕr), adj. [sangui- + motor.] Anat. Of or pertaining to the circulation of blood. — san'gui·mo'tor·y (-mō'tĕr·ĭ), adj.

san'gui·na'ceous (säng'gwĭ·nā'shŭs), adj. Blood-red; sanguine.

San'gui·na'ri·a (säng'gwĭ·nā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. (herba) sanguinaria an herb that stanches blood.] 1. Bot. A genus of scapose perennial herbs of the poppy family (Papaveraceae), having as the only known species S. canadensis, the bloodroot. See BLOODROOT.
2. [not cap.] Pharm. The dried rhizome and roots of this plant used as an expectorant and emetic.

san'gui·nar'y (säng'gwĭ·nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. sanguinarius, fr. sanguis blood.] 1. Attended with, prompting, or concerning, much bloodshed; bloody; as, sanguinary war, counsel, or chronicles; specif., harsh in inflicting the death penalty; as, laws no less sanguinary.
2. Bloodthirsty; eager to shed blood; murderous.
3. Consisting of or indicating blood; as, a sanguinary stream.
Syn.—Murderous, gory, bloodthirsty, cruel. See BLOODY.
— san'gui·nar'i·ly (-I·lĭ), adv. — san'gui·nar'i·ness, n.

san'gui·nar'y, n. [See SANGUINARIA, SANGUINARY, adj.] a The bloodroot. b The yarrow.

sanguinary ant. A slave-making ant (Formica sanguinea) widely distributed over the Northern Hemisphere. See SLAVE ANT.

san'guine (säng'gwĭn), adj. [OF. sanguin, fr. L. sanguineus, fr. sanguis blood. Cf. SANGUINEOUS.] 1. Red, like blood; of the color blood red.
2. Consisting of or pertaining to blood.
3. In early physiology, having blood as the dominant humor (see HUMOR, 2); now, characterized by abundant and active circulation of blood; as, a sanguine bodily temperament, one typically marked by a ruddy complexion, and by cheerful and hopeful, though not always tenacious, spirits.
4. Hence, warm; ardent; disposed to be hopeful; anticipating the best; confident; as, sanguine of success.
5. Sanguinary; bloodthirsty.
6. Ruddy; — of the complexion.
7. Astrol. Favorable to persons of sanguine (sense 3) constitution; — said of signs and planets.
Syn. — Optimistic. See HOPEFUL.
Ant. — Pessimistic. See GLOOMY.
— san'guine·ly, adv. — san'guine·ness, n.

san'guine (säng'gwĭn), n. 1. Blood red; red (represented in heraldic engraving by diagonally crossing lines).
2. Anything blood-red; as: a Obs. Blood-red cloth. b Bloodstone, or red hematite. c A kind of red crayon, usually of red hematite. d A drawing in red crayon, red chalk, or the like.
3. The sanguine humor or temperament. Obs.

san'guine, v. t. To ensanguine. Obs.

san'guine·less, adj. Destitute of blood; pale. Rare.

san·guin'e·o- (säng·gwĭn'ē·ō-). Med. A combining form from Latin sanguineus, denoting sanguineous and, as in:
sanguineobilious, sanguineophlegmatic, sanguineovascular.

san·guin'e·ous (säng·gwĭn'ē·ŭs), adj. [L. sanguineus. See SANGUINE.] 1. Blood-red; crimson.
2. Of or pert. to blood; constituting or containing blood; formerly, of animals, having blood or a circulatory system.
3. Involving bloodshed; bloodthirsty; sanguinary. Rare.
Sanguineous histories of queens. Thackeray.
4. Abounding with blood; sanguine; as, a sanguineous temperament; also, full-blooded or plethoric; hence, having a sanguine temperament; hopeful.
— san·guin'e·ous·ness, n.

sand'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

san'drac. Var. of SANDARAC.

san'drag'on. Var. of SANGDRAGON.

sandrake. † SANDARAC.

sand'rock', n. = SANDSTONE, 1.

sand spout. = SAND COLUMN.

sand'weed', n. Dial. Eng. a = SANDWORT. b = SPURRY a.

sand'wicht. Sandwiched. Ref. Sp. Table.

san'dyx. Var. of SANDIX.

san'foin. Var. of SAINFOIN.

San'ga·mon (săng'gȧ·mŭn), adj. & n [From Sangamon Co., Illinois.] See GLACIAL EPOCH.

san'gei (säng'gā), n. See GUTTA, Table. [HARA NUT.

sang·ha'ra nut. Var. of SING-

San'gu (săng'gŭ). Var. of SANGA.

san'gui·cel, n. [Pg. sangüicel.] A light war vessel of the Malabar coast. India. Obs.

san'gui·fi·ca'tion (săn'gwĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [Cf. F. sanguification. See SANGUIFY.] = HEMATOPOIESIS.

san'gui·fy (säng'gwĭ·fī), v. t. & i. [sangui- + -fy.] To produce blood (from). Obs.

san·guig'e·nous (säng·gwĭj'ē·nŭs), adj. [sangui- + -genous.] Producing blood. Obs.

San'guile. Var. of SANGGIL.

san'guin. Sanguine. Ref. Sp.

san'guine-com·plex'ioned, adj. See COMPLEXIONED.

sanguine stars. Astron. Red stars.

san·guin'i·ty (săng·gwĭn'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Consanguinity. Obs. 2. Sanguineness. Rare.

san'gui·no- (săng'gwĭ·nō-). A combining form for sanguine, denoting: a Blood, as in san'gui·no·poi·et'ic. See -POIETIC. b Sanguine and, as in san'gui·no·chol'er·ic.

san·guin'o·lent (săng·gwĭn'ō·lĕnt), adj. [F., fr. L. sanguinolentus, fr. sanguis blood.] Of, containing, or tinged with, blood; as, sanguinolent sputa; also, bloodthirsty. — san·guin'o·len·cy (-lĕn·sĭ), n.

san'gui·nous (săng'gwĭ·nŭs), adj. [OF. sanguineux, fr. LL. sanguinosus.] 1. Red or suffused with blood; bloodthirsty. Obs.
2. Of or containing blood.

San'gui·sor'ba (săng'gwĭ·sôr'bȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. sanguis blood + sorbere to suck in; — from its styptic quality.] Bot. A small genus of herbs (family Rosaceae) with odd-pinnate stipulate leaves, and small apetalous flowers in dense terminal spikes or clusters. They are natives of temperate regions. S. canadensis is the burnet of North America.

san'gui·suge (săng'gwĭ·sūj), n. [L. sanguisuga, fr. sanguis blood + sugere to suck.] A bloodsucker, or leech. Obs. — san'gui·su'gent (-sū'jĕnt), adj.

san'gui·su'gous (-sū'gŭs), adj. Bloodsucking; also, Obs., bloodthirsty.

San'he·drin (săn'hē·drĭn; săn'ē-), n. [LHeb. sanhedrīn, fr. Gr. synedrion, fr. syn with + hedra seat. See SIT.] Jewish Antiq. Assembly; council; — applied to two kinds of such bodies: a Esp., more fully Great Sanhedrin, the supreme council and tribunal of the Jews, developed out of the municipal council of Jerusalem and consisting of 71 members. It had jurisdiction over religious matters and more important civil and criminal cases. It met daily, except on Sabbaths and festivals. According to the rabbinical tradition, the council was presided over by a president, the Nasi (literally, prince), and a vice-president, the Abbeldin or Abbethdin (literally, father of the court of justice). b More fully Small, or Lesser, Sanhedrin, one of the provincial councils of 23 members, which had jurisdiction over minor civil and criminal cases.
☞ Dryden in Absalom and Achitophel calls Parliament Sanhedrin and the Lord Chancellor Abbethdin.

San'he·drist (săn'hē·drĭst), n. A member of the Sanhedrin.

San'hi·ta (sŭn'hē·tȧ), n. [Skr. saṁhitā, prop., combination.] That portion of a Veda which comprises the hymns.

san'i- (săn'ĭ-). A combining form, Late Latin sani-, from sanus, healthy, sound, meaning health, as in san'i·prac'tic.

san'i·cle (săn'ĭ·k'l), n. [OF., fr. ML. sanicula, fr. L. sanus healthy. See SANE.] a Any plant of the genus Sanicula, formerly reputed to have healing powers. Some species are called black snakeroot. b Any of several other plants; — chiefly with a qualifying word. See AMERICAN SANICLE, YORKSHIRE SANICLE, etc.

Sa·nic'u·la (sȧ·nĭk'ū·lȧ), n. [NL. & ML. See SANICLE.] Bot. A genus of chiefly American herbs of the carrot family (Ammiaceae), the sanicles, having palmately compound leaves, and unisexual flowers in panicled umbels, the fruit covered with hooked bristles. The species are called also black snakeroot. S. marilandica, of the eastern United States, is of local repute as a tonic.

san'i·dine (săn'ĭ·dĭn; -dēn), n. [Gr. sanis, -idos, a board; — in allusion to the tabular crystals.] Mineral. A variety of orthoclase in crystals, often transparent, in certain eruptive rocks, as trachyte; glassy feldspar. — san'i·din'ic (-dĭn'ĭk), adj.

san'i·din·ite (-dĭn·īt), n. [sanidine + -ite.] Petrog. a A holocrystalline differentiation rock composed almost wholly of orthoclase. b A coarse-grained aggregate of sanidine found only in volcanic ejectamenta associated with trachytes and phonolites. It usually contains small amounts of pyroxene, hornblende, sodalite, leucite, etc.

sa'ni·es (sā'nĭ·ēz), n. [L.] 1. Med. A thin, blood-tinged, seropurulent fluid commonly discharged from ulcers or infected wounds.
2. Any watery animal humor or similar thin exudation.

san'i·fi·ca'tion (săn'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. The act or process of rendering anything sanitary.

san'i·fy (săn'ĭ·fī), v. t. [sani- + -fy.] To make healthful; to provide with sanitary conditions and equipment. — v. i. To gain mental balance or sanity. Rare.

San Il'de·fon'so Indian (săn ēl'dā·fōn'sō). See TEWA.

sa'ni·ous (sā'nĭ·ŭs), adj. [L. saniosus, fr. sanies.] 1. Med. Pertaining to sanies, or partaking of its nature and appearance; thin and seropurulent, with a slightly bloody tinge; as, the sanious matter of an ulcer.
2. Med. Discharging sanies; as, a sanious ulcer.

san'i·tar'i·an (săn'ĭ·târ'ĭ·ăn; 79), adj. Of or pertaining to health or the laws of health; sanitary.

san'i·tar'i·an, n. An advocate of sanitary measures; one especially interested or versed in sanitary measures, or, specif., making a profession of the application of such measures for the public benefit.

san'i·tar'ist (săn'ĭ·tĕr'ĭst; -tĕr·ĭst), n. A sanitarian.

san'i·tar'i·um (săn'ĭ·târ'ĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -IUMS (-ŭmz), -IA (-ȧ). [NL. See SANITARY.] A health station or retreat; an institution for the recuperation and treatment of persons suffering from physical or mental disorders; a sanatorium.

san'i·tar'y (săn'ĭ·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [F. sanitaire, fr. L. sanitas health. See SANITY.] Of or pert. to health; for or relating to the preservation or restoration of health; occupied with measures or equipment for improving conditions that influence health; free from, or effective in preventing or checking, agencies injurious to health, esp. filth and infection; hygienic; as, sanitary regulations, engineering, squad, goods.
Syn. — See SANATORY. Ant. — Unhealthful, noxious, unsanitary.

san'i·tar'y, n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). A water closet, urinal, or the like, fitted with sanitary plumbing. sanitary chemistry. See CHEMISTRY. sanitary cordon. See CORDON, 2. sanitary engineering. That branch of civil engineering dealing with the water supply, sewage and waste disposal for cities, and other sanitary problems. See ENGINEERING, n., 1. — sanitary engineer.

san'i·tate (săn'ĭ·tāt), v. t. To make sanitary; to provide with sanitary appliances.

san'i·ta'tion (săn'ĭ·tā'shŭn), n. A rendering sanitary; science of sanitary conditions; use of sanitary measures.

san'i·tize (săn'ĭ·tīz), v. t. To make sanitary.

san'i·ty (săn'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. sanité, fr. L. sanitas, fr. sanus sound, healthy. See SANE.] State or quality of being sane.
a Now Rare. Healthy state of body. b Soundness or health of mind.
Syn. — Saneness, lucidity, wholesomeness.
Ant. — Derangement. See INSANITY.

San Ja·cin'to Day (săn ȧ·sĭn'tō). April 21, a legal holiday in Texas, the anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto (1836).

san'jak' (sȧn'jăk'), n. [Turk. sanjāq, sānjāq, lit., flag.] 1. Formerly, in Turkey, a district or subdivision of a vilayet or of an eyalet. Cf. MUTESSARIFAT.
2. A sanjakbeg; — an erroneous use. Obs.

san'jak'beg' (-bĕg'; Turk. -bȧg'), san'jak'bey' (-bā'), n. [See BEG.] The governor of a sanjak.

San Jo·se' scale (săn hō·sā'). A scale insect (Aspidiotus perniciosus) very destructive to apple, pear, and other fruit trees; — first introduced into the United States at San Jose, California.

San Jose Scale. a Adult Females; b Males; d Young in Various Stages. All much enlarged.

San Juan Hill (săn hwän'; Sp. săn). See Santiago, under BATTLE, Table.

San Juan Indian. See TEWA.

san'kha (sŭng'kȧ), n. [Skr. śaṅkha.] A chank shell (Turbinella pyrum); also, a shell bracelet or necklace made in India from the chank shell.

San'khya (săng'kyȧ), n. [Skr. sāṁkhya.] One of the six orthodox systems of Hindu philosophy. It teaches that beatitude may be attained by knowledge of the twenty-five principles of existence, beginning with prakriti, nature or matter, and ending with purusha, soul, or ego, the union of the two being creation. The Sankhya is thus a dualistic philosophy. Cf. VEDANTA.

San' Kuo' (sän'gwō'). See THREE KINGDOMS.

san'na·ite (sän'ȧ·īt), n. [From Sanna, southern Norway.] Petrog. A leucocratic dike rock with phenocrysts of titan-augite, barkevikite, and biotite in a trachytic groundmass of alkali-feldspar, aegirite, and altered nephelite.

san'nup (săn'ŭp), n. [Of Abnaki origin; cf. Passamaquoddy senanbe a man, Penobscot sananba.] 1. A married male Indian; — a correlative of squaw.
2. An ordinary warrior as distinguished from a chief. U. S.

sann·ya'si (sŭn·yä'sē), n. Also sann·ya'sin (-sĭn), sunn·ya'see, sunn·ya'si (sŭn·yä'sē). [Hind. sannyāsī, fr. Skr. saṁnyāsin abandoning.] Hinduism. A wandering, homeless, religious mendicant. See ASHRAMA.

san'o- (săn'ō-). Med. A combining form from sanies, denoting sanious and, as in san'o·pu'ru·lent, san'o·se'rous. See PURULENT, SEROUS.

San Pe'dro fish (săn pē'drō; pā'drō). [From San Pedro Point, Calif.] The opah.

sans (sănz; F. săN), prep. [F., fr. L. absentia, abl., in the absence of, with loss of initial syllable after L. sine without.] Without; deprived or destitute of. Archaic.
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything. Shak.

sans ap'pel' (săn·zȧ'pĕl'). [F., without appeal.] One whose judgments may not be appealed. Kingsley.

sans'-cu·lotte' (sănz'kū·lŏt'; F. săN'kü'lŏt'), n. [F., without breeches.] 1. Fr. Hist. Literally, a fellow without breeches; — a name of reproach given by the aristocrats at the time of the Revolution to one belonging to the extreme republican party, the members of which had rejected short breeches, as an article of dress peculiar to the upper classes, and had adopted pantaloons.
2. Hence, an extreme or radical republican; a violent revolutionist; a Jacobin.

‖sans'-cu'lotte'rie' (săN'kü'lŏt'rē'; sănz'kū·lŏt'rĭ), n. [F.] 1. Sans-culottism.
2. The sans-culottes.

sans'-cu·lot'tic (sănz'kū·lŏt'ĭk), adj. Pertaining to, or involving, sans-culottism; radical; revolutionary; Jacobinic; also, uncouth for lack of breeches.

sans'-cu·lot'tish (sănz'kū·lŏt'ĭsh), adj. Sans-culottic.

sans'-cu·lot'tism (-lĭz'm), n. [F. sans-culottisme.] Extreme republican principles; the principles or practice of the sans-culottes. — sans'-cu·lot'tist, n.

sans'-cu·lot'tize (-īz), v. t. To make sans-culottic or revolutionary.

‖sans doute' (săN dōōt'). [F.] Without doubt; certainly.

San Se·bas'tian (săn sē·băs'chăn). A Central American epiphytic orchid (Cattleya skinneri) widely cultivated for its purple-rose flowers.

‖sans é'gal' (săN·zā'gȧl'). [F.] See BAGATELLE, 2.

San'se·vie'ri·a (săn'sē·vē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] Bot. a A genus of 30 species of tropical Asiatic and African herbs of the lily family (Liliaceae), most of which yield, and are known as, bowstring hemp, and some of which are grown for their decorative sword-shaped leaves. They have white or yellowish flowers on jointed pedicels, a 3-celled ovary and a 1–3-seeded berry. Many horticultural forms have variegated leaves, and are good house plants. See BOWSTRING HEMP. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

‖sans gêne' (săn zhăn'). [F.] Without constraint or embarrassment; easy.

‖sans'-gêne' (săn'zhăn'), n. [F.] Disregard of ordinary civil restraint; familiarity.

Sans-Gêne, Madame. Catherine, who was the company washerwoman when Marshal Lefebvre, then a sergeant, married her; — a nickname alluding to her simple, rough manners and free language at the court of Napoleon I.

san'shach (sȧn'shȧx), adj. [Gael. sanntach greedy.] Saucy; peevish. Scot.

san'si (sŭn'sē), n. A thieving caste of the Punjab, India.

San'skrit (săn'skrĭt), n. [Skr. saṁskṛta, lit., prepared, cultivated, polished, elaborate, fr. sam together (akin to Skr. sama equal) + kṛ to do, make; akin to Lith. kurti to build, Skr. kṛp form. See SAME; MIDRIFF. Cf. PRAKRIT, SAMHITA.] a The ancient Aryan (Indo-Iranian) language of the Hindus of India, including the language of the Vedas, often termed Vedic Sanskrit (see VEDA), as well as the later classical Sanskrit, which is essentially a literary language, given rigid form by early grammarians, above all by Panini (probably 4th century B.C.), preserved in a great and varied literature of religion, philosophy, lyric, epic, drama, fable (cf. MAHABHARATA, RAMAYANA, SAKUNTALA, BIDPAI), and were today a sacred and learned tongue in India. b Specif., the classical language as distinguished both from Vedic and from the vernacular Prakrit (which see). Sanskrit possesses especial interest to philology because it preserves a greater number of the supposed characteristics of the parent Indo-European language than any other member of the family. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table; ALPHABET, Table, page 75. — San·skrit'ic (săn·skrĭt'ĭk), adj.

San'skrit, adj. Of or pertaining to, or written in, Sanskrit.

San'skrit·ist, n. A scholar learned in Sanskrit; also, one who uses Sanskrit myths as support of his views.

‖sans pa'reil' (săN pȧ'rĕ'y'). [F.] Without equal.

sans peer. Without an equal; a peerless person. Obs.

‖sans peine' (săN pĕn'). [F.] Without trouble [or difficulty].

‖sans peur' et sans re·proche' (pûr' ā săN rĕ·prōsh'). [F.] Without fear and without reproach; — said esp. of the Chevalier de Bayard.

‖sans pren'dre (prăN'dr'). [F.] Without taking; in card playing, without drawing cards.

‖sans re·cours' (rē·kōōr'). [F.] Com. Without recourse.

sans'-ser'if (sănz'sĕr'ĭf), n. [F. sans without + E. serif.] Printing type with no serifs; gothic; grotesque. Eng.

‖sans sou'ci' (săN sōō'sē'). [F.] 1. Without worry; freedom from care; an informal assembly.
2. [cap.] A famous royal palace at Potsdam, Prussia, built by Frederick the Great.

San Ste'fa·no (săn stȧ'fȧ·nō). See TREATY, Table.

‖sans voir' (săn vwär'). [F.] Chess. Literally, without seeing; a game of blindfold chess.

sant (sănt; sȧnt), v. i. To vanish. Scot. & N. of Eng.

San'ta An'a In'di·an (săn'tȧ ăn'ȧ; săn'tä ä'nä). One of a Keresan tribe, occupying a pueblo on Rio Jemez, New Mexico.

San'ta Ca'sa (săn'tä kä'sä). [Sp., holy house.] = HOLY HOUSE.

San'ta Clar'a Indian (săn'tȧ klâr'ȧ). See TEWA.

San'ta Claus or Klaus (săn'tȧ klōz; săn'tĭ). [U. S. colonial corrupt. of D. Sant Nikolaas.] See SAINT NICHOLAS.

San'ta Fe' lo'co·mo'tive (săn'tȧ fā'). See LOCOMOTIVE.

San'ta Fé' nut'meg' (săn'tä fā'). A nutmeg (Myristica otoba); also, its seed.

San'ta Her'man·dad' (săn'tä ĕr'män·dätH'; 112). [Sp.] See HERMANDAD.

San·tal' (sŭn·tȧl'), n. A member of one of the principal Munda-speaking peoples of India. They are industrious agriculturists and are partially Hinduized, although most retain their primitive animism. They are chiefly in the hill country of western Bengal, esp. the Santal Parganas (see Gaz.), although many emigrate as laborers.

san'tal (săn'tȧl; -t'l), n. [F. See SANDALWOOD.] a Red sandalwood. b Chem. A colorless, crystalline compound, $C_{15}H_{12}O_5$, extracted from this wood and barwood.

san'tal, adj. = SANTALACEOUS.

San'ta·la'ce·ae (săn'tȧ·lā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SANTALUM.] Bot. A family of herbs, shrubs, or rarely trees (order Santalales), comprising about 26 genera and 250 species, mostly tropical. They have clustered apetalous monoecious or dioecious flowers, the ovary being partly inferior and the fruit a nut or drupe. Some are stem parasites and others root parasites. Comandra (the bastard toadflax), Pyrularia (the rabbitwood), and Buckleya, are genera occurring in the United States. — san'ta·la'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

San'ta·la'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of dicotyledonous plants comprising seven families, among which are the Santalaceae, Loranthaceae, and Olacaceae. They are distinguished by having a one-celled inferior ovary; many of them are parasitic or partly parasitic.

San·ta'li (sŭn·tȧ'lē), n. The language of the Santals. See AUSTROASIATIC.

san'ta·lin (săn'tȧ·lĭn), n. [F. santaline. See SANTALUM.] Chem. A red crystalline compound, $C_{14}H_{14}O_5$, a coloring matter in red sandalwood and probably barwood.

san'ta·lol (-lōl; -lŏl), n. [*Santal*um + -ol.] Chem. & Pharm. A mixture of liquid alcohols, the chief constituent of sandalwood oil, used as a urinary antiseptic; also, either of two isomeric sesquiterpene alcohols, $C_{15}H_{25}OH$, separated therefrom and distinguished as α- and β-santalol.

San'ta·lum (-lŭm), n. [NL. or ML. See SANDALWOOD.] Bot. A small genus of Indo-Malayan, parasitic trees (typifying the family Santalaceae; the sandalwoods. They have coriaceous leaves, and small perfect flowers in terminal panicles. See SANDALWOOD.

San'ta Ma·ri'a (săn'tȧ mä·rē'ȧ). See SHIP, Table.

San'ta Ma·ri'a tree (săn'tȧ mȧ·rē'ȧ). See CALABA.

San'ta Mar'tha wood (mär'tȧ). Brazilette.

san'tar (săn'tĕr), n. A confederate who passes by and receives stolen goods while the thief remains with the owner. Obs. Cant.

San'ta So·phi'a (săn'tä sō·fē'ä). See SAINT SOPHIA.

san'tene (săn'tēn), n. [*Santal*um + -ene.] Chem. A bicyclic liquid terpene, $C_{10}H_{16}$, found in sandalwood oil, various pine-needle oils, etc.

San' Tho·mé' (săn' tō·mā'). A gold coin of Portuguese India of varying value, bearing the figure of St. Thomas, struck up to 1841. In the early part of the 18th century any multiple of the xerafin bearing the figure of this saint seems to have been called a San Thomé.

San'ti·a'go (săn'tē·ä'gō), n. See BATTLE, Table.

san·tir' (săn·tĕr'), n. [Ar. santīr, fr. Gr. psaltērion. See PSALTER.] A kind of Oriental dulcimer played with two curved sticks.

‖san'to (săn'tō), adj. [It. & Sp.] Holy; sacred.

‖san'to (săn'tō), n.; pl. -TOS (-tōs). [Sp., lit., saint.] 1. A saint; hence, a saint's image.
2. = 2d SANTON.

San'to (săn'tō), n. A Melanesian language spoken in Espiritu Santo, New Hebrides.

San'to Do·min'gan (săn'tō dō·mĭng'găn), adj. Of or pertaining to Santo Domingo, or the Dominican Republic. See DOMINICAN. — n. A native or inhabitant of Santo Domingo.

Santo Domingan boxwood. A tropical American timber tree (Phyllostylon brasiliensis), family Ulmaceae; also, its wood, yielding a minor substitute for boxwood.

---

san·guin'i·an, adj. Sanguine in constitution. Obs. — n. Obs.

san·guin'i·cal, adj. Sanguine. Obs.

san'gui·nic'o·lous (săng'gwĭ·nĭk'ō·lŭs), adj. = SANGUICOLOUS.

san'gui·nif'er·ous (săn'gwĭ·nĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. = SANGUIFEROUS.

san·guin'i·fi·ca'tion (săng·gwĭn'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. = SANGUIFICATION.

san'guin·ism, n. = SANGUINENESS.

san'gui·niv'o·rous (săng'gwĭ·nĭv'ō·rŭs), adj. [sangui- + -vorous.] = SANGUIVOROUS.

San'gui·sor·ba'ce·ae (săng'gwĭ·sôr·bā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of ROSACEAE (in part).

sangwane, sangwyn. † SANGUINE.

San'he·drim (săn'hē·drĭm; -ē·drĭm), n. = SANHEDRIN.

san·nif'er·ous, adj. [LL. sanifer.] Sanatory; curative. Obs.

san'i·tar·i·ly, adv. of SANITARY.

san'i·ta'tion·ist, n. = SANITARIAN.

san'i·ta'tion-proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

san'i·tist (săn'ĭ·tĭst), n. = SANITARIAN.

san'jak'ate, n. = SANJAK.

san'jak'ship, n. = SANJAK, 1.

sank. † SANG, blood. Obs.

sank (săngk), past tense of SINK.

san'na, n. [L.] A kind of scornful gesture. Obs.

san'na (sȧn'nȧ). Contr. of shall not. Scot. & N. of Eng.

San·noi'si·an (sȧ·noi'zĭ·ăn), adj. Geol. = TONGRIAN.

san'pan (sȧn'pȧn). Var. of SAMPAN.

San'poil (săn'poil), n. = NESPELIM. See OKINAGAN, n.

san'sa. Var. of ZANZE.

San·san'nah (sȧn·sȧn'ȧ). Bib.

San'sar, n. See SARSAR.

Sans Arc (sănz ärk). See SIOUX.

San'scrit. Var. of SANSKRIT.

sans'cu·lot', n. Sans-culotte. Ref. Sp.

sans'-cu'lot'tide' (săn'kū'lŏt'·tēd'; sănz'kū·lŏt'tĭd), n. Also sans'-cu·lot'tid. See REVOLUTIONARY CALENDAR.

San'se·vie'ra. Var. of SANSEVIERIA. Obs.

san'sing bell. = SANCTUS BELL.

San'skrit·ize, v. t. See -IZE. — San'skrit·i·za'tion, n.

San'son's' im'age·es (săn'sŏnz'). = PURKINJE'S IMAGES b.

San'ta. Short for SANTA CLAUS.

‖san'ta (sȧn'tȧ), fem. of SANTO.

san·tal'ic ac'id (sȧn·tȧl'ĭk). = SANTALIN.

san'tal oil (săn'tȧl; -t'l). See OIL, Table I.

san'tal·wood' (-wŏŏd'), n. = SANDALWOOD.

santalwood oil. See OIL, Table I.

san'ta·pee' (sȧn'tȧ·pē'), n. Corrupt. of CENTIPEDE. Chiefly Creole.

San·tee' (săn·tē'), n. See SIOUX.

san'tims (săn'tĭms), n.; pl. -TIMI (-tē·mē). [Lett., fr. F. centime.] See COIN, Table.

San'to Do·min'go Indian (săn'tō dŏ·mĭn'gō). One of a Keresan tribe, occupying a pueblo on the Rio Grande, in central New Mexico.

‖san·tol' (săn·tŏl'), n. [Tag. santol, or Malay santul.] a The sandal tree. b = WILD MANGOSTEEN a.

San'to·li'na (săn'tō·lī'nȧ), n. [NL. (cf. F. santoline, santonine, santonique, It. santolina, ML. sanctolina), fr. L. santonica. See SANTONICA.] Bot. a A small genus of Mediterranean undershrubs of the thistle family (Carduaceae). They resemble the yarrow (Achillea) in their finely dissected leaves and clustered heads, but differ in the absence of rays. S. chamaecyparissus is the lavender cotton. b [not cap.] A plant or flower of this genus.

san'ton (săn'tŏn), n. [F., fr. Sp. santón, aug. fr. santo saint, fr. L. sanctus holy. See SAINT.] In Moslem countries, a saint; a kind of dervish, regarded by the people as a saint; also, a hermit. Cf. MARABOUT.

‖san'ton' (săn'tŏn'), n. [Pr.] A small image of a saint. Cf. SANTO, n. Southern France.

san·ton'i·ca (săn·tŏn'ĭ·kȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. herba santonica, fr. Santoni a people of Aquitania. Cf. SANTOLINA.] a The European wormwood Artemisia pauciflora. b Pharm. An anthelmintic drug consisting of the unexpanded dried flower heads of this plant or a closely related species; Levant wormseed. See SANTONIN.

san'to·nin (săn'tō·nĭn), n. Also san'to·nine. [Cf. F. santonine. See SANTONICA.] Chem. & Pharm. A colorless, crystalline, slightly bitter compound, $C_{15}H_{18}O_3$, occurring in santonica and in other species of Artemisia, and used as an anthelmintic. In overdose it produces poisoning and disturbance of vision. Santonin is a derivative of naphthalene and is the lactone of san'to·nin'ic ac'id (-nĭn'ĭk), $C_{15}H_{20}O_4$, salts of which it forms with alkalies.

‖san'to ni'ño (săn'tō nē'nyō). [Sp., holy child.] An image of the Christ child.

San'to·rin' earth, or San'to·rin' (săn'tō·rēn'), n. [From Santorin, volcanic island in the Aegean.] A volcanic tuff from the island of Santorin, consisting principally of a fine, light-gray, siliceous material, used for making cement.

San'to·ri'ni's car'ti·lage (săn'tō·rē'nēz). [After G. D. Santorini (1681–1737), It. anatomist.] Anat. The corniculate cartilage of the larynx.

Santorini's duct. = DUCT OF SANTORINI.

Santorini's muscle. = RISORIUS.

san'to·rin'ite (săn'tō·rēn'īt), n. [See SANTORIN EARTH.] Petrog. a Basalts with a high silica content but with basic plagioclase ranging from labradorite to anorthite. b Hypersthene andesite rich in soda and containing phenocrysts of plagioclase (labradorite with mantles of oligoclase) in a groundmass of acid oligoclase.

San'tos (săn'tŏs), n. [From Santos, Brazil.] 1. A variety of coffee. See COFFEE, 2.
2. The color dark beaver.

sant tree (sănt). Any of several trees of the genus Acacia, esp. the bahul (A. scorpioides), A. senegal, A. arabica, etc. The bark and pods (sant pods) of some species yield a tanning extract.

sa'nu·kite (sä'nōō·kĭt), n. [From Sanuki, Japan.] Petrog. A volcanic rock, related to hyaloandesite, containing phenocrysts of orthopyroxene, garnet, and some andesine, in a glass groundmass.

San'vi·ta'li·a (săn'vĭ·tā'lĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after the Italian family Sanvitali.] Bot. a A small genus of chiefly tropical American annual herbs (family Carduaceae) having small heads with yellow or white rays, a flat receptacle, and naked or awn-tipped achenes. S. procumbens, of Mexico, is often cultivated for ornamental edgings. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

san'wa mil'let (săng'wȧ). [Hind. sāvā. Cf. SHAMA MILLET.] A variety (Echinochloa crus-galli edulis) of barn grass, grown in India for forage and its edible seeds; — called also billion-dollar grass.

San'ya·ko'an (săn'yȧ·kō'ăn), n. An Indian of a Tlingit tribe. See TLINGIT.

‖Saor'stat' (sär'stŏt'), n. [Ir. saor free + stāt state.] Free state; specif., Saor'stat Eir'eann (är'ăn), the Irish Free State.

Sa·o'shyant (sou'shyȧnt), n. [Av., savior.] The Iranian or Zoroastrian Messiah. There are to be three, each inaugurating a new order of things and a special period of human progress.

sap (săp), n. [AS. sæp; akin to OHG. saf, G. saft, ON. safi, L. sapa must, and perh. to L. sapor taste. See SAVOR.]
1. The juices or fluid contents of a plant, esp. the watery solution which circulates through the vascular tissue in woody plants. The ascending current consists of water, absorbed by imbibition and osmosis, in which are dissolved various salts obtained from the earth. This crude sap passes through the xylem portion of the vascular bundles to the chlorophyll-containing tissues (the leaves in most plants). Here it is subjected to photosynthesis (see PHOTOSYNTHESIS); the surplus water is transpired, and the newly formed carbohydrates and proteins are translocated through the phloem or sieve tissue to the parts of the plant which may require them, the descending current being often called elaborated sap. In some plants, as the sugar cane, sugar maple, various palms, etc., sap contains much sugar. Popularly, sap is sometimes applied to latex or to any fluid secretion. See TRANSPIRATION, 3; cf. CELL SAP a.
2. Sapwood, or alburnum.
3. pl. Lumber containing much sapwood. It is inferior in quality to the grades called firsts and seconds.
4. Any liquid or humor essential to life or health, or characteristic of a healthy, fresh, or vigorous condition; vitality; vigor; essential element; blood.
5. Any liquid taken with solid food. Scot. & N. of Eng.
6. Moisture in stone.
7. Money. Slang.
8. Act or process of sapping. "The sap of age." Cowper.
9. A student abnormally absorbed in books; also, hard or monotonous study; boning; a tiresome grind. Brit. Slang.
10. A simpleton; saphead. Slang.
11. Quarrying. Outside stone softened by weathering.

sap (săp), v. [See 1st SAP.] Transitive: 1. To drain or deprive of its sap; to draw off (sap).
2. To get the better of in trading. Local, U. S.
—, Intransitive: To act the sap. School Slang.

sap, n. [F. sappe, sap, fr. sapper, saper. See SAP, v.] Mil. 1. a Obs. Orig., process of undermining. b Sapping.
2. a A trench which is prolonged in the desired direction by digging away the earth at its head from within the trench itself. The earth is usually thrown up as a parapet on the exposed flank and on the end as additional protection to the working party. When one side of the trench is protected by a parapet it is a full, or single, sap; when both, a double sap. Cf. FLYING SAP. b In the attack of a fortified place, a trench or gallery dug from the attacker's lines to a point beneath the enemy's works to gain entrance to his fortifications or to destroy them with explosives.

sap (săp), v.; SAPPED (săpt); SAP'PING. [F. sapper, saper (cf. It. zappare), fr. sappe, sape, mattock, fr. LL. sappa, of uncert. origin.] Transitive: 1. To subvert by digging or wearing away the substratum or foundation; to undermine.
2. To make unstable or infirm; to unsettle or weaken; to cause gradual exhaustion of, as one's strength.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind. Tennyson.

3. Mil. To operate against, or pierce, by saps.
—, Intransitive: Mil. To proceed by, or to execute, saps.

sap-. = SAPO-.

sa'pa' (sȧ'pȧ'), n. [F.] Pharm. Must; grape juice evaporated to a sirupy consistency or to the consistency of honey; — used in 16th century as a cough cure.

sap'a·jou (săp'ȧ·jōō; F. sȧ'pȧ'zhōō'), n. [F., of Tupian origin.] a A capuchin monkey (genus Cebus). b Formerly, sometimes, a spider monkey.

sa·pan' (sȧ·păn'), n. Pharm. The heartwood of sapanwood, used as an astringent.

sa·pan'wood' (-wŏŏd'), n. [D. sapanhout, fr. Malay sapaṅ.] A red dyewood obtained from the East Indian tree Caesalpinia sappan; also, the tree itself. The wood is a soluble redwood, and was the first of the so-called "brazilwoods" imported into Europe.

sap'bush' (săp'bŏŏsh'), n. a A grove or wood of sugar maples. U. S.

sap cavity. Bot. A vacuole.

sap chafer. Any of certain sap-feeding flower beetles, esp. of the cetonian genus Euphoria.

sa·pek' (sȧ·pĕk'), n. Also sa·pec'. [F. sapèque, fr. Malay sa one + pe(k), fr. Siamese pæ' pai.] a Any of the Oriental coins better known in English as cash. b A minor bronze coin issued by France for Indo-China.

Sa·per'da (sȧ·pûr'dȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. saperdēs a kind of fish.] Zool. A genus of long-horned beetles containing several species, as the apple-tree borer and linden borer.

sap fagot. Mil. A short but very strong fascine, used to fill interstices between gabions at the head of a sap.

sap flow. = TRANSPIRATION CURRENT.

sap'ful (săp'fōōl), adj. Abounding in sap; sappy.

sap green. a A dull-green lake prepared from buckthorn berries. Cf. LOKAO. b The color reseda.

sap gum. a The sapwood of the sweet gum (Liquidambar styraciflua) or the lumber sawed from it; sometimes also, the tree itself. b Trade Term. Lumber sawed from any tree of the genus Nyssa.

Saph'a·ren'sian (săf'ȧ·rĕn'shăn), adj. Designating, or pert. to, a method of chronology used in Spain from the 5th to the 12th century, by which the years were numbered from 38 B.C., the date of the conquest of Spain by Augustus.

sap'head' (săp'hĕd'), n. A weak-minded, stupid fellow; a dupe. — sap'head'ed (-ĕd; -Id; 66; 119), adj. — sap'head'ed·ness, n. All Colloq.

sap'head', n. Mil. The end of the sap at which digging is in progress.

sa·phe'na (sȧ·fē'nȧ), n. [ML.] Anat. A saphenous vein or nerve. — sa·phe'nal (-năl), adj.

sa·phe'nous (sȧ·fē'nŭs), adj. [ML. saphena a vein in the leg, saphena, fr. Ar. ṣāfin.] Anat. a Designating the two principal superficial veins of the legs. The internal, or long, saphenous vein begins at the foot and passes up the medial side of the leg, going in front of the internal malleolus, and behind the internal femoral condyle, and, entering the saphenous opening, joins the femoral vein. The small, external, or short, saphenous vein passes behind the outer malleolus and up the back of the leg, joining the popliteal at the knee. b Pertaining to, or situated in the region of, the saphenous veins; as, the saphenous opening by which the saphenous vein passes through the fascia lata, and the saphenous nerve which branches from the femoral and accompanies the femoral artery and vein in Hunter's canal.

saph'ie (săf'ĭ), n. Also saf'ie, saf'fi. A talisman, amulet, or charm. West Africa.

sap'id (săp'ĭd), adj. [L. sapidus. See SAGE, adj.] 1. Having strong savor or flavor, esp. an agreeable flavor; palatable; hence, agreeable to the mind.
2. Affecting the organs of taste; possessing flavor. "Sapid, visible, audible objects." J. Martineau.

sa·pid'i·ty (sȧ·pĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being sapid; taste; savor; savoriness.

sa'pi·ence (sā'pĭ·ĕns), n. [OF., fr. L. sapientia. See SAPIENT.] 1. Quality of being sapient; wisdom; sageness; profound knowledge.
2. Specif., Obs.: a Divine wisdom. b Spiritual knowledge, distinguished from prudence. c [cap.] The apocryphal Book of Wisdom. d Good taste in expression.
3. In ironical disparagement, assumed or sham sagacity.

sa'pi·en·cy (sā'pĭ·ĕn·sĭ), n. Sapience.

sa'pi·ent (sā'pĭ·ĕnt), adj. [OF., fr. L. sapiens, -entis, pres. part. of sapere to taste, to have sense, to know. See SAGE, adj.] 1. Wise; sage; discerning; — now usually jocosely or in irony.
2. Affording knowledge or wisdom; as, a sapient plant. R.
Syn. — Sagacious, knowing. See SHREWD.
Ant. — See SHREWD.
— sa'pi·ent·ly, adv.

sa'pi·ent, n. A sapient person.

sa'pi·en'tial (-ĕn'shăl), adj. [LL. sapientialis.] Having, affording, or expounding, wisdom. — sa'pi·en'tial·ly, adv.

sapiential books. Bib. The books of Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Wisdom, and Ecclesiasticus. Obs.

sa'pi·ent·ize (sā'pĭ·ĕn·tīz), v. i. To make sapient. Rare.

sa'pin' (sȧ'păn'), n. [OF.] a Obs. A fir tree. b Quebec. The balsam fir Abies balsamea.

sa·pin'da (sȧ·pĭn'dȧ), n. [Skr. sapiṇḍa.] Hindu Law. Any person considered in his relation to any of his three (or, rarely, six) nearest lineal (male) ancestors or (conversely) descendants; — so named because the pinda is offered to the three nearest ancestors, and the crumbs to the next three. Cf. SAKULYA. — sa·pin'da·ship, n.

Sap'in·da'ce·ae (săp'ĭn·dā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SAPINDUS.] Bot. A family of chiefly tropical trees, shrubs, or vines (order Sapindales); the soapberry family. They have mostly pinnate or palmate exstipulate leaves, dioeciously polygamous flowers, and baccate or capsular, often edible, fruit. Sapindus, Nephelium, Paullinia, and Cardiospermum are prominent genera, including many ornamental plants. — sap'in·da'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Sap'in·da'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of dicotyledonous plants comprising 20 families, including the Anacardiaceae, Ilicaceae, Celastraceae, Aceraceae, and Sapindaceae. They have the stamens inserted on a disk, and the ovary with one or two ovules in each cell.

Sa·pin'dus (sȧ·pĭn'dŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. sapo soap + Indicus Indian.] Bot. A genus of tropical and subtropical trees, the soapberries, typifying the family Sapindaceae.

Sa'pi·um (sā'pĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. sappium, var. of sap(p)inus a kind of fir or pine tree.] Bot. A genus of tropical trees and shrubs of the spurge family (Euphorbiaceae). The acrid milky juice of S. indicum is used in staining rattan. Some South American species yield tannin and rubber; S. sebiferum is the Chinese tallow tree.

sa'pi·u'tan (sā'pē·ōō'tȧn), n. [Malay sapi cow + utan wild.] The anoa.

sa'ple (sā'p'l), n. 1. A sapling. Obs.
2. The sable. Colloq., U. S.

sap'less (săp'lĕs; -lĭs), adj. 1. Destitute of sap or vital juices; dry; unproductive.
2. Lacking vitality; feeble; infirm.
3. Lacking substance or worth, or enlivening quality.
— sap'less·ness, n.

sap'ling (săp'lĭng), n. 1. A young tree; specif., a young forest tree with a trunk not over four inches in diameter.
2. = MAMMOTH RED CLOVER.
3. A youth. "You 're a young, foolish sapling." Shak.
4. A greyhound whelped prior to a given running season but in the same calendar year.

sapling cup or tankard. A cask-shaped wooden ale tankard.

‖sa'po (sä'pō), n.; pl. SAPOS (-pōz; Sp. -pōs). [Sp., toad.] A toadfish, esp. Opsanus pardus, common on the Gulf coast.

sa'po (sā'pō), n. [L. See SAPONACEOUS.] Soap; specif., U. S. Pharm., soap prepared from pure olive oil and sodium hydroxide.

sap'o- (săp'ō-), sap-. A combining form for Latin sapo, soap, used esp. in Pharm.

sap'o·dil'la (săp'ō·dĭl'ȧ), n. [Sp. sapotillo, zapotillo, dim. of sapote, zapote. See SAPOTA; cf. DILLY.] a A large tree (Sapota achras), found throughout tropical North America, but naturalized throughout the tropical world. It has hard reddish durable wood and handsome evergreen foliage, and its latex yields chicle. b The fruit of this tree. It has a rough brownish skin and very sweet brownish pulp. In Spanish America it is called nispero; in the British West Indies, naseberry; in the Philippines, chico. See ACHRAS, Note.

1/4
Sapodilla, Leaves and Fruits.

sapodilla family. The Sapotaceae.

sapodilla plum. = SAPODILLA b.

sa·pog'e·nin (sȧ·pŏj'ē·nĭn; săp'ō·jĕn'ĭn), n. [saponin + -gen + -in.] Chem. A white crystalline compound, $C_{14}H_{22}O_3$, obtained by hydrolysis of commercial saponin. By extension, any compound (other than a sugar) obtained by hydrolysis of a saponin.

sap'o·na'ceous (săp'ō·nā'shŭs), adj. [ML. saponaceus, fr. L. sapo, -onis, soap, of Teut. origin. See SOAP.] 1. Resembling soap; having the qualities of soap; soapy.
2. Liable to slip away; ingratiating but evasive; elusive.
— sap'o·na'ceous·ness, n.

sap'o·nac'i·ty (-năs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Soapiness. Humorous.

Sap'o·na'ri·a (-nā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL., fr ML. saponarius pert. to soap, fr. L. sapo soap. See SAPONACEOUS.] Bot. a A genus of Old World herbs of the pink family (Caryophyllaceae). S. officinalis is the common soapwort, or bouncing Bet.

sap'o·na'rin (-nā'rĭn), n. Chem. A saponin, $C_{11}H_{18}O_{13}$, obtained from the cell sap of the leaves of soapwort (Saponaria officinalis) and other plants as a white powder. Like starch, in colloidal aqueous solution it gives a blue color with iodine. By extension, any of various similar compounds.

sap'o·nar'y (săp'ō·nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nĕr·ĭ), adj. [ML. saponarius.] Saponaceous; soapy. Obs. — sap'o·nar'i·ness (-I·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Obs.

sap'o·nar'y, n. [From Saponaria.] The soapwort Saponaria officinalis.

Sa·po'ni (sȧ·pō'nē), n. sing. & pl. An Indian of an extinct Siouan tribe, closely associated with the Tutelo.

sa·pon'i·fi'a·ble (sȧ·pŏn'ĭ·fī'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being saponified.

sa·pon'i·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [F. See SAPONIFY.] 1. Act, process, or result, of soapmaking; conversion into soap; chemically, the decomposition (hydrolysis) of a fat by alkali, with the formation of a soap, or salt of the fatty acid, and glycerol; also, the hydrolysis of a fat by any means.
2. Chem. Hence, the hydrolysis of any ester into the corresponding alcohol and acid (either free or in the form of a salt); also, by extension, any hydrolysis.

saponification number or value. Anal. Chem. In the analysis of oils, fats, etc., the number of milligrams of potassium hydroxide required for the complete saponification of one gram of substance.

sa·pon'i·fi'er (sȧ·pŏn'ĭ·fī'ĕr), n. That which saponifies; specif.: a Any reagent used to cause saponification. b An apparatus for saponifying fats.

sa·pon'i·fy (sȧ·pŏn'ĭ·fī), v. t. & i.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [F. saponifier, fr. L. sapo, -onis, soap. See SAPONACEOUS; -FY.] To convert into soap; to subject to, or to undergo, saponification.

sap'o·nin (săp'ō·nĭn), n. Also sap'o·nine (-nĭn; -nēn). [F. saponine, fr. L. sapo, -onis, soap.] Chem. Any of a group of glucosides occurring in many plants, as in soapwort, soapbark, senega, etc., and characterized by their property of producing a soapy lather. Some, at least, appear to form a homologous series of the formula $C_nH_{2n-4}O_{10}$. They are in general bitter and acrid, and cause sneezing. The poisonous ones are often called sapotoxins. Saponins on hydrolysis yield sugars and sapogenins. Commercial saponin is a mixture of saponins extracted chiefly from soapbark or soapwort as a white, amorphous powder, and is used as a foam producer in beverages and fire extinguishers, as a detergent, in emulsifying oils, etc.

sap'o·nite (săp'ō·nīt), n. [Sw. saponit, fr. L. sapo, -onis, soap.] Mineral. A hydrous magnesium aluminum silicate, occurring in soft, soapy, amorphous masses, filling veins and cavities in serpentine, diabase, etc. Sp. gr., 2.24–2.30.

---

san·tour'. Var. of SANTIR. san'ty, n. Prob. sanctity; — in God's santy, an oath. Obs. sao (sou), n. sing. & pl. [Annamese.] See MEASURE, Table.
Sa'o·ra (sä'ō·rä). Var. of SAURA. sap'a·cal'a. Var. of SAPUCAIA. sap'a·dil'lie, sap'a·dil'lo. Vars. of SAPODILLA. sa·pak'u. Var. of SAPKE. sape, n. [L. sapa.] Sapa. Obs.
Saph (săf). Bib.
Sa'phar. Var. of SAFAR.
Sa'phat (sā'fĭt). Bib.
Saph'a·thi'a (săf'ȧ·thī'ȧ), etc. Vars. of SAPPHIC, etc.
Saph'a·ti'a (-tĭ'ȧ). D. Bib.
Saph'a·ti'as (-ȧs). Bib.
Sa'pheth (sā'fĕth). Bib.
Saph'ick, Saph'ism, Saph'ist, Sa'phir (sā'fĭr). Bib.
Saph'ir d'eau' (sȧ'fēr' dō'). [F.] = WATER SAPPHIRE. sap'id·less, adj. See -LESS. sap'id·ness, n. See -NESS. sa·pi'en·tious, adj. Showing sapience; judicious; wiser. Obs. sap'ling·hood, n. See -HOOD. saponification value. = SAPONIFICATION NUMBER.

sap'o·nule (săp'ō·nūl), n. Also sap'o·nul. [F. saponule, fr. L. sapo, -onis, soap.] A soapy mixture obtained by treating an essential oil with an alkali; hence, any similar compound of an essential oil. Obs.

sap'o·phor'ic (săp'ō·fŏr'ĭk), adj. [L. sapor taste + -phoric.] Chem. Designating or pertaining to certain groups, as the hydroxyl and amino groups, held to impart taste to compounds in which they occur.

sa'por, sa'pour (sā'pôr; -pĕr), n. [L. See SAVOR.] A property which affects the sense of taste, as bitterness; savor; flavor.

sap'o·rif'ic (săp'ō·rĭf'ĭk), adj. [NL. saporificus, fr. L. sapor taste. See -FIC.] Having the power to produce the sensation of taste.

sap'o·ros'i·ty (-rŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Saporous quality.

sap'o·rous (săp'ō·rŭs), adj. [LL. saporus, saporosus, that relishes well, savory, fr. sapor taste.] Of, or capable of exciting, the sensation of taste; having flavor; agreeable in taste.

Sa·po'ta (sȧ·pō'tȧ), n. [NL., fr. Sp. sapote, zapote, fr. Nahuatl tzapotl. Cf. SAPODILLA.] a Bot. A genus of tropical American trees, typifying the family Sapotaceae, consisting of two species, S. achras, the sapodilla, and S. disseccta, the acana. b [not cap.] The sapodilla.

Sap'o·ta'ce·ae (săp'ō·tā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SAPOTA.] Bot. A family of trees or shrubs (order Ebenales), consisting of about 335 genera and 600 species, widely distributed in tropical regions; the sapodilla family. They have milky juice, coriaceous leaves, and axillary flowers succeeded by fleshy, often edible, fruits. The stamens are in two or three whorls, borne on the corolla, often alternating with staminodia; the ovary is superior, two-celled to many-celled. Many genera, esp. Palaquium and Payena, yield gutta-percha, various gums, etc. Sapota achras is the sapodilla, and Achras zapota is the marmalade tree. Bumelia, Mimusops, Chrysophyllum, and Illipe are other genera. — sap'o·ta'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

sapota gum. Chicle obtained from the tree Sapota achras.

sa·po'te (sȧ·pō'tā), n. [Sp. See SAPOTA.] 1. In the West Indies: a The sapodilla. b The marmalade tree; also, its fruit.
2. In the Philippines, a date plum (Diospyros ebenaster).

sap'o·tox'in (săp'ō·tŏk'sĭn), n. [saponin + toxin.] Chem. A colorless, amorphous, poisonous saponin, $C_{17}H_{28}O_{10}$, found in soap bark. By extension, any poisonous saponin.

sap'per (săp'ĕr), n. 1. = 1st SAP, 9.
2 A cutting tool to remove sapwood.
3. Zool. Any sucking insect that punctures plants to feed on the sap, as certain Hemiptera.

sap'per (săp'ĕr), n. [Cf. F. sapeur.] Mil. a One who saps. b A member of a military engineer unit organized, trained, and equipped primarily to execute sapping and other field fortification work.

Sap'phic (săf'ĭk), adj. [L. Sapphicus, fr. Gr. Sapphikos, fr. Sapphō Sappho.] 1. Of or pert. to Sappho, a Greek poetess (c. 600 B.C.) of Lesbos, famous for beautiful love lyrics.
2. [often not cap.] Relating to erotic indulgence, associated with Sappho and her pupils.
3. Pros. Designating, or pertaining to, any of certain verse forms used by Sappho, esp. a logaoedic pentapody with a dactyl in the third place (–⏑|–⏑|–||⏑⏑|–⏑|–⏑).

Sap'phic, n. Pros. A Sapphic verse.

Sapphic strophe. Three Sapphics followed by an Adonic.

sap'phire (săf'īr), n. [OF. safir (F. saphir), fr. L. sapphirus, fr. Gr. sappheiros, through Sem. (cf. Heb. sappīr), fr. Skr. sanipriya sapphire, lit., dear to the planet Saturn.] 1. a Orig., and strictly, a precious stone of transparent rich-blue corundum, and of great value. b More widely, a pure variety of corundum in transparent or translucent crystals used as gems; also, such a gem. The ruby, or red corundum, is almost never called sapphire, but all other gem varieties are, as white, green, purple, and yellow sapphire. See ORIENTAL, adj., 5 b; FANCY SAPPHIRE.
2. The color sapphire blue.
3. Any hummingbird of the genus Hylocharis, native to South America. The throat and breast are bright blue.
4. Her. Azure, in blazoning by the precious stones.
☞ COMBINATIONS are: sapphire-blue, sapphire-colored, sapphire-hued, sapphire-visaged.

sap'phire (săf'īr), adj. Of or resembling sapphire; sapphirine; of the color sapphire blue.

sap'phire·ber'ry (săf'īr·bĕr'ĭ), n.; pl. -BERRIES (-īz). The Asiatic sweetleaf; — so called from its bright-blue berries.

sapphire blue. A color, greenish-blue in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sap'phired (săf'īrd), adj. Colored sapphire blue.

sapphire gurnard. The sapphirine gurnard.

sapphire quartz. Mineral. A rare blue variety of quartz.

sap'phire·wing' (săf'īr·wĭng'), n. A South American hummingbird (Cyanopterus temminckii) with blue wings.

sap·phir'ic (sȧ·fĭr'ĭk), adj. Like or suggestive of a sapphire. Rare.

sap'phir·ine (săf'ĕr·ĭn; -īn), adj. [L. sapphirinus, fr. Gr. sappheirinos.] 1. Made of sapphire.
2. Resembling sapphire; having any quality of sapphire, esp. the color. "Sapphirine degree of hardness." Boyle.

sap'phir·ine, n. Mineral. a A pale-blue or green magnesium aluminum silicate occurring usually in granular form. H., 7.5. Sp. gr., 3.42–3.48. b Sapphire quartz. c A blue variety of magnesia spinel. d Obs. Hauynite.

sapphirine gurnard. A European gurnard (Trigla hirundo) having the pectoral fins much blotched with a rich blue.

Sap'phism (săf'ĭz'm), n. [From Sappho. See SAPPHIC.] Med. Sensual desire of a woman for other women; Lesbianism. — Sap'phist (-ĭst), n.

Sap'pho (săf'ō), n. [See SAPPHIC.] 1. Zool. a A genus of hummingbirds consisting of a single beautiful fork-tailed species (S. sappho, syn. Lesbia sparganurus) of South America. b Also Sappho comet. The bird itself.
2. Lady Mary Wortley Montagu. Pope.

Sappho (Sappho sappho).

sap pine. a The pitch pine Pinus rigida. b The loblolly Pinus taeda.

sap'ping (săp'ĭng), n. [See 1st SAP.] Act or process of making maple sugar. Dial. U. S.

sap'ples (săp'l'z), n. pl. [Origin obscure.] Suds. Scot.

sap'py (săp'ĭ), adj.; SAP'PI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SAP'PI·EST. [AS. sæpig. See 1st SAP.] 1. Abounding with sap.
2. Figuratively: a Vital. b Having substance; pithy.
You cannot have a rank, sappy race like the English or German, without plenty of moisture in the air and in the soil. John Burroughs.
3. Resembling, or largely of, sapwood.
4. Now Dial. a Juicy; succulent. b Moist; flabby; tainted; — said of meat. c Plump. d Sodden; rainy.
5. Having a superabundance of suint; — said of wool.
6. Foolishly sentimental. Slang.
7. Young and weak; feeble; silly.
When he had passed this weak and sappy age. Hayward.
8. Addicted to drinking; cheerful or lively, as after drinking. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
9. Lumber Trade. Consisting largely of sapwood.
10. Steel Mfg. Designating the best kind of steel, having a fine grain and finished blue with a silky sheen.

sappy spot. A portion of wood or lumber showing the effects of decay.

sapr-. = SAPRO-.

sa·pre'mi·a, sa·prae'mi·a (sȧ·prē'mĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. sapr- + -emia.] Med. A morbid condition in which the products of putrefactive bacteria are present in the blood. It often accompanies gangrene of a part of the body. — sa·pre'mic, sa·prae'mic (-mĭk), adj.

sap'rine (săp'rēn; -rĭn), n. Also -rin. [Gr. sapros rotten.] Chem. A physiologically inactive ptomaine, found in putrid liver, spleen, etc.

sap'ro- (săp'rō-), sapr-. A combining form, Greek sapro-, sapr-, from sapros, meaning rotten, putrid, as in saprostomous; used also to denote: a Dead or decaying organic matter, as in saprophyte, saprodontia. b Saprophytic, as in Saprolegnia, sapremia.

sap'ro·coll (săp'rō·kŏl), n. [sapro- + -coll.] Gelatinous sapropel.

sap'ro·dil (săp'rō·dĭl), n. A form of sapropel found in the Tertiary.
When the sapropel in a sub-fossil state becomes gelatinous, it is distinguished as saprocoll, whilst the Tertiary forms are described as saprodil. Nature.

sap'ro·don'ti·a (-dŏn'shĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. sapr- + -odontia.] Tooth decay: caries of the teeth.

sap'ro·gen'ic (săp'rō·jĕn'ĭk), adj. [sapro- + -genic.] 1. Capable of producing decay or putrefaction, as many saprophytic bacteria. Cf. SAPROPHILOUS, ZYMOGENIC.
2. Of or pertaining to the production of putrefaction; occurring or produced in or upon putrefying matter.

sa·prog'e·nous (sȧ·prŏj'ē·nŭs), adj. Saprogenic.

Sap'ro·leg'ni·a (săp'rō·lĕg'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. sapro- + Gr. legnon edge, border.] Bot. A genus of water molds typifying the family Saprolegniaceae. They grow in water, chiefly on plant debris and animal remains, but S. ferax attacks living fish, tadpoles, and spawn, causing disease.

Sap'ro·leg'ni·a'ce·ae (săp'rō·lĕg'nĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of mold fungi typifying the order Saprolegniales. — sap'ro·leg'ni·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Sap'ro·leg'ni·a'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of fungi (class Phycomycetes) having a well-developed mycelium and both sexual and asexual reproduction; the water molds. It contains several families of mostly aquatic molds, chiefly saprophytes on organic debris, but some parasites of plants, living fish, etc.—sap'ro·leg'ni·ous (-lĕg'nĭ·ŭs), adj.

sap'ro·lite (săp'rō·līt), n. [sapro- + -lite.] Petrog. Disintegrated rock, usually more or less decomposed, which lies in its original place. — sap'ro·lit'ic (-lĭt'ĭk), adj.

sap roller. Mil. A large, stiffly made, filled gabion, which the sapper sometimes rolls before him for protection from the fire of the enemy.

sap'ro·pel (săp'rō·pĕl), n. [sapro- + Gr. pēlos mud.] 1. Geol. A slimy sediment, of marine, estuarine, or lacustrine deposition, consisting largely of organic debris derived from aquatic plants and animals.
2. Kerogen.

sap'ro·pel'ic (-pĕl'ĭk), adj. [See SAPROPEL.] 1. Biol. Living in mud or ooze composed chiefly of decaying organic matter, as certain fresh-water protozoa.
2. Geol. Pertaining to or derived from sapropel.

sap'ro·pel'ite (săp'rō·pĕl'īt), n. [sapropel + -ite.] Geol. A coal formed from sapropel.

sa·proph'a·gous (sȧ·prŏf'ȧ·gŭs), adj. [sapro- + -phagous.] Zool. Feeding on decaying matter.— sa·proph'a·gan (-găn), adj. & n.

sa·proph'i·lous (-ĭ·lŭs), adj. [sapro- + -philous.] Bot. Saprophytic; specif., Bacteriol., thriving in decaying matter, as many bacteria. Cf. SAPROGENIC, ZYMOGENIC.

sap'ro·phyte (săp'rō·fīt), n. [sapro- + -phyte.] 1. Biol. Any organism living on dead or decaying organic matter; — contrasted with autophyte. Most of the higher fungi, as the mushrooms and toadstools, various orchids, as the coralroot (Corallorhiza), and certain families, as the Monotropaceae, are saprophytes. See MYCORHIZA; cf. PARASITE, 3.
2. Any heterotrophic vegetable organism living upon dead organic matter.

sap'ro·phyt'ic (-fĭt'ĭk), adj. Bot. Pertaining to, or characteristic of, a saprophyte; living as a saprophyte. — sap'ro·phyt'ic, n. — sap'ro·phyt'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.
The invisible hosts of saprophytics had already begun their unresisted invasion of a dead body. Aldous Huxley.

sap'ro·phyt·ism (săp'rō·fīt·ĭz'm), n. The condition of living as a saprophyte.

sa·pros'to·mous (sȧ·prŏs'tō·mŭs), adj. [sapro- + -stomous.] Having a foul breath.

sap rot. Plant Pathol. Any disintegration of the sapwood caused by a wood-destroying fungus.

sap'ro·zo'ic (săp'rō·zō'ĭk), adj. [sapro- + -zoic.] Zool. Living on dead or decaying organic matter; — said of animals, esp. protozoans.

saps (săps), n. pl. [Scot. form of sops. See SOP.] Bread steeped in hot milk and sugared. Scot.

sap'sa·go (săp'sȧ·gō), n. [Corrupt. fr. G. schabzieger, fr. schaben to shave, to scrape + zieger whey, whey cheese.] A hard green Swiss cheese made from skim-milk curd, partly ripened and then mixed with blue melilot (Trigonella coerulea) used chiefly in cooking; — called also fromage vert.

sap shield. Mil. A steel plate used as a shield by a sapper or other advanced worker in places where the earth thrown up is inadequate for his defense. Obs.

sap stain. Lumber Trade. A chemical discoloration in newly-sawn sapwood due to oxidizing enzymes; a similar discoloration caused by any of various fungi. See BLUE STAIN.

sap'suck' (săp'sŭk'), n. A sapsucker. Local, U. S.

sap suck. The plant Buckleya distichophylla.

sap'suck'er (săp'sŭk'ĕr), n. Any of several small American woodpeckers of the genus Sphyrapicus, esp. the yellow-bellied sapsucker (S. varius) of the eastern United States, which feed partly on the sap of trees. The red-breasted sapsucker (S. v. ruber) inhabits western North America. Also, incorrectly, any of various other small woodpeckers.

Yellow-bellied Sapsucker (Sphyrapicus varius). Male.

sap tree. The rowan tree Sorbus aucuparia.

sap tube. A sieve tube.

sap'u·cai'a (săp'ōō·kī'ȧ), n. [F., fr. Pg. sapucaia, fr. Tupi sapucáia, lit., egg tree; with ref. to the nut.] Any of several trees of the genus Lecythis in northern Brazil and British Guiana, the curious woody capsules (monkeypots) of which contain the sapucaia nuts.

sapucaia nut. The oily edible seed of the sapucaia, esp. of several species of Brazil and British Guiana, as Lecythis amazonum, L. lanceolata, L. sabucayo, etc. They are used for food, esp in candies, and also furnish an oil.

sap'u·cai'a–nut' fam'i·ly. The Lecythidaceae.

sap'u·cai'nha (săp'ōō·kī'nyȧ), n. [Pg., dim. See SAPUCAIA.] A tall tree (Carpotroche brasiliensis), family Flacourtiaceae, of central and southern Brazil, the nut of which yields an oil used as a cure for leprosy.

sap'wood' (săp'wŏŏd'), n. Bot. Alburnum; the usually lighter, more porous, and younger wood, just beneath the bark. The sapwood of hickory and ash is preferred to the less pliant heartwood.

Sa'ra (sä'rä), n. sing. & pl. One of a tall powerful people on the Shari River, Cameroon.

Sar'a (sâr'ȧ; sā'rȧ; 79). Var. of SARAH.

sa·raad' (sȧ·räd'), n. [W. sarāad, lit., disgrace, insult.] Early Welsh Law. A personal wrong, for which compensation, assessed in cattle and varying according to the rank of the injured party, had to be paid; a fine for injury. Cf. GALANAS.

Sar'a·ba'ite (săr'ȧ·bā'ĭt), n. [LL. Sarabaïta.] One of certain vagrant and unruly Oriental monks in the Early Church.

sar'a·band (săr'ȧ·bănd), n. [F. sarabande, fr. Sp. zarabanda, of uncert. origin.] a A rude, lively, often sensual Spanish dance, possibly of Saracenic origin, performed with castanets; — often distinguished as zarabanda. b A stately court dance evolved from this dance and fashionable in the 17th and 18th centuries. It slightly resembles the minuet. c Music for this Spanish dance (sense a, above) or in its slow triple rhythm, having usually a marked accent on the second beat.

Saraband Rhythms.

The saraband was an essential movement in the classic suite of Handel, Bach, etc.

Sar'a·band. Var. of SERABEND, a rug.

Sar'a·cen (săr'ȧ·sĕn), n. [LL. Saracenus, fr. LGr. Sarakēnos, of uncert. origin. Cf. SARCENET, SARSEN.] 1. Orig., a nomad of the deserts between Syria and Arabia; later, an Arab; hence, a Moslem, esp. as hostile to the Crusaders.
2. A pagan; a heathen; an infidel; also, a vandal. Obs.
3. A head on a post as a target for charging with lances. Obs.

Sar'a·cen, adj. = SARACENIC.

Sar'a·cen'ic (săr'ȧ·sĕn'ĭk), adj. Also Sar'a·cen'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl). Of or pertaining to the Saracens; as, Saracenic architecture.

Saracenic architecture. The architecture of the conquering Moslems generally. Its constructive designs were chiefly adopted from the subjugated peoples, and thus show certain typical variations, as in the almost equilateral pointed arch, the pointed dome with external relief decoration, and the square or polygonal minarets in diminishing stories of the Arabic architecture, or Egypto-Arabic style; in the horseshoe arch, often cusped, and the lack of domical or vaulted structure of the Moorish architecture; in the bulb domes, round minarets, large niche portals, and fourcentered arch of the Persian style; in the bulb dome, round minaret, and ogee arch of the Indian style; in the Byzantine dome, half dome, and pendentives, and conically spired minaret of the Turkish style. Constructive design appears usually subordinate to decoration, which is Oriental in spirit, characterized by arabesques, geometric patterns of interlacing lines, etc., usually done in tile mosaics or stamped plaster, in brilliant colors; by the absence of pictured or sculptured representation of animal life; by stalactite ornament and decorative inscriptions.

Sar'a·cen·ism (săr'ȧ·sĕn·ĭz'm), n. Saracenic quality, characteristic, organization, or the like. See -ISM.

Sar'a·cen's com'frey or con'sound (săr'ȧ·sĕnz). A ragwort (Senecio saracenicus) said to have been used by the Saracens to heal wounds.

Saracen's compass. The common ragwort (Senecio jacobaea).

Saracen's head. Her. A Moor's head, usually wreathed, of two colors.

Saracen, or Saracen's, stone. A sarsen.

Saracen's woundwort. = SARACEN'S COMFREY.

Sa'ra·da (shä'rȧ·dä), n. [After Sāradā Nandan, said to have first reduced the language to writing.] The older of the two alphabets of Kashmir, akin to the Devanagari.

‖sa'ra·fan' (sȧ'rȧ·fănʹ), n. [Russ.] A Russian national dress for peasant women.

Sar'ah (sâr'ȧ; sā'rȧ; 79), n. Also Sar'a. [Heb. Sārāh.] 1. Literally, a princess; — fem. proper name. F. Sara (sȧ'ra'); It., Sp., & Pg. Sara (sä'rä); G. Sara (zä'rä). — Dim. Sal, Sally (Sawkin, obs.).
2. Bib. Also Sa'rai (sā'rĭ; sâr'ȧ·ĭ). The wife of Abraham and the mother of Isaac. See Gen. xi. 31 and xvii. 15.
3. The painted wake-robin.

Sa'ra·kolle' (sä'rȧ·kôl'), Sa'ra·ko·let' (-kō·lā'), n. sing. & pl. One of a people of the French Sudan, claiming descent from white ancestors of the Ghana empire, and speaking a Mandingo dialect.

Sa'ra·mac'ca·ner (sä'rä·mäk'ȧ·nĕr), n. One of a tribe of Boschnegers of Surinam. See BOSCHNEGER.

sa'ran·gi (sä'rŭng·gē), n. [Hind. sāraṅgī.] Music. A Hindu bowed instrument with a violalike tone.

sar'an·gous'ty (săr'ăn·gōōs'tĭ), n. [Per. sar-angushti a thin paste for painting the tips of the fingers, fr. sar tip + angusht finger.] Stucco made with waterproof to protect against dampness.

---

sap'o·til'la (săp'ō·tĭl'ȧ), sap'o·til'ha (-tĭl'yȧ). Vars. of SAPODILLA.

sap·pan'wood', n. = SAPANWOOD.

sap'pare, n. = CYANITE.

Sap·phi'ra (sȧ·fī'rȧ). Bib. See ANANIAS, 1 a.

sap'pi·ness, n. See -NESS.

sap'po·dil'la (săp'ō·dĭl'ȧ). Var. of SAPODILLA.

sappon. ✝SAPAN (WOOD).

sap'ro·lite. Saprophyte. Ref. Sp.

sap'ro·phile, adj. = SAPROPHILOUS.

sap'skull', n. = 1st SAPHEAD. Dial.

sapt. Sapped. Ref. Sp.

sap'ta·ma'tri, n. See MATRIS.

sapwood rot. = SAP ROT.

sap'wort', n. [sap + wort.] = DOG'S MERCURY.

sa'py (sā'pĭ). Var. of SAPPY. Obs.

sar (sär), n. = SAROS, 1.

sar. Var. of SERVE, SORE. Obs. exc. Dial.

Sar'a·a (sär'ȧ·ȧ). D. Bib.

sar'a·ba·can (sär'ȧ·bȧ·kăn), n. = SARBACANE.

Sar'a·bi'as (sär'ȧ·bī'ăs). Bib.

Sar'a·ce'ni·an (-sē'nĭ·ăn), adj. = SARACENIC.

Sar'a·cen·like', adj. See -LIKE.

sa·ral', n. = SHROFF.

sa·ral', Var. of SERAI.

Sa·ra'la (sȧ·rä'vȧ; -rī'ȧ). Bib.

Sa·ra'lah (-rī'yȧ; -rĭ'ȧ). Bib.

Sa·ra'las (-rā'yȧs; -rĭ'ȧs). Bib.

Sa·ra'im (-rā'ĭm). D. Bib.

Sar'a·ites (sär'ȧ·ĭts). D. Bib.

Sar'a·mel (sär'ȧ·mĕl). Bib.

sa·ra'pe (sȧ·rä'pē). Var. of SERAPE.

Sar'as·va·ti, (sŭr'ăs·wȧ·tē), n. Also Sar'as·wa·ti. [Skr. Sarasvatī.] Hindu Relig. The Shakti, or consort, of Brahma. She is the goddess of learning, music, and speech.

Sar'a·to'ga (săr'ȧ·tō'gȧ), n. 1. Cards. A variation of newmarket.
2. See BATTLE, Table.
3. Short for SARATOGA TRUNK.

Saratoga chips. [From Saratoga Springs, N.Y., fr. Saratoga, name of a Mohawk village, lit., place of floating ashes.] = POTATO CHIPS.

Sar'a·to'gan (săr'ȧ·tō'găn), adj. Of, pertaining to or associated with Saratoga, N.Y. (now Schuylerville) or Saratoga Springs.

Saratoga trunk. [See SARATOGA CHIPS.] A very large traveling trunk.

Sa·ra'wak·ese' (sȧ·rä'wäk·ēz'; -ēs'), n. sing. & pl. A native of Sarawak, northwest Borneo.

sa·ra'wak·ite (sȧ·rä'wäk·īt), n. [From Sarawak, Borneo.] Mineral. Senarmontite.

Sa'ra·wan (sä'rȧ·wȧn), n. [Skr. Śrāvaṇa.] See HINDU CALENDAR.

sar'ba·cane (sär'bȧ·kān), n. [F. (after canne cane, reed), fr. sarbatane, fr. Sp. cerbatana, fr. Ar. sabaṭānah, zabaṭānah, colloq. zarbaṭānah.] A blowgun. Cf. SUMPITAN.

-sarc (-särk). Bot. & Zool. A combining form from Greek sarx, sarkos, flesh, used to denote flesh or fleshlike tissue, as in caulosarc, coenosarc.

sarc-. = SARCO-.

sar'casm (sär'kăz'm), n. [F. or L.; F. sarcasme, fr. L. sarcasmos, fr. Gr. sarkasmos, fr. sarkazein to tear flesh like dogs, to bite the lips in rage, to speak bitterly, to sneer, fr. sarx, sarkos, flesh. Cf. SARCOPHAGUS.] 1. A keen or bitter taunt; a cutting gibe or rebuke; as, full of quaint sarcasms.
2. The use of bitter, caustic, or stinging remarks expressing contempt, often by inverted or ironical statement, on occasion of some offense or shortcoming, with intent to wound the feelings; also, the language of such remarks; as, the essay is permeated with sarcasm.
Syn. — Satire, ridicule, taunt, gibe. See IRONY.

sar'cast (-kăst), n. An adept in sarcasm.

sar·cas'tic (sär·kăs'tĭk), adj. [Cf. F. sarcastique.] Expressing, or expressed by, sarcasm; characterized by, or of the nature of, sarcasm; given to the use of sarcasm. — sar·cas'tic·ness, n.
Syn. — SARCASTIC, SARDONIC. One is SARCASTIC who is cuttingly or tauntingly reproachful; SARDONIC (see etym.) is used esp. of facial expression, and suggests derisive or sneering sarcasm; as, "Mr. Bennet was [an] odd . . . mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humor, reserve and caprice" (Jane Austen); a sarcastic remark; "a sardonic smile, such as Alexander von Humboldt used to have when he contemplated the late King of Prussia's missionary deaconesses" (M. Arnold); "He would sometimes, with ironic deference, send to borrow a rod of the Under Master, and then, with sardonic grin, observe to one of his upper boys 'how neat and fresh the twigs looked'" (Lamb). Cf. IRONY, RIDICULE, MALICIOUS.

sar·cas'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj. Sarcastic. — sar·cas'ti·cal·ness, n.

sar·cas'ti·cal·ly, adv. of SARCASTIC, SARCASTICAL.

sar·celle' (sär·sĕl'), n. [F. See CERCEL.] A teal. Louisiana.

sar'cel·lé' (sär'sĕ·lā'), adj. [OF. cercelé, past part., curly. See SARCEL.] Her. = RECERCELÉE.

sarce'net, sarse'net (särs'nĕt; -nĭt), n. [AF. sarzinett, dim. fr. ME. sarzin Saracen. See SARACEN.] 1. Usually sarse'net. A soft silk material, of plain or twill weave, much used in England, esp. for linings.
2. Usually sarce'net. Formerly, a firm, heavy cotton cloth calendered to give it a high gloss.

sarce'net, sarse'net, adj. Of sarcenet; hence, soft or smooth, as in speech or temper; gentle.

Sar·ched'o·nus (sär·kĕd'ō·nŭs). Bib. Esarhaddon. Tobit i. 21.

sar'ci·lis (sär'sĭ·lĭs), n. [ML.] A coarse woolen cloth worn by the poorer classes in the Middle Ages.

Sar'ci·na (sär'sĭ·nȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. sarcina bundle.] Bacteriol. a A genus of bacteria of the family Coccaceae, having cells which divide in three directions, resulting in cubical masses. Most species are harmless; many produce yellow or orange pigment. b [not cap.; pl. -NAE (-nē).] Any bacterium of this genus.

sar·ci'tis (sär·sī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. sarc- + -itis.] Med. Myositis.

sar'cle (sär'k'l), n. [See SARCLE, v.] A hoe; — used as a translation of L. sarculum.

sar'cle, v. t. [F. sarcler, fr. L. sarculare.] To weed. Obs. — sar'cler (-klĕr), n.

sar'co- (sär'kō-), sarc-. A combining form, Greek sarko-, sark-, from sarx, sarkos, meaning flesh, as in sarcophagous, sarcitis:

sarcoblast	sarcolysis	sarcopoietic
sarcogenic	sarcolyte	sarcosepsis
sarcogenous	sarcolytic

Specif.: a Med. (1) Combined with sarcoma, as in sar'co·ad'e·no'ma, sar'co·car'ci·no'ma, sar'co·en'chon·dro'ma. (2) Animal extracts b Biochem. Pertaining to or derived from flesh, esp. from muscle, as sarcolactic acid.

Sar·cob'a·tus (sär·kŏb'ȧ·tŭs), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. batos bramble bush.] Bot. A small genus of branching spiny shrubs, the greasewoods, (family Chenopodiaceae), found on alkali plains and deserts of the western United States. They have monoecious flowers, the staminate borne in aments, the pistillate solitary. The winged fruit contains one seed.

sar'co·carp (sär'kō·kärp), n. [sarco- + -carp.] Bot. a A mesocarp, esp. when fleshy as in the peach. b Improperly, any fleshy fruit.

sar'co·cele (-sēl), n. [Gr. sarkokēlē, fr. sarx, sarkos, flesh + kēlē tumor.] Med. Any fleshy tumor of the testicle.

Sar'co·coc'ca (sär'kō·kŏk'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. kokkos seed, berry. See COCCUS.] Bot. A small genus of evergreen, Asiatic shrubs of the box family (Buxaceae) having alternate, entire leaves, and inconspicuous whitish flowers in heads or racemes. They are cultivated for their handsome foliage and their black or red, showy fruit.

Sar'co·col'la (sär'kō·kŏl'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. sarcocolla a Persian gum, fr. Gr. sarkokolla, fr. sarx, sarkos, flesh + kolla glue.] a Bot. A small genus of South African shrubs (family Penaeaceae) having axillary or spicate red flowers, the long perianth tube with four reflexed lobes. b [not cap.] A gummy exudate supposed to be obtained from Penaea mucronata and P. sarcocolla, but also reported as being obtained from Astragalus fasiculifolius and A. sarcocolla. It occurs in small yellowish or brownish-red grains and has a bittersweet taste. It has been used in healing wounds.

sar'co·col'in (sär'kō·kŏl'ĭn), n. A bittersweet substance obtained from sarcocolla gum.

sar'co·cyte (sär'kō·sīt), n. [sarco- + -cyte.] Zool. In gregarines, the outer clear layer of ectoplasm lying between the myocyte and epicyte or cuticle.

sar'code (sär'kōd), n. [Gr. sarkōdēs fleshy, fr. sarx flesh + eidos form. Cf. SARCOID.] Biol. The protoplasm of the body of a unicellular animal. Du Jardin (1835).

sar'co·derm (sär'kō·dûrm), ·der'ma (-dûr'mȧ), n. [sarco- + -derm.] Bot. a A fleshy layer in a seed's testa. b = SARCOCARP a.

Sar·co'des (sär·kō'dēz), n. [NL. See SARCODE.] Bot. A genus of saprophytic herbs (family Monotropaceae), having as the only known species S. sanguinea, the snow plant. See SNOW PLANT a.

sar·cod'ic (sär·kŏd'ĭk), adj. Biol. Pertaining to, or resembling, sarcode.

sar'co·dic'ty·um (sär'kō·dĭk'tĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. diktyon net.] Zool. In radiolarians, a network of protoplasm on the surface of the calymma.

Sar'co·di'na (sär'kō·dī'nȧ), n. pl. [NL. See SARCODE.] Zool. A class of Protozoa comprising forms whose chief character in common is the formation of pseudopodia which ordinarily serve as the organs for locomotion, and for taking food. It commonly includes the subclasses Rhizopoda and Actinopoda (which see). See RHIZOPODA.

sar·cog'li·a (sär·kŏg'lĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + -glia.] Anat. The granular protoplasmic substance marking the junction of motor nerve and muscle.

Sar'co·gyps (sär'kō·jĭps), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. gyps vulture.] Zool. A genus of Old World vultures having fleshy lappets on the head, hence called eared vultures. S. calvus is the Pondicherry vulture. Syn. Otogyps.

sar'coid (sär'koid), n. [See SARCODE.] Med. a A disorder characterized by formation of nodules and plaques in the skin which later regress, leaving atrophic scars; also, one of the nodules or plaques of this disorder. b A growth resembling a sarcoma.

sar'coid (sär'koid), adj. [Gr. sarkoeidēs. See SARCODE.] Biol. Resembling flesh, as the soft tissue of a sponge.

sar'co·lem'ma (sär'kō·lĕm'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. lemma rind, skin.] Anat. The very thin transparent homogeneous sheath enclosing a striated muscular fiber. — sar'co·lem'mic (-ĭk), sar'co·lem'mous (-ŭs), adj.

sar'co·line (sär'kō·lĭn), adj. [Gr. sarx, sarkos, flesh.] Mineral. Flesh-colored.

sar'co·lite (-lĭt) n. [sarco- + -lite.] Mineral. A silicate of calcium, sodium, and aluminum, $(Ca,Na_2)_4Al_3(SiO_4)_3$, in small flesh-colored tetragonal crystals.

sar·col'o·gy (sär·kŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [sarco- + -logy.] a That part of anatomy which treats of the soft parts. b The ancient theory that a part of the animal body taken into the human system nourishes a corresponding part. Cf. ORGANOTHERAPY. — sar'co·log'ic (sär'kō·lŏj'ĭk), sar'co·log'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. — sar·col'o·gist (sär·kŏl'ō·jĭst), n. All Rare.

sar·co'ma (sär·kō'mȧ), n.; pl. SARCOMATA (-kō'mȧ·tȧ), SARCOMAS (-kō'mȧz). [NL., fr. Gr. sarkōma, -atos, fr. sarx, sarkos, flesh.] 1. Med. Orig., a tumor of fleshy consistence; now, any malignant growth derived from nonepithelial tissue of mesodermal embryonic origin, as connective tissue, lymphoid tissue, cartilage, bone, etc.
2. Bot. A fleshy disk. Obs.

-sar·co'ma. [NL.] A combining form for sarcoma, n. The meanings of the following can be understood from the definitions of these elements:

adenosarcoma	fibrosarcoma	osteosarcoma
angiosarcoma	liposarcoma	rhabdomyosarcoma chondrosarcoma	myxosarcoma	sclerosarcoma cystosarcoma

sar·co'ma·toid (sär·kō'mȧ·toid), adj. [See SARCOMA; -OID.] Med. Resembling a sarcoma.

sar·co'ma·to'sis (sär·kō'mȧ·tō'sĭs), n. [NL. See SARCOMA; -OSIS.] Med. A morbid condition characterized by the presence and spread of a sarcoma.

sar·co'ma·tous (-kō'mȧ·tŭs; -kŏm'ȧ·tŭs), adj. Med. Of or pertaining to sarcoma; resembling sarcoma.

sar'co·mere (sär'kō·mēr), n. [sarco- + -mere.] Anat. A transverse segment of a sarcostyle.

Sar·coph'a·ga (sär·kŏf'ȧ·gȧ), n. pl. [NL., neut. pl. See SARCOPHAGUS.] A suborder of marsupials including the dasyures and the opossums. Owen.

Sar·coph'a·ga, n. [NL., fem. sing. See SARCOPHAGOUS.] Zool. The typical genus of flesh flies.

sar·coph'a·gal (-găl), adj. 1. Sarcophagous. Rare.
2. Pertaining to, or occurring on, sarcophagi.

sar'co·phag'ic (sär'kō·făj'ĭk), adj. Feeding on flesh; sarcophagous; flesh-eating.

Sar'co·phag'i·dae (sär'kō·făj'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. 2d Sarcophaga + -idae.] Zool. The family consisting of the flesh flies. — sar·coph'a·gid (sär·kŏf'ȧ·jĭd), n. & adj.

sar·coph'a·gize (sär·kŏf'ȧ·jīz), v. t. To put into a sarcophagus.

sar·coph'a·gous (sär·kŏf'ȧ·gŭs), adj. [Gr. sarkophagos.] 1. Zool. Feeding on flesh.
2. Like or suggestive of a sarcophagus.

sar·coph'a·gus (sär·kŏf'ȧ·gŭs), n.; pl. -GI (-jī), -GUSES (-gŭs·ēz; -Iz; 119). [L., fr. Gr. sarkophagos, prop., eating flesh, fr. sarx, sarkos, flesh + phagein to eat. Cf. SARCASM, SARCOMA.] 1. A limestone used among the Greeks for coffins, which disintegrated within a few weeks the flesh of bodies deposited in it; — called also lapis Assius, or Assian stone, and said to have been found at Assos, a city of Lycia.
2. A coffin or chest-shaped tomb of the kind of stone described above; hence, any stone coffin; also, any large coffin placed in the open air or in a tomb where it may be seen.
3. A gravestone shaped like a sarcophagus.
4. A kind of wine cooler, forming part of a sideboard, in use about the end of the 18th century.
5. An eater of human flesh. Obs.

sar·coph'a·gus, v. t. = SARCOPHAGIZE.

sar·coph'a·gy (sär·kŏf'ȧ·jĭ), n. [Gr. sarkophagia. See SARCOPHAGUS.] The practice of eating flesh. Rare.

sar·coph'i·lous (sär·kŏf'ĭ·lŭs), adj. [sarco- + -philous.] Fond of flesh.

Sar·coph'i·lus (-lŭs), n. [NL. See SARCOPHILOUS.] The genus consisting of the Tasmanian devil. — sar'co·phile (sär'kō·fīl; -fĭl), n.

sar'co·plasm (sär'kō·plăz'm), n. [sarco- + -plasm.] Anat. The hyaline semifluid substance between the fibrillae of striated muscular fibers. — sar'co·plas'mic (-plăz'mĭk), sar'co·plas·mat'ic (-plăz·măt'ĭk), adj.

sar'co·plas'ma (sär'kō·plăz'mȧ; -plăs'mȧ), n. [NL.] Anat. Sarcoplasm.

sar'co·plast (sär'kō·plăst), n. [sarco- + -plast.] Anat. a A rounded cell found between the fibrils of a muscle. b A cellular substance in developing muscles, regarded as forming the striations. — sar'co·plas'tic (-plăs'tĭk), adj.

Sar'cop·syl'la (sär'kŏp·sĭl'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. psylla flea.] Zool. Syn. of TUNGA, the genus containing the chigoe. It is the type of a family, Sar'cop·syl'li·dae (-ĭ·dē).

Sar·cop'tes (sär·kŏp'tēz), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. koptein to cut.] Zool. The genus consisting of the typical itch mites, the type of a family, Sar·cop'ti·dae (-tĭ·dē). — sar·cop'tid (-tĭd), n.

sar·cop'tic (-tĭk), adj. [See SARCOPTES.] Zool. & Med. Pertaining to, or caused by, itch mites.

Sar'co·rham'phus (sär'kō·răm'fŭs), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + Gr. rhamphos beak.] Zool. The genus consisting of the true condors.

sar'co·sine (sär'kō·sēn; -sĭn), n. Also -sin. Chem. A sweetish crystalline nitrogenous compound, $C_3H_7NO_2$, formed by the decomposition of creatine, and in other ways; N-methyl-glycine.

sar·co'sis (sär·kō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sarkōsis, fr. sarx, sarkos, flesh.] Now Rare. Med. a Abnormal formation of flesh. b Sarcomatosis.

sar'co·so'ma (sär'kō·sō'mȧ), sar'co·some (sär'kō·sōm), n. [NL. sarcosoma, fr. sarco- + Gr. sōma body.] Zool. The fleshy portion of an anthozoan, as distinguished from the skeleton.

Sar'co·spo·rid'i·a (-spō·rĭd'ĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See SARCO-; SPORE.] Zool. An order of elongate protozoans (Sporozoa) chiefly parasitic in the muscle fibers of mammals. It consists of the single genus Sarcocystis, individuals of which are commonly called Miescher's tubes or corpuscles of Miescher, and their spores are called Rainey's corpuscles or corpuscles of Rainey. — sar·cos'po·rid (sär·kŏs'pō·rĭd), n. — sar'co·spo·rid'i·al (sär'kō·spō·rĭd'ĭ·ăl), adj. — sar'co·spo·rid'i·an (-ăn), adj. & n.

sar'co·spo·rid'i·o'sis (-spō·rĭd'ĭ·ō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Sarcosporidia + -osis.] Veter. & Med. Infestation with sarcosporidians, or the resulting morbid condition.

sar'cos·to'sis (sär'kŏs·tō'sĭs), n. [NL. See SARCO-; OSTOSIS.] Med. Ossification of muscular tissue.

sar'co·style (sär'kō·stīl), n. [sarco- + Gr. stylos pillar.]
1. Anat. One of the fine longitudinal fibrillae running from end to end of a striated muscular fiber; a muscle column.
2. Zool. The dactylozooid of a cryptoblastic hydroid.

sar'co·the'ca (sär'kō·thē'kȧ), n. [NL. See SARCO-; -THECA.] Zool. The theca of a sacrostyle of a hydrozoan.

sar·cot'ic (sär·kŏt'ĭk), adj. [Gr. sarkōtikos.] Med. Producing, or promoting growth of, flesh. — n. A sarcotic medicine.

sar'cous (sär'kŭs), adj. [Gr. sarx, sarkos, flesh.] Anat. Pertaining to flesh or muscle.

sarcous elements. Anat. The dark segments of the sarcostyles of a striated muscle fiber.

Sar·cu'ra (sär·kū'rȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. sarc- + -ura.] Zool. A division (usually a suborder) of rays having a thick tail, two dorsal fins, and a caudal fin; the thick-tailed rays. It often includes the electric rays. Cf. MASTICURA.

sard (särd), n. [L. sarda, fr. Gr. sardion, or sardios (sc. lithos), i. e. Sardian stone, fr. Sardios Sardian, Sardeis Sardis, the capital of Lydia; cf. F. sarde. Cf. SARDIUS.] A deep orange-red variety of chalcedony, similar to, but darker than, carnelian, classed by some as a variety of carnelian.

Sard (särd), adj. & n. [It. Sardo.] = SARDINIAN.

sar'da·chate (sär'dȧ·kăt), n. [L. sardachates. See SARD; AGATE.] A variety of agate containing sard.

‖sar·da'na (sär·dä'nä), n. [Sp.] A Catalonian dance or its music.

Sar'da·na·pa'li·an (sär'dȧ·nȧ·pā'lĭ·ăn), adj. Of the luxurious, effeminate nature attributed to Sardanapalus.

Sar'da·na·pa'lus (sär'dȧ·nȧ·pā'lŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Sardanapalos.] The title and hero of a tragedy (1821) by Byron. He was a king of Assyria who (according to the classical myth, adopted by Byron) burned himself on a funeral pyre with his favorite concubine while the Medes were besieging his palace. He is the historical Ashurbanipal.

sar'del, sar'delle (sär'dĕl), n. [It. sardella, fr. L. sarda. See SARDINE a fish.] A sardine.

Sar'di·an (sär'dĭ·ăn), adj. [L. Sardianus, fr. Gr. Sardianos.] Of or pertaining to the ancient city of Sardis. — Sar'di·an, n.

Sardian nut. The American chestnut (Castanea dentata.) sar·dine' (sär·dēn'; sär'dēn; 277), n.; pl. SARDINES (-dēnz'; -dēnz), sometimes SARDINE. See PLURAL, Note. [F., fr. L. sardina, sarda, fr. Gr. sardēnē, sarda; prob. so called from the island of Sardinia, Gr. Sardō.] 1. The young of the pilchard (Sardina pilchardus) when of a size suitable for preserving in oil or tomatosauce for food; also, any of certain closely related and similar species. The true sardine occurs only in European waters, but others are found in America, as S. caerulea of the Pacific coast and S. anchoria of the West Indies.

European Sardine (Sardinia pilchardus). (½)

2. Any of various small or immature fishes resembling the true sardines or similarly preserved for food; as: a In the eastern United States, the young of the common herring or of the menhaden. b In North Carolina, an anchovy (Anchoviella epsetus).

☞ PHRASES are:

sardine box	sardine factory	sardine shears
sardine can	sardine fishery	sardine tongs sar'dine (sär'dĭn; -dēn), n. [LL. lapis sardinus, fr. Gr. sardinos lithos.] = 1st SARD.

Sa'raph (sā'rĭf; sär'-). Bib.
Sa·ra'sar (sȧ·rā'sär). D. Bib. sar'a·sin, sar'a·zin. Vars. of SARRAZIN. [Bib.] Sar'a·tha'sar (sär'ȧ·thā'sär). D.
Sa·ra'thi (sȧ·rā'thī). D. Bib.
Sar'a·to'gan for·ma'tion, se'ries (sär'ȧ·tō'găn), etc. = POTSDAM FORMATION.
Saravan, n. = BRICK RED.

sar'bi·can. Var. of SARBACANE. sar·cas'mus (sär·kăz'mŭs), adj. Sarcastic. Obs. [-PROOF.] sar'casm·proof' (66), adj. See SARCO. Dial. var. of SAUCE. sar'cel (sär'sĕl), n. [OF. cercel (F. cerceau), fr. L. circellus, dim. of circus circle.] Falconry. A pinion feather. Obs. sar'cine (sär'sĭn), n. Also -sin. [See SARKINE.] = HYPOXANTHINE. sar'co·col (sär'kō·kŏl). Var. of SARCOCOLLA b.
Sar'co·cys·tid'e·a (-sĭs·tĭd'ē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See SARCO-; -CYST.] Syn. of SARCOSPORIDIA. — sar'co·cyst (sär'kō·sĭst), n. — sar'co·cys·tid'e·an (-sĭs·tĭd'ē·ăn), sar'co·cys·tid'i·an (-ĭ·ăn), adj. & n.
Sar'co·cys'tis (-sĭs'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. sarco- + -cystis.] See SARCOSPORIDIA. — sar'co·cys'toid (-sĭs'toid), n. sar'co·dous (sär'kō·dŭs), adj. = SARCODIC. sar'co·lac'tic acid (sär'kō·lăk'tĭk). [sarco- + lactic.] Biochem. See LACTIC ACID. sar'co·phage, n. Sarcophagus. Obs.
sar·co·sep'tum (sär'kō·sĕp'tŭm), n.; pl. -SEPTA (-tȧ). [NL., fr. sarco- + septum.] Zool. = MESENTERY, 2. sar'co·sperm, n. [sarco- + -sperm.] Bot. = SARCODERM a.
Sar'co·spori·da (sär'kō·spŏr'ĭ·dȧ), n. pl. [NL.] = SARCOSPORIDIA. sar'cos·to'sis, n. [NL.] Ossification of flesh. Obs.
sar·co·ther'a·peu'tics (-thĕr'ȧ·pū'tĭks), n. = ORGANOTHERAPY sar'co·ther'a·py (-thĕr'ȧ·pĭ), n. [sarco- + -therapy.] = ORGANOTHERAPY. sar·cot'i·cal, adj. Sarcotic. Obs. sar'dar. Var. of SIRDAR.
Sar·de'us (sär·dē'ŭs). Bib. sar'din. Sardine. Ref. Sp. sar·dine' oil. See OIL, Table II.

Sar·din'i·an (sär·dĭn'ĭ·ăn; 159), adj. [L. Sardinianus.] 1. Of or pertaining to the island, kingdom, or people of Sardinia. The kingdom, including part of Italy, originated in 1720. From it was formed the present Italian kingdom, from about 1850 to 1871. See Italian War, under WAR. 2. [L. Sardonia herba Sardinian herb, said to distort the face of the eater, fr. Sardonius Sardinian, fr. Gr. Sardonios; confused with Gr. sardanios sardonic.] Obs. a Sardonic; scornful. b Of a certain plant, native of Sardinia. Cf. SARDONIC.

Sar·din'i·an, n. A native or inhabitant of Sardinia.

sar'di·us (sär'dĭ·ŭs), n. [LL. sardius, lapis sardius, fr. Gr. sardios lithos. See SARD.] 1. A sard. 2. A precious stone in the Hebrew high priest's breastplate, which may have been a ruby or a sard. Ex. xxviii. 17.

sar·don'ic (sär·dŏn'ĭk), adj. [F. sardonique, fr. L. sardonius, fr. Gr. sardonios, sardanios, of obscure origin. Cf. SARDINIAN, 2.] Expressive of, or characterized by, bitter and heartless scornfulness or mockery; disdainfully or sneeringly derisive; as, a sardonic smile or expression; sardonic humor.

Syn. — See SARCASTIC.

sar·don'ic (sär·dŏn'ĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or like, a kind of linen made at Colchis.

sar·don'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv. of SARDONIC, SARDONICAL.

sardonic grin or laugh. Old Med. A spasmodic affection of the muscles of the face, giving it an appearance of laughter.

sar·don'i·cism (sär·dŏn'ĭ·sĭz'm), n. Sardonic attitude or humor.

sar'do·nyx (sär'dō·nĭks), n. [L., fr. Gr. sardonyx. See SARD; ONYX.] 1. A kind of onyx marked by parallel layers of sard and of mineral of another color. 2. Her. Sanguine, in blazoning by the precious stones.

sar·gas'so (sär·găs'ō), n. [Pg. sargasso, sargaço, fr. sarga, sargo, a kind of grape.] a Also sargasso weed. A seaweed of the genus Sargassum; a gulfweed. b A mass of floating vegetation consisting chiefly of these algae.

Sargasso Sea. The large tract of comparatively still water in the North Atlantic Ocean; — so named from the floating seaweed there. It may be considered to lie between the parallels 20°–35° N. and the meridians 30°–70° W.

Sar·gas'sum (sär·găs'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Pg. sargasso. See SARGASSO.] Bot. a A genus of seaweeds (family Fucaceae), the gulfweeds, distinguished by the branching thallus with lateral outgrowths differentiated as leafy segments, as air bladders, or as spore-bearing structures, in S. bacciferum resembling berries. The genus is widely distributed in the warmer parts of the Atlantic, esp. in the Sargasso Sea. b [not cap.] Any plant of this genus. See GULFWEED, Illust.

sargassum, or sargasso, crab. A small crab (Planes minutus) large numbers of which live on floating algae of the genus Sargassum, and imitate their colors.

sargassum fish. Any of several small, fantastically formed and colored tropical pediculate fishes of the genus Histrio (syn. Pterophryne) which float about in the open ocean with the masses of sargassum. The common species of the Atlantic (H. pictus, syn. tumida) has long been supposed to construct globular nests out of the seaweed, which are now known to be the work of certain flying fishes. A second species (H. gibba) occurs in the West Indies, and a third (H. jagua) about the Bermudas. Two species (H. histrio and H. ranina) are found about the East Indies and in the Pacific Ocean.

Sargassum Fish (Histrio histrio).

sargassum pipefish. A large pipefish Syngnathus pelagicus) that lives among gulfweed.

sargassum shell. Any of several pelagic snails, belonging to the genus Litiopa of the suborder Taenioglossa, which float about with the sargassum seaweed. They have a small conical shell with a truncated columella, smooth aperture, and horny operculum.

sar'go (sär'gō), n.; pl. -GOS (-gōz). [Sp., fr. L. sargus a kind of fish, fr. Gr. sargos.] Any of several species of fishes belonging to Diplodus and related genera (family Sparidae); specif., D. sargus and D. annularis of the Mediterranean, and D. argenteus of the West Indies, Florida, etc., large silvery fishes related to the sheepshead.

Sar'gon·id (sär'gŏn·ĭd), n. In Assyrian history, a member of a powerful dynasty, founded by Sargon II (722–705 B.C.). It included Sennacherib, Esarhaddon, and Ashurbanipal, and lasted until the fall of the kingdom in 607 B.C. — Sar·gon'ic (sär·gŏn'ĭk), Sar'gon·ide (sär'gŏn·īd), adj.

sar'gus (sär'gŭs), n. [L. See SARGO.] The sea bream.

sa'rī (sä'rē), n. [Hind. sarhā, sarī, fr. Skr. śāṭī.] The principal garment of a Hindu woman, a long cloth wrapped round the waist to cover the legs. It is draped full in front and then wound over the bosom, the left shoulder, and sometimes also the head.

sa·rigue' (sȧ·rēg'), n. [F., fr. Pg. sariguê, sariguéia, fr. Tupi sariguê, sariqueya.] The quica.

Sa'ri·gué' (sä'rē·gā'). See PAYAGUA.

sa'rin·da' (sä'rĭn·dä'), n. [Hind. sārindā.] An Indian stringed instrument, played with a bow; a kind of viol, similar to a sarangi.

sa'rip (sä'rēp), n. A Moro high priest. Phil. I.

Sa·ri'ra (shȧ·rē'rȧ). Var. of SHARIRA. sark (särk), n. [AS. serc, serce; akin to ON. serkr, Sw. särk.] A shirt; a body garment for either sex. Archaic & Dial.

sark (särk), v. t. Carp. To cover with sarking. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

sark'ful (särk'fŏŏl), n. A quantity filling, or sufficient to fill, one's shirt; — esp. in the phrase a sarkful of sore bones, that is, a body sore throughout from labor, exertion, or beating. Scot.

sark'i·cal (sär'kĭ·kăl), adj. [Gr. sarkikos. See SARCOUS.] Fleshly; bodily. Rare.

sark'ing (dial. sär'kĭn), n. [From SARK shirt.] 1. Linen shirting. Scot. 2. Carp. Thin boards for sheathing, as under shingles or slates, etc. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

sar'ki·nite (sär'kĭ·nīt), n. [Gr. sarkinos like flesh + -ite; with ref. to the color and luster.] Mineral. A hydrous manganese arsenate, $(MnOH)MnAsO_4$ occurring in fleshred, greasy, monoclinic crystals. H., 4–5. Sp. gr., 4.2.

sark'it (sär'kĭt), adj. Provided with a shirt. Scot.

sark'less (särk'lĕs; -lĭs), adj. Shirtless. Scot. & N. of Eng.

sar'lak (sär'lăk), sar'lyk (-lĭk), n. [Mongolian sarlyk.] The yak.

Sar·ma'tian (sär·mā'shăn), adj. [L. Sarmaticus.] 1. Of or pertaining to Sarmatia, anciently the region north of the Black Sea, or its inhabitants, who were probably the ancestors of the Slavs. Chief among the peoples loosely called Sarmatians were the Alans, Jazyges, and Roxolani. Sarmatia has been used poetically for Poland. 2. Geol. Pertaining to or designating the upper stage of the Miocene in the Vienna basin, which differs from the lower, or Mediterranean subregion, in the less pronounced marine character of its fossil fauna.

Sar·ma'tian (sär·mā'shăn), n. 1. a One of the inhabitants of ancient Sarmatia. b The language of the Sarmatians, akin to Scythian. 2. Geol. The Sarmatian stage of the Miocene in the Vienna basin.

Sar·mat'ic (sär·măt'ĭk), adj. Sarmatian.

sar'ma·tier' (sär'mȧ·tēr'), n. [G.] A small spotted brown-and-white polecat (Vormela peregusna, syn. sarmaticus) of south-eastern Europe and Asia.

sar'ment (sär'mĕnt), n. [OF., fr. L. sarmentum a twig.] Obs. Bot. a A cutting or cion. b = SARMENTUM.

sar'men·ta'ceous (sär'mĕn·tā'shŭs), adj. Bot. Sarmentose.

sar'men·tif'er·ous (-tĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. Bot. Sarmentose.

sar·men'tose (sär·mĕn'tōs), adj. [L. sarmentosus. See SARMENTUM.] Bot. Producing slender prostrate branches or runners; of the nature of, or resembling, a sarmentum.

sar·men'tous (sär·mĕn'tŭs), adj. Bot. Sarmentose.

sar·men'tum (sär·mĕn'tŭm), n.; pl. -TA (-tȧ). [L., a twig, fr. sarpere to cut off, to trim.] Bot. A runner; a slender, prostrate, running stem.

sar'na (sär'nȧ), n. Among the Kols of India, a sacred grove.

sa·rod' (sȧ·rōd'), n. [Hind., fr. Per. si three + rōd string.] A stringed instrument of northern India, played with a bow; a kind of rebec.

sa'ron (sä'rŏn), n. [Malay.] A xylophone of seven bronze plates used in the Javanese gamelang.

sa·rong' (sȧ·rŏng'), n. [Malay saroṅ.] a The chief article of dress worn by both sexes in the Malay Archipelago, Ceylon, and some parts of India. It is a long strip of cloth, usually of cotton or silk, sewed together at the ends and worn as a petticoat, tucked round the waist. b Cloth for such garments; esp., a printed cotton imported from Europe.

sa·ron'ic (sȧ·rŏn'ĭk), adj. Astron. Of, pertaining to, or designating, a saros.

sa·ro'nide (sȧ·rō'nĭd), n. [Cf. Gr. sarōnis an old hollow oak.] One of a class of Gaulish druids.

sa'ros (sā'rŏs), n. [Gr., fr. Assyr.-Bab. shāru.] 1. Sixty sixties (3,600); — a Babylonian numeral used of a cycle of years and of a cycle of days. 2. Astron. A Babylonian lunar cycle of 6,585.32 days (18 years, 11½ days = 223 lunations), at the end of which the centers of sun and moon return so nearly to their relative position at the beginning that all the eclipses of the period (about 29 lunar, and 41 solar, 10 of the latter being total) recur approximately as before, but in longitudes approximately 120° W. of the regions where they were visible in the saros immediately preceding.

Sa·ro'thra (sȧ·rō'thrȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sarōtron a broom.] Bot. A genus of annual North American herbs of the St.-John's-wort family (Hypericaceae), having as the only known species S. gentianoides, the orange grass, a leafless weedy plant with tiny yellow flowers.

sa·ro'thrum (sȧ·rō'thrŭm), n. [NL., fr. Sarotrum, fr. Gr. sarōtron broom.] Zool. The pollen brush of a bee.

Sar'pa·ni'tu (sär'pä·nē'tōō), n. [Assyr.-Bab. sarpānītu, lit., the bright one.] Babylon. Relig. The consort of Marduk; — called also Zirbanit.

sarpe (särp), n. An ornamental metal torque or girdle. Obs.

sarpe, n. [OF. (F. serpe).] A pruning hook. Obs.

Sar·pe'don (sär·pē'dŏn), n. [L., fr. Gr. Sarpēdōn.] Gr. Myth. a A son of Zeus and Europa, who became king of the Lycians and to whom Zeus granted the privilege of living three generations. b A valiant Lycian prince son of Zeus and Laodamia, or of Evander and Deidamia, and grandson of the preceding. He was an ally of the Trojans, slain by Patroclus. Zeus sent Apollo to cleanse and anoint his body, which Sleep and Death then carried to Lycia. It is probable that the distinction between two Sarpedons was invented by mythologists to reconcile contradictions which had grown up about a single person.

sar'pler (sär'plĕr), n. [OF. sarpilliere (F. serpillière).] 1. A bale of wool, varying in weight at different periods, now usually estimated as containing 80 tod of two stone each, or 2,240 lb. 2. A coarse cloth of hemp, used for packing goods, etc. Obs. 3. A large bag in which hops are carried.

Sar'ra·ce'ni·a (sär'ȧ·sē'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after D. Sarrazin of Quebec.] Bot. a A genus of American bog herbs, the pitcher plants, typifying the Sarraceniaceae. They have pitcher-shaped or tubular leaves with an arched or hooded flap at the apex, and solitary flowers with an umbrella-shaped style. S. purpurea is the common pitcher plant of North America; S. flava, S. drummondii, and S. variolaris are southern species. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

Sarracenia (S. purpurea). Flower and two pitcherlike Leaves.

Sar·ra·ce'ni·a·ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SARRACENIA.] Bot. A family of insectivorous plants (order Sarraceniales); the American pitcher-plant family. They have basal, pitcher-shaped leaves, the inner margin with a thin, winglike lamina, the apex with a hood or other appendage.

The pentamerous flowers are large and conspicuous. There are three genera, Sarracenia, Chrysamphora, and Heliamphora. — sar'ra·ce'ni·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

sar'ra·ce'ni·al (sär'ȧ·sē'nĭ·ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to the order Sarraceniales.

Sar'ra·ce'ni·a'les (-ā'lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of dicotyledonous plants consisting of three families, Sarraceniaceae, Nepenthaceae, and Droseraceae, all having leaves modified to serve as insect traps.

sar'ra·zin (sär'ȧ·zĭn), n. [F. (blé) sarrasin Saracen (wheat). See SARACEN.] Buckwheat.

sar·rus'o·phone (sȧ·rŭs'ō·fōn), n. [After Sarrus, bandmaster of Paris + -phone.] Music. A metal instrument with a double reed and a tube of wide conical bore, played like the bassoon and sometimes used in place of it or a double bassoon. — sar·rus'o·phon'ist (-fŏn'ĭst), n.

Sarrusophone.

sar'sa (sär'sȧ), n. Sarsaparilla.

sar'sa·pa·ril'la (sär'sȧ·pȧ·rĭl'ȧ), n. [Sp. zarzaparrilla, fr. zarza bush + parrilla, dim. of parra vine.] 1. a Any of various Mexican, Central American, or South American species of Smilax, as S. officinalis, S. papyracea, and S. medica. b Pharm. The dried cordlike roots of any of these, used, in the form of a decoction, infusion, fluid extract, or sirup, as a mild tonic and alterative. c A carbonated beverage consisting essentially of water, sugar, and sarsaparilla flavor. 2. a Rare. Any plant of the family Smilacaceae. b With attributive or qualifying adjective, any of various other plants resembling, or used as a substitute for, sarsaparilla; as, Indian sarsaparilla, wild sarsaparilla, etc.

Sar'sar (sär'sär), n. [Ar. ṣaṣar cold and whistling.] In Moslem countries, a whistling, violently cold, deadly wind. Beckford, in Vathek, spells it Sansar.

sar'sen (sär'sĕn; -s'n), n. [For Saracen stone, i. e., a heathen or pagan stone or monument.] A large, loose, residual mass of stone left after the erosion of a once continuous bed or layer; specif., one of the large sandstone blocks scattered over the English chalk downs; — called also sarsen stone and druid stone.

sarse'net, sarce'net (särs'nĕt; -nĭt), n. See SARCENET.

Sar'si (sär'sē), n. An Indian of an Athapascan tribe of the Montagnard group, formerly living near the Rocky Mountains, but now mostly on a reservation near Calgary, Alberta. See MONTAGNARD, 2.

Sart (särt), n. sing. & pl. The town dwellers and traders of native race in Turkestan and part of Persia and Afghanistan. They belong to the Iranian Turks and are Sunnite Mohammedans. — Sart'ish (sär'tĭsh), adj.

sart (särt), n. & v. [OF.] = ASSART. Rare.

sart. Var. of SOFT. Dial. Eng.

sar'tor (sär'tŏr), n. [LL.] A tailor or mender of garments. Chiefly Humorous.

sar·to'ri·ad (sär·tō'rĭ·ăd; 181), n. [sartor + 2d -ad c.] An epic of a tailor.

sar·to'ri·al (sär·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. [See SARTORIUS.] 1. Of or pertaining to a tailor or his work; also, of men's clothes; as, a fine sartorial effect. 2. Anat. Of or pertaining to the sartorius muscle. — sar·to'ri·al·ly, adv.

sar·to'ri·an (-ăn), adj. Sartorial. Rare.

sar'to·rite (sär'tō·rīt), n. [After Sartorius von Waltershausen.] Mineral. A dark, lead-gray, crystalline compound of lead, arsenic, and sulphur, $PbAs_2S_4$.

sar·to'ri·us (sär·tō'rĭ·ŭs; 181), n. [NL., fr. LL. sartor a patcher, tailor, fr. sarcire, sartum, to patch, mend. See EXORCISE.] Anat. A muscle arising from the anterior end of the iliac crest, and crossing the front of the thigh obliquely, to be inserted into the upper part of the inner surface of the tibia. It is the longest muscle in man, and noticeably assists in rotating the leg to the position assumed in sitting like a tailor. See MAN, Illust., 1A, 85.

Sar'tor Re·sar'tus (sär'tŏr rē·sär'tŭs). [LL.] The title of a book by Thomas Carlyle. It is a whimsical examination of life under the guise of a philosophy of clothes. See TEUFELSDRÖCKH, HERR.

sa'ru·ga'ku (sä'rōō·ngä'kōō), n. [Jap.] A secular music and dancing, developed out of the san-gaku about the 16th century, esp. among the samurai classes. It was replaced by the no, which see. Japan.

Sa·ruk', Sa·rouk' (sȧ·rōōk'), n. [From Per. Sārūq, village near Hamadan, Persia.] A Persian carpet of fine, compact weave, mellow colors, and fluid, often medallion, designs, akin to Kashan, but of slightly harder wool. The semi-antiques are among the finest products of Persia, but the more recent modern Saruks are of inferior quality.

Sar'um use (sär'ŭm). The liturgical use, or the order of divine service, of Sarum (diocese of Salisbury) in the late medieval period. Hence Sarum missal, Sarum office, Sarum rubric.

sa'rus (sä'rŭs; sā'-), n. [Hind. sāras.] Either of two cranes (Antigone antigone and A. sharpii) of the Indian and Malay region.

Sar·var'tha·sid·dha (sŭr·vär'tȧ·sĭd·dȧ), n. = SIDDHARTHA.

Sar'ven hub (sär'vĕn). A wooden hub with openings to receive the inner ends of the spokes. Cf. ARTILLERY HUB.

sar·wan' (sär·wän'), n. [Per. sārwān, fr. sār camel + wān keeper, man.] A camel driver. Anglo-Ind.

sa' sa' (sä' sä'). Here it is! — a challenging or spurring cry, formerly used by fencers accompanying the thrust.

sa'san (sä'sȧn; shä'-), n. [Hind. sāsan, śāsan, fr. Skr. śasana.] A grant of land, varying in extent, conferred by the state or a village community upon a Brahman. India.

sa'sa·ni (sä'sȧ·nē; shä'-), n. That class of Brahmans beneficed by grants of sasans.

sa·san'qua, sas·san'qua (sȧ·săng'kwȧ), n. [Jap. sasankwa.] A shrub (Camellia sasanqua) of China and Japan, often cultivated for its fragrant evergreen leaves and white or red flowers. Its seeds yield tea-seed oil.

sash (săsh), n.; pl. SASHES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119) or, collectively, SASH. [Appar. fr. pl. sashes, shashes, shasses, fr. F. sing. châssis a frame, sash. See CHASSIS.] 1. a The framing in which panes of glass are set in a glazed window or door, insar·dine'wise', adv. See -WISE.

---

Sar'dites (sär'dīts). Bib.
Sar'do·in, adj. [L. sardonius. See SARDONIC.] = SARDINIAN, adj., 2 b. sar·do'ni·an, adj. [F. sardonien.] Sardonic. Obs. [DONIC.] sar·don'i·cal, adj. = 1st SARsar'do·nix. Sardonyx. Ref. Sp.
sare (sär; sār). Dial. var. of SORE.
Sa·re'a (sȧ·rē'ȧ). Bib.
Sa·re'as (-ăs). D. Bib.
Sar'e·bi'a (sär'ĕ·bī'ȧ). D. Bib.
Sar'e·bi'as (-ăs). D. Bib.
Sar'e·da (sär'ĕ·dȧ). D. Bib.
Sa·red'a·tha (sȧ·rĕd'ȧ·thȧ). D. Bib. sa'rees (sä'rē). Var. of SARI. sarell. † SERAIL.
Sa·rep'ta (sȧ·rĕp'tȧ). Bib.
sarge. † SERGE.
Sar'gent palm (sär'jĕnt). = HOG PALMETTO. [Obs.] sar'gon (sär'gŏn), n. Sargo.
Sa·ri'a (sȧ·rī'ȧ). D. Bib.
Sa·ri' Bair' (sä·rē' bīr'). See Dardanelles, under BATTLE, Table.
Sa'rid (sā'rĭd; sär'ĭd). Bib.
sa·rif' (shȧ·rēf'). = SHERIF.
Sa'ri·on (sā'rĭ·ŏn). Bib. sa·rish'ta·dar' (shȧ·rĭsh'tȧ·där'). Var. of SHERISTADAR. [CAR.]
sar·kar' (sär·kär'). Var. of SIR-sar'kine (sär'kĭn; -kīn), n. Also -kin. [Gr. sarx, sarkos, flesh.] = HYPOXANTHINE. sar·men'ta (sär·mĕn'tȧ), n., pl. of SARMENTUM. [of SERMON.]
sar'mon (sär'mŭn). Dial. var.
Sa·ro'hen (sȧ·rō'hĕn). D. Bib.
Sa'ro·nite (sā'rō·nīt). D. Bib.
Sa·ro·tham'nus (sā'rō·thăm'·nŭs; sär'ō-). n. [NL., fr. Gr. saros a brush + thamnos a shrub.] Syn. of CYTISUS.
Sa·ro'thi·a (sȧ·rō'thĭ·ē). Bib.
Sa·rouk'. Var. of SARUK. sar'po (sär'pō), n. Corrupt. of SAPO, a toadfish. sar'ra (sär'ȧ). Dial. Eng. var. of SERVE, SORROW. sar·raf' (shȧ·rŭf'). Var. of SHROFF. sarre. † SORE.
sar'row (sär'ȧ). Dial. Eng. var. of SERVE, SORROW.
Sar·sa'chim (sär·sā'kĭm). D. Bib. sar'sa·pa·ril'lin (sär'sȧ·pȧ·rĭl'ĭn), n. = PARILLIN. sarse (säs). Dial. var. of SAUCE.
Sar'se·chim (sär'sē·kĭm; sär·sē'kĭm). Bib.
Sar'see. Var. of SARSI. sar'sge (sär'tĭj), n. [OF.] See 2d SART; -AGE. Rare. sar'tain (sär'tĭn; -tīn). Dial. var. of CERTAIN.
Sar'tha·na (sär'thȧ·nȧ). D. Bib.
Sa·ru'a (sȧ·rōō'ȧ). D. Bib.
Sa'ruch (sā'rŭk; sär'ŭk). Bib. sar'vant (sär'vănt), sarve (särv). Dial. vars. of SERVANT, SERVE.
Sar·vi'a (sär·vī'ȧ). D. Bib. sarv'ice (sär'vĭs). Dial. var. of SERVICE. sa'ry (sā'rĭ). Dial. var. of SORRY. sar'ra. Var. of SARSA.
Sar'ran. Var. of SARACEN.
Sas'ak. Var. of SASSAK.
Sa·sa'ni·an, Sas'a·nid. Vars. of SASSANIAN, SASSANID. sas'a·ra'ra (sĭs'ȧ·rā'rȧ). † SISERARA.

---

cluding the narrow bars between panes; hence, loosely, the movable part of a window; as, he raised the sash an inch to let the fly out. b = CASEMENT, n., 1 b.
2. A sawmill gate.
3. Hort. A glazed frame or window for covering a hotbed or cold frame.

sash (săsh), v. t.; SASHED (săsht); SASH'ING. To furnish with a sash or sashes; as, to sash a door or a window.

sash (săsh), n.; pl. SASHES (săsh'ĕz; -Iz; 119). [Ar. shāsh.]
1. In Oriental countries, and formerly in England, a long band of fine material, as silk, worn as a turban.
2. A scarf or band worn about the waist or over the shoulder; a belt; a girdle, — worn by women and children as an ornament; also worn as a badge of distinction by military officers, members of societies, etc.

sash, v. t. To adorn with a sash or scarf.

sa·shay' (să·shā'), v. i.; past tense & past part. SA·SHAYED' (-shād'). [Corrupt. fr. chassé.] In dancing, to perform a chassé; hence, Slang, to step mincingly or skip lightly; to move or go. U. S.

sash bar. = BAR, n., 13.

sash cord or line. The cord, chain, etc., by which the sliding sash of a window is attached to its balance weights.

sash curtain. A curtain of muslin, net, or the like, closely covering the lower sash of a window, and run, usually, on rods fastened to the upper and lower pieces.

sash'er·y (săsh'ĕr·I), n.; pl. -IES (-Iz). [From 3d SASH.] Array of sashes worn as part of official costume. Rare.

sash fast. A fastening for two sashes, esp. of a window, at their meeting rails.

sash holder. = SASH FAST.

sash house. Hort. A simple greenhouse made of sash and designed for starting young plants.

sash line. a A rope used in erecting telegraph poles. b See SASH CORD.

sash lock. = SASH FAST.

sash maker. See MAKER. — sash making.

sash·oon' (săsh·oōn'), n. A pad worn on the leg under the boot. Obs.

sash plane. A carpenter's plane having a notched cutter suited for trimming the inside of door frames and sash frames.

sash pocket. The hollow in a pulley stile for the weights; also, a removable section of the stile to give access to the weights and sash lines.

sash saw. A strip of steel, toothed on one edge, that is stretched in a sash or frame, — used for sawing in small water-power mills.

sash ventilation. See VENTILATION.

sash weight. An iron bar or cylinder attached to a window sash as a counterweight to balance it when raised.

sa'sin (sä'sĭn), n. [Said to be Nepali.] The black buck, or Indian antelope. See BLACK BUCK.

sa'sine (sā'sĭn; -sīn), n. [Var. of SEIZIN.] Scots Law. Seizin or possession of feudal property, or the formality by which it is acquired by the tenant; also, the instrument or deed by which the transfer is proved. Formerly it was acquired by a formal livery of seizin, now by registering the instrument or deed in the Register of Sasines.

sas'ka·toon' (săs'kȧ·tōōn'), n. [Cree misāskwatomin, lit., berry of the tree with much wood.] A shadbush (Amelanchier alnifolia) of the northern United States and adjacent Canada, with white flowers and purple, sweet fruit; also, possibly, related species of Amelanchier.

sas'sa·by (săs'ȧ·bĭ), n.; pl. -BIES (-bĭz). [Sechuana tsèsàbà.] A large South African antelope (Damaliscus lunatus), similar to the hartebeest, but having its horns regularly curved without angulation. It is dark purplish red, with the back and face nearly black.

sas'sa·fras (săs'ȧ·frăs), n. [Sp. sasafrás, appar. from confusion with Sp. saxafrax, saxifraga, saxifrage. See SAXIFRAGE.] 1. Bot. a [cap.] A genus of aromatic trees of the laurel family (Lauraceae), with soft yellow wood, ovate entire or 1–3-lobed leaves, and dioecious yellow flowers in umbellike racemes; the perianth is 6-lobed, and there are nine stamens in three rows. It contains the sassafras tree S. variifolium, of North America, and S. Tzumu, a Chinese species. b The American tree of this genus.

Sassafras (S. variifolium) Leaves and Fruits.

2. Pharm. The dried bark of the root of Sassafras variifolium, used as a diaphoretic, a flavoring agent, and aromatic bitters. It yields an aromatic volatile oil used in perfumes.
3. In Australia, any of several trees, as the plume nutmeg or the satinwood Daphnandra micrantha (family Monimiaceae); also, their bark, used for flavoring.

sassafras laurel. The California laurel.

sassafras medulla. = SASSAFRAS PITH.

sassafras nut. = PICHURIM.

sassafras oil. See OIL, Table I.

sassafras pith. Pharm. The dried pith of the tree Sassafras variifolium, used in making a mucilage which is added to eye lotions for its emollient properties.

sas'sa gum (săs'ȧ). [Amharic sassa thin, fine.] A reddish gum similar to tragacanth, yielded by an African tree (Albizzia fastigiata).

Sas'sak (săs'ăk), n. One of the aboriginal population of Lombok, Moslem Malays of Javanese affinity, who until 1894 were under Hindu-Balinese rule; also, their language. See AUSTRONESIAN LANGUAGES, Table.

Sas·sa'ni·an (să·sā'nĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of or pertaining to the Sassanidae. — n. One of the Sassanidae.

Sas·san'i·dae (să·săn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [From Sassan, whose grandson Ardashir became king.] A dynasty of Persian kings, successors of the Arsacids, of whom the first was Ardashir I, A.D. 226 or 227–241, and the last, Yazdegerd III, overthrown by the Arabs in 641. Its rule was as a whole vigorous and beneficial; under it the Zoroastrian religion was restored to its ancient purity. — Sas'sa·nid, Sas'sa·nide (săs'ȧ·nĭd), n. & adj.

sasse (săs), n. [D. sas, or F. sas.] A sluice or lock, as in a river, to make it more navigable. Obs.

Sas'se·nach (săs'ĕ·năk), n. [Ir. sasanach.] A Saxon; an Englishman; a Scottish Lowlander; — used chiefly by people of Celtic race.

sas'so·lite (săs'ō·lĭt), n. Also sas'so·lin (-lĭn), sas'so·line. [From Sasso, Italy.] Mineral. Native boric acid, $B(OH)_3$, usually occurring in small pearly scales as an incrustation.

sas'sy (săs'ĭ), sas'sy·wood' (-wōōd'), n. [W. Afr. sassy, said to be fr. E. SAUCY.] A West African tree (Erythrophleoum guineënse), family Caesalpiniaceae, with poisonous wood and bark (sassy·bark) used as an ordeal poison. See ORDEAL BARK.

sass'y (săs'ĭ; săs'-). Dial. var. of SAUCY. U. S.

sassy cat. Angling. An artificial fly with yellow wings with scarlet cheeks, peacock-herl body, yellow hackle, gold tag, and scarlet tail.

Sas'te·an (săs'tē·ăn), adj. Designating a group of Indian tribes of northern California and Oregon, formerly supposed to constitute a distinct linguistic family, but now usually classified as Shastan. See SHASTAN.

‖sas·tru'gi (săs·trōō'gĭ), n. pl.; sing. -GA (-gȧ). Also zas·tru'gi (zăs-). [Russ.] Wavelike ridges of hard snow formed on a level surface by the action of the wind, and with axes at right angles to the wind; — a formation often observed by arctic and antarctic explorers. The ridges frequently terminate in a perpendicular wall with overhanging crest, and have a long even slope to windward.

Sa'tan (sā'tăn; -t'n; formerly also sāt'ăn), n. [Heb. ṣāṭān adversary; cf. Gr. Satan, Satanas, LL. Satan, Satanas.]
1. The great adversary of man, in Christian theology; the Devil, or Prince of Darkness; the archfiend. This is the name by which the Devil is commonly called in the Bible, in poetry, and in popular legends. According to the Talmud, he was once an archangel, but was cast out of heaven with his followers for disobedience and pride. Milton follows this tradition in Paradise Lost.
2. [often not cap.] One monstrously wicked or vicious; a fiend; also, formerly, a devil.
I shall see men and women, and know the signs by which they may be discerned from fools and satans. Emerson.

Sat'a·nas (săt'ȧ·năs), n. [LL.] Satan.

sa·tang' (sȧ·tăng'), n. sing. & pl. [Siamese satăn.] See COIN, Table.

sa·tan'ic (sā·tăn'ĭk), adj. Also sa·tan'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl). [Cf. F. satanique, Gr. Satanikos.] Of or pertaining to Satan; having the qualities of Satan; extremely malicious or wicked; devilish; infernal. "Satanic strength." "Satanic host." Milton.
— sa·tan'i·cal·ly, adv. — sa·tan'i·cal·ness, n.

satanic school, the. A class of writers, including, in England, Byron and Shelley and their followers; — so called first by Southey in the preface to his Vision of Judgment, as being in his opinion "especially characterized by a satanic spirit of pride and audacious impiety."

Sa'tan·ism (sā'tăn·Iz'm; 91), n. Worship of Satan; diabolism; specif., a cult, real or fictitious, which travesties Christian rites, esp. in the so-called Black Mass, both as a defiance to Christianity and as an incantation of black magic.

sa'tan·ist (-Ĭst), n. 1. One regarded as a follower of Satan; a very wicked person. Rare.
2. [cap.] Eccl. Hist. A Euchite; — so called as holding that sin is caused by an indwelling demon.
3. [cap.] A worshiper of Satan; one devoted to Satanism or its practices.

Sa·tan'i·ty (sȧ·tăn'ĭ·tĭ), n. [See -ITY.] Satanic action or disposition. Rare.

sa'tan·ize (sā'tăn·Iz; sā't'n-), v. t. To turn to the service or likeness of Satan; to possess with a devil.

sat'an mon'key (săt'ăn). A small, black, bearded South American monkey (Pithecia satanas).

Satano-. A combining form for Satan, as in Sa'tan·ol'·o·gy, Sa'tan·oph'a·ny, Sa'tan·o·pho'bi·a. See -LOGY, -PHANY, -PHOBIA.

Sa'tan·o·phil' (sā'tăn·ō·fĭl'), n. [Satano- + -phil.] One who exalts Satan.

Sa'tan·ship (sā'tăn·shĭp; 91), n. The quality of being Satan.

Sa'tan's mush'room' (sā'tănz; -t'nz). The pore fungus Boletus satanus.

sat'a·ra (săt'ȧ·rȧ; sȧ·tä'rȧ), n. [From Satara, India.] A ribbed woolen cloth, highly dressed, and lustered.

satch'el (săch'ĕl), n. [ME. sachel, fr. OF. sachel, fr. L. saccellus, dim. of saccus. See SACK a bag.] A small bag, now usually of leather, carried either by hand or slung from the shoulder, for holding a traveler's necessaries, a schoolboy's books, or the like; a valise.

satch'el, v. t. Rare. 1. To kill or capture (game).
2. To make fast like one's satchel.

satch'eled (săch'ĕld), adj. Having or carrying a satchel.

sate (sāt), v. t.; SAT'ED (sāt'ĕd; -Id; 119); SAT'ING (sāt'ĭng). [Prob. shortened fr. satiate. See SATIATE.] 1. To satisfy or gratify to the full, as a desire or appetite or one feeling desire.
2. To gratify to the point of weariness or loathing; to glut or satiate. "Sated with the business and pleasure of great cities." Macaulay.
3. = SATURATE. Obs.
Syn. — See SATIATE.

sate (sāt; săt). Archaic past tense & past part. of SIT.

sa·teen' (sȧ·tēn'), n. [From SATIN.] A cotton fabric with a glossy surface resembling satin, used for dresses, linings, and corsets.

sa·teen'wood' (-wōōd'), n. [sateen + wood.] A yellow, satiny wood derived from an Amazonian tree (Euxylophora paraensis), family Rutaceae, widely used in Pará for parquetry, and usually alternated with the dark, chocolate-brown wood of the acapú. Trade Name.

sate'less (sāt'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Insatiate. Rare.

sat'el·li·tar'i·an (săt'ĕ·lĭ·tär'ĭ·ăn; 79), n. [satellite + arian.] Astron. An apparatus for illustrating the movements of the satellites of a planet.

sat'el·lite (săt'ĕ·lĭt), n. [F., fr. L. satelles, -itis, an attendant.] 1. An attendant attached to a prince or other powerful person; hence, an obsequious dependent or follower.
2. Anat. A structure lying near or associated with another, esp. a vein accompanying an artery.
3. Astron. An attendant body, revolving about a larger one, its primary; esp., in the solar system, a secondary planet; as, the moon is a satellite. See SOLAR SYSTEM.
4. Med. A smaller lesion accompanying a main one, and situated near by.
5. Petrog. A dike accompanying a plutonic mass.
6. Physics. A spectral line of low intensity having a frequency close to that of another stronger line to which it is closely related, as by having a common energy level.
Syn. — See FOLLOWER.

sat'el·lite (săt'ĕ·lĭt), adj. a Associated with in a servile or subordinate capacity. b Anat. Lying near or accompanying; as, a satellite vein, one accompanying the deep arteries. c Astron. Being, or acting like, a satellite.

sat'el·lit'ed (-lĭt'ĕd; -Id; 119), adj. Closely and servilely attended. Rare.

sat'el·li·tes'i·mal (săt'ĕ·lĭ·tĕs'ĭ·măl), adj. [satellite + infinitesimal.] Of or pertaining to minute satellites; — used in theories of cosmogony.

satellite sphinx. A large handsomely colored sphinx (Pholus pandorus) whose larva feeds on the grapevine.

sat'el·li'tian (săt'ĕ·lĭsh'ăn), n. [satellite + -ian.] Astron. A mechanical device to illustrate the motions of the satellites of a planet.

sat'el·lit'ic (-lĭt'ĭk), adj. Astron. Satellitory.

sat'el·li'tious (săt'ĕ·lĭsh'ŭs), adj. Like, or consisting of, satellites.

sat'el·li'ti·um (săt'ĕ·lĭsh'ĭ·ŭm), n. [LL., retinue.] Astrol. A configuration of four or more planets in a house.

sat'el·lit'oid (săt'ĕ·lĭt'oid), n. [satellite + -oid.] Astron. A lesser, faint, outer satellite.

sat'el·li·to'ry (săt'ĕ·lĭ·tō'rĭ; -tĕr·I), adj. Astron. Of, pertaining to, resembling, or designating, a satellite.

sat'el·loid (-loid), adj. [See SATELLITE; -OID.] Resembling a satellite, as the particles composing the rings of Saturn.

Sa'ti (sä'tē), n. [Gr. Satis, fr. Egypt. Sthit, Stit, a goddess of Elephantine, prob. fr. a root meaning to pour out, strew.] Egypt. Relig. Queen of the gods, of heaven, and of Egypt, depicted with cow's horns and wearing the crown of Upper Egypt.

sat'i (sŭt'ē). Var. of SUTTEE.

sa'ti·a·ble (sā'shĭ·ȧ·b'l; sā'shȧ·b'l), adj. That may be satiated or satisfied. — sa'ti·a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), sa'ti·a·ble·ness, n. — sa'ti·a·bly, adv.

sa'ti·ate (sā'shĭ·āt), adj. [L. satiatus, past part. of satiare to satisfy, fr. satis, enough. See SAD; cf. SATE.] Filled to satiety; glutted; sated.

sa'ti·ate (-āt), v. t.; -AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -Id; 119); -AT'ING (-āt'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To feed or satisfy to the full, as an appetite or desire; to indulge to the extent of desire. Now Rare.
2. To fill beyond natural desire; to gratify to repletion or loathing; to surfeit; glut.
3. To saturate. Obs. Sir I. Newton.
—, Intransitive: To satisfy or supply need, desire, or appetite to or beyond the limit.
Syn. — SATIATE, SATE, SURFEIT, CLOY, GLUT, GORGE. To SATIATE (literally and figuratively) is to feed to the full or to repletion; SATE is stronger, and is chiefly poetical or elevated; as, "Addison . . . had himself not above three or four notes in poetry, sweet enough, indeed, like those of a German flute, but such as soon tire and satiate the ear" (Gray); "So lust, though to a radiant angel linked, will sate itself in a celestial bed" (Shak.). SURFEIT signifies overeating, with consequent nausea or disgust, and implication which is heightened in CLOY to that of loathing; as, "A grown person surfeiting with honey, no sooner hears the name of it, but his fancy immediately carries sickness and qualms to his stomach" (Locke); "Their minds would be gorged and surfeited by the logical operation" (J. H. Newman); "Cloy thy lips with loathed satiety" (Shak.); "Is it [love] not . . . all oil, all sugar? Zounds! it is enough to cloy the sharp-set appetite of a parson" (Fielding). GLUT suggests greediness or (esp.) overloading; it sometimes implies that repletion is reached before greed is sated; to GORGE is to stuff, as it were, to the throat; as, "Is this your fate, to glut the dogs with gore?" (Pope); "seeming rather glutted than sated" (Goldsmith); "being with his presence glutted, gorged, and full" (Shak.); "How can we gorge the invisible serpent hidden at the bottom of our well — gorge it so that it may sleep?" (Mrs. Humphry Ward). Cf. CONTENT, EPICURE.

sa'ti·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. The action of satiating or the process of becoming satiated; state of being satiated.

Sa'ti·e'no (sä'tē·ā'nō), n. An Indian of a tribe closely associated with the Samucus. See SAMUCAN.

sa'ti·ent (sā'shĭ·ĕnt; -shĕnt), adj. Causing gratification.

sa·ti'e·ty (sȧ·tī'ĕ·tĭ), n. [F. satiété, fr. L. satietas, fr. satis enough. See SATIATE.] 1. State of being satiated; esp.: a A condition of gratification beyond desire, either of the appetite or of any sense; an excess of gratification of any desire or need, which excites wearisomeness or loathing; hence, an attitude of dislike or loathing so excited; as, satiety of pleasures produces a satiety of life. b Obs. Fullness of gratification or satisfaction, as in happiness, the attainment of knowledge, or the like. c A degree or extent that fully satisfies or that cloys; as, to grieve to satiety.
2. An abundance for any purpose; — a Latinism. Rare.

sat'in (săt'ĭn; -'n), n. [OF., prob. fr. Ar. zaytūnī, fr. Zaytūn (Marco Polo's Zaitun), fr. Chin. Tzŭ-t'ing, in the Middle Ages a great seaport, now Chuanchow, Fukien Province, China. Cf. SATEEN.] 1. A silk fabric having a thick, close texture and a glossy surface.
2. = HONESTY, 3 a.
3. Theory of Numbers. A lattice of points (x, y) where x has one of the values $(0, 1, \ldots n)$ and y is the residue of ax, modulo n, a and n being given integers.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

satin-faced	satin-lidded	satin-smooth satin-finished	satin-lined	satin-striped satin-leaved	satin-shining	satin-worked sat'in (săt'ĭn), v. t.; -INED (-Ind); -IN·ING. To impart a satin finish to (wall paper, silver, etc.).

sat'in, adj. Of satin; like satin in weave, finish, or appearance; satiny; as, satin damask.

satin bird. = SATIN BOWERBIRD.

satin bowerbird. See BOWERBIRD.

sat'in·bush' (săt'ĭn·bōōsh'), n. A South African shrub (Podalyria sericea), family Fabaceae, remarkable for its satiny pubescence.

satin cloth. A thin woolen dress fabric having a smooth and glossy face.

‖sa'tin' de chine' (sȧ'tăN' dĕ shēn'). [F., lit., satin of China.] A firm silk with dull satin finish.

‖sa'tin' de laine' (lĕn'). Also, Anglicized, sat'in de·laine' (dē·lān'). [F., lit., satin of wool.] a = SATIN CLOTH. b A kind of thin smooth cassimere.

‖sa'tin' de Ly'on' (lē'ŏN'). [F., lit., satin of Lyon.] A satin which has a ribbed back.

---

sash'ing, n. = SASHERY. sash'less, adj. See -LESS. sasht. Sashed. Ref. Sp. sash'y. Var. of SASHAY. sass (săs; sĕs). Dial. var. of SAUCE.
Sas·sab'a·ear (să·săb'ȧ·sär). D. Bib. sas'sa·bi. Var. of SASSABY. sas'sa·fac, sas'sa·frack. Vars. of SASSAFRAS. Dial., Southeastern U. S.
Sas'sa·nach. Var. of SASSENACH. [LAVI.] Sassanian Pahlavi. See PAHsas·san'qua (să·săng'kwȧ). Var. of SASANQUA. sas'sa·ra'ra. ✝ SISERARA. sas'si·nous, adj. Rocky. Obs. sas'tra (sŭs'trȧ; shŭs'trȧ). Var. of SHASTRA. sat (sāt), n. sing. & pl. [Siamese.] See MEASURE, Table.
sat (săt). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SALT.
sat (săt), past tense & past part. of SIT.
sat (sāt), n. See BRAHMA, 1. sat'a·ble (sāt'ȧ·b'l), adj. = SATIABLE.
Sa·tan'a·el (sȧ·tăn'ā·ĕl), n. = SATAN. See BOGOMILE.
Sa'tan·is'tic, adj. See -ISTIC. sa·tel'les (sȧ·tĕl'ēz), n.; pl. SATELLITES (sȧ·tĕl'ĭ·tēz). = SATELLITE, 3. Obs. sa'tem lan'guag·es (sā'tĕm; săt'-). See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES.
Sa'than. Obs. var. of SATAN.
Sath'a·nas (săth'ȧ·năs). Var. of SATANAS.
Sath'ra·bu'za·nes (săth'rȧ·bū'·zȧ·nēz; -bŭ·zā'nēz). Bib. sat'i·fy, v. t. [OF. satifier.] To satisfy. Obs. [Obs.] sat'i·nade', n. = SATINETTE a. sat'in·backed' crepe. See CREPE METEOR.

sa·ti'né' (sȧ'tē'nā'), n. [F., past part., satiny.] A timber tree (probably Brosimum paraense) of Brazil and the Guianas; also, its heavy, hard, lustrous, red wood, with a golden sheen, used for cabinetwork, veneers, furniture, etc.

sa·tine' (sȧ·tēn'). Var. of SATEEN.

sat'ined (săt'ĭnd; -'nd), adj. Having a satiny surface.

sat'i·nette', sat'i·net' (săt'ĭ·nĕt'), n. [F., fr. satin. See SATIN.] a A kind of thin satin or imitation satin. b A kind of cloth of cotton warp and woolen filling, used chiefly for trousers. c A kind of weave, a variation of satin weave.

sat'i·nette' (-nĕt'), n. A frilled pigeon of a domestic breed, allied to the owls and turbits, having the body white, the shoulders tricolored, and the tail bluish black with a large white spot on each feather.

sat'in·fin' (săt'ĭn·fĭn'), n. [satin + fin.] Either of two fresh-water minnows (Erogala, or Cyprinella, whipplii, and E. analostana), of the eastern United States, which have the lower fins largely white.

sat'in·flow'er (-flou'ĕr), n. a = HONESTY, 3 a. b Blue-eyed grass. c The chickweed Alsine media. d = SULLA. e Australia. = FLANNELFLOWER 6.

satin glass. A kind of glass or glassware having a body of colored glass, striped in the molding, and covered with a colorless crystal glass which does not penetrate into the depressions of the other, afterwards finished with a mat surface so as to present a satinlike appearance.

satin grass. Any of several American grasses of the genus Muhlenbergia, as M. mexicana.

sat'in·ite (săt'ĭ·nīt), n. [satin + -ite.] Ground gypsum or artificial hydrated calcium sulphate used as a filler in paper.

sa·tin'i·ty (sȧ·tĭn'ĭ·tĭ), n. Satinlike quality. Lamb.

sat'in·ize (săt'ĭ·nīz), v. t. To make to resemble satin.

sat'in·leaf' (săt'ĭn·lēf'), n. a The alumroot Heuchera americana. b A tree (Chrysophyllum oliviforme) of Florida and the West Indies. The leaves are clothed on the under surface with a golden, satiny pubescence.

‖sa'tin' lisse' (sȧ'tăN' lēs'). [F. lisse smooth.] A cotton dress fabric with satiny surface and delicate patterns.

‖sa'tin' mer'veil'leux' (mĕr'vĕ'yū'). [F. merveilleux marvelous.] A soft, all-silk, twilled fabric having a satin finish.

satin moth. A tussock moth (Stilpnotia salicis) of the family Lymantriidae, with white satinlike wings. The blackish white-marked larvae feed on the foliage of the poplar and willow. It is native to Europe but has become established in several parts of the United States.

satin sheeting. A heavy twilled cotton and silk fabric with a satin surface, woven wide for use in upholstery, embroidery, etc.

satin spar. Mineral. a A fine fibrous variety of calcite, having a satiny luster. b A similar variety of gypsum.

satin sparrow. A flycatcher (Myiagra nitida) of Tasmania and Australia. The male is iridescent greenish black above and white below, with greenish-black throat.

satin stitch. Embroidery. A stitch worked in close parallel lines over a design, producing a satiny surface, nearly alike on both sides. Without padding, it is called flat satin stitch, or long stitch; with padding, raised satin stitch.

satin stone. Satin spar.

satin sultan. A silk fabric with satiny surface, made in India and used for women's garments.

satin walnut. = RED GUM, 2.

satin weave. A style of weaving producing a smooth-faced fabric in which the warp interlaces with the filling at points distributed over the surface.

satin white. A white pigment made usually by precipitating a basic aluminum sulphate with milk of lime and consisting essentially of calcium sulphate and calcium aluminate. It is used in coating paper, as a base for lakes, etc.

sat'in·wood' (săt'ĭn·wŏŏd'), n. 1. An East Indian tree (Chlorozylon swietenia), family Meliaceae; also, its very hard, yellowish-brown wood, which has a satiny luster, and is used for fine cabinetwork, for farming tools, etc.
2. Any of various other trees or their hard, light-colored wood: a The tree Zanthoxylum flavum, of Florida and the West Indies, with orange-colored wood widely used for furniture and implements. b A tree (Murraya paniculata) of India, frequently cultivated. c In Australia, the tree Zanthoxylum brachyacanthum, or the sassafras Daphnandra micrantha (family Monimiaceae).

sat'in·y (-ĭ), adj. Resembling, or composed of, satin; glossy; as, to have a satiny luster; a satiny texture.

sat'ire (săt'īr), n. [F., fr. L. satira, satura, a poetic medley, satirical poetry, fr. satura (sc. lanx) a dish filled with various kinds of fruits, a mixture, a medley, fr. satur full of food, sated. See SAD.] 1. Orig., in the history of Roman literature, a rambling composition in verse devoted to censure of some prevailing vice or folly; as, the Satires of Juvenal.
2. A literary composition holding up human or individual vices or folly, or abuses or shortcomings of any kind, to reprobation by means of ridicule, derision, burlesque, or other method of intensifying incongruities, usually with an intent to provoke amendment.
3. The branch of literature ridiculing vice or folly.
4. The use of trenchant wit, irony, or sarcasm, for the purpose of exposing and discrediting vice or folly.
5. That which calls down ridicule upon itself or something related to it.
6. Obs. a Abusive raillery; calumniation. b A satirist. c A satirical speech.
Syn. — See IRONY.

sa·tir'ic (sȧ·tĭr'ĭk), adj. [F. satirique, fr. L. satiricus.] 1. Of or pertaining to satire or satires; of the nature of satire; expressing or characterized by satire; as, a satiric style, writer, or intent; satiric humor or verse.
2. = SATIRICAL, 2. Obs.
Syn. — Cutting, caustic, poignant, ironical, bitter, reproachful, abusive.

sa·tir'ic, n. 1. A satirist. Obs.
2. pl. Writing of the satiric kind. Rare.

sa·tir'i·cal (sȧ·tĭr'ĭ·kăl), adj. 1. = SATIRIC, 1.
2. Given to, or skilled in, the use of satire; using satire; specif., ironically censorious; severe in ridiculing men, manners, or things.
— sa·tir'i·cal·ly, adv. — sa·tir'i·cal·ness, n.

sat'i·rist (săt'ĭ·rĭst), n. [Cf. F. satiriste.] One who satirizes; esp., one who writes satire.

sat'i·riz'a·ble (-rīz'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being satirized.

sat'i·rize (-ĭ·rīz), v.; -RIZED (-ĭ·rīzd); -RIZ'ING (-ĭ·rīz'ĭng). [F. satiriser.] Transitive: 1. To make the object of satire; to attack with satire.
2. To call down severe denunciation and ridicule upon.
—, Intransitive: To pronounce or write satires; to make an attack with satire.

sat'i·riz'er (săt'ĭ·rīz'ĕr), n. One who satirizes.

sat'is·da'tion (săt'ĭs·dā'shŭn), n. [L. satisdatio.] Civil Law. The giving of security, or the security itself.

sat'is·dic'tion (-dĭk'shŭn), n. [satisfaction + diction.] The condition of having said enough. Nonce Word.

sat'is·fac'tion (săt'ĭs·făk'shŭn), n. [ME. satisfacciouu, fr. OF. satisfactium (F. satisfaction), fr. L. satisfactio, fr. satisfacere to satisfy. See SATISFY.] 1. The act of satisfying; fulfillment of any need or desire.
2. The state of being satisfied; the relatively quiescent condition resulting from the fulfillment of a need or desire.
3. That which satisfies or gratifies; esp., Theol., that which satisfies God, or meets the demands of divine justice or righteousness. Applied to the redemptive work of Christ, variously interpreted: (1) in the substitutional theory, as Christ's bearing the punishment deserved by sinful man, or its full equivalent, thus paying in full the debt incurred by sin; (2) in the governmental theory, as Christ's suffering, sufficiently for the governmental purpose of God, the prescribed penalty for transgression of the divine law; and (3) in the moral theory, as something increasingly realized in the progressive destruction of human sin and of its evil consequences. From this moral point of view, full satisfaction of God's righteousness is future, not past; Christ may have satisfied God for himself but no one can satisfy the demands of righteousness, or the moral ideal, for another. See ATONEMENT, 3.
4. Reparation or opportunity of revenge for an insult, as by duel or apology; also, satisfactory answer or information; as, I gave him no satisfaction.
5. Obs. a Evidence of a kind to satisfy. b Resolution, as of a difficulty.
6. Settlement of a claim or demand; discharge of an obligation, whether by an actual render of what is due or by legal presumption; also, that which operates so to discharge an obligation; payment; adequate compensation.
7. R.C.Ch. Reparation for sin made by performing the penance imposed by a confessor.
Syn. — Contentment, content, gratification, pleasure; recompense, compensation, amends, remuneration, indemnification, atonement. See PROPITIATION.

sat'is·fac'tion·al (-ăl; -'l), adj. Of a kind, or serving, to give satisfaction, or make reparation.

satisfaction piece. Law. A formal written acknowledgment by the holder of a mortgage or judgment of its satisfaction, with an authorization for its discharge of record.

sat'is·fac'tive (săt'ĭs·făk'tĭv), adj. 1. Satisfying; adequate. Obs.
2. Involving, or consisting in, satisfaction or reparation. J. Bentham.

sat'is·fac·to'ri·ous (-făk·tō'rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. Satisfying; also, having power to expiate. Rare.

sat'is·fac'to·ry (săt'ĭs·făk'tō·rĭ), adj. [F. satisfactoire, fr. ML. satisfactorius.] 1. Making amends, indemnification, or recompense; causing to cease from claims and to rest content; atoning; as, the satisfactory death of Jesus Christ. Chiefly Theol.
2. Giving or producing satisfaction; yielding content; as: adequate for the purpose; offering adequate treatment or fullness of detail; of a kind to meet all requirements or expectations; explaining fully; serving to allay the demands of a questioner or challenger; relieving the mind from doubt or uncertainty; as, a satisfactory pension, report, marriage, provision, excuse.
Syn. — Adequate, satisfying; expiatory.
Ant. — Unsatisfactory, inadequate.
—sat'is·fac'to·ri·ly (-rĭ·lĭ), adv.—sat'is·fac'to·ri·ness, n.

sat'is·fice (săt'ĭs·fīs; -fīz), v. t. To satisfy. Scot. & N. of Eng.

sat'is·fied (săt'ĭs·fīd), adj. Gratified or paid in full; contented. — sat'is·fied·ly, adv. — sat'is·fied·ness, n.

sat'is·fi'er (-fī'ĕr), n. 1. A person or thing that satisfies.

sat'is·fy (săt'ĭs·fī), v.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [OF. satisfier, fr. L. satisfacere, fr. satis enough + facere to make. See SAD; FACT.] Transitive: 1. In general, to fill up the measure of a want of (a person or a thing); hence, to gratify fully the desire of; to make content; to supply to the full, or so far as to give contentment, with what is sought or wished for.

Death shall . . . with us two
Be forced to satisfy his ravenous maw. Milton

2. a To pay to the extent of claims or deserts; to give what is due to; as, to satisfy a creditor. b To answer or discharge, as a claim, debt, legal demand, or the like; to give compensation for; to pay off; to requite; as, to satisfy a claim or an execution.
3. To make reparation for or to; to expiate; atone; as, to satisfy guilt.
4. To give remuneration for or to. Obs.
5. To appease (a desire or craving); satiate; sate; as, to satisfy hunger or curiosity.
6. a To free from doubt, suspense, or uncertainty; to give assurance to; to set at rest the mind of; to convince; as, to satisfy oneself by inquiry; I am satisfied that he is guilty. b To answer convincingly; solve; as, to satisfy a question or doubt.
7. To be so constituted as to fulfill the requirements of; as, to satisfy a hypothesis or condition.
8. Chem. To respond to by chemical union; as, to satisfy affinity; a satisfied valence.
9. Gilding. To fill the pores of, as stone with a solution of shellac and gutta-percha in naphtha.
—, Intransitive: 1. To give satisfaction; to afford gratification; to leave nothing to be desired.
2. To make payment or atonement; to atone. Now Rare.
Syn. — Satiate, sate, gratify, compensate. See CONTENT.
Ant. — Dissatisfy, discontent.

sat'is·fy'ing, adj. Affording satisfaction, contentment, or certainty. — sat'is·fy'ing·ly, adv. — sat'is·fy'ing·ness, n.

sat'is·pas'sion (săt'ĭs·păsh'ŭn), n. [ML. satis pati to suffer enough. See PASSION.] Theol. Satisfactory suffering.

Sa'trae (sā'trē), n. pl. [Gr. Satrai.] An ancient people of Thrace living on Mount Pangaeus. According to Herodotus they had not been subject to any other people. Cf. SATYR, 1.

sa'trap (sā'trăp or, esp. Brit., săt'răp; 277), n. [L. satrapes, fr. Gr. satrapēs, fr. OPer. shathrapāvan satrap, lit., protector of the imperium; akin to Skr. kṣatra dominion, and pāti he protects. See CHECK; FUR.] 1. The governor of a province in ancient Persia.
2. Hence, a petty prince acting under an autocratic superior; a despotic subordinate official; loosely, any overlord; any person in a responsible administrative or executive position.

sa'trap·al (sā'trȧ·păl; săt'rȧ-), adj. Of or pertaining to a satrap or a satrapy.

sa'trap·ess (-pĕs; -pĭs; 119), n. A female satrap. Rare.

sa·trap'ic (sȧ·trăp'ĭk), adj. Satrapal. Rare.

sa·trap'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Satrapal; tyrannical. Rare.

sa'trap·y (sā'trȧ·pĭ; săt'rȧ-), n.; pl. -TRAPIES (-pĭz). [F. satrapie, fr. L. satrapia, satrapea, fr. Gr. satrapeia.]
1. The government or jurisdiction of a satrap; a principality. Milton.
2. Hence, an exalted and princely rank. "Their celestial princedoms and satrapies." Milton.

sat'ron (săt'rŏn), n. [saturation + 1st -on.] Colorimetry. A unit of saturation equal to the increment in saturation corresponding to one just noticeable difference in colorimetric purity under specified conditions.

Sat'su·ma (săt'sōō·mȧ; sȧt·sōō'mȧ), n. [Jap.] 1. One of the four powerful clans or fiefs of southwestern Japan, which was especially active in the revolution of 1867–68 in restoring the power of the emperor.
2. A variety, or, more strictly, any of a group of varieties, of the mandarin orange, grown commercially in Florida and Alabama.

Satsuma anthracnose. Plant Pathol. A disease of the Satsuma orange caused by Gloeosporium foliicolum, and known only in Japan. It is characterized by twig blight (witheritip), leaf spots, and fruit spots.

Satsuma ware. A hard-glazed yellow pottery made in the former province of Satsuma, in Kyushu, one of the Japanese islands.

sat'tie (săt'ĭ), n. [It. saettia.] A kind of sailing vessel used for merchandise, esp. in the 17th century. Obs.

sat'va (sŭt'wȧ), n. [Skr., being.] Hindu Philos. Truth; goodness; tranquillity. See GUNA.

sa·tu'ra (sȧ·tū'rȧ), n. [L. See SATIRE.] Originally, a rude dramatic and musical performance, before the introduction of formal Latin comedy; later, literary satire, such as Juvenal's. See SATIRE, n., 1.

sat'u·ra·ble (săt'ū·rȧ·b'l), adj. [L. saturabilis.] Capable of being saturated; admitting of saturation. — sat'u·ra·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

sat'u·rant (săt'ū·rănt), adj. [L. saturans, pres. part. See SATURATE.] Impregnating to the full; saturating.

sat'u·rant, n. a Chem. A substance used to saturate another. b Med. An antacid, as magnesia, used to correct acidity of the stomach.

sat'u·rate (săt'ū·rāt), v. t.; -RAT'ED (-rāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -RAT'ING (-rāt'ĭng). [L. saturatus, past part. of saturare to saturate, fr. satur full of food, sated. See SAD.] 1. To satisfy completely; to satiate. Obs.
2. To cause to become completely penetrated, impregnated, or soaked; to treat (with something) till no more can be taken up, as water with salt. "Fill and saturate each kind With good according to its mind." Emerson.
3. In the physical sciences: a To cause to absorb or hold in suspension the maximum quantity that can be held under given conditions of temperature, pressure, etc., often specif. the maximum quantity of moisture; as, to saturate a liquid with a substance or a gas with a liquid. b To charge with a maximum retainable quantity of magnetism, heat, electricity, or other form of energy.
4. Chem. To satisfy the affinity of; to cause to combine till there is no further tendency to combine; to neutralize; as, to saturate an acid with an alkali.
5. Econ. To furnish to an amount which meets present and prospective demands at current prices; as, the manufacturers stepped up production until the market was saturated.
6. Thermodyn. To cause (a vapor, liquid, or solid) to so exist in its specified state that the addition or extraction of heat will cause it to change its state; as, saturated vapor; saturated liquid; saturated ice.
Syn. — SATURATE, SOAK, DRENCH, STEEP, IMPREGNATE are here compared esp. with reference to their figurative uses. That is SATURATED which is completely imbued with something, or which has absorbed all that it can hold; SOAK implies saturation esp. by immersion, DRENCH, esp. by pouring; but the words are somewhat freely interchangeable; as, to saturate a sponge, to soak dried fruit, to be drenched in a shower; "Saturated with experience of a particular class of materials, an expert intuitively feels whether a newly reported fact is probable or not" (W. James); "He is the man best qualified as a translator of Homer, who has drenched, and steeped, and soaked himself in the effusions of his genius, till he has imbibed their color to the bone" (Cowper); "The solid mountains shone . . . drenched in empyrean light" (Wordsworth); "the new life with which it drenches the spirits even to intoxication" (Shelley). STEEP and IMPREGNATE apply to that which is imbued, permeated, or infused with something; as, "steeped in dialectics" (Hazlitt); "To these homely subjects he communicated the rich commentary of his nature; they were all steeped in Burns" (Stevenson); "When my mind was, as it were, strongly impregnated with the Johnsonian aether" (Boswell); "this poem, everywhere impregnated with original excellence" (Wordsworth). Cf. PERMEATE, DIP.

sat'u·rate (săt'ū·rāt), adj. [L. saturatus, past part.]
1. Fully satisfied; sated. Obs.
2. Filled to repletion; saturated; soaked. Chiefly Poetic.
3. a Very deep or intense; — applied to colors. b = SATURATED, 2.

sat'u·rat'ed (-rāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), past tense & past part. of SATURATE. Specif.: adj. 1. Filled to repletion; holding by absorption, solution, combination, or the like, all that is possible; as, saturated garments; a saturated atmosphere.
2. Having very high saturation, as some of the spectrum colors. Cf. SATURATION, 3; COLOR.
3. Thoroughly soaked with moisture; wet.
4. Chem. a Denoting the most concentrated solution that can remain, under given conditions of temperature, etc., in the presence of an excess of the dissolved substance. b Denoting a compound which does not tend to form addition products; — applied esp. to such compounds as the paraffins and their derivatives, containing no double or triple bonds, as distinguished from compounds of the ethylene series, etc.
5. Optics. Not diluted with white; — said of pure colors like those of the spectrum.
6. Petrog. Containing the greatest possible amount of combined silica; — said of minerals and rocks.

saturated steam. Steam in a saturated vapor; sometimes, wet steam.

sat'u·nis'co, n. An inferior kind of satin. Obs.

sat'in·leaf', n. See CAIMITILLO.

sat'in·like', adj. See -LIKE.

sat'in·pod' (săt'ĭn·pŏd'), n. = HONESTY, 3 a.

sa·tion (sā'shŭn), n. [L. satio, fr. serere, satum, to SOW.] A sowing or planting. Obs.

sat'ire, etc. ✝ SATYR, etc.

sat'ire·proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

sa·tir'i·al, adj. Satirical. Obs.

sat'i·rism, n. Expression of satire. Obs.

sat'is·fac'tion·ist, n. See -IST.

sat'is·fac'tion·less, adj. See -LESS.

sat'is·fi'a·ble (săt'ĭs·fī'ȧ·b'l), adj. See -ABLE. [ING TERM.]

satisfied term. See OUTSTANDING.

sat'ive (sā'tĭv), adj. [L. sativus, fr. serere, satum, to SOW.] Sown; cultivated. Obs.

sat'lijk (săt'lĕk), n. [Misspelling of Serb. sałjik, fr. G. (Austria) seidel, seidel, fr. L. situla a measure of volume.] See WEIGHT, Table.

sa'trap·er, n. A satrap. Obs.

sat·tar', Var. of SITAR.

satteo. ✝ SUTTEE.

satten, sattin, satton. ✝ SATIN.

sat'tle (săt'l). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of SETTLE, v.

saturated vapor. Physics. Vapor which, being at the temperature of the boiling point corresponding to its pressure, cannot be compressed or cooled without condensing.

sat'u·rat'er (săt'ū·rāt'ĕr), n. A saturator.

sat'u·ra'tion (săt'ū·rā'shŭn), n. [LL. saturatio.] 1. Act or process of saturating, or state of being saturated; complete penetration or impregnation.
2. Sated condition; satiation. Obs.
3. Of chromatic colors: a Freedom or degree of freedom from admixture with white. b That attribute which determines their degree of difference from a gray of the same brilliance; distinctness or vividness of hue; chroma. See COLOR, n., 2.
4. Econ. The presence in a market of goods adequate to meet all demands under existing conditions.
5. Elec. In an electron tube, the condition in which all the electrons flow to the plate as fast as they are emitted by the filament, an increase of plate or grid voltage producing no increase of current.
6. Elec. & Magnetism. The state or condition of a magnetizable body, as iron, being so saturated with magnetic flux that a further increase in the intensity of the magnetizing force will produce only an equal increase in the magnetic flux density in the body.
7. Meteorol. The presence of as much water vapor per unit volume as possible at the given temperature.
8. Steam Engin. In relation to marine boilers, the degree of saturation of the water with salt, usually expressed as the ratio of parts of salt to 32 parts of water, ordinary sea water being assumed to contain ½₂ of its weight of salt.
9. Stock Breeding. The supposed increased resemblance to the sire of the successive offspring of the same parents. Cf. TELEGONY.
10. Sugar Mfg. Carbonation, esp. the second carbonation.

saturation current. Physics. An electric current through a gas in which ions are being produced, of such an intensity that an increase in the electromotive force producing the current does not cause an increase in the current.

saturation curve. Elec. & Magnetism. a A curve in which the magnetic flux density, B, of a magnetizable body, as iron, is plotted against the intensity of the magnetic force, H, that produces the flux; — called also B and H curve, normal induction curve. b A curve in which the abscissas represent the field excitation of a dynamo or motor and the ordinates represent the terminal voltage generated as a result of the excitation.

saturation factor. Magnetism. A measure of the saturation of a magnetizable body. It is the ratio of a small percentage increase in excitation to the percentage increase in magnetic flux produced thereby. It is usually applied to the magnetic excitation of electrical machines at rated speed and voltage.

saturation point. Econ. The point where or when, in a flow of goods or money, a given market will take no more except at great decrease of price.

saturation pressure. The pressure of a vapor which is in equilibrium with its liquid, as steam with water. It is different at different temperatures. Specif., Meteorol., the maximum pressure possible by water vapor at a given temperature.

sat'u·ra'tor (săt'ū·rā'tĕr), n. One who or that which saturates; esp., a device for saturating; specif.: a In the destructive distillation of coal, a tank containing sulphuric acid through which the vapors are passed to remove ammonia. b An apparatus for supplying moist air to rooms, etc. c An apparatus for saturating oxygen with ether vapor, used in a modification of the limelight. d A device for injecting water spray into heated compressed air to cool the air. e Mfg. A tank or vat in which a saturated solution is made. f Sugar Mfg. A closed vessel used in clarifying sugar-beet juice which comes from the diffusion battery treated with lime. Carbon dioxide is forced into the saturator and combines with the lime to form calcium carbonate, which is precipitated together with the impurities. g A shoveler who fills and empties tanks in which gypsum is saturated.

Sat'ur·day (săt'ĕr·dĭ; -dā; 89), n. [ME. Saterdai, fr. AS. Sæterdæg, Sæterndæg, Sæternesdæg, lit., Saturn's day, fr. L. Saturnus Saturn + AS. dæg day, after L. dies Saturni. See SATURN; DAY.] The seventh and last day of the week; the day following Friday; the day of the Jewish Sabbath.

Sat'u·re'a (săt'ū·rē'yȧ), n. [L., the savory.] Bot. A genus of eighteen species of aromatic herbs or shrubs of the mint family (Lamiaceae), nearly all found in southern Europe. They have small entire leaves, bracted purple flowers in axillary or terminal clusters, and oblong or oval nutlets. S. hortensis, the savory, is naturalized in North America.

Sat'urn (săt'ĕrn), n. [L. Saturnus, prob. fr. the root of serere, satum, to sow. See SEASON; cf. SATURNINE.]
1. Rom. Relig. An ancient god of the seed sowing, whose temple in Rome, founded in 497 B.C., was used as a state treasury. In 217 B.C. the worship of Saturn was conformed to that of the Greek Cronus, with whom the Roman god was identified and in whose type his images were made. Thence arose the myth that Saturn in Italy, as Cronus in Greece, had been king during an ancient golden age and founder of Italian civilization. See SATURNALIA, OPS.
2. Astron. One of the planets, next in magnitude to Jupiter, and next more remote from the sun. It shines with a yellowish light and is remarkable for its engirdling system of thin rings. Symbol, ♄. It is the sixth major planet from the sun and the most remote planet known to the ancients. The surface on Saturn shows markings somewhat similar to those of Jupiter, but fainter. The planet's density is only about ⅛ that of the earth. It rotates on its axis in about 10¼ hours. (For other elements, see PLANET, Table.) Spectroscopic observations have established the theory that the rings are composed of a dense swarm of small solid bodies. The eight well-known satellites of Saturn, beginning with the innermost, are: Mimas, Enceladus, Tethys, Dione, Rhea, Titan, Hyperion, and Japetus, the brightest being Titan. A ninth satellite, Phoebe, fainter and more distant than any of the others, was discovered by photography in 1898. The discovery (1905) of a tenth, Themis, has not been confirmed.

Saturn, 2.

3. Astrol. The greater infortune, a cold and dry, melancholy, earthy, masculine planet, the night mansion of which is Capricorn, the day mansion, Aquarius, the exaltation, 21° Libra, the depression, 21° Aries, the orb, 9°. Saturn governs the airy triplicity by day, and has for its astral spirits Bohel, Casziel, Uuchathon, and Dacdel.
4. Alchem. & Old Chem. The metal lead.
5. Her. Sable, in blazoning by the planets.
6. Palmistry. The mount of Saturn. See PALMISTRY.

Sa·tur'nal (sȧ·tûr'nȧl; -n'l), adj. & n. Astrol. Saturnine.

Sat'ur·na'li·a (săt'ĕr·nā'lĭ·ȧ; 159), n. pl.; rarely, n. sing., Sat'ur·na'le (-lē). [L., neut. pl. of Saturnalis of or belonging to Saturn. See SATURN.] 1. Rom. Relig. The festival of Saturn, beginning Dec. 17, on which day the official rites were celebrated. Unofficially it was a sort of carnival, in which masters served their slaves, while a king chosen by lot presided over the feast. The feasting and exchange of gifts at Christmas are probably to be traced to this Roman festival.
2. [not cap.] A period or occasion of general license, as in excesses of vice or crime; — sometimes construed as sing.

Sat'ur·na'li·an (-ăn), adj. 1. Of or pert. to the Saturnalia.
2. [not cap.] Characterized by unrestrained or riotous jollity; dissolute.

Sa·tur'ni·a (sȧ·tûr'nĭ·ȧ), n. Italy; — a poetic name based on the traditional reign of Saturn in that country.

Sa·tur'ni·a (sȧ·tûr'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] Zool. See SATURNIIDAE.

Sa·tur'ni·an (sȧ·tûr'nĭ·ăn), adj. [L. Saturnius.] 1. Of or pert. to the god Saturn, whose age or reign is conceived to have been the golden age; hence, resembling the golden age; distinguished for peacefulness, happiness, and contentment.
2. Capitoline. See SEVEN HILLS.
3. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, the planet Saturn; influenced by Saturn.

Sa·tur'ni·an. n. 1. A supposed inhabitant of Saturn.
2. A person born under the influence of Saturn; hence, a person of cold and gloomy disposition. Obs.

sa·tur'nl·an (sȧ·tûr'nĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the Saturniidae. — n. One of the Saturniidae.

Saturnian atom. Physics. An atomic model consisting of a group of negatively charged electrons inside a mass of positive electrification, and revolving about the center of the positive charge at such a rate as to be in stable equilibrium under their own repulsive forces and under an attraction to the center of the positive charge varying directly as the first power of the distance from this center.

Saturnian verse. Pros. An ancient Latin meter used before the adoption of Greek verse forms. Its exact nature is disputed, some taking it as quantitative —

Virūm mihī Camēna, ‖ insecē versūtum, which has been compared with —

The queen | was in | the kitch|en ‖ eating | bread and | honey; while others explain it as accentual; thus, —

Virum' mihi' Came'na, ‖ in'se ce'ver su'tum.

Sa·tur'ni·cen'tric (sȧ·tûr'nĭ·sĕn'trĭk; săt'ĕr·nĭ-), adj. Astron. Relating to the center of Saturn; referred to Saturn as a center.

Sat'ur·ni'i·dae (săt'ĕr·nĭ'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. fr. Saturnia, type genus (fr. L. Saturnius Saturnian) + -idae.] Zool. An important and widely distributed family of moths having a stout hairy body, strong wide wings, and antennae which are bipectinate to the tip. They are mostly of large size, and some of the species are among the largest insects known. The larvae spin silken cocoons. The Io, Polyphemus, Luna, and Cecropia moths are handsome American species. Other species are the pernyi and tussah silkworm and the Atlas moth. The type genus is Sa·tur'ni·a (sȧ·tûr'nĭ·ȧ). — sa·tur'ni·id (sȧ·tûr'nĭ·ĭd), n. & adj.

sat'ur·nine (săt'ĕr·nīn), adj. [F. saturnin of or pert. to lead (Saturn, in old chemistry, meaning lead), saturnine, fr. L. Saturnus the god Saturn, also the planet Saturn. See SATURN.] 1. [cap.] Of or pertaining to the planet Saturn; born under, or influenced by, Saturn.
2. Heavy; grave; gloomy; dull; — the opposite of mercurial; as, a saturnine person or temper.
3. Med. Of, pertaining to, or suffering from, lead poisoning.
4. Old Chem. Of or pertaining to Saturn, or lead; resembling lead; as, saturnine red (minium).
Syn. — See SULLEN. Ant. — Mercurial, airy.
— sat'ur·nine·ly, adv. — sat'ur·nine·ness, n.

Sat'ur·nine, n. Astrol. A Saturnine person.

saturnine colic. Med. Lead colic.

saturnine palsy. Med. Lead palsy.

saturnine poisoning. Med. Lead poisoning.

saturnine red. = FIRE RED a.

sat'ur·nin'i·ty (săt'ĕr·nĭn'ĭ·tĭ), n. Saturnine quality or disposition.

sat'ur·nism (săt'ĕr·nĭz'm), n. Med. Lead poisoning.

sat'ur·nist (-nĭst), n. A person of saturnine temperament. Obs.

sat'ur·nize (-nīz), v. t. 1. To treat or combine with lead. Obs.
2. To castrate. Rare.

Saturn Nebula. Astron. A small nebula in the constellation Aquarius, whose shape resembles that of the ball and ring of Saturn.

Saturn red. = FIRE RED a.

Sat'urn's tree (săt'ĕrnz). Arbor Saturni (= LEAD TREE, 1). Cf. ARBOR DIANAE.

Sa·tur'nus (sȧ·tûr'nŭs), n. [L.] Saturn.

‖Sat'ya·gra'ha (sŭt'yȧ·grŭ'hȧ), n. [Lit., truth-grasping, fr. Skr. satya + graha.] India. A politico-religious movement initiated in 1919 by Mohandas K. Gandhi, Hindu reformer and political leader. In theory it deprecated violence and relied upon truth and spiritual forces, favoring passive resistance and non-co-operation in opposing abuses. See NON-CO-OPERATION, PASSIVE RESISTANCE.

sat'ya·gra'hi (-hē), n. One who practices satyagraha, or civil disobedience. India.

sat'ya·sho'dak (-shō'dȧk), n. [Skr. satya truth + sôdhaka purifying.] A modern Indian social reform movement directed mainly against caste rules.

Satyr, 1 (from a Greek vase).

sat'yr (săt'ĕr; sā'tĕr; 277), n. [L. satyrus, fr. Gr. satyros.] 1. [often cap.] Gr. Myth. A sylvan deity or demigod, often represented with the tail and ears of a horse, given to riotous merriment and lasciviousness. Satyrs are found especially in the train of Dionysus, and are considered by some to be a mythified form of a Thracian tribe — the Satrae — of Dionysus worshipers. Cf. CENTAUR.
2. a A lecherous man. b A man having satyriasis. c [Through confusion of satyric with satiric.] Obs. A cynic or satirist.
3. Any of many butterflies of the family Agapetidae. Their colors are commonly brown and gray, often with ocelli on the wings, and the veins of the fore wings are usually much swollen at the base.
4. The orangutan.
5. Erroneously, in the English Bible (Isa. xiii. 21; xxxiv. 14), as translation of the Hebrew se'ir (pl. se'irim), a hairy demon of the desert.

Satyr (Cercyonis alope), with right-hand wings reversed to show under side. ⅔

The satyr shall cry to his fellow. Isa. xxxiv. 14.

Sat'yr·ane, Sir (săt'ĕr·ān; sā'tĕr-). In Spenser's Faerie Queene, a knight, who, although a satyr's son, is brave and faithful to Una.

sat'yr·esque' (-ĕsk'), adj. [satyr + -esque.] Like a satyr in shape or character.

sat'yr·ess (săt'ĕr·ĕs; -Ĭs; sā'tĕr- 119), n. A female satyr.

sat'y·ri'a·sis (săt'ĭ·rī'ȧ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. satyriasis. See SATYR.] 1. Med. Insatiable venereal appetite in the male.
2. Formerly, leprosy.

sa·tyr'ic (sȧ·tĭr'ĭk), adj. Also sa·tyr'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl). [L. satyricus, fr. Gr. satyrikos.] Of or pertaining to satyrs.

satyric drama. Ancient Greek burlesque drama with a chorus of satyrs.

Sat'y·ri'nae (săt'ĭ·rī'nē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. satyrus satyr + -inae.] Zool. The Satyridae regarded as a subfamily of Nymphalidae. — sat'y·rine (săt·ĭ·rĭn; -rīn; 156), adj.

sat'yr·ine (săt'ĭ·rĭn), adj. [satyr + -ine.] Such as the satyrs inhabited; pristine. Rare.

sa·tyr'i·on (sȧ·tĭr'ĭ·ŏn), n. [L., fr. Gr. satyrion.] Formerly, an orchid; — so called as being aphrodisiac.

sat'yr·ism (săt'ĕr·Ĭz'm), n. [satyr + -ism.] Bestial or unrestrained lustfulness.

sat'yr·o·ma'ni·ac (săt'Ĭ·rō·mā'nĭ·ăk), n. [See SATYR; MANIAC.] One having satyriasis.

satyr orchid. A terrestrial orchid (Coeloglossum bracteatum) of the cooler parts of North America and Europe, with broad, usually ovate leaves and long-bracted, green, very irregular flowers.

‖Satz'pho·ne'tik (zăts'fō·nā'tĭk), n. [G.] Sentence phonetics; the science of speech sounds as they occur and affect one another in normal connected speech; the influence of sentence form and structure on speech sounds.

sa·u'ba ant (sȧ·ōō'bȧ). [Pg. saúba, saúva, fr. Tupi saúba, isaúba.] A large South American leaf-cutting ant (Atta cephalotes) which lives in immense subterranean colonies.

Sauba Ant, Worker. Somewhat enlarged.

sauce (sôs), n. [OF. sauce, sause, sausse (F. sauce), fr. L. salsa, fem. of salsus salted, salty, past part. of salire to salt, fr. sal salt. See SALT; cf. SAUCER, SAUCY.] 1. A condiment or composition of condiments and appetizing ingredients eaten with food as a relish; esp., a dressing for meat, fish, puddings, etc.
2. A thing which adds piquancy or zest; as, the sauce of danger.
The sauce to meat is ceremony. Shak.
3. a Obs. Saucebox. b Now Colloq. Sauciness; pert or insolent language.
4. (dial. sôs, sās, săs). Any garden vegetables eaten with meat; — called also garden sauce, and in the United States sometimes distinguished as long sauce (as beets and carrots) and short sauce (as onions, potatoes, and pumpkins). Dial.
5. Stewed or preserved fruit eaten with other food as a relish; as, apple sauce, cranberry sauce, etc. U. S.
6. A solution used in certain manufacturing processes, as for moistening layers of tobacco; a pickle.
7. (pron. sōs) Also sauce-crayon. A soft crayon for stump drawing or shading with the stump; — a French term. ☞ For many sauces, see under à la or the modifying word; as, à la Soubise, Italian sauce, etc.

sauce (sôs), v. t.; SAUCED (sôst); SAUC'ING (sôs'Ĭng). [Cf. F. saucer.] 1. To dress (food) with something intended to give a higher relish; to season; flavor.
2. To modify, as with a condiment, the severity or harshness of; to season; temper; as, to sauce grief with tenderness.
3. To make poignant; to give zest, flavor, or interest to; to set off; to make pungent or sharp.
To sauce her desires with threatenings. Sir P. Sidney.
4. a Obs. To "baste"; flog. b Now Dial. To rebuke.
5. To tickle or gratify (the palate). Shak.
6. To treat with bitter, pert, or tart language; to be impudent or saucy to. Now Colloq.
7. Old Cookery. To prepare (a capon, tench, etc.) for the table.

sauce'-a-lone', n. Hedge garlic.

‖sauce' aux hà'te·lets' (sō'-sō ȧ'tlĕ'). [F.] See ATELETS SAUCE.

sauce'boat' (sôs'bōt'), n. A boat-shaped dish, usually with a long lip at one end and a handle at the other, used for serving sauces and gravies.

sauce'box' (-bŏks'), n. [See SAUCE, SAUCY.] A saucy, impudent person; esp., a pert child. Colloq.

sauce'dish' (-dĭsh'), n. A small round dish, usually of china or glass, esp. for serving stewed fruit. Chiefly U. S.

sauce'man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A vegetable vender. U. S.

sauce'pan' (sôs'păn'), n. A small metallic vessel with a handle, for use in stewing, orig. for cooking sauce.

‖sauce' pi'quante' (sōs' pē'kănt'). [F.] 1. Espagnole sauce with vinegar and chopped shallots, gherkins, and capers.
2. That which stimulates interest or curiosity or intensifies appreciation.

sau'cer (sô'sĕr), n. [ME. sawser, fr. OF. saussier, sausiere (F. saucière), fr. sausse (F. sauce). See SAUCE.]
1. A dish or plate to contain sauces at table. Obs.
2. A small shallow dish in which a cup is set at table.
3. Any of various things resembling or likened to a saucer in shape; as: a A saucershaped part of a plant. b Naut. (1) A flat, shallow caisson for raising sunken ships. (2) A sa·tu'ri·ty (sȧ·tū'rĭ·tĭ), n. [L. saturitas, fr. satur sated.] Saturation; repletion. Obs.

Sa·tur'nal·ia (sȧ·tûr'nȧlz), n. pl. Saturnalia. Obs.

Sa·tur'ni·cal, adj. Saturnine. Obs.

sat'ur·nin. Saturnine. Ref. Sp.

sa·tur'ni·ty, n. = SATURNINITY.

sat'ur·y. Obs. var. of SATYR.

Sa·tyr'i·dae (sȧ·tĭr'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. Syn. of AGAPETIDAE. Cf. SATYRINAE.

sat'yr·like', adj. See -LIKE. [n., 7.]

sauce'-cra'yon', n. See SAUCE, 1.

sauce'flem', sauce'fleume', n. [OF. sauseflume, fr. ML. salsum flegma salt phlegm. See SAUCE; PHLEGM.] A facial eruption. Obs. — sauce'flem'-ing, n. Obs.

sauce'flem', sauce'flemed', adj. Afflicted with sauceflem. Obs.

sauce'less, adj. See -LESS.

sauce'line (sôs'lĭn; -lĭn), n. & adj. = SAUCEPLEM.

sauce'plate', n. = SAUCEDISH.

‖sauce' pol'vrade' (sōs' pwȧ'-vrȧd'). [F.] = POIVRADE. sauce'maker, n. See -MAKER. — saucemaking, n. & adj.

sauce'plate', n. = SAUCEDISH.

shallow socket for the pivot of a capstan. c Sulphuric Acid Mfg. The base of the usual form of chamber turned up round the edges and partly filled with chamber acid, into which the dependent side dips to form a seal.

sau'cer (sô'sĕr), v. t. & i. To make or be saucerlike.

saucer dome. Arch. A dome that is less than a hemisphere in form, or that shows less than a hemisphere on the exterior.

saucer eye. Usually pl. A large, round, staring eye. — sau'cer–eye′, sau'cer–eyed′, adj.

sau'cer–eye′ por'gy. A porgy (Calamus calamus) of the West Indies and southern Florida, having longitudinal golden-yellow stripes. It reaches a length of one foot.

sau'cer-leaf′ (sô'sĕr-lēf′), n. A Malaysian ornamental shrub (Nothopanax cochleatum) with simple concave, shell-like leaves. It is often cultivated in the tropics.

sau'cer-like′ (-lĭk′), adj. Large and round, or round and shallow, like a saucer; of eyes, wide open and staring.

‖sauce′ Ro'bert′ (sōs′ rō′bâr′). [F.] Espagnole sauce flavored with onions, mustard, and lemon juice or vinegar.

sau'cer-y (sô'sĕr-ĭ), n. [OF. sausserie.] The part of a household concerned with the preparation of sauces. Obs.

‖sauce′ su'prême′ (sōs′ sü'prâm′). [F.] Velouté with cream, chicken stock, mushrooms, and lemon juice.

‖sauce′ ve·lou'té′ (vĕ·lōō'tā′). [F.] = VELOUTÉ.

‖sau'cis'son′ (sô'sĕs'sôn′), ‖sau'cisse′ (sô'sĕs′), n. [F. saucisson, fr. saucisse. See SAUSAGE.] 1. Mil. A tube of paper or canvas filled with powder, used as a fuse.

2. Fort. A large fascine.

sau'cy (sô'sĭ), adj.; SAU'CI-ER (-sĭ-ĕr); SAU'CI-EST. [From SAUCE. Cf. SASSY.] 1. Showing, or expressive of, impertinent boldness or forwardness; impudent; pert; as, a saucy eye; saucy looks; also, formerly, grossly disrespectful.

We then have done you bold and saucy wrongs. Shak.

2. Amusingly or piquantly forward or impertinent; — used in playful censure.

3. Smart; trim; — applied to a ship.

Our saucy ship's a beauty! W. S. Gilbert.

4. Obs. exc. Dial. a Obs. Seasoned with sauce; like or suggestive of sauce. b Scot. Vain; proud; conceited. c Now Dial. Disdainful; scornful. d Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. Overnice, esp. as to food. e Now Dial. Eng. Indecent; wanton.

Syn. — Forward, bold. See OFFICIOUS.

Ant. — Respectful; modest, shy.

sau'cy, adv. Saucily. Obs.

‖Sau'er·bra'ten (zou'ĕr·brä'tĕn), n. [G., fr. sauer sour + braten a roast, joint.] A pot roast, usually of beef, which has been soaked in vinegar before cooking.

sauer'kraut′ (sour'krout′), n. [G., fr. sauer sour + kraut cabbage.] Cabbage cut fine and allowed to ferment in a brine made of its own juice with salt.

sau'ger (sô'gĕr), n. [Prob. of N. Am. Ind. origin.] A pike perch (Cynoperca, syn. Stizostedion, canadensis) similar to the walleye, but smaller and less valued as food. It occurs from Montana to Arkansas and eastward.

saugh (sôk; säk), sauch, n. [AS. salh, sealh. See SALLOW, n.] = SALLOW. Chiefly Scot. & N. of Eng.

saugh'en (-ĕn), adj. [saugh + -en.] Of sallow or willow; also, figuratively, weak. Scot.

saught (sôkt), adj. [AS. seht, sæht, fr. ON. sāttr.] Reconciled; at ease. Obs. — v. t. To reconcile. Obs.

saught, n. [AS. seht, seaht, fr. ON. sætt, sātt.] Reconciliation; peace; also, quiet; ease. Obs.

Saul (sôl), n. [LL. Saul King Saul (fr. Gr. Saoul), Saulus St. Paul, fr. Gr. Saulos, fr. Heb. Shā'ūl.] 1. Literally asked for; — masc. proper name.

2. Bib. a The son of Kish, and first king of Israel, who fought the Philistines, quarreled with Samuel, pursued David, and fell on his sword in defeat by the Philistines. b The name originally borne by the apostle Paul; — often cited as SAUL OF TARSUS. See PAUL, 2. Acts xiii. 7, 9.

3. The title and hero of a poem (1845, enlarged 1855) by Browning.

saul (sôl). Var. of SOUL. Obs. exc. Dial.

saul. Var. of SOWL, v. Dial. Eng.

saul. Var. of SAL, the tree.

Saul among the prophets. One whose present associations or powers cannot be accounted for by his past history; — in allusion to 1 Sam. x. 11.

saul'ie (sôl'ĭ), n. A hired mourner. Scot.

sault (sält; sôlt), n. [OF. saut, fr. L. saltus, fr. salire to leap. See SALLY.] 1. A leap; a jump; specif., a leap in the manége. Obs.

2. (pron. sōō) A fall or rapid in a river. U. S. & Canada.

sault, v. i. [OF. sauter, fr. L. saltare.] To leap; jump. Obs. — sault'er, n. Obs.

sault. Aphetic for ASSAULT. Obs.

Sault whitefish (sōō). A whitefish (Caregonus labradoricus) ranging from northern New England to Lake Winnipeg.

sau'mont (sô'mŭnt), n. A salmon. Scot.

Sau'mur' (sô'mür'), n. Any of several white wines, either still or sparkling, from Saumur, France.

saunce bell (säns). The Sanctus bell. Archaic.

saun'ders (sôn'dĕrz; sän'-), n. A dish of minced meat and layers of mashed potato, somewhat resembling shepherd's pie.

saun'ders, n. = SAUNDERSWOOD, sandalwood.

Saun'ders, Richard. Pseudonym of Benjamin Franklin, in his publication Poor Richard's Almanac (begun 1732), which contains a series of maxims of prudence and industry.

saun'ders blue. [F. cendres bleues blue ashes.] a Ultramarine ash. b The color azurite blue (cendres blue).

saun'ders-wood′ (sôn'dĕrz-wŏŏd′; sän'-), n. Sandalwood.

saun'ter (sôn'tĕr; sän'-; 277), v. i.; SAUN'TERED (-tĕrd); SAUN'TER-ING. [Origin uncert.] 1. To ruminate wonderingly or perplexedly. Obs.

2. To walk about idly and in a leisurely manner; to lounge.

3. Hence, to dawdle; idle. Obs.

Syn. — Wander, roam, rove, ramble, range, stray. — SAUNTER, STROLL. SAUNTER suggests a leisurely pace, an idle and care-free mind, and aimlessness; STROLL also suggests leisurely rambling, but often implies more of purpose than saunter; as, "sauntering about the streets, loitering in a coffeehouse" (Fielding); "Then we strolled for hall the day thro' stately theaters" (Tennyson); "strolling players" (W. Pater). Cf. LINGER, RAMBLE, WANDER.

saun'ter (sôn'tĕr; sän'-), n. A sauntering; a strolling gait.

saun'ter·er, n. One who saunters.

saun'ter·ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SAUNTER. Hence: n. A leisurely journeying or strolling; a jaunt.

These saunterings along the pleasant byways of history. Agnes Repplier.

sau'qui, (sô'kē) n. [Var. of SOCKEYE.] Blueback salmon.

saur (sôr), n. [Of Scand. origin; cf. ON. saurr, Nor. dial. saur.] Cow barn; drainage; liquid manure; black soil; mud. Dial. Eng.

-saur. See -SAURUS.

saur-. = SAURO-.

saur (sôr). Scot. var. of SAVOR.

Sau'ra (sou'rä), n. sing. & pl. Also Sao'ra. One of a forest people on the mountains of the Eastern Ghats, India. In mode of life they are similar to the Khonds.

-sau'ra (-sô'rä). [NL. See -SAURUS.] Zool. A combining form, Greek -saura, from sauros, meaning lizard.

Sau'ra·se'nī (sou'rä·sā'nē), n. [Skr. Saurasenī.] The central Prakrit language, in northern India, closer to Sanskrit than the others. From it are descended Western Hindi and Panjabi. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

Sau·rau'ia (sô·rô'yȧ), n. [NL., after a Pg. botanist named Sauraujo.] Bot. A genus of 75 species of trees and shrubs (family Dilleniaceae), with toothed, parallel-veined leaves, and paniculate, pentamerous flowers, followed by a baccate fruit, edible in some Mexican species. Many are found in tropical Asia.

sau'rel (sô'rĕl), n. [F.] Any fish of the genus Trachurus (family Carangidae), esp. T. trachurus of Europe and America, and T. symmetricus of California, all very closely allied species. They are elongate, compressed fishes with a series of bony plates extending the full length of the lateral line.

Saurel (Trachurus trachurus).

Sau'ri·a (sô'rĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. saura, sauros, a lizard; akin to Gr. saukros, saulos, delicate, graceful.] Zool. A group of reptiles to which various ranks and limits have been assigned. It includes the lizards, and in older classifications the crocodiles and various extinct groups of more or less lizardlike form. When used in modern classifications commonly a suborder of Squamata equivalent to Lacertilia.

-sau'ri·a, -sau'ri·an. See -SAURUS.

sau'ri·an (sô'rĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the Sauria; lizardlike. — n. One of the Sauria; any lizardlike reptile, as a dinosaur or ichthyosaur.

sau'ri·o'sis (sô'rĭ·ō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sauros lizard + -osis.] Med. Ichthyosis with marked thickness of the skin.

Sau·ris'chi·a (sô·rĭs'kĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. saur- + ischium.] Paleontol. An order of reptiles including those dinosaurs in which the pelvis is triradiate, the pubes meeting in a ventral symphysis. It includes the carnivorous and sauropodous dinosaurs. — sau·ris'chi·an (-ăn), adj. & n.

saur'less (sôr'lĕs), adj. Savorless. Scot.

sau'ro- (sô'rō-), saur-. [See -SAURUS.] A combining form, Greek sauro-, saur-, from sauros, meaning lizard, as in *Sauro*poda, *Sauro*psida.

Sau·roc'to·nos (sô·rŏk'tō·nŏs), n. [Gr. sauroktonos, lit., lizard slayer.] An epithet of Apollo. See APOLLO.

Sau'ro·don'ti·dae (sô'rō·dŏn'tĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. saur- + -odont + -idae.] Paleontol. A family of Cretaceous fishes with powerful jaws and a single row of compressed knifelike teeth. — sau'ro·dont (sô'rō·dŏnt), adj. & n.

sau·rog'na·thous (sô·rŏg'nȧ·thŭs), adj. [sauro- + -gnathous.] Zool. Designating, or having, an arrangement of the bones of the palate, as in certain woodpeckers, in which the maxillopalatals are short and the vomer is divided longitudinally, being represented by a pair of slender rods. — sau·rog'na·thism (-thĭz'm), n.

Sau·roi'de·i (sô·roi'dē·ī), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. sauroeidēs.] Zool. & Paleontol. A group of ganoid fishes having flat rhomboidal scales, reptilelike teeth, and a bony skeleton. Obs. — sau'roid (sô'roid), adj. & n. Obs.

sau·roph'a·gous (sô·rŏf'ȧ·gŭs), adj. [sauro- + -phagous.] Zool. Feeding on lizards.

Sau·rop'oda (sô·rŏp'ō·dȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. sauro- + -poda.] Paleontol. A group of dinosaurs, usually a suborder of (Saurischia), consisting of herbivorous forms with a long neck and tail, small head, and more or less plantigrade five-toed limbs, all four used in walking. The group contains the most gigantic of land animals of any period, as the Atlantosaurus, Brontosaurus, Morosaurus, and Diplodocus. They are found from the Middle Jurassic into the Cretaceous. See BRONTOSAURUS, Illust. — sau'ro·pod (sô'rō·pŏd), n. & adj. — sau·rop'o·dous (sô·rŏp'ō·dŭs), adj.

Sauropoda. Hind Leg and Pelvis of Morosaurus grandis.

Sau·rop'si·da (sô·rŏp'sĭ·dȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. saur- + Gr. opsis appearance.] Zool. A comprehensive group of amniote vertebrates, which includes the classes Aves, or birds, and Reptilia, or reptiles. The group was first proposed by Huxley. They are oviparous or ovoviviparous, and the embryo develops an amnion and allantois. There are no mammary glands, the body cavity is not divided by a complete diaphragm, and air is breathed by lungs, never by gills. The blood corpuscles are oval and nucleated. The skull hinges on the spinal column by one condyle. The lateral hemispheres of the brain are not connected by a transverse commissure or corpus callosum. Cf. ICHTHYOPSIDA. — sau·rop'sid (-sĭd), n. — sau·rop'si·dan (-dăn), adj. & n. — sau'rop·sid'i·an (sô'rŏp·sĭd'ĭ·ăn), adj.

Sau·rop'ter·yg'i·a (sô·rŏp'tĕr·ĭj'ĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. sauro- + Gr. pteryx, -ygos, a wing.] Paleontol. An order of reptiles including the Nothosauri and Plesiosauria. — sau·rop'ter·yg'i·an (-ăn), adj. & n.

Sau'ru·ra'ce·ae (sô'rōō·rā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SAURURUS.] Bot. A family of perennial herbs (order Piperales), generally regarded as the lowest of the dicotyledons. They have small flowers, destitute of perianth, in terminal spikes; the ovary consists of several separate carpels. There are three genera and four species, natives of North America and Asia. — sau'ru·ra'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Sau·ru'rus (sô·rōō'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. saur- + -urus.] Bot. A genus of plants typifying the Saururaceae. They are herbs with alternate cordate leaves, and catkinlike racemes of white flowers having four to eight stamens and an ovary of four carpels coalescent into a capsule in fruit. There are two species, one Asiatic, the other (S. cernuus, the lizard's-tail) North American. See LIZARD'S-TAIL.

-sau'rus (-sô'rŭs). [See SAURIA.] Zool. & Paleontol. A modern Latin suffix from Greek sauros, lizard, used chiefly in paleontology and herpetology, as in Ichthyo*saurus,* Plio*saurus,* Titano*saurus.* Corresponding names of families, classes, etc., are formed in -sau'ri·dae, -sau'ri·a, and of individuals in -sau'rid, -saur. Derivative adjectives are formed in -sau'ri·an. See DINOSAUR, and the following words

Atlantosaurus	Mastodonsaurus	Stegosaurus
Brontosaurus	Mosasaurus	Titanosaurus
Ichthyosaurus	Plesiosaurus	Tyrannosaurus sau'ry (sô'rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [NL., saurus. See -SAURUS.] a A slender long-beaked fish (Scombresox saurus) related to the flying fishes, and found in the temperate parts of the Atlantic north to Cape Cod and the French coast. It becomes about eighteen inches long, and swims in large schools, often leaping from the water when pursued by larger fishes. b In Australia, any of various lizard fishes.

Saury a.

sau'sage (sô'sĭj), n. [ME. sausige, fr. ONF. saussiche (OF. & F. saucisse), fr. VL. salsicia, fr. L. salsus salted. See SAUCE.] 1. Meat (esp. pork) minced and highly seasoned, and commonly forced into a tubular case made of the prepared intestine of some animal, which is tied shut, usually at short intervals to form a string of plump cylindrical sections with rounded ends; also, one of these sections.

2. = SAUCISSON.

3. A captive observation balloon of German construction. Army Slang.

4. A German; — used contemptuously. Slang.

5. A piece of crude rubber in the shape of a sausage.

sausage balloon, or sausage, n. = KITE BALLOON. See 1st BALLOON, 2.

sausage bassoon. Music. = RACKETT.

sausage curl. A sausage-shaped curl.

sausage filler. See FILLER.

sausage maker. One who makes sausages, esp. for the market. — sausage making.

sausage meat. Pork sausage in bulk.

sausage poisoning. Poisoning, specif. botulism, from sausages containing bacterial toxins.

sausage tree. A tropical African tree (Kigelia africana), family Bignoniaceae, often cultivated in tropical countries for its brownish-red, bell-shaped flowers and long, sausage-shaped fruits.

sau'sin·ger (sô'sĭn·jĕr; säs'ĭn-), n. A sausage. Dial.

Saus·su're·a (sô·sü'rē·ȧ), n. [NL., after H. Bénédict (1740–99) and N. Théodore (1767–1845) de Saussure, Swiss naturalists.] Bot. A large genus of herbs of the thistle family (Carduaceae), the sawworts, found mostly in temperate and cool regions of Eurasia. They have thistlelike heads of blue or purple flowers. S. lappa yields the costusroot.

Saus'sure's′ hy·grom'e·ter (sô'sürz′). [After H. B. de Saussure, Swiss naturalist.] A hair hygrometer.

saus·su'rite (sô·sŭ'rĭt; sôs'ŭ·rĭt), n. [After H. B. de Saussure, Swiss naturalist.] Mineral. & Petrog. A tough, compact substance, white, greenish, or grayish, produced, in part at least, by alteration of feldspar, and consisting chiefly of zoisite or epidote. — saus'su·rit'ic (sôs'ŭ·rĭt'ĭk), adj.

saussurite gabbro. Petrog. A gabbro whose feldspar is altered to saussurite.

saus·su'ri·tize (sô·sŭ'rĭ·tīz), v. t. To convert (feldspar) into saussurite. — saus·su'ri·ti·za'tion (-tĭ·zā'shŭn; -tĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

sau·té′ (sô·tā′), adj. [F., past part. of sauter prop., to jump.] Cookery. Fried lightly and quickly in a little hot fat while being frequently turned over. Hence: sau·té′, v. t.; SAU·TÉED′ (sô·tād′); SAU·TÉ′ING.

sau·té′, n. A sautéed dish.

‖sau'ter′ (sô'tā′), v. t. [F.] Cookery. To sauté.

sau'ter (sô'tĕr). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SALTER.

‖sau'te·reau′ (sô't'rō′), n. [F.] The jack of a harpsichord, etc.

sau'te·relle′ (sō'tĕ·rĕl′), n. [F.] An instrument used by masons and others to trace and form angles.

sau'terne′ (sō·tûrn′ F. sō'tĕrn′), n. Also sau·ternes′. [From Sauternes, Gironde, France.] 1. A luscious white wine from the communes of Sauternes, Preignac, Bommes, Barsac, and Fargues. The finest sauterne is that from the vineyards of Château Yquem. See BORDEAUX, n., 2.

2. The color corn.

sau·teur′ (sō·tûr′), n. [F., leaper.] The leather jack.

‖sau'toir′ (sô'twär′), n. [F.] a Heraldry. A saltier. b A chain, ribbon, or the like, to be worn about the neck with the ends forming a St. Andrew's cross on the breast. c Jewelry. A long gold chain often set with precious stones.

sa·u'va ant (sȧ·ōō'vȧ). Sauba ant.

Sau'va·ge'si·a (sô'vȧ·jē'zĭ·ȧ; -sĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after F. B. de Sauvages de la Croix (1706–67), French botanist and physician.] Bot. A genus of chiefly tropical American herbs or undershrubs (family Ochnaceae) having alternate sau'cer-ful, n.; pl. -FULS. See -FUL.

---

sau'cer-less, adj. See -LESS.

sau'cer-shaped′, adj. See -SHAPED.

sauch. Scot. var. of SAUGH.

saucht. † SAUGHT.

sau'ci·ly, adv. of SAUCY.

sau'ci·ness, n. See -NESS.

sau'cy. Var. of 1st SASSY.

saudan. † SOLDAN.

sauder. † SOLDER, SOLDIER.

saue. † SAVE; SAW, past tense; SOW. [exc. Scot.] sauf (sôf). Var. of SAVE. Obs.

sauf (sôf). Var. of SAUGH.

sauf, sauf'ly, saufte. † SAFE, adj., SAFELY, SAFETY.

‖sauf′-con'duit′ (sôf'kôn'dwē′), n. [F.] Safe-conduct.

saugh (sou). Var. of SOUGH, a drain.

saugh. † saw, past tense of SEE.

sauk (sôk). n. Var. of SOK. See MEASURE, Table.

Sauk (sôk). Var. of SAC.

sauld (sôld). Scot. var. of sold, past tense & past part. of SELL.

sauldyer. † SOLDIER.

saule. † SOUL.

saulee. † SOWL, a relish.

saulge. † SAGE.

Saul'ites (sôl'ĭts). D. Bib. sault'a·ble, adj. [See ASSAULTABLE.] Assaultable. Obs.

Saul'teur′ (sô'tûr′), n. [F., also Sauteur, Sauteux, pl. Sauteaux, fr. the Sau(lt) Sainte Marie, near which these Indians lived in the 17th century.] = OJIBWAY.

saum (zoum), n.; pl. SAUME (zoi'mĕ). [G., fr. OHG. soum a beast's burden, fr. VL. sauma. See SEAM load.] See WEIGHT, Table; MEASURE, Table.

sau'mon (sô'mŭn). Scot. var. of SALMON. [Obs.

sauno'ing bell. = SANCTUS BELL.]

Sau'nik·tu'miut (sou'nĭk·tōō'mūt), n. See ESKIMO.

saunt. † CENT (sense 3 a).

saunt (sänt; sônt). Var. of SAINT, SANT. Scot. & N. of Eng.

saun'tered. Sauntered. Ref. Sp.

saun'ter·ing·ly, adv. of sauntering, pres. part.

Sa'u·ra (sä'ōō·rȧ). D. Bib.

Sau·rau'i·a'ce·ae (sô·rô'ĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of DILLENIACEAE (in part).

sau·ri'a·sis (sô·rĭ'ȧ·sĭs). Var. of SAURIOSIS.

-sau'rid (-sô'rĭd), -sau'ri·dae (-rĭ·dē). See -SAURUS.

Sau'ri·i (sô'rĭ·ī), n. pl. Var. of SAURIA.

Sau·rog'na·thae (sô·rŏg'nȧ·thē), n. pl. [NL. See SAUROGNATHOUS.] = CELEOMORPHAE.

Sau'ro·ma'tian (sô'rō·mā'shăn), adj. [Gr. Sauromatai, Sarmatai, Sarmatians.] = SARMATIAN, 1.

Sau·ror'ni·thes (sô·rôr'nĭ·thēz), n. pl. [NL. See SAURO-; ORNITHO-.] Syn. of ARCHAEORNITHES. — sau'ror·nith'ic (sô'rôr·nĭth'ĭk), adj.

Sau·ru'rae (sô·rōō'rē), n. pl. [NL. See SAURURUS.] Syn. of ARCHAEORNITHES. — sau·ru'ran (-răn), adj. & n. — sau·ru'rous (-rŭs), adj.

sau'sage-fin′gered, adj. See -FINGERED.

sau'sage-like′, adv. See -LIKE.

sau'sage-shaped′, adj. See -SHAPED.

saust. Sauced. Ref. Sp.

saut (sät; sôt). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SALT.

sauter. † PSALTER.

‖sau'til'le′ (sô'tē'yē′), adj. [F.] Music. = SALTATO.

sautree, sautrie. † PSALTERY.

saut'y (sät'ĭ; sôt'ĭ). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SALTY.

---

leaves, fringed stipules, and small pentamerous flowers with two rows of staminodia, the outer filiform, the inner petaloid. S. erecta is the St.-Martin's-herb.

sauve'garde (sōv'gärd), n. [F.] A monitor (lizard).

sav'age (săv'ĭj), adj.; SAV'AG·ER (-ĭj·ẽr); SAV'AG·EST. [OF. sauvage, fr. VL. salvaticus, for L. silvaticus belonging to a wood, wild, fr. silva a wood. See SILVAN.] 1. Of or pertaining to the forest; remote from human abodes and cultivation; in a state of nature; wild; rugged; as, a savage wilderness.
2. Wild; untamed; not domesticated; as, savage beasts.
3 Uncultivated; wild. Archaic.
Cornels, and savage berries of the wood. Dryden.
4. Obs. a Intrepid. b Reckless. c Rustic. d Solitary.
5. Unrestrained by decorum; unpolished; rude; as, savage manners, clamor, joys.
6. Characterized by cruelty; fierce; ferocious; inhuman; as, a savage beast, breast, pleasure.
7. a Uncivilized; — of peoples in a low stage of culture. Cf. BARBAROUS, 3. b Pertaining to or characteristic of savagery.
8. Showing fury because of rage, pain, etc.; as, to look savage; — often, Colloq., with on or with (a person).
Syn. — Rude, brutish, cruel, pitiless, merciless, atrocious. See FEROCIOUS, BARBARIAN.
Ant. — Cultivated, tame; civilized; gentle, mild.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

savage-featured	savage-hearted	savage-spoken savage-fierce	savage-looking	savage-wild sav'age (săv'ĭj), n. 1. A human being living in a rude primitive state little removed from that of animals; one untaught, uncivilized, or without cultivation; often, specif., an American Indian.

2. One who displays unfeeling, brutal cruelty; one who shows utter disregard of mannerly behavior.
3. A wild or ferocious animal; now, esp., a vicious horse.

sav'age, v. Transitive: 1. To make savage.
2. To attack savagely; to treat with savagery; specif., of a beast, to bite or trample furiously.
[Wind and rain] savage the helpless trees. Henley.
——, Intransitive: To act savagely. Rare.

sav'age·rous (săv'ĭj·rŭs), adj. [savage + barbar*ous*.] Barbarously savage. Slang, U. S.

sav'age·ry (săv'ĭj·rĭ), n.; pl.-RIES (-rĭz). [F. sauvagerie.]
1. Savage disposition or action; an act of cruelty; barbarity.
2. State of being savage, or uncivilized; savageness; savagism. "Primeval savagery." C. Kingsley.
3. Wild growth, as of plants. Obs. Shak.
4. Wildness, as of nature; wild beasts collectively.
5. Savages collectively.

sav'ag·ess (săv'ĭj·ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female savage. Rare.

sav'ag·ism (-ĭj·ĭz'm), n. State of being savage; utter barbarism; also, savages collectively.

sav'ag·ize (-ĭz), v. t. To turn into a savage or savages.

sa·va·nil'la (săv'ä·nĭl'ä), n. The tarpon. Local, U. S.

sa·va·nil'la rhat'a·ny. [From Sabanilla, Colombia.] Pharm. The root of Krameria ixina, as distinguished from rhatany obtained from other species of Krameria.

sa·van'na, sa·van'nah (sȧ·văn'ȧ), n. [Sp. zavana (now sabana), fr. Taino zabana.] 1. A tract of level land covered with ice or snow. Obs.
2. A treeless plain; an open, level region; — used chiefly with reference to the southern United States, esp. Florida.
3. Biogeog. A tropical or subtropical grassland containing scattered trees, the undergrowth being chiefly of the xerophilous type, such as the campos of Brazil (see CAMPO, 1) or similar regions in Africa where the baobab is the dominant tree. They pass on the one hand into steppes, on the other into savanna woodland. See GRASSLAND, 2.

savanna blackbird. An ani.

savanna flower. Any West Indian plant of the genus Echites.

savanna forest. Biogeog. = SAVANNA WOODLAND.

savanna sparrow. A small streaked brown-and-white North American sparrow (Passerculus sandwichensis savanna or related variety) inhabiting fields and meadows.

savanna wattle. The fiddlewood Citharexylum fruticosum of the West Indies; also, the related tree C. quadrangulare.

savanna woodland. Biogeog. A parklike woodland in which the undergrowth is of the xerophilous type.

sa·vant' (sȧ·vänʹ; sȧ·vänt'; 277), n.; pl. SAVANTS (sȧ·vänz'; sȧ·vänts'). [F., fr. savoir to know, fr. L. sapere. See SAGE, adj.] A man of learning; one versed in literature or science.

Sav'a·ra (săv'ȧ·rȧ; sŭv'-), n. One of a people in northeastern Madras; also, their language, a Munda tongue mixed with Dravidian. See AUSTROASIATIC.

sa'va'rin' (sȧ'vȧ'răn'), n. [F., after Brillat-Savarin (1755–1826), French gourmet.] Brioche baked in a ring mold and covered with almonds, citron, etc.

Sa'vart' plate (sȧ'vȧr'). Also Sa'vart's' an'a·lyz'er (sȧ'-vȧrz'). [After F. Savart, French physicist.] Physics. A plane parallel plate, used in the study of polarized light, made by (1) cutting a plate from a quartz crystal at an angle of 45° with the optic axis, (2) cutting this plate into two halves, and (3) mounting the halves, one above the other, one being rotated through 90° with reference to the other.

Sa'vart's', or Sa'vart', wheel (sȧ'vȧrz', sȧ'vȧr'). [See SAVART PLATE.] Acous. An instrument consisting of a disk with teeth that are rotated against a tongue, the pitch of the tone produced varying with the speed of rotation.

‖sa'vate' (sȧ'vȧt'), n. [F., orig., old shoe. See SABOT.] An old form of boxing, formerly practiced in France, in which blows are delivered with either the feet or the hands.

sav·a'tion (săv·ā'shŭn), n. A saving. Dial. Eng.

save (sāv), v.; SAVED (sāvd); SAV'ING (sāv'ĭng). [OF. salver, sauver, fr. LL. salvare, fr. salvus saved, safe. See SAFE; cf. SALVAGE, SALVER.] Transitive:
I. To rescue; protect.
1. To make safe or procure the safety of; to rescue or deliver from danger; as, to save a house from the flames.
God save all this fair company. Chaucer.
He cried, saying, Lord, save me. Matt. xiv. 30.
2. To maintain intact, as honor or reputation; also, to safeguard, as a right.
3. a To protect by anticipation; preserve; — with from; as, to save one from falling. b To preserve or guard from injury, destruction, or loss; as, to save powder from moisture.
4. a To deliver from a sickness which endangers life; as, saved by an operation. b To rescue from loss by shipwreck, fire, etc.
5. To avoid losing by being just in time for; to catch; as, to save the mail or the train.
6. To reclaim or withhold from moral laxity.
7. Obs. a To spare instead of slaying; to permit to live. b To heal or cure. c To keep in one's own hands or in custody. d To preserve by or as by curing. e To satisfy, as longing or a doubt.
II. To keep; reserve.
8. To put by as a store or reserve; lay by; hoard; as, to save money for old age.
9. a To keep from being spent, wasted, or lost; as, to save one's carfare; to save one's time or strength.
Now save a nation, and now save a groat. Pope.
b To enable (one) to avoid the expenditure or loss of; as, to save millions to the public.
Thou hast saved me a thousand marks. Shak.
10. a To retain or keep for a purpose or for possible use; as, to save a suit for Sundays, or seed for a crop. b To preserve in serviceable condition by careful or sparing use. "His youthful hose well sav'd." Shak.
11. To obviate the necessity or occasion of; to avoid or enable (one) to avoid; as, to save one labor. "A stitch in time saves nine." Old Proverb.
12. To dry in the open air, as grain, hay, or peat. Local, Brit.
III. Technical senses.
13. Horse Racing. a To keep from breaking, from being distanced, etc. b Slang. To hedge in betting so as to prevent from loss or recover from losses.
14. Mining. To obtain (precious metal) from ore.
15. Sports. To prevent the opposing side from scoring or winning, as a goal or wager.
16. Theol. To deliver from sin; to rescue from condemnation and spiritual death, and bring into spiritual life.
Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. 1 Tim. i. 15.
——, Intransitive: 1. To rescue; deliver.
The same ambition can destroy or save. Pope.
2. To avoid loss. Obs.
3. To avoid or obviate unnecessary expense or waste; to be economical.
Brass ordnance saveth in the quantity of the material. Bacon.
4. To put by savings; as, to save for a holiday.
5. To keep; last; as, food that will save.
6. Hockey, Assoc. Football, etc. To make a save.
Syn. — SAVE, RESCUE. SAVE, the more general term, implies preservation from evil of any kind; RESCUE more frequently suggests deliverance from immediate or impending danger or evil; but the words are often interchangeable; as, "To save the life despaired of" (Tennyson); "We are beset with thieves; rescue thy mistress" (Shak.). Cf. CONSERVE, KEEP, RELEASE.

save appearances. a Obs. To explain observed phenomena satisfactorily. b To make a show of having or doing what is conventionally expected.

save face. To preserve one's dignity or standing before others. "Some excuse which would save my face." Stephen McKenna.

save, or bless, the mark, or, more fully, God (or Heaven) save, or bless, the mark. Exclamatory phrases expressing apology for mention of something unseemly, or, now, after Shakespeare, expressing deprecation or impatience.

save up. To accumulate bit by bit; to deposit safely or lay by small unspent sums of money, esp. in preparation for a large expenditure.

save you. Short for God save you; — formerly used as a greeting.

save your reverence. An apologetical phrase for an unseemly expression made in the presence of a priest or clergyman. Cf. SAVING, prep., 2.

save (sāv), prep. [F. sauf, prop. adj., safe. See SAFE, adj.] Chiefly Archaic & Literary. 1. With the exception of; not including; deducting; barring.
Five times received I forty stripes save one. 2 Cor. xi. 24.
2. Except; but; — governing an adverbial expression or an infinitive; as, no question save in the minds of partisans; without duties save to eat and sleep; dark save for one lamp.
Syn. — See EXCEPT.

save (sāv), conj. Chiefly Archaic & Literary. 1. Were it not that; leaving out the fact that; also, unless; — now usually with that.
2. On the other hand; but. Obs.
3. But; except; — followed by a pronoun in the nominative case, which is accounted for by some as originally a substantive following the adjective safe. Cf. BUT, prep., 2 a.
No one upon living ground Save He who came as rightful Heir. Wordsworth.

save (sāv), n. 1. An act of saving, as, in sports, preventing a score or victory by an opponent.
2. Salvage, as from a fire. Australia.

save (sāv), n. [L. salvia sage (the plant), confused with L. salvare to save, and E. save, v.] A decoction of various herbs. Obs.

save'-all', n. [save + all.] 1. Any of various things which prevent waste or loss or, rarely, damage. Specif.: a A device for saving odds and ends, esp. one in a candlestick to hold the candle end, so that it may burn. b An outer garment, such as a pinafore or boy's overalls, covering all other clothing. c Brit. Navy. A small metal trough under an air port (scuttle) to catch any leakage. d Naut. A small sail sometimes set under the foot of another sail or between two sails.
2. A receptacle for catching waste products for further utilization; as: a Gold Dredging. A small sluice used to catch the drippings from the buckets as they go into the well after discharging. b Paper Mfg. Any filter, box, or settling tank for saving all the waste pulp that escapes through the wires of a paper machine along with the surplus liquid. c Sugar Mfg. An overflow vessel connected with a vacuum pan.
3. A contribution box or child's bank.
4. A miser. Dial.

save'-all', adj. Miserly.

saved (sāvd), past tense & past part. of SAVE. Specif.: 1. In obsolete use equivalent to a preposition: with preservation of, provided that no damage come to.
2. As participial adjective: a Rescued from eternal punishment; — often substantially with the. b Kept unused or unspent; — often with up.

sav'e·loy (săv'ĕ·loi), n. [F. cervelas, fr. It. cervellata, fr. cervello brain, fr. L. cerebellum, dim. of cerebrum brain. See CEREBRAL; cf. CERVELAT.] A kind of dried sausage.

sav'er (sāv'ẽr), n. One who or that which saves; specif.: a A savior. b Obs. One who gains as much as he loses, orig. in gaming. c A salvor. d One who lays by or economizes. e That which saves or prevents loss or waste of time, labor, money, etc. f Horse Racing. Slang. A hedging bet.

Sa'ver·y (sā'vẽr·ĭ), adj. Designating furniture in Chippendale designs, made in America during the Revolutionary period chiefly by William Savery in Philadelphia.

sav'in, sav'ine (săv'ĭn), n. Also sab'ine (săb'ĭn). [ME. saveine, savyne, fr. late AS. safine, savine and OF. savine (F. sabine), fr. L. sabina savin, fr. Sabina herba Sabine herb.] a A Eurasian evergreen, mostly prostrate, juniper (Juniperus sabina) with dark foliage and small berries having a glaucous bloom. Its bitter, acrid tops are sometimes used in medicine for gout, amenorrhea, as an abortifacient, etc. b In North America, the red cedar J. virginiana and the creeping juniper J. horizontalis. c Any of several trees, shrubs, or shrubby herbs somewhat resembling Juniperus, esp. of the genera Artemisia, Zanthoxylum, Caesalpinia, Torreya, etc.

sav'ing (sāv'ĭng), pres. part. of SAVE. Specif.: adj. That saves; as: a Preserving; rescuing; esp., Theol., leading to salvation; as, saving grace. b Economizing; frugal; economical; as, a saving cook. c Making return barely adequate to offset losses; as, a saving bargain or game. d Offsetting or compensating; as, one saving quality, its humor. e Making reservation or exception; as, a saving clause.
—sav'ing·ly, adv.

sav'ing, n. 1. Act of saving: a Preservation from danger or loss; as, the saving of the soul. b Economy in outlay; prevention of waste; reduction in cost; as, a saving of ten per cent in cost of mining.
2. That which is saved; something laid up or kept from being expended or lost; specif., pl., sums saved from time to time, and kept unexpended; as, the savings of years
3. Exception; reservation. Chiefly Law.
Syn. — Preservation; economy, thrift.
Ant. — Prodigality. See WASTE.

-sav'ing. A Combining form for saving, n., as in:

laborsaving	moneysaving	spacesaving
lifesaving	soulsaving	timesaving sav'ing (sāv'ĭng), prep. 1. Save; except; excepting.

2. Without disrespect to. Cf. save your reverence, under SAVE, v. "Saving your reverence." Shak.

sav'ing (sāv'ĭng), conj. Save; except. Archaic.

saving arch. = SAFETY ARCH.

saving clause. Law. A clause in an instrument exempting something from its operation.

saving daylight. = DAYLIGHT SAVING.

saving faith. See FAITH, 9 b. sav'ing·ness, n. 1. Quality of being saving; frugality.

2. Tendency to promote salvation.

sav'ings ac·count' (sāv'ĭngz). Banking. An account in a bank, esp. a savings bank, on which interest is usually paid, and from which withdrawals can be made only by presenting a passbook or by written authorization on prescribed forms. Cf. CHECKING ACCOUNT.

sav'ings bank. A bank the business of which is to receive and invest small deposits, chiefly savings, and pay compound interest thereon, without deduction except for business expenses. A savings bank may be a trustee savings bank, or, briefly, a trustee bank, of which more or less of the officers are trustees acting without pay; a joint-stock savings bank, managed as a joint-stock company; a municipal savings bank, managed as a branch of the municipal government; a postal, or post-office, savings bank, conducted by a government through the local post offices; or a school savings bank, conducted to receive very small deposits from school children.

savings stamps. Stamps of small denominations (as 1, 5, 10, and 25 cents) issued by a savings bank as an encouragement to thrift, to be purchased, esp. by school children. When a card has been filled with these stamps, they serve as a deposit at the bank.

sav'ing tree (sāv'ĭng; sāv'ĭn). The savin Juniperus sabina.

sav'ior, sav'iour (sāv'yẽr), n. [ME. saviour, saveour, fr. OF. sa(u)veo(u)r, salveor (F. sauveur), fr. LL. salvator, fr. salvare to save. See SAVE, v.] 1. One who saves, preserves, or delivers from destruction or danger.
2. [cap.] In this sense Saviour. Specif.: the (or our, your, etc.) Saviour, he who brings salvation to men; Jesus Christ, the Redeemer; — in the New Testament sometimes also applied to God.
The Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world. 1 John iv. 14.

sav'ior·ess, sav'iour·ess (-ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female savior. Rare.

Savior of Rome. Marius (B.C. 157?–86); — so called after his defeat of the Cimbri and Teutones.

Sav'i·tar (sāv'ĭ·tär), n. [Skr. Savitṛ.] Vedic Relig. The sun in its life-giving creative aspect, one of the most important Vedic gods.

Sa'vi·tri (sä'vĭ·trē), n. [Skr. sāvitrī.] 1. The most sacred verse or mantra, better known as the Gayatri, of the Rig-Veda, a couplet addressed to Savitar.
2. A heroine of the Mahabharata, who by her devotion recovers her dead husband from the nether world.

‖sa'voir'–faire' (sȧ'vwȧr'fȧr'), n. [F.] Literally, knowing how to do; tact; experienced cleverness; readiness in knowing how to act.

‖sa'voir'–vi'vre (-vē'vr'), n. [F.] Literally, knowing how to live; good breeding; refined manners.

sav'o·la (săv'ō·lȧ), n. [Cf. SABALO.] a The cutlass fish. b The milkfish.

Sav'o·na·ro'list (săv'ō·nȧ·rō'lĭst), n. A follower of Savonarola. Rare.

Sa'vonne'rie' (sȧ'vŏn'rē'), adj. Designating a kind of fine handmade one-piece carpet with a pile, or a similarly woven tapestry, manufactured in Paris; — so called from the former establishment (where there had formerly been a soap factory, savonnerie) at Chaillot, near the Seine. The Savonnerie manufacture is now merged with the Gobelin.

sa'vor, sa'vour (sā'vẽr), n. [ME. savour, savor, savur, fr. OF. savor, savour (F. saveur), fr. L. sapor. See SAGE, adj.] 1. a That property of a thing which affects the organs of taste or (less often) smell; taste and odor; flavor; relish; scent; as, the savor of an orange or a rose; an ill savor. b A specific taste or smell, esp. one qualifying that of a substance.
2. Hence: a Specific flavor or quality; characteristic property; distinctive temper, taint, and the like.
Why is not my life a continual joy, and the savor of heaven perpetually upon my spirit? Baxter.

---

sauve (sōv). Dial. Eng. var. of SALVE.

‖sauve' qui peut' (sōv' kē pŭ'). [F.] Save himself who can; hence, a complete rout.

sav'a·ble (sāv'ȧ·b'l), adj. See -ABLE. — sav'a·ble·ness, n.

sa·va'cion, n. [OF. sauvacion.] Salvation. Obs.

sav'a·cu', Var. of SABICU.

sav'age·dom, n. See -DOM.

sav'age·ly, adv. of SAVAGE.

sav'age·ness, n. See -NESS.

sa'va'n', Incorrect for SAVANT.

sa·van'nah. Var. of SAVANNA.

Sa·van'nah, n. See SHIP, Table.

Sa·van'nah, n. = SHAWNEE.

Savannah merchantable. Lumber Trade. See PRINT, n., 14.

Sav'a·ran (săv'ȧ·răn). Bib.

Sav'a·sta'na (săv'ȧ·stä'nȧ), n. Syn. of HIEROCHLOE.

save'a·ble, save'a·ble·ness. Vars. of SAVABLE, SAVABLENESS.

save'gard', save'guard'. Obs. vars. of SAFEGUARD.

Sa'vels·berg proc'ess (sä'vĭlz·bûrg). = BLAST ROASTING.

save'ment, n. [OF. sauvement.] Act of saving; salvation. Obs.

sav'ey. Var. of SAVVY.

Sa·vi'as (sȧ·vī'ȧs). Bib.

sav'in-leaved', adj. See -LEAVED.

sav'in, or sav'ine, oil. See OIL, Table I.

sav'ior·hood, sav'iour·hood, n. See -HOOD.

sav'ior·ship, sav'iour·ship, n. See -SHIP.

Saviour, Order of the. See BRIGITTINE. savity. † SAFETY.

---

b A qualifying flavor; a tinge.
3. Power to distinguish taste or scent; perception. Obs.
4. Gratification from or taste for something; relish; pleasure; delight. Obs.
5. Power to excite the sense of taste or smell; hence, power to arouse interest or zest.
6. Reputation; repute; character. Cf. ODOR. Archaic.
Syn. — See TASTE.

sa'vor, sa'vour (sā'vĕr), v.; SA'VORED, SA'VOURED (-vĕrd); SA'VOR·ING, SA'VOUR·ING. [OF. savourer, savorer (F. savourer), fr. LL. saporare. See SAVOR, n.] Intransitive: 1. To have a taste or smell, as of a certain kind or quality; to taste; smell; smack; — with of; as, food that savors of onions. Archaic.
2. To partake of the quality or nature; to indicate the presence or influence; to smack; — with of.
This savors not much of distraction. Shak.
I have rejected everything that savors of party. Addison.
3. Obs. a To be agreeable to one's taste; to be satisfactory. b To have a bad smell. c To perceive by taste or smell.
—, Transitive: 1. To impart flavor to; to season; now, figuratively, to flavor; tone; also, to impart a scent to.
2. To have the flavor or quality of; to indicate presence of.
That cuts us off from hope, and savors only Rancor and pride, impatience and despite. Milton.
3. To gratify; suit; please. Obs.
4. a Archaic. To perceive by the taste or the smell. b Obs. Hence, to perceive; learn; experience; understand; know.
5. To taste or smell with pleasure; to delight in; to relish; like; now esp., figuratively, to taste critically or discriminatingly; to have critical or esthetic appreciation of.
It is the sense and not the sentiment of the verse or prose that is savored by the actor and the audience. W. C. Brownell.

sa'vored, sa'voured (sā'vĕrd), adj. Of a particular quality or strength of savor.

sa'vor·er, sa'vour·er (-vĕr·ĕr), n. One who savors.

sa'vor·i·ly, sa'vour·i·ly (sā'vĕr·ĭ·lĭ), adv. 1. In a relishing manner or so as to be savory.
2. With relish or enjoyment of savor; also, agreeably; pleasurably; with spiritual delight. Obs.

sa'vor·ly, sa'vour·ly, adv. With keen relish, feeling, or understanding. Obs.

sa'vor·ly, sa'vour·ly, adj. Savory. Obs.

sa'vor·ous (sā'vĕr·ŭs), adj. [OF. savoros, saverous (F. savoureux), fr. LL. saporosus. See SAVOR, n.; cf. SAPOROUS.] Having a savor; savory; also, Obs., enjoyable or delightful.

sa'vor·y, sa'vour·y (sā'vĕr·ĭ), adj.; -I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); -I·EST. [OF. savouré, past part. See SAVOR, v.] 1. Having a grateful savor (or, formerly, any savor); pleasing to taste or smell; appetizing.
2. Hence, agreeable; delightful; piquant.

sa'vor·y (-ĭ), n. Also sa'vour·y. [Appar. through OF. (cf. OF. sarrie, F. sarriette), fr. L. satureia; influenced by savory, adj.] 1. a An aromatic European mint (Satureia hortensis), much used in cooking; — called also summer savory. b Any other species of Satureia, esp. S. montana, sometimes called winter savory.
2. [From SAVORY, adj.] A small dish or a course, usually served at the end of a dinner in contrast to the sweet, consisting of a highly seasoned concoction, as an anchovy canapé or a cheese fondue. Brit.

sa·voy' (sȧ·voi'), n. [F. chou de Savoie cabbage of Savoy.] Hort. a A race of cabbage having a compact head with wrinkled and curled leaves. b A variety of spinach having wrinkled leaves.

Sa·voy', The, [After Peter of Savoy, Earl of Richmond (d. 1268).] A former palace in London, built about 1250, later the town home of the Dukes of Lancaster. It was destroyed by the followers of Wat Tyler in 1381. A chapel royal is now on the site.

Sa·voy'ard (sȧ·voi'ĕrd; F. sȧ'vwȧ'yȧr'), n. [F.] 1. A native or inhabitant of Savoy, which is peopled by typical representatives of Ripley's "Alpine race," speaking a dialect of the langue d'oc. In Europe Savoyards are well known as itinerants with hurdy-gurdy and monkey.
2. An inhabitant of the environs of Savoy Palace, London. Hist.
3. An ardent admirer, student, actor, or producer of the Savoy operas (see SAVOYARD, adj.).

Sa·voy'ard, adj. 1. Of or pertaining to Savoy.
2. Of or pertaining to the Savoy Theater, London, and hence esp. to the comic operas of Gilbert and Sullivan (the Savoy operas), which from Iolanthe on were produced at this theater.

Sa·voy' bis'cuit (sȧ·voi'). [From Savoy, France.] A ladyfinger, esp. one having two parts joined together.

Savoy cake. a Savoy biscuit. b A large spongecake often baked or cut in fancy shape.

Savoy Declaration or Confession. A declaration or confession of faith and order adopted in 1658 by the English Congregationalists at a meeting in the Savoy Palace, London. Its doctrine was essentially that of the Westminster Confession. Slightly modified, it was adopted in America by the Boston Synod of 1680 and the Saybrook Synod of 1708. It is no longer regarded as authoritative.

sa·voyed' (sȧ·void'), adj. Curled and wrinkled; specif., Plant Pathol., abnormally wrinkled as a result of disease, esp. a virus infection; — said of leaves or plants, from the resemblance to savoy cabbage. — sa·voy'ing, n.

Savoy medlar. A European shadbush (Amelanchier ovalis), mostly shrubby, having white, racemose flowers, and dark fruit with a bloom; — called also rock medlar.

Savoy Theater, The. Also The Savoy. A famous London theater, orig. specially built (1881) for the presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. See SAVOYARD, adj., 2.

savs'sat (sȧvs'sȧt), n. In arctic regions, a throng of animals, esp. of seafowl, crowded around a hole in the ice.

sav'vy, sav'vey (sȧv'ĭ), v. t. & i. [Sp. saber to know, sabe usted do you know?] To understand; know. — n. Comprehension; practical wisdom; skill in gaining one's ends. Both Slang, U. S.

saw (sô), n. [ME. sawe, fr. AS. sagu; akin to G. sage, OHG. & ON. saga, and AS. secgan to say. See SAY, v. t.; cf. SAGA.] 1. Obs. a Speech; talk; discourse. b A word, sentence, or statement. c A tale; a rumor. d A dictate; command; decree.
2. A saying; a proverb; a maxim.
His weapons holy saws of sacred writ. Shak.

saw, n. [ME. sawe, fr. AS. sagu, sage; akin to D. zaag, G. säge, OHG. sega, saga, Dan. sav, Sw. såg, ON. sǫg, L. secare to cut, securis ax, secula sickle, OSlav. sekyra ax. Cf. SAIL, SAXON, SCYTHE, SECTION, SEDGE, SEESAW, SICKLE, SIGN.] 1. A tool or instrument, consisting essentially (usually) of a thin flat blade or plate of tempered steel with a continuous series of teeth on the edge, used for cutting wood, metal, bone, etc. In order to give sufficient clearance to a saw to prevent jamming in the kerf, the teeth are usually set. The same result sometimes is obtained in hack saws, surgeon's saws, etc., by decreasing the blade in thickness, from the teeth to the back, or by swaging the points of the teeth. The fineness of a saw is specified by the number of teeth or (tooth) points (one more than the number of teeth) to the inch. A few of the commonest forms of saw teeth are shown in the cut. Cf. CROSSCUT SAW, RIPSAW, KEYHOLE SAW, DOVETAIL SAW, DOUBLE-CUT SAW, CIRCULAR SAW, VERTICAL SAW.

Saws, 1. 1 Ripsaw; 2 Lumberman's Two-handed Saw; 3 Concave Circular Saw; 4 Bucksaw; 5 Kitchen Saw; 6 Stairbuilder's Saw.

Saw Teeth. 1, 2 Forms of Common, Peg, Plain, or Tenon Tooth; 3 Mill; 4 Ripsaw; 5, 6 Forms of Lance; 7 Lightning or M; 8 Great American, or American; 9 Champion; 10, 11 Forms of Electric; 12, 13 Forms of Tuttle; 14, 15 Forms of Diamond; 16 Fleam; 17, 18 Other special varieties with Hook Teeth and Perforations; 19, 20, 21 Forms of Circular-saw Teeth, the last with Rakers; 22 Teeth of Grooving Saw for wood; 23, 24 Inserted Teeth in Metal-milling Saw; 25, 26 Forms of Inserted Teeth for wood-cutting Circular Saw; 27 Manner of inserting or extracting the tooth in 26.

2. Any of various analogous tools or devices without teeth, which cut by wearing out a kerf; as: a A thin, smooth blade of soft iron, fed with sharp sand and water, for cutting stone. b A soft steel disk revolved at high speed to cut armor plate, etc. See HELICOIDAL SAW.
3. A tool or machine having a saw (senses 1 and 2) for cutting; as, a circular, jig, or wood saw.
4. Whist. = CROSSRUFF, 2.
5. Zool. a The ovipositor of a sawfly. b The snout of a sawfish. See SAWFISH.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

saw bearing	saw grinder	sawmaker
saw bench	saw guard	sawmaking saw bit	saw guide	saw-shaped saw blade	saw handle	sawsmith saw clamp	saw-handled	saw steel saw cut	saw knife	saw straightener saw driver	saw-leaved	saw swage saw filer	saw machine	saw vise saw filing	saw machinery	sawworker saw (sô), v.; past tense SAWED (sôd); past part. SAWED or SAWN (sôn); pres. part. & verbal n. SAW'ING [From SAW tool.] Transitive: 1. To cut with a saw; to separate with a saw; as, to saw timber or marble; to saw off a knob.

2. To form by cutting with a saw; as, to saw boards or planks, that is, to saw logs or timber into boards or planks.
3. To rend or slice with motions suggestive of those of a person using a saw; as, to saw the air with the arms.
4. To draw (a bit) back and forth through (a beast's mouth) by pulling alternately on the driving reins. Colloq.
5. To produce as by the strokes of a saw; as, to saw out a reel on the violin.
6. Bookbinding. To cut kerfs across (the back of an unbound hand-sewn book) to receive the cords or bands that secure its covers, in order to prevent the cords from raising ridges on the covered back.
—, Intransitive: 1. To use a saw; as, a man saws well.
2. To cut, as a saw; as, the saw or mill saws fast.
3. To be cut with a saw; as, the timber saws smoothly.
4. To go with, or make, motions suggestive of one sawing wood; esp., Colloq., to pull alternately, as on reins.
5. Music. To fiddle; to bow. Colloq.

saw alive. Lumbering. To make all cuts on (the log) parallel; to saw through and through.

saw gourds. To snore loudly. Southern U. S.

saw through and through. To saw alive.

saw wood. Slang, U. S. a To work on while others deliberate. b To snore.

-saw. Combining forms for saw, n. & v., as in:

backsaw	pit saw	splitsaw
bucksaw	ripsaw	whipsaw handsaw	seesaw

saw (sô), past tense of SEE.

saw. Var. of so, interj. Dial.

saw. Var. of SALVE. Scot.

saw (sô). Var. of SOW, v. Obs. exc. Dial.

sa'wah (sȧ'wȧ), n. [Malay, rice field.] A wet or irrigated rice field. Java.

Sa·wai'o·ri (sȧ·wī'ō·rĭ), n. [Samoa + Hawaii + Maori.] The eastern, or pure, Polynesians, or their language.

sa·wa'li (sȧ·wȧ'lē), n. [Tag.] A coarse woven article of bamboo layers, used for baskets and for partitions and sides of houses, and important commercially. Phil. I.

sa'wa·ra cy'press (sȧ'wȧ·rȧ). [Jap. sawara.] A handsome Japanese evergreen tree (Chamaecyparis pisifera) valued for timber, but better known as the source of many horticultural forms of retinispora (Chamaecyparis).

saw arbor. Lumbering. = MANDREL, 4.

saw'back' (sô'bȧk'), n. Something having a serrate dorsal outline; specif., a mountain range having sharp peaks of about equal height; a sierra.

saw'bel'ly (sô'bĕl'ĭ), n. [saw + belly.] The alewife (Pomolobus pseudoharengus).

saw'bill' (sô'bĭl'), n. A bird with a serrate beak; esp., a merganser or a motmot.

saw bill. The list of sizes to be sawed from logs, as given to the sawyer.

saw'-billed' (sô'bĭld'), adj. Having a serrated bill, as certain birds.

saw'bones' (-bōnz'), n. A surgeon. Slang.

saw brier. Any of several prickly species of Smilax, as the bull brier (S. pseudo-China), a Bahamian species (S. havanensis), or the common cat brier (S. glauca) of eastern North America.

saw'buck' (sô'bŭk'), n. [D. zaagbok.] A sawhorse; also, Slang, a ten-dollar bill. U. S. sawbuck table. A table with cross-legged, or X-shaped, supports, resembling one form of sawbuck. See SAWHORSE, Illust., 2.

saw'bwa (sô'bwä), n. [Burmese sǡbwā prince, written as cǡbwā.] The ruler of a Shan state. Burma.

saw cabbage palm. = SAW PALMETTO b.

saw carriage. = CARRIAGE, n., 18.

saw'der (sô'dĕr), v. t. [From sawder, var. of SOLDER, n.] To flatter. Colloq. — n. Flattery. Colloq.

saw'dust' (sô'dŭst'), n. 1. Dust or small fragments of wood (or of stone, etc.) made by the cutting of a saw; — often specif. in combinations as the material used for stuffing dolls or strewing a circus ring or similar path.
2. Dynamite. Underworld Slang.

saw'dust', v. t. To strew or carpet with sawdust.

saw'dust'ish, adj. Rather like or suggesting sawdust.

saw'dust'y, adj. Full or smelling of sawdust; dry and worthless as sawdust.

sawed (sôd), past part. & part. adj. of SAW; — often in combination with off; as, a sawed-off shotgun.

saw'-edged' (sô'ĕjd'), adj. Having a toothed or badly nicked edge.

saw'er (sô'ĕr), n. One who or that which saws; a sawyer.

Sa'wer·thal's com'et (sȧ'wĕr·tȧlz). A small comet whose period is about 2,200 years, discovered by Sawerthal at Cape Town in 1888, and showing unexplained changes of brightness.

saw fern. A widely distributed fern (Blechnum serrulatum) with erect stiff fronds, often growing in dense colonies in tropical marshes. It is common in Florida and the West Indies.

saw file. See 4th FILE, 1. — saw'-file', adj.

saw'fish' (sô'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. Any of several large elongate and sharklike viviparous rays of the genus Pristis having a flattened and much elongate snout with a row of stout, tooth-like structures inserted along each edge. They live in warm shallow seas and about river mouths, principally in tropical America and Africa, but often stray to other parts. They reach a length of from ten to twenty feet. The common sawfish of the Gulf of Mexico and southward is P. pectinatus.

Sawfish (Pristis pectinatus). Ventral side.

saw'fly' (sô'flĭ'), n.; pl. -FLIES (-flīz'). Any of numerous Hymenoptera of the Tenthredinidae or Tenthredinoidea, and sometimes also of certain other related families. The female usually has an ovipositor containing a pair of sawlike organs with which she makes incisions in leaves or stems of plants in which to lay her eggs. The larvae resemble those of Lepidoptera, but usually have more numerous prolegs, and the body segments are divided by transverse folds. Many species are destructive pests of plants, devouring the foliage or mining in the leaves or stems.

Sawfly (Neodiprion abietis) of the Fir Tree.

saw gate or frame. = 1st GATE, 5 c.

saw gin. A cotton gin in which the lint is drawn by the teeth of revolving circular saws through a grating of vertical ribs too closely spaced for the seeds to pass, the lint being removed from the saw teeth by rotating brushes or a blast of air. See COTTON GIN.

saw grass. Any of certain sedges having the edges of the leaves set with minute sharp teeth, esp. any species of Cladium, as C. mariscus of Europe, or C. jamaicensis of the southern United States and the West Indies. Cf. RAZOR GRASS.

saw'horse' (sô'hôrs'), n. A kind of rack (fig. 2 in Illust.), shaped like a double St. Andrew's cross, on which wood is laid for sawing by hand; — called also buck, sawbuck. Also, a kind of trestle (fig. 1 in Illust.) so used.

Sawhorses.

saw'ing, pres. part. of SAW. Specif.: adj. a That saws. b That is used in or for a saw, or in the act or process of using a saw. c Making a buzzing or rasping sound.

saw'ing, n. 1. Act or process of using a saw, as for cutting timber.
2. pl. Sawdust.

sawing block. One of a set of slotted blocks used for guiding a saw.

sawing stop. A stop against which material is held while sawing.

saw'ish, adj. Like a saw; also, suggesting the sound made by a saw in operation.

saw jointer. = JOINTER, 2 b.

saw kerf. A kerf made in sawing.

saw log. A log of suitable size for sawing into lumber.

sa'vord. Savored. Ref. Sp.

sa'vor·i·ness, sa'vour·i·ness, n. See -NESS.

sa'vor·ing·ly, sa'vour·ing·ly, adv. of savoring, pres. part.

sa'vor·less, sa'vour·less, adj. See -LESS. — sa'vor·less·ness, sa'vour·less·ness, n.

sa'vor·some, sa'vour·some, adj. See -SOME.

sa'vor·y·leaved', adj. See [-LEAVED.] savory-leaved aster. = STIFF ASTER.

sa'vour, sa'voured, sa'vour·er, etc. Vars. of SAVOR, etc.

sa'vor·ous. Var. of SAVOROUS.

Sa·voy'an, Sa·voy'e·an, adj. = SAVOYARD. Obs.

Sa'wan (sȧ'wȧn), n. [See SARAWAN.] See HINDU CALENDAR.

sa·war'ra (sȧ·wär'ȧ). Var. of SOUARI.

sawarra nut. Var. of SOUARI NUT.

sawd. Sawed. Ref. Sp.

saw'dust'like', adj. See -LIKE.

sawe. † saw, v.

sawe. † saw, past tense of SEE.

sawer. † SAVOR.

sawere. † SOWER.

saw'-file' tem'per. See TEMPER, n., 7.

saw'fiom'. Obs. var. of SAUCEFLEM.

sawk. Var. of SOK. See MEASURE Table.

sawl (sôl). Var. of SOUL. Obs. exc. Dial.

saw'like', adj. See -LIKE.

sawl'shot' (sôl'shŏt'). Var. of SOUL SHOT.

saw'man (sô'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One engaged to use or operate a saw.

saw'mill' (sô'mĭl'), n. An establishment having power-driven machinery for sawing up logs; also, a sawing machine used in such a place or for such a purpose. — saw'mill'er (-ẽr), n. — saw'mill'ing, n.

saw'ney (sô'nĭ), n. A zany. — adj. Foolish; weak and silly; vacillating. — v. i. To talk blandishingly or foolishly. All Colloq., Brit.

Saw'ney, Saw'nie, Saw'ny (sô'nĭ). [Corrupt. of Sandie, or Sandy, Scot. abbr. of Alexander.] a Dim. of ALEXANDER. b A Scotsman, or the Scots collectively.

saw palmetto. a A common stemless palm (Serenoa serrulata) of the southern United States; — so called from its spiny-toothed leafstalks; in Florida known as palmetto scrub. The olivelike fruit is edible; the dried unripe fruits, called saw palmetto berries, are used as a diuretic. b A somewhat similar palm (Paurotis wrightii), family Arecaceae, of the West Indies and southern Florida.

saw'-pierce' v. t. To cut openings in (sheet metal) with a saw.

saw pit. See SAWYER, 1.

saw set. An instrument used to give set to saw teeth.

saw'set'ter (sô'sĕt'ẽr), n. One who sets teeth of saws, as by bending with a hammer. — saw setting.

saw shark. Any of several small sharks of the genus Pristiophorus of the shores of eastern Asia and Australia. They have a snout like that of a sawfish, but smaller teeth, and the gill openings are lateral, not ventral, as in the sawfish.

saw sharpener. 1. One who sharpens saws.

2. Also saw'sharp'er (sô'shär'pẽr), n. The great titmouse. See TITMOUSE. Local, Brit.

saw table. An iron or wooden table having a slot in which a circular saw operates; a saw bench.

saw tooth. A tooth of a saw or one of the teeth of an animal or machine shaped or arranged like the teeth of a saw.

saw'-tooth' (sô'tōōth'), adj. = SAW-TOOTHED.

saw'-tooth', n. Short for SAW-TOOTH ROOF.

saw-tooth building. A building having a saw-tooth roof.

saw'-toothed' (sô'tōōtht'), adj. Having a tooth or teeth like those of a saw; serrate.

saw-toothed grain beetle. See GRAIN BEETLE.

saw-tooth roof. Arch. A roof composed of two or more parallel simple roofs and in section like the teeth of a saw, ordinarily having one slope of each member steeper than the other, to receive windows.

saw-tooth roulette. Philately. See ROULETTE, 2.

saw-tooth truss. Engin. See TRUSS, n., Illust.

saw tree. A tree suitable for sawing.

saw'way' (sô'wā'), n. The path of a saw in cutting.

saw wedge. = FALLING WEDGE.

saw'-whet' (-hwĕt'), n. [From its cry.] The Acadian owl.

saw'wort' (sô'wûrt'), n. a Any European plant of the genus Serratula, esp. S. tinctoria, the serrate leaves of which yield a yellow dye. b Any plant of the genus Saussurea. c The button snakeroot Liatris spicata. U. S.

saw wrack. The black wrack (seaweed).

saw wrest. A saw set operated by hand pressure.

saw'yer (sô'yẽr), n. [saw + -yer as in lawyer. Cf. SAWER.] 1. One whose occupation is to saw logs or timber, as in lumbering or in a sawmill; specif.: a Either of the two men who work at sawing timber over a pit (a saw pit), one (the top sawyer) standing above the timber, the other (the bottom, or pit, sawyer) below it. b A workman who saws a particular material or kind of object, as wood, bone, ivory, metal, marble, esp. for use in manufacture; a sawing-machine worker.

2. A tree fast in the bed of a stream, with its branches projecting to the surface and bobbing up and down with the current; — disting. from planter. U. S.

3. Any of several large longicorn beetles whose larvae bore large holes in timber or dead trees, as the pine sawyers (Monochamus confusor) (of large size) and (M. scutellatus) (of smaller size), both of which bore in white pine, and the former also in fir.

Pine Sawyer (Monochamus confusor). (⅔)

Sawyer, Bob (sô'yẽr). An impecunious medical student and practitioner in Dickens's Pickwick Papers, who adopts ingenious devices for increasing his practice.

Sawyer, Tom. See TOM SAWYER.

sax (săks), seax (săăks), n. [AS. seax a knife. See SAXON.] 1. A short, broad, curved, one-edged sword or dagger used by the ancient Celts and Germans. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. Her. A scimitar with a semicircular notch in the back of the blade.

3. A chopping instrument to trim edges of roofing slates.

sax (săks), n. Music. Short for SAXOPHONE.

sax (săks). Scot. var. of SIX.

sax'a·tile (săk'sə·tĭl; 155), adj. [L. saxatilis, fr. saxum a rock.] Pertaining to rocks; saxicoline.

sax'board' (săks'bôrd'; 181), n. [See SAX; BOARD.] The uppermost strake of an open boat.

sax'cor'net (-kôr'nĕt; -nĭt; -kôr·nĕt'), n. A small saxhorn.

Saxe (săks), n. a Saxony. b The color Saxe blue.

Saxe blue. A color, greenish-blue in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Saxe'-Co'burg and Go'tha, House of (săks'kō'bûrg, gō'tä). The royal family of Great Britain from 1901 to 1917, during the reign of Edward VII and part of the reign of George V. See WINDSOR, HOUSE OF; cf. HANOVERIAN, adj., 2.

sax'horn' (săks'hôrn'), n. [After Antoine Joseph Sax (known as Adolphe Sax) of Belgium and Paris, who invented it (c. 1840).] Music. One of a family of brass-wind instruments with valves, characterized by fullness and evenness of tone, large compass, and simple manipulation. The sizes are named from their compass, soprano, alto (althorn), or from their fundamental key, B♭, E♭, etc. The bass tuba is the only saxhorn used in the modern orchestra.

Alto Saxhorn.

saxi-. [See SAXON.] A combining form, Latin saxi-, from saxum, meaning rock, as in Saxicola.

Sax'i·ra'va (săk'sĭ·kā'vä), n. [NL. See SAXICAVOUS.] Zool a A genus of marine bivalves (Eulamellibranchia) having a gaping shell, long and partly united siphons, and slender foot. Some of these bore holes in limestone rocks. b [not cap.] A mollusk of this genus.

saxicava sand. Geol. A marine deposit which overlies the Leda clay in northeastern North America.

sax'i·ca'vous (săk'sĭ·kā'vŭs), adj. [NL. saxicavus, fr. L. saxum rock + cavare to make hollow, fr. cavus hollow.] Zool. Boring in rock, as certain mollusks. Cf. LITHODOMUS.

Sax·ic'o·la (săks·ĭk'ō·lä), n. [NL., fr. saxi- + L. colere to inhabit.] A genus of Old World passerine birds including the whinchat, stonechat, and allied species. Syn. Pratincola. It is the type of a subfamily, Sax'i·co·li'nae (săk'sĭ·kō·lī'nē), sometimes ranked as a family, Sax'i·col'i·dae (-kŏl'ĭ·dē).

sax'i·cole (săk'sĭ·kōl), adj. Saxicoline.

sax·ic'o·line (săks·ĭk'ō·lĭn; -līn), adj. Also sax·ic'o·lous (-lŭs). a Bot. & Zool. Inhabiting or growing among rocks. b Zool. Pertaining to the Saxicolinae.

Sax·if'ra·ga (săks·ĭf'rə·gä), n. [NL. See SAXIFRAGE.] Bot. A genus of herbs, the saxifrages, of diverse habit, typifying the family Saxifragaceae of arctic and temperate regions. They are usually perennials, often with basal, tufted leaves; the pentamerous flowers are often showy, and have a 2-celled ovary followed by a 2-beaked follicle. S. umbrosa is the London pride and S. jamesii is a handsome, pink-flowered Rocky Mountain species (see WILD FLOWERS, Plate).

Sax'i·fra·ga'ce·ae (săk'sĭ·frə·gā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SAXIFRAGA.] Bot. A family of herbs of variable habit (order Rosales), comprising about 90 genera and 600 species, of wide distribution; the saxifrage family. They are distinguished usually by the free bicarpellary ovary, by having as many or twice as many stamens as petals, and by the absence of staminodia. Saxifraga, Heuchera, and Mitella are representative genera. — sax'i·fra·ga'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

sax·if'ra·gant (săks·ĭf'rə·gănt), adj. Saxifragous. Rare.

sax'i·frage (săk'sĭ·frĭj), n. [OF., fr. L. saxifraga, fr. saxifragus rock-breaking (prob. from growing in crevices of rocks), fr. saxum rock + frangere to break. See SAXON; FRACTURE. Cf. SASSAFRAS.] a Any plant of the genus Saxifraga, also of the related genus Micranthes. See SAXIFRAGA; WILD FLOWERS, Plate. b Any of various plants; as, the burnet saxifrage, golden saxifrage, meadow saxifrage, etc.

Saxifrage (Micranthes nivalis). 1 Flower; 2 Fruit.

saxifrage family. The Saxifragaceae.

saxifrage pink. A tufted, European perennial herb (Tunica saxifraga), family Caryophyllaceae, with clustered, subulate leaves, adventive in North America.

sax·if'ra·gous (săks·ĭf'rə·gŭs), adj. [L. saxifragus. See SAXIFRAGE.] Breaking or dissolving stone, esp. stone in the bladder.

sax·ig'e·nous (săks·ĭj'ĕ·nŭs), adj. [L. saxum rock + E. -genous.] Bot. Saxicoline.

Sax'ish (săk'sĭsh), adj. Saxon. Now Rare.

Sax'not (săks'nŏt), n. [OS. Saxnōt, name of a god.] Teut. Myth. Probably Tiu.

Sax'on (săk'sŭn; -s'n), n. [OF., fr. LL. Saxo, pl. Saxones, of Teut. origin; cf. G. Sachse, AS. pl. Seaxe, Seaxan, fr. the stem of AS. seax a knife, a dagger; akin to OHG. sahs, L. saxum rock, stone (knives being orig. made of stone) and L. secare to cut. See 2d SAW; cf. SAX, SAXIFRAGE.] 1. a One of a Germanic people who dwelt in what is now Holstein as early as the 2d century A.D. By the 7th century they were masters of most of northwest Germany and with the Angles and Jutes had conquered and colonized most of England. In 804 the Saxons of Germany were finally conquered by Charlemagne. Later their country was formed into the old duchy of Saxony, which lasted until the 12th century. b One of the Saxon or Angle conquerors of England; an Anglo-Saxon (which see). c One of the people of the modern kingdom of Saxony, bordered by Bavaria, Prussia, and Bohemia. d In modern colloquial use, an Englishman, or sometimes a Lowland Scot.

2. a The language of the Saxons; Old Saxon; Anglo-Saxon; Plattdeutsch. Old Saxon, or the language of the original Saxon tribes of northwest Germany between the Rhine and the Elbe, and Anglo-Saxon, the language of the Saxons of England, are Low German tongues. The language of modern Saxony is High German. See LOW GERMAN; INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table; cf. HELIAND. b The Anglo-Saxon element in the English language, excluding esp. the French and Latin.

3. A firework having a brilliant turning fire which produces the appearance of a revolving sun.

Sax'on, adj. a Of or pertaining to the Saxons, their country, or their language. b Anglo-Saxon. c Of Anglo-Saxon origin; English; non-Latin; non-Celtic.

The Saxon words have a simple vigor which no other vocabulary at our disposal could secure. Barrett Wendell.

sax'on (săk's'n; săk'-). Dial. var. of SEXTON.

Saxon blue. a = SAXE BLUE. b The color indigo carmine. c = SMALT, n., 2.

Saxon green. The color Bremen blue.

Sax·o'ni·an (săks·ō'nĭ·ăn), n. An inhabitant of Saxony.

Sax·o'ni·an, adj. Geol. Pertaining to or designating a division of the European Permian (see GEOLOGY, Chart), or the second glacial epoch of Europe.

Sax·on'ic (săks·ŏn'ĭk), Sax·on'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Relating to Saxony or to the Anglo-Saxons. — Sax·on'i·cal·ly, adv.

Sax'on·ish (săk'sŭn·ĭsh; săk's'n-), n. The language of the Saxon peoples of England; English.

Sax'on·ish, adj. Saxon.

Sax'on·ism (-ĭz'm), n. 1. An idiom of Saxon or Anglo-Saxon.

2. Distinctively Anglo-Saxon character; partiality to Anglo-Saxons or their traditions, disposition, etc.; advocacy of Anglo-Saxon diction.

Sax'on·ist (săk'sŭn·ĭst; -s'n-), n. One versed in the Saxon language; an advocate of the use of words of Saxon origin.

sax'on·ite (-ĭt), n. Petrog. a A peridotite, consisting of olivine and enstatite. It is often altered to serpentine. b Harzburgite.

Saxon porcelain. = SAXONY PORCELAIN. See DRESDEN CHINA.

Saxon Shore. See COUNT OF THE SAXON SHORE.

Saxon wheel. A flax-spinning treadle machine in which the bobbin lags behind the fly, the spindle giving the twist to the yarn and the difference of speeds of the spindle and bobbin causing the bobbin to be wound.

Sax'o·ny (săk'sō·nĭ), n. [LL. Saxonia. See SAXON.] 1. A state of the German Reich, formerly a kingdom of the Empire.

2. Cloth made from fine wool produced in Saxony; specif.: a A glossy woolen cloth formerly much used for garments. b A kind of fine flannel. c A fine, closely twisted yarn used in knitting and crocheting; — called also Saxony yarn.

Saxony blue. a Saxon blue. b Saxe blue.

Saxony green. The color cobalt green.

Saxony lace. Any lace made in Saxony; specif. Dresden point lace (which see).

Saxony porcelain. See DRESDEN CHINA.

Saxony wheel. = SAXON WHEEL.

Saxony yarn. = SAXONY, n., 2 c.

sax'o·phone (săk'sō·fōn), n. [Antoine Joseph Sax, the inventor (see SAXHORN) + Gr. phōnē tone.] Music. A wind instrument combining the reed mouthpiece of a clarinet with a bent conical tube of metal, equipped with finger keys. It is made in several sizes, and used esp. in military bands and in dance orchestras. — sax'o·phon'ic (fŏn'ĭk), adj.

Saxophones: 1 Soprano, Straight Model; 2 Alto.

sax'o·phone (săk'sō·fōn), v. i. To play the saxophone.

sax'o·phon'ist (săk'sō·fōn'ĭst), n. A player on the saxophone.

sax'o·trom'ba (-trŏm'bä), n. [sax as in saxhorn + It. tromba trumpet.] Music. One of a family of instruments similar to the saxhorns but with a proportionately narrower tube and a more piercing tone.

sax'tu'ba (săks'tū'bä), n. [See SAXHORN; 2d TUBA.] Music. A saxhorn, esp., one of the larger sizes.

say (sā), n. [ME. saie, fr. OF. saie, fr. L. saga, coll. fr. sagum a coarse woolen mantle. See SAGUM.] a A fine twilled fabric resembling serge, either all wool or mixed with silk, formerly common. b Silk; — by confusion with Fr. soie. Obs.

say (sā), n. & v. t. [Aphetic form of assay.] = ASSAY (in various senses); esp. taste; test; attempt; specif., Hunting, the first cutting of the deer. Obs. exc. Dial.

say (sā), n. A bucket. Chiefly Scot.

say (sā), v.; past tense & past participle SAID (sĕd), from AS. sægde; present participle & verbal noun SAY'ING; pres. indic. 3rd pers. sing. SAYS (sĕz; 71). [ME. seggen, seyen, siggen, sayen, sayn, fr. AS. secgan; akin to OS. seggian, D. zeggen, LG. seggen, OHG. sagēn, G. sagen, ON. segja, Sw. säga, Dan. sige, and prob. to Lith. sakyti, OL. insece tell, relate, Gr. ennepe (for en-sepe), espete; peth. orig., to see (hence, to point out, remark, say) and akin to E. SEE. Cf. SAW a saying.] Transitive: 1. To utter as a word or sound; as, to say yes; also, to give utterance to; — used to introduce a quotation or indirect discourse.

2. To express in words, either orally or in writing; to tell; speak; declare; as, say what you mean.

3. To state as something to be accomplished; as, no sooner said than done.

4. To announce as a decision or opinion; to state positively; to assert; as, none can say what will happen; hence, to form an opinion upon; to be sure about; to be determined in mind as to.

But what it is, hard is to say. Milton.

5. a To deliver in speech; relate; tell; as, to say one's mind or a tale; — now only in the infinitive in phrases; as, sooth to say. b To repeat; recite; as, to say a lesson or one's prayers.

6. Obs. a To signify; import; — of words. b To declare to be; to call; to style.

7. To answer, advise, direct, or check. Now Dial.

8. To mention or suggest as an estimate, hypothesis, or approximation; suppose; assume; — in the imperative, as, he had, say fifty thousand dollars.

9. To state as a common opinion or belief; — in the passive, usually followed by the infinitive; as, it is said to be so; space was said to be infinite.

10. To state with aptness, force, or significance. Slang.

—, Intransitive: 1. To speak; to express oneself; as, say you so?; — used also in parenthetical clauses in quoted passages; as, a man, they say, of genius.

☞ The vulgar use of says for say in this construction arose from using the historical present in the third person for the past tense.

2. Obs. a To tell; — with of. b To express an opinion; — with for or against. c To conclude speaking.

3. To declare; state; — chiefly with adverbs; as, to say well by. Archaic. "If Fame say true." Dryden.

4. Eccl. To make a recital. Archaic.

5. To enunciate a positive instruction. Colloq.

say for oneself. To offer by way of excuse or in self-defense; as, what have you to say for yourself?

say nothing of. Not to take into consideration (something too important to be neglected).

say over. To repeat from memory.

say to. To say in regard to or in response to a proposal or offer of; as, what do you say to a game of chess?

say when. To indicate that the amount poured, as of liquor, is the amount desired, that is, when to stop.

say yes. To comply; specif., to accept a proposal of marriage.

— to have to say to or with. To have concern or connection with; as, he would have nothing to say to the enterprise. — I say. a I repeat the word for emphasis; — saw'mon (sô'mŭn), saw'mont (-mŭnt). Scot. vars. of SALMON.	Scot. & N. of Eng.	sawyer beetle. = WETA.	sax'i·frax. Var. of SASSAFRAS.	Sax'on·ly, adv. of SAXON.	sax'ten. Scot. var. of SIXTEEN.

sawn, past part. & part. adj. of SAW.	saw'ter, sawtere. † PSALTER.	sax'a·fras. † SASSAFRAS.	sax'o·fone. Saxophone. Ref. Sp.	sax'pence (săks'pĕns), n. Scot. var. of SIXPENCE.	sax'tie. Scot. var. of SIXTY.
sawt (sôt; sŏt). Var. of SALT.	saw'ter·y. † PSALTERY.	Sax'a Ru'bra (săk'sə rōō'brə). [L., lit., red rocks.] = MILVIAN BRIDGE. See BATTLE, Table.	Sax'on·dom, n. See -DOM.	sax'sum. Var. of SIXSOME.	sax'ton. † SEXTON. sawure. Obs. Scot. var. of SAVOR.		Sax'on·ize, v. i. & i. See -IZE. — Sax'on·i·za'tion, n.	saxt. Scot. var. of SIXTH.	sax'ty. Scot. var. of SIXTY.
					say. † SO.

used parenthetically. b Pay attention to what I am about to say! Here's a surprise! I protest! — used as an exclamation, in illiterate and careless speech shortened to say! — it is said, or they say. It is commonly reported; it is rumored; people assert or maintain. — it says. The text or author of a particular writing declares; as, it says so in the Bible. Colloq. — not to say. a To use a mild term, where one might justifiably use or say a stronger one; as, shady, not to say unscrupulous. b Not just what you would properly call. — that is to say. That is, in other words; more explicitly; or at least.

say (sā), n. [From SAY, v.; cf. SAW a saying.] 1. That which is said or to be said by one; specif.: a A speech; an expression of opinion; an affirmation; a statement or dictum. b All that one has in mind or desires to say; as, to say out one's say. c Opportunity to get one's views expressed; as, to have one's say on a subject.
2. A maxim or proverb. Archaic.
3. a One's turn to say or do something; right to speak, choose, or act in a way to influence the decision or management; a voice; as, each man must have his say; to have a say in an affair. b U. S. With the. The power of final decision, or supreme authority; as, who has the say in this matter?
4. A talk or conversation. Dial.
5. At poker, a player's turn to play, pass, declare, etc.

say (sā). Dial. Eng. var. of SEA.

-say (-sā). A combining form of the verb say, as in gain*say,* hear*say.*

sa'ya (sä'yä), n. [Sp.] A woman's outer skirt, tied at the waist with a tape and extending to the ankles. Phil. I.

Sa·yal' brown (sä·yäl'). [Sp. sayal sackcloth. See 1st SAY.] A color, red-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Sa'yan Sam'o·yed'ic (sä'yăn săm'ō·yĕd'ĭk). The Kamasin language.

Say'brook' Plat'form (sā'brŏŏk'). Eccl. Hist. A platform of church polity and doctrine adopted by a synod of the Congregationalists of Connecticut at Saybrook (Saybrook Synod) in 1708. It was much the same as the Cambridge Platform together with the Savoy Declaration.

say'er (sā'ĕr), n. One who says; as, both a sayer and a doer; a sayer of epigrams; also, specif.: a Archaic. A poet. b Obs. One given to saying what is of a specified quality, as evil, false, or sooth.

say'er, n. One who assays or tests; an inspector. Obs.

sa'yid (sī'ĭd; sä'yĭd), sa'id (sä'ĭd), n. Also say'yid (sī'yĭd). [Ar. sayyid.] Lord; chief; prince; — a Moslem title of honor applied esp. to: a A descendant of Mohammed through his daughter Fatima and cousin Ali. b A member of Mohammed's tribe, Koreish. c One of a high caste of Mohammedans in India. Cf. CID, SIDI.

say'ing (sā'ĭng), n. 1. That which is said; a declaration; a statement, esp. a proverbial one; an aphorism; proverb; saw.
2. Obs. a The reciting of a spell. b One's commonly expressed opinion. c A right to express a choice or decision or make disposal; a say.
Syn. — Adage, maxim, apothegm, byword. See AXIOM.

‖say'nète' (sĕ'nĕt'), n. [F., fr. Sp. sainete.] 1. Literally, tidbit; a form of entremés.
2. In the modern theater, a short music drama, in a single scene, with few actors, and usually comic. It was originally a theatrical afterpiece in Spain and France.

say'-noth'ing, adj. Reticent; taciturn.

‖say'on' (sĕ'yôn'; sä'ôn), n. [F. See 1st SAY.] A sagum.

say'-so' (sā'sō'), n. Colloq. What one says or declares; esp.: a One's unsupported assertion; one's bare word or assurance. b Right of final decision; authority; say. c An authoritative direction; a dictum.

sa'zen (sā'zhĕn), n. sing. & pl. [Pol. sążen.] See MEASURE, Table.

S'bai'ki·an (sbā'kĭ·ăn), adj. [From S'baïkia, Dept. Constantine, Algeria.] Designating, esp. in French use, proto-Solutrean culture evidenced by remains in northern Africa.

S bend. Mach. = DOUBLE BEND.

‖sbir'ro (zbĕr'rō), n.; pl. SBIRRI (-rē). [It.] An Italian police officer.

'sblood (z'blŭd), interj. An abbreviation of God's blood; — used as an oath. Archaic.

S brake, or S'-brake', n. A brake for two consecutive wheels, having a brake block at each end of an S-shaped lever.

scab (skăb), n. [ME. scab, scabbe, of Scand. origin; cf. Dan. & Sw. skab; akin to ME. shabbe, AS. scæb, sceabb, scebb, L. scabies, scabere to scratch. See SHAVE; cf. SCABIOSA, SCABROUS, SHABBY.] 1. A disease of the skin forming pustules or scales; figuratively, a spiritual evil. Obs.
2. A crust over a sore, wound, ulcer, or pustule, formed by the drying up of the discharge from the diseased part.
3. Opprobrious. a Slang. A dirty, paltry fellow; a scoundrel. b Trade-Unionism. A workman who works for lower wages than, or under conditions contrary to, those prescribed by the trade-union; also, one who takes the place of a workman on a strike. c In Australia, one whose conduct in general deserves social ostracism.
4. A short piece of timber nailed or bolted to two abutting timbers to splice them together.
5. a Founding. A slight irregular protuberance on a casting, caused by a break in the mold. b A part of a surface of a wire or strip damaged by an adhesion of scale or other matter.
6. Plant Pathol. a Any of various bacterial or fungous diseases of plants frequently characterized by crustlike spots. See POTATO SCAB. b One of the crustlike spots in any of these diseases.
7. Veter. The mange, esp. when it appears on sheep. See also RUBBERS.

scab (skăb), v.; SCABBED (skăbd); SCAB'BING. Intransitive: 1. To become covered with a scab; as, the wound scabbed over.
2. To work as a so-called scab.
—, Transitive: 1. To form a scab on. Obs.
2. To post or otherwise treat (a job or work) as such that anyone working will be treated as a scab.
3. Quarrying. = SCABBLE a.

scab'bard (skăb'ĕrd), n. [ME. scaubert, scauberc, AF. escaubers, escauberz, pl., escalberc, sing., through OF. fr. OHG. scār blade, sword + bergan to protect, conceal. See 1st SHARE; HAUBERK.] 1. A sheath, usually of leather or metal, in which the blade of a sword, dagger, bayonet, or other cutting weapon, is enclosed when not in use; by extension, a sheath for any long object, as a carbine.
2. Hence: a That which is conceived of as holding some potentially destructive instrument; as, the tongue lies still in his scabbard. b An emblem of peace; — as in the phrase to throw away the scabbard, that is, to renounce peace. c Obs. An integument, as of web or skin.
3. = SCALEBOARD, n., b.

scab'bard (skăb'ĕrd), v. t. 1. To put in a scabbard.
2. To provide or beat with a scabbard.

scabbard fish. a Any long, compressed, silver colored fish of the genus Lepidopus (family Trichiuridae) esp. the widely distributed L. caudatus, found on the European coasts, and more abundantly about New Zealand, where it is called frostfish and considered an excellent food fish. b The cutlass fish.

Scabbard Fish a (1/20) scab'bed (skăb'ĕd; -ĭd; skăbd), adj. 1. Abounding with scabs; diseased with scab or scabies.

2. Mean; paltry; worthless. Obs. exc. Dial.
3. Plant Pathol. Affected with scab.
— scab'bed·ness (skăb'ĕd·nĕs; -ĭd-; -nĭs; 119), n.

scab'ber·y (skăb'ĕr·ĭ), n. [scab + -ery.] The practice or contemptibleness of scoundrels.

scab'ble (skăb'l), v. t. [Earlier scapple, fr. OF. escapeler, eschapeler.] a To work or shape roughly, as stone before leaving the quarry. b To dress in any way short of fine tooling or rubbing, as stone. — scab'bler (-lĕr), n.

scab'bling (skăb'lĭng), n. A fragment or chip of stone.

scab'by (skăb'ĭ), adj.; SCAB'BI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCAB'BI·EST.
1. Covered with scabs; full of scabs; consisting of scabs.
2. Diseased with the scab, or mange; mangy.
3. a Founding. Marred with scabs, as a casting. b Injured by the attachment of shellfish, as a tortoise shell. c Print. Of printed matter, spotty or blotched. Eng.
4. Mean; shabby; contemptible; stingy. Colloq.

scab'by-head' (-hĕd'), n. The hedge parsley Torilis anthriscus.

sca·bel'lum (skȧ·bĕl'ŭm), n.; pl. -BELLA (-ȧ). [L.] Music. An ancient percussion instrument of two metal plates joined by a hinge, and fastened to the foot.

sca·ber'u·lous (skȧ·bĕr'ū·lŭs; -ōō·lŭs), adj. [Dim. fr. L. scaber rough.] Bot. Minutely scabrous.

sca'bi·es (skā'bĭ·ēz), n. [L. See SCAB.] Itch caused by mites; mange.

sca'bi·et'ic (skā'bĭ·ĕt'ĭk), adj. Also sca·bet'ic (skȧ·bĕt'ĭk). [scabies + -etic.] Med. & Veter. Of, pertaining to, or infected with scabies; mangy.

sca·bi'nus (skȧ·bī'nŭs), n.; pl. -NI (-nī). [ML.] A judge; an échevin (which see).

Sca'bi·o'sa (skā'bĭ·ō'sȧ; skăb'ĭ-), n. [NL. See SCABIOUS.] Bot. A large genus of Old World herbs of the teasel family (Dipsacaceae) having terminal heads of flowers subtended by a leafy involucre. The corolla is 5-cleft, often bilabiate; there are four stamens. See SCABIOUS, n., a.

sca'bi·os'i·ty (-ŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. The condition of being scabious. Rare.

sca'bi·ous (skā'bĭ·ŭs), adj. [F. or L.; F. scabieux, fr. L. scabiosus, fr. scabies. See SCABIES.] 1. Consisting of scabs; scabby.
2. Pertaining to scabies or partaking of its nature; as, scabious eruptions.

sca'bi·ous (skā'bĭ·ŭs), n. [ML. scabiosa (sc. herba); — so named because supposed to be a remedy for scabies. See SCABIOUS, adj.] a Any plant of the genus Scabiosa, esp. the sweet scabious S. atropurpurea, and the field scabious (S. arvensis). b The horseweed Leptilon canadense c U. S. The daisy fleabane. d The blue scabious.

scab'ish (skăb'ĭsh), n. [Corrupt. of SCABIOUS, n.] a The field scabious. b The evening primrose Oenothera biennis; also, the sundrops Kneiffia fruticosa and K. glauca.

scab'land' (skăb'lănd'), n. [scab + land.] An area with a plateau surface characterized by numerous low, flat-topped hills of bare rock. Northwestern U. S.

scab mite. Any of several small mites that cause scab, or mange, esp. Psoroptes communis.

Scab Mite (Psoroptes communis). Much enlarged.

sca'brate (skā'brāt), adj. [L. scaber rough + -ate.] Tending to be scabrous; scabrous.

sca·bres'cent (skȧ·brĕs'ĕnt; -'nt), adj. [L. scaber rough + -escent.] Scaberulous.

sca'brid (skā'brĭd), adj. [LL. scabridus.] Slightly scabrous. — sca·brid'ity (skȧ·brĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n.

sca·brid'u·lous (skȧ·brĭd'ū·lŭs), adj. [See SCABRID; -ULOUS.] Bot. Scaberulous. Rare.

sca·bri'ti·es (skȧ·brĭsh'ĭ·ēz), n. [L.] Med. Morbid condition of the skin in which it is rough or scabby.

sca'bri·us'cu·lose (skā'brĭ·ŭs'kū·lōs), sca'bri·us'cu·lous (-lŭs), adj. [Dim. fr. L. scaber. See SCABROUS.] Scaberulous. Rare.

sca'brose·ly (skā'brōs·lĭ), adv. In a scabrous manner.

sca'brous (skā'brŭs), adj. [LL. scabrosus, fr. L. scaber rough; akin to L. scabere to scratch. See SCAB.] 1. Rough to the touch, like a file; having small raised dots, scales, or points; scabby; scurfy; scaly, as a leaf.
2. Of writing, harsh; unmusical. Obs.
3. Beset with difficulties; knotty.
4. Requiring delicacy of treatment to avoid obscenity; risqué; of writings, also, salacious; lecherous.
— sca'brous·ly, adv. — sca'brous·ness, n.

scab'wort' (skăb'wûrt'), n. The elecampane.

scac'chic (skăk'ĭk), adj. [It. scacchi chess.] Pertaining to or like chess.

scac'chite (skăk'ĭt), n. [After A. Scacchi, It. mineralogist.] Mineral. Native manganese chloride, $MnCl_2$, found in volcanic regions.

scad (skăd), n.; pl. SCAD, sometimes SCADS (skădz). See PLURAL, Note. [Cf. SHAD.] a A saurel. b The goggler. c A mackerel scad, esp. the cigarfish Decapterus punctatus.

scad (skăd), n. [Origin uncert.] A faint gleam of color or light, often by reflection. Scot.

scad (skăd), n. [Cf. D. schadde turf.] A slab of peat; a sod. Dial.

scad (skăd; skŏd). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SCALD.

scad'dle (skăd''l); skăd''l), adj. [Akin to E. SCATHE.] Now Dial. 1. Noxious; fierce; cruel.
2. a Timid; nervous; skittish. b Mischievous; thievish.

scad'dle, n. Injury; mischief; confusion. Obs. exc. Dial scad'dle, v. i. To run off in fright. Dial.

scads (skădz), n. pl. Slang, U. S. a Money. b An exceedingly large quantity or number.

Scae'an (sē'ăn), adj. [Gr. skaios left, western.] Western.

scaff (skăf), v. t. [Cf. Nor. skaffe, D. & G. schaffen.] Scot. a To provide (food). b Obs. To beg; to sponge; to sponge upon. — n. Food; also, rabble; riffraff. — scaff'er (-ĕr), n. — scaff'er·y (-ĭ), n.

scaff'ie (skăf'ĭ), n. [Cf. SCAVENGER, or Gael sguabadoir, fr. L. scopa broom.] A scavenger. Scot.

scaff net. A square dip net with the netting supported at the corners by crossed rods. U. S.

scaf'fold (skăf'ŏld; -ŭld), n. [ME., fr. OF. escafaut. See CATAFALQUE.] 1. a An elevated platform for supporting workmen, tools, and materials in building, mining, quarrying, etc. b An elevated platform, stand, or the like, for public appearance or proclamations. c A stage or platform, usually elevated, for the execution of a criminal; as, to die on the scaffold. d A platform for exhibiting a spectacle; specif., Hist., a stage or temporary platform erected out-of-doors for use in presentation of religious dramas. e A raised platform or stand for seating spectators at a show. f U. S. A loft for grain. g = SCAFFOLDING.
2. Obs. a pl. Scaffolding placed by besiegers against a wall. b An easel. c A theater gallery.
3. An elevated platform on which a corpse is placed. Among certain Indians of North and South America it is a means of disposing of the dead.
4. Metal. An accumulation of adherent, partly fused material forming a shelf, or dome-shaped obstruction, above the tuyères in a blast furnace.

scaf'fold, v. t.; -FOLD·ED (-ŏl·dĕd; -ŭl·dĕd; -dĭd; 119); -FOLD·ING. To furnish or uphold with a scaffold; also, to place on a scaffold; to suspend from a scaffold or scaffolding.

scaf'fold·age (-ŏl·dĭj; -ŭl·dĭj), n. A scaffold; stage; scaffolding.

scaf'fold·er (-dĕr), n. 1. One sitting in the scaffold of a theater. Obs.
2. One who erects scaffolding.

scaf'fold·ing, n. 1. A scaffold or system of scaffolds; a supporting framework, as for rearing silkworms or drying tobacco; also, materials for scaffolds.
2. In harvesting tobacco, suspension of the fresh-cut plants upon a portable rack to wilt before hanging in curing barns.
3. Metal. Formation of a scaffold in a blast furnace, cupola, or the like; also, a scaffold so formed.

scaff'-raff' (skăf'răf'), n. Riffraff; rabble. Scot.

scagl'ia (skăl'yȧ), n. [It. See SCAGLIOLA.] A kind of Italian limestone, typically reddish.

scagl·io'la (skăl·yō'lȧ), n. [It. scagliuola, dim. of scaglia a scale, shell, chip of marble. See SCALE of fish.] An imitation of ornamental stone consisting of a substratum of finely ground gypsum mixed with glue, variegated on its surface while soft, with marble, spar, or granite dust, etc., and subsequently polished. It is used for floors, columns, and other ornamental interior work.

scagl·io'list (-lĭst), n. A workman in scagliola.

sca'la (skā'lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L., ladder. See SCALE ladder.] Anat. Any of the three spiral canals of the cochlea (which see).

‖Sca'la, La (lä skā'lä). [It.] A famous opera house at Milan, Italy, built in 1778.

scal'a·ble (skăl'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being scaled.

scal'age (skăl'ĭj), n. 1. An allowance or percentage by which anything is scaled down, as listed weights, bulks, or prices, of goods, to compensate for shrinkage, abrasion, etc.
2. Act of scaling in weight, quantity, or dimensions.
3. The amount that logs or timber scale.

sca'la me'di·a (skā'lȧ mē'dĭ·ȧ). [NL.] Anat. The membranous spiral canal containing the essential organ of hearing. See COCHLEA, 3. sca'lar (skā'lĕr), adj. [L. scalaris. See SCALE ladder.]

1. Ladderlike; scalariform.
2. Describable by a number; that can be represented by a point on a scale; as, a scalar quantity.
3. Math. a Of or pertaining to or designating an operation O (called scalar multiplication) of an algebra A over a field F on an element m of F and an element a of A or on two elements of A such that mOa or aOm (called the scalar product of m and a) is a unique element of F. b Of, pertaining to, or designating the number obtained by the operation (called scalar multiplication) $\mathbf{A}.\mathbf{B} = |\mathbf{A}|.|\mathbf{B}|.\cos\theta = AB\cos\theta = A_1B_1 + A_2B_2 + A_3B_3$, where $\mathbf{A}.\mathbf{B}$ is defined as the scalar, inner, or direct product of the vectors $\mathbf{A}$ and $\mathbf{B}$; θ as the angle between their directions; $|\mathbf{A}|$, $|\mathbf{B}|$, A, B, as their absolute values or magnitudes; and A_1, B_1, A_2, B_2, A_3, B_3, as the magnitudes of the components of the vectors along the axes of a system of rectangular Cartesian co-ordinates in space. Cf. VECTOR PRODUCT.

sca'lar (skā'lĕr), n. 1. Math. a In vector analysis and quaternions, an undirected quantity; a quantity fully described by a number; — disting. from a vector. b A scalar number.
2. Physics. A quantity, such as mass or time, which has magnitude but does not involve any concept of direction.

scalar curvature. Math. = MEASURE OF CURVATURE b.

sca·la're (skȧ·lä'rē; -lä'rā), n. [NL., fr. L. scalaris like a ladder.] A popular cichlid tropical fish (Pterophyllum scalare), of South American origin. It is laterally compressed, has large pointed fins, and is strikingly barred with black and silver.

sca·lar'i·form (skȧ·lăr'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [See SCALARIA; -FORM.] 1. Resembling a ladder; having transverse bars or markings like the rounds of a ladder; as, scalariform cells or pits in plants.
2. Zool. Like, or pertaining to, Scalaria or its allies.

scalariform vessels. See VESSEL, n., 6.

scalar matrix. Math. See MATRIX, 11.

scalar multiplication. Math. See SCALAR, adj., 3 a & b.

scalar point function. Math. A function of position of the co-ordinates of a point in a plane or in space, whose value is unchanged by a transformation of these co-ordisay'a·bil'i·ty (sā'ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. See -ABILITY.

---

say'a·ble, adj. Sss -ABLE.
say'a·ble·ness, n. See -NESS. sa·yette' (sā·yĕt'), n. = SAGATHY. say'man, n. [say sample + man.] One who assays. Obs. say'mas'ter, n. [See SAY sample.] A master of assay. Obs. says (sĕz), pres. indic. 3d per. sing. of SAY, to utter in words.
Say's phoebe (sāz). [After T. Say, Am. zoologist.] See PHOEBE. say'yid. Var. of SAYID.
‖sa'zhen, sa'zhene. Var. of SAGENE (see MEASURE, Table).
's bod'i·kins (zbŏd'ĭ·kĭnz), 's death, etc. Contrs. of OD'S BODIKINS, death, etc. See OD. sc-. For words sometimes beginning sc-, see those in SH-, SK-. scab·ba'do, n. [From SCAB. See -ADO.] Venereal disease. Obs. scab'bard·less, adj. See -LESS. scab'bi·ly, adv. of SCABBY. scab'bi·ness, n. See -NESS. sca'bi·a (skā'bĭ·ȧ), n. Corrupt form of SCABIOUS. Dial. Eng. scab'id (skăb'ĭd), adj. = SCABIOUS, adj., 2. Rare. scabine. † ECHEVIN. [WEED.] scabious knapweed. = HARSH-scace. † SCARCE.
Scad'lock. See SCARLET, WILL.
scaet. Var. of SCEAT. scaf'fle. Var. of SCAVEL. scaife (skāf). Var. of SKEIF. scail. Var. of SCALE, to disperse, etc. Obs. exc. Dial. scairt (skārt). Dial. past tense & past part. of SCARE. [SCATHE.] scaith (skāth). Dial. var. of scal'a·ble·ness, n. See -NESS. scal'a·bly, adv. of SCALABLE. sca·lade' (skȧ·lād'), sca·la'do (-lā'dō), n. = ESCALADE. Obs.
Sca·la'ri·a (skȧ·lā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL., in L., flight of steps, neut. pl. of scalaris. See SCALAR.] Syn. of EPITONIUM. — sca·lar'i·an (-lăr'ĭ·ăn), adj.
Scal'a·ri'i·dae (skăl'ȧ·rĭ'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of EPITONIIDAE. See EPITONIUM.

nates. It is a real numerical magnitude one-valued or many-valued for each point of a given extent of any number of dimensions. Distinguished from vector field, or vector point function.

scalar product. See SCALAR, adj., 3 a & b.

sca'lar-wise' (skā'lĕr-wīz'), adv. In a manner suggestive of a ladder or stair.

sca'la-ry (skā'lä-rĭ), adj. [L. scalaris.] Like a ladder. Obs.

‖Sca'la San'ta (skä'lä sän'tä). [It.] Holy Stairs or Staircase; — applied to 28 marble steps near the Lateran, Rome, alleged to be the stairway to Pilate's praetorium in Jerusalem which Christ used.

‖sca'la tym'pa·ni (skā'lä tĭm'pä-nī). [NL., ladder of the tympanum.] Anat. The lymph-filled spiral canal below the scala media in the cochlea of the ear, which at its upper end communicates with the scala vestibuli, and at its lower end abuts upon the secondary tympanic membrane closing the fenestra cochleae from the middle ear.

‖sca'la ves·ti'bu·li (vĕs-tĭb'ū-lī). [NL., ladder of the vestibule.] Anat. The lymph-filled spiral canal above the scala media in the cochlea of the ear, which connects with the fenestra vestibuli and receives vibrations from the stapes.

scal'a·wag, scal'la·wag (skăl'ä-wăg), n. [Perh. fr. Scalloway, Shetland, with ref. to ponies or the small Shetland cattle.] 1. An animal of little value because of poor feeding, smallness, etc.

2. A scamp; a scapegrace. Colloq.

3. U. S. Slang. A white Southerner who acted as a Republican in the time of reconstruction after the Civil War.

4. A sculpin. Local, U. S.

scal'a·wag'ger·y (-wăg'ĕr-ĭ), n. The conduct or doings of a scalawag or scalawags.

scal'a·wag'gy (-wăg'ĭ), adj. See 3d -y d.

scald (skôld; skäld; 277), n. Also skald. [ON. skald. See SCOLD.] One of the ancient Scandinavian poets and historiographers; a Norse reciter and singer of heroic poems, eulogies, etc.; rarely, a bard of any ancient Teutonic tribe.

scald (skôld), v.; SCALD'ED; SCALD'ING. [ME. scalden, fr. ONF. escalder (OF. eschalder, eschauder, F. échauder), fr. LL. excaldare, fr. ex + caldus, calidus, warm, hot. See EX-; CALDRON.] Transitive: 1. To burn with hot liquid or steam; to pain or injure by contact with any hot fluid, or, formerly, fire.

2. a To bring (a liquid) to a temperature just below the boiling point. b To cook slightly by the action of steam or boiling water; as, to scald fruit for canning.

3. To subject to the action of boiling water, as for cleansing, for loosening hair or feathers on a slaughtered animal or bird, or for loosening the skin of certain fruits and vegetables; to immerse in a boiling liquid or chemical.

4. To affect as painfully as by the application of boiling water; as, tears that scald the cheek.

5. To worry; vex; torment; as, it scalds my heart. Ir.

6. Obs. a To scorch; specif., to burn (soil). b To excite or inflame; to excite desire in. c To boil to death.

—, Intransitive: To produce or suffer the effects of, or as of, boiling water or scorching heat; to inflict agonizing pain.

scald (skôld), n. 1. A burn, or injury to the skin or flesh, by some hot liquid, or by steam.

2. A process of subjection to scalding, as of food or dishes; also, the act of scalding (see SCALD, v. t., 3) or the condition produced by scalding.

3. Chiefly Dial. a A hot bath or solution for scalding something. b An area of field easily scorched by lack of moisture.

4. Plant Pathol. a Any one of several parasitic diseases of plants, as cranberry scald. b A burning and browning of plant tissues as a result of high temperatures or of the combined action of high temperatures and intense light (cf. SUNSCALD). c A storage discoloration of apples or pears resulting from volatile products given off by the ripening tissues.

— to get a good scald on. To have good success with; — orig. from hog butchering, as the carcass had to have just the right degree of scalding to loosen the bristles without injuring the skin. Dial.

scald, adj. Scalded; as, scald cream.

scald, scalled (skôld), adj. [From SCALL.] 1. Scabby; scurfy. Obs., except in scald head.

2. Scurvy; shabby; contemptible; as, scald rogues. Obs.

scald (skôld), n. Scurf on the head; a scabby spot or condition caused by disease. Obs. Cf. SCALL.

scald (skôld), n. Dodder. Dial. Eng.

scald (Scot. skäd, skôld). Var. of SCOLD. Obs. exc. Scot.

scald'ber'ry (skôld'bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr-ĭ), n. [From SCALD scurf.] The European blackberry (Rubus fruticosus), a reputed cure for scald head.

scald crow. The hooded crow. Ireland.

scald'ed (skôl'dĕd; -dĭd; 119), adj. 1. Cooked, burned, or treated with boiling liquid.

2. Sore as if subjected to boiling liquid; — of sheep's feet.

scald'ed, adj. = 5th SCALD. Obs.

scald'er (skôl'dĕr; skäl'-), n. Obs. A Scandinavian poet; a scald. See 1st SCALD.

scald'er (skôl'dĕr), n. Formerly, a domestic employed to scald utensils, birds, etc.

scald'er (dial. skä'dĕr, skô'dĕr), v. t. To scald; blister. New Dial. — n. One who scalds; also, a vessel for scalding.

scald'fish' (skôld'fĭsh'), n. [scald, adj. + fish.] The lantern flounder.

scald head. Popularly, any of several diseases of the scalp characterized by pustules (the dried discharge of which forms scales) and by falling out of the hair.

scald'ic (skôl'dĭk; skäl'-), adj. Of or pertaining to the scalds of the Norsemen; as, scaldic poetry.

scald'ing (skôl'dĭng), n. = CROCARD.

scald'ing (skôl'dĭng), n. a Act or process of burning or treating with steam or hot liquid, as for cooking, cleansing, bathing, rinsing. b Obs. A scalded spot; a sore. c A burning sensation. d Plant Pathol. = 3d SCALD, 4. e pl. Boiling-hot liquid; — used, formerly, as a warning cry.

scald'ing, part. adj. That scalds; specif.: a Obs. Seething; scorching; ardent. b Causing the sensation of scalding or burning. c Biting; stinging.

‖scal·di'no (skäl·dē'nō), n.; pl. scal·di'ni (-nē). [It.] An earthenware brazier.

scald'weed' (skôld'wēd'), n. = SCALD, the dodder.

scald'y (skôl'dĭ), adj. Of land, liable to scorch or burn. Eng.

scale (skāl), n. [ME. scale, scole, fr. ON. skāl bowl, balance; akin to OHG. scāla drinking cup, MHG. schāle, G. schale, Dan. skaal, ON. skāl, MLG. schāle, OS. skāla cup, and E. SHALE. Cf. SCALE of fish, SCALLOP.] 1. A drinking vessel; a bowl; a cup. Obs.

2. Either dish of a balance; hence, usually pl., the balance itself; an instrument or machine for weighing; as, to turn the scale. Scales usually embody a system of multiplying levers. In a beam scale, manual manipulation of sliding poises is necessary for the weight determination. In an automatic-indicating scale, the counter force is supplied automatically (as by means of a spring, a so-called pendulum, etc.), and the weights are automatically indicated by the reading elements of the scale. A compact light-weight scale of moderate capacity, adapted for use upon a counter or table, is called a counter scale. A cylinder, drum, or barrel scale is an automatic-indicating scale in which the graduations are on a rotatable cylindrical chart, the indications being read in combination with a fixed indicator. A fan scale is an automatic-indicating scale having a fan-shaped chart in which the indicator describes a sector path in moving from zero indication to capacity indication. A flexure plate scale, or plate fulcrum scale, is a scale in which the conventional pivots and bearings are replaced by plates of steel securely fastened to opposing members, used in compression and bending or flexing slightly as required by the movement of the member in weighing. A platform scale, or platform balance, is a scale having a load-receiving platform carried on multiplying levers which transmit the load to the beam or other reading element, such platform having four or more lines of support comprised in bearings which rest directly upon knife-edges in the multiplying levers. A spring scale is a scale, generally of the automatic-indicating type, in which the weight indications depend upon the change of shape or of dimensions of an elastic body or system of such bodies. See also COMPUTING SCALE.

3. Figuratively, that which evaluates; as, the scales of Justice; also, that which determines alternatives; as, his fate was in the scale.

4. Agric. Weight; hence, size; — used esp. of livestock.

5. [cap.] pl. Astron. The sign or constellation Libra; the Balance; — rarely in sing.

6. Horse Racing. The weighing before or after a race.

scale (skāl), v.; SCALED (skāld); SCAL'ING (skāl'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To weigh in scales; also, formerly, to measure; compare.

Scaling his present bearing with his past. Shak.

2. To have a weight of; to weigh.

3. To make, or to lay out so as to be, of exact weight, quantity, or dimensions; specif., to divide into exact parts by weight; as, to scale dough into loaves. Colloq.

—, Intransitive: 1. To have a weight on scales.

2. Horse Racing. To be weighed.

scale (skāl), n. [ME. scale, skale, fr. OF. escale cup, husk (F. écale husk, chip), fr. the Teutonic stems of SHALE and 1st SCALE, n.] 1. a In animals, a small, more or less flattened, rigid, and definitely circumscribed plate forming part of the external body covering. Scales of fishes consist of dermal bony tissue, and in recent forms are commonly in imbricated rows, their posterior edges partly overlapping. In some cases they are coated with ectodermic enamel. The chief types of fish scales are placoid, ganoid, cycloid, and ctenoid, both the latter being thin and not enameled. The scales of reptiles, and of the legs of birds, are horny, and are simply circumscribed and slightly differentiated areas of the epidermis. Those of a few mammals (as certain anteaters) are epidermic outgrowths. Those of invertebrates, as on the wings of Lepidoptera, are commonly chitinous outgrowths. b Such scales collectively. c A plate of analogous structure making up wool fiber and distinguishing it from hair. See WOOL.

2. pl. Figuratively, impediments to seeing aright; film. Cf. Acts ix. 18.

3. Any small, thin, dry lamina shed from the skin, as in many skin diseases.

4. Any lamina, layer or leaf suggestive of a fish scale; a flake; as, a scale of iron, bone, etc.

5. A school (of fish). Rare.

6. A thin coating or covering; as, a scale of ice. Specif.: a The film of tartar incrusting the teeth. b A hard incrustation deposited on the inside of a vessel in which water is heated; as, boiler scale in a steam boiler. The scale from fresh water consists principally of calcium sulphate, the carbonates of calcium, magnesium, and iron, etc.; the scale from sea water, chiefly of calcium sulphate. Being a nonconductor of heat, scale is objectionable.

7. = PARAFFIN SCALE.

8. Short for SCALE INSECT.

9. Armor. Scales of armor, collectively.

10. Bot. a One of the cataphyllary leaves serving in most seed plants to protect a bud before expansion; a bud scale. See 1st BUD, 1; BUD SCALE. b Any thin, membranaceous, chaffy, or woody bract; as, the scale of an alder catkin. c One of the chaffy paleae clothing the stipe in some ferns. d The small appendage at the base of the petal in some Caryophyllaceae. e One of the disklike trichomes which make up the characteristic silvery or scurfy pubescence of the foliage in certain plants, as Elaeagnus.

11. Cutlery. Either of the pieces fastened one on each side of the tang of a knife, weapon, etc., to form the handle.

12. Metal. Formerly pl. The black scaly coating of oxide (esp. magnetic oxide, Fe_3O_4) on the surface of heated iron, as in hammering, rolling, etc.; — called specif. hammer scale, iron scale, mill scale, etc. Also, a similar coating upon other metals.

13. Nav. Formerly, a metal plate serving as an epaulette. Brit.

scale (skāl), v. Transitive: 1. To strip or clear of scales or scale.

2. To take off in thin layers or scales, as tartar from the teeth; to pare off, as a surface; to remove as if consisting of a scale or scales; also, to take off the surface of; to peel; husk, as chestnuts; often with off. "If all the mountains were scaled, and the earth made even." T. Burnet.

3. Gun. To clean, as the inside of an old-time cannon, by the explosion of a small quantity of powder. Obs.

4. To form into scales, or to form scale on; cover with scales; as, leprosy scales the skin; water scales a boiler.

5. To throw, as a thin, flat stone, so that the edge cuts the air or so that it skips on a water surface.

6. Chiefly Scot. a To scatter; disperse; as, to scale a crowd. b To spread, as manure. c To spill.

—, Intransitive: 1. To separate and come off in thin layers or laminae; — often with off; as, some sandstone scales by exposure.

2. To shed scales.

3. To become incrusted with a hard deposit, as boilers, condensers, and the like.

4. To separate; to scatter. Chiefly Scot. & N. of Eng.

scale (skāl), n. A dispersing. Scot. & N. of Eng.

scale, n. [It. or L.; It. scala, fr. L. scala, usually pl. scalae, staircase, ladder; akin to L. scandere to climb. See SCAN; cf. ESCALADE.] 1. A ladder; a rung; a series of steps; — now only, figuratively, a means of ascending. Cf. Genesis xxviii. 12.

2. Hence, anything graduated, esp. when employed as a measure or rule, or marked by lines at regular intervals. Specif.: a A series of spaces marked by lines, representing proportionately larger distances; as, a scale of miles, feet, etc., for a map or plan. b A mathematical instrument, consisting of a slip of wood, ivory, or metal, with one or more sets of spaces graduated and numbered on its surface, for measuring or laying off distances, dimensions, etc., as in drawing, plotting, etc. See GUNTER'S SCALE. c A basis for a numeral system; as, the decimal or binary scale. d A divided line on a map, chart, etc., used to measure distances on it.

3. A succession of ascending and descending steps and degrees; a progressive graduated series; scheme of comparative rank or order, a graded system from the lowest to the highest, esp. of forms of life; as, a scale of being; a scale of wages; a scale of taxation; a scale of tints.

4. A distinctive proportioned size, extent, or degree; as, a scale of expenditure.

5. A standard for reference in estimating or judging; as, a scale to measure degrees of crime.

6. Relative dimensions, without difference in proportion of parts; size or degree of the parts or components in any complex thing, compared with other like things; esp., the relative proportion of the linear dimensions of the parts of a drawing, map, model, etc., to the dimensions of the corresponding parts of the object that is represented; as, a map on a scale of an inch to a mile.

7. Arch. Relative size of parts as compared with the whole, or with the human figure.

8. Educ. & Psychol. A graded series of tests (from easy to difficult) or of performances (from bad to good) to be used in rating individual intelligence or achievement; as, the Binet scale; the Thorndike handwriting scale.

9. Logging. An estimating of the amount of lumber in logs or in standing timber; the tabulation or report; the amount of the estimate; scalage.

10. Mil. Escalade. Obs.

11. Music. a A graduated series of tones, ascending or descending in order of pitch according to a specified scheme of their intervals. The typical interval scheme of the ancient Greek scales was the tetrachord; of the medieval scales, the hexachord; and of the modern scales, the octave. According to the number of tones it has to the octave, a scale is pentatonic, heptatonic, etc. A modern diatonic scale is properly the gamut, or ascending or descending tones of any key (which see) in the major or minor mode, though scale is commonly synonymous with mode, its chief forms being classified as: (1) The major scale, having its tones in the following order of intervals from the keynote (C, for example), C–D–E⌣F–G–A–B⌣c, the sign ⌣ denoting a whole step, ⌣ a half step. The values of these intervals (when pure; see below), expressed in the vibration ratios of the successive tones, are as in this typical scale:

D to C,	E to D,	F to E,	G to F,	A to G,	B to A,	c to B.
9 : 8,	10 : 9,	16 : 15,	9 : 8,	10 : 9,	9 : 8,	16 : 15.

(2) The minor scale, having three forms: (a) the original (called also normal, Aeolian, natural, primitive, or pure) minor with the same tones as the relative major, but with its intervals in the following order (assuming A as keynote), A–B⌣C–D–E⌣F–G–a; (b) the harmonic minor, with its interval order as follows, A–B⌣C–D–E⌣F+G♯⌣a, the sign + denoting a step and a half; (c) the melodic minor, with interval order as in the following, A–B⌣C–D–E–F♯–G♯⌣a (ascending), a–G⌣F⌣E–D–C⌣B–A (descending). The chromatic scale consists of a diatonic scale, with the five intermediate semitones — in all thirteen tones to the octave. A scale is pure when its tones have exact harmonic relations to the keynote, as a major scale when its tones have the following vibration ratios to the keynote: k–$\frac{9}{8}k$–$\frac{5}{4}k$–$\frac{4}{3}k$–$\frac{3}{2}k$–$\frac{5}{3}k$–$\frac{15}{8}k$–$2k$; it is tempered when, as in modern keyboard instruments, slight alterations of these ratios are introduced. See TEMPERAMENT. b A scale on a given keynote; as, the scale of G. It is understood to be major, unless otherwise mentioned. c The compass of a voice or instrument. d The ratio between the width and the length of an organ pipe, breadth giving full and sonorous tones, narrowness giving thin and stringlike tones.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES ARE:

scale book	scale maker	scale pipette
scale charge	scale making	scale plan scale degree	scale-making, adj.	scale plate scale drawing	scale modulus	scale reading scale figure	scale passage	scale singing — in scale. In conformity to its due proportion in a fixed scale. — to scale. According to the proportions of an established scale of measurement.

scale (skāl), v. [From SCALE ladder.] Transitive: 1. To climb by a ladder, or as if by a ladder; to ascend by steps or by climbing; to clamber up; as, to scale the wall of a fort; hence, to ascend.

Scaling the mighty barrier of the Alps, they descended upon the fertile vales of southern Europe. G. F. Maclear.

2. To attack or take by or as by escalade.

3. a To arrange in a graduated series; as to scale a test. b To make or pattern in regularly graded proportions; hence, to regulate or judge proportionately, as credits.

4. To serve as a scale for.

5. To reduce according to a fixed ratio or scale; — sometimes with down; as, to scale down debts, wages, etc.

6. To measure (logs) to ascertain the number of board feet in them; also, to estimate the yield of in board feet, as of standing timber. U. S. & Canada.

—, Intransitive: 1. To afford an ascent, as by steps; also, to climb.

2. To rise in a graduated series, as of steps or notes.

3. To have measurement, as trees or logs.

Syn. — See ASCEND.

scale (skāl), n. [ON. skāli.] A hut or shed. New Dial.

scale, n. [F. or It.; F. escale, fr. It. scala. See SCALE ladder.] Port; landing place. Obs.

scale armor. Armor made of small metallic scales overlapping, and fastened upon leather or cloth.

scale'back' (skāl'băk'), n. A scale worm.

scale'bark' (-bärk'), n. = SHAGBARK, 1 a.

scale beam. 1. The lever or beam of a balance; the lever of a platform scale, to which the poise is applied.

2. A weighing apparatus with a sliding weight, resembling a steelyard.

Scale Beam, 2.

scale'-bear'ing, adj. See -BEARING.

scale'board' (skāl'bōrd'; colloq. skăb'ĕrd), n. [scale plate, layer + board.] A very thin board; specif.: a Print. A very thin slip of wood or cardboard formerly used in justifying. b A thin leaf of wood used for veneering, for the backs of picture frames, for splints, etc.

scale'-bright', adj. Shining with or like fish scales.

scale bug. Any scale insect.

scale buying. Buying by scaling (sense 3).

scale carp. A normally scaled variety of the common carp; — as distinguished from leather carp and mirror carp (see CARP).

scale caterpillar. The larva of a small moth (Laetilia coccidivora) of the family Pyralididae, that feeds on scale insects.

Scale Caterpillar (Laetilia coccidivora). a Imago; b Larva.

scaled (skāld), adj. 1. Covered with scales or scalelike structure, as a fish, reptile, or moth, or with scalelike parts which overlap in the manner of roof tiles; imbricate; also, covered with tiles overlapping like scales.
2. Without scales, or with the scales removed; as, scaled herring.
3. Furnished or equipped with a graduated scale; having, or adjusted to, a (specified) scale.
4. Zool. Having feathers which in appearance or arrangement somewhat resemble scales; as, the scaled doves (genus Scardafella) of tropical America; the scaled partridge, or scaled quail, Callipepla squamata, of the southwestern United States and northern Mexico.

scaled (skāld), adj. Captured by use of an escalade.

scale dove. = SCALED DOVE (see 1st SCALED, 4).

scale′-down′, adj. Characterized by scaling down.

scale′drake′ (skāl′drāk′), n. The sheldrake. Local, Eng.

scale duck. a A sheldrake. b A merganser. Local, Brit.

scale effect. Aeronautics. The correction necessary to apply to measurements made on a model in a wind tunnel in order to deduce corresponding values for the full-sized object.

scale fern. A small European fern (Ceterach officinarum, with chaffy, coriaceous fronds.

scale′fish′ (skāl′fĭsh′), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh′ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. 1. A scabbard fish.
2. Com. Any salted and dried fish inferior to cod, as the pollack, hake, and haddock.

scale fly. The winged male of a scale insect.

scale′ful (skāl′fo͝ol), n. That which fills or suffices to fill a scale.

scale insect. Any of numerous small but very prolific insects of the family Coccidae (order Homoptera); a bark louse; in a broad sense, any member of that family. The young of both sexes suck the juices of plants. The adult males have one pair of wings, but no mouth parts, and cannot feed, while the female usually attaches herself permanently to the plant and becomes a degenerate, often scalelike, form in which most of the external organs disappear. Many Coccidae are remarkable for the secretions produced by the body, which may form a shielldlike covering for the female and her eggs or take the form of a waxy or powdery substance. Lac and Chinese wax are produced by insects of this family while others, as the cochineal insect (see COCHINEAL), produce dyes. Many are pests of the garden and of fruit trees, as species of the genera Aspidiotus (see CIRCULAR SCALE), Icerya, Lecanium, and Lepidosaphes. See ORANGE SCALE, Illust.

scale leaf. a = 3d SCALE, 10 a. b A bulb scale; also, the rudimentary leaf on a rhizome.

scale louse. Scale insect.

scale′man (skāl′măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). An employee who weighs goods on scales.

scale micrometer. A minute and very delicately graduated scale of equal parts used in the field of a telescope or microscope, for measuring distances by direct comparison.

scale moss. Any foliose hepatic or liverwort; a leafy liverwort; — from the imbricated scalelike leaves. See JUNGERMANNIALES.

sca·lene′ (skā·lēn′), adj. [LL. scalenus, fr. Gr. skalēnos; cf. F. scalène.] 1. Geom. a Having the sides and angles unequal; — said of a triangle. See TRIANGLE, Illust. b Having the axis inclined to the base; as, a scalene, or oblique, cone.
2. Anat. Designating, or pertaining to, a scalenus muscle.

sca·lene′, n. A scalene triangle.

sca·le′no·he′dron (skā·lē′nō·hē′drŭn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skalēnos uneven + hedra seat, base.] Cryst. A hemihedral form bounded ideally by scalene triangles: a In the hexagonal system, one of twelve faces, resembling a double six-sided pyramid. b In the tetragonal system, one of eight faces, resembling somewhat the sphenoid. — sca·le′no·he′dral (-drŭl), adj.

a Tetragonal, and b Hexagonal, Scalenohedron.

sca·le′non (skā·lē′nŏn), sca·le′num (-nŭm), n.; pl. -NA (-nä). [LL. scalenum, Gr. skalēnon, neut.] A scalene.

sca·le′nous (-lē′nŭs), adj. Scalene.

sca·le′nus (skā·lē′nŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skalēnos uneven.] Anat. Any of certain deeply situated muscles, normally three on each side of the neck. Each extends from the transverse processes of two or more cervical vertebrae to the first or second rib (scalenus anterior, scalenus medius, scalenus posterior).

scale of chords. Math. A graduated scale on which are given the lengths of the chords of arcs from 0° to 90° in a circle of given radius; — used in measuring and plotting angles.

scale of fusibility, hardness, etc. See FUSIBILITY; HARDNESS, 7; etc.

scale′pan′ (skāl′păn′), n. A pan of a scale for weighing.

scale quail. = SCALED QUAIL (see 1st SCALED, 4).

scal′er (skāl′ĕr), n. One who or that which scales; specif.: a [From 2d SCALE, v.] A user of scales; a weigher. b [From 4th SCALE, v.] A worker engaged to remove scale or scales, as by boiling or scraping; an instrument for removing scales, as from fish, or scale, as tartar from the teeth. c [From 7th SCALE, n.] A climber of a wall or mountain; a user of a scale of measurement, as in surveying, or in estimating the board feet in logs.

scale rule. Forestry & Logging. A graduated stick having the number of board feet in logs of given diameters and lengths marked upon it, used in scaling logs or timber. Cf. LOG RULE, LOG SCALE.

scales (skālz), n. pl. See 1st SCALE, 2.

scale selling. Selling by scaling (sense 3).

scale′smith′ (skāl′smĭth′), n. A smith who makes scales.

scale stair or staircase. a A straight, as opposed to a spiral, stair. b Local, Scot. A stair common to several houses or apartments.

scale stone or stool. In sculpture, one of two corresponding blocks upon which the model and the rough stone are placed.

scale′tail′ (skāl′tāl′), n. Also scale′-tailed′ squir′rel (-tāld′). Any rodent of the genus Anomalurus, having horny scales under the base of the tail.

scale wax. Paraffin scale.

scale′wing′ (skāl′wĭng′), n. [From scale-winged. See SCALE of fish.] A moth or butterfly.

scale′work′ (skāl′wûrk′), n. a Work made up of overlapping scales. b Imbricated ornament or pattern.

scale worm. Any of numerous chaetopod worms of Polynoe and allied genera which have two rows of large scales, called elytra, along the back.

scal′i·ger (skăl′ĭ·jĕr), adj. Designating a forked battlement, such as were built in Verona under the La Scala family.

Scaliger Battlements.

scal′ing (skāl′ĭng), n. 1. [See 4th SCALE.] a Act or process of removing scales or scale, as fish scales, tartar from the teeth, incrustations in boilers, etc. b Deposition of scale, as in steam condensers; also, falling scale or fragments of it. c Scaly structure, markings, or arrangement; scutellation.
2. [See 7th SCALE.] a An ascent, as by a ladder. b Measurement or adjustment according to a scale, or of a scale.
3. Exchanges. A system of trading by selling or buying at specified price intervals on a rise or fall in the market. To buy on a scale is to make purchases, usually on a falling market, at intervals in order to average one's costs more advantageously than would be possible with purchases made in the beginning at a single price. To sell on a scale is the reverse.

scal′ing (skăl′ĭng), adj. That scales; specif.: a That forms or gives off scales or scale. b Used in or for scaling something. c Of motion, of or suggestive of scaling or skimming through the air or over the water.

scall (skôl), n. [ON. skalli a bald head. Cf. SCALD, adj., SCALD scurf.] A scurf or scabby disease, esp. of the scalp.

scall (skôl), adj. Scabby; scurfy; also, mean. Cf. 5th SCALD. Obs.

scal′lion (skăl′yŭn), n. [ME. scalyon, fr. ONF. escalogne (OF. eschaloigne), fr. (assumed) VL. escalonia, for L. Ascalonia (sc. caepa onion), fr. Ascalo, -onis, Ascalon, seaport in Palestine, fr. Gr. Askalōn. Cf. SHALLOT.] a The shallot. b The leek. c Any onion forming a thick basal portion without a normal bulb, as a result of disease, attacks of insects, or unfavorable environmental conditions.

scal′lion, v. i. Hort. To form scallions.

scal′lom (skăl′ŭm), n. [Cf. Ir. scolb a wooden pin or wattle used in thatching. Cf. SCOLLOP.] Basketwork. A straight rod like a stake but usually thinner, the ends of which are secured by being twisted round another rod or rods, usually to serve as a foundation for fetching, randing, or the like.

scal′lom, v. t. Basketwork. To plait, or join by twisting, as the end of a scallom to another rod.

scal′lop (skŏl′ŭp; skăl′-; 277), n. [OF. escalope shell, of Teut. origin; cf. D. schelp, schulp. See 1st & 3d SCALE; cf. ESCALOP; SCALP, n.] 1. a Any of many marine bivalve mollusks of the family Pectinidae characteristically having the shell radially ribbed and the edge undulated. Scallops generally do not attach themselves, but are able to swim by opening and closing the valves. The mantle edges bear well-developed ocelli, and there is a single large adductor muscle, which in some species is esteemed a great delicacy, but is the only part used as food. b Usually pl. The adductor muscle of any of the edible scallops, esp. Pecten irradians and P. gibbus borealis, cooked and served as food.

Scallop (Vola jacobaea).

2. One of the valves of a scallop shell; also, formerly, an object shaped like one of these valves, as a baking dish.
3. a One of a continuous series of circle segments, angular projections, or the like, forming a border, as on lace or embroidery, like or suggestive of the edge of a scallop shell. b Obs. A lace band or collar with a scalloped edge.
4. A variety of summer squash shaped like a scallop.

scal′lop (skŏl′ŭp; skăl′-), v. t.; -LOPED (-ŭpt); -LOP·ING. 1. To mark or cut the edge or border of into scallops. See SCALLOP, n., 3 a.
2. Cookery. To bake, orig. in scallop shells, later in any suitable dish, as oysters or tomatoes prepared with bread or cracker crumbs, butter, etc.; also to bake in a sauce usually covered with crumbs as potatoes or fish.

scallop budding. Hort. A mode of budding by paring off a strip of bark from the stock and applying the bud with its wood directly to the surface thus formed.

scal′lop·er (skŏl′ŭp·ĕr; skăl′-), n. One who gathers scallops; a maker of ornamental scallops, as in cloth.

scal′lop·ing, n. Act of gathering scallops or of making ornamental scallops; also, ornamental border or marking of scallops.

scal′lop·ing, adj. Formed with scallops.

scal′lop–shell′ moth. A yellow-and-brown moth (Hydria undulata) whose larva ties together and kills the leaves of cherry trees.

Scallop-shell Moth. Nat. size.

scal′ma (skăl′mä), n. [NL., fr. OHG. scalmo, scelmo, pestilence (G. schelm rogue).] Veter. A mild contagious fever of the horse marked by inflammation of the pharynx, larynx, and bronchi, and a severe cough.

scal′o·pus (skăl′ō·pŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skalops mole, lit., digging animal; akin to L. scalpere to dig, scrape, cut. See SHELF.] Zool. The genus including the common mole of the eastern United States. Syn. Scalops. See MOLE.

scalp (skălp), v. t. [Cf. SCALPEL.] Surg. To remove the skin of.

scalp (skălp), n. [ME., of Scand. origin; cf. ON. skalpr sheath, Dan. dial. skalp pod, shell; akin to D. schelp shell. See SCALLOP.] 1. The skull; the head. Obs. exc. Scot.
2. a That part of the integument of the human head usually covered with hair. In Anat. it includes the skin, the dense subcutaneous tissue, the occipitofrontalis muscle with the galea aponeurotica, the loose subaponeurotic tissue, and the cranial periosteum. b The corresponding part of many animals, esp. wolves, foxes, etc. c A part of the human scalp which the Indian warriors of North America cut or tore from an enemy as a token of victory. d Hence, a trophy of victory. e A small wig or toupee.
3. a Scot., Dial. Eng., & Ir. A projecting mass of rock, stone, sand, or mud; specif., a bank uncovered by the sea at low tide, esp. a bed of oysters or other shellfish. b Poetic. A mountain cap.
4. Finance. A small profit taken by a speculator in a quick transaction.
5. Milling. A sieve, esp. one for removing the coarsest portion of a milling stock.
6. Taxidermy & Furriery. The skin of the head and part of the neck of an animal preserved so as to be suitable for mounting, either over the natural skull or an artificial model. Cf. DOLLY-HEAD.
7. Whaling. The whole upper part of the head of a whale.

scalp (skălp), v.; scalped (skălpt); SCALP′ING. Transitive:
1. To deprive of the scalp; to cut or tear the scalp from the head of; hence, to remove a top surface from, as vegetation from the top of a hill, or knobs from the logs of a corduroy road.
2. Milling. To sift (wheat); esp., to sift off the coarsest portion from.
3. To buy and sell so as to make small quick profits; as, to scalp stocks, grain, etc.; specif., to buy (transportation tickets, theater tickets, etc.), and peddle them at other than official or stated prices.
4. To deprive (esp. a politician or officeholder) of position or influence. Political Slang, U. S.
—, Intransitive: To make a small, quick profit by slight fluctuations of the market; — said esp. of brokers who operate in this way on their own account.

scalp, v. i. [L. scalpere to cut. See SCALPEL.] To cut the coronary cushion or quarters, usually when at high speed; — said of a horse.

scalp, v. t. = SCABBLE. Rare.

scalp, v. t. To cut; scrape. Rare.

scalp dance. Among some tribes of North American Indians, a ceremonial dance, usually of the women only, in which scalps were carried in celebration of a victory. Cf. DANCE, n., 6.

scal·peen′ (skăl·pēn′), n. [Origin uncert.] Pickled mackerel. Anglo-Ir.

scal′pel (skăl′pĕl), n. [L. scalpellum, dim. of scalprum scalper, knife; akin to L. scalpere to cut, carve, scrape; cf. F. scalpel. See SHELF.] Surg. A small, straight knife with a thin, keen blade.

One form of Scalpel.

scal′pel, v. t. To cut with a scalpel; to dissect.

scal·pel′lic (skăl·pĕl′ĭk), adj. Done by means or by use of a scalpel.

scal·pel′lum (skăl·pĕl′ŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-ä). [L., scalpel.] Zool. Any of four slender piercing organs in the proboscis of Hemiptera or bloodsucking Diptera. They correspond to the mandibles and the first pair of maxillae. — scal·pel′lar (-ĕr), adj.

scalp′er (skăl′pĕr), n. 1. One who or that which scalps; specif.: a Milling. Any of various machines or devices used in scalping grain. b Exchanges. A trader, usually a member of an exchange, who seeks to make small profits on quick transactions. c One who buys transportation or theater tickets, etc., and peddles them at other than official or stated prices.
2. pl. Also scalp′ing boots. Light leather toe boots worn on the hind feet of a horse to prevent scalping. See 4th SCALP.
3. A second silksman who uses a fine wire sieve.
4. Engraving. A scauper.

scalp′ing, adj. That scalps; specif., fiercely vindictive; as, a scalping answer.

scalping boots. See SCALPER, 2.

scalping iron. Surg. An instrument used in scraping foul and carious bones; a raspatory.

scalp′less (skălp′lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. a Deprived of the scalp. b Bald.

scalp lock. A long tuft of hair left on the crown of the head by the warriors of some tribes of American Indians.

scal′pri·form (skăl′prĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. scalprum chisel, knife + E. -form.] Zool. Chisel-shaped.

scal′prum (skăl′prŭm), n.; pl. -PRA (-prä). [L., knife. See SCALPEL.] a Zool. The front or cutting edge of an incisor tooth. b Surg. A raspatory.

scalp′ture (skălp′tŭr), n. [L. scalptura.] The art of graving on stone or metal; also, a carving. Rare.

scal′y (skăl′ĭ), adj.; SCAL′I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCAL′I·EST. 1. Covered or abounding with scales or scale; as, a scaly fish; cleaving off in flakes at the surface; as, scaly stone.
2. Hence, of or consisting of fish; as, scaly captives.
3. Having parts or surface resembling scales or laminae.
4. Made of small overlapping plates or scales; — said of armor.
5. Infested with scale insects, as the bark or fruit of trees.
6. Mean; despicable; stingy; as, a scaly fellow. Slang.
7. Bot. Composed of imbricated scales; as, a scaly bud; covered with scales; as a scaly stem.

scaly anteater. A pangolin of the genus Smutsia. Cf. CAPE ARMADILLO.

scaly bark. Plant Pathol. A roughened scabby appearance of the bark; specif.: a Fla. Leprosis. b Calif. Psorosis.

scal′y–bark′ (skăl′ĭ·bärk′), n., or scal′y–bark′ hick′o·ry. The shagbark Carya ovata.

scaly blazing star. A button snakeroot (Liatris squarrosa), having purple heads with scaly involucrate bracts.

scaly fern. = SCALE FERN.

scal′y–finned′ (skăl′ĭ·fĭnd′), adj. Zool. Having scales on the fins; — said specif., of the Squamipennes. Cf. SPINY-FINNED.

scaly leg or legs. A disease of poultry caused by a mite (Cnemidocoptes mutans) producing an abnormal, rough, hard scaliness on the featherless parts of the legs.

scal′y–leg′ mite. A minute, round, flattened, whitish mite (Cnemidocoptes mutans) of the family Sarcoptidae, infesting the legs of poultry. See SCALY LEG.

scaly mistletoe. May plant of the genus Arceuthobium.

scaly spleenwort. = SCALE FERN.

scaly tetter. = PSORIASIS.

---

scaled sculpin. See SCULPIN, d. scale′less, adj. See -LESS. scale′let, n. See -LET.
scale′like′, adj. See -LIKE.
sca·le′na (skā·lē′nä), n., pl. of SCALENUS.
sca·le′ni (-nĭ), n., pl. of SCALENUS. scale′proof′ (66), adj. See -PROOF. scales. † SKAYLES.
scales′man, n. = SCALEMAN. sca·let′, n. [It. scaletta, dim. of scala. See SCALE ladder.] Mil. A jack for lifting. Obs. scale′-tailed′. See -TAILED. scal′e·ton. Var. of SKELETON. scale′wise′, adv. See -WISE. scale′wort′, n. = TOOTHWORT a. scalfe. † SCALP, an oyster bed.
scal′i·ness (skăl′ĭ·nĕs), n. See -NESS. scal′io′la (skăl·yō′lä), n. = [SCAGLIOLA.] scal′la·wag. Var. of SCALAWAG. scalled, adj. = 5th SCALD. scal′loped-edged′. See EDGED. scal′lopt. Scalloped. Ref. Sp.
scal′lop·wise′, adv. See -WISE. scal′lum. Var. of SCALLOM. scal′ly·wag. Var. of SCALAWAG. scalon, scalone. † SCALLION.
Sca′lops (skā′lŏps), n. [NL.] Zool. Syn. of SCALOPUS. scalour. † SQUALOR.
scal·pel′lus (skăl·pĕl′ŭs), n. = SCALPELLUM. scalpt. Scalped. Ref. Sp. scalt. Archaic & dial. past part. of SCALD. scal′y-barked′ (66), adj. See -BARKED. scal′y-stemmed′. See -STEMMED scal′y-tail′, n. = SCALETAIL. scal′y-winged′, adj. See -WINGED.

scam (skăm), n. & v. t. [Prob. of Scand. origin; cf. ON. skömm a hurt, shame, Sw. dial. skamm evil. See SHAME.] Stain; spot; scorch. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir.

sca·man'der (skȧ·măn'dĕr), v. i. [L. Scamander, river in Asia Minor, fr. Gr. Skamandros. See MENDEREZ (in Gaz.); cf. MEANDER.] To wander in a winding course.

scam'ble (skăm'b'l), v.; -BLED (-b'ld); -BLING (-blĭng). [Cf. SHAMBLE, v. i.] Intransitive: 1. To scramble, as in a group struggling for a largess. Obs.
2. To get on somehow; move stumblingly; also, to make shift. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. Shak.
3. To sprawl, shamble, or roll about. Chiefly Dial.
—, Transitive: 1. To scatter, as money to be scrambled for. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.
2. To seize or snatch, orig. in a scramble. Obs.
3. To collect, as by scraping up. Obs. exc. Dial.
4. To remove bit by bit.
5. To trample; shove; also, to litter. Dial. Eng.

scam'ble (dial. skăm'(b)'l; skăm'-), n. [From SCRAMBLE, v.] Scramble; botch; mess. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

scam'ble. Scot. and dial. Eng. var. of SHAMBLE.

scam'bler (skăm'blĕr), n. Scot. A sponger; a mealtime visitor.

scam'bling, adj. 1. Brawling; quarrelsome. Obs.
2. Disorderly; makeshift. c Irregular; scattered; as, a scambling town. d = SHAMBLING.

scam'bling, n. An irregular or picked up meal. Now Dial. Eng.

scam'ell, scam'mel (skăm''l), n. The bar-tailed godwit. See GODWIT. Local, Eng.

‖sca·mil'lus (skȧ·mĭl'ŭs), n.; pl. SCAMILLI (-ī). [L., orig., a little bench, dim. of scamnum bench, stool.] Arch. A sort of second plinth or block, below the bases of Ionic and Corinthian columns, generally without moldings, and of smaller size horizontally than the pedestal.

scam·mo'ni·ate (skȧ·mō'nĭ·ăt), adj. Made with scammony.

scam'mo·ny (skăm'ō·nĭ), n. [L. scammonia, scammonea, fr. Gr. skammōnia.] 1. a A twining species of convolvulus (Convolvulus scammonia), native to Asia Minor. It has a thick root two or three feet long, sagittate leaves, and white flowers. b The ipomoea Ipomoea orizabensis.
2. Pharm. a The dried root of Convolvulus scammonia. b The resin obtained as an exudation from the living root or prepared by extracting the dried root with alcohol and precipitating with water. It is a drastic cathartic. c The dried root of Ipomoea orizabensis; — commonly called Mexican scammony. See JALAP a.

scamp (skămp), n. [From SCAMP to roam.] 1. A highwayman. Obs.
2. A rascal; a rogue; a worthless fellow; sometimes, jocularly, a person given to escapades or tricks.
3. The bacalao (Mycteroperca falcata); — so called from its ability to steal bait without being caught.

scamp, v. t.; SCAMPED (skămpt); SCAMP'ING. [Cf. SCANT, adj., SKIMP.] 1. To perform in a hasty, neglectful, or imperfect manner; to do, or make, superficially; skimp; scant.
2. To graze or touch in passing. Dial., U. S.

scamp (skămp; skämp), v. i. [From SCAMPER.] 1. To roam idly. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
2. To dart hastily. Colloq.
3. To skimp.

scam'pa·vi'a (skăm'pȧ·vē'ȧ), n. [It., fr. scampare to escape + via away.] A long, low war galley used by the Neapolitans and Sicilians in the early part of the 19th century.

scam'per (skăm'pĕr), v. i.; SCAM'PERED (-pĕrd); SCAM'PER·ING. [D. or F.; obs. D. schampen, MD. ontscampen, fr. OF. escamper, eschamper, fr. (assumed) VL. excampare, fr. L. ex from + campus field. See CAMP; cf. DECAMP, SCAMP rascal.] To run with speed; to run or move in a quick, hurried manner; to hasten away.
Scampering about the room after a mouse. S. Sharpe.

scam'per, n. A scampering; a hasty flight.

scamp'er (skămp'ĕr), n. One who scamps work.

scam'per·er (skăm'pĕr·ĕr), n. One who scampers.

scamp'ing (skămp'ĭng), n. Trade-Unionism. a Intentional failure of an employee to perform his task properly. b Act or practice of an employee in exceeding his usual rate of output for the purpose of gaining a personal advantage over his fellows or contrary to their mutual understanding of a proper rate of production. c Act or practice of an employer in attracting labor from competitors underhandedly.

scamp'ing, adj. Acting the scamp or rogue.

scamp'ish (skămp'ĭsh), adj. Of or like a scamp; knavish; as, scampish conduct. — scamp'ish·ly, adv. — scamp'ish·ness, n.

scan (skăn), v.; SCANNED (skănd); SCAN'NING. [L. scandere, scansum, to climb, to scan; akin to Gr. skandalon a trap, stumbling block, Skr. skandati he leaps, falls, MIr. scendim I leap. Cf. ASCEND, DESCEND, SCALE a ladder, SCANDAL, SLANDER.] Transitive: 1. Pros. To go through (verse) foot by foot distinguishing the metrical structure; to recite metrically.
2. To go over and examine point by point; to examine with care; to look closely at or into; scrutinize.
3. Obs. a To judge critically; to criticize adversely. b To explain the meaning of. "That would be scanned." Shak. c To mount by steps. Spenser.
4. To perceive or apprehend. Now Rare.
5. To run one's eye over hastily; as, to scan the advertisements. Colloq.
6. To subject to scanning.
—, Intransitive: 1. a To scan verse. b Pros. To conform to or reveal a definite metrical pattern; as, the line will not scan.
2. To pronounce judicially, as on a choice. Obs.
Syn. — SCAN, SCRUTINIZE, CONTEMPLATE. SCAN implies close examination, esp. such as passes from point to point; to SCRUTINIZE is to examine critically, minutely, or (esp.) with a fixed or steady gaze; CONTEMPLATE suggests more deliberate or thoughtful observation; as, "a drowsy cabman, scanning the horizon for a fare" (H. James); "Gently scan your brother man" (Burns); "My Jewish friends scrutinized me keenly" (De Quincey); "contemplating with pleasure the results of his own industry" (Goldsmith); "When I am tired of looking at the ruins of the Abbey I sit among my own and pensively contemplate them" (Lowell). Cf. SEE, GAZE, EXAMINATION.

scan (skăn), n. An act of scanning; a close, searching look; also, range of vision; apprehension; as, beyond the scan of the people.

scance (skăns), n. & v. Glitter; shine; glance; comment; blame. Chiefly Scot.

scan'dal (skăn'dăl; -d'l), n. [From F. scandale and ME. scandle, fr. OF. escandle; F. & OF. separately fr. LL. scandalum stumbling block, temptation, fr. Gr. skandalon a trap, stumbling block. See SCAN; cf. SLANDER, TRANSCEND.] 1. Offense, doubt, or bewilderment occasioned to the religious feelings of others by one's unseemly conduct; also, an occasion of lapse of faith or of religious obedience in others.
2. Hence, offense occasioned to the moral feelings of a community by what is regarded as wrong, criminal, heinous, or flagrant; as, the publication of the secret treaties caused an international scandal.
3. Loss of reputation; opprobrium, ignominy, or disgrace; as, they failed utterly, to the great scandal of the service; also, Obs., a scandalous accusation.
You must not put another scandal on him. Shak.
4. That which causes censure, as being wrong or flagrant; a circumstance or action, or sometimes a person, that offends established moral conceptions or disgraces all who are associated or involved; as, the mayor's administration is a gross scandal.
5. Detraction or defamation; opprobrious censure; esp., defamatory talk, uttered maliciously; gossip about the foibles and shortcomings of acquaintances; backbiting; — usually without implication as to the truth or falsity of imputation; as, untouched by the breath of scandal.
6. Equity Pleading. Anything alleged which is impertinent and is reproachful to any person or derogates from the dignity of the court or is contrary to good manners; any immaterial allegation that is slanderous.
Syn. — Defamation, detraction, slander, calumny, shame.
☞ COMBINATIONS are:
scandal-bearer scandalmonger scandalmongery scandal-bearing scandalmongering scandalmonging scan'dal (skăn'dăl; -d'l), v. t.; -DALED (-dăld; -d'ld) or -DALLED; -DAL·ING or -DAL·LING. 1. To defame; to slander. Now Chiefly Dial.

2. Obs. a To bring reproach or scandal upon. b To offend the feelings of; to scandalize.

scan'dal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. Act of scandalizing; a scandalous condition.

scan'dal·ize (skăn'dăl·īz; skăn'd'l-), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [F. scandaliser, fr. LL. scandalizare, fr. Gr. skandalizein.] Transitive: 1. To occasion scandal, or spiritual lapse, on the part of. Obs.
2. To offend the feelings or the conscience of (a person) by some action considered immoral or criminal; as, to scandalize an audience with his atheistic views.
3. To disgrace; to bring into reproach or dishonor. Now R.
4. To defame; to speak slander against; to malign.
5. Naut. a To lower the peak and haul up the tack or clew of (a fore-and-aft sail) in order to reduce its size or to spill the sail. b To reduce sail on (a mizzenmast) when before the wind, so that the sails on the mainmast may have the full force of the wind.
—, Intransitive: To talk, or indulge in, scandal.

scan'dal·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n. One who utters or occasions scandal.

scan'dal·ous (skăn'dăl·ŭs; -d'l·ŭs), adj. [F. scandaleux.]
1. Occasioning spiritual hindrance, lapse, or offense to associates. Obs.
2. Giving offense to the conscience or moral feelings; exciting reprobation; calling out condemnation; involving scandal.
3. Disgraceful to reputation; bringing shame or infamy; opprobrious; as, a scandalous crime or vice.
4. Defamatory; libelous; as, a scandalous story.
5. Giving scandal by reason of conduct or views; — during the 17th century, of a clergyman accused of heresy, etc.
Syn. and Ant. — Cf. SHAMEFUL.
— scan'dal·ous·ly, adv. — scan'dal·ous·ness, n.

‖scan'da·lum mag·na'tum (skăn'dȧ·lŭm măg·nā'tŭm). [ML., scandal of magnates.] Eng. Law. a Defamatory speech or writing published to the injury of a peer, judge, or other great officer of the realm. Under early statutes (repealed in 1887) this was an offense more serious than defamation of others.

scan'da·roon' (skăn'dȧ·rōōn'), n. [From Scanderoon or Iskanderun, seaport in Syria, named after Alexander the Great. See ALEXANDRETTA, in Gaz.] A variety of carrier or homing pigeon.

scan'dent (skăn'dĕnt) adj. [L. scandens, -entis, pres. part. of scandere to climb. See SCAN.] Climbing; as, a scandent plant.

scan'di·a (-dĭ'ȧ), n. [NL. See SCANDIUM.] Chem. Scandium oxide Sc_2O_3, obtained as a white infusible powder.

Scan'di·an (skăn'dĭ·ăn), adj. [L. Scandia, Scandinavia (ML., Scandinavia), described as a northern island, fr. the Teut. source of ON. Skåney, district in southern Sweden, fr. the stem of ON. ey island. See ISLAND.] 1. Of or pertaining to Scandia, anciently the southern part of the Scandinavian peninsula; hence, Scandinavian.
2. Designating, or pert. to the languages of Scandinavia.

Scan'di·an, n. A Scandinavian.

scan'dic (skăn'dĭk), adj. Chem. Of or pert. to scandium.

Scan'di·na'vi·a (skăn'dĭ·nā'vĭ·ȧ), n. [L. See SCANDIAN.] a The great peninsula of North Europe, consisting of Sweden and Norway. b Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, together with the adjacent islands, also including Iceland.

Scan'di·na'vi·an (-ăn; 159), adj. Of or pertaining to Scandinavia, its peoples, or languages.

Scan'di·na'vi·an, n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Scandinavia; esp., a member of the tall, blond, dolichocephalic dominant race, often taken as the best representatives of the pure Teutonic type.
2. Scandinavian speech; the Scandinavian languages, or any of them; Old Norse. See OLD NORSE; INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

Scandinavian Union. A monetary union formed (1873 and 1875) between Sweden, Norway, and Denmark whereby a single gold standard with the same unit (krone in Denmark and Norway, krona in Sweden) valued at 26.8 cents or 1s. 1½d., was adopted. Cf. LATIN UNION.

scan'di·um (skăn'dĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Scandia (see SCANDIAN) + -ium.] Chem. A trivalent metallic element sparsely but widely distributed (in combined form) in association with the rare-earth metals, with which it is sometimes included. Symbol, Sc; at. no., 21; at. wt., 44.96. It is found esp. in certain Scandinavian and Finnish minerals, as thortveitite and wiikite. It was discovered spectroscopically by Nilson in 1879 and found to be identical with the ekaboron predicted by Mendelyeev. See EKA-.

Scan'dix (skăn'dĭks), n. [NL., fr. L. scandix the herb chervil, fr. Gr. skandix.] Bot. A small genus of Eurasian herbs of the carrot family (Ammiaceae) with finely dissected leaves and white flowers. The fruit is wingless, long-beaked, with obscure oil tubes. S. pecten-veneris is the lady's-comb.

Sca'ni·a (skā'nĭ·ȧ), n. [ML., province in southern Sweden, fr. ON. skāney. See SCANDIAN.] Geol. In Pleistocene time, the region roughly corresponding to the present Scandinavia.

Sca'ni·an (skā'nĭ·ăn), adj. [See SCANIA.] 1. Designating a compilation of Danish customary laws (Lex Scania Antiqua), made in the 13th century.
2. Geol. a = GÜNZIAN. b Designating, or pert. to, Scania.

Sca'ni·an, n. = GÜNZ.

scan'mag (skăn'măg). [Abbr. for *scan*dalum *mag*natum.] Scandal. Slang.

scan'na·ble (skăn'ȧ·b'l), adj. That may be scanned metrically.

scan'ner (skăn'ĕr), n. 1. One who scans or, specif., knows how to scan verse.
2. Elec. A scanning disk.

scan'ning (skăn'ĭng), verbal n. of SCAN. Specif.: n. 1. Scansion.
2. Close judicial or critical examination.
3. Elec. The successive exposure of small portions of an object or scene in facsimile transmission or television.

scan'ning, pres. part. of SCAN. Specif.: adj. 1. Minutely scrutinizing.
2. Med. Marked by deliberate utterance with pauses between syllables.
— scan'ning·ly, adv.

scanning disk. Elec. A rotating disk with a number of spirally arranged holes near its edge which permit a light beam to sweep over successive portions of a picture or object.

scanning speech. A peculiar hesitant way of speaking, syllable by syllable.

scan'sion (skăn'shŭn), n. Pros. Act of scanning; distinguishing the metrical feet of a verse by emphasis, pauses, or otherwise.
☞ For scansion signs see PROSODY.

scan'sion·ist (-ĭst), n. One who practices or is skilled in the art of scansion.

Scan·so'res (skăn·sō'rēz; 181), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. scandere, scansum, to climb.] Zool. An abandoned order of birds having the toes two before and two behind, including the parrots, woodpeckers, cuckoos, trogons, toucans, etc.

scan·so'ri·al (-rĭ·ăl), adj. Zool. a Pertaining to, capable of, or adapted for, climbing. b Pertaining to the Scansores.

scansorial barbet. A barbet of the family Capitonidae.

scan·so'ri·ous (skăn·sō'rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. Also scan'so·ry (skăn'sō·rĭ). Scansorial. Rare.

scant (skănt; 83), adj.; SCANT'ER; SCANT'EST. [ME. skant, fr. ON. skam(m)t, neut. of skam(m)r short, brief; akin to OHG. scam. Cf. SCAMP to skimp.] 1. Not full, large, or plentiful; barely or scarcely sufficient; scanty; meager; as, a scant allowance; scant room to pass; scant comfort a man gets from questioning; specif., wanting a trifle of, or not coming quite up to, a stated measure; as, a scant half mile; scant weight.
2. Sparing; parsimonious; chary. Obs. exc. Dial. Shak.
3. Having a small or insufficient supply; — used with of; as, scant of money.
4. A little wanting or weak in some regard, as in strength.
5. Naut. Of the wind, having such a direction or force that a vessel can barely hold her course even close-hauled.

scant (skănt), v.; SCANT'ED; SCANT'ING. [From SCANT, adj.] Transitive: 1. To provide with a scant number or supply; to straiten or distress, as for provisions; to treat illiberally; to stint; as, to scant one in leisure. Also, formerly, to limit to a scant allowance or range, as of literary material.
2. To make small, narrow, thin, or scanty; to reduce or cut down; to fail to give in full; to be niggardly of.
There can be no translation from one language to another which shall not scant the meaning somewhat. Samuel Butler.
Scant not my cups. Shak.
3. To give scant attention to; to slight. Now Rare.
—, Intransitive: 1. To become scant. Obs.
2. Naut. a Obs. To fail, or become less; to scantle; as, the wind scants. b To haul, as the wind, so that a vessel can barely hold her course, even close-hauled.

scant (skănt), n. Scanty supply; scarcity. Now Dial.

scant (skănt; dial. skänt), adv. In a scant manner; scarcely; hardly. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

scan'ti·ty (skăn'tĭ·tĭ), n. [scant, adj. + -ity.] Scarceness; scantness.

scan'tle (skăn't'l), n. [Cf. SCANTLING, n., 1.] a Obs. A scantlet. Shak. b. A gauge for measuring slates; also, Dial., slate in small, irregular pieces.

scan'tle (skăn't'l), v. t. [ONF. escanteler (OF. eschanteler) to break into cantles, fr. es- (fr. L. ex) + cantel (OF. chantel) corner, side, piece. Confused with E. scant. See CANTLE.] 1. Obs. a To scant; specif., to stint as to provision; to be niggard of; to cut short or down; to restrict. b To adjust to a standard of measure.
2. To divide into small pieces; to partition. Rare.

scan'tle, v. i. [Dim. of SCANT, v.] To be deficient; to fail; to become less. — v. t. To make less. Both Obs.

scant'ling (skănt'lĭng), n. [From earlier scantillon, fr. ONF. escantillon (OF. eschantillon, F. échantillon) a sample, pattern, example. In some senses confused with scant insufficient. See SCANTLE, v. t.] 1. A measuring rod; also, measurement; size; caliber; standard; grade. Obs.
2. Obs. a A specimen; a sample. b A rough draft; a rude sketch or outline. c An abridgment; a remnant. d Measure; limit.
3. a A small quantity, amount, or number; a modicum.
A scantling of good claret. Scott.
b Archaic. An allotted portion.
4. The measure or dimensions of anything, esp. of breadth and thickness of timber, stone, etc., in building, or the sizes of frames, strakes, or the like, in shipbuilding.
5. A small piece of lumber, esp. one of the upright pieces in house framing; a stud; a piece of yard lumber that is under eight inches wide and from two inches to six inches thick.
6. In export trade, yellow pine lumber varying in size from 2 in. × 2 in. to 5 in. × 8 in.
7. A frame for casks to lie upon; a trestle.
8. Archery. The distance within which a shot does not count as a miss.

scant'ling, adj. = SCANTY, 1. Obs.

Sca·man'dri·us (skȧ·măn'drĭ·(-ŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Skamandrios.] See ASTYANAX.

scam'ler. Var. of SCAMBLER.

scam'les. Var. of shambles (see SHAMBLE, n., 3).

scam'mo·nin (skăm'ō·nĭn), n. = JALAPIN.

scam'mo·ny·root', n. = MANROOT a. scam'perd. Scampered. Ref. Sp.

scamp'hood, n. See -HOOD.

scamp'ing·ly, adv. of scamping, pres. part.

scamps'man, n. = SCAMP, n., 1.

scampt. Scamped. Ref. Sp.

scan. ✝ BONE, SKEIN.

‖scan'da·la mag·na'tum, pl. of SCANDALUM MAGNATUM. [-PROOF.]

scan'dal-proof' (66), adj. See scan'di·cus (skăn'dĭ·kŭs), n. [NL.; cf. L. scandere to mount, ascend.] Medieval Music. See NEUME, Table.

Scan'di·na'vi·an·ism, n. See -ISM.

Scan'ic (skăn'ĭk), adj. Philol. = SCANDINAVIAN, adj.

scant'ful·ly, adv. Narrowly; scarcely. Obs.

scan'til·lon, n. Obs. form of SCANTLING.

scant'i·ly, adv. of SCANTY.

scant'i·ness, n. See -NESS.

scant'let, n. [See SCANTLING.] A small portion or quantity. Obs.

scant'linged (skănt'lĭngd), adj. Having (specified) scantlings or dimensions; — used in combination.

scantling number or numeral. A number variously computed from a ship's dimensions, used in reference to a tabulated scheme specifying the size of structural material required to entitle a ship, according to type, to a certain classification, or grading with respect to seaworthiness.

scant'–o'–grace' (skănt'ō-grās'), n. A good-for-nothing fellow; a rascal. Scot.

scant'y (skăn'tĭ), adj.; SCANT'I·ER (-tĭ-ĕr); SCANT'I·EST. [From SCANT, adj.] 1. Barely sufficient, or meager, in quantity or supply; wanting amplitude or extent; narrow; not abundant.

His dominions were very narrow and scanty. Locke.

2. Somewhat less than is needed; insufficient; scant; as, a scanty supply of words; a scanty supply of bread.

3. Niggardly; parsimonious; yielding little. Now Rare.

Syn. — SCANTY, SPARSE. SCANTY applies esp. to quantity, and implies meagerness or insufficiency; SPARSE applies to number rather than quantity, and describes that which is thinly scattered or dispersed; as, "a starveling in a scanty vest" (Wordsworth); "the Sonnet's scanty plot of ground" (id.); a sparse population; "Now and then she scattered, with regretful sparseness, some seeds and crumbs from her parcels" (Mary Wilkins). Cf. THIN, RARE, PARSIMONIOUS.

Ant. — Copious, ample, abundant. See PLENTIFUL.

scape (skāp), n. [L. scapus shaft, stem, stalk. See SHAFT.] 1. Bot. A peduncle arising at or beneath the surface of the ground in acaulescent plants, as the bloodroot, tulip, primrose, etc.; sometimes, loosely, any flower stalk.

2. Zool. A stem or shaft; as: a The basal joint of an insect antenna esp. when longer than the other joints. b The shaft of a feather. c The peduncle of the balancer of a dipterous insect.

3. Arch. The shaft of a column; erroneously, an apophyge. See ORDER, Illust.

scape (skāp), n. [See 'SCAPE, v.] 1. An escape or means of escape. Dial.

2. A freak; a slip; a fault; an escapade. Obs.

'scape (skāp), v. t. & i. [Aphetic form of ESCAPE.] To escape; — formerly written scape.

scape (skāp), n. [Of imitative origin.] The cry or note of a flushed snipe; also, a snipe.

scape (skāp), n. [From landscape.] A scenic view, whether of sea, land, or sky; as, a North River scape.

-scape. A combining form from landscape, denoting a (specified) type of view or a pictorial representation of such a view, as in:

airscape	landscape	skyscape
cityscape	riverscape	townscape cloudscape	seascape	waterscape scape'gal'lows (skāp'găl'ōz; -ŭz), n. [See SCAPE to escape.] One who has narrowly escaped the gallows for his crimes.

scape'goat' (skāp'gōt'), n. [See SCAPE to escape.] 1. Jewish Antiq. A goat upon whose head were symbolically placed the sins of the people, after which he was suffered to escape into the wilderness, as part of the ceremony prescribed by Biblical law (Lev. xvi. 10) for the Day of Atonement.

2. Anthropol. Any animal or person to whom sins, evils, ill luck, etc., are ceremonially attached, the victim then being sacrificed or driven out, as symbolic of dispelling the evils.

3. Hence, a person or thing bearing blame for others.

scape'grace' (skāp'grās'), n. [See SCAPE to escape.] A reckless, unprincipled person; a reprobate; — often jocularly. — adj. Incorrigible; profligate.

The most charming young scapegrace in the army. Thackeray scap'el (skăp'ĕl), n. [NL. scapellus, dim. fr. L. scapus stem, stalk.] Bot. A caulicle.

scape'less, adj. 1. Without a scape, or shaft.

2. That cannot be escaped.

scape'thrift' (skāp'thrĭft'), n. A thriftless person. Archaic.

scape wheel. Horol. The wheel in an escapement into the teeth of which the pallets play.

sca'pha (skā'fȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. scapha boat, fr. Gr. skaphē.] Anat. An elongated depression of the ear separating the helix and antihelix.

Sca·phan'der (skȧ-făn'dĕr), n. [NL., fr. F. scaphandre, fr. Gr. skaphē boat + anēr, andros, a man.] Zool. A genus of tectibranchiate gastropods having a large shell with a concealed spire. It is the type of a family, Scaphan'dri·dae (-drĭ-dē).

sca'phi·on (skā'fĭ-ŭn), n. [Gr. skaphion small bowl.] A form of sundial.

scaph'ism (skăf'ĭz'm), n. [Gr. skaphē trough, boat.] An ancient Persian mode of executing criminals by confining the victim in a trough, with his head and limbs smeared with honey or the like and exposed to the sun and to insects.

scaph'ite (skăf'ĭt), n. [See SCAPHITES.] Paleontol. A fossil of Scaphites or allied genus.

Sca·phi'tes (skȧ-fĭ'tēz), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skaphē boat.] Paleontol. A genus of Cretaceous ammonoid cephalopods, having the whorls closely coiled in an involute spiral, except the last, which is straight for a distance, then bent back toward the coiled part. It is the type of a family, Sca·phit'i·dae (skȧ-fĭt'ĭ-dē). — scaph'i·toid (skăf'ĭ·toid), adj.

Scaphites (S. aequalis). Reduced.

scaph'o- (skăf'ō-), scaph-. A combining form, Greek skapho-, skaph-, from skaphē, meaning boat, used chiefly for scaphoid, scaphoid and, as in *scaphocephaly, Scaphander, scaphol*unar.

scaph'o·ceph'a·ly (skăf'ō-sĕf'ȧ-lĭ), n. [scapho- + -cephaly.] A deformed condition of the skull, in which the vault is narrow, elongated, and boat-shaped, because of premature ossification of the sagittal suture. — scaph'o·ce·phal'ic (-sē-făl'ĭk), scaph'o·ceph'a·lous (-sĕf'ȧ-lŭs), adj. — scaph'o·ceph'a·lism (-lĭz'm), n.

scaph'o·ce'rite (skăf'ō-sē'rīt), n. [scapho- + cerite.] Zool. A flattened plate or scale on the second joint of the antennae of many Crustacea. — scaph'o·ce·rit'ic (-sē-rĭt'ĭk), adj.

sca·phog'na·thite (skȧ-fŏg'nȧ-thīt), n. [scapho- + Gr. gnathos jaw.] Zool. A thin leaflike appendage of the second maxilla of decapod crustaceans. — sca·phog'na·thit'ic (-thĭt'ĭk), adj.

scaph'oid (skăf'oid), adj. [scaph- + -oid.] Boat-shaped; navicular. — n. Anat. The navicular of the carpus or tarsus.

scaph'o·lu'nar (skăf'ō-lū'nĕr), adj. Zool. Pert. to, or composed of, the scaphoid and lunar bones of the carpus. — n. A bone so composed in the carpus of many Carnivora.

Sca·phop'o·da (skȧ-fŏp'ō-dȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. scapho- + -poda.] Zool. A small class of marine Mollusca having a tapering tubular shell, open at both ends, a pointed or spadelike foot for burrowing, and many long, slender, prehensile oral tentacles. There is no special respiratory apparatus or heart. The mouth contains a radula; the sexes are separate. The class consists of the tooth shells (genus Dentalium and allied genera). — scaph'o·pod (skăf'ō-pŏd), adj. & n. — sca·phop'o·dous (skȧ-fŏp'ō-dŭs), adj.

Scaphopoda. A Dentalium denale. Nat. size. B Anterior end of D. agile. f Foot; c Tentacles, or Cirri; m Mantle; s Front End of Shell.

scapi-. A combining form for the first noun scape, as in sca'pi·form, sca·pig'er·ous. See -FORM; -GEROUS.

scap net (skăp). A kind of scoop net for catching bait.

sca'poid (skā'poid), adj. [1st scape + -oid.] Scapiform.

scap'o·lite (skăp'ō-lĭt), n. [Gr. skapos staff, shaft + -lite.] Mineral. a A mineral of the scapolite group, intermediate in composition between meionite and marialite and containing 46–54 per cent of silica; — called also wernerite. It resembles feldspar when massive, but has a fibrous appearance and higher sp. gr. (2.66–2.73). b Any member of the scapolite group.

scap'o·lite–gab'bro, n. Petrog. A gabbro whose plagioclase is in part or entirely changed to scapolite.

scapolite group. Mineral. A group of minerals crystallizing in the pyramidal division of the tetragonal system, white or grayish-white in color when pure, and consisting essentially of silicates of aluminum, calcium, and sodium. All the species, viz., meionite, wernerite (common scapolite), mizzonite (dipyre), marialite, and sarcolite, may be considered as isomorphous mixtures, in varying proportions, of the two fundamental compounds $Ca_4Al_2Si_9O_{25}$ (pure meionite) and $Na_4Al_3Si_9O_{24}Cl$ (pure marialite). The physical properties vary with the composition — the hardness from 5 to 6.5, the sp. gr. from 2.5 to 2.8, etc.

scap'o·lit'i·za'tion (skăp'ō-lĭt'ĭ-zā'shŭn; -ĭ-zā'shŭn), n. Petrog. The process or state of alteration by which minerals, esp. feldspar, are converted into scapolite.

sca'pose (skā'pōs), adj. [1st scape + -ose.] Bot. Scape-bearing; resembling, or consisting of, a scape.

scapul-. = SCAPULO- (which see), as in scap'u·lal'gi·a, scap'u·lec'to·my, scap'u·lo·dyn'i·a. See -ALGIA, etc.

scap'u·la (skăp'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. SCAPULAE (-lē), SCAPULAS (-lȧz). [L.] 1. Anat. & Zool. The shoulder blade; the dorsal and in most mammals the principal, or sometimes the only, bone of the pectoral arch, or shoulder girdle. The human scapula is flat and triangular, situated in the upper lateral part of the back, and having at the outer angle a large shallow fossa (the glenoid cavity) for articulation with the head of the humerus. On its posterior surface, or dorsum, is a prominent, obliquely transverse ridge (the spine), ending in a process (the acromion) which arches over the glenoid cavity and articulates with the clavicle, forming the point of the shoulder. The spine divides the dorsum into two fossae (the supraspinous or suprascapular above, and the infraspinous or infrascapular below); the slightly concave anterior surface, or venter, forms one large fossa, the subscapular. A hooked process (the coracoid process), extending in front of the glenoid cavity, represents the coracoid bone of many vertebrates. In birds the scapula is long and narrow; in amphibians and some other animals its dorsal part may be an imperfectly ossified suprascapula. In teleost fishes both the hypercoracoid and supraclavicle have been regarded as representing, and have been called, the scapula.

2. Zool. a The tegula (appendage of the mesothorax) of a lepidopterous or hymenopterous insect. See TEGULA, 2 a. b A pleuron of the mesothorax of an insect, including the epimeron and episternum. c The trochanter of the foreleg of an insect. d The patagium (appendage of the prothorax) of a lepidopterous insect.

scap'u·lar (skăp'ū·lĕr), adj. Of or pertaining to the shoulder, the scapula, or scapulars.

scap'u·lar (skăp'ū·lĕr), n. [F. and ML.; F. scapulaire, fr. ML. scapularium, scapulare, fr. L. scapula shoulder blade.] 1. a Orig., a working garment worn by monks; now, the sleeveless outer part of the monastic habit carrying the cowl, put on over the head and falling from the shoulders in front and back. b A badge of membership in an order, consisting of two cloth squares connected by strings and worn over the shoulders under the clothing.

2. Surg. A bandage passing over the shoulder to support it, or to retain another bandage in place.

3. a Anat. & Zool. A scapula. b Zool. A scapular feather.

scapular arch. Anat. & Zool. The pectoral arch.

scap'u·la're (skăp'ū·lā'rē), n. [NL. See SCAPULAR.] Zool. a In birds, the scapular region or tract. b A posttemporal bone.

scapular index. The ratio of the length of the scapula to its breadth, expressed in hundredths of the length.

scap'u·lar'y (skăp'ū·lĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -lĕr·ĭ), n. [See SCAPULAR.] 1. A scapular.

2. A shoulder strap, esp. one marking the wearer's rank.

scap'u·lar'y (skăp'ū·lĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -lĕr·ĭ), adj. Scapular; also, Obs., covering the shoulders.

scap'u·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd), adj. Zool. Designating a small African crow (Corvus albus, syn. scapulatus) having white areas on the shoulders, and a white breast.

scap'u·let, scap'u·lette (skăp'ū·lĕt; -lĭt), n. [Dim. of scapula.] Zool. A fold at the bases of the lobes of the manubrium of many rhizostomous medusae.

scap'u·li·man'cy (-lĭ·măn'sĭ), n. [L. scapulae shoulder blades + E. -mancy.] Divination by observation of a shoulder blade usually as blotched or cracked from the fire.

scap'u·lo- (skăp'ū·lō-). A combining form for scapula, denoting: a The scapula, as in scap'u·lo·pex'y. See -PEXY. b Scapular and, as in scap'u·lo·ax'il·lar'y, pertaining to the scapula and axilla, scap'u·lo·bra'chi·al, scap'u·lo·cla·vic'u·lar, scap'u·lo·cor'a·coid, scap'u·lo·hu'mer·al, scap'u·lo·ra'di·al, scap'u·lo·spi'nal, scap'u·lo·tho·rac'ic, scap'u·lo·ul'nar, scap'u·lo·ver'te·bral, etc.

sca'pus (skā'pŭs), n.; pl. SCAPI (-pī). [L. See 1st SCAPE.] A scape; a stem, shaft, or column; as, Zool., the shaft of a feather, or the basal part of a polyp; the main stem of a sea pen.

scar (skär), n. [ME. skar, skerre, fr. ON. sker a skerry, cliff. See SKERRY.] 1. a An isolated or protruding rock. b A steep, rocky eminence; a bare place on the side of a mountain or steep bank of earth.

2. a A hard cinder; a clinker; furnace slag. b In roasting pyrites for sulphuric acid manufacture, a lump formed by fritting.

scar (skär), n. [OF. escare (F. escarre, eschare) eschar, fr. L. eschara, fr. Gr. eschara hearth, fireplace, scab, eschar. Cf. ESCHAR. The meaning has been influenced in E. by scar crack.] 1. A mark left in the skin or an internal organ by the healing of an injury, burn, ulcer, or the like, because of the replacement of the injured tissue by connective tissue; a cicatrix; a blemish; a disfigurement.

2. a A mark left on a stem or branch by the fall of a leaf, or on a seed by separation of the funicle. b A catface.

3. A scarlike mark or indentation, as one made by long use or contact; specif., Zool., a cicatrix.

4. A lasting effect of an injury sustained, as a dishonor, a lapse of integrity, or a wound to the feelings by affliction, grievous loss or disappointment, or the like.

If two lives join, there is oft a scar. Browning

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

scar-bearer	scar-clad	scar-faced
scar-bearing	scarface	scar-seamed scar (skär), v. t.; SCARRED (skärd); SCAR'RING. To mark with a scar or scars; to mar; disfigure; to leave an abiding effect upon. "The weariness, the disdain and passion that scarred his mind." Anne Douglas Sedgwick

—, v. i. To form a scar; to become scarred.

scar (skär), n. [L. scarus a kind of fish, fr. Gr. skaros.] A parrot fish.

scar, n. [From obs. or dial. scarth a cleft, fr. ON. skarth. See SHARD.] 1. A chink; a crack; a slit. Obs.

2. = 2d SHARD. Dial.

scar, adj. [ON. skjarr. See SCARE, v.] Scared; shy; wild. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

scar (skär; skär). Scot. & dial. var. of SCARE.

scar'ab (skăr'ăb), n. [F. scarabée, fr. L. scarabaeus; akin to Gr. karabos beetle. Cf. CARBINE.] 1. A dung beetle; esp., Scarabaeus sacer. See SCARABAEUS, 1.

2. = SCARABAEUS, 2.

3. A worthless, contemptible nobody. Obs.

Scar'a·bae'i·dae (skär'ȧ-bē'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL. See SCARAB.] Zool. A large family of stout-bodied beetles with lamellate antennae. It is coextensive with Lamellicornia in its narrower sense, and contains many of the largest beetles, including among others the subfamilies: Scarabaeinae (syn. Coprinae), the dung beetles; Melolonthinae (chafers); Dynastinae (rhinoceros beetles); Rutelinae, and Cetoniinae (flower beetles); the last four being vegetable feeders, having stout grublike larvae which usually burrow in the ground or in plants. By some the family name is restricted to the members of the typical subfamily Scar'a·bae·i'nae (-bē-ĭ'nē). — See SCARABAEUS. — scar'a·bae'id (-bē'ĭd), n. & adj. — scar'a·bae'an (-ăn), adj. & n.

scar'a·bae'i·doid (skär'ȧ-bē'ĭ-doid), adj. [scarabaeid + -oid.] Zool. Designating the third instar in the development of blister beetles, resembling the larva of a scarabaeid beetle.

scar'a·bae'i·form (-fôrm), adj. Resembling a scarabaeid beetle or its larva.

scar'a·bae'oid (skär'ȧ-bē'oid), n. [scarabaeus + -oid.] 1. Zool. One of the Scarabaeidae.

2. A scarabaeus (image) but little like the insect.

scar'a·bae'oid (-oid), adj. Zool. a Like, or pertaining to, the Scarabaeidae. b Scarabaeidoid.

scar'a·bae'us (-ŭs), n.; pl. -BAEUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119), -BAEI (-bē'ĭ). [L. See SCARAB.] 1. a A large black, or nearly black, dung beetle (Scarabaeus sacer) of the countries bordering on the Mediterranean, which (as perhaps also one or more allied species) was regarded by the ancient Egyptians as symbolic of resurrection and immortality. Like many related forms, it rolls large balls of dung for food for itself or young. b [cap.] Zool. A genus containing the above and allied species.

Egyptian Scarabaeus (S. sacer). (½)

2. Egyptol. A conventionalized representation of a beetle (of the family Scarabaeidae), commonly in stone or faïence, usually having an inscription on the flat under side; also, a gem cut in this representation. It is the symbol of the sun-god Khepera. The gems were widely used as talismans and ornaments, and were placed on mummies as symbols of resurrection.

scar'a·bee (skär'ȧ-bē), n. [F. scarabée.] A scarabaeus.

scar'ab·oid (skär'ăb·oid), n. Gr. Antiq. A gem engraved only on the flat oval base, the back being somewhat rounded but with no imitation of the beetle. It is a Greek modification of the scarab, of the late 6th and 5th centuries B.C.

scar'ab·oid (skär'ăb·oid), adj. [scarab + -oid.] a Zool. Scarabaeoid. b Of the nature of, or resembling, a scarabaeus (image).

Scar'a·mouch' (skär'ȧ·mouch'; -mōōsh'), n. [F. Scaramouche, fr. It. Scaramuccia, lit., skirmish. See SKIRMISH.] A personage in the old Italian comedy (derived from Spain) characterized, originally in burlesque of the Spanish don, by boastfulness and poltroonery; hence [sometimes not cap.], a cowardly buffoon; a ne'er-do-well. — v. i. [not cap.] To act, or act like, a scaramouch.

Scar'bo·rough lil'y (skär'bŭ·rŭ; -brŭ). An amaryllislike plant (Vallota speciosa) of South Africa; also, its brightred flower. See VALLOTA.

Scar'bo·rough warn'ing. [From Scarborough, a seaport town of England.] Very short notice or warning, or none at all; hence, a surprise. Eng.

scarb'–tree' (skärb'trē'), n. [From SCRAB crab apple.] A seedling or wild apple tree. See WILDING, n., 1 a.

scarce (skärs), adj.; SCARC'ER (skär'sĕr); SCARC'EST (skär'-sĕst; 119). [ME. scars, fr. ONF. escars (F. échars), fr. (assumed) VL. excarpsus, for L. excerptus, past part. of excerpere to pick out, and hence to contract, to shorten, fr. ex (see EX-) + carpere to pluck. See HARVEST; cf. SCURF.] 1. Deficient in quantity or number compared with the demand; not plentiful or abundant; scanty; as, food became scarce; good locations are scarce.

2. Hard to find; uncommon; rare; as, a scarce issue.

3. Noncurrent uses: a Obs. Deficient in size; as, a scarce measure; of wind, deficient in force. b Obs. Sparing, frugal; parsimonious; stingy. "Too scarce ne too sparing." Chaucer. c Now Rare. Characterized by deficiency or want; as, a scarce living; scarce times. d Now Rare.

---

scant'ly, adv. of SCANT. scant'ness, n. See -NESS. scap. Var. of SCALP, skull. scape'-bear'ing. See -BEARING.
scape, scape'ment, n. = ESCAPEMENT, 3. scaph- = SCAPHO-. scaphe, n. [OF., fr. L. scapha fr. Gr. skaphē.] A skiff; a boat. Obs.
Sca'phi·o·pod'i·dae (skȧ'fĭ-ō-pŏd'ĭ-dē), Sca·phi'o·pus (skȧ-fĭ'ō-pŭs). See SPADEFOOT. scaph'o·ceph'a·lus (skăf'ō-sĕf'ȧ-lŭs), n. [NL.] = SCAPHOCEPHALY. scap'ple (skăp'l), scap'pler (-lĕr). Vars. of SCABBLE, SCABBLER. scap'u·lar-shaped', adj. See [-SHAPED.] sca'r·a·bae'i, pl. of SCARABAEUS.
Scar'a·bae·i'nae (skär'ȧ·bē·ĭ'nē). See SCARABAEIDAE. scaramoche. † SKIRMISH. scarbabe. † SCARERABE.

Scantily supplied or provided; meagerly furnished; short; — with of.

Syn. — Deficient. See RARE. Ant. — See PLENTIFUL.

— to make oneself scarce. To depart at once; to keep away. Colloq.

scarce (skârs), adv. Scarcely (see FLAT, adj., 11).

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

scarce-closed	scarce-found	scarce-parted scarce-cold	scarce-heard	scarce-seen scarce-covered	scarce-met	scarce-told scarce-discerned	scarce-moving	scarce-warned scarce, v. t. To make scarce. Obs.

scarce'lins (skârs'lĭnz), adv. Scarcely. Dial. Eng.

scarce'ly (skârs'lĭ), adv. 1. Scantily; sparingly. Obs. 2. By a narrow margin (of quantity, time, etc.); barely; hardly; but just; as, scarcely enough; also, only just or slightly, if at all; almost not; as, the storm continued with scarcely any pause; scarcely ever; — formerly often with a redundant negative.

3. Certainly not; — with verbs of believing or judging, implying that the speaker regards the proposition as utterly untenable; as, you will scarcely contend that either party can guarantee national prosperity.

4. Probably not; — used to mitigate the force of the speaker's certainty; as, you can scarcely expect that much.

5. With difficulty. Archaic.

Syn. — See HARDLY.

scarce'ment (skârs'mĕnt), n. Arch. & Engin. An offset, or retreat, in the thickness of a wall or bank of earth, etc.

scarc'en (skär'sĕn; -s'n), v. t. & i. To lessen to deficiency in quantity or number. Chiefly Dial.

scarce'ness, n. The condition of being scarce; scarcity; — now less frequent than scarcity, except in sense f.

scar'ci·ty (skär'sĭ·tĭ), n. [ME. scarsete, fr. ONF. escarseté.] Quality or condition of being scarce. Specif.: a Obs. Sparingness; niggardliness; parsimony. b Smallness of quantity or number in proportion to the wants or demands; as, a scarcity of grain, of teachers; very limited supply; as, the scarcity of radium. c Want of provisions for the support of life; a period of such want; as, a beleaguered city suffers scarcity; during the late scarcities. d Obs. The condition of wanting or lacking an adequate supply, sometimes specif. of the necessities of life; penury; poverty. e Obs. State of imperfection; inadequacy. Chaucer. f Rareness; uncommonness.

Praise . . . owes its value to its scarcity. Rambler.

Syn. — Want, dearth, rarity, paucity, insufficiency, infrequency. Ant. — See ABUNDANCE.

scare (skâr; Scot. skär), n. [ON. skör, gen. skarar, joint, splice, edge; akin to E. SHEAR.] Golf. The part of a wooden club where the beveled neck and shaft were (formerly) spliced. The socket method of joining is now general.

scare, v. t. To splice. Scot. & N. of Eng.

scare (skâr), v.; SCARED (skârd; colloq. and dial. skârt); SCAR'ING (skâr'ĭng). [ME. skerren, fr. ON. skirren, fr. skjarr shy, afraid, of obscure origin.] Transitive: 1. To frighten or strike with sudden fear; to alarm.

Scared to death of women. Edna Ferber.

2. To effect the passage of, or to drive or impel, by scaring; as, to scare information out of, or some caution into, a person; to scare one into revelations; to scare away suitors.

—, Intransitive: To be scared; to take alarm.

Syn. — Alarm, startle, affright, terrify. See FRIGHTEN.

Ant. — Embolden. See ENCOURAGE.

scare up. To bring to light or into the open, as game by beating; hence, Colloq., to discover for use; as, he could not scare up a dollar.

scare, n. 1. Fright or a fright; esp., a sudden fright produced by a trifling cause, or originating in mistake.

2. That which scares; also, a scarecrow. Obs.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

scare-bear	scare-fish	scare-peddler scare-beggar	scare-fly	scare-robin scare-bird	scare goose	scare-sheep scare bullfinch	scare-hawk	scare-sleep scare-Christian	scare-hog	scare-thief scare-devil	scare-mouse	scare-vermin scare, adj. [From SCAR, adj.] Timid; shy. Rare.

scare'babe' (skâr'bāb'), n. A thing to scare a babe; a bogy. — adj. That is merely a scarebabe.

scare'crow' (skâr'krō'), n. 1. An object, usually suggesting a human figure, set up to frighten crows or other birds away from crops, or to frighten away animals; hence, anything terrifying without danger.

2. A person clad in rags and tatters; a skinny person.

scare'crow', adj. Such as scares without being really formidable; pertaining to or suggesting a scarecrow; skinny.

scare'crow', v. t. To scare or disfigure, as a scarecrow does.

scare'crow'ish, scare'crow'y, adj. Resembling or suggesting a scarecrow.

scare'ful (skâr'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Dreadful; alarming. Dial.

scare'head' (skâr'hĕd'), n. A very large newspaper heading, usually sensational. U. S.

scare'mon'ger (-mŭng'gĕr), n. [scare + monger.] One prone to circulate panicky reports of impending disaster; an alarmist. — scare'mon'ger·ing, n.

scar end. The unfinished end of a breakwater, or the like, under construction.

scar'er (skâr'ĕr), n. One who or that which scares.

scare'–sin'ner, n. A scarer of sinners, that is, death. R.

scare'some (skâr'sŭm), adj. Alarming; terrifying. Dial.

scarf (skärf), n.; pl. SCARVES (skärvz), SCARFS (skärfs). [ONF. escarpe (F. écharpe scarf, sling), orig., pilgrim's scrip, of Teut. origin; cf. ON. skreppa.] Cf. SCARP a band, 1st SCRIP.] 1. A broad band of fabric worn loosely over the shoulders or about the neck, sometimes over the head or around the waist.

2. Specif.: a A military or official sash, usually indicative of rank. b Obs. A band covering the eyes. c A band of crape or silk worn by mourners at a funeral. d A muffler or tippet. e A cravat with broad falling ends, secured by a knot, through a ring, or with a pin; a necktie.

3. A runner, as for a dresser or sideboard.

4. Eccl. A broad band of black silk, passing over the back of the neck, with long ends pendent in front over the gown, worn by doctors of divinity on their academic gowns and by clergy during choir services.

5. Hence, a chaplain's benefice or one holding such a benefice. Obs.

scarf (skärf), v. t.; SCARFED (skärft); SCARF'ING. 1. To wrap, cover, or adorn, with or as with a scarf or scarves; as, to scarf a statue with a veil; also, formerly, to bind up in a scarf or sling.

Come, seeling night, Scarf up the tender eye of pitiful day. Shak.

2. To wrap or throw on (a scarf or mantle) loosely.

My sea gown scarf'd about me. Shak.

scarf (skärf), v. [From scarf scarf joint, of Scand. origin; cf. Sw. skarf, ON. skarfr; akin to AS. scearfian to scrape, sceorfan to gnaw, scarify. See SCURF.] Transitive: 1. To unite, as pieces of timber or metal, by a scarf joint.

2. To form a scarf on the end or edge of, as for a joint.

3. To cut out, in channeled strips, the blubber, or flay the skin of (a whale or seal); to flense.

4. Automobiles. To taper (a leaf spring).

—, Intransitive: To unite or be united by a scarf joint.

scarf, n. [See SCARF to unite.] 1. Either of the chamfered or cutaway ends that fit together to form a scarf joint.

2. A scarf joint.

3. Whaling. A groove or channel along a whale's body.

scarf (skärf), n. Mil. = 1st SCARP, 1.

scarf, scarfe (skärf), n. [ON. skarfr.] Cormorant. Scot.

scarf cloud. Meteorol. A wispy cloud forming above, and later mantling the sides of, a rising cumulus.

scarfed (skärft; 111), adj. Having or wearing a scarf or scarves; invested with a scarf.

scarf'er (skär'fĕr), n. Metal. One who scarfs link blanks, corners of plates, etc.

scarf joint. A joint made by chamfering, halving, notching, or otherwise cutting away, two pieces to correspond to each other and securing them together after overlapping by bolting, riveting, welding, brazing, or the like.

1–3 Forms of Scarf Joint. a Coak, or Cog; b Keys.

scarf'pin' (skärf'pĭn'), n. A pin for the neck scarf.

scarf'skin' (skärf'skĭn'), n. [Cf. SCURF.] Anat. The epidermis.

scarf weld. A welded scarf joint in metal.

scar'i·dae (skär'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Scarus + -idae.] Zool. A family of marine fishes (order Pharyngognathi) closely resembling the Labridae, but having the teeth of the jaws more or less coalescent. It comprises the true parrot fishes. — scar'id (-ĭd), n. & adj.

scar'i·fi·ca'tion (skăr'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. scarificatio.] The action of scarifying; also, a scratch or incision, or group of them, made by scarifying.

scar'i·fi·ca'tor (skăr'ĭ·fĭ·kā'tĕr), n. [NL. See SCARIFY.] Med. An instrument for making slight cuts in the skin, esp. one containing several lancets moved by a spring.

scar'i·fi'er (skăr'ĭ·fī'ĕr), n. One that scarifies; specif.: a Med. An instrument used for scarifying. b Agric. Mach. (1) A machine which tears up and partially pulverizes surface soil. (2) A machine for scarifying seed. c An implement or machine to tear up the surface of a road prior to resurfacing; also, its operator.

scar'i·fy (skăr'ĭ·fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [F. scarifier, fr. L. scarificare, scarifare, fr. Gr. skariphasthai to scratch. See SCRIBE.] 1. To scratch or cut the skin of; esp., Med., to make small incisions in with a lancet or scarificator, to draw blood from the smaller vessels without opening a large vein.

2. To make cuts in the bark of a tree.

3. To lacerate the sensibilities of, as by severe criticism; to flay.

A twelve-page letter, which he put in the fire after reading the first scarifying sentence. Aldous Huxley.

4. To mark with scars; to scar; to heal with a scar.

5. Agric. a To stir the surface soil with a scarifier. b To scratch (hard-coated seeds, as clover) to aid germination.

scar'i·fy (skăr'ĭ·fī), v. t. To scare; to frighten. Dial.

scar'i·ose (skär'ĭ·ōs), adj. Bot. Scarious.

scar'i·ous (skär'ĭ·ŭs), adj. [F. scarieux, fr. NL. scariosus, said to be fr. a L. scaria thorny shrub.] Bot. Thin and membranous in texture, as a bract.

scar'la·ti'na (skär'lä·tē'nä), n. [NL. See SCARLET.] Med. Scarlet fever. — scar'la·ti'nal (-năl; -n'l), adj. — scar'la·ti'nous (skär'lä·tē'nŭs; skär·lăt'ĭ·nŭs), adj.

scar'la·ti'ni·form (skä'lä·tē'nĭ·fôrm; -tĭn'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [scarlatina + -form.] Med. Scarlatinoid.

scar'la·ti'noid (skär'lä·tē'noid; skär·lăt'ĭ·noid), adj. [scarlatina + -oid.] Med. Resembling scarlet fever or its eruption; scarlatiniform.

scar'let (skär'lĕt; -lĭt), n. [ME. scarlat, scarlet, prop., a stuff, later, a color, fr. OF. escarlate (F. écarlate), fr. ML. scarlatum), fr. Ar. siqillāt (cf. Ar. siqlāṭūn, siqlāṭ whence E. ciclatoun, through F.), prob. fr. Gr. kyklas, -ados, mantle with a border, lit., circular. See CYCLE; cf. SUCLAT.]

1. a A color, yellowish-red in hue, of very high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR. b Loosely, any of several similar colors.

2. Cloth or clothes of a scarlet color; as, arrayed in scarlet; also, Obs., a particular kind of rich cloth of bright color, esp. scarlet in grain, a cloth of a fast-dyed red.

3. Any pigment or dye that colors scarlet; as, Biebrich scarlet; crocein scarlet. See DYE, Table.

4. A costume of scarlet color signifying rank or worn as a uniform; also, a wearer of scarlet costume, now esp. a soldier or huntsman; collectively, persons wearing scarlet, as at a fox hunt.

— the scarlet. R.C.Ch. The cardinalate; — so called from the scarlet vestments worn by cardinals.

scar'let, adj. 1. Of the color scarlet; clad in scarlet; as, a scarlet cloth; his face turned scarlet with indignation.

2. Glaringly offensive, flagrant; as, scarlet iniquities.

3. a Whorish; — in allusion to Rev. xvii. 1–6. b Hence, unchaste; lewd; bawdy; salacious; as, a scarlet lady or play.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

scarlet-arilled	scarlet-coated	scarlet-haired scarlet-barred	scarlet-colored	scarlet-lined scarlet-berried	scarlet-crested	scarlet-lipped scarlet-blossomed	scarlet-faced	scarlet-red scarlet-breasted	scarlet-flowered	scarlet-robed scarlet-circled	scarlet-fruited	scarlet-tipped scarlet-clad	scarlet-gowned	scarlet-vermilion scar'let v. t. Obs. a To dye or tinge with scarlet. b To clothe in scarlet.

Scarlet, Will. A companion of Robin Hood; — called in old ballads and plays Scadlock, Scathelock, or Scathlock.

scarlet admiral. The red admiral (butterfly).

scarlet balm. Oswego tea.

scarlet bean. = SCARLET RUNNER.

scar'let·ber'ry (skär'lĕt·bĕr'ĭ; skär'lĭt-), n. The bittersweet Solanum dulcamara; also, its fruit.

scarlet bush. = SCARLET HAMELIA.

scarlet clematis. An attractive woody vine (Viorna coccinea) of Texas, with solitary, nodding, scarlet flowers.

scarlet clover. The crimson clover.

scarlet cross. = SCARLET LYCHNIS.

scarlet cup. Any of various red fungi of the genus Peziza.

scar'let–day', n. Brit. Univs. A ceremonial occasion marked by the wearing of official robes of scarlet.

scarlet eggplant. The tomato eggplant.

scarlet elder. The red-berried elder.

scarlet fever. Med. An acute contagious febrile disease caused by a type of streptococcus (Streptococcus scarlatinae) and characterized by inflammation of the fauces and a scarlet rash, which lasts a few days and is followed by more or less extensive desquamation of the skin; scarlatina. See ANTITOXIN.

scarlet fritillary. A bulbous herb (Fritillaria recurva) with scarlet-and-yellow flowers.

scarlet gaura. An erect perennial herb (Gaura coccinea) of central North America, with alternate lanceolate leaves and rather sparse terminal leafy spikes of bright-red flowers.

scarlet hamelia. A tropical American shrub (Hamelia erecta), having edible fruit, often cultivated for its showy, scarlet or crimson flowers.

scarlet haw. A common American hawthorn (Crataegus coccinea) with showy white flowers in corymbs and bright-red fruit.

scarlet ibis. 1. An ibis (Guara rubra) of South and Central America. It is intense scarlet with black-tipped wings.

2. Angling. An artificial fly with scarlet body, gold ribbing and tag, and scarlet tail, hackle, and wing.

scarlet kowhai. The glory pea Clianthus puniceus.

scarlet larkspur. A perennial herb (Delphinium cardinale) of southern California, with bright-scarlet flowers. See WILD FLOWERS, Plate.

scarlet letter. A scarlet A, once used as a mark of adultery, probably in allusion to the "scarlet woman" of Revelation.

Scarlet Letter, The. A novel (1850) by Nathaniel Hawthorne. See DIMMESDALE, ARTHUR; PRYNNE, HESTER.

scarlet lightning. a The scarlet lychnis. b The red valerian.

scarlet lobelia. The cardinal flower.

scarlet lychnis. A Eurasian garden perennial (Lychnis chalcedonica) with scarlet, sometimes white, flowers, adventive in North America.

scarlet madder. A color, yellowish-red in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

scarlet maple. The red maple.

scarlet minivet. An Indian minivet (Pericrocotus speciosus), black, with rump and underside scarlet.

scarlet mite. Any of numerous bright-red carnivorous mites found among grass and weeds, esp. members of the family Trombidiidae. The young are parasitic on spiders and insects. Cf. CHIGGER b.

scarlet monkey flower. A perennial herb (Mimulus cardinalis) of the Western United States, with showy, scarlet, 2-lipped flowers. See WILD FLOWERS, Plate.

scarlet oak. An oak (Quercus coccinea) having close-grained wood, and leaves that turn scarlet in autumn.

scarlet ocher. = INDIAN RED, 3.

scarlet pimpernel. The common pimpernel (Anagallis arvensis) with flowers prevailingly scarlet.

scarlet plume. A Mexican shrub (Euphorbia fulgens) often cultivated for its scarlet-bracted flowers.

scarlet queening. See QUEENING.

scarlet R. Any of certain azo dyes; specif., scarlet red medicinal.

scarlet rash. Med. Roseola.

scarlet red. 1. The color scarlet.

2. Either of two red disazo dyes. Specif., scarlet red medicinal or Biebrich scarlet R medicinal, used as an antiseptic for wounds and skin diseases. See DYE, Table.

scarlet red sulphonate. See DYE, Table.

scarlet runner. Also scarlet runner bean. A tropical American high-climbing bean (Phaseolus coccineus) with large bright-red flowers and red-and-black seeds.

scarlet sage. A well-known garden bedding plant (Salvia splendens) of Brazil, with long racemes of intense scarlet flowers. Also, any of several other red-flowered species of Salvia. See 1st SAGE, 1 a; SALVIA.

scar'let·seed' (skär'lĕt·sēd'; skär'lĭt-), n. [So named in allusion to the scarlet seeds they bear.] a A small West Indian tree (Ternstroemia obovalis), family Theaceae, with white flowers. b A West Indian shrub or small tree (Laetia thamnia), family Flacourtiaceae, with fragrant flowers.

scarlet snake. a A bright-colored harmless American snake (Lampropeltis elapsoides), banded with red, black, and white, and thus imitating the poisonous coral snakes. b A red-banded snake (Cemophora coccinea) of the southeastern United States.

scarlet strawberry. The Virginia strawberry.

scarlet sumac. The smooth sumac Rhus glabra.

scarlet tanager. A common American tanager (Piranga erythromelas). The adult male is scarlet with black wings and tail, the female and young chiefly olive. See BIRD, Plate.

scarlet trumpet. = TREE CYPRESS.

scarlet vermilion. See VERMILION, n., 2 b.

scarlet vetch. A red-flowered annual vetch (Vicia fulgens) of Algeria, cultivated as a forage plant in warm climates.

Scarlet Woman. The Roman Catholic Church; — an opprobrious epithet in allusion to Rev. xvii. 1–6.

scar'let·y, adj. Showing a tinge of scarlet.

scarn (skärn), n. [ON. skarn; akin to AS. scearn. See SHARN.] Dung. Dial. Eng.

scarn. Var. of SCORN. Obs. exc. Dial.

scar'oid (skâr'oid), adj. [Scarus + -oid.] Zool. Like, or pertaining to, the Scaridae. — n. A fish of that family.

scarp (skärp), n. [Aphetic for ESCARP.] 1. Fort. a The side of the ditch next the parapet; — opposed to counterscarp. b Obs. The pitch or degree of slope of a bank.

2. A steep descent or declivity. See CLIFF, 1.

scarp, v. t.; SCARPED (skärpt); SCARP'ING. To cut so as to form a scarp or scarps; to cut down vertically, or to a steep slope; as, to scarp the face of a ditch; to scarp a coast into rugged cliffs.

scarp, scarpe (skärp), n. [ONF. escarpe. See 1st SCARF.] Her. An imaginary diminutive of the bend sinister, half its width.

Scar'pa's fas'ci·a (skär'păz). = FASCIA OF SCARPA.

Scar'pa's fo·ra'men. [See FASCIA OF SCARPA.] Anat. Either of two canals opening into the incisive foramen in the median plane, transmitting the nasopalatine nerves scare'y (skâr'zĭ), adj. Scarce. Obs. exc. Dial.

---

scard, n. = 2d SHARD. Dial. Eng.

scare'bug', n. A bugbear. Obs.

scare'fire', n. An alarming fire. Obs.

scare'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

scare'y. Var. of SCARY.

scarf'like', adj. See -LIKE.

scarf maker. See MAKER. — scarf making.

scarf'wise', adv. See -WISE.

scarf'y, adj. See -Y.

scar'i·ly (skär'ĭ·lĭ), adv. of SCARY.

scar'i·ole, n. Endive. Obs.

scar'lad, scar'lat. † SCARLET.

scar'less, adj. See -LESS.

scar'let-ber'ried el'der. = RED-BERRIED ELDER. [LET HAW.]

scar'let-fruit'ed thorn. = SCAR-scar'ling. Var. of SKIRLING.

scar'man, n. = SCARRER.

scar'mesh, scer'mish. Obs. vars. of SKIRMISH.

Scarpa's ganglion. = GANGLION OF SCARPA.

Scarpa's triangle. Anat. An area in the upper anterior part of the thigh, bounded by Poupart's ligament, the sartorius, and adductor longus muscles.

‖scar·pet'ti (skär·pĕt'tĭ), n. pl. [It., dim., low shoes.] Shoes with hempen soles, used for rock climbing.

scar'pines (skär'pĭnz), n. pl. [F. escarpins, lit., light shoes, fr. It. scarpino a light shoe, dim. of scarpa shoe.] Instruments of the Inquisition, similar to the boots (see 3d BOOT, n., 2), for torturing the lower legs.

scarp'ing, n. A scarp; also, pl., Obs., = 1st SCARP, 1 b.

scarred (skärd), adj. 1. Marked with a scar or scars on the skin.
2. Showing traces of injury, as by erosion or cataclysm.

scar'rer (skär'ĕr), n. A worker who clears calcining kilns of scars.

scar'ring (skär'ĭng), n. A marking resulting from being scarred.

scar'row (skăr'ō), n. [ON. skæra twilight, dawn.] A faint light; a shadow. Scot. — v. i. To shine faintly, as through clouds. Scot.

scar'ry (skär'ĭ), adj. Characterized by bare and rugged projections, esp. of rock; cliffy; bare.

scar'ry (skär'ĭ), adj. Bearing scars, or marks of wounds.

scart (skärt), v. t. & i. [See SCRAT to scratch.] To scratch; scrape. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir.

scart (skärt), n. Scot. & N. of Eng. a Scratch; a mark, as in writing. b A puny or scrawny person; also, a niggard. c [See SCAR shower.] A puff, as of wind; a ragged scrap, as of cloud.

scart (skărt; skĕrt). Dial. past tense & past part. of SCARE.

scart (skärt), scarth (skärth), n. [From SCARF cormorant.] The cormorant. Chiefly Scot.

scarth (skärth), n. [ON. skarth. See 2d SHARD.] 1. A sherd. Obs.
2. A bare, rough rock; a scar. Dial.

scar tissue. Med. The connective tissue forming a scar, composed chiefly of fibroblasts in recent scars and largely of dense collagenous fibers in old scars.

scar'us (skăr'ŭs), n. [L. See SCAR fish.] 1. A parrot fish (Sparisoma cretense) of the Mediterranean, of excellent quality and highly esteemed by the Romans.
2. [cap.] Zool. The typical genus of parrot fishes. The teeth are completely consolidated, giving the jaws the appearance of a bird's beak.

scarved (skärvd), adj. Scarfed; as, brightly scarved women.

scar'y (skär'ĭ), adj.; SCAR'I·ER; SCAR'I·EST. [From SCARE.] Easily scared; timid; also, causing fright; alarming. Colloq.

scat, scatt (skăt), n. [ON. skattr; akin to AS. sceatt.] A tax; tribute; in the Shetland and Orkney Islands, a crown tax for pasturage, etc., on commons.

scat (skăt; skät), n. [Imitative.] Dial. a A buffet; a sound of rending. b A shower of rain, esp. one wind-driven. Eng.

scat, v. t. [See SCAT, n.] To scatter; hence, to burst; smash; beat. Chiefly Dial.

scat, adv. In or into a burst or bankrupt state. Dial. Eng.

scat (skăt), interj. An exclamation used to hiss away a cat; hence, Jocular, begone; away. — v. t. To drive off, as by crying "scat."

scat. Var. of SKAT, a game.

scat-. = SCATO-.

scatch (skăch), n. [OF. escache stilt. See 2d SKATE; cf. SKETCH a skate.] A stilt; a crutch. Obs.

scatch (skăch), n. [F. escache.] A kind of oval bit for a bridle, as opposed to a cannon.

scathe (skāth), or, Now Dial., scath (skăth), n. [ME. scathe, fr. ON. skathi (Dan. skade, Sw. skada); akin to AS. sceatha, scatha, foe, injurer, OS. skatho, D. schade harm, injury, OHG. scado, G. schade, schaden, Gr. askēthēs unharmed. Cf. SCATHE, v.] Archaic & Dial. 1. Harm; damage; injury; hurt; misfortune.
2. Occasion or cause of harm.

scathe (skāth), or, Now Dial., scath (skăth), v. t.; SCATHED (skāthd; skăthd); SCATH'ING (skāth'ĭng; skăth'-). [ME. scathen, fr. ON. skatha; akin to AS. sceathan, scethihan, Dan. skade, Sw. skada, D. & G. schaden, OHG. scadōn, Goth. skathjan. See SCATHE, n.] 1. To do harm to; to injure; damage; hurt. Archaic & Dial.
2. To make to suffer, esp. to put to a loss; to cost. Obs.
3. To injure by scorching or withering with fire; hence, to assail with withering denunciation.

She scathed him with her satire. D. H. Lawrence.

scathe'ful (skāth'fŏŏl; -f'l), or, Now Dial., scath'ful (skăth'-), adj. Harmful; hurtful; pernicious.

scathe'less (-lĕs; -lĭs; 119), or, Now Dial., scath'less (skăth'-), adj. Without scathe, injury, or damage; unharmed. — scathe'less·ly, adv.

scath'ing (skāth'ĭng), adj. Injuring, as by blasting or burning; hence, scorching; wounding cruelly; bitterly severe; as, a scathing rebuke. — scath'ing·ly, adv.
Syn. — See MORDANT. Ant. — See GENTLE, KIND.

scath'y (skāth'ĭ; skăth'-; skäth'-), adj. Doing scathe; dangerous. Scot.

Scat'i·cook (skăt'ĭ·kŏŏk), n. An Indian of a band, now almost extinct, made up of remnants of various Algonquian tribes of New England, settled about 1735 on the upper Housatonic River in Connecticut.

scat'land (skăt'lănd), n. Land for which scat is paid. Orkney & Shetland.

scat'o- (skăt'ō-), scat-. [See 1st SHARD.] A combining form, Greek skato-, skat-, from skōr, skatos, meaning ordure, used chiefly in Med., as in scatology.

scat'o·lo'gi·a (skăt'ō·lō'jĭ·ä), n. [NL.] Scatology.

sca·tol'o·gy (skä·tŏl'ō·jĭ), n. Also ska·tol'o·gy. [Gr. skōr, skatos dung + -logy.] Study of excrement; also, the superstitions relating to excrement; by extension, study of or interest in things filthy or obscene, esp. in literature. — scat'o·log'ic (skăt'ō·lŏj'ĭk), scat'o·log'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj.

scat'o·man'cy (skăt'ō·măn'sĭ), n. [scato- + -mancy.] Divination by observation of excrement.

sca·toph'a·gous (skä·tŏf'ä·gŭs), adj. [Gr. skatophagos, fr. skōr, skatos, dung + phagein to eat.] Eating dung or excrement.

sca·toph'a·gy (-jĭ), n. [scato- + -phagy.] The practice of eating excrement or other filth, as a religious ceremonial rite, or as a pathological obsession.

sca·tos'co·py (skä·tŏs'kō·pĭ), n. [scato- + -scopy.] Inspection of dung, as for divination or diagnosis.

scat'ter (skăt'ĕr), v.; SCAT'TERED (-ĕrd); SCAT'TER·ING. [ME. scateren, schateren. See SHATTER.] Transitive:
1. To hurl or drive apart, esp. in confusion; to cause to separate and go in different directions; to disperse; rout.

Scatter and disperse the giddy Goths. Shak.

Hence, to break up, dispel, or dissipate; as, to scatter hopes or delusions.
2. To dispose irregularly here and there, as outposts; to throw about in this, that, and the other direction, as handbills.
3. To strew or distribute widely the particles or pieces of (seed, money, gravel); to cast here and there; to sow broadcast; to sprinkle; specif., to diffuse, as light or fragrance; to spread, as destruction.

Teach the glad hours to scatter, as they fly, Soft quiet, gentle love, and endless joy. Prior.

4. To strew things on; to strew, as a field with dead and wounded; — used chiefly in the past participle.
5. Obs. a To fling away heedlessly or squander. b To let drop or toss aside (a single thing) carelessly. c To distract or confuse (the thoughts). d To circulate, as news.
6. Physics. a To reflect irregularly and diffusely, as from a piece of ground glass, in distinction from regular or specular reflection. b To diffuse and spread out (a beam of rays or radiation); thus, light is scattered by dust particles or by the molecules of a gas. Alpha particles, beta particles, or X rays are scattered when a beam enters any substance.
—, Intransitive: 1. To disperse or separate in various directions; to spread or go in different directions; as, clouds scatter after a storm; a crowd scatters.
2 Of a shotgun, to cause the shot to spread widely when fired; also, of the shot, to spread widely.
3. Photom. To redirect and break up luminous flux into a multiplicity of separate pencils by reflection or transmission; as, rippled glass is a scattering surface.
Syn. — Spread, sow, disseminate. See DISPEL.
Ant. — Gather; concentrate. See CONDENSE.

scat'ter (skăt'ĕr), n. 1. The action of scattering; the extent of dispersion.
2. A small supply or number scattered, irregularly distributed, or carelessly strewn about.
3. Statistics. The dispersion of observations in a frequency distribution measured by the coefficient of variation. Cf. DEVIATION, 7.

scat'ter, adj. Adapted to being scattered or strewn; — said esp. of small rugs as distinguished from those of room size.

scat'ter·a'tion (skăt'ĕr·ā'shŭn), n. The action of scattering; scattered condition; also, a scattering.

scat'ter·a·way' (skăt'ĕr·ä·wā'), n. Dispersal. Rare.

scat'ter·brain' (-brān'), scat'ter·brains' (-brānz'), n. A flighty, thoughtless person; one incapable of concentration or attention. Colloq. — scat'ter·brained' (-brānd'), adj.

scat'tered (skăt'ĕrd), adj. 1. Dispersed; separated irregularly, esp. in location; straggling; as, scattered houses; hence, separated by irregular intervals of time; as, scattered crimes.
2. Having the parts divided in some way; disrupted. "This scattered kingdom." Shak.
3. Driven or thrown about in all directions; specif.: a Obs. Negligently tossed aside or dropped.

Loose now and then A scatter'd smile. Shak.

b Disheveled.
4. Distracted; rambling; as, scattered thoughts.
5. Occurring far apart and in no order or at no definite intervals; as, scattered root hairs; climbed in scattered lines.
6. Bot. Irregular in position; having no definite arrangement in phyllotaxy; — applied to leaves or branches.
— scat'tered·ly, adv. — scat'tered·ness, n.
— scattered and peeled. Orig., Bib., harassed and beggared. Cf. Isaiah xviii. 2.

scat'ter·er (skăt'ĕr·ĕr), n. One who or that which scatters.

scat'ter·good' (-gŏŏd'), n. One who wastes; a spendthrift.

scat'ter–gun', n. A shotgun. Dial., Western U. S.

scat'ter·ing, verbal n. of SCATTER. Hence: n. 1. A strewing or dispersing; act of sending, putting forth, going, etc., in different directions; as, the scattering of rays.
2. Something scattered, strewed, or disconnected; as, the scatterings of his bounty; scatterings of learning; specif., a small number or quantity interspersed here and there; as, a scattering of visitors.
3. pl. Stray grain or hay left in the field after harvesting. Colloq.

scat'ter·ing, adj. 1. Dispersing; going in various directions; as, a scattering flock of sheep.
2. Found or placed far apart and in no order; occurring at irregular intervals; as, scattering villages or shots.
3. Divided among many or several, as votes, or the like.
— scat'ter·ing·ly, adv.

scat'ter·ling (skăt'ĕr·lĭng), n. [scatter + 1st -ling.] 1. A vagrant; wastrel. Archaic.
2. A heedless person. Dial.

scat'ter·mouch' (-mouch'), n. [Corrupt. of scaramouch.] Among seamen, a vile, contemptible ruffian or thug.

scatter rug. A type of small rug to fill scattered vacant places.

scat'ter·y (skăt'ĕr·ĭ), adj. Scattered; scattering.

scat'ty (skăt'ĭ), adj.; SCAT'TI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCAT'TI·EST. [From SCAT a shower.] Showery. Dial. Eng.

scat'u·la (skăt'ū·lä), n.; pl. SCATULAE (-lē). [ML., lit., parallelepiped.] Pharm. A flat rectangular box used for dispensing powders and pills.

sca·tu'ri·ent (skä·tū'rĭ·ĕnt), adj. [L. scaturiens, pres. part. of scaturire to gush out, fr. scatere to bubble, gush.] Gushing forth; full to overflowing; effusive.

scaum (skäm; skôm), n. & v. [Cf. SCAM stain.] Burn; scorch; also, shade, as of mist. Scot.

scaup (skôp), n.; pl. SCAUP, SCAUPS (skôps). See PLURAL, Note. A scaup duck.

scaup (dial. skäp, skôp). Var. of SCALP. Obs. exc. Dial.

Scaup Duck (Nyroca marila). (1/10) scaup duck (skôp). [From scaup, obs. var. of scalp. See SCALP, n., 3 a.] A duck of the genus Nyroca and subgenus Marila; esp., N. marila of northern Europe, Asia, and America; — called also bluebill, broadbill, blackhead, and greater scaup duck. It is related to the canvasback and the redhead, but the males have the head and neck glossy black, the belly white, and the back vermiculated with black and white. The lesser scaup duck (N. affinis) of North America is similar, but smaller.

scaup'er (skôp'ĕr), n. [Var. of SCALPER.] A flat tool with a curved edge, used in wood engraving to clear away the spaces between the lines; also, a tool used in line engraving.

scau'rie (skô'rĭ; skä'rĭ), n. [Cf. ON. skārr a young sea mew.] A young gull; esp., a young herring gull. Scot.

scaut (skôt), v. i. [Cf. ON. skota, skotra, to shove.] To push or scrape, esp. with the feet; to trample the ground. Dial. Eng.

scav'age (skăv'ĭj), n. [AF. scawage, fr. ONF. escauwage inspection, examination, fr. escauwer to examine, of Teut. origin. See SHOW.] O. Eng. Law. A toll or duty formerly exacted of merchant strangers by mayors, sheriffs, etc., for goods shown or offered for sale. It was forbidden by Act of 19 Hen. VII, c. 8.

scav'age, scav'ag·er (-ĭj·ĕr), scav'age·ry (-ĭj·rĭ). = SCAVENGE, SCAVENGER, etc.

scav'el (skăv'ĕl), n. [Perh. fr. ON. skafa to scrape. See SHAVE.] A kind of spade with slightly upturned sides, as for cleaning ditches. Dial.

scav'en·age (skăv'ĕn·ĭj), n. Scavengery.

scav'enge (-ĕnj; -ĭnj), v.; -ENGED (-ĕnj; -ĭnj); -ENG·ING (-ĕn·jĭng; -ĭn·jĭng). [From SCAVENGER.] Transitive:
1. = SCAVENGER, v. t., 1.
2. To cleanse, as streets, yards, a river, etc., from filth.
3. Internal-Combustion Engines. To remove (burned gases) from the cylinder by some special means, as, in many four-cycle engines, by utilizing the momentum of the exhaust gases in a long exhaust pipe or by means of piston-controlled parts in the cylinder wall (called port scavenging).
4. Metal. To clean and purify (molten metal) by taking up foreign elements, esp. oxygen, in chemical union.
—, Intransitive: 1. To work or act as a scavenger.
2. Internal-Combustion Engines. To remove the burned gases from the cylinder after a working stroke.

scav'enge, n. Act or process of scavenging.

scav'en·ger (skăv'ĕn·jĕr; -ĭn·jĕr), n. [With intrusive n fr. ME. scavager an officer with various duties, fr. scavage. See SCAVAGE.] 1. An official having to do with the collection of scavage. Obs. exc. Hist.
2. a A person or thing that collects or disposes of filth, waste products, etc.; specif., a street cleaner, garbage collector, etc. b An animal or organism that devours refuse, carrion, or anything injurious to health.
3. Hence: a One who deals or delights in disreputable or indecent subjects. b One who disposes of rejected remnants of any kind, as bad debts.
4. A scavenger beetle.
5. Bot. = SAPROPHYTE.

scav'en·ger, v. Transitive: 1. To sweep away or dislodge (dirt or corruption). Rare.
2. To soil in removing filth. Rare.
—, Intransitive: To clean up filth, esp. street refuse; to root out corruption.

scavenger beetle. Any beetle which feeds on decaying substances, as beetles of the family Hydrophilidae (which see).

scav'en·ger's daugh'ter (skăv'ĕn·jĕrz; -ĭn·jĕrz). [Corrupt. of Skevington's daughter.] An instrument of torture invented by Leonard Skevington, which so compressed the body as to force the blood to flow from the nostrils and ears, and sometimes from the hands and feet.

scav'en·ger·y (skăv'ĕn·jĕr·ĭ; -ĭn·jĕr·ĭ), n. Work of scavengers; esp., the removal of dirt, garbage, etc., from streets and yards of a municipality.

scaw (skô), n. [ON. skagi.] A headland; a promontory Chiefly Dial.

scaw (skô). Var. of SCALL. Scot. & N. of Eng.

sca'zon (skā'zŏn), n. [L., fr. Gr. skazōn, fr. skazein to limp.] Gr. & Lat. Pros. A verse with a limping or halting movement; specif.: a A choliamb. b A trochaic tetrameter with protraction in the seventh foot; — called also Hipponactean.

sca·zon'tic (skä·zŏn'tĭk), adj. Composed in scazons.

Sceaf (AS. shăäf; E. shēf), n. Norse Mythol. The father of Scyld, and listed in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle as a descendant of Odin.

sceat (AS. shăt; shăt), n.; pl. SCEATTAS (-tăs), SCEATS (shăts). [AS. See SCAT tax.] A silver (rarely, gold) coin of the earlier Anglo-Saxon rulers, small and thick, of rude design, and weighing seven to twenty grains troy.

Anglo-Saxon Sceat (gold), A.D. 600.

scel-. = SCELO- (which see), as in sce·lal'gi·a, sce·lon'cus.

scel'er·at (sĕl'ĕr·ăt), n. [F. scélérat, fr. L. sceleratus, past part. of scelerare to pollute, fr. scelus, sceleris, a crime.] A villain; a criminal. Archaic.

Scel'i·do·sau'rus (sĕl'ĭ·dō·sô'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skelis, -idos, rib, side (but taken to mean leg, Gr. skelos) + -saurus.] Paleontol. A genus of dinosaurs of the group Steg-osauria, having dermal armor of longitudinal series of small tubercles and scutes on the back and tail. S. harrisoni was from the Lower Lias of England. — scel'i·do·saur' (sĕl'ĭ·dō·sôr'), n. — scel'i·do·sau'ri·an (-sô'rĭ·ăn), adj. & n. — scel'i·do·sau'roid (-roid), adj. & n.

Skeleton of Scelidosaurus (S. harrisoni).

Scel'i·do·the'ri·um (-thē'rĭ·ŭm), n. [NL. See SCELIDOSAURUS; -THERIUM.] Paleontol. A genus of extinct four-toed edentates smaller than, and intermediate between, Megatherium and Mylodon. Remains have been found in the Pleistocene of Patagonia, Argentina, Chile, and Brazil.

---

scarph. Var. of SCARF.

scarph'er. Var. of SCAFFER.

scarp'ment, n. = ESCARPMENT.

scar'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

scart, scarre. † SCAR, rock; SCARE. [SCARCELY.]

scars, scars'ly. † SCARCE, scarse. Scarce. Obs. exc. Ref. Sp.

scarsete, scarste. † SCARCITY.

scar·toc'cio (skär·tŏt'chō), n. [It.] A fold of paper. Obs.

scarves (skärvz), n., pl. of SCARF.

scase (skās), scase'ly (skās'lĭ). Vars. of SCARCE, SCARCELY. Obs. exc. Dial.

scate. Var. of SKATE.

scat'e·brous, adj. [L. scalebra = gushing of water.] Full of springs. Obs.

Scathe'lock' (skāth'lŏk'), Scath'-lock'. See SCARLET, WILL.

scath'fire', n. A disastrous fire. Obs. [OF SKATOLE.]

scat'ole, scat'ol. Biochem. Vars.

Scat'o·phag'i·das (skăt'ō·făj'ĭ·dēz), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. See DUNG FLY. — sca·toph'a·gid (-jĭd), n. & adj. — sca·toph'a·goid (skä·tŏf'ä·goid), adj.

scatt. Var. of 1st SCAT.

scat'ter·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

scaud (skäd; skôd). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SCALD.

scaul (skäl; skôl), scauld (skä(l)d; skô(l)d). Scot. vars. of SCOLD.

scauld. † SCALD.

scaur (skär; skôr). Scot. & Ir. var. of SCARE, SCAR.

scav'en·ger·ism (skăv'ĕn·jĕr·ĭz'm), n. See -ISM.

scav'en·ger·ship', n. See -SHIP.

scav'eng·ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SCAVENGE. [drawers. Obs.] scav'i·lones, n. pl. Underscaw. † SHOW. [SCALD, n.

scawd (skäd; skôd). Dial. var. of scawl (skäl; skôl). Scot. var. of SCOLD.

sceak. Var. of SEAK.

scear. Var. of SEAR.

sced'ule. † SCHEDULE.

sceg, sceg'ger. Vars. of SKEG, SKEGGER. [Wicked. Obs.] scel'er·ate, adj. [L. sceleratus.] scel'er·ous, adj. [L. scelerosus.] = SCELERATE. Obs.

sce·les'tic (sē·lĕs'tĭk), adj. [L. scelestis.] Evil; atrocious. Obs.

scel'et, scel'e·ton. † SKELET, SKELETON.

Scel'i·phron (sĕl'ĭ·frŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skeliphros dry, lean.] Zool. A genus of wasps containing many of the common mud daubers. They have the first segment of the abdomen narrowed into a long, smooth, round petiole.

scel'o- (sĕl'ō-), scel-. A combining form, Greek skelo-, skel-, from skelos, meaning leg, as in scelotyrbe.

Sce·lop'o·rus (sē-lŏp'ō-rŭs), n. [NL., fr. scelo- + Gr. poros pore.] Zool. A large genus of iguanid lizards of North and Central America comprising the pine, or fence, lizard and allied species.

scel'o·tyr'be (sĕl'ō-tŭr'bē), n. [L., fr. Gr. skelotyrbē.] Med. a Weakness or uncertainty in taking steps. b Spastic paralysis of the lower limbs.

‖sce'na (shā'nä; E. sē'nȧ), n. [It.] Music. a A scene in an opera. b An accompanied dramatic recitative, interspersed with passages of melody, or followed by a full aria. It is sometimes part of an opera and sometimes an independent composition.

sce'na (sē'nȧ), n.; pl. -NAE (-nē). [L.] = 1st SCENE.

sce·na'ri·o (sē-nä'rĭ·ō; sē-nâr'ĭ-ō; shä-nä'-; 277), n.; pl. -NARIOS (-ōz). [It.] 1. (Plural in this sense also SCENARI (shä-nä'rē).) An outline or synopsis of a play, the book of an opera, etc., showing the scenes and the entrances and exits of the actors.

2. (Plural in this sense commonly SCENARIOS.) Motion Pictures. The plot of a play prepared for production of a silent motion picture, showing its development scene by scene and giving essential details for acting. Cf. SCREENPLAY; SCRIPT, n., 6.

sce·na'rist (sē-nä'rĭst; -nâr'ĭst), n. A writer of scenarios for motion pictures.

sce·na'rize (sē-nä'rīz; -nâr'īz), v. t.; -RIZED (-rīzd; -īzd); -RIZ·ING (-rīz·ĭng; -īz·ĭng). Motion Pictures. To make a scenario of (a story, book, etc.). — sce·na'ri·za'tion (sē-nä'rĭ·zā'shŭn; sē-nâr'ĭ-), n.

scen'ar·y (sēn'ĕr·ĭ), n. [See SCENERY; cf. SCENARIO.] Obs. a The disposition of the scenes in which the action of a play, poem, etc., is laid. b = SCENERY, 2. c = SCENERY, 3.

scend (sĕnd), v. i. [Var. of send, taken as aphetic for ascend.] Naut. To lift or heave upward under the influence of waves, esp. in a seaway; — of a vessel. Cf. PITCH.

scend (sĕnd), n. Naut. 1. The upward movement or displacement of a vessel in a seaway; — opposite to pitch.

2. The lift of a wave; the send (see 3d SEND a).

scene (sēn), n. [F. scène, fr. L. scena, scaena, fr. Gr. skēnē a covered place, tent, stage, scene; akin to Gr. skia shadow, Skr. chāyā shelter, shadow, luster, and to E. SHINE. Cf. SQUIRREL.] 1. One of the divisions or units of a drama; specif.: a A division of an act during which there is no change of place or lapse in continuity of time. b Hist. After French usage, a division of an act in which there is no change of persons and which ended when characters left the stage or another entered.

The unities of action, place, and time,
The scenes unbroken, and a mingled chime Of Jonson's manner and Corneille's rhyme. Dryden.

c A part of a drama or narrative presenting a single situation, dialogue, or the like; as, the quarrel scene in Julius Caesar; the scene between Portia and Nerissa.

2. The place in which the action of a play, story, or the like, is laid; surroundings amid which anything is set before the imagination; hence, place of occurrence or action.

The world is a vast scene of strife. J. M. Mason.

3. A curtain or drapery. Obs.

4. A real or imaginary prospect like that presented by stage scenery or by a scene in a play viewed as a pictorial or dramatic unit; a view, sight, or vista; as, a sylvan scene; the American scene.

5. The stage setting, esp. of an act, as decorative hangings or painted slides, sets, and the like; stage scenery; — often in pl.; as, back of the scenes; scene shifter.

6. That which is represented on a stage; an acted play; also, pl., a play; a drama. Archaic.

7. One of a series of actions and events, esp. as represented in literature or art.

Through what new scenes and changes must we pass! Addison.

8. An episode in action, real or imagined, regarded as viewed; as, their parting was a sad scene.

9. An exhibition of passionate or strong feeling, esp. between persons; sometimes, an affected demonstration.

Probably no lover of scenes would have had very long to wait for some explosions between parties, both equally ready to take offense, and careless of giving it. De Quincey.

10. The stage on which a play is exhibited; the part of a theater, esp. an ancient Greek or Roman theater, given over to dramatic representation. Hist.

11. Motion Pictures. As much of the action of a photoplay as is taken in one place at one time without stopping the camera.

12. Music. = 1st SCENA b.

13. Theater. The drama as an art or profession; the stage; the theater. Archaic.

— behind the scenes. Behind the scenery of the theater; out of the view of the audience, but in the view of the actors, etc.; hence: a Out of public view; in secret. b In a position to see the hidden agencies or workings of things.

scene (sēn), v. t. 1. To exhibit scenically. Obs.

2. To portray the action of (a story) in a particular scene or surrounding; to provide with a fit setting and, usually, local color.

3. To furnish with stage scenery.

scene cloth. Theater. The painted hanging, esp. the backcloth or drop.

scene'craft' (sēn'krăft'; 83), n. The art of furnishing fitting scenes or stage settings for plays.

Sce'ne·des'mus (sē'nē·dĕs'mŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skēnē tent, scene + desmos bond.] Bot. A genus of colonial green algae (family Coelastraceae), having coenobia of four or eight, rarely sixteen, elongated cells arranged side by side and frequently with more or less conspicuous appendages. The cells divide to form new colonies.

scene dock. A space near the stage in a theater, where scenery is stored.

scene painter. Theater. One who paints scenery. — scene painting.

scene plot. Drama. A list and description of the scenes.

scen'er·y (sēn'ĕr·ĭ), n. [It. scenario, fr. LL. scenarius belonging to the stage. Cf. SCENARIO.] 1. Display of vivid action or stirring emotion. Obs.

2. The representation of the place of an action or occurrence; specif., the painted scenes or hangings of a stage, with their accessories.

3. The view of picturesque spots and expanses, esp. in open country; the general aspect, as regards variety and beauty or the reverse, of a landscape; the array of impressive natural prospects and imposing features of a particular place; as, he preferred scenery to historical landmarks; the mountain scenery of the Rockies.

4. Formerly, a picturesque view or landscape; a picture representing such a view.

scene'shift'er (sēn'shĭf'tĕr), n. Theater. One who moves the scenes, which formerly were shifted from one groove to another; — now commonly called grip because the scenes are often gripped to the floor.

scene'wright' (sēn'rīt'), n. [From scene + wright, after playwright.] Theater. A designer and maker of scenery.

sce'nic (sē'nĭk; sĕn'ĭk; 277), adj. [F. scénique, fr. L. scaenicus, scenicus, fr. Gr. skēnikos. See SCENE.] 1. Of or pertaining to the stage, a stage setting, or stage representation; of, like, or suited to, stage representation; dramatic; as, scenic writers; scenic effects; also, of or pertaining to stage scenery; as, a scenic triumph.

2. Of or pertaining to natural scenery; as, scenic beauties; also, affording or abounding in attractive scenery; as, a scenic resort or route.

3. Representing graphically an action, event, or episode; — often opposed to decorative; as, a scenic bas-relief.

sce'nic (sē'nĭk; sĕn'ĭk), n. A motion picture the chief interest of which is in the natural scenery depicted.

sce'ni·cal (sē'nĭ·kăl; sĕn'ĭ-), adj. Scenic (sense 1); specif.: a Characteristic of or resembling stage performance; artificially showy or dramatic; theatrical; as, the scenical type of history. b Obs. Illusory like a stage scene; imaginary; unreal.

scen'ist (sēn'ĭst), n. One concerned with stage scenery.

sce'nite (sē'nīt), n. [Gr. skēnē a tent.] One who lives in a tent; a nomad. — sce'nite, adj.

sce'no·graph (sē'nō·grăf; sĕn'ō-; 83), n. [See SCENOGRAPHY.] 1. A perspective representation of an object.

2. = SCENOGRAPHER.

sce·nog'ra·pher (sē-nŏg'rȧ·fẽr), n. One who makes a practice of scenography.

sce'no·graph'ic (sē'nō·grăf'ĭk; sĕn'ō-), adj. Also sce'no·graph'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl). [F. scénographique, fr. Gr. skēnographikos.] Of, pertaining to, or conforming to, scenography. — sce'no·graph'i·cal·ly, adv.

sce·nog'ra·phy (sē-nŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [F. scénographie, fr. L. scaenographia, fr. Gr. skēnographia, fr. skēnē scene, stage + graphein to write.] 1. Art or act of representing a body on a perspective plane; representation of an object from a point of view not on a principal axis. Cf. ICHNOGRAPHY; ORTHOGRAPHIC PROJECTION.

2. The art of perspective representation applied to the painting of stage scenery, as by the Greeks.

Scen'o·pin'i·dae (sĕn'ō·pĭn'ĭ·dē; sē'nō-), n. pl. [NL., fr. Scenopinus, type genus (fr. Gr. skēnopoios tent-making, fr. skēnos tent + poien to make) + -idae.] Zool. A small family of small, elongate, dipterous insects, best known by its commonest member, the window fly (which see).

scent (sĕnt), v. [ME. sent, fr. OF. sentir to feel, to smell. See SENSE.] Transitive: 1. To perceive by the olfactory organs; to smell; as, to scent game, as a hound does; hence, to get or have an inkling of; to detect the existence of; as, to scent a plot. "Methinks I scent the morning air." Shak.

2. To imbue or fill with odor, agreeable or disagreeable.

3. To perceive through touch or by the mind. Rare.

—, Intransitive: 1. To yield an odor (of some specified kind); as, to scent of sulphur; also, to bear indication or suggestions; — with of. Now Rare.

2. To hunt animals by means of the sense of smell.

scent (sĕnt), n. 1. The emanations or effluvia from a substance which affect the sense of smell, pleasantly or unpleasantly; odor; fragrance. Specif.: a The odor left by an animal or man on the ground or surface passed over; as, dogs find or lose the scent; hence, course of pursuit; track of discovery; as, to throw one off the scent.

He gained the observations of innumerable ages, and traveled upon the same scent into Ethiopia. Sir W. Temple.

b A characteristic or particular odor, now usually an agreeable odor; as, the scent of fruits or flowers, of musk.

2. Perception through touch or by the mind. Rare.

3. Power of smelling; sense of smell; as, a keen scent; — now chiefly of animals.

The dog, having the help of scent as well as of sight, is superior to the savage. Jowett (Plato).

Figuratively, power of detection; as, a scent for heresy.

4. A premonitory indication; an inkling; intimation.

Perhaps some scent of the coming danger reached him. Freeman.

5. A class, or one of a class, of sweet-smelling, aromatic substances, in liquid or solid form, extracted from flowers or other vegetation, used for perfuming.

6. Bits of paper dropped by the hares in the game of hare and hounds, to mark their track.

Syn. — See SMELL.

☞ PHRASES ARE: scent ball, scent box.

scent bag. a A small scented pad, bag, or the like; a sachet. b A scent gland when of pouchlike form, or a sac receiving the secretion of a scent gland.

scent'ed (sĕn'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Having scent; as: a Obs. Having the sense of smell. b Perfumed. c Having or exhaling a scent.

-scent'ed (-sĕn'tĕd; -tĭd; 119). A combining form of scented, adj., as in:

dull-scented	lavender-scented	strong-scented fur-scented	lemon-scented	sweet-scented hay-scented	rose-scented	violet-scented scented fern. a The hay-scented fern Dryopteris oreopteris. b Tansy.

scented grass. See GRASS, Table.

scented oak fern. See FERN, Table.

scented tea. Tea that is fragrant; esp., tea scented by being packed with or fired with flowers, such as the jasmine.

scented verbena. The lemon verbena.

scent'er (sĕn'tĕr), n. One who scents; as, a scenter out of hidden flaws; also, anything that scents or perfumes.

scent'ful (sĕnt'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. 1. Full of scent, or odor; odorous.

2. Of quick or keen smell. Obs.

scent gland. A gland secreting an odoriferous substance, as that of the beaver or that of the civet cat.

scent'ing, adj. Emitting an odor or fragrance; as, a scenting oil.

scent'less, adj. 1. Lacking the sense of smell. Rare.

2. That emits no odor; as, scentless wisps of straw.

3. Hunting. a Carrying no scent; — of ground. b Yielding no scent; as, a scentless day.

— scent'less·ness, n.

scentless camomile. = CORN MAYWEED b.

scent scale. Zool. An androconium.

scent'wood' (sĕnt'wŏŏd'), n. A fragrant-wooded Australian and Tasmanian shrub or small tree (Alyxia buxifolia), family Apocynaceae; — called also sandalwood and heath box.

scep'sis (sĕp'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skepsis doubt. See SKEPTIC.] Skepticism; skeptical philosophy. Rare.

scep'ter, scep'tre (sĕp'tĕr), n. [ME. also ceptre, septre, septer, fr. OF. ceptre, sceptre, fr. L. sceptrum, fr. Gr. skēptron staff scepter. See SHAFT.]

1. A staff or baton borne by a sovereign as a ceremonial emblem of authority; a royal mace; also, royal or imperial authority; sovereignty.

2. A staff; — used by Tyndale to translate Gr. skēptron.

scep'ter, scep'tre, v. t.; -TERED or -TRED (-tĕrd); -TER·ING (-tĕr·ĭng) or -TRING (-trĭng). 1. To endow with the scepter; to invest with royal authority.

2. To ratify by touching with the scepter.

scep'ter·dom, scep'tre·dom (-dŭm), n. Reign; sovereignty. Rare.

scep'tered, scep'tred (sĕp'tĕrd), adj. Invested with a scepter or sovereign authority; hence, pert. to a sovereign or to royalty; royal; regal.

scep'ter·less, scep'tre·less, adj. 1. Having no scepter.

2. Subject to no royal sovereignty.

scep'tral (sĕp'trăl), adj. Like or pertaining to a scepter or royal authority.

scep·troph'er·ous (skĕp·trŏf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [Gr. British skēptron staff + pherein to bear.] Given to Royal carrying a staff or stick. Leigh Hunt. Scepter.

scep·tros'o·phy (skĕp·trŏs'ō·fĭ), n. [Gr. skēptron + sophia wisdom.] Wisdom derived from the use of a stick, or cane. Leigh Hunt.

scep'try (sĕp'trĭ), adj. Sceptered. Rare.

scerne (sûrn), v. t. To discern. Rare. Spenser.

sceu'o·pho'ri·on (sū'ō·fō'rĭ·ŏn; 181), n.; pl. -RIA (-ȧ). [LGr. skeuophorion, fr. Gr. skeuos a vessel + pherein to bear.] Eastern Ch. A receptacle corresponding to the PYX. See PYX, n., 1.

sceu'o·phy·la'ci·um (-fĭ·lā'shĭ·ŭm), n. [LGr. skeuophylakion, in Gr. orig., storehouse.] In the early church and in the Eastern Church, a sacristy.

sceu·oph'y·lax (sū·ŏf'ĭ·läks), n. [LGr. skeuophylax, fr. skeuos a vessel + phylax a watcher, guard.] In the early church and in the Eastern Church, a sacristan.

scew'ing (skū'ĭng), n. [AS. scēawung a looking at, tax for exposing goods for sale, fr. scēawian to look.] Law. Scavage. Obs.

sch-. For various words in sch-, see the forms in SH- or SC-.

schaap'ste'ker (skäp'stā'kĕr), n. [S.Afr. D.; fr. D. schaap sheep + steken to sting.] Either of two opisthoglyphous African snakes, Trimerorhinus rhombeatus, the spotted schaapsteker, and T. tritaeniatus, the striped schaapsteker, of gentle disposition and unable to poison sheep.

‖Schab'zie·ger (shäp'tsē'gĕr), n. [G.] Sapsago.

‖Scha'den·freu'de (shä'dĕn·froi'dĕ), n. [G.] Enjoyment of others' mishaps.

Schaef·fe'ri·a (shĕ·fē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Jacob Christian Schäffer (1718–90), Ger. naturalist.] Bot. A small genus of chiefly tropical American shrubs or trees (family Celastraceae) having dioecious tetramerous flowers, coriaceous leaves, and dry drupaceous fruit containing two seeds without an aril. S. frutescens, the Florida boxwood, yields a yellow wood.

Schäff'er's ac'id (shĕf'ĕrz). See NAPHTHOLSULPHONIC.

Schäffer's salt. [After Louis Schaeffer (fl. 1870), Ger. chemist.] Dyes. The sodium salt, $C_{10}H_4(OH)SO_3Na$, of Schäffer's acid (see NAPHTHOLSULPHONIC). schair'er·ite (shâr'ĕr·īt), n. [After J. F. Schairer (b. 1904), Am. mineralogist.] Mineral. A rare sodium sulphate with fluorine, occurring in colorless rhombohedral crystals.

schal'stein (shäl'stīn), n. [G.] Geol. A slaty rock formed by the compression and metamorphism of basaltic or andesitic tuff or lava; slaty greenstone.

schanz (skänz), n. [S. Afr. D., fr. D. schans.] A redoubt. S. Africa.

schap'bach·ite (shäp'bäk·īt), n. [From Schapbach, Baden.] Mineral. A lead-gray sulphide of lead, silver, and bismuth, $PbAg_2Bi_3S_6$. Sp. gr., 6.43.

schap'pe (shäp'ĕ), n. [G. dial. (Swiss), waste, impurity.] A silk yarn or fabric made out of carded spun silk.

schap'ping (-ĭng), n. In the manufacture of waste silk, a European process of fermentation by which the silk is partly freed from the gum. — schapped (shäpt), adj.

‖schap'ska (shäp'skȧ), n. [Pol. czapka; cf. Russ. shapka.] Mil. A cavalry helmet of a peculiar flat-topped shape.

scharf (shärf), n. [G., sharp.] Organ Building. A mixture stop with a bright and penetrating tone.

Schar'lach·ber'ger (shär'läk·bĕr'gĕr), n. [G.] A dry white wine. See RHINE WINE.

schat'chen (shät'kĕn), n. [Yiddish, fr. NHeb. shadhkhān; cf. Heb. shiddākh to arrange, stipulate, negotiate a marriage.] A marriage broker, esp. among certain Jews.

schau-. For words in schau-, see forms in SCHA-, SHA, SCA-.

sche-. For various words in sche-, see forms in SHA-.

Sched'ar (shĕd'är), n. [Ar. qadr upper part.] See STAR.

sche'di·asm (skē'dĭ·ăz'm), n. [Gr. schediasma an extempore, fr. schediazein to do offhand. See SKETCH.] Extempore action; anything done offhand. Rare. — sche'di·as'tic (-ăs'tĭk), adj. Rare.

Sche'di·us (skē'dĭ·ŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. schedios sudden, hasty.] Zool. A genus of minute chalcid flies. S. kuwanae is an important egg parasite of the gipsy moth.

sched'u·lar (shĕd'ū·lẽr; Brit. shĕd'-), adj. Of or pertaining to a schedule.

sched'u·late (-lāt), adj. Named in a schedule. Rare.

---

scel'o·rous. † SCELEROUS. sceip. Var. of SKELP. sceme. † SCHEME.
scem'i·ter. † SCIMITAR.
sce·na'ri·o·ist (sē·nä'rĭ·ō·ĭst; -nâr'ĭ-). n. = SCENARIST. sce·na'ri·o·ize, p. t. = SCENARIZE. — sce·na'ri·o·i·za'tion, n. scence. † CENSE.
scened, adj. Staged. Obs. scene'ful, adj. See -FUL. Rare. scene'man, n. A sceneshifter. Fidding. [SCENICAL.] sce'ni·cal·ly, adv. of SCENIC, Sce'no·pe'gi·a (sē'nō·pē'jĭ·ȧ). D. Bib. [-PROOF.] scent'proof' (66), adj. See scep, scepp. † SKEP. scep'tet, n. A phantom. Obs. scep'tic (skĕp'tĭk), scep'ti·cal, scep'ti·cism, etc. Vars. of SKEPTIC, etc. sceptic (skĕp'tĭ·sē), adv. [NL.] Skeptically. [etc.] scep'tre, etc. Vars. of SCEPTER, scete. Var. of SKETE.
Sce'va (sē'vȧ). Bib. schaak. Var. of SHAKE. Obs.
exc. Scot.
‖Scha·blo'nen·mu·sik' (shä·blō'nĕn·mōō·zĭk'), n. [G., pattern music.] Music. = KAPELLMEISTER MUSIC.
Schac'a·bac (shăk'ȧ·băk), n. See BARMECIDE. schach, schah. Vars. of SHAH. scha'co. Var. of SHAKO.
Schä'fer meth'od (shä'fĕr). [After E. A. Schäfer (b. 1850), Brit. physiologist.] = PRONE PRESSURE METHOD. schaft. † CHAFT, SHAFT. schal. † SCALE, to disperse; SHALL; SHAWL. schal'mei, schal'mey (shăl'mĭ). n. [G. See SHAWM.] See OBOE a. scham'fast', scham'fast'ness. † SHAMEFAST, SHAMEFASTNESS. shamill. † SHAMBLE, n. scha'mir. Var. of SHAMIR, n., 2. schapfold. † SCAFFOLD.
Schap'zi'ger (shäp'tsē'gĕr). Var. of SCHABZIEGER.
‖Schau'lust' (shou'lŏŏst'), n. [G.] = OBSERVATIONISM.
Schau'masse's' com'et (shō'mäs'lz). [After Alexandre Schaumasse, French astronomer.] See COMET, Table. schawe. † SHAVE, SHOW, SHAW.
Sche'at (shē'ăt), n. [Prob. fr. Ar. sa'd good fortune.] See STAR, Table.
Sche·chi'na. Var. of SHEKINAH. sche·chi'ta. Var. of SHEHITAH.

---

sched'ule (skĕd'ūl; Brit. now always shĕd'ūl; see note below), n. [After ML. schedula, fr. ME. cedule, sedule, fr. OF. cedule, fr. LL. scedula, dim. of L. sceda, scheda, scida, a leaf of paper or papyrus, fr. Gr. schidē a split piece of wood, fr. schizein to split. See SHED, v. t.; cf. CEDULE.] 1. A writing; document; specif., a separate supplementary slip appended to a document. Obs.
2. A written or printed formal list; often, a list, catalogue, or inventory, annexed to a larger document, as to a will, a lease, a statute, etc.; as, a schedule of a bankrupt's debts or creditors; a schedule of trains or steamers.
3. Hence, an appended statement of supplementary details, as accompanying a legal or legislative document; as, Schedule D of the tariff bill.
4. A written plan of future procedure in the carrying out of some project, indicating the time when each operation is to be begun and completed; as, a schedule for the construction of a building; esp., an outline of regularly recurring events; as, a train schedule.
5. Building Trades. A bill of quantities.
Syn. — Catalogue, inventory. See LIST.
☞ Price (1668) gives skĕd'ūl; The English Scholar (1687), sĕd'ūl, sĕd'ōōl; Jones (1701), skĕd'ūl, sĕd'ūl; Walker, (1791) sĕd'jūl, (1806) sĕd'jūl, skĕd'-; Smart (c. 1840), shĕd'ūl.

sched'ule (skĕd'ūl; Brit. shĕd'ūl), v. t.; -ULED (-ūld); -ULING (-ūl-ĭng). 1. To form into, or place in, a schedule; as, to schedule a new train; to add in a schedule or appendix, as to an act.
2. To add to an act of Parliament as a schedule. Oxf. E. D.

sched'ul-ize (-ūl-īz), v. i. & t. To make, or adapt to, schedules.

Schee'le's green (shā'lĕz). [See SCHEELITE.] 1. A poisonous yellowish-green pigment consisting essentially of a copper arsenite. It is now little used.
2. A color, yellow-green in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance; — called also English green, Swedish green. Cf. COLOR.

schee'lite (shā'lĭt; shē'-), n. [After K. W. Scheele, Sw. chemist.] Mineral. A tetragonal mineral, white when pure, and also yellow, brownish, etc., occurring in octahedral, tabular, and massive forms, as native calcium tungstate, $CaWO_4$. It usually contains some molybdenum. H., 4.5; sp. gr., 5.9–6.1. It is a source of tungsten and tungsten compounds.

schef'fer-ite (shĕf'ĕr-īt), n. [After H. T. Scheffer (1710–59), Sw. chemist.] Mineral. A brown to black variety of pyroxene, containing manganese and frequently much iron.

Sche-her'a-zade', Queen (shē-hĕr'ä-zäd'; -hĕr'ä-; -zä'dē). The fictitious relator of the stories of the Arabian Nights. See ARABIAN NIGHTS.

Schei'bler's pitch (shī'blĕrz). [After J. H. Scheibler (1777–1838), Ger. physicist.] Music. See 4th PITCH, 19 b.

Schei'bler's re-a'gent (shī'blĕrz). [After K. Scheibler (1827–99), Ger. chemist.] Chem. A solution of phosphotungstic acid, or its sodium salt, used as a precipitant for alkaloids.

schel'ling (shĕl'ĭng), n. [D. See SCHILLING.] A silver (sometimes billon) coin of the Low Countries, usually current at six stuivers, but varying from five to eight. Issues for the Dutch Oriental colonies are called escalins. See ESCALIN, 1.

Schel-lin'gi-an (shĕ-lĭng'gĭ-ăn; -lĭn'jĭ'-), adj. Of or pertaining to the philosophy of F. W. J. von Schelling.

Schel'ling-ism (shĕl'ĭng-ĭz'm), n. Also Schel-lin'gi-an-ism (shĕ-lĭng'gĭ-ăn-ĭz'm; -lĭn'jĭ'-). Philos. The philosophy of Friedrich Wilhelm Joseph von Schelling (1775–1854), founded on the philosophies of Kant and Fichte, and forming a system of idealism that makes the ego and the world two poles of the Absolute.

schel'ly (shĕl'ĭ), n. The gwyniad. Dial. Eng.

schel'ly (skĕl'ĭ). Var. of SKELLY.

‖schelm (shĕlm), n. [G. See SKELLUM.] Rogue; rascal.

schel'to-pu'sik (shĕl'tō-pōō'zĭk), n. [Russ. zheltopuzik, lit., yellow-bellied.] A snakelike lizard (Pseudopus apus) of southeastern Europe, Asia Minor, etc., resembling the glass snake of America.

sche'ma (skē'mä), n.; pl. SCHEMATA (-mä-tä). [L. See SCHEME.] 1. Scheme, plan, outline, or diagram; specif., in logic, a syllogistic figure.
2. Kantianism. A general representation, produced by the imagination working with the pure form of time, by which the understanding is able to apply a category to particular representations of sense; thus, the universal following, in time, of something, A, by something else, B, is the schema of cause and effect.
3. Physiol. & Psychol. A subconscious adjustment of the brain to the afferent impulses indicative of bodily posture. It is a prerequisite of appropriate bodily movement and of spatial perception.

sche-mat'ic (skē-măt'ĭk), adj. [NL. schematicus.] Of or pertaining to a scheme (systematic plan, diagram, etc.) or a schema; as, schematic arrangement; schematic apprehension; conformed to an established pattern or formalized conception; also, showing part for part in a model or diagram; as, a schematic eye; specif., showing a scheme of connections by conventional symbols; as, a schematic diagram of the wiring of a radio set.

sche-mat'i-cal-ly (-ĭ-kăl-ĭ), adv. of SCHEMATIC, SCHEMATICAL.

sche'ma-tism (skē'mä-tĭz'm), n. [NL. schematismus, fr. Gr. schēmatismos, fr. schēmatizein to form. See SCHEME.] 1. Astrol. Combination of the aspects of heavenly bodies; design in a figure.
2. The disposition of constituents in a pattern or according to a scheme; a particular systematic disposition of parts; inclination to arrange or present schematically.
3. Kantianism. The process by which the imagination mediates between a category, or abstract concept of the understanding, and a particular content of sense experience, by providing a general plan for the application of the concept to the content of sense. See SCHEMA, 2.

sche'ma-tist (skē'mä-tĭst), n. One who makes modifications to suit an established or preconceived system; formerly, one given to forming schemes; a projector; a schemer.

sche'ma-tize (skē'mä-tīz), v. i. & t.; -TIZED (-tīzd); -TIZING (-tīz'ĭng). [Gr. schēmatizein.] To form, or to form into, a scheme or schemes; to make, or put into, a systematic arrangement. — sche'ma-ti-za'tion (-tĭ-zā'shŭn; -tĭ-zä'shŭn), n. — sche'ma-tiz'er (skē'mä-tīz'ĕr), n.

sche-mat'o-gram (skē-măt'ō-grăm), n. Med. A tracing made with a schematograph.

sche-mat'o-graph (skē-măt'ō-grăf; 83), n. [Gr. schēma, -atos, form, figure + -graph.] An apparatus for tracing in reduced form the outline of a person, used in recording postures.

sche'ma-tol'o-get'i-cal-ly (skē'mä-tŏl'ō-jĕt'ĭ-kăl-ĭ), adv. By figurative expressions.

sche'ma-to-man'cy (skē'mä-tō-măn'sĭ), n. [Gr. schēma, -atos, form + -mancy.] Divination from a man's form and appearance. sche'ma-ton'ics (skē'mä-tŏn'ĭks), n. [Gr. schēma gesture + tonos tone. See -ICS.] A form of dramatic art which endeavors to make gesture expressive of tones, as in music, color, and words.

scheme (skēm), n. [L. schema a rhetorical figure, a shape, figure, manner, fr. Gr. schēma, schēmatos, form, shape, outline, plan; akin to Gr. schein, echein, to have or hold, to hold out, sustain, check, stop; cf. Skr. sahas power, victory, AS. sige victory, G. sieg. Cf. EPOCH, HECTIC, HECTOR, 3d SCHOOL, SKETCH.] 1. A figure; — in technical senses. Obs.
2. a Obs. An astronomical or mathematical diagram. b Archaic. A diagram, design, or outline.
To draw an exact scheme of Constantinople. South.
3. A concise statement in an outline, table, or list; an epitome; also, a preparatory outline or draft.
4. a A plan or program of something to be done; an enterprise; a project; as, a business scheme; an irrigation scheme. b A crafty, unethical project. c A visionary project.
5. Form; semblance. Obs.
6. A combination of thoughts, theories, or the like, connected and adjusted by design; a systematic plan; a system.
"Changed his whole scheme of life." Macaulay.
A whole scheme of moral philosophy. J. Edwards.
7. Systematic contrivance or arrangement.
8. A complexity which reveals or suggests systematic design, as in nature or social institutions.
Was as God is to the starry scheme. Shelley.
9. A planned diversion for pastime; a lark.
10. A plan reduced to a definite or tabulated form; also, the tabulated form of a plan; as, a new scheme for the mail service was distributed yesterday.
11. Astrol. A representation of the aspects of the planets at a given time; a figure.
12. Pros. A diagram or table showing metrical structure or rhyme arrangement, as of a stanza.
13. Rhet. A figure of speech. Obs.
Syn. — Purpose, device, plot. See PLAN.

scheme (skēm), v.; SCHEMED (skēmd); SCHEM'ING (skēm'ĭng). Transitive: To devise or contrive a scheme for; to accomplish by clever contriving; to design; project; plot; also, to confine within the arbitrary bounds of a system or formula.
——, Intransitive: 1. To form plans or designs; to devise intrigue.
2. To indulge in sportive or festive diversion. Obs.

schem'er (skēm'ĕr), n. One who forms schemes; a projector; esp., a plotter; an intriguer.

schem'er-y (skēm'ĕr-ĭ), n. Deceptive contriving; machination.

schem'ing (skēm'ĭng), adj. Given to forming schemes; artful; intriguing. — schem'ing-ly, adv.

schem'ist (skēm'ĭst), n. a A schemer; an inventor of schemes. b Obs. An astrologer.

schem'y (skēm'ĭ), adj. Scheming; artful. Colloq.

schene (skēn), n. [L. schoenus, fr. Gr. schoinos a rush, reed, land measure; cf. F. schène.] Antiq. A road measure adopted by the Greeks from the Egyptians, varying from 30 to 60 or more stadia (about 3½ to 7 miles). It was also used in Persia, Chaldea, Syria, etc.

Sche-nec'ta-dy putt'er (skē-nĕk'tä-dĭ). [From Schenectady, N. Y.] A type of putter in which the shaft is fastened near the center of the head.

schenk beer (shĕngk). [G. schenkbier, fr. schenken to pour out + bier beer; — so called because put on draft soon after it is made.] A beer brewed in the winter by the bottom-fermentation process, for immediate consumption, and not stored like lager. See BREWING.

sche'pen (skā'pĕn), n. [D.] In Holland and Dutch settlements, a municipal officer analogous to an English alderman.

Sche'ring bridge (shā'rĭng). [After H. Schering, Ger. engineer.] Elec. An alternating-current bridge used to measure the loss in dielectrics and for determining the capacitance of condensers. Cf. WHEATSTONE BRIDGE.

scherm (skĕrm), n. [D., lit., screen.] A stone breastwork; also, a screen or fence of brushwood. S. Africa.

scher'zan'do (skĕr-tsän'dō; -tsăn'dō), adj. [It., pres. part.] Music. Jesting; in a playful or sportive manner; — used as a direction indicating style.

scher'zo (skĕr'tsō), n.; pl. SCHERZOS (-tsōz), SCHERZI (-tsē). [It.] Music. A sprightly, humorous, instrumental composition or movement, commonly in quick triple measure, and usually in ternary form. Since Beethoven it has displaced the minuet as the third movement of sonata and symphony.

sche'sis (skē'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. schesis; akin to Gr. schein, echein, to have or hold. See SCHEME.] 1. General state or disposition of the body or mind, or of one thing with regard to other things; habitude; relation. Obs.
2. Rhet. The urging of a mental habitude of an opponent as tending to invalidate his arguments.

-schesis. [NL.] Med. A combining form, from Greek schesis, a checking, denoting suppression, as in menoschesis. Nouns ending in -schesis form adjectives in -SCHETIC.

Scheuch-ze'ri-a (shōōk-zē'rĭ-ä), n. [NL., after the brothers Johann and Johann Jakob Scheuchzer, Swiss botanists.] Bot. A genus of plants typifying the family Scheuchzeriaceae, having as the only known species S. palustris, a rushlike bog herb found throughout the North Temperate Zone. It has a leafy stem, with white, racemose flowers, several carpels, and follicelike fruit.

Scheuch-ze'ri-a'ce-ae (shōōk-zē'rĭ-ā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of plants (order Naiadales) containing four genera and about ten species, of wide distribution. They are marsh or bog herbs having rushlike leaves and small perfect flowers with 3–6 stamens and 3–6 carpels, which are separate at maturity. Triglochin and Scheuchzeria are representative genera. — scheuch-ze'ri-a'ceous (-zē'rĭ-ā'shŭs), adj.

schia-vo'ne (skyä-vō'nä), n. [It.] A two-edged basket-hilted sword.

Schick test (shĭk). [After Dr. Bela Schick, of Vienna.] Med. A test in which the cutaneous injection of a highly diluted diphtheria toxin causes, in a subject susceptible to diphtheria, an area of reddening and induration at the point of injection, because of the absence of diphtheria antitoxin in the subject's blood.

Schie'le's piv'ot, or antifriction pivot (shē'lĕz). Mach. A pivot the curved surface of which is generated by the revolution of a tractrix about its axis. It wears uniformly, but wastes 50 per cent more energy than a flat pivot.

Schiff (shĭf), or Schiff's, base (shĭfs). Chem. Any of a series of bases (azomethine compounds), formed usually by reaction of an aldehyde with a primary amine, as aniline, with elimination of water. Those from aliphatic aldehydes readily polymerize. See AZOMETHINE.

schiff'li (shĭf'lĭ), n. [Swiss G., dim. of schiff ship.] A kind of power machine used in making rayon; — so called from the boatlike appearance of its shuttles.

Schiff reaction (shĭf). [After H. Schiff (1834–1915), Ger. chemist.] Anal. Chem. A reaction used as a test for aldehydes (Schiff test), consisting in the formation by them of a reddish-violet color with a solution of fuchsine decolorized with sulphurous acid (Schiff reagent).

schil'ler (shĭl'ĕr), n. [G., play of colors.] 1. Mineral. A bronzelike iridescent luster, as in hypersthene, schiller spar, etc., regarded as due to minute inclusions or cavities in parallel position. It sometimes results from alteration.
2. Lustrous or resplendent iridescent color, as in beetles.

schil'ler-fels' (-fĕls'), n. [G., fr. schiller luster + fels rock.] Petrog. Norite, but more especially peridotite, whose orthorhombic pyroxene possesses a peculiar, silky luster and a poikilitic texture.

schil'ler-i-za'tion (shĭl'ĕr-ĭ-zā'shŭn; -ĭ-zā'-), n. Petrog. The alteration of orthorhombic pyroxene and sometimes diallage in such a way that minute inclusions of secondary minerals are developed, which reflect light simultaneously.

schil'ler-ize (shĭl'ĕr-īz), v. t. Mineral. To impart a schiller to by the development of inclusions or cavities, as by solution and infiltration.

schiller spar. Mineral. An altered variety of enstatite characterized by a schiller on its chief cleavage face and occurring as green or brown foliated masses in certain igneous rocks. Its composition is approximately that of serpentine.

schil'ling (shĭl'ĭng), n. [G.; cf. D. schelling. See SHILLING.] a A former minor coin denomination in some of the northern States of Germany, ranging between 1½ and 5 cents (¾–2½ d.) in value. b Since 1925, the Austrian gold currency unit having a par value of $.1407. Also, a silver coin of this value. See COIN, Table.

schim'mel (skĭm'ĕl), n. [D.] A gray horse. Chiefly S. Afr.

schin'dy-le'sis (skĭn'dĭ-lē'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. schindylēsis a splitting into fragments.] Anat. A form of articulation in which one bone is received into a groove or slit in another. — schin'dy-let'ic (-lĕt'ĭk), adj.

Schi'nus (skī'nŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. schinos mastic tree.] Bot. A genus of tropical American trees of the sumac family (Anacardiaceae). S. molle is the pepper tree.

schip'per-ke (skĭp'ĕr-kĭ), n. [Dial. D., prop., little boatman, dim. of D. schipper; because used as a watchdog on boats.] A small dog of a breed originating several hundred years ago in what is now Belgium, and used chiefly on canal boats as a guard. It has a foxlike head, with oval brown eyes, very erect triangular ears, a broad chest, short and thickset body, straight back and forelegs, and an abundant, slightly harsh, black coat.

Schi-san'dra (skĭ-săn'drä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. schisis cleavage + anēr, andros, man, hence, stamen.] Bot. A genus of aromatic woody vines or shrubs (family Magnoliaceae), one North American, the rest found in eastern Asia. They have often evergreen leaves and unisexual flowers in axillary clusters, the petals and sepals undifferentiated. The fruit is an elongated spike (receptacle) crowded with berries (ripened carpels).

-schisis. [NL.] Med. A combining form, Greek -schisis, from schisis, meaning cleavage, used to denote fissure, or breaking up of adhesions, as in cardioschisis, erythrocytoschisis, rachischisis.

schism (sĭz'm), n. [ME. scisme, fr. OF. cisme, scisme (F. schisme), fr. LL. schisma, fr. Gr. schisma, fr. schizein to split. See SHED, v.; cf. RESCIND, SCHEDULE.] 1. Division or separation; esp., Bib. (a translation of the Greek word schisma), a division in the church.
2. Specif., Eccl., formal division or separation in the Christian church or from a church or religious body; breach of unity among people of the same religious faith; the offense of seeking to produce division in a church.
3. A schismatic body or faction.
4. A split or division of a group into two discordant groups; also, a breach or state of strife, as between pure and applied science.
5. Noncurrent uses: a Obs. A state of disagreement in opinion; hostility. b Rare. A schismatic or heterodoxical belief. Milton. c Humorous. A split or rent in clothing. d Rare. A faction or clique. Shelley.

schism (sĭz'm), v. i. To separate by schism. Obs.

schis'ma (skĭz'mä; skĭs'mä), n. [LL., fr. Gr. schisma division. See SCHISM.] Musical Acoustics. The interval ♯♯♯♯♯, approximately that between a pure and an equally tempered fifth. The schisma and diaschisma together make a syntonic comma.

Schism Act (sĭz'm). Eng. Hist. An act of Parliament passed in 1714, repealed in 1719, requiring all teachers to conform to the Established Church, and to refrain from attending dissenting places of worship.

schis-mat'ic (sĭz-măt'ĭk), adj. [OF. sciematique (F. schismatique), fr. LL. schismaticus, fr. Gr. schismatikos.] Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, schism; implying schism; of the nature of, or tending to, schism; separated from some body by schism; guilty of schism; as, schismatic opinions or sects.

schis-mat'ic, n. One who creates or takes part in schism; one who separates from an established church or religious communion on account of a difference of opinion.
Syn. — See HERETIC.

schis-mat'i-cal (-ĭ-kăl), adj. Schismatic. — schis-mat'i-cal-ness, n.

schis-mat'i-cal-ly, adv. of SCHISMATIC, SCHISMATICAL.

schis'ma-tism (sĭz'mä-tĭz'm), n. Schismatic doctrine or belief.

schis'ma-tist (-tĭst), n. A schismatic. Rare.

---

schedule rate. See 3d RATE, 11. schee'lin (shē'lĭn), n. Chem. Tungsten. Obs. schee'li-um (shē'lĭ-ŭm), n. [NL. See SCHEELITE.] Chem. Tungsten. Obs. schef. † SHOVE. schef'fel (shĕf'ĕl), n. sing. & pl. [G.] See MEASURE, Table. scheik. Var. of SHEIK.
schel. † CHILL, v.; SHALL; SHILL.
Schel'horn's Bi'ble (shĕl'hôrnz). [After J. G. Schelhorn (1694–1773), Ger. theologian.] See Bible of 36 times, under BIBLE, 2.
Schel'len-berg'er Brü'der-ge-mein'de (shĕl'ĕn-bĕr'gĕr brü'dĕr-gĕ-mīn'dĕ). [G., lit., community of Schellenberg brethren.] = MENNONITE BRETHREN CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA (see MENNONITE, n.).
Schel-lin'gi-an-ism (shĕ-lĭn'gĭ-ăn-ĭz'm; -jĭ-ăn-), n. = SCHELLINGISM. sche-mat'i-cal (skē-măt'ĭ-kăl), adj. Schematic; figurative. Obs. scheme arch. Sometimes skeen, or skene, arch. [It. scemo diminished.] = DIMINISHED ARCH. scheme'ful, adj. See -FUL. scheme'less, adj. See -LESS. scheme. † SCENE. [SHAPE.]
schepe. Obs. past tense of sche'pel (skā'pĕl), n. [D.] See MEASURE, Table. schere. † CHEER, countenance; SHARE; SHIRE. schere (shĕr). Var. of SHEAR, SHEER. Obs. exc. Scot.
‖scher-zo'so (skĕr-tsō'sō), adj. [It.] Music. = SCHERZANDO. schete. † SHOOT, SHUT. schewe. Aphetic of ESCHEW. Obs.
Schie-dam' schnapps, or Schie-dam' (skē-dăm'), n. See 2d GIN. schil. Scot. var. of CHILL. schill. Var. of SHILL. schil'tron. Var. of SHELTRON. schire. Var. of SHIRE, adj. schir'rhus. Var. of SCIRRHUS.
Schis'an-dra'ce-ae (skĭ-ăn'drā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of MAGNOLIACEAE (in part).

---

schis'ma·tize (sĭz'mȧ·tīz), v. i.; -TIZED (-tīzd); -TIZ'ING (-tĭz'ĭng). [F. schismatiser.] To take part in schism; esp., to make a breach of communion in the church. — v. t. To induce into schism.

schis'mic (sĭz'mĭk), adj. = SCHISMATIC, adj. Rare.

schist (shĭst), n. [F. schiste, fr. L. schistos that cleaves easily (of stone), fr. Gr. schistos divided, divisible, fr. schizein to divide. See SCHISM.] Petrog. Any metamorphic crystalline rock having a closely foliated structure (see FOLIATION, 8) and hence admitting of division along approximately parallel planes. The common kinds are mica schist and hornblende schist, consisting chiefly of quartz with mica or hornblende respectively, and often feldspar, sometimes with garnet. They differ from gneisses in containing no essential feldspar and usually in having finer laminations.

-schist (-shĭst). A combining form, fr. Gr. -schistos, from schistos, divided, cleft, denoting a (specified) type of cell division; — used in botany and cytology.

schis·ta'ceous (shĭs·tā'shŭs), adj. Of a slate color.

schist'ic (shĭs'tĭk), adj. Petrog. Schistose.

schis'to- (skĭs'tō-). A combining form, from Gr. schistos, meaning cleft, as in schistoscope; specif., Med., fissure of a part (specified), as in schis'to·ce'li·a, schis'to·coe'li·a, congenital fissure of the abdomen, and in the following:

schistocephalus	schistomelia	schistosomia
schistocormia	schistomelus	schistosoma schistocormus	schistoprosopia	schistosternia
schistoglossia	schistoprosopus	schistothorax

Schis'to·cer'ca (skĭs'tō·sûr'kȧ), n. [NL., fr. schisto- + Gr. kerkos tail.] Zool. A genus of large migratory locusts. See LOCUST, n., 1.

schis'to·cyte (skĭs'tō·sīt), n. [schisto- + -cyte.] Med. a A very small red blood corpuscle. b A fragmenting red blood corpuscle.

schis'to·cy·to'sis (-sī·tō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. schistocyte + -osis.] Med. The condition in which schistocytes are present in the blood.

schist'oid (shĭs'toid), adj. Petrog. Resembling schist.

schist oil (shĭst). Oil distilled from bituminous schists.

schis·tor'rha·chis (skĭs·tôr'ȧ·kĭs), n. [NL., fr. schisto- + Gr. rhachis the spine.] Med. Spina bifida.

schis'to·scope (skĭs'tō·skōp), n. [schisto- + -scope.] An instrument for the production of complementary colors, consisting essentially of a polariscope and of thin plates of selenite through which the polarized ray is caused to pass.

schist'ose (shĭs'tōs), adj. Also schist'ous (-tŭs). [Cf. F. schisteux.] Of or pert. to schist; having the character or structure of a schist. — schis·tos'i·ty (shĭs·tŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.

Schi·zae'a (skĭ·zē'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. schizein to cleave. See SCHISM.] Bot. A genus of ferns typifying the Schizaeaceae, having filiform or linear fronds and the sporangia in close distichous spikes. S. pusilla is the curly grass.

Schiz'ae·a'ce·ae (skĭz'ē·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A small family of mainly tropical ferns of various habit, with simple or pinnate fronds, and ovoid sessile sporangia in spikes or panicles. Schizaea, Anemia, and Lygodium are the only North American genera. — schiz'ae·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Schi·zan'thus (skĭ·zăn'thŭs; skĭ-), n. [NL., fr. schiz- + -anthus.] Bot. a A small genus of Chilean herbs, the fringe-flowers (family Solanaceae), having finely divided leaves and showy variegated flowers with an irregular laciniate corolla and two exserted stamens. See BUTTERFLY FLOWER. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

schi·zax'on (-zăk'sŏn), n. [NL., fr. schiz- + axon.] An axon which splits into nearly equal branches; esp., an axon of a sensory neuron entering the spinal cord.

schiz'o- (skĭz'ō-), schiz-. A combining form, Greek schizo-, from schizein, to split, cleave, denoting division or cleavage, as in schizogenesis, schizaxon.

schiz'o·carp (-kärp), n. [schizo- + -carp.] Bot. A dry compound fruit which splits at maturity into several indehiscent one-seeded carpels known as cocci. See FRUIT, Table & Illust. — schiz'o·car'pic (-kär'pĭk), adj. — schiz'o·car'pous (-kär'pŭs), adj.

schi·zoch'ro·al (skĭ·zŏk'rō·ȧl; skĭ-), adj. [schizo- + Gr. chroa body surface.] Paleontol. Having numerous simple eyes massed together to form a large eye, as certain trilobites.

schiz'o·coele (skĭz'ō·sēl), n. [schizo- + -coele.] Zool. A perivisceral cavity which arises by the splitting of the mesoblast of the embryo. Cf. ENTEROCOELE. — schiz'o·coe'lic (-sē'lĭk), adj. — schiz'o·coe'lous (-lŭs), adj.

schiz'o·din'ic (-dĭn'ĭk), adj. [schiz- + Gr. ōdinein to be in labor.] Zool. Discharging genital products by rupture.

schi·zog'a·my (skĭ·zŏg'ȧ·mĭ; skĭ-), n. [schizo- + -gamy.] Zool. Reproduction by division of the body into a sexual and an asexual individual, as in certain chaetopod worms.

schiz'o·gen'e·sis (skĭz'ō·jĕn'ē·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. schizo- + -genesis.] Biol. Reproduction by fission.

schiz'o·ge·net'ic (-jē·nĕt'ĭk), adj. [schizo- + -genetic.] Schizogenous. — schiz'o·ge·net'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kȧl·ĭ), adv.

schiz'o·gen'ic (-jĕn'ĭk), adj. [schizo- + -genic.] Biol. Schizogenous; schizogenetic.

schi·zog'e·nous (skĭ·zŏj'ē·nŭs; skĭ-), adj. [schizo- + -genous.] Biol. Pertaining to, or formed by, schizogenesis, or fission; specif., Bot., of intercellular spaces, formed by the splitting or delamination of adjacent cell walls. Cf. LYSIGENOUS. — schi·zog'e·nous·ly, adv.

Schi·zog'na·thae (-zŏg'nȧ·thē), n. pl. [NL. See SCHIZOGNATHOUS.] Zool. In Huxley's classification, a suborder of carinate birds consisting of those with a schizognathous palate, as the pigeons, gallinaceous birds, penguins, gulls, cranes, shore birds, etc. — schiz'og·nath (skĭz'ŏg·năth), n.

Schizognathous Palate of Capercaillie. v Vomer; l Palatine; p Maxillopalatals; t Pterygoid.

schi·zog'na·thous (skĭ·zŏg'nȧ·thŭs; skĭ-), adj. [schizo- + -gnathous.] Zool. In birds, designating, or having, an arrangement of the bones of the palate in which the vomer is narrow and pointed in front, and separated by a space on each side from the usually long narrow maxillopalatals, which do not unite with each other or with the vomer. — schi·zog'na·thism (-thĭz'm), n.

schi·zog'o·ny (skĭ·zŏg'ō·nĭ; skĭ-), n. [schizo- + -gony.] Biol. a Schizogenesis. b Specif., in Sporozoa, segmentation or asexual spore formation of the type characteristic of schizonts. — schiz'o·gon'ic (skĭz'ō·gŏn'ĭk), adj.

Schiz'o·greg'a·rin'i·da (skĭz'ō·grĕg'ȧ·rĭn'ĭ·dȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. schizo- + Gregarinida.] Zool. A small division of Gregarinida in the life cycle of which there is an asexual reproductive process (schizogony) as well as a sexual process (sporogony). They are chiefly parasites in arthropods, annelids, and tunicates. Cf. EUGREGARINIDA. — schiz'o·greg'a·rine (-grĕg'ȧ·rĭn; -rīn), adj. & n.

schiz'oid (skĭz'oid), adj. [schiz- + -oid.] Resembling schizophrenia or a schizophrenic; schizothymic.

schiz'oid, n. Psychiatry. One who is of schizoid temperament and behavior.

schiz'oid·ism (-ĭz'm), n. [schizoid + -ism.] Psychiatry. Schizothymia and schizophrenia.

Schiz'o·lae·na'ce·ae (skĭz'ō·lē·nā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. schizo- + L. laena cloak.] A small family of trees and shrubs (order Malvales) of Madagascar. — schiz'o·lae·na'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

schiz'o·lite (skĭz'ō·līt), n. [schizo- + -lite.] Mineral. A triclinic zeolite, having the composition of pectolite, but containing also manganese, $HNa(Ca,Mn)_2(SiO_3)_3$, and occurring in red to brown prismatic crystals. H., 5–5.5.

schiz'o·ly·sig'e·nous (skĭz'ō·lĭ·sĭj'ē·nŭs), adj. Bot. Formed both schizogenously and lysigenously, as certain intercellular spaces.

Schiz'o·me'ri·a (-mē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. schizo- + Gr. meros part.] A genus of trees, family Cunoniaceae. S. ovata is known in Australia as an ash. See 1st ASH, 2.

schiz'o·my·cete' (skĭz'ō·mī·sēt'), n.; pl. -MYCETES (-mĭ·sēt'z'). Bot. A plant of the class Schizomycetes.

Schiz'o·my·ce'tes (-mī·sē'tēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. schizo- + -mycetes.] Bot. A class of minute lowly organisms lacking chlorophyll, the bacteria, prevailingly considered plants and commonly classed among the Fungi in the phylum Thallophyta, but sometimes kept separate or grouped with the blue-green algae in a distinct phylum, Schizophyta; the fission fungi. See BACTERIA, SCHIZOPHYTA. — schiz'o·my·ce'tic (-tĭk), adj. — schiz'o·my·ce'tous (-tŭs), adj.

schiz'o·my·co'sis (skĭz'ō·mī·kō'sĭs), n. [NL.] Med. Infection with schizomycetes or any disease caused by them.

Schiz'o·ne·mer'te·a (-nē·mûr'tē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See SCHIZO-; NEMERTINEA.] Zool. A group of nemerteans comprising those having a deep slit along each side of the head and a proboscis devoid of stylets. — schiz'o·ne·mer'te·an (-ăn), schiz'o·ne·mer'tine (-tĭn; -tīn; 156), adj. & n.

schi'zont (skĭ'zŏnt; skīz'ŏnt), n. [Gr. schizōn, -ontos, pres. part., cleaving.] Zool. In certain Sporozoa, a cell formed by the growth of a sporozoite or merozoite (in a cell or corpuscle of the host) which segments by superficial cleavage, without encystment or conjugation, into merozoites.

schiz'o·pel'mous (skĭz'ō·pĕl'mŭs), adj. [schizo- + Gr. pelma the sole of the foot.] Zool. Having the two flexor tendons of the toes separate, and the flexor of the hallux going to the first toe only.

Schizopelmous Foot: I, Hallux, or Hind Toe; II, III, IV Second to Fourth Toes; aa Flexor of the Hallux; bb Flexor of the Toes.

Schiz'o·phrag'ma (-frăg'mȧ), n. [NL., fr. schizo- + Gr. phragma a wall.] Bot. A small genus of woody vines of the hydrangea family (Hydrangeaceae), found in eastern Asia, differing from the ordinary shrubby hydrangeas in having the sterile flowers with a single sepal and also in their high climbing habit. S. hydrangeoides, the climbing hydrangea, is a handsome, frequently cultivated vine.

schiz'o·phre'ni·a (skĭz'ō·frē'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. schizo- + -phrenia.] Psychiatry. A type of psychosis characterized by loss of contact with the environment and by disintegration of the personality. It includes dementia praecox and some related forms of insanity. — schiz'o·phrene (skĭz'ō·frēn), n. — schiz'o·phren'ic (-frĕn'ĭk), adj. & n.

Schiz'o·phy'ce·ae (-fī'sē·ē; -fĭs'ē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. schizo- + Gr. phykos seaweed.] Bot. The Cyanophyceae; the fission algae. See SCHIZOPHYTA.

Schiz'o·phyl'lum (-fĭl'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. schizo- + phyllum.] Bot. A genus of agarics having leathery gray sporophores with split and recurving gills. S. alneum rots the wood of various trees and attacks sugar cane.

Schi·zoph'y·ta (skĭ·zŏf'ĭ·tȧ; skĭ-), n. pl. [NL. See SCHIZO-; -PHYTE.] Bot. In some classifications of the plant kingdom, a division or phylum considered distinct from Thallophyta and comprising the so-called fission plants, belonging to the two classes Cyanophyceae (Schizophyceae), or blue-green algae, and Schizomycetes, or bacteria. They are either unicellular or filamentous, consisting of a chain of cells, or occasionally united into cell colonies. They multiply only by fission or by asexual spores. — schiz'o·phyt'ic (skĭz'ō·fĭt'ĭk), adj.

schiz'o·phyte (skĭz'ō·fīt), n. Bot. One of the Schizophyta.

Schi·zop'o·da (skĭ·zŏp'ō·dȧ; skĭ-), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. schizopous having parted toes. See SCHIZO-; -PODA.]

One of the Schizopoda (Mysis mixta). (× 2)

Zool. In former classifications, an order or other division of Malacostraca, now divided between the orders Euphausiacea and Mysidacea. — schiz'o·pod (skĭz'ō·pŏd), adj. & n. — schi·zop'o·dous (skĭ·zŏp'ō·dŭs; skĭ-), adj.

schi·zop'o·dal (skĭ·zŏp'ō·dȧl; skĭ-), adj. Schizopodous.

schiz'o·rhi'nal (skĭz'ō·rī'nȧl), adj. [schizo- + -rhinal.] Zool. Having each of the nasal bones forming the posterior contour of the osseous external nares deeply cleft instead of rounded, as in most shore birds, gulls, certain waders, and all pigeons; — opposed to holorhinal.

schiz'o·spore (skĭz'ō·spōr; 181), n. [schizo- + -spore.] Bot. One of the gonidia abstricted one by one from the tip end of the plant body in algae of the family Chamaesiphonaceae.

schiz'o·stele (-stēl; -stē'lē), n. [schizo- + stele.] Bot. One of the vascular strands or partial steles to which the pleroma gives rise in stems of plants without a true stele.

schiz'o·ste'ly (skĭz'ō·stē'lĭ), n. Bot. Condition of forming schizosteles. — schiz'o·ste'lic (-stē'lĭk), adj.

schiz'o·the'cal (-thē'kȧl), adj. [schizo- + thecal.] Zool. Having the horny envelope of the tarsus divided into scale-like plates, as most birds.

schiz'o·tho·rac'ic (-thō·răs'ĭk), adj. [See SCHIZO-; THORACIC.] Zool. Having the prothorax large and loosely articulated to the remainder of the thorax, as opposed to holothoracic; — said of insects.

schiz'o·thyme (skĭz'ō·thīm), n. Psychiatry. One characterized by schizothymia.

schiz'o·thy'mi·a (-thĭ'mĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. schizo- + -thymia.] Psychiatry. An introvert condition or temperament which, while remaining within the bounds of normality, somewhat resembles schizophrenia, as in a tendency to autistic thinking; — opposed to cyclothymia. — schiz'o·thy'mic (-thĭ'mĭk), adj.

schiz'o·trich'i·a (-trĭk'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. schizo- + -trichia.] Med. Cleavage or splitting of the hair.

schiz'tic (skĭz'tĭk), adj. Separating or characterized by separation.

‖schiz'zo (skĭt'zō), n.; pl. -ZI (-zē). [It. See SKETCH.] A sketch.

‖Schlaf'wa'gen (shläf'vä'gĕn), n. [G.] Railway sleeping car.

‖Schlä'ger (shlā'gĕr), n.; pl. -GER (-gĕr). [G.] A long, straight, basket-hilted, blunt-ended sword, sharpened only near the end, used in duels by German university students.

Schlei'cher·a (shlī'kĕr·ȧ; shlī·kē'rȧ), n. [NL., after J. C. Schleicher, Swiss botanist.] Bot. A genus of trees of the soapberry family (Sapindaceae), having as the only known species S. trijuga, the kusam, of tropical Asia (sometimes called Ceylon oak). It has pinnate leaves and small apetalous flowers succeeded by a dry fruit with a pulpy aril. The wood is hard and much prized; the oil (Macassar oil) from its seeds is used as an illuminant. See LAC TREE b (1).

Schlemm's ca·nal' (shlĕmz). [After F. S. Schlemm (1795–1858), Ger. anatomist.] Anat. A circular canal in the substance of the sclerocorneal junction of the eye, draining the aqueous humor from the anterior chamber into the anterior ciliary veins.

schlen'ter (shlĕn'tĕr), adj. [S. Afr. D., fr. D. slenter a trick.] Imitation; make-believe; — esp. of diamonds. — n. An imitation diamond. Both S. Africa.

‖Schlich (shlĭk), n. [G.] Metal. Slime.

schlie'ren (shlē'rĕn), n. pl. [G.] Petrog. In igneous rocks, small masses or streaks which differ in mineral composition from the main body, but graduate insensibly into it. They may represent (1) partially or completely assimilated fragments of included rock, (2) differentiated portions of a homogeneous magma (constitution schlieren), or (3) injections of different kinds of rock material (injection schlieren). — schlie'ric (-rĭk), adj.

Schlip'pe's salt (shlĭp'ēz). Chem. Sodium thioantimonate, $Na_3SbS_4.9H_2O$.

schloop (shlōōp), n. [Imitative.] A swishing sound ending in a plop. — v. i. To make such a sound.

‖Schloss (shlŏs), n.; pl. SCHLÖSSER (shlû'sĕr). [G.] Castle; château.

Schloss Jo·han'nis·ber'ger (yō·hä'nĭs·bĕr'gĕr). [G., lit., from Johannisberg castle.] The finest white wine of the Rheingau. See RHINE WINE.

Schloss Voll'rads (fôl'räts). [G., lit., from Vollrad castle.] A fine white wine of the Rheingau. See RHINE WINE.

Schmal'kald (shmäl'käld), or Schmal·kal'dic, Ar'ti·cles. Articles of the Lutheran faith drawn up in 1537 at Schmalkalden by Luther, Melanchthon, and others.

Schmal·kal'dic (shmäl·käl'dĭk), adj. Also Schmal·kal'di·an (-dĭ·ăn). Of or pert. to Schmalkalden (see Gaz.).

Schmalkaldic League. The League of Schmalkalden. See 2d LEAGUE, Table.

Schmalkaldic War. The war (1546–47) between the League of Schmalkalden and Emperor Charles V, in which the latter was victorious.

schmelz, schmelze (shmĕlts), n. [G. schmelz, schmelzglas.] Literally, enamel;— applied to several varieties of glass, as an imitation of chalcedony, the red glass used to flash white glass, etc.

Schna'bel·kan'ne (shnä'bĕl·kän'ĕ), n.; pl. SCHNABELKANNEN (-ĕn). [G., fr. schnabel bill, beak + kanne jug.] Gr. Archaeol. A jug with a long neck and a mouth which resembles a bill or beak. Jugs of this shape are common in early Minoan and Cypriote pottery.

schnap'per (snăp'ĕr; snäp'ĕr), n. [E. snapper a kind of fish, altered to accord with G. schnapper.] The snapper Pagrosomus auratus, of Australia and New Zealand.

schnapps (shnăps; shnäps), n. [G., a dram of spirits.] Strong Holland gin.

schnau'zer (shnou'zĕr), n. [G., prop., snarler.] A terrier of a breed originating in Germany at least 500 years ago and unchanged in conformation since the earliest recorded description. It has a long head, with small ears and heavy eyebrows, mustache, and beard, and a wiry coat of pepper and salt, black, or black and tan. There are three varieties, differing only as to size: miniature schnauzer, 12 to 13 inches high; standard schnauzer, 16¾ to 19¾ inches; giant schnauzer, 21½ to 25½ inches.

schnei'der (shnī'dĕr), n. [G.] Skat. The taking of 91 or more points (out of 120) by the player, in tournee, solo, or grand. The player is schneider if he fails to take 31 points. Cf. SCHWARZ.

Schnei'der gun (shnī'dĕr; F. shnĕ'dâr'). Any gun made by the French firm of Schneider & Co., as at Le Creusot and at Canet. Cf. CREUSOT GUN.

Schnei·de'ri·an (shnī·dē'rĭ·ăn), adj. Anat. Of or pert. to C. V. Schneider, a German anatomist of the 17th century.

Schneiderian membrane. The nonciliate mucous membrane which lines the nasal fossae; the pituitary membrane. It is the organ of smell, consisting of the olfactory cells (which see), and elongated supporting cells having an oval nucleus and produced at their base into a branching process.

‖schnell (shnĕl), adj. [G.] Music. Quick; rapid; — used as a tempo direction. — adv. Rapidly.

schnit'zel (shnĭt'sĕl), n. [G.] a A veal cutlet variously seasoned and garnished, often with lemon, sardines, and capers. b Sugar Mfg. A cossette.

schnor'rer (shnōr'ĕr), n. [Yiddish, fr. G. schnurrer, fr. schnurren to hum, whir (of imitative origin), hence, from the sound of the musical instrument used by strolling beggars, to beg.] Among the Jews, a beggar.

‖Schnur'ke·ra'mik (shnōōr'kȧ·rä'mĭk), n. [G.] A type of neolithic pottery decorated by imprints of string or cord.

schoe'nanth (skē'nănth), n. [NL. schoenanthus, fr. Gr. schoinanthos, fr. schoinos reed + anthos flower.] The fragrant grass Cymbopogon schoenanthus. See CAMEL GRASS. Obs.

schism'less, adj. See -LESS.

schis·tor'a·chis (sĭs·tôr'ȧ·kĭs). Var. of SCHISTORRHACHIS.

Schis'to·so'ma (shĭs'tō·sō'mȧ), n. [NL., fr. schistosoma + -iasis.] = BILHARZIASIS.

schis'tus (shĭs'tŭs), n. = SCHIST.

schis·. = SCHIZO-. [SCHISTOCYTE.]

schis'o·cyte (skĭz'ō·sīt), n. = schis'o·cy·to'sis (-sī·tō'sĭs), n. = SCHISTOCYTOSIS.

Schiz'o·greg'a·ri'nae (skĭz'ō·grĕg'ȧ·rī'nē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of SCHIZOGREGARINIDA.

Schiz'o·neu'ra (-nū'rȧ), n. [NL. See SCHIZO-; NEURON.] Syn. of ERIOSOMA.

Schiz'o·no'tus (skĭz'ō·nō'tŭs), n. [NL.] a Syn. of SORBARIA. b Syn. of HOLODISCUS.

schiz'o·phre'ni·ac (-frē'nĭ·ăk), n. = SCHIZOPHRENIC, n.

Schiz'o·tryp'a·num (-trĭp'ȧ·nŭm), n. [NL.] Syn. of TRYPANOSOMA.

Schlau·raf'fen·land (shlou·räf'ĕn·länt). See COCKAIGNE, 1.

‖schmier·ka'se (shmēr'kä'zĕ), n. [G.] = SMEARCASE.

schna'bel (shnä'bĕl), n. [G.] See WHITEFISH.

scho. † SHOE.

scho (dial. shō). Var. of SHE. Obs. exc. Dial.

scho'chat, scho'chet (shō'kăt, -kĕt). Var. of SHOHET.

schoche. † SCOTCH.

schoene, schoe'ni·a. Vars. of SCHENE.

N O P Q R S

schoe'no·bat'ic (skē'nō·băt'ĭk), adj. [Gr. schoinobatikos.] Pertaining to rope walking. — schoe·nob'a·tist (skē·nŏb'·ə·tĭst), n.

Schoe'nus (skē'nŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. schoinos rush, reed.] Bot. A large genus of stout rushlike sedges (family Cyperaceae), chiefly Australasian, a few occurring in Europe and in warm or tropical parts of North America. They have few-flowered spikelets in a spike or head; the flowers have a perianth of bristles, and the nutlet is without a beak.

schoe'nus (skē'nŭs), n. [L.] = SCHENE.

Scho·har'ie (skō·hăr'ĭ), n. [From Schoharie, N. Y., Mohawk place name, lit., driftwood.] Geol. A minor subdivision of the American Devonian. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

scho'la (skō'lə), n.; pl. SCHOLAE (-lē). [L.] Rom. Antiq. 1. A school.
2. A corporation or guild of members of the same profession, esp. military men; also, the place where such a body met.

‖scho'la can·to'rum (kăn·tō'rŭm). [L., school of singers.] Music. A singing school; the choir or choir school of a medieval monastery or of a cathedral.

scho·lap'ti·tude (skō·lăp'tĭ·tūd), n. [L. schola school + E. aptitude.] Special aptitude for school achievement.

scho'lar (skŏl'ẽr), n. [ME. scoler, fr. OF. escoler, escolier (F. écolier), LL. scholaris belonging to a school, fr. L. schola school; cf. AS. scolere, fr. L. See 3d SCHOOL.] 1. One who attends a school; one who studies under a teacher; one under tuition; a student; a pupil; also, formerly, one under the training of a particular master; a disciple.
2. A student who holds an academic scholarship.
3. One who by long-continued systematic study, esp. in a university, has gained a competent mastery of one or more of the highly organized academic studies; more narrowly, one who has engaged in advanced study and acquired the minutiae of knowledge in some special field, along with accuracy and skill in investigation and powers of critical analysis in interpretation of such knowledge.

Under him were many good and sound scholars bred. Lamb.
Thus the clergy for a thousand years have been the scholars of the nation. Emerson.

4. A literate person; specif., one who can read and write.
Syn. — Pupil, learner. See DISCIPLE.

scho'lar, v. i. & t. To act or teach as a scholar. Rare.

scho'larch (skŏl'ärk), n. [Gr. scholarchēs, fr. scholē school (see 3d SCHOOL) + archein to rule.] 1. The head of a school, esp. of an Athenian school of philosophy.
2. On the Continent, an inspector of schools.

scho·lar'i·an (skō·lăr'ĭ·ăn), n. 1. A scholar. Rare.
2. A member of the imperial guard; — a Latinism.

scho'lar·ism (skŏl'ẽr·ĭz'm), n. Scholarship; also scholastic, often pedantic, learning. Now Rare.

scho'lar·like' (-līk'), adj. 1. Scholastic. Obs.
2. Scholarly.

scho'lar·like', adv. Scholarly. Obs.

scho'lar·ly, adj. Like, characteristic of, or suitable to, a scholar, or learned person; exhibiting scholarship; learned; as, a scholarly essay or critique.
Syn. — SCHOLARLY, SCHOLASTIC, ACADEMIC. SCHOLARLY implies accurate and well-disciplined learning, esp. in the liberal studies; SCHOLASTIC, as here compared, connotes over subtlety or even pedantry; ACADEMIC, in the sense discriminated, implies conventionality or an undue emphasis upon the purely formal; it often suggests the point of view of the schools, esp. as opposed to the attitude of men of affairs; as, a scholarly man, a scholarly treatise; "scholastic subtleties and newfangled phrases" (Hazlitt); "His [Landor's] earliest verses . . . have a stilted, academic flavor" (Stedman); "the reign of what is pedantic, conventional, and narrowly academical in art" (W. Pater).
Ant. — Superficial; unlettered. See IGNORANT.

scho'lar·ly, adv. Like or as befits a scholar.

scho'lar·ship, n. 1. Character or qualities of a scholar; attainments in science or literature, formerly in classical literature; learning.
2. Education; instruction. Obs. Milton.
3. A foundation for the support of a scholar or student, as in a college; an allowance to an undergraduate or graduate, as of a university, to aid him in prosecuting his studies. Cf. EXHIBITION, 4; FELLOWSHIP, 7 c.
Syn. — Knowledge, erudition. See LEARNING.

scho'lar's mate (skŏl'ẽrz). Chess. Checkmate by white's moves: P–K4, B–B4, Q–R5, Q × KBP. Cf. FOOL'S MATE.

scholar's tree. = JAPANESE PAGODA TREE.

scho'lasm (skō'lăz'm), n. A pedantic or academic word, expression, etc. Rare.

scho·las'tic (skō·lăs'tĭk), adj. [L. scholasticus, fr. Gr. scholastikos, fr. scholazein to have leisure, to give lectures, to keep a school, fr. scholē leisure, a lecture, a school. See 3d SCHOOL.] 1. [often cap.] Of or pertaining to the Schoolmen and divines of the Middle Ages; as, scholastic divinity, theology; Scholastic philosophy.
2. Characterized by, or suggestive of, the logic or methods of the medieval Schoolmen; hence, characterized by excessive subtlety; pedantic; formal.
3. Academically trained; book-learned. Obs.
4. Pertaining to or suiting a scholar, a school, or schools; scholarlike; academic; as, scholastic manners or pride; often, specif., of or pertaining to secondary schools; as, scholastic competitions.
Syn. — See SCHOLARLY.

scho·las'tic, n. 1. [usually cap.] A Christian philosopher of the Middle Ages; a Schoolman.
2. One who deals with philosophical or theological problems in the spirit of Scholasticism; depreciatively, a pedant; a formalist.
3. R.C.Ch. A member of a grade in the Company of Jesus. See JESUIT, 1.
4. A scholar or student.
5. One who advocates or practices scholastic, or traditional, methods in art.
6. pl. Scholastic practices or methods; scholastic philosophy or theology; loosely, pedantry. "Dry and lifeless scholastics." Pitirim Sorokin.

scho·las'ti·cal (skō·lăs'tĭ·kăl), adj. & n. Scholastic.

scho·las'ti·cal·ly, adv. of SCHOLASTIC, SCHOLASTICAL.

scho·las'ti·cate (-kăt), n. R.C.Ch. A place where Jesuit scholastics, or students, pursue their studies.

scho·las'ti·cism (-tĭ·sĭz'm), n. 1. [usually cap.] A philosophical movement dominant in Western Christian civilization from the Carolingian period until the rise of Cartesianism; the philosophical systems and speculative tendencies of certain medieval Christian thinkers who, working on a background of fixed religious dogma, sought to keep separate the spheres of religion and philosophy, of faith and reason, and, by means of an aprioristic dialectic, to solve anew the general problems of philosophy. Its first original thinker was John Scotus Erigena (d. 875), by some classed as antischolastic; its chief exponents were Albertus Magnus, Thomas Aquinas, and Duns Scotus, in the 13th century. Though strongly influenced in its early stages by the mystical and intuitional tradition of patristic philosophy, esp. Augustinianism (which see), it took its decisive direction and rationalist tendency from the dialectic of Aristotle. The opposition between intuitionism and intellectualism resulted in a long controversy between the advocates of mysticism, Anselm, Peter Damian, Bernard, the Victorines, and others, and the supporters of reason, esp. Roscelin, Abelard, and Peter Lombard. The results were that reason secured a place in the discussion of religious questions, and dialectic in theology, and the philosophical outlook was broadened to give due acknowledgment to Aristotle and to the Jewish and Arabian philosophers. Under these influences, particularly that of Aristotle, a fresh synthesis was made by Albertus Magnus and Thomas Aquinas, and a theory of the harmonious relations of reason and revelation was developed, esp. by Aquinas. (See THOMISM.) The nominalist and realist controversy on universals did not, as was once believed, wholly absorb the energies of scholastic philosophers. Scholasticism has its own epistemology, metaphysics, natural theology, moral and social philosophy, logic, and aesthetics. Its distinctive contributions were a theory of personality, a resultant theory of the state, and a coherent political philosophy. The critical attacks on Aquinas by Duns Scotus, Ockham's nominalism, and the futilities of 15th-century controversialists brought Scholasticism into eclipse, from which, despite the brilliancy of certain Spaniards, as Suarez (1548–1617), it did not emerge. See NEO-SCHOLASTICISM.
2. Close adherence to traditional teachings or methods prescribed by schools or sects.

scho·las'tic·ly (skō·lăs'tĭk·lĭ), adv. Scholastically. Rare.

‖scho·las'ti·cus (skō·lăs'tĭ·kŭs), n. [L.] a In the Middle Ages: (1) A head of a school. (2) A learned man; a professor. b A scholastic.

scho'li·ast (skō'lĭ·ăst), n. [ML. scholiasta, fr. LGr. scholiastēs, fr. scholion scholium. See SCHOLIUM.] A maker of scholia (see SCHOLIUM, 1); commentator; annotator. — scho'li·as'tic (-ăs'tĭk), adj.

scho'li·on (skō'lĭ·ŏn), n. [NL.] A scholium.

scho'li·um (-ŭm), n.; pl. SCHOLIA (-ə), SCHOLIUMS (-ŭmz). [ML., fr. Gr. scholion, fr. scholē. See 3d SCHOOL.] 1. A marginal annotation; an explanatory remark or comment, esp. on the text of a classic by an early grammarian.
2. A remark or observation subjoined, but not essential, to a demonstration or a train of reasoning; specif., Math., any of the explanatory notes inserted by the editors in the text of Euclid's Elements.
3. A wise saying. Rare.

Schom·burgk'i·a (shŏm·bûr'kĭ·ə), n. [NL., after Sir Robert H. Schomburgk, Ger. traveler.] Bot. A genus of South American epiphytic orchids having handsome racemose flowers borne either on a scape from pseudobulbs or on a long fleshy stem. A few are cultivated, and several species have been hybridized with Laelia and Cattleya in making bigeneric hybrids.

Schom'burgk line (shŏm'bûrk; G. shŏm'bŏŏrk). The boundary between British Guiana and Venezuela determined by the survey of Sir Robert Schomburgk in 1841–44. It was protested by Venezuela, submitted to arbitration in 1896 at the insistence of Pres. Cleveland, and confirmed with minor changes by the award of 1899.

‖schön (shŭn), adj. [G.] Beautiful; lovely; also, Colloq., very well; all right. — ‖schön, interj. and adv.

Schön·brunn' (shŭn·brŏŏn'), n. The former imperial palace at Vienna. See Vienna, 1809, under TREATY, Table.

schön'fels·ite (shŭn'fĕls·ĭt), n. [From Alt*schönfels*, Saxony.] Petrog. A perknite with phenocrysts of olivine and augite in a dense groundmass of titanomagnetite, orthorhombic pyroxene, apatite, interstitial brown glass, and traces of basic plagioclase.

Schoo'dic salm'on or trout (skōō'dĭk). The landlocked salmon (Salmo sebago) of the Schoodic Lakes of Maine.

school (skōōl), n. [D. See 1st SHOAL.] 1. A large number of one kind of fish or aquatic animals swimming or feeding together; a shoal; as, a school of dolphins.
2. Hence, a numerous company or flock, as of birds or persons.

school, v. i. To swim together in shoals, or large numbers; as, the bluefish are schooling.
school up. To collect at the surface of the water; — of fishes.

school, n. [ME. scole, fr. AS. scōl (fr. L.), and fr. OF. escole (F. école), fr. L. schola, fr. Gr. scholē leisure, that in which leisure is employed, disputation, lecture, a school; akin to Gr. schēma. See SCHEME.] 1. An institution for teaching children. See ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, SECONDARY SCHOOL, HIGH SCHOOL. Hence: a The body of pupils attending a school. b A session of an institution of instruction.

How now, Sir Hugh! No school today? Shak.

c Eng. A group of classes; also, a form. d A building or room given over to instruction; a schoolhouse.
2. Any place or means of learning or discipline; as, the school of experience.
3. A place for lectures, esp., in the Middle Ages, for lectures in logic, metaphysics, and theology; also, the body of masters and students in a university or college.
4. The process of being instructed or educated in institutions for teaching the young, usually not including colleges; also, attendance at a school; as, he found school entirely distasteful; at school together; still in school; to quit school.

She was a vixen when she went to school. Shak.

5. A place for instruction in any branch or branches of knowledge; an establishment for imparting education; also, the institution or the collective body of teachers and learners in such a place; as, a dancing school; a school of fence.

Faith, he has gone unto the taming school. Shak.

6. A faculty or institution for specialized higher education, usually within a university; as, a medical or law school; a school of education.
7. [cap.] Usually pl. The Schoolmen or their doctrines. See SCHOLASTICISM, 1.
8. pl. Universities collectively; the academic world; as, the wisdom of the schools.
9. The disciples or followers of a teacher; those who hold a common doctrine, or accept the same teachings, or follow the same intellectual methods; a sect or denomination in philosophy, theology, science, medicine, politics, etc.; as, the Socratic school; the homeopathic school.
10. A group of persons or a class sharing certain principles, canons, precepts, or a body of opinion or practice; as, he was a gentleman of the old school; the naturalistic school of novelists.
11. a A riding school. b A course for training in riding. c A ride on horseback, directed across country.
12. A gang, esp. of thieves. Slang, Eng.
13. Obs. a A doctrine or method taught by a particular master or practiced after a certain model. b A portico, gallery, or the like. c A disputation or debate; as, to keep hot schools among them.
14. Gambling. A group engaged in a game. Slang.
15. Eng. Univs. a A building or hall where examinations for degrees and honors are held. b At Oxford, a course of study leading to the degree of B.A. with honors; as, the modern-history school; also, in pl., the periodical examination for the degree of B.A.
16. Fine Arts. a A group, as of painters, sculptors, or musicians, under a common local or personal influence producing a general similarity in their work; as, the Wagnerian school. b The artists or art of a country or region.

☞ PHRASES are:

Barbizon school	French school	Sienese school
Eclectic school	Italian school	Tuscan school
Flemish school	Lombard school	Umbrian school
Florentine school	plein-air school	Venetian school

17. Gr. & Rom. Antiq. A philosopher's place of teaching.
18. Mil. & Nav. The regulations, collectively, governing the drill of individuals or of a unit of a given size or kind; also, the exercises carried out in accordance with such regulations; as, the school of the soldier, company, or flotilla.
19. Music. A book of instruction in a particular system of execution; also, any such system.
20. Rom. Hist. One of the troops of the imperial guard; — a Latinism. Gibbon.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

school account	school friendship	school playground school age	school furniture	school porter school agent	school garden	school prank school airship	schoolgirl	school principal school aptitude	schoolgirlhood	school prize school argument	schoolgirlish	school publication school author	schoolgirlishly	school publisher school badge	schoolgirlishness	school question schoolbag	schoolgirlism	school quiddity
school bell	schoolgirly	school railing school bench	school globe	school ranking schoolbook	schoolgoing	school rating schoolboy	school hour	school register schoolboydom	school inspector	school roof schoolboyhood	schoolkeeper	schoolroom schoolboyish	schoolkeeping	school rule schoolboyishly	school land	school scale schoolboyishness	school language	school scissors schoolboyism	school-leaving	school seat school-bred	school library	school seating school brush	school life	school sign school building	school locker	school signal school bus	school logic	school slate school case	school-made	school strap school chalk	school-magisterial	school subtlety school chapel	schoolmaid	school superintendent school chart	school manager school child	school manner	school supervisor school chum	school map	school survey school clamp	schoolmate	school syllogism school clerk	school matter	school table school clock	school medicine	school tablet school commissioner	schoolmiss	school-taught school companion	school model	school team school crayon	school moralist	school term schooldame	school morality	school testing school desk	school name	school theology school divinity	school officer	school-trained school door	school omnibus	school trick school drilling	school opinion	school vacation school emblem	school organ	school ventilator school equipment	school pad	school vise school ethics	school paper	school wagon school exercise	school pedantry	school warden school fee	school pence	school wardrobe schoolfellow	school philosopher	schoolwork schoolfellowship	school philosophy	schoolyard school French	school phrase	school year ☞ PHRASES having school as a terminal element are:

boarding school	free school	platoon school business school	graduate school	primary school charity school	ground school	private school continuation school	high school	public school correspondence school	industrial school	reform school dame school	law school	riding school dancing school	medical school	secondary school day school	moonlight school	Sunday school district school	night school	trade school divinity school	parish school	vacation school evening school	parochial school	vocational school school (skōōl), v.; SCHOOLED (skōōld); SCHOOL'ING. Transitive: 1. To educate, or provide with education, in an institution of learning; also, to send to school.

2. To teach or train; specif.: a To teach or drill in what to do; to train in or for a part; as, to teach or accustom (a horse) to certain desired behavior, or to train (an athlete) to correct form. b To instruct, stabilize, or inure by practice, long experience, or subjection to systematic discipline; as, to school oneself in self-control.

Xanthippus . . . had been well schooled in war by the admirable training which the Spartan discipline still gave. R. B. Smith.

c To make tractable, as to God's will. d To force or tame by long subjection; as, to school one down to acquiescence. e To educate, cultivate, or make mentally skillful by formal instruction in schools; as, to school one's intellect in the universities of Europe. f Obs. To have or teach as a disciple. g Archaic. To reprove for error or fault; to set right; to chide and admonish; to dictate to. h Obs. To punish by way of teaching a lesson.

—, Intransitive: 1. To attend school; to undergo schooling or severe training; as, a schooling child or tenderfoot. Rare.
2. In riding, to hold strictly to a cross-country course.

school (skōōl), adj. 1. Pertaining to a school or schools; as, school traditions; connected with or employed in connection with schools; as, a school library, dance, or inspector.
2. Such as is taught in school; as, school French; specif., such as is taught or practiced in a school of horsemanship; trained in a school of horsemanship; as, a school gait or rider.
3. Of or pertaining to the Schoolmen as, school theology; such as the Schoolmen employed; hence, being or involving mere abstractions or quibbling; having no practical application or value; as, school language; a school name.

school'a·ble (skōōl'ə·b'l), adj. Suitable for school or schooling, as in age or teachableness.

school'age (skōōl'ĭj), n. [school + -age.] Instruction, or charge for instruction, in a school. Obs.

Schoe'no·cau'lon (skē'nō·kô'lŏn), n. [NL.] = SKOINOLON.

schof. Obs. past tense of SHAVE, SHOVE.

scho'far (shō'fär). Var. of SHOPHAR.

schoir'ling. Scot. var. of SHORLING.

scholar'd (skŏl'ẽrd). Dial. var. of SCHOLAR, 4. schol'ar·dom, n. See -DOM.

scho·lar'i·ty (skō·lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n. [OF. scholarité, or ML. scholarita.] Status as scholar. Obs.

schol'ar·less, adj. See -LESS.

schol'ar·li·ness, n. See -NESS.

scho·las'ter, n. A clergyman who teaches; also a scholastic. Obs.

schole. † SCHOOL, SHOVEL.

scho'li·a (skō'lĭ·ə), n., pl. of SCHOLIUM.

scho'li·aze (-āz), v. i. [L.Gr. scholiazein.] To write scholia. Obs.

schol'lard (skŏl'ẽrd). Dial. var. of SCHOLAR, 4.

scho'ly (skō'lĭ), n. [Cf. F. scholie, scolie.] Scholium. Obs.

scho'ly, v. i. & t. To write scholia (upon). Obs.

schone (Scot. shŭn), pl. of SHOE. Obs. exc. Scot.

school bass (băs). A small, or immature, red drum. S. Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

school board. A board in charge of local public schools; in Scotland, and formerly in England, such a body in every school district, elected by the ratepayers, and charged with maintaining accommodations in elementary schools; in the United States, such a body, sometimes elected, sometimes appointed, but organized under the authority of the State, and having jurisdiction over all educational matters connected with the local public schools.

school'book'ish (skōōl'bŏŏk'ĭsh), adj. Characteristic of schoolbooks; hence, cut and dried; dogmatic.

school committee. A body of citizens, usually elected, in charge of local public schools. U. S.

school'craft' (skōōl'krăft'; 83), n. Learning. Archaic.

school day. 1. A day on which school is in session.
2. pl. The years or period of attendance at school, esp. as considered in reminiscence.

school district. In certain States, esp. in the central West, a local corporation for deciding all matters concerning schools, distinct from the civil township. U. S. school divine. = SCHOOLMAN, 1.

school doctor. 1. A Schoolman. Obs.
2. A physician employed to make periodical examinations of the children of a school or the schools of a community.

schooled (skōōld), adj. Drilled or disciplined to proficiency; as, a schooled runner or mind.

school'er-y (skōōl'ĕr-ĭ), n. Accomplishments taught in a school. Rare.

School for Scandal, The. A comedy (1777) by Richard Brinsley Sheridan. See TEAZLE, LADY.

school'house' (skōōl'hous'), n. 1. A building used as a school, usually an elementary school.
2. Gt. Brit. a A dwelling house appropriated to the use of the master of a school. b In certain public schools, the headmaster's house or the central boardinghouse; also, the boys belonging to this house.

school'ing, n. 1. Instruction in school; education in an institution of learning; the discipline gained from experiences during school life; also, the act or means of teaching.
2. Chastisement for correction; reproof; reprimand; as, he gave his son a severe schooling. Archaic.
3. Tuition, or tuition and maintenance, in a school; cost of instruction and maintenance; as, to pay a boy's schooling.
4. The teaching and training of horses and riders, esp. in a school of horsemanship.

school'ing-ly, adv. So as to serve as a reprimand. Rare.

school'ish, adj. Characteristic of schools; bound more or less to scholastic traditions; academic.

school'ma'am' (skōōl'măm'; -mäm'), school'marm' (-märm'; -mäm'), n. A schoolmistress. U. S.

school'man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). 1. One versed in the niceties of academical disputation or of school divinity; esp. [usually cap.], a philosopher or divine of the schools of the Middle Ages; a Scholastic.
2. (pron. -măn'). A teacher or an administrative officer of a school.
3. A student or teacher versed in classical learning.

school'mas'ter (-mȧs'tĕr; 83), n. 1. A man who presides over and teaches a school; one of the masters or preceptors of a school; also, Obs., a private tutor.
2. One who, or that which, disciplines and directs.
3. A snapper (Lutianus apodus) of the West Indies and southern United States; — said to be so called from its skill in avoiding capture.

Schoolmaster.

school'mas'ter, n. The leader of a school of fishes or whales.

school'mas'ter, v. t. To instruct or govern in the manner of a schoolmaster, often specifically by intimidation; to force into a dull regularity or consistency; as, to schoolmaster the language. — v. i. To teach or act in the capacity of schoolmaster, esp. as a livelihood. — school'mas'ter-ing, n.

school'mas'ter-ing, adj. Acting like, or befitting, a schoolmaster.

school'mas'ter-ism (-ĭz'm), n. Schoolmastery.

school'mas'ter-ly, adj. Like, or characteristic of, a schoolmaster.

school'mas'ter-y, n. The work or practice of a schoolmaster; specif., insistence upon obedience to authority, even in petty details.

school'mas'ter-y, adj. Schoolmasterly.

school'mis'tress (skōōl'mĭs'trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. A woman who governs or teaches a school; a female teacher in a school.

school'mis'tress-y (-ĭ), adj. Like, or characteristic of, a schoolmistress.

school of the prophets. Anc. Jewish Hist. An association of prophets; — called also sons of the prophets.

school of the Stoics. See the Porch, under PORCH.

school schnapper. = SCHOOL SNAPPER. See SNAPPER, 5 c. school section. A section of public land set apart for the maintenance of public schools. U. S. school shark. A shark (Galeorhinus, syn. Galeus, australis) of Australia and New Zealand.

school ship. A vessel used as a nautical training school for apprentices to be educated at the expense of the state.

School Sis'ters of No'tre Dame' (nō'trĕ dȧm'). R.C.Ch. A religious order founded in France by St. Peter Fourier, 1597. In the United States, in addition to schools and colleges, they conduct orphanages and institutes for deaf-mutes and for Indians.

school snapper. See SNAPPER.

school'teach'er (skōōl'tēch'ĕr), n. A person who teaches in a school. — school'teach'ing, n.

school'teach'er-ish, adj. See -ISH.

school'teach'er-ly, adj. Like, or characteristic of, a schoolteacher; sometimes, specif., formal and reserved; precise or prim.

school'teach'er-y, adj. Schoolteacherly.

school'time' (skōōl'tīm'), n. 1. The time for beginning a session of school; the time during which school is held.
2. That period of life spent in school or in study.
3. A period of training; as, this life is our schooltime.

school wage. Tuition fee. Now Dial.

school'ward (skōōl'wĕrd), adj. Directed or extending toward school.

school'ward (-wĕrd), -wards (-wĕrdz), adv. Toward school.

schoon (skōōn), v. i. To skim along on the water. Dial.

schoon'er (skōōn'ĕr; 200), n. [From SCOON to skim, slip. See the note below.] 1. Naut. A fore-and-aft-rigged vessel, orig., and still typically, having two masts, with the smaller sail on the foremast and the mainmast stepped nearly amidships. Sometimes, though very rarely in America, it carries square topsails on one or both masts or even a fore-course. When carrying a square fore-topsail and topgallant sail it is called a topsail schooner. The characteristic feature of the rig, however, is its fore-and-aft sails, allowing the vessel to sail close to the wind. About 1840, longer vessels with three masts, fore-and-aft-rigged, came into use, and since that time vessels with four and even seven masts so rigged have been built. Schooners with more than two masts are designated three-masted, four-masted, etc., or, rarely and not in the United States, terns, quarts, quints, etc. See Illust.

Topsail Coasting Schooner.

☞ The first schooner is said to have been built in Gloucester, Massachusetts, about 1713, by a Captain Andrew Robinson. When the vessel was launched, a bystander cried out, "O, how she scoons!" Robinson replied, "A scooner let her be"; whence the name (see SCOON, to skip or skim). In the New England records the word appears to have been originally written scooner.

Six-masted Schooner.

2. Short for PRAIRIE SCHOONER. U. S.

schoon'er (skōōn'ĕr), n. a U. S. A large tall drinking glass for beer or ale. b Brit. A measure for beer, ale, etc.

schooner rig. A fore-and-aft rig. See FORE-AND-AFT, adj., 2. — schoon'er-rigged' (-rĭgd'), adj.

Schoop process (shōōp). [After M. U. Schoop, the inventor.] A process in which objects or surfaces are coated with zinc or other metal by spraying them with the molten metal shot from a nozzle by compressed air.

Scho'pen-hau'er-i-an (shō'pĕn-hou'ĕr-ĭ-ăn), adj. Pertaining to or like Schopenhauer or his doctrines.

Scho'pen-hau'er-ism (shō'pĕn-hou'ĕr-ĭz'm), n. The philosophy of the German pessimistic philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer (1788–1860), who taught that the essential or absolute reality is a blind and restless will manifesting itself as a will to live, and that life is an evil to be cured only by overcoming the will to live.

schop'pen (shŏp'ĕn), n. [G.] An old and varying German liquid measure, equal to about a pint (legal, from 1868 to 1884, at half a liter); also, a glass or mug of such capacity.

scho'ren-berg'ite (shō'rĕn-bûrg'ĭt), n. Petrog. A tinguaite-porphyry characterized by an abundance of noselite and leucite phenocrysts in a groundmass of leucite, nephelite-aegirite, and some glass.

schorl (shôrl), n. Also shorl. [G. schörl; cf. Sw. skörl.] Mineral. Tourmaline, esp. the common black variety; — formerly applied to several dark-colored minerals.

schor'la'ceous (shôr'lā'shŭs), adj. Of the nature of, or resembling, schorl.

schorl'-gran'ite, n. Petrog. Tourmaline-granite.

schor'lo-mite (shôr'lō-mīt), n. [schorl + Gr. homos same.] Mineral. An iron calcium titanate and silicate allied to garnet, occurring usually in black masses with vitreous luster. H., 7–7.5. Sp. gr. 3.81–3.88.

schorl'ous (shôr'lŭs), adj. Schorlaceous.

schorl'y (shôr'lĭ), adj. Pertaining to, or containing, schorl or tourmaline; as, schorly granite.

Schot'ten–Bau'mann re-ac'tion (shŏt'ĕn-bou'măn). Chem. A reaction in which an alcohol, phenol, or amine is treated with an acid chloride (typically, benzoyl chloride) in the presence of alkali, as sodium hydroxide. The product is an ester or substituted amide.

schot'tische, schot'tish (shŏt'ĭsh; shŏ-tēsh'; 277), n. [G. schottisch Scottish, Scotch; cf. F. schottish, schotisch.] A 19th-century round dance in 2–4 time, with hopping and gliding steps, similar to the polka, but slower; also, the music for such a dance; — not to be confounded with the écossaise.

schot'tische, schot'tish, v. i. To execute a schottische.

schout (skout), n. [D.] Among the Dutch, a bailiff or sheriff; in the former Dutch colonies of America, one vested with local judicial functions.

Schra'der's brome grass (shrā'dĕrz). Rescue grass.

Schre'be-ra (shrā'bĕr-ȧ; shrē-bē'rȧ), n. [NL., after J. C. D. Schreber (1739–1810), Ger. botanist.] Bot. A small genus of South African shrubs or trees (family Celastraceae), little known except for the rarely cultivated S. capensis, an evergreen shrub with yellow flowers. Syn. Hartogia.

‖Schreck'lich-keit (shrĕk'lĭk-kīt), n. [G.] Frightfulness; atrociousness. See FRIGHTFULNESS, 2.

Schrei'ner fin'ish (shrī'nĕr). Textiles. A finish imparted to mercerized fabrics by passing under a hot roller covered with a network of fine lines which break up the surface of the material into minute reflecting surfaces.

schrei'ner-ize (shrī'nĕr-īz), schrei'ner (shrī'nĕr), v. t. To calender or mercerize (cotton) by pressing it, when wet, between heavy hot rollers, one of which is smooth and the other engraved with fine lines.

schries'heim-ite (shrēs'hĭm-īt), n. [From Schriesheim, Odenwald, Germany.] Petrog. An amphibole-peridotite with poikilitic texture.

‖schrik (skrĭk), n. [D.] A sudden fright; panic. S. Africa.

Schrö'ding-er at'om (shrā'dĭng-ĕr). Physics & Chem. The atom as conceived by Schrödinger. See ATOMIC THEORY.

schuit, schuyt (skoit), n. [D. schuit.] 1. A Dutch vessel with bluff bows and usually rounded stern, fitted with leeboards, used chiefly on canals and for coasting. Formerly sometimes square-rigged, it is now almost always a sloop.
2. = SHOE, 3 e.

schul'ten-ite (shŭl'tĕn-īt), n. [After Baron A. B. de Schulten.] Mineral. A lead hydrogen arsenate, $PbHAsO_4$, occurring in colorless tabular orthorhombic crystals.

Schul'tze pow'der (shōōl'tsĕ). [After Edward Schultze, the inventor.] A smokeless powder (the first successful one) consisting essentially of nitrated pellets of wood impregnated with barium and potassium nitrates.

Schu'mann re'gion (shōō'măn). [After Victor Schumann (1841–1913), Ger. physicist.] Optics. That portion of the ultraviolet spectrum lying approximately between .1850μ and .1200μ.

schun'gite (shŏŏn'gĭt), n. [G. schungit, from Shunga, in the Leningrad area, Soviet Russia.] Mineral. An amorphous form of carbon in certain schists.

‖Schüt'tel-form' (shüt'ĕl-fôrm'), n. [G.] A spoonerism.

‖Schütz'en-fest' (shüt'sĕn-fĕst'), n. [G.] Shooting match; entertainment or picnic where marksmanship is practiced.

schwa (shvȧ), n. [G. fr. Heb. shĕwa.] a A faint, indistinct vowel sound, like that of e in the second syllable of quiet, indicated in Hebrew by two perpendicular dots (:), and in transliteration by ĕ, or by a dot or small e above the line. b In Indo-European linguistics and in phonetics, an unaccented, neutral vowel, represented by the phonetic symbol ə (inverted e) (English America; German getan, habe).

schwa'bach-er (shvȧ'băk-ĕr), n. [G.] Print. A style of German type which resembles the earliest Gothic types.

☞ This line is set in 8 pt. Schwabacher.

‖Schwäch'ung (shvĕk'ŏŏng), n. [G.] Philol. Weakening.

Schwal'be-a (shwäl'bē-ȧ; shväl'-), n. [NL., after C. G. Schwalbe, a Dutch writer on India.] Bot. A genus of perennial herbs of the figwort family (Scrophulariaceae), having as the only known species S. americana, the chaff-seed, a leafy plant with showy, sparse spikes of irregular, yellowish-purple flowers.

Schwann's cell (shvänz). [After T. Schwann (1810–82), Ger. physiologist.] Anat. Any of the cells of the neurilemma.

Schwann's sheath. = NEURILEMMA a.

schwarz (shvärts), n. [G.] Skat. The taking of every trick by the player, in tournee, solo, or grand. To be schwarz is to fail to take a trick. Cf. SCHNEIDER.

Schwarz'i-an (shvärt'sĭ-ăn), adj. Math. Pertaining to, or named from, Hermann Amandus Schwarz (b. 1845), German mathematician.

Schwarzian derivative. Math. A nonlinear differential expression of the third order, derived by the elimination of the ratios of the four arbitrary constants appearing in the quotient of any two linearly independent integrals of a linear differential equation of the second order. Its form is $\frac{s'''}{s'} - \frac{3}{2}\left(\frac{s''}{s'}\right)^2$, denoted by $\left\{s, x\right\}$, where the accents indicate derivation as to x; — so named by Cayley.

Schwe'dler's ma'ple (shvā'dlĕrz). A commonly cultivated variety (Acer platanoides schwedleri) of the Norway maple, with the early spring foliage bronzy red, later becoming green.

‖Schwe'gel (shvā'gĕl), n. [G.] Music. a Any wind instrument; specif., a pipe. b A flue organ pipe.

schwei'zer-kä'se (shvīt'sĕr-kā'zĕ), schwei'zer, n. [G. schweizerkäse.] Literally, Swiss cheese; — applied in the United States to both Gruyère and Emmentaler.

Schwei'zer's, or Schweit'zer's, re-a'gent (shvīt'sĕrz). [After Eduard Schweizer, the discoverer.] Chem. A deep-blue solution of cupric oxide or hydroxide in ammonia, much used as a solvent for cellulose.

Schwen'de-ne'ri-an (shvĕn'dĕ-nē'rĭ-ăn), adj. Pertaining to S. Schwendener (b. 1829), German botanist.

Schwenk-fel'di-an, Schwenck-fel'di-an (shvĕngk-fĕl'dĭ-ăn), n. A follower of Kaspar Schwenckfeld, or Schwenkfeld (1490–1561), a Silesian nobleman who, during the Reformation, advanced a mystical interpretation of Christianity. Some of his followers emigrated to Pennsylvania in 1734, where they still survive.

Sci'a-dop'i-tys (sī'ȧ-dŏp'ĭ-tĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skias, -ados, shade + pitys pine tree.] Bot. A genus of Japanese evergreen trees having as the only known species S. verticillata, the umbrella pine.

Sci'a-en'i-dae (sī-ĕn'ĭ-dē; sī-ē'nĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. sciaena a kind of fish (fr. Gr. skiaina) + -idae.] Zool. A large, important, and widely distributed family of carnivorous spiny-finned fishes (Percomorphi) comprising the maigre, roncadors, kingfishes, drumfishes, etc. Nearly all are marine, and live along the sandy shores of warm temperate seas. In most the air bladder is large and complicated, and with it the fish produces a peculiar sound (see 1st CROAKER, 2). Many are large and valued as food. The type genus is Sci-ae'na (sī-ē'nȧ), — sci-ae'nid (-ē'nĭd), n. — sci-aen'i-form (-ĕn'ĭ-fôrm; -ē'nĭ-fôrm), adj. — sci-ae'noid (-ē'noid), adj. & n.

Sci-aen'i-for'mes (sī-ĕn'ĭ-fôr'mēz), n. pl. [NL. See SCIAENIDAE.] Zool. A superfamily coextensive with the Sciaenidae.

sci'a-lyt'ic (sī'ȧ-lĭt'ĭk), adj. [Gr. skia shadow + -lytic.] Dispersing or dispelling shadows.

sci-am'a-chy (sī-ăm'ȧ-kĭ), n. [Gr. skiamachia, skiomachia, fr. skia a shadow + machē battle.] A fighting with a shadow; a mock contest; futile combat, as with an imaginary foe.

sci'a-pod (sī'ȧ-pŏd), n. A skiapod.

sci-ap'o-dous (sī-ăp'ō-dŭs), adj. [Gr. Skiapodes (from skia shade + pous, podos, foot), a fabulous people with large feet which they used as sunshades.] Having very large feet.

Sci'a-ra (sī'ȧ-rȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skiaros dark-colored.] Zool. a A genus of fungus gnats, typifying the subfamily Sci'a-ri'nae (-rĭ'nē), family Mycetophilidae, regarded by some as a family, Sci-ar'i-dae (sī-ăr'ĭ-dē). They are minute, usually blackish, flies. Some species are destructive, and the highly gregarious larvae of others are known as sciara army worms. See ARMY WORM a. b [not cap.] An insect of this genus. — sci·ar'id (sī·ăr'ĭd), n. & adj.

sci'a·ther'ic (sī'ə·thĕr'ĭk), adj. Also sci'a·ther'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl). Astron. Of or pertaining to a sundial; as, a sciatheric telescope, for estimating time by the shadow of the sun or moon. Rare. — sci'a·ther'i·cal·ly, adv.

sci·at'ic (sī·ăt'ĭk), adj. [F. sciatique, fr. ML. sciaticus, fr. L. ischiadicus, fr. Gr. ischiadikos, fr. ischion hip-joint, ischium. Cf. ISCHIADIC, ISCHIUM.] 1. Of or pert. to the hip; in the region of, or affecting, the hip; ischial. 2. Of, pertaining to, or caused by, sciatica; afflicted with sciatica; as, sciatic pains; a sciatic patient.

sci·at'ic (sī·ăt'ĭk), n. [Cf. F. sciatique.] a Short for sciatic nerve, etc. b pl. Sciatica.

sci·at'i·ca (sī·ăt'ĭ·kə), n. [NL.] Med. Neuritis or simple neuralgia of the sciatic nerve, an affection characterized by paroxysmal attacks of pain along the course of the branches of the sciatic nerve. Popularly, also, any of various painful affections of the hip and adjoining parts.

sci·at'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Sciatic.

sci·at'i·cal·ly, adv. of SCIATIC, SCIATICAL.

sciatic artery. Anat. The gluteal artery arising in the ischial region. See GLUTEAL ARTERY.

sciatic foramen. Anat. One of two foramina on either side leading from the pelvis to the gluteal and peroneal regions. The greater sciatic foramen transmits the sciatic nerve, superior and inferior gluteal, pudendal, and other nerves, and associated vessels, and the pyriformis muscle. The lesser sciatic foramen transmits the tendon of the obturator internus muscle and the pudendal vessels and nerve. See SACROSPINOUS, SACROTUBEROUS.

sci·at'ick·y (sī·ăt'ĭ·kĭ), adj. Affected with sciatica. Chiefly Dial.

sciatic nerve. Anat. a The largest nerve in the body, arising from the sacral plexus on either side, passing out of the pelvis through the greater sciatic foramen, and thence down the back of the thigh to its lower third where it divides into the tibial and peroneal nerves. b Formerly, the posterior femoral cutaneous nerve.

sciatic notch. Anat. One of two notches on the dorsal border of the innominate bone. The greater is above, the lesser below, the spine of the ischium on either side of the body.

sciatic passion. = SCIATICA. Obs.

sciatic veins. The veins accompanying the sciatic arteries; the gluteal veins.

scib'i·le (sĭb'ĭ·lē), n. [LL. scibilis knowable.] Philos. An object of knowledge.

sci'ence (sī'ĕns), n. [OF., fr. L. scientia, fr. sciens, -entis, pres. part. of scire to know; orig., to distinguish, separate, and akin to L. scindere to cleave. See SHED, v.; cf. CONSCIENCE, CONSCIOUS, NICE.] 1. a Archaic. Possession of knowledge, as contrasted with ignorance or misunderstanding; as, science in nature's mysteries. b Knowledge possessed as a result of study or practice; also, Obs., a particular kind of knowledge.

> Those seeds of science called his A B C. Cowper.

2. Any branch or department of systematized knowledge considered as a distinct field of investigation or object of study; as, biology is a science; the science of astronomy or of mind. Cf. ART.

> Every science, as we read in Aristotle, assumes its subject matter, and does not give an account of it. B. Bosanquet.

3. a Obs. A trade or vocation. b Art or skill; — chiefly humorous or sporting; as, the science of boxing.

4. A branch of study which is concerned with observation and classification of facts, esp. with the establishment (and, strictly, the quantitative formulation) of verifiable general laws, chiefly by induction and hypotheses; as, the biological, historical, and mathematical sciences.

5. Specif., accumulated and accepted knowledge which has been systematized and formulated with reference to the discovery of general truths or the operation of general laws; knowledge classified and made available in work, life, or the search for truth; comprehensive, profound, or philosophical knowledge.

> All this new science that men lere [teach]. Chaucer.
>
> Science is . . . a complement of cognitions, having, in point of form, the character of logical perfection, and in point of matter, the character of real truth. Sir W. Hamilton.
>
> Science may be described as a classified index to the successive pages of sense impression, which enables us readily to find what we want, but it in no wise accounts for the peculiar contents of that strange book of life. Karl Pearson.
>
> Science is taking on a new aspect which is neither purely physical nor purely biological. It is becoming the study of organisms. A. N. Whitehead.

6. Esp., such knowledge when it relates to the physical world and its phenomena; — called also natural science.

7. A system based, or purporting to be based, upon scientific principles; a method of arrangement, functioning, etc., reconciling practical or utilitarian ends with scientific laws; as, husbandry is a science; domestic science.

8. Formerly, at Oxford University, a group of studies mainly in the works of ancient and modern philosophers.

Syn. — SCIENCE, ART are discriminated as in the quotations below. See KNOWLEDGE.

> A science teaches us to know, and an art to do, and all the more perfect sciences lead to the creation of corresponding useful arts. Astronomy is the foundation of the art of navigation; . . . chemistry is the basis of many useful arts. Jevons.
>
> Rhetoric, here called an art, is sometimes defined as a science. Both designations are true. . . . Science is systematized knowledge; if then the laws and principles of discourse are exhibited in an ordered and interrelated system, they appear in the character of a science. Art is knowledge made efficient by skill; if then rhetorical laws and principles are applied in the actual construction of discourse, they become the working rules of an art. J. F. Genung.

sci'enced (sī'ĕnst), adj. a Obs. Learned. b Versed; instructed.

sci'ent (sī'ĕnt), adj. [L. sciens, -entis, pres. part.] Knowing; skillful. Now Rare.

sci'ent, n. A man of science; a scientist. Rare.

‖sci·en'ter (sī·ĕn'tĕr), adv. [L.] Law. Knowingly; willfully. — n. Law. a Such knowledge as charges a man with the consequences of his acts (cf. MISTAKE, n., 2). b In a pleading, the allegation of such knowledge on the part of the accused or defendant as is necessary to constitute his act a crime or tort.

‖sci·en'ti·a (sī·ĕn'shĭ·ə), n. [L.] Knowledge; science.

sci·en'tial (sī·ĕn'shăl), adj. [ML. scientialis.] 1. Pertaining to, or producing, knowledge, or science.

2. Having efficient knowledge; capable.

sci·en'ti·a sci·en'ti·a'rum (sī·ĕn'shĭ·ə sī·ĕn'shĭ·ə'rŭm). [L.] The science of sciences, that is, philosophy or metaphysics.

sci'en·ti'cian (sī'ĕn·tĭsh'ăn), n. A scientist. Rare.

sci'en·tif'ic (sī'ĕn·tĭf'ĭk), adj. [LL. scientificus. See SCIENTIFIC; -FIC.] 1. Yielding knowledge deductively.

2. Concerned with, or treating of, science or sciences, orig. liberal studies; devoted to the study or practice of science; as, a scientific treatise or course; scientific training; scientific in his interests.

3. Of, pertaining to, or used in, science, esp. natural science, or a branch of science; as, scientific apparatus, language, procedure; a scientific formula or laboratory.

4. Agreeing with, or conducted or prepared strictly according to, the principles and practice of or for the furtherance of exact science, esp. as designed to establish incontestably sound conclusions and generalizations by absolute accuracy and perfect disinterestedness of investigation; skilled in the methods of exact science; characteristic of a true scientist; as, scientific research; a scientific experiment, classification, expedition, or analyst; the scientific spirit or attitude; scientific precision.

5. Conducted or systematized after the manner of science or according to results of investigation by science; practicing thoroughness or systematic methods approximating those of scientists or devised by scientists; applying expert knowledge or technical skill, as in sports, warfare, management; as, scientific advertising, anarchism, or housekeeping; a scientific boxer, game of football, or prison program.

6. Having or seeking precise knowledge or information. Rare. Ruskin.

sci'en·tif'ic, n. Colloq. 1. A scientist.

2. pl. Scientific matters or talk about them.

sci'en·tif'i·cal (sī'ĕn·tĭf'ĭ·kăl), adj. 1. = SCIENTIFIC, adj., in various senses.

2. Designed for propagating knowledge. Obs.

sci'en·tif'i·cal·ly, adv. In a scientific manner; according to the rules or principles of science; as, a scholar scientifically trained in methods of accurate analysis.

sci'en·tif'i·cal·ness, n. Scientific quality or nature.

scientific management. Industrial Engin. A system of shop management proposed and instituted by Frederick W. Taylor in 1903; — called also efficiency engineering. It consists essentially of: (1) a functional organization of shop officials; (2) a planning department, which determines how and when work is to be done, routes the work through the shop, determines (by time and motion study) the time required to perform the elementary operations involved in the completion of a job, classifies and charts these operations so that from the data accumulated the probable time to do any job may be determined by synthesis, and issues an instruction card, which accompanies the job, for the purpose of telling the workman the speed, feed, depth of cut, special tools, and fixtures; (3) a production department, under the direction of functional foremen and their assistants, which executes in the shops the orders of the planning department; and (4) a bonus, premium, or piecework system of paying the workmen.

scientific notation. Math. A method of expressing a number by giving only the significant figures, within certain limits of accuracy, and indicating multiplication by the proper power of 10. Usually, the decimal point is put after the first digit from the left. A number so expressed is called a condensed number; as, in scientific notation, the charge on an electron, in electromagnetic units, is the condensed number $1.591\ (10)^{-20}$.

sci'en·tif'i·co- (sī'ĕn·tĭf'ĭ·kō-). A combining form for scientific, denoting scientific and, as in sci'en·tif'i·co-ge'o·graph'i·cal, sci'en·tif'i·co-his·tor'i·cal, sci'en·tif'i·co-phil'o·soph'i·cal, sci'en·tif'i·co-po·et'ic, sci'en·tif'i·co-re·li'gious, sci'en·tif'i·co-ro·man'tic.

scientific skepticism. An impartial attitude of the mind previous to investigation.

scientific socialism. Marxian socialism. See SOCIALISM, 1.

scientific stone. A ruby or sapphire artificially made of corundum.

sci'en·tin'ti·cal·ly (sī'ĕn·tĭn'tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv. [See SCIENTIFICALLY; TINT.] With scientific accuracy as to color. Sterne.

sci'en·tism (sī'ĕn·tĭz'm), n. The methods, mental attitude, doctrines, etc., characteristic of scientists.

sci'en·tist (-tĭst), n. 1. One learned in science, esp. natural science; a scientific investigator.

2. [cap.] Christian Science. A Christian Scientist.

sci'en·tis'tic (sī'ĕn·tĭs'tĭk), adj. Devoted or pretending to the methods of scientists; professedly scientific.

sci'en·tis'ti·cal·ly, adv. of SCIENTISTIC.

sci'en·tize (sī'ĕn·tīz), v. t. [L. scientia science + -ize.] To apply scientific methods and principles to; to systematize; as, to scientize business. — v. i. To reason or form inferences according to methods of science. Rare.

sci·en'to·lism (sī·ĕn'tō·lĭz'm), n. [A dim., fr. L. sciens, pres. part. of scire to know + -ism.] False or superficial science.

sci'i·cet (sĭ'ĭ·sĕt), adv. [L., fr. scire to know + licet it is permitted.] To wit; namely; videlicet; also, (to be) understood or supplied; — preceding the word that is to be supplied. Abbr. scil. or sc. — n. An instance of the use of scilicet, or a clause introduced by it.

Scil'la (sĭl'ə), n. [L., the squill. See SQUILL.] 1. Bot. a A large genus of Old World bulbous herbs (family Liliaceae), the squills. They have narrow basal leaves, pink, blue, or white racemose flowers borne on a naked scape, and a globose three-lobed capsule. Commonly cultivated species are the Siberian squill (S. sibirica), the Cuban lily (S. peruviana), the Spanish jacinth (S. hispanica), the sea onion (S. verna), and the wood hyacinth (S. nonscripta). b [not cap.] A plant, bulb, or flower of this genus.

2. [not cap.] Pharm. The sliced bulb of squill.

scil'la·in (sĭl'ə·ĭn), n. [See SCILLA.] Chem. A poisonous, resinous glucoside from squill.

scil'li·pic'rin (sĭl'ĭ·pĭk'rĭn; -pī'krĭn), scil'li·pik'rin, n. [See SCILLA; PICRIC.] A bitter principle extracted from squill and used as a diuretic.

Scil'li·tan (sĭl'ĭ·tăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the ancient town of Scillium, in Roman Africa.

Scillitan martyrs. Twelve Christians, seven men and five women, martyred in Carthage, July 17, A.D. 180. Their martyrdom is the earliest on record for the Roman province of Africa.

scil'li·tin (sĭl'ĭ·tĭn), n. Also -tine (-tĭn; -tēn). [F. scillitine.] A brownish-black bitter substance extracted from squill and used as a diuretic.

scil'li·tox'in (sĭl'ĭ·tŏk'sĭn), n. [See SCILLA; TOXIN.] Chem. A poisonous glucoside obtained from squill. It is probably identical with scillain.

Scil·lo'ni·an (sĭ·lō'nĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of or pertaining to the Scilly Isles or their inhabitants. — n. A native or inhabitant of the Scilly Isles.

scim'i·tar, scim'i·ter (sĭm'ĭ·tĕr), n. [F. cimeterre, or It. scimitarra, prob. fr. Per. shimshīr.] 1. A saber having a curved blade with the edge on the convex side, used chiefly by Mohammedans, esp. Arabs and Persians.

Scimitar.

2. A long-handled billhook.

scim'i·tared, scim'i·tered (sĭm'ĭ·tĕrd), adj. Armed with, or shaped like, a scimitar.

scim'i·tar·pod', scim'i·ter·pod' (sĭm'ĭ·tĕr·pŏd'), n. The snuffbox bean; also, its pod.

Scin'ci·dae (sĭn'sĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See SCINCOID.] Zool. A family of lizards comprising the skinks. The type genus is Scin'cus (sĭng'kŭs). — scin'cid (sĭn'sĭd), scin'ci·doid (-sĭ·doid), n. — scin'ci·form (-sĭ·fôrm), adj.

scin'coid (sĭng'koid), adj. Also scin·coi'di·an (sĭng·koi'dĭ·ăn). [L. scincus + -oid. See SKINK, n.] Like or pertaining to the skinks. — scin'coid, scin·coi'di·an, n.

Scin'co·mor'pha (sĭng'kō·môr'fə), n. pl. [NL., fr. Scincus + -morpha.] Zool. A section of the saurian division Autarchoglossa comprising the Scincidae and certain allied families. The clavicles, when present, are dilated, the tongue scaly or obliquely plicate, the teeth often perforate, rarely conical or recurved, and the hemipenes usually laminate.

scind (sĭnd), v. t. [L. scindere; cf. F. scinder.] To cut off; to cleave off or apart. Rare.

scind. Var. of SIND, to rinse.

scin'iph (sĭn'ĭf), n. [LL. scinifes, cinifes, or ciniphes, pl., fr. Gr. sknips.] A stinging or biting insect. Ex. viii. 17 (Douay Ver.).

scin·til'la (sĭn·tĭl'ə), n. [L. See SCINTILLATE.] A spark or barely perceptible manifestation; the slightest particle or trace; as, there is not a scintilla of evidence.

scin·til'la ju'ris (sĭn·tĭl'ə jōō'rĭs). [L.] Law. Literally, a spark of right; — short for scin·til'la ju'ris et sai'si·nae (sā'zĭ·nē), a doctrine of the law of uses, postulating a bare spark of right and seisin to support contingent uses so that they may be executed by the Statute of Uses when the contingencies happen.

scin'til·lant (sĭn'tĭ·lănt), adj. [L. scintillans, pres. part. of scintillare to sparkle. See SCINTILLATE.] Emitting sparks, or fine igneous particles; scintillating. — scin'til·lant·ly, adv.

‖scin'til·lan'te (shĕn'tĕl·län'tā), adj. [It.] Music. Sparkling; — used as a direction.

scin'til·late (sĭn'tĭ·lāt), v.; -LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). [L. scintillare, -latum, fr. scintilla a spark; possibly akin to E. SHINE; cf. STENCIL.] Intransitive: 1. To emit sparks; to spark.

2. To gleam or emit quick flashes as if throwing off sparks; as, eyes that scintillate with fury; wit or genius that scintillates; also, to sparkle or twinkle, as the fixed stars. —, Transitive: To throw off as a spark or sparks or as sparklike flashes; as, to scintillate brilliance or witticisms.

Syn. — Gleam, glitter, flash. — SCINTILLATE, CORUSCATE. To SCINTILLATE is properly to emit sparks, to CORUSCATE is to emit flashes; as, "The light being tremulous and twinkling, as well as brisk, they seemed to emulate so many little stars . . . and continued this scintillation longer than one would have expected" (Boyle); "coruscations of the . . . aurora" (Cowper). Both words are used figuratively; as, "scintillations of . . . genius" (V. Knox); "coruscating wit" (Carlyle). Cf. FLASH, FLAME.

scin'til·lat'ing (sĭn'tĭ·lāt'ĭng), adj. That scintillates; sparkling. — scin'til·lat'ing·ly, adv.

scin'til·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [L. scintillatio.] 1. Act of scintillating.

2. A spark or flash emitted in scintillating, as from iron exposed to the oxyhydrogen flame; figuratively, a scintillating or brilliant outburst, as of thought or genius.

3. A scintilla; — a misuse.

4. Astron. The twinkling of stars or of the planet Mercury. See TWINKLING, 2.

scin'til·la'tor (sĭn'tĭ·lā'tĕr), n. 1. That which scintillates; as: a A scintillating star. b A device for sending out scintillations of light.

2. One who scintillates, as a brilliant conversationalist.

scin'til·les'cent (sĭn'tĭ·lĕs'ĕnt; -ănt), adj. [L. scintilla spark + E. -escent.] Scintillating or twinkling somewhat faintly.

scin'til·lom'e·ter (-lŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [L. scintilla spark + E. -meter.] Astron. An attachment to a telescope by which the image of a star is made to revolve in a circle to measure the scintillation. This produces changes of color increasing in rapidity with the intensity of scintillation.

scin·til'lo·scope (sĭn·tĭl'ō·skōp), n. [L. scintilla spark + E. -scope.] A small instrument similar to the spinthariscope, for exhibiting the scintillations produced by radioactive substances upon a sensitive screen.

scin'til·lose (sĭn'tĭ·lōs), scin'til·lous (-lŭs), adj. Scintillant. — scin'til·lous·ly, adv. All Rare.

scin'tle (sĭn'tĕ'l), v. t.; SCIN'TLED (-t'ld); SCIN'TLING (-tlĭng). [Dial. also skintle, skinkle; cf. dial. skinkle to spill in small quantities, to sow thin.] Brickmaking. a To stack (molded brick) with spaces between to allow ventilation for drying. b To set (brick) in a wall so as to produce a rough quality; skintle. — n. A course of scintled brick. — scin'tler (-tlĕr), n.

scin'tling, pres. part. & verbal n. of SCINTLE. Hence: n. Act or process of stacking molded brick with spaces for ventilation. Cf. CLOSE BOLTING.

sci'o- (sī'ō-), sci-. [See SCENE.] A combining form, Greek skio-, skī-, from skia, meaning: a A shadow, as in sciomancy, sciopticon. b A ghost, as in sciotheism.

sci'o·lism (sī'ō·lĭz'm), n. Superficial knowledge; a show of learning, without substantial foundation.

sci'o·list (-lĭst), n. [See SCIOLOUS.] One whose knowledge or learning is superficial; a pretender to scholarship.

sci·o·lis'tic (-lĭs'tĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to sciolism or a sciolist; partaking of sciolism; resembling a sciolist.

sci'o·lous (sī'ō·lŭs), adj. [LL. sciolus, dim. of scius knowing, fr. scire to know. See SCIENCE.] Knowing superficially or imperfectly. Now Rare.

‖sciol'to (shōl'tō), adj. [It., free, past part. of sciogliere to loosen.] Music. a Free; not strict. b Detached; not legato. — ‖sciol'to, adv.

sci'o·mach'i·ol'o·gy (sī'ō·măk'ĭ·ŏl' ō·jĭ), n. [sciomachy + -ology.] The exercise of (opposing sham or imaginary arguments. Nonce Word.

sci·om'a·chy (sī·ŏm'ə·kĭ), n. Sciamachy.

sci'o·man'cy (sī'ō·măn'sĭ), n. [Gr. skia a shadow + -mancy.] Divination by consulting the shades of the dead. — sci'o·man'tic (-măn'tĭk), adj.

sci'a·scope (sī'ə·skōp), sci·as'co·py (sī·ăs'kō·pĭ), etc. Vars. of SKIASCOPE, etc. [QUISTICS.]

science of language. = LIN-sci'enc·er, n. A master of a science. Obs.

sci'enc·y, n. = SCIENCE, 1. Obs.

sci·en'tic, sci·en'ti·cal, adj. [L. scientia science + -ic.] = SCIENTIFIC, adj., 1. Obs.

sci·en'tious (sī·ĕn'shŭs), adj. = SCIENT, adj. Obs.

scilling. † SHILLING.

scim'i·tar-shaped', scim'i·ter-shaped', adj. See *-*SHAPED.

scink. Var. of SKINK, lizard.

scin'til, n. = SCINTILLA. Archaic.

scin'til·lize, v. i. See *-*IZE. Rare.

sci'o·graph, (sī'ō·grăf), sci'o·graph'ic (-grăf'ĭk), sci·og'ra·phy (sī·ŏg'rə·fĭ), etc. Vars. of SKIAGRAPH, etc.

sci'o·lus, n. [LL.] ▲ sciolist. Obs.

sci'on (sī'ŭn), n. Also ci'on. [ME. sioun, syon, fr. OF. cion (F. scion), of uncert. origin.] 1. Hort. A detached shoot, or other portion of a plant consisting of more than one bud, capable of propagation; specif., such a part removed from its place of growth and prepared for grafting. See 1st CION.

☞ The older spelling cion is now adopted by most American nurserymen and horticulturists.

2. Hence, a descendant; as, a scion of a royal stock.

sci·oph'i·lous (sī-ŏf'ĭ-lŭs), adj. [scio- + philous.] Ecology. Thriving in shade; — said of plants.

sci'o·phyte (sī'ō-fīt), n. [scio- + -phyte.] Ecology. A shade-enduring plant.

sci·op'tic (sī-ŏp'tĭk), adj. [scio- + Gr. optikos belonging to sight. See OPTIC.] Optics. Of or pert. to the formation of images in a darkened room (cf. CAMERA OBSCURA).

sci·op'ti·con (sī-ŏp'tĭ-kŏn), n. [NL. See SCIOPTIC.] A kind of magic lantern.

sci·op'tics (-tĭks), n. The art or process of exhibiting luminous images, esp. those of external objects, in a darkened room, by arrangements of lenses or mirrors. See -ICS.

sci·op'tric (-trĭk), adj. Optics. Scioptic.

sci·os'o·phy (sī-ŏs'ō-fĭ), n. [scio- + -sophy.] Pretended knowledge of natural or supernatural forces, systematized by tradition or imaginative invention. D. S. Jordan. — sci·os'o·phist (-fĭst), n.

Sci'ot (sī'ŏt), adj. Of or pertaining to the island of Chios (It. Scio). — n. A native or inhabitant of Chios.

sci'o·the·ism (sī'ō-thē-ĭz'm), n. [scio- + -theism.] Belief in disembodied spirits as effective in human affairs. Huxley.

sci'ous (sī'ŭs), adj. [L. scius.] Knowing; having knowledge. Rare. "Brutes may be and are scious." Coleridge.

scir-, scire-. For words formerly spelled scir-, scire-, see SHIRE-.

‖sci're fa'ci·as (sī'rē fā'shĭ-ăs). [L., do you cause to know.] Law. A judicial writ founded upon some matter of record and requiring the party proceeded against to show cause why the record should not be enforced, annulled, or vacated; also, the proceeding so instituted. Scire facias is variously used, generally as supplemental to, or in continuation of, prior proceedings; but in some cases, as to repeal letters patent or a charter, it is in effect an original action. It was rendered obsolete in England by the Judicature Acts, and in some States of the United States has been superseded by virtue of practice acts or codes.

sci·ren'ga (sĭ-rĕng'gä), n. [Origin unknown.] A West Indian and European grouper (Parepinephelus acutirostris).

Scir'o·pho'ri·a (sĭr'ō-fō'rĭ-ä; 181), n. pl. [Gr. ta Skirophoria.] Gr. Antiq. An Athenian festival celebrated on the 12th of the month Scirophorion (June–July). It was in honor of Athena, or, according to some, Demeter and Persephone, and was so called from the large sunshades under which the priestess of Athena and the priest of Erechtheus went to the place of sacrifice.

Scir'o·phor'i·on (sĭr'ō-fō'rĭ-ŏn; 181), n. [Gr. Skirophorion.] The twelfth Attic month. See GREEK CALENDAR.

Scir'pus (sûr'pŭs), n. [L., a rush.] Bot. A large genus of sedges (family Cyperaceae), commonly called bulrushes or club rushes, of wide distribution. See BULRUSH, TULE.

scir'rho- (sĭr'ō-), scirrh-. A combining form for scirrhus, as in scir'rho·gas'tri·a, scir·rho'ma. See -GASTRIA, -OMA.

scir'rhoid (sĭr'oid), adj. [scirrh- + -oid.] Resembling scirrhus.

scir·rho'sis (sĭr·rō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. scirrh- + -osis.] Scirrhous condition; — a humorous coinage.

scir·rhos'i·ty (sĭr·rŏs'ĭ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Med. A morbid induration, as of a gland; state of being scirrhous.

scir'rhous (sĭr'ŭs), adj. [NL. scirrhosus.] Med. Proceeding from scirrhus; of the nature of scirrhus. Indurated, esp. with fibrous tissue; as, scirrhous disease; scirrhous carcinoma.

scirrhous cord. Veter. A chronic fibrous enlargement of the cut end of the spermatic cord in castrated horses, caused by bacterial infection.

scir'rhus (sĭr'ŭs), n.; pl. -RHI (-ī), -RHUSES (-ŭs-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [NL., fr. L. scirros, fr. Gr. skirrhos, skiros, hard.] Med. a Obs. An indurated organ or part; esp., an indurated gland. b A hard cancerous tumor; specif., one in which the hardness is due to preponderance of connective tissue in the growth.

-scir'rhus. [NL.] A combining form for scirrhus, as in mastoscirrhus.

Scir·top'o·da (skĕr·tŏp'ō-dä), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. skirtan to leap + -poda.] Zool. A small order of rotifers in which the female has hollow, limblike muscular processes ending in branched setose fins. The principal genus is Pedalion. — scir'to·pod (skûr'tō-pŏd), adj. & n. — scir·top'o·dous (skĕr-tŏp'ō-dŭs), adj.

scis'ci·ta'tion (sĭs'ĭ-tā'shŭn), n. [L. sciscitatio, fr. sciscitari to inquire.] Inquiry, esp. for a reason or justification. Obs.

scis'sel (sĭs'ĕl), n. [F. cisailles, pl. Cf. SCISSORS.] 1. The clippings of metals made in various mechanical operations.

2. The slips or plates of metal out of which circular blanks have been cut for the purpose of coinage.

scis'si·ble (sĭs'ĭ-b'l), adj. [L. scindere, scissum, to split.] Scissile. Rare. Bacon.

scis'sile (sĭs'ĭl; 155), adj. [F., fr. L. scissilis, fr. scindere, scissum, to cut, to split. See SHED, v.] Capable of being cut smoothly or split easily.

scis'sion (sĭzh'ŭn; sĭsh'ŭn; 277), n. [F., fr. LL. scissio, fr. scindere, scissum, to cut, to split.] 1. Act of cutting, dividing, or splitting, or state of being cut, divided, or split; fission; division.

2. A division or split in a group or union; state of dissension.

3. Chem. = CLEAVAGE, 4.

scis'sor (sĭz'ĕr), v. t.; SCIS'SORED (-ĕrd); SCIS'SOR-ING. 1. To cut, cut up, or cut off with scissors or shears; also, formerly, to trim with scissors, as the beard.

2. To cut out in the form of a clipping or clippings.

3. To hold or hinge together in a crossed position suggestive of scissors.

scis'sor (sĭz'ĕr), n. A singular form of scissors used in combinations and phrases, as in:

scissor blade	scissor-grinder	scissor sharpener scissor case	scissor maker	scissorsmith scissor chain	scissor making	scissor-tailed scissor-fashion	scissor screw	scissor-winged scis'sor, n. Short for SCISSORS KICK.

scis'sor·bill' (sĭz'ĕr·bĭl'), n. 1. A skimmer. See SKIMMER, n., 3.

2. A worker indifferent to the interest of the laboring class; a know-nothing; — used contemptuously, orig. by lumbermen and hobos. Slang, Western U. S.

scis'sor·bird' (-bûrd'), n. A scissortail.

scis'sor·er (-ĕr), n. One who scissors; hence, a compiler.

scis'sor·ing, n. 1. Act of cutting with scissors.

2. A piece cut out or off with scissors.

scis·so'ri·um (sĭ-sō'rĭ-ŭm; 181), n.; pl. -RIA (-ä). [ML., fr. L. scindere to cut, carve.] A medieval trencher.

scissor kick. = SCISSORS KICK.

scis'sors (sĭz'ĕrz), n. pl. [ME. sisours, fr. OF. cisoires (F., shears; cf. ciseaux), fr. LL. cisorium a cutting instrument, pl. cisoria, fr. L. caedere to cut. See CONCISE. The modern spelling is due to a mistaken derivation from ML. scissor one who cleaves or divides, a tailor, fr. L. scindere, scissum, to cut, split. See SHED, v.] 1. A cutting instrument working like shears but smaller, consisting of two cutting blades with handles, movable on a pin Scissors. 1 Pocket; 2 Manicure; 3 Nail; 4 Buttonhole; 5 Embroidery; 6 Lampwick.

in the center, by which they are held together; — often called pair of scissors. Cf. SHEARS.

2. That which cuts short or makes excisions; as, the scissors of destiny; to ply the scissors on a text.

3. A symbol of an editor's clipping of items for copy; — usually in the phrase scissors and paste.

4. Gymnastics. Any of several gymnastic feats, esp. on the horse, in which, while vaulting, the legs are moved in a manner suggesting the opening and closing of a pair of scissors.

5. Wrestling. A hold in which one contestant clasps the other's head or body with his legs.

Scissors (on Body).

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES (in sense 1) are:

scissors blade	scissors-grinder	scissors-shaped scissors case	scissors hardener	scissors sharpener scissors chain	scissors maker	scissors-smith scissors-fashion	scissors making	scissors worker scissors fault. A pivotal fault. See FAULT, n., 6.

scis'sors–grind'er, n. The European goatsucker.

scissors kick. Swimming. A form of kick, used in the trudgen and the side strokes in which, after the upper leg has been swung forward from the hip, and the other leg bent backward from the knee, the legs are snapped together.

scissors pipe. Hydraulics. Either of a pair of pipes joined by a flexible connection permitting a scissorslike movement.

scissors, or scissor, truss. See TRUSS, n., Ill.

scis'sor·tail' (sĭz'ĕr·tāl'), n. A flycatcher (Muscivora forficata) of the southern United States and Mexico, having a deeply forked tail. It is gray above, white beneath, salmon on the sides, and scarlet at the base of the crown feathers. Called also scis'sor–tailed' fly'-catch'er.

Scissortail.

scissor tooth. A cutting tooth; a carnassial.

scis·su'ra (sĭ·sū'rä), n. [L.] Med. A cleft; a split condition; a fissure.

scis'sure (sĭzh'ĕr; sĭsh'-; cf. SCISSION), n. [L. scissura, fr. scindere, scissum, to cut, split.] Obs. 1. A cleft or elongated opening in a body or surface made by cutting; a cleft separating bodily parts or opening into the body; also, a fissure or split, as by rupture; a separating or breaking apart of a surface or body.

2. The action of cutting.

3. A split or division in a group or union.

Scis'su·rel'la (sĭs'ū-rĕl'ä), n. [NL., dim. of L. scissura cleft, fissure.] Zool. A genus of small marine snails having several long ciliated tentacles on each side of the body, and a small spiral shell, the last whorl of which has a broad fissure or sinus. It is closely related to Pleurotomaria, but is often made the type of a family, Scis'su·rel'li·dae (-ĭ-dē). — scis'su·rel'lid (-ĭd), adj. & n.

Sci·u'ri·dae (sī-ū'rĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. sciurus squirrel. See SQUIRREL.] Zool. A nearly cosmopolitan family of rodents consisting of the true squirrels, ground squirrels, marmots, and their allies. — sci'u·rid (sī'ū-rĭd), n. & adj. — sci'u·rine (-rĭn; -rīn), adj. & n.

sci·u'roid (sī-ū'roid), adj. [L. sciurus + -oid.] Squirrellike; Bot., resembling the tail of a squirrel, as the spikes of barley and certain other grasses.

Sci·u'ro·mor'pha (sī-ū'rō-môr'fä), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. skiouros squirrel + morphē form.] Zool. A suborder of rodents comprising relatively large, more or less primitive forms, as the scaletails (Anomaluridae), squirrels, beavers, and sewellels. Cf. MYOMORPHA and HYSTRICOMORPHA. — sci·u'ro·morph (sī-ū'rō-môrf), n. — sci·u'ro·mor'phic (-môr'fĭk), adj.

Sci'u·rop'ter·us (sī'ū-rŏp'tĕr-ŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skiouros squirrel + -pteros.] Zool. A genus of flying squirrels now restricted to S. russicus of northern Europe and Asia and its geographic races, but formerly including all the smaller Old and New World species which have been put in the genera Glaucomys, Pteromys, etc.

Sci·u'rus (sī-ū'rŭs), n. [L., squirrel. See SCIURIDAE.] Zool. The typical genus of squirrels.

scl- For various words in scl-, see the forms in SL-.

sclaff (sklăf), n. [Imitative.] 1. A slight blow; a slap; a soft fall; also, the accompanying noise. Scot.

2. Golf. The stroke made by one who sclaffs.

3. A thin, solid substance, esp. a thin shoe or slipper. Scot.

sclaff (sklăf), v.; sclaffed (sklăft); sclaff'ing [See SCLAFF, n.] Intrans.: 1. To scuff or shuffle along. Scot.

2. Golf. To strike the ground behind the ball before hitting the ball.

—, Transitive: 1. To strike with something flat; to slap. Scot.

2. Golf. To scrape (the club) on the ground, in a stroke, before hitting the ball; also, to make (a stroke) in that way.

sclaff'er (sklăf'ĕr), sclaff'ert (-ĕrt), v. & n. Sclaff. Scot.

sclatch (sklăch), v. t. & i. & n. [Imitative.] Daub; splash; botch. Scot.

scle'ra (sklē'rä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sklēros hard. See SKELETON.] Anat. The sclerotic coat of the eyeball. See 1st EYE, 1.

scler'al (sklē'rĕl), adj. Sclerotic.

scle'ranth (sklē'ränth), n. A plant of the genus Scleranthus.

Scle·ran'thus (sklē-răn'thŭs), n. [NL., fr. scler- + -anthus.] Bot. A small Old World genus of annual, weedy, prostrate herbs (family Corrigioladceae) having opposite subulate leaves, small, cymose, perfect but apetalous, flowers, and tiny one-seeded utricles. S. annuus, the knawel, is a commonly naturalized weed in eastern N. A.

sclere (sklēr), n. [G. sklēros hard.] Zool. Any small or minute skeletal element; a spicule, esp. of a sponge.

scler'ec·ta'si·a (sklĕr'ĕk·tā'zhĭ-ä; sklē'rĕk-; -sĭ-ä), n. [NL., fr. scler- + ectasia.] Med. Protrusion of the sclera.

scle·rec'to·my (sklē-rĕk'tō-mĭ), n. [scler- + -ectomy.] The surgical removal of a part of the sclera.

scler'e·de'ma (sklēr'ĕ-dē'mä), n. [NL., fr. scler- + edema.] Med. Sclerema neonatorum.

scle're·id (sklē'rĕ-ĭd), n. [Gr. sklēros hard.] Bot. A sclerotic cell. See IDIOBLAST b.

scle·re'ma (sklē-rē'mä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sklēros hard.] Med. Induration of a tissue, esp. the subcutaneous tissue.

‖scle·re'ma ne'o·na·to'rum (nē'ō-nā-tō'rŭm; 181). [NL., of the new-born.] Induration of the cutaneous and subcutaneous tissues in newborn infants. It is usually fatal.

sclerema of adults. = SCLERODERMA, 1.

scle'ren·ce·pha'li·a (sklē'rĕn-sĕ-fā'lĭ-ä), n. Sclerosis of the brain substance, accompanied by shrinkage.

scle·ren'chy·ma (sklē-rĕng'kĭ-mä), n. [NL., fr. scler- + -enchyma.] 1. Bot. In higher plants, a tissue composed of cells which have the cell walls thickened and lignified, and often mineralized, and which are usually without living protoplasm and incapable of further growth when mature. Sclerenchyma is supporting or protective tissue and the cells are of two general types, elongated, pointed cells (fibers) and shorter cells of irregular size and shape (stone cells). Cf. COLLENCHYMA; see STEM, Illust.

2. Zool. = SCLERODERM b.

scle'ren·chym'a·tous (sklē'rĕng·kĭm'ä·tŭs), adj. Of the nature of or consisting of sclerenchyma.

scle·ren'chyme (sklē-rĕng'kĭm), n. Sclerenchyma.

scle·rer'yth·rin (sklē-rĕr'ĭth-rĭn; sklēr'ĕ-rĭth'rĭn; -ĕ-rĭth'-), n. [scler- + -erythrin.] Chem. A red substance, the most important coloring matter of ergot.

scle·ret'i·nite (sklē-rĕt'ĭ-nīt), n. [Gr. sklēros dry, hard + rhētinē resin.] A mineral resin found in the coal measures of Wigan, England, in the form of pellets having a reddish-brown to black color.

Scle'ri·a (sklē'rĭ-ä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sklēria hardness.] Bot. A large genus of sedges (family Cyperaceae) of wide distribution. They have monoecious flowers, the pistillate solitary, the staminate numerous; the fruit is a hard, shining, bony nutlet. The American species are often called nut grass. See RAZOR GRASS.

scle·ri'a·sis (sklē-rī'ä-sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sklēriasis, fr. sklēros hard.] Med. a A morbid induration of the edge of the eyelid. b Induration of any part. c Scleroderma.

scle'ri·fy (sklē'rĭ-fī), v. t. [See SCLERO-; -FY.] Bot. To become converted into sclerenchyma, as certain cells. — scle'ri·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ-kā'shŭn), n.

scle'rite (sklē'rīt), n. [Gr. sklēros hard.] Zool. A hard chitinous or calcareous plate, piece, or spicule. — scle·rit'ic (sklē-rĭt'ĭk), adj.

scle·ri'tis (sklē-rī'tĭs), n. [NL.] Sclerotitis.

scle'rized (sklē'rĭzd), adj. Bot. Sclerosed.

scle'ro- (sklē'rō-; sklēr'ō-), scler-. [See SKELETON.] A combining form, Greek sklēro-, sklēr-, from sklēros, meaning hard, used to denote: a Fibrous; sclerous; as in scleroderma, sclerogenous. b Med. Pertaining to the sclera and, as in scle'ro·i·ri'tis. c Chem. Occurrence in ergot, as in scle'ro·xan'thin. See SCLEROTIUM.

For the following words, see the word with which sclero- (sense b) is combined:

sclerochorioiditis	sclerocornea	sclerokeratoiritis sclerochoroiditis	sclerocorneal	sclero-ophthalmia scleroconjunctival	sclerodermatitis	sclero-optic scleroconjunctivitis	sclerokeratitis	sclerosarcoma scle'ro·base (sklē'rō-bās; sklēr'ō-), n. [sclero- + Gr. basis base.] Zool. The calcareous or hornlike central stem or axis of most compound alcyonarians. — scle'ro·bas'ic (-bās'ĭk), adj.

scle'ro·blast (-blăst), n. [sclero- + -blast.] Zool. One of the cells of a sponge by which a sclere is formed. — scle'ro·blas'tic (-blăs'tĭk), adj.

scle'ro·blas·te'ma (sklē'rō-blăs·tē'mä; sklēr'ō-), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + blastema.] Embryol. Themesodermal tissue forming bone. — scle'ro·blas·tem'ic (-tĕm'ĭk; -tē'mĭk), adj.

scle'ro·cau'ly (sklē'rō-kô'lĭ; sklēr'ō-), n. [sclero- + Gr. kaulos stalk.] Bot. An excessive development of sclerenchyma in a stem, in certain desert plants, as Ephedra. Cf. SCLEROPHYLLY.

scle'ro·dac·tyl'i·a (-dăk·tĭl'ĭ-ä), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + dactyl + -ia.] Med. A circumscribed form of scleroderma affecting esp. the fingers and toes.

scle·ro'der·ma (sklē-rō'dĕr·mä; sklēr'ō-), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sklēroderma, fr. sklēros hard + derma skin.] 1. Med. Induration of the skin, esp. in the form of pellets having a reddish-brown to black color.

2. Zool. a Any of the hard parts of the skin of a vertebrate, as the scales of a fish, the plates of a turtle, the spicules of a sea cucumber, etc. b Any of the hard parts of the skin of a sea urchin, as the spines, the ambulacral plates, the tubercles, etc.

scle·ro'der·mite (-mīt), n. [sclero- + -ite.] Zool. Any of the hard parts of the skin of a vertebrate, as the scales of a fish, the plates of a turtle, the spicules of a sea cucumber, etc.

scle·ro'der·ma·tous (-mä-tŭs), adj. Of the nature of or consisting of scleroderma.

scle·ro'der·mi·a (-mĭ-ä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sklēros hard + dermia a training.] Severe discipline. Obs.

scle'ro·derm (sklĕr'ō·dûrm; sklĕr'ō-), n. [sclero- + -derm.] Zool. a A hard integument. b The hard tissue of the skeleton of ordinary stony or madreporarian corals. c One of the Sclerodermata or Scleroderm. — adj. Sclerodermatous.

scle'ro·der'ma (-dûr'mȧ), n. [NL. See SCLERODERM.] 1. Med. A disease characterized by diffuse or circumscribed rigidity and hardness of the skin.
2. [cap.] Bot. A genus of fungi (order Sclerodermatales) having hard-skinned fruiting bodies that open irregularly. It is the type of a family, Scle'ro·der·ma'ce·ae (-dĕr·mā'sē-ē), including the so-called hard-skinned puffballs, or earth-balls. See FALSE TRUFFLE.

Scle'ro·der'ma·ta'les (sklĕr'ō·dûr'mȧ·tā'lēz; sklĕr'ō-), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of fungi having closed, subterranean or epigeal, sessile or stalked sporocarps, with simple or several-layered peridium, surrounding an unchambered gleba. Cf. LYCOPERDALES.

scle'ro·der'ma·tous (-dûr'mȧ·tŭs), adj. 1. a Having a hard external covering, as of bony plates or horny scales. b Having a skeleton of scleroderm. c Pertaining to the Sclerodermata or Sclerodermi.
2. Med. Of, having, or pertaining to scleroderma.

Scle'ro·der'mi (-mī), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A division, usually a suborder, of fishes (order Plectognathi) comprising the triggerfishes and filefishes.

scle'ro·der'mi·a (-mĭ'ȧ), n. [NL.] Med. Scleroderma.

scle'ro·der'mic (-mĭk), adj. Sclerodermatous.

scle'ro·der'mite (-mīt), n. Zool. The hard integument of a segment of an arthropod. — scle'ro·der·mit'ic (-dĕr·mĭt'ĭk), adj.

scle'ro·der'mous (sklĕr'ō·dûr'mŭs; sklĕr'ō-), adj. 1. Sclerodermatous.
2. Bot. Of or pertaining to fungi of the genus Scleroderma.

scle'ro·gen (sklĕr'ō·jĕn; sklĕr'ō-), n. [sclero- + -gen.] Bot. The lignified and mineralized material of the walls of stone cells.

scle·rog'e·nous (sklē·rŏj'ē·nŭs), adj. Also scle'ro·gen'ic (sklĕr'ō·jĕn'ĭk; sklĕr'ō-). [sclero- + -genous, -genic.] Zool. a Making or secreting hard tissue. b Mail-cheeked.

scle'roid (sklĕr'oid), adj. [Gr. skleroeidēs, fr. sklēros hard + eidos form.] Bot. & Zool. Hard; indurated.

scle·ro'ma (sklē·rō'mȧ), n.; pl. -MATA (-mȧ·tȧ). [NL., fr. Gr. sklēroma, fr. sklēros hard.] Med. Induration, or an induration, of tissues. See SCLEREMA, SCLERODERMA, SCLEROSIS.

‖scle·ro'ma ne'o·na·to'rum (nē'ō·nȧ·tō'rŭm). [NL.] Sclerema neonatorum.

scle'ro·mere (sklĕr'ō·mēr), n. [See SCLERO-; -MERE.] Anat. & Zool. A metamere of the skeleton.

scle·rom'e·ter (sklē·rŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [sclero- + -meter.] Mineral. Any of various instruments for determining the relative hardness es of materials, usually by measuring the pressure necessary to make a scratch or the amount of penetration of a stylus under a given pressure. — scle'ro·met'ric (sklĕr'ō·mĕt'rĭk; sklĕr'ō-), adj.

scle'ro·nych'i·a (sklĕr'ō·nĭk'ĭ·ȧ; sklĕr'ō-), n. [NL., fr. scler- + -onychia.] Med. Abnormal hardening and thickening of the nails.

scle'ro·nyx'is (-nĭk'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + Gr. nyxis a pricking.] Puncture of the sclerotic coat of the eye.

Scle·rop'a·ges (sklē·rŏp'ȧ·jēz), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sklēropagēs firmly put together.] Zool. A genus of large fishes (family Osteoglossidae) of Australia and Borneo. It includes the barramunda. See BARRAMUNDA b.

Scle'ro·pa're·i (sklĕr'ō·pā'rē·ī), n. pl. [NL., fr. sclero- + Gr. pareia cheek.] Zool. A large and important group of spiny-finned fishes, the scorpion fishes, greenlings, sculpins, gurnards, and their allies, characterized by a process of the third suborbital plate extending backward to or toward the preopercle, whence the name mail-cheeked fishes, sometimes applied to them.

scle'roph·thal'mi·a (sklĕr'ŏf·thăl'mĭ·ȧ; sklĕr'ŏf-); n. [NL.; fr. scler- + -ophthalmia.] Med. A congenital condition of the eye in which the sclerotic coat encroaches upon the cornea.

scle'ro·phyll (sklĕr'ō·fĭl; sklĕr'ō-), n. A sclerophyllous plant.

scle'ro·phyl'ly (sklĕr'ō·fĭl'ĭ; sklĕr'ō-), n. [sclero- + Gr. phyllon leaf.] Bot. An excessive development of sclerenchyma in the leaves. It occurs in many desert plants. Cf. SCLEROCAULY. — scle'ro·phyl'lous (-fĭl'ŭs), adj.

scle·ro'sal (sklē·rō'sȧl; -s'l), adj. Med. Pertaining to, or producing, sclerosis.

Scle'ro·scope (sklĕr'ō·skōp; sklĕr'ō-), n. [sclero- + -scope.] A trade-mark for a sclerometer devised esp. for use with metals, in which the height of rebound of a small standard object dropped from a fixed height onto the surface of a specimen is used as a measure of the hardness of the specimen. Also [sometimes not cap.], the instrument bearing this trade-mark.

scle·rose' (sklē·rōs'), v. t. Med. To cause sclerosis in; as, chronic infections may sclerose kidneys. — v. i. To undergo or become affected with sclerosis; as, arteries sclerose in old age.

scle·rosed' (sklē·rōst'; sklĕr'ōzd), adj. Affected with sclerosis; indurated; lignified.

scle'ro·sep'tum (sklĕr'ō·sĕp'tŭm; sklĕr'ō-), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + septum.] Zool. A calcareous radial septum of a coral.

scle·ro'sis (sklē·rō'sĭs), n.; pl. -ROSES (-sēz). [NL., fr. Gr. sklērōsis. See SCLERO-; -OSIS.] Induration; hardening; specif.: a Med. Esp., induration produced in an organ by increase of its interstitial connective tissue; also, degenerative replacement of tissue of the spinal cord or brain by neuroglia; as, cerebrospinal sclerosis. See MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS. b Bot. Hardening of the cell wall by lignification. c Indurated tissue.

-scle·ro'sis. [NL.] A combining form for sclerosis, as in arterio*sclerosis*, osteo*sclerosis*.

scle'ro·skel'e·ton (sklĕr'ō·skĕl'ē·tŭn; sklĕr'ō-; -t'n), n. [sclero- + skeleton.] Anat. The part of the skeleton which is formed by ossifications in tendons, ligaments, and aponeuroses. — scle'ro·skel'e·tal (-tȧl), adj.

Scle·ros'po·ra (sklē·rŏs'pō·rȧ), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + -spora.] Bot. A genus of downy mildews (family Peronosporaceae) having thick-walled resting spores which are united with the walls of the oögonia. They are parasitic on various species of the grass family.

scle'ro·ste·no'sis (sklĕr'ō·stē·nō'sĭs; sklĕr'ō-), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + stenosis.] Med. Hardening combined with contraction occurring in tissues.

Scle·ros'to·ma (sklē·rŏs'tō·mȧ), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + -stoma.] Zool. A genus of nematode worms; — prop. syn. of Stronguylus, but still sometimes applied to certain worms, as the gapeworm of birds and the common hookworm.

scle·ros'to·mi'a·sis (sklē·rŏs'tō·mĭ'ȧ·sĭs), n. [NL. See -IASIS.] Infestation with nematode worms of the genus Sclerostoma.

scle·ro'tal (sklē·rō'tȧl; -t'l), adj. Zool. Sclerotic; — designating esp. the bony plates in the sclerotic of many animals. See SCLEROTIC, adj., 1 a. — n. A sclerotal bony plate.

scle'rote (sklĕr'ōt), n. Bot. A sclerotium.

scle·ro'tial (sklē·rō'shȧl), adj. Bot. Of or pertaining to a sclerotium; also, to the form genus Sclerotium.

scle·rot'ic (sklē·rŏt'ĭk), adj. [NL. scleroticus.] 1. Hard; indurated; esp.: a Anat. & Zool. Designating, or pertaining to, the dense, fibrous, opaque white outer coat enclosing the eyeball except the part covered by the cornea. In some animals it is partly cartilaginous, and it is sometimes (as in most birds, and in the extinct ichthyosaurs) reinforced in front by a ring of bony plates, the sclerotals. b Bot., Med., etc. Sclerosed.
2. Pertaining to sclerosis.

scle·rot'ic (sklē·rŏt'ĭk), n. Anat. & Zool. The sclerotic coat of the eye; the sclera. See EYE, n., 1.

scle·rot'i·cal (-rŏt'ĭ·kȧl), adj. Anat. Sclerotic. Rare.

sclerotic cell. Bot. A sclereid. See IDIOBLAST b.

sclerotic coat. See EYE, n., 1 a.

scle·rot'i·co- (sklē·rŏt'ĭ·kō-), sclerotic-. Med. A combining form for sclerotica, as in:
sclerotiectomy, scleroticochorioiditis, scleroticochoroiditis, scleroticonyxis, scleroticotomy.

sclerotic parenchyma. Bot. Parenchymatous sclerenchyma.

Scle'ro·tin'i·a (sklĕ'rō·tĭn'ĭ·ȧ; sklĕr'ō-), n. [NL. See SCLEROTIUM.] Bot. a A large genus of sac fungi (order Pezizales) in which the apothecia spring from a sclerotium. Certain species cause destructive brown rots of stone and pome fruits. Some species were formerly included in the form genus Monilia. b [not cap.] Any fungus of this genus. — scle'ro·tin'i·al (-ȧl), adj.

scle'ro·tin'i·ose (sklĕr'ō·tĭn'ĭ·ōs; sklĕr'ō-), n. [See 4th -OSE.] Plant Pathol. Any plant disease caused by a sclerotinia.

scle·ro'tl·oid (sklē·rō'shĭ·oid), scle'ro·toid (sklĕr'ō·toid; sklĕr'-), adj. [See -OID.] Bot. Resembling a sclerotium.

scle'ro·ti'tis (sklē·rō·tī'tĭs; sklĕr'ō-), n. [NL. See SCLEROTIC; -ITIS.] Med. Inflammation of the sclerotic coat of the eye; scleritis. — scle'ro·tit'ic (-tĭt'ĭk), adj.

scle·ro'ti·um (sklē·rō'shĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -TIA (-ȧ). [NL., fr. Gr. sklēros hard.] Bot. a In certain higher fungi, a compact mass of hardened mycelium stored with reserve food material. It is usually dark-colored; when mature it becomes detached and remains dormant until a favorable opportunity for growth, when it either sends out hyphae or produces spore fruits. The ergot of rye is a sclerotium. b In the slime molds (Myxomycetes), the waxy mass of protoplasm into which the plasmodia are transformed during dry seasons. c [cap.] A form genus of certain sterile fungi of the group Mycelia-Sterilia, many of which form sclerotia. S. rolfsii causes a blight or rot of numerous hosts.

sclerotium disease. Plant Pathol. Any disease caused by a species of the genus Sclerotium; also, one in which sclerotia are formed.

scle'ro·tized (sklĕr'ō·tīzd; sklĕr'ō-), adj. Bot., etc. Sclerosed.

scle'ro·tome (sklĕr'ō·tōm; sklĕr'ō-), n. [sclero- + -tome.]
1. Zool. a A fibrous partition separating two myotomes. b In vertebrates, the mesenchyme originating from the epimere and giving rise to the vertebrae.
2. Surg. An instrument used in sclerotomy.
— scle'ro·tom'ic (-tŏm'ĭk), adj.

scle·rot'o·my (sklē·rŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [sclero- + -tomy.] Surg. The cutting of the sclera, as in an operation for glaucoma.

scle'rous (sklĕr'ŭs), adj. [Gr. sklēros.] Hard; indurated.

scle'ro·zone (sklĕr'ō·zōn; sklĕr'ō-), n. [See SCLERO-; ZONE.] The pectoral arch or the pelvic arch.

scoad (skōd), v. t. To scatter. Dial. Eng.

scob (skŏb), n. [Cf. Ir. & Gael. sgolb a splinter, a wooden pin or wattle. Cf. SCOLLOP.] A rod or splint of wood; a sapling; esp., a thatch peg; also, a gag. Cf. SCOLLOP. Scot., N. of Eng. & Ir. — v. t. To gag; to set in splints. Scot.

scob, n. [Origin uncert.] A box, desk, or chest. Archaic.

scob, n. Weaving. A defect in a fabric caused by a warp thread not interlaced in the weaving.

scob'by (skŏb'ĭ), n. Chaffinch. Local, British.

sco·bic'u·lar (skō·bĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. Bot. Scobiform.

scob'i·form (skŏb'ĭ·fôrm; skō'bĭ-), adj. [L. scobs, or scobis, sawdust, scrapings + E. -form.] Resembling sawdust or raspings.

scobs (skŏbz), n. sing. & pl. [L. scobs, or scobis; akin to scabere to scrape. See SHAVE.] Raspings of ivory, hartshorn, metals, or other hard substance.

scodg'y (skŏj'ĭ), n. & v. Scrub; drudge. Scot.

scoff (skŏf; 185), n. [ME. scof; cf. Dan. skuffe to deceive, mock, joke, OHG. scoph, ON. skaup, scop; prob. akin to E. SHOVE.] 1. Mockery; scoffing. Archaic.
2. A derisive or mocking expression of scorn, derision, or contempt; a gibe.
With scaffs, and scorns, and contumelious taunts. Shak.
3. An object of scorn, mockery, or derision.
The scoff of withered age and beardless youth. Cowper.

scoff, v. i.; SCOFFED (skŏft; 185); SCOFF'ING. [From SCOFF, n.] To manifest contempt by derisive acts or language; to speak contemptuously or with ridicule or mockery; to jeer; gibe; — often with at.
God's better gift they scoff at and refuse. Cowper.
Syn. — Flout, mock, rail at, taunt, ridicule, deride. — SCOFF, JEER, GIBE, FLEER, GIRD, SNEER. SCOFF implies insolent or irreverent mockery or derision; JEER and GIBE suggest taunting sarcasm or scornful raillery; to FLEER is to laugh or grin with impudent mockery; as, "It is an easy thing to scoff at any art or recreation; a little wit mixed with ill nature, confidence, and malice, will do it" (Walton); "Fools, who came to scoff, remained to pray" (Goldsmith); "Dost thou jeer and flout me in the teeth?" (Shak.); "Toland and Tindal, prompt at priests to jeer" (Pope); "You . . . with taunts did gibe my missive out of audience" (Shak.); "ready in gibes, quick-answered, saucy" (id.); "[They] look like two old maids of honor got into a circle of fleering girls and boys" (Gray); "the fleering rabble" (Stevenson). To GIRD at is to assail with (esp. scornful) jests; SNEER implies the ill-natured or cynical expression, or suggestion, of (often covert) contempt, esp. in the face or tones of the voice; as, "The subprior was bidden to sing . . . the 'Elegy of the Rose'; the author girding cheerily at the clerkly man's assumed ignorance of such compositions" (W. Pater); "a sneer in which the highest malice was visible, under a thin covering of affected pleasantry" (Fielding); "a sneering laugh" (Boswell); "Sapping a solemn creed with solemn sneer" (Byron). Cf. RIDICULE, DESPISE, IRONY, JEST.
— v. t. To treat or address with derision; to mock at.
To scoff religion is ridiculously proud and immodest. Glanvill.
Syn. and Ant. — See REPROVE.

scoff (skŏf; 185), n. [S.Afr. D., for D. schoft two hours, fourth of a working day.] Food; a meal. Slang.

scoff, v. t. & i. [Cf. SCAFF.] Slang. 1. To eat greedily.
2. To plunder; steal.

scoff'er (skŏf'ĕr), n. 1. One who scoffs, esp. at religion.
2. A jester; clown. Obs.

scoff'er·y (skŏf'ĕr·ĭ), n. A scoffing; mockery. Rare.

scoff'ing, n. Act of one who scoffs.

scoff'law' (skŏf'lô'), n. One who scoffs at, or violates, the law, esp. a prohibition-enforcement law; — a proposed term.

scog (skŏg), n. & v. [ON. skuggi shadow, shade.] Shelter. Scot. & N. of Eng.

scog'gan (skŏg'ăn), n. [Origin uncert.] A device for automatically opening valves in early steam engines.

scog'ger (skŏg'ĕr), n. [Cf. 1st COCKER.] A stocking, usually of worsted and footless, worn over the shoes or the arm. N. of Eng.

scoin'son arch (skoin's'n). [See SCONCHEON.] An arch carrying a part of the thickness of a wall.

scoke (skōk), n. Pokeweed.

scold (skōld), n. [ME. scold(e), scald, prob. fr. ON. skáld poet, author of (satirical) poems (cf. ON. skáldskafr poetry, libel in verse), of uncert. origin. Cf. 1st SCALD.]
1. One addicted to abusive, orig. ribald, speech; specif., a common scold; — rarely applied to men.
An irksome, brawling scold. Shak.
2. A scolding. Colloq.

scold (skōld), v.; SCOLD'ED; SCOLD'ING. [From SCOLD, n.] Intransitive: 1. To brawl; rail. Obs.
2. To find fault, usually clamorously or rudely; to utter harsh rebuke; chide sharply and severely; — often with at; as, to scold at a servant. "Always to scold and cavil." Shelley.
—, Transitive: 1. To force by scolding; — esp. with out of.
2. To chide or rebuke with rudeness and clamor; to rate; also, to rebuke or reprove with severity.
Syn. — See REPROVE.

scol'de·nore (skōl'dē·nōr; 181), n. [Origin uncert.] The old squaw. New Eng.

scold'er (skōl'dĕr), n. 1. One who scolds.
2. a Orkney Islands. The oyster catcher; — so called from its shrill cries. b Local, U. S. The old squaw.

scold'ing (skōl'dĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SCOLD. Hence: adj. That scolds; also, intended for scolds; as, a scolding stool (see SCOLDING STOOL). — scold'ing·ly, adv.

scold'ing, n. Act of one who scolds; also, harsh or severe reproof; as, he deserved the scolding.
Syn. — Reproof, rebuke. Ant. — See PRAISE.

scolding bridle. Also scold's bridle. = BRANK, n., 2.

scolding stool. A ducking stool; cucking stool. Hist.

scol'e·ci'a·sis (skŏl'ē·sĭ'ȧ·sĭs; skō'lē-), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skōlēkiasis being worm-eaten. See SCOLEX; -IASIS.] Med. Infestation with tapeworm larvae.

sco'le·cid (skō'lē·sĭd), adj. Zool. Of or pert. to a scolex.

sco·lec'i·form (skō·lĕs'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [scolex + -form.] Zool. Resembling a scolex.

scol'e·cite (skŏl'ē·sīt; skō'lē-), n. [G. scolezit, fr. Gr. skōlēx worm.] 1. Mineral. A zeolite, of the natrolite group, in delicate radiating groups of white crystals and also in fibrous masses and in nodules; — so called because some specimens show a wormlike motion when heated. It is a hydrous calcium aluminum silicate, $CaAl_2Si_3O_{10}3H_2O$. H., 5–5.5. Sp. gr., 2.16–2.40. Called also lime mesotype.
2. Bot. The vermiform archicarp in fungi of the genus Ascobolus. Tulasne.

sco·le'co- (skō.lē'kō-), scolec-. A combining form, Greek skōlēko-, skōlēk-, from skōlēx, meaning a worm, as in scol'e·col'o·gy.

sco·le'coid (skō·lē'koid; skō'lē·koid), adj. [scolex + -oid.] Zool. Resembling a scolex.

scol'e·coph'a·gous (skŏl'ē·kŏf'ȧ·gŭs), adj. [Gr. skōlēkophagos. See SCOLEX; -PHAGOUS.] Zool. Feeding on worms. Rare.

sco·le'co·spore (skō·lē'kō·spōr; 181), n. [scoleco- + -spore.] Bot. Any slender threadlike spore; specif., such a spore distinguishing from one of another type, but both produced by the same fungus, as in the genus Phomopsis.

scol'er·yng (skŏl'ĕr·ĭng), n. Schooling. Rare. Chaucer.

sco'lex (skō'lĕks), n.; pl. SCOLECES (skō·lē'sēz), often also SCOLICES (skŏl'ĭ·sēz; skō'lĭ-). [NL., fr. Gr. skōlēx worm, grub.] Zool. The head of a tapeworm either in the larva (bladder worm) or adult stage. From it the proglottids or segments are produced by budding.

-sco'lex (-skō'lĕks). Zool. A combining form from Greek skōlēx, a worm, used in generic names, as in Desmo*scolex.*

Sco'li·a (skō'lĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] Zool. A genus of wasps which build or dig no nest, but lay their eggs on the bodies of the burrowing larvae of various beetles. It is the type of a family, Sco·lī'i·dae (skō·lī'ĭ·dē). — sco'li·id (skō'lĭ·ĭd), n. & adj.

sco'li·a (skō'lĭ·ȧ), pl. of SCOLION.

sco'li·o- (skō'lĭ·ō-). A combining form, Greek skolio-, from skolios, crooked, used to denote: a Curvature, as in sco'li·om'e·ter (skō'lĭ·ŏm'ē·tĕr). See -METER. b Scoliosis (and), as in sco'li·o·ky·pho'sis, sco'li·o·ra·chit'ic, sco'li·o·tone'. See KYPHOSIS, etc.

sco'li·o·grap'tic (skō'lĭ·ō·grăp'tĭk), adj. Characterized by oblique lines.

Scle'ro·der'ma·ta (sklĕr'ō·dûr'mȧ·tȧ; sklĕr'ō-), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. a Syn. of REPTILIA. b Syn. of MADREPORARIA.

scle'ro·der·mi'tis (-dĕr·mī'tĭs), n. [NL.] = SCLERODERMATITIS.

Scle·rog'e·ni (sklē·rŏj'ē·nī), n. pl. [NL. See SCLERO-; GEN.] Zool. Syn. of SCLEROPAREI. — scle·rog'e·noid (-noid), adj. & n.

scle'ro·me'ninx (sklĕr'ō·mē'nĭngks; sklĕr'ō-), n. [NL., fr. sclero- + meninx.] = DURA MATER.

scle'ro·pro'te·in (-prō'tē·ĭn), n. [sclero- + protein.] Biochem. = ALBUMINOID b. Cf. PROTEIN.

scle·ro'ti·a (sklē·rō'shĭ·ȧ), n., pl. of SCLEROTIUM.

scle·rot'i·ca (sklē·rŏt'ĭ·kȧ), n. [NL.] = SCLERA.

sclif (sklĭf). Scot. var. of SCLAFF.

sclim, sclimb (sklĭm). Scot. & N. of Eng. vars. of CLIMB. [CLAW.] sclow (sklō). Var. of SCLAW, scluse. ✝ SLUICE.

scly, n. & v. [Prob. dial. form for slide.] Slide. Obs. Scot.

scoale. ✝ SCHOOL.

scoat (skōt). Var. of SCOTE, SCOQT.

scobe, v. t. To gag. Obs.

scof. Scoff. Obs. exc. Ref. Sp.

scoff'ing·ly, adv. of scoffing, pres. part.

scoff'ing·stock', n. See -STOCK.

scofk. Scoffed. Ref. Sp.

scog'an·ism (skŏg'ăn·ĭz'm), n. [From John (or Thomas) Scogan or Scoggin, who prob. lived in the time of Edward IV (1461–83), and whose name was wrongly associated with a collection of jests in the 16th century.] Low jesting. Cf. SCOGGIN. — scog'an·ist, n. — scog'an·ly, adj. All Obs.

scog'gin, n. a Obs. A coarse or scurrilous jester. b pl. U. S. A butt for ridicule. — scog'gin·ism, n. — scog'gin·ist, n.

scog'ie (skŏj'ĭ). Var. of SCODGY. Scot.

scol. ✝ SCHOOL.

scol'ar, sco·las'tic. Scholar, scholastic. Ref. Sp.

scolb (skŏlb). Var. of SCOB.

scold'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

scolec-. = SCOLECO-.

sco·le'ces, n., pl. of SCOLEX.

Sco·lec'i·da (skō·lĕs'ĭ·dȧ; -lē'sĭ·dȧ), n. pl. [NL. See SCOLEX.] Zool. Syn. of HELMINTHES.

scoley, v. i. [Cf. OF. escoler to teach. See SCHOOL.] To go to school; to study. Obs.

scol'e·site (skŏl'ē·zīt; skō'lē-). Var. of SCOLECITE.

scol'i·ces, n., pl. of SCOLEX.

sco'li·on (skō'lĭ·ŏn), n.; pl. -LIA (-ä). [Gr. skolion, fr. skolios crooked. See CYLINDER.] Gr. Antiq. A song, often impromptu, sung to the lyre, which guests at banquets were called upon in turn to furnish.

sco'li·o'sis (skō'lĭ·ō'sĭs; skōl'ĭ-), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skoliōsis crookedness, fr. skolios crooked.] Med. A lateral curvature of the spine. — sco'li·ot'ic (-ŏt'ĭk), adj.

sco'lite (skō'lĭt), n. [Gr. skōlēx a worm + -lite.] Paleontol. Any of various tubular structures found in rocks and believed to be fossil burrows of marine worms.

scol'lop (skŏl'ŭp), n. [Ir. scolb. Cf. SCALLOM, SCOB.] A twig or peg used to fasten down thatch. Cf. SCOB. Anglo-Ir.

scol'lop (skŏl'ŭp), scol'lop·er, etc. Vars. of SCALLOP, etc.

sco·log' (skō·lŏg'), n. Also sco·loc' (-lŏg'). [Ir. scolōg, fr. scoil school.] Ir. & Scot. a A student, scholar. b A farm servant, rustic. c A lay brother or one of the lowest grade of clergy in a monastery.

scol'o·pa'ceous (skŏl'ō·pā'shŭs), adj. [See SCOLOPAX.] Resembling a snipe.

Scol'o·pac'i·dae (skŏl'ō·păs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See SCOLOPAX.] Zool. A family of birds including the woodcocks, snipe, sandpipers, tattlers, curlews, godwits, etc. Its members are often included in the Charadriidae. — scol'o·pa'cine (-pā'sĭn; -sīn), adj. & n.

Scol'o·pax (skŏl'ō·păks), n. [LL., fr. Gr. skolopax.] Zool. The genus consisting of the European woodcock, S. saturata of Java and New Guinea and S. celebensis of Celebes. It formerly included some other birds. See WOODCOCK, 1.

Scolopendra. Head and Anterior Segments, seen from below. a Antenna; b Maxillary Palpus; cc Poison Fang; d Labium; e Leg of First Pair.

Scol'o·pen·dra (-pĕn'drä), n. [L., a kind of multiped, fr. Gr. skolopendra.] 1. Zool. a genus of chilopods including some of the largest centipedes. See CENTIPEDE, Illust. 2. [not cap.] a Obs. A fabulous sea fish. b A centipede.

Scol'o·pen·drel'la (-pĕn·drĕl'ä), n. [NL., dim. See SCOLOPENDRA.] Zool. A genus of small terrestrial arthropods (myriapods) having 15 or 16 dorsal scutes and 12 pairs of short legs. The genus is the type of a family Scolopendrella (S. immaculata). Enlarged.

Scol'o·pen·drel'li·dae (-ĭ·dē), which constitutes the class Symphyla. — scol'o·pen·drel'loid (-oid), adj.

Scol'o·pen'dri·dae (-pĕn'drĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family of centipedes of which Scolopendra is the type. — scol'o·pen'drid (-drĭd), adj. & n. — scol'o·pen'dri·form (-drĭ·fôrm), adj. — scol'o·pen'drine (-drĭn; -drīn; 156), adj. — scol'o·pen'droid (-droid), adj.

scol'o·phore (skŏl'ō·fôr; 181), n. Also sco·lop'o·phore (skō·lŏp'ō·fôr). [Gr. skolops, skolopos, a pointed instrument + -phore.] Zool. A type of integumentary sense organ in insects, believed to be auditory in function.

Scol'y·mus (skŏl'ĭ·mŭs), n. [L., a kind of thistle, fr. Gr. skolymos.] Bot. A small genus of thistlelike herbs (family Cichoriaceae), the golden thistles, of the Mediterranean region. S. hispanicus is called also Spanish oyster plant.

Sco·lyt'i·dae (skō·lĭt'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. skolyptein to cut short.] Zool. A large family of bark-boring or wood-boring rhynchophorous beetles having a very short beak and clubbed antennae, as the bark beetle Dendroctonus frontalis. They are small, but very destructive to forest trees and fruit trees. The type genus is Scol'y·tus (skŏl'ĭ·tŭs). Syn. Ipidae. — sco·lyt'id (skō·lĭt'ĭd), adj. & n.

scol'y·toid (skŏl'ĭ·toid), adj. [See SCOLYTIDAE; -OID.] Zool. a Resembling, or pertaining to, the Scolytidae. b Designating the stage next before the pupa in hypermetamorphic beetles of the family Meloidae.

Scom'ber (skŏm'bĕr), n. [L., mackerel, fr. Gr. skombros.] Zool. The genus containing the common mackerel.

scom'ber·oid (-oid), adj. & n. Zool. Scombroid. Rare.

Scom'bre·soc'i·dae (-brē·sŏs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. scomber mackerel + esox a kind of pike.] Zool. A family of synentognathous fishes of which the genus Scom'bresox (skŏm'brē·sŏks), containing the saury, is the type. Usually it comprises also the halfbeaks and flying fishes, being then equiv. to Exocoetidae in a broad sense.

Scom'bri·dae (skŏm'brĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. scomber mackerel + -idae. See SCOMBER.] Zool. A family of spiny-finned fishes (order Percomorphi) of which Scomber is the type; the mackerel family. It is usually restricted to the chub mackerels and a few allied forms besides the true mackerels, but in some classifications it is equivalent to the Scombroidea. — scom'brid (skŏm'brĭd), n. & adj.

scom'bri·form (skŏm'brĭ·fôrm), adj. Zool. a Of or pertaining to the Scombriformes. b Mackerellike.

Scom'bri·for'mes (skŏm'brĭ·fôr'mēz), n. pl. [NL. See SCOMBER.] Zool. A large group (sometimes a suborder) of spiny-finned chiefly pelagic fishes (order Percomorphi); the mackerels and their allies. They commonly have a fishshaped body, two dorsal fins, and a slender tail and are swift powerful swimmers. The group includes such important food and game fishes as the common mackerel, the tunnies, albacores, bonitos, and cavallas.

scom'brine (skŏm'brēn; -brĭn), n. A protamine obtained from the mackerel.

scom'broid (skŏm'broid), adj. [Scomber + -oid.] Zool. Like, or pertaining to, the Scombridae or Scombroidea. — scom'broid, n.

Scom·broi'de·a (skŏm·broi'dē·ä), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The Scombriformes. — scom·broi'de·an (-ăn), adj. & n.

scom'brone (skŏm'brōn), n. A histone obtained from the mackerel.

sconce (skŏns; 232), n. [ME. skonse, fr. OF. esconse lantern, hiding place, fr. ML. sconsa, fr. L. absconděre, absconsum, to hide. See ABSCOND; cf. RECONDITE.] 1. a Obs. A screened lantern or candlestick with a handle. b A flat candlestick with a handle. 2. a A bracket candlestick or group of candlesticks projecting or hanging from a plate or plaque, and usually forming an ornamental object, secured to a wall. b Erron., a similar wall plate from which projects an ornamental object, as a small shelf or cup to receive decorative objects. c In a candlestick, the circular socket, esp. when having a brim, into which the candle is inserted.

sconce (skŏns), n. [D. schans sconce, bulwark, wall, orig., of, or with, wickerwork. Cf. ENSCONCE.] 1. A protection, cover, shelter, protecting cover or screen, or the like. 2. The head; skull; also, brains; sense. Colloq.

To knock him about the sconce with a dirty shovel. Shak.

3. Fort. A detached or isolated defensive work; specif., a counterfort or redoubt built to defend a particular point. 4. A partition. Scot. & N. of Eng. 5. A box to shelter a bell. 6. A fine. See 4th SCONCE. 7. A fixed seat or shelf, as a chimney seat. Chiefly Dial. 8. A pretext; a trick; an excuse. Dial. Eng.

sconce (skŏns; 232), v. t.; SCONCED (skŏnst); SCONC'ING (skŏn'sĭng). To provide with a sconce, or fortified defense; entrench; shelter; screen.

sconce, v. t. To mulct; fine; specif., at some English universities, to fine, often in ale or the like, for a breach of the rules or customs.

sconce, v. t. Clipped form of ensconce.

sconc'er (skŏn'sĕr), n. A malingerer. Dial.

scon'cheon (skŏn'chŭn), n. [OF. escoinson (F. écoinçon, écoinson), escoisson, fr. LL. excussio a beating or striking out, a shaking down; influenced in F. by coin angle, corner. See EXCUSS; cf. ESCONSON, SQUINCH.] Arch. The part of the side of an opening from the back of the reveal to the inside face of the wall, usually forming in the masonry a rebate in which the wooden frame is set.

sconc'i·ble (skŏn'sĭ·b'l), adj. Subject to a sconce, or fine.

scone (skōn; skŏn), n. [Prob. fr. MD. schoonbrot (D. schoonbrood) fine bread. See SHEEN.] 1. A kind of round teacake originally cooked on a griddle and cut in quadrants; now often, a rich, baking-powder biscuit containing currants, usually quadrant-shaped. Orig. Scot. 2. A kind of broad bonnet resembling a barley scone, worn by Lowland Scots; — called also scone cap.

scoon (skōon), v. t. & i. [Also scon, scun, prob. of Scand. origin; cf. ON. skunda, skynda, to hurry, Dan. skynde, Sw. skynda. Cf. SCHOONER.] To skim, sail, or skip on the surface of the water. Dial.

scoop (skōōp), n. [ME. scope, partly fr. MLG., MD. schōpe scoop, ladle (akin to G. schöpfen to draw water), and partly fr. MD. schoppe, MLG. schuppe a shovel (whence G. schüppe; akin to E. SHOVE). Cf. SCUPPER.] 1. A large ladle; a vessel with a long handle, used for dipping or skimming liquids. 2. A deep shovel, or similar implement for digging out and dipping or for shoveling; as, a flour scoop. 3. A small utensil for cutting or gouging, often with a spoon-shaped blade; as, a cheese scoop. 4. a The bucket of a dredging machine. b A receptacle with high curved sides, used to hold a loose bulk commodity on a weighing scale. 5. A scoop net. 6. Act of scooping, or taking with a scoop or ladle; a motion with, or like that made with, a scoop. 7. A place hollowed out; a basinlike cavity; a hollow. 8. = BEAT, n., 15. Chiefly Newspaper Slang. 9. An amount of something obtained in large quantity, as if with a scoop, as large profits in speculation. Colloq. 10. Surg. A spoon-shaped instrument, used in extracting certain substances or foreign bodies.

scoop (skōōp), v.; SCOOPED (skōōpt); SCOOP'ING. [ME. scopen. See SCOOP, n.] Transitive: 1. To take out or up with or as with a scoop; to lade out; as, to scoop out water; to scoop up fish. 2. a To empty by lading; as, to scoop a boat dry. b To make hollow, as a scoop or dish; to excavate; to dig out. 3. To fashion by or as by scooping; — often with out. 4. To gather in, as if with a scoop, esp. to the exclusion of competitors; as, to scoop in a good profit. Colloq. 5. To get a scoop, or a beat, on (a rival). See BEAT, n., 15. Newspaper Slang. 6. Field Hockey. To lift (the ball) into the air with the stick without taking a preliminary swing.

—, Intransitive: To do lading, hollowing, or gathering with or as with a scoop.

scoop (skōōp). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of SCOPE.

scoop bonnet. A bonnet with a long, narrow front shaped somewhat like a scoop, formerly much worn by women.

scoop driver. A workman who assists in charging gas retorts by means of a scoop.

scooped (skōōpt), adj. Given scooplike form.

scoop'er (skōōp'ĕr), n. 1. One who uses or works with a scoop, as a grain unloader or centrifugal machine charger. 2. Something that scoops; specif., a small chisel with a scooplike blade, used by wood engravers. 3. a An avocet. b The shoveler.

scoop'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SCOOP. Hence: adj. That scoops, or that is fitted with a scoop. — scoop'ing·ly, adv.

scoop'ing, n. Act of one who scoops; also, a place scooped out; that which is scooped.

scooping avocet. The scooper.

scoop net. A shallow dip net on a handle, used in fishing; also, a net for sweeping the bottom of a river.

scoop wheel. A wheel with scoops or buckets on its circumference, as for raising water. See PERSIAN WHEEL.

scoot (skōōt), n. [Prob. of Scand. origin. See SHOOT.] 1. A sudden flow, as of water from a hose. Scot. 2. A squirter or shooter, as a syringe or popgun. Scot. & Ir. 3. An act of scooting, or darting. Colloq. 4. A single logging sled; a dray. Cant.

scoot, v.; SCOOT'ED; SCOOT'ING. Intransitive: 1. To shoot or squirt forth, as water from a hose. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir. 2. Colloq. a To go suddenly and swiftly; to dart; scud. b To slide suddenly. c To go away in haste; decamp.

—, Transitive: To cause to scoot; Scot., to squirt.

scoot (skōōt), n. In hardwood lumber a piece below No. 4 common grade, inferior to any recognized grade; hence, any lumber that is very defective and practically worthless.

scoot, interj. Begone quickly. Colloq.

scoot. Var. of SCOUT.

scoot. Local Brit. var. of SCHUIT.

scoot. A scoter. Local, U. S.

scoot'er (skōōt'ĕr), n. 1. A strongly built sailboat having a flat bottom shod with steel runners, and a sharply rising stem, for sailing through the water or over the ice as either is met with. Local, U. S. 2. Agric. Mach. A kind of plow with a single handle and single shovel, used for marking furrows, opening furrows for seed, breaking up soil between crop rows, etc. 3. One who or that which scoots. Colloq. & Dial. 4. A syringe; a squirt. Scot. & N. of Eng. 5. A child's vehicle consisting commonly of a narrow board mounted on two wheels tandem, and guided by means of a handle attached to the front wheel. The child stands with one foot on the board and pushes with the other foot. 6. Naut. A glider. See GLIDER, n., 2.

scoot'er (skōōt'ĕr), v. i. To go on a scooter.

scoot'er. Var. of SCOTER.

sco'pa (skō'pä), n.; pl. SCOPAE (-pē). [L., broom.] Zool. The pollen brush of a bee.

sco'pa·rin (skō'pä·rĭn), n. Chem. A yellow crystalline compound, $C_{23}O_8O_{11}$, the coloring matter of the flowers of broom (Cytisus scoparius).

sco·par'i·us (skō·pâr'ĭ·ŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. scopa broom.] Pharm. The dried tops of the common broom (Cytisus scoparius) containing the alkaloid sparteine, used as a diuretic in dropsy.

sco'pate (skō'pāt), adj. [L. scopae, scopa, a broom.] Zool. Brushlike; scopiferous.

scope (skōp), n. [It. scopo, fr. L. scopus, scopos, fr. Gr. skopos a watcher, mark, aim; akin to Gr. skepteisthai, skopein, to view. See SPY; cf. BISHOP, HOROSCOPE, SKEPTIC.] 1. a Archaic. That at which one aims or to which the mind directs its view; ultimate design; intention; object. b Obs. One who is sought or desired. 2. Intent; import; — of a writing or discourse; also, subject matter; theme. Archaic. 3. Obs. a A target, butt, or mark to be shot at; hence, a goal. b Med. A method of treatment. c An act of license or excess. 4. a Room or opportunity for free outlook, aim, or action; amplitude of opportunity; free course or vent; liberty.

Excuse me if I have given too much scope to the reflections which have arisen in my mind. Burke.

b Space for freedom of movement; room; range; as, scope to spread their branches. 5. a Distance within which a missile carries; range; as, the scope of a bow. b Obs. exc. Dial. A tract of land, esp. a wide tract. c Length; extent; sweep; as, scope of cable. 6. a Range or extent of view, intent, or mental activity.

Intellectual cultivation of no moderate . . . scope. Hawthorne.

b The range within which an activity displays itself; as, the scope of Napoleon's genius; also, the field to which a subject is limited; as, the scope of an art or a memoir.

Syn. — See RANGE.

-scope (-skōp). [NL. -scopium, fr. Gr. -skopion (as in hydroskopion hydroscope), fr. skopein to view. See SCOPE.] A combining form denoting a means, usually an instrument, for viewing (with the eye) or observing (in any way), as in microscope. Cf. -SCOPY. The meanings of the following if not entered and defined, may be understood from the definitions of their elements.

aeroscope	galvanoscope	pharyngoscope altiscope	gyroscope	photoscope anemoscope	haploscope	pluvioscope auscultoscope	helioscope	polariscope autoscope	hydroscope	radioscope baroscope	inductoscope	rheoscope bioscope	kaleidoscope	roentgenoscope bronchoscope	kinetoscope	seismoscope chromatoscope	lithoscope	selenoscope chronoscope	magnetoscope	sideroscope cyclonoscope	nepheloscope	sniperscope cymoscope	odontoscope	spectroscope cystoscope	oöscope	stereoscope dichroscope	ophthalmoscope	stethoscope electroscope	oscilloscope	telescope embryoscope	otoscope	thermoscope endoscope	pantascope	uranoscope enteroscope	periscope	vitascope esophagoscope	phantascope	zymoscope scope (skōp), n. & v. [ON. skopa, v.] Skip; leap. Obs.

scope, n. Short for MICROSCOPE; TELESCOPE SIGHT; HOROSCOPE.

scope. Obs. past tense of SCAPE.

scope (skōp). Var. of SCALP; SCOOP. Obs. exc. Dial.

sco'pel·ism (skō'pĕl·ĭz'm), n. [Gr. skopelos a high rock.] 1. Rockiness. Obs. 2. Anthropol. The piling or scattering of stones on a field as a threat or as a hindrance to tillage.

scopi-. A combining form from Latin scopa, denoting a brush, as in sco·pif'er·ous, sco'pi·form.

sco'pic (skŏp'ĭk), adj. [See -SCOPIC.] Visual; — said of a kind of telegraph.

-scop'ic (-skŏp'ĭk). Bot. A combining form from Greek skopein to view, signifying looking in a (specified) direction, as in basi*scopic.* To be distinguished from derivatives from words in -scope or -scopy, formed by adding -ic, as in microsco*pic*, geosco*pic.*

Scop'i·dae (skŏp'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., irreg. fr. Gr. skia shadow.] Zool. Family consisting of the umbrette.

sco'pine (skō'pēn; -pĭn), n. Also -pin. [*scop*olamine + -ine.] Chem. A crystalline alkaloid, $C_8H_{12}NO_2$, obtained by hydrolysis of scopolamine.

sco'pi·ped (skō'pĭ·pĕd), adj. & n. [L. scopae, scopa, a broom + pes, pedis, a foot.] Scopuliped.

sco'po·la (skō'pō·lä), n. Pharm. The dried rhizome of Scopolia carniolica (family Solanaceae), used as a hypnotic and analgesic. It contains the alkaloids scopolamine (hyoscine), atropine, and hyoscyamine.

sco·pol'a·mine (skō·pŏl'ä·mēn, -mĭn; skō'pō·lä·mēn'; -lăm'ĭn), n. Also -min. [G. scopolamin, fr. NL. Scopolia a genus of plants (after G. A. Scopoli (1723–88), of Pavia) + amine.] Chem. An alkaloid, $C_{17}H_{21}NO_4$, occurring in the roots of herbs of the genus Scopolia and other genera of the Solanaceae; specif., as used by some, the crystalline optically inactive variety (i-scopolamine or atroscine). The natural alkaloid is levorotatory (levo- or l-scopolamine, usually called hyoscine) and crystallizes with one molecule of water. A sirupy dextrorotatory form is also known. Scopolamine is an ester of scopine and tropic acid. Scopolamine hydrobromide is used as a mydriatic, a sedative, and a hypnotic. In combination with morphine, it is used to produce partial anesthesia (twilight sleep) in obstetrics.

scoll. † SKOAL, SKULL. scoll. † SCHOOL.
scol'ler. † SCHOLAR.
Scol'o·pen'dri·um (skŏl'ō·pĕn'drĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skolopendrion a fern.] Syn. of PHYLLITIS. [PHORE.] sco·lop'o·phore, n. = SCOLO-scom'fish Var. of SCUMFISH. scom'fit, n. & v. Discomfit; defeat. Obs.— scom'fi·ture, n. Obs. scomm (skŏm), n. [L. scomma a taunt, jeer, scoff, Gr. skōmma, fr. skōptein to mock, scoff at.] A flout; jeer; gibe. Obs. scom·mat'ic, adj. [Gr. skōmmatikos.] Derisive; scoffing. Obs. scom'mer. † SCUMMER. scon (skŏn). Var. of SCONE. scon'ner. Var. of SCUNNER. sconse. Var. of SCONCE. sconst. Sconced. Ref. Sp. scon'tion. Var. of SCONCHEON. scooch. Var. of SCOUCH. scoog (skōōg). Var. of SCUG, shade. scool. School. Ref. Sp. scoon'er. Schooner. Obs. exc. Ref. Sp. See SCHOONER, n., Note. scoop'ful, n. See -FUL. scoopt. Scooped. Ref. Sp. scoor (skōōr). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SCOUR. scoore. † SCORE; SCOUR. scop (skŏp; skōp), n. [AS. scop, scoop.] A bard; poet. Obs. exc. Hist. scope'ful, adj. Extensive; inclusive. Obs. scope'less, adj. See -LESS.
Sco·pel'i·dae (skō·pĕl'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See SCOPELUS.] Zool. Syn. of MYCTOPHIDAE. See LANTERN FISH. — sco·pel'id (-ĭd), n. — sco·pel'i·form (-ĭ·fôrm), adj. — sco·pel'o·loid (skō·pĕl'ō·loid), adj. & n.
Sco·pel'us (skō·pĕl'ŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skopelos a high rock.] Zool. Syn. of MYCTOPHUM. See LANTERN FISH, Illust.
Scopes trial (skōps). = DAYTON TRIAL. sco·pet' (skō·pĕt'). Dial. var. of ESCOPETTE. Southwestern U. S. sco'pi·form·ly, adv. of SCOPIFORM. sco'pi·ous, adj. [From SCOPE, n.] Spacious. Obs. sco'po·la. Var. of SCOPOLIA.

sco·po'le·ine (skō·pō'lē·ēn; -ĭn), n. Also -in. Chem. Any of a series of esters that yield scopoline on hydrolysis.

sco'po·le'tin (skō'pō·lē'tĭn; skō·pō'lē·tĭn), n. Chem. A crystalline compound, $C_{10}H_8O_4$, found in the roots of certain herbs (genus Scopolia), in belladonna, and in other plants. It is a methyl ether of esculetin.

sco'po·line (skō'pō·lēn; -lĭn), n. Also -lin. Chem. A crystalline alkaloid, $C_8H_{13}NO_3$, obtained from scopine or scopolamine by action of acids or alkalies; — called also oscine. It is isomeric with, and closely related to, scopine.

scop'er·il (skŏp'ĕr·ĭl), n. [Cf. Icel. skopparakringla a top, skoppa to spin like a top.] Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. a A teetotum; a spinning top. b A restless, active creature, esp. a squirrel or lively child. c A seton.

scops owl (skŏps). A small, eared owl of Scops or a related genus.

scop'ti·cal (skŏp'tĭ·kăl), adj. [Gr. skōptikos, fr. skōptein to mock.] Jesting; jeering; scoffing. — scop'ti·cal·ly, adv. Both Obs.

scop'u·la (skŏp'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAS (-lȧz), -LAE (-lē). [L. scopulae, pl., a little broom.] Zool. a A bushlike tuft of hairs, as a scopa, or that on the feet and chelicerae of spiders, that is used in making the web. b An ornamented type of rhabdus.

Scopula of a Spider (Saltieus). b Lower Side; c Side View, with Claws and Hairs of the Foot. Much enlarged.

Scop'u·la'ri·a (-ū·lā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. pl. [NL. See SCOPULA.] Zool. A group of hexactinellid sponges having scopulate spicules. — scop'u·lar'i·an (-lâr'ĭ·ăn), adj.

scop'u·late (skŏp'ū·lăt), adj. Zool. Brushlike.

scopuli-. A combining form for scopula, as in scop'u·lif'er·ous, scop'u·li·form'. See -FEROUS, -FORM.

Scop'u·lip'e·des (skŏp'ū·lĭp'ĭ·dēz), n. pl. [L. scopulae, pl., a little broom (fr. scopae a broom) + pes, pedis, foot.] Zool. Formerly, a group of solitary nonparasitic bees having a brush of hairs on the hind legs for collecting pollen. It includes the carpenter bees and various others. — scop'u·li·ped' (skŏp'ū·lĭ·pĕd'), adj. & n.

scop'u·lite (skŏp'ū·lĭt), n. [See SCOPULA.] Petrog. A crystallite in the form of a stem with a radiating terminal brush or a number of lateral brushes.

Sco'pus (skō'pŭs), n. [NL. See SCOPIDAE.] Zool. The genus consisting of the umbrette.

-scopus. [NL., fr. Gr. skopos. See SCOPE.] Zool. A combining form denoting one that watches, used in generic names, as in Phyllo*scopus.*

-scopy. [Gr. -skopia (as in aero*skopia*), fr. skopein to view.] A combining form denoting viewing, examination, scrutiny, observation, as in the following list. Cf. -SCOPE.

bacterioscopy	microscopy	radioscopy cryoscopy	ophthalmoscopy	skiascopy fluoroscopy	organoscopy	spectroscopy galvanoscopy	photoscopy	uranoscopy laryngoscopy	polariscopy scor'bute (skôr'būt), n. [F. scorbut, fr. ML. scorbutus, of obscure origin.] Scurvy. Obs.

scor·bu'tic (skôr·bū'tĭk), adj. Also scor·bu'ti·cal. [F. scorbutique.] a Med. Of or pertaining to scurvy; of the nature of, or like, scurvy; diseased with scurvy. b Obs. Antiscorbutic. — scor·bu'ti·cal·ly, adv.

scor·bu'tic, n. 1. a Obs. Scurvy. b One having scurvy. 2. An antiscorbutic.

scor'bu·tize (skôr'bū·tīz), v. t. To affect with scurvy.

scor·bu'tus (skôr·bū'tŭs), n. [ML.] Med. Scurvy.

scorch (skôrch), v.; SCORCHED (skôrcht); SCORCH'ING. [Prob. fr. earlier scorkle, scorken, fr. ON. skorpna to dry up, shrivel; but influenced by OF. escorchier to strip off bark, to flay, to skin (F. écorcher), fr. (assumed) VL. excorticare, fr. L. ex from + cortex, -icis, bark.] Transitive: 1. To burn superficially; to parch the surface of by heat; to heat so as to change color and texture without consuming; as, to scorch linen, paint, meat, etc.

2. To shrivel with or as with heat; hence, figuratively, to affect painfully with burning criticism, sarcasm, or the like.

3. To burn; to destroy by or as by fire. Archaic.

Power was given unto him to scorch men with fire. Rev. xvi. 8.

—, Intransitive: 1. To become scorched.

2. To burn its way. Rare.

The scarlet letter, which forthwith seemed to scorch into Hester's breast, as if it had been red hot. Hawthorne.

3. To ride or drive at great, usually at excessive, speed; — applied chiefly to automobilists and bicyclists. Colloq.

Syn. — SCORCH, SINGE, PARCH, SEAR, CHAR agree in denoting the effect of heat, esp. upon surfaces. To SCORCH is to heat superficially so as to cause change of color or texture; to SINGE is to burn esp. the tips or ends of something; as, to scorch one's clothes before the fire, to singe one's hair or eyebrows by going through flames; cf. to singe a chicken. PARCH emphasizes the idea of drying or shriveling, SEAR, that of hardening of tissues, CHAR, that of reduction to cinder; as, to parch corn; cf. "my parched lips" (Shak.); to sear the flesh; cf. "having their conscience seared with a hot iron" (1 Tim. iv. 2); the charred rafters.

scorch (skôrch), n. 1. Result of scorching; a surface burn; also, heat that scorches.

2. Act of scorching; hence, a run at high speed, as in a motor vehicle.

3. Plant Pathol. Scorching; specif., leaf scorch.

scorch (skôrch), v. t. [Cf. SCOTCH to score.] To cut; score; slash; scratch. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

We have scorch'd the snake, not killed it. Shak.

scorched (skôrcht), adj. Parched or discolored by or as by scorching.

scorch'er (skôr'chĕr), n. One that scorches; specif.: a Anything very hot, as a day; hence, anything withering or caustic, as a rebuke or sarcasm. b One who rides or drives at an excessive rate or speed. c One creating a sensation. All Chiefly Slang.

scorch'er, n. One who scorches, as for marking cutlery or in coloring sticks.

scorch'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SCORCH. Specif.: adj. Parching or shriveling with heat; hence, withering; stinging. — scorch'ing·ly, adv. — scorch'ing·ness, n.

scorch'ing, n. 1. Act of one that scorches; specif., Colloq., fast riding; speeding.

2. Plant Pathol. A brownish or scorched appearance of the tissues; a symptom of certain diseases caused by heat or parasites.

scorch'ing, n. A piece detached by scorching. Obs.

‖scor·da'to (skôr·dä'tō), adj. [It., lit., made discordant.] Music. a Out of tune. b Altered in tuning for particular effects.

‖scor'da·tu'ra (skôr'dä·tōō'rä), n. [It.] Music. An unusual tuning of a stringed instrument for some special effect.

scor'di·um (skôr'dĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. skordion a plant smelling like garlic, fr. skordon garlic.] The water germander (Teucrium scordium), having a fancied garlic-like odor. Obs.

score (skōr; 181), n. [ME. scor, fr. ON. skor notch, tally, akin to AS. sceran, scieran, to shear, cut. See SHEAR.] 1. A notch or incision, esp. one made as a tally mark; hence, a mark or line made for the purpose of keeping account; also, formerly, a stick on which an account was so kept; a tally (which see).

2. Hence: a A line or long mark, as a scratch; esp. a mark as a starting point or a goal; a taw. b Cut; slash, as of a whip. c A notch, as one made in timber, in which another part is fitted. d A mark made on the surface of a pavement by traffic.

3. An account or reckoning kept by making marks on a tally; hence, any account; also, amount due; indebtedness.

He parted well, and paid his score. Shak.

4. An obligation or injury kept in mind for requital; as, to settle old scores.

5. Account; reason; motive; as, excused on the score of illness; also Obs., behalf; sake.

You act your kindness in Cydaria's score. Dryden.

6. Act or instance of scoring; figuratively, Colloq., a successful move, stroke, etc.; a kit.

7. Enumeration; number. Obs.

8. A unit or group of twenty, as being the number represented by a notch or mark on a tally; hence, in pl., a large number; as, a score of people; the disease killed men by scores.

9. A weight of 20 or 21 pounds (9.1 or 9.5 kg.). Dial. Eng.

10. Twenty yards as a unit of distance.

As easy as a cannon will shoot point-blank twelve score. Shak.

11. The number of points gained by contestants in a game or other contest; hence, an account of points made and other specific items in a game or contest.

12. Degree of success in a test; hence, rating as of an individual or a school. Cf. sense 16, below.

13. Agric. The rating obtained by the use of a score card in judging livestock, etc.

14. Music. The original and entire draft, or its transcript, of a composition or an arrangement, with the parts for all the different instruments or voices written on staves one above another, so that they can be read at a glance; — so called from the bar, which, in its early use, was drawn through all the parts. A full, or orchestral, score has a separate staff for each kind of instrument. A compressed, or short score, has fewer staffs, the less important parts being omitted. A piano score has the instrumental parts condensed upon two staffs. A vocal score usually has a staff for each voice part, or one staff for the two upper, and one for the two lower, voice parts, often with piano or organ accompaniment.

15. Naut. The groove cut at the ends and sides of a block to admit the strap.

16. Psychol. & Educ. A number expressing the degree of success in a test, in terms of the amount performed, or of the time required, or of the difficulty surmounted, or of the accuracy and excellence of the performance. From this crude, or raw, score may be derived scores in terms of mental age or of percentile standing, etc.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

scoreboard	score card	scorekeeping
scorebook	scorekeeper	score sheet

— in score. Music. Having all the parts arranged and placed in juxtaposition. — to go off at score. a Pedestrianism, etc. To go briskly from the score or scratch; hence, to start off briskly; to proceed without hesitancy or break. b To lose command or control of oneself.

-score. A combining form of the noun score, as in five*score.*

score (skōr; 181), v.; SCORED (skōrd); SCOR'ING (skōr'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To cut so as to mark with lines, scratches, or notches; to notch; scratch; furrow; as, to score timber for hewing or hides in skinning; scored with ancient scars.

2. a To record by cuts or notches; — with on or upon.

She will score your fault upon my pate. Shak.

b To lash so as to mark with welts; figuratively, to excoriate. c To berate; scold.

3. To mark with a line or lines; esp.: a To mark with significant lines or notches, as in keeping account of something; as, to score a tally. b Archaic. To indicate by or as by lines; — with out; as, to score out a path. c To cancel by drawing a line through; — usually with out.

4. To keep record or account of by or as by notches on a tally; to set down; to record; charge.

Nor need I tallies thy dear love to score. Shak.

5. Hence: a To enumerate in a record; count; list; reckon; — often with up. b To enter a record of the indebtedness of; — often with up; as, scoring up the customers. c Obs. To place the responsibility or blame for. d To add to one's score.

6. In games, sports, etc.: a To make an entry or entries of the score of. b To gain for addition to the score, as points, runs, etc.; as, to score honors. c To count or have as value; as, a touchdown scores six. d To place to one's score.

7. To rate or judge on the basis of a score card or scale of points, as livestock, dairy products, fruit, etc.

8. To determine the merit of; to grade; to mark; as, to score a test or examination.

9. To achieve as an indisputable gain; as, to score a success.

10. Bookbinding. To crease heavily (a sheet or sections) to facilitate folding or bending. Scoring is sometimes done with a series of narrow parallel wheels of abrasive material, which remove a very slight portion of the paper.

11. Cookery. To gash in parallel lines, as liver.

12. Geol. To abrade in parallel lines or scratches; — of moving ice.

13. Motion Pictures. To add music to a picture that already has sound effects.

14. Music. To orchestrate or arrange.

15. Print. To partly crease or cut (paper or cardboard) so that it will fold easily at a desired line.

16. Racing. To bring to the score ready to start, as a horse.

—, Intransitive: 1. To run up a score, or account of indebtedness.

2. Rare. a To make marks. b To mark lines, as by incision. c To cut.

3. a To keep the score in a game. b To make or count a point or points, as in a game; to tally; as, we scored in the 7th inning; also, to win or have the advantage; to make a success, as a play.

4. a To come to the score ready to start, as a horse in a race. b = to go off at score, under SCORE, n.

score aboon the breath. To gash a cross on the brow or upper face of (a supposed witch). Scot.

scored (skōrd), adj. Marked with lines or grooves.

score playing. Music. The performance upon a keyboard instrument of the essential parts of an orchestral score.

scor'er (skōr'ĕr; 181), n. One who or that which scores; as: a A lumberman who marks trees to be felled. b An instrument used for scoring, as a creasing machine, or a nib on a woodworking bit for scoring the wood in advance of the lip that removes the shaving. c A workman who cuts bone in jumps. d A worker who marks paper for creasing or feeds a creasing machine. e In games, the scorekeeper; also, a contestant who makes a score.

sco'ri·a (skō'rĭ·ȧ; 181), n.; pl. SCORIAE (-ē). [L., fr. Gr. skōria, fr. skōr dung, ordure; akin to Skr. avaskara. See 2d EXCREMENT.] 1. The refuse from melting of metals, reduction of ores, etc.; dross; slag; also, cellular, slaggy lava or a fragment of it.

2. Petrog. Rough, vesicular, cinderlike lava, generally dark, developed by the expansion of the enclosed gases in basaltic magma.

sco'ri·ac (skō'rĭ·ăk), adj. Scoriaceous.

sco'ri·a'ceous (-ā'shŭs), adj. Of the nature of scoria.

sco'ri·fi·ca'tion (skō'rĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn; 181), n. [See SCORIFY.] Act, process, or result of scorifying; specif., in assaying, a process involving the use of a scorifier and consisting either in an oxidizing fusion of the ore or other product with lead, borax, etc., to produce a slag and leave the gold and silver in a lead button, or in such a fusion of the lead button (obtained either as above or by fusion in a crucible) to reduce its size or purify it for cupellation. In scorification the volatile materials (lead oxide) produced form a slag, in cupellation they are absorbed by the cupel.

sco'ri·fi'er (skō'rĭ·fī'ĕr; 181), n. 1. One who or that which scorifies. See SCORIFICATION.

2. A furnace in which sweepings containing waste gold or silver are burnt, preparatory to extracting the gold and silver.

Scorifier, 1.

sco'ri·form (skō'rĭ·fôrm; 181), adj. Having the form of scoria.

sco'ri·fy (skō'rĭ·fī; 181), v. t.; SCO'RI·FIED (-fīd); SCO'RI·FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [scoria + -fy.] To reduce to scoria, or slag; to subject to scorification.

scor'ing (skōr'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SCORE. Hence: n. Act or process of making a score (in various senses); also, the score made; specif., scratches or grooves collectively, as those made on rock by glaciers.

sco'ri·ous (skō'rĭ·ŭs; 181), adj. Scoriaceous; containing scoria.

scorn (skôrn), n. [ME. scorn, scarn, fr. OF. escarn, of Teut. origin; cf. OHG. skern mockery, skernōn to mock; appar. influenced by OF. escorner (F. écorner) to disgrace, lit., to unhorn.] 1. Disdain or passionate contempt; an emotion involving both anger and disgust; also, its expression in derision.

Scorn at first makes after love the more. Shak.

2. An expression of extreme contempt; gibe; flout; taunt.

3. An object of extreme disdain, contempt, or derision.

Thou makest us a reproach to our neighbors, a scorn and a derision to them that are round about us. Ps. xliv. 13.

4. State of one scorned; disgrace; contumely; indignity. Obs.

Syn. — Derision, contumely. Ant. — See SYMPATHY.

scorn (skôrn), v.; SCORNED (skôrnd); SCORN'ING. [ME. scornen, scarnen, fr. OF. escarnir, of Teut. origin. See SCORN, n.] Transitive: 1. To treat with extreme contempt; to make the object of insult; to mock; to scoff at; to deride. Archaic.

To taunt and scorn you thus opprobriously. Shak.

2. To hold in, or reject with, extreme contempt; to despise; contemn; disdain; as, he scorned to lie.

I scorn thy meat; 't would choke me. Shak.

—, Intransitive: To scoff; to mock; to show contumely or derision; to act disdainfully. Archaic.

Syn. — See DESPISE. Ant. — Honor.

scorned (skôrnd), adj. Treated with, or held in, scorn.

scorn'er (skôr'nĕr), n. One who scorns; a mocker.

scorn'ful (skôrn'fŏōl; -fĭl), adj. 1. Full of scorn or contempt; contemptuous; disdainful; — often with of.

2. Treated with scorn; exciting scorn. Obs.

Syn. — Contumelious, insolent. See CONTEMPTUOUS.

— scorn'ful·ly, adv. — scorn'ful·ness, n.

scorn'y (skôr'nĭ), adj. Scornful.

scor'o·dite (skŏr'ō·dīt), n. [G. scorodit, fr. Gr. skorodon garlic; — so called in allusion to its smell under the blowpipe.] Mineral. A leek-green or brownish mineral in orthorhombic crystals and in earthy form. It is hydrous ferric arsenate, $FeAsO_4.2H_2O$. H., 3.5–4. Sp. gr., 3.1–3.3.

Scor·pae'ni·dae (skôr·pē'nĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. scorpaena a kind of fish, fr. Gr. skorpaina.] Zool. A large family of marine spiny-finned fishes, of the group Scleroparei. They have a large head with usually one or more pairs of spiniferous ridges above, wide gill openings, and are usually covered with ctenoid scales. The dorsal fin is usually supported by strong spines, which in some forms have poison glands and inflict severe wounds. They occur in all seas but are most abundant in the Pacific. Nearly all are used for food. The type genus is Scor·pae'na (-nȧ), containing numerous species of warm and warm-temperate seas. —scor·pae'nid (-nĭd), n.—scor·pae'noid (-noid), adj. & n.

scor'pene (skôr'pēn), n. [F. scorpène.] A fish of Scorpaena or allied genus, as the hogfish (S. scrofa) of Europe, and S. guttata of the coast of southern California.

scorp'er (skôr'pĕr), n. 1. Var. of SCAUPER.

2. A jeweler's chisel for engraving, cutting, or piercing metal.

Scor·pid'i·dae (skôr·pĭd'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Scorpis, type genus, fr. Gr. skorpis a kind of seafish.] Zool. A small family of scaly-finned fishes (Percomorphi) of the Pacific Ocean having a deep, compressed body, well-developed teeth, and a single dorsal fin. It includes the half-moon.

Scor'pi·id (skôr'pĭ·ĭd), n. [Scorpio + 1st -id.] Astron. Any of a shower of meteors whose radiant lies in Scorpio.

Scor'pi·o (-ō), n. [L., a scorpion.] 1. Astron. a [gen. Rare, SCORPIONIS (-ō'nĭs); cf. SCORPIUS.] A southern constellation partly in the Milky Way, and adjoining Libra, pictorially represented as a scorpion; the Scorpion. It contains the bright star Antares. b The eighth sign of the zodiac, marked ♏ in almanacs.

2. Astrol. A nocturnal, feminine sign, phlegmatic, northern, cold, and watery, the night mansion of Mars. See SIGN, n., 12.

3. Zool. The typical genus of scorpions.

scop'pet. † SCUPPET.

scop'to·pho'bi·a (skŏp'tō·fō'bĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., erron. (as if fr. a Gr. skoptos observed) for scopophobia, fr. Gr. skopos a watcher + -phobia.] See -PHOBIA.

scop'u·lous (skŏp'ū·lŭs), adj. [L. scopulosus, fr. scopulus a rock, fr. Gr. skopelos.] Rocky. Obs. — scop'u·lous·ness, n.

scor'buch, n. Scurvy. Obs.

scorce. Var. of SCORSE. Dial.

scorch'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

scorcht. Scorched. Ref. Sp.

score'less, adj. See -LESS.

sco'rey (skō'rĭ; skôr'ĭ). Var. of SCAURIE. Scot. [SCAURIE. Scot.] sco'rie (skō'rĭ; skôr'ĭ). Var. of SCORIA.

scor'kle, v. t. [Cf. SCORCH to burn.] To scorch. Obs.

scornd. Scorned. Ref. Sp.

scorn'ing·ly, adv. of scorning, pres. part.

scorn'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

scorpe. Dial. var. of SCARP.

scor'pi·ac (skôr'pĭ·ăk), adj. Scorpionlike. Obs.

Scor'pi·das (skôr'pĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] = SCORPIDAE.

Scor'pi·i, n. See SCORPIUS.

scor'pi·oid (-oid), adj. [Gr. skorpioeidēs, fr. skorpios a scorpion + eidos form.] 1. Zool. Like a scorpion; pertaining to the Scorpionida.
2. Curved at the end, like a scorpion's tail; cincinate; — chiefly Bot., and applied chiefly to inflorescence.

scor'pi·oid (skôr'pĭ·oid), n. Zool. A scorpion; one of the Scorpionida.

scor'pi·oi'dal (-oi'dăl; -d'l), adj. Scorpioid.

scorpioid cyme. See CYME.

scorpioid dichotomy. See DICHOTOMY, 4.

scor'pi·on (skôr'pĭ·ŭn; 159), n. [OF., fr. L. scorpio, scorpius, fr. Gr. skorpios.] 1. Any of numerous arachnids, of most warm and tropical regions, constituting the order Scorpionida, having an elongated body divided into a cephalothorax and a segmented abdomen, the posterior part of the latter forming a narrow segmented tail (generally carried curled up over the back) bearing a venomous sting at the tip. There are four pairs of walking legs and in front a pair of limbs (pedipalpi) bearing large pinchers, and a pair of chelicerae. They breathe by lungs and are viviparous. Scorpions are nocturnal, and prey on insects, spiders, etc., and sometimes enter houses. Some become four or five inches long, a few even eight or more. Their sting is very severe, though rarely fatal to man. Cf. WHIP SCORPION, BOOK SCORPION.

Scorpion (Androctonus occitanus), under side. a Chelicerae; b Pedipalpi; c First Pair of Legs. p Comb or Pecten; l Stigmata; s Sting.

2. Any of various lizards, esp. the pine lizard and the blue-tailed skink. Local, U. S.
3. Short for SCORPION FISH.
4. Bib. A kind of scourge, prob. one armed with metal points. 1 Kings xii. 11.
5. Something which incites to action like the severe sting of an insect.
The scorpions of absolute necessity. Arnold Bennett.
6. [cap.] Astron. = SCORPIO, 1.
7. Antiq. An ancient military engine for throwing stones, etc.; orig., a catapult; later, an onager.

scorpion broom. = SCORPION THORN.

scorpion bug. A water scorpion.

scorpion fish. a Any fish of the family Scorpaenidae. b Locally, the common toadfish (Opsanus tau).

scorpion fly. Any species of Panorpa. See MECOPTERA, Illust.

scorpion grass. = FORGET-ME-NOT, 1 a. scor'pi·on'ic (skôr'pĭ·ŏn'ĭk), adj. Pertaining to or like the scorpion.

Scor'pi·on'i·da (skôr'pĭ·ŏn'ĭ·dä), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The order of Arachnida constituted by the true scorpions. — scor'pi·o·nid (skôr'pĭ·ō·nĭd), n. & adj.

scorpion iris. A dwarf, winter-blooming iris (Iris alata), native to the Mediterranean region, sometimes cultivated for its lilac and yellow flowers.

scorpion lobster. Any slender burrowing crustacean of the family Thalassinidae.

scorpion mouse. See GRASSHOPPER MOUSE.

scorpion, or scorpion's, oil. An oil prepared from scorpions and used as an antidote for the sting of the spider. Obs.

scorpion plant. a A Javanese orchid (Renanthera arachnitis) having white flowers somewhat resembling a large spider. b The scorpion thorn.

scorpion senna. A yellow-flowered shrub (Coronilla emerus) of southern Europe, having a slender, jointed pod like a scorpion's tail.

Scorpion's Heart. See ANTARES.

scorpion shell. Any of numerous marine snails of the genus Pterocera of the family Strombidae, which have the outer lip of the aperture produced into a series of long, curved spines.

Scorpion Shell (Pterocera chiragra).

scorpion spider. A whip scorpion.

scor'pi·on's-tail' (skôr'pĭ·ŭnz-), n. Any plant of the genus Scorpiurus; — so called in allusion to the circinately coiled pod.

scorpion thorn. A thorny broom (Genista scorpius) of southern Europe.

scor'pi·on-wort' (skôr'pĭ·ŭn·wĕd'), n. The Indian heliotrope.

scor'pi·on·wort' (-wûrt'), n. a A plant (Ornithopus scorpioides), family Fabaceae, of southern Europe, having slender curved pods. b Scorpion grass.

Scor'pi·u'rus (skôr'pĭ·ū'rŭs), n. [LL., a kind of plant, fr. Gr. skorpiouros, fr. skorpios scorpion + oura tail.] Bot. A genus of herbs (family Fabaceae) of the Mediterranean region and the Canary Islands, having contorted pods. They have simple leaves and small yellow flowers on naked peduncles. See SCORPION'S-TAIL.

Scor'pi·us (skôr'pĭ·ŭs), n.; gen. SCORPII (-ī). [L.] Astron. The constellation Scorpio. In designating stars Scorpii, instead of Scorpionis, is usually used as the genitive.

scorse (skôrs), v. t. To chase. Obs. Spenser.

scorse (skôrs; skŏrs), n. & v. t. & i. [Origin uncert. Cf. CORSE to barter.] Barter; exchange; trade. Obs. exc. Dial.

scors'er (skôr'sĕr; skŏr'-), n. A (horse) dealer. Obs.

scor·ta'tion (skôr·tā'shŭn), n. [L. scortari to associate with harlots, fr. scortum harlot, lit., skin.] Fornication. — scor'ta·to'ry (skôr'tā·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj.

Scor'zo·ne'ra (skôr'zō·nē'rä), n. [NL., fr. It. scorzonera.] Bot. a A large genus of European herbs (family Cichoriaceae) having narrow leaves and solitary heads of yellow flowers on long peduncles, with plumose pappus and ribbed, beakless achenes. S. hispanica is the black salsify. b [not cap.] A plant or root of this genus.

scot (skŏt), n. [From ON. skot, and fr. OF. escot (F. écot), of Teut. origin; cf. AS. scēotan to shoot, to contribute. See SHOT share.] A portion of money assessed or paid; a tax or contribution.

scot (skŏt), v. t. To assess for scot. — v. i. To pay scot.

Scot (skŏt), n. [LL. Scoti, Scotti, pl., fr. OIr. Scuit.] 1. In Latin documents to about the 10th century, an Irishman. Obs.
2. One of a Gaelic people of northern Ireland who settled in Scotland about the 5th century and gave it their name.
A chief among the Scots of Ulster. Burton.
3. a A native or inhabitant of Scotland. b Formerly, a Gael of the Highlands.
4. [not cap.] One easily irritated when made sport of; also, temper. Slang.

scot'ale (skŏt'āl), scot'al (-ăl), n. [scot + ale.] O. Eng. Law. A mode of extortion by officers of the forest who kept alehouses and compelled people to drink there for fear of incurring their displeasure. It was prohibited by the Charta de Foresta.

scot and lot. a A parish assessment formerly laid on subjects in Great Britain according to their ability. b Figuratively, obligations of every kind regarded collectively.
Experienced men of the world know very well that it is best to pay scot and lot as they go along. Emerson.

scotch (skŏch), v.; SCOTCHED (skŏcht); SCOTCH'ING. [AF. escocher to make an incision, to cut, fr. OF. coche nock, notch, nick, nut hole of a crossbow, of uncert. origin.] Transitive: 1. To cut superficially; to score; also, to gash; to wound.
2. Hence, to injure so as to render temporarily harmless; to crush; stamp out.
3. To block with a wedge, chock, etc., as a wheel, to prevent rolling or slipping.
4. To stop or hinder; frustrate.
—, Intransitive: 1. To check (oneself); hesitate; scruple; haggle. Obs. exc. Dial.
2. To serve as a support or help. Southern U. S.

scotch (skŏch), n. [See SCOTCH, v.] 1. A slight cut or incision; a notch; a score.
2. A ground line marked for a game, as hopscotch.
3. A chock, wedge, prop, or other support, to prevent slipping or rolling; as, a scotch for a wheel or a log; hence, a check; an impediment.
Now there was a scotch in his running with her. D. H. Lawrence.
— out of all scotch and notch. Beyond reckoning. Obs.

Scotch (skŏch), adj. [From SCOTTISH.] 1. Of or pertaining to Scotland or its inhabitants; Scottish.
2. Of or pertaining to the vernacular of Scotland; as, a Scotch dialect or phrase.
3. Characteristic of Scotland or of Scottish people; hence, Humorous, parsimonious.
4. Of the variety or type produced in Scotland; as, Scotch whisky.
Syn. — SCOTCH, SCOTTISH, SCOTS. The oldest form of the adjective in English is Scottish; the oldest in Scottish is Scots (Scottis); Scotch dates from about 1570. In Scotland, usage has tended to favor Scottish, or, more rarely, Scots. In England and America, Scotch is the colloquial form, Scottish the literary. Each form is used almost idiomatically with certain nouns: Scotch whisky, tweeds, girl; Scottish customs, books, history; Scots law, a pound Scots. Oxford Eng. Dict.

Scotch (skŏch), n. 1. Collectively, the people of Scotland; the Scots. According to Ripley, the Scotch comprise three ethnic types: a tall, red-blond, heavily built type, indicating Teutonic descent; a tall, dark type, also heavy, derived from the Gaelic-speaking Celts; and a short, dark, curly-haired type representing an original Iberian population.
2. The dialect or dialects spoken by the people of Scotland; Scots. Cf. GAELIC, n.
3. Short for SCOTCH WHISKY; also, a drink or glass of Scotch whisky.

scotch. Var. of SCUTCH.

Scotch and English. Prisoner's base. Scot. & N. of Eng.

Scotch asphodel. An herb (Tofieldia palustris) of the North Temperate Zone, having a dense raceme of small greenish flowers.

Scotch attorney. Any plant of the genus Clusia, in allusion to their habit of squeezing the life out of the trees which they envelop.

Scotch bait. = WELSH BAIT.

Scotch bank. A joint-stock bank which is authorized to issue notes against its general assets up to a prescribed maximum.

Scotch Baptist. One of a Baptist sect, largely composed of immigrants from Scotland to northern England, having a plurality of elders, or pastors, in the local church. In 1917 the body united with the English Disciples of Christ to form the Churches of Christ.

Scotch barley. Hulled barley. See BARLEY.

Scotch blessing. A vigorous rebuke; a scolding.

Scotch blue. A color, reddish-blue in hue, of low saturation and very low brilliance; — called also homage blue, infernal blue. Cf. COLOR.

Scotch bluebell. = HAREBELL a.

Scotch bonnets. The fairy-ring mushroom.

Scotch boot. An instrument of torture by which the legs were crushed.

Scotch bowl. A somewhat shallow cooking bowl or kettle (see Illust.).

Scotch Bowl

Scotch brier. A race or class of roses developed from Rosa spinosissima, the Scotch rose, now little, if at all, cultivated.

Scotch broom. The common broom Cytisus scoparius. U. S.

Scotch broth. A rich soup made from beef or mutton and vegetables, and thickened with cooked barley.

Scotch cambric. A fine cotton fabric resembling linen cambric.

Scotch camomile. The camomile Anthemis nobilis.

Scotch cap. 1. A brimless cap of thick woolen cloth, decorated with two tails. See BALMORAL, GLENGARRY.
2. U. S. a = BLACKCAP, 3 a. b = SALMONBERRY a.

Scotch carpet. Ingrain carpet; — so called from being made largely in Scotland. Called also Kidderminster carpet.

Scotch catch or snap. Music. The rhythmic figure ♫.

Scotch cloth. Formerly, a cheap textile fabric like lawn.

Scotch collie. = COLLIE, 1.

Scotch collops. Small pieces of veal or beef sautéd and served with a sauce.

Scotch comb. A steel comb used to dress the hair of show cattle.

Scotch cousin. A distant relative.

Scotch crocus. A lilac-flowered species of crocus (Crocus biflorus) of Italy and southwestern Asia. Obs.

Scotch cuddy or draper. A traveling draper; a peddler.

Scotch curl'ies (kûr'lĭz). A variety of Scotch kale.

Scotch deerhound. The deerhound.

Scotch dipper or duck. The bufflehead duck. Local, U. S.

Scotch douche. A douche with alternate spraying of hot and cold water.

Scotch dumpling. A codfish stomach stuffed with chopped cod liver and meal, and boiled.

scotched collops (skŏcht). [For Scotch collops.] = SCOTCH COLLOPS.

Scotch edge or outside. Shoe Mfg. The extension of the sole beyond the edge of the foot.

Scotch elder. A kind of tobacco.

Scotch elm. The wych-elm.

scotch'er, n. One who scotches, as a lockerman or spragger.

scotch'er. Var. of SCUTCHER.

Scotch'er·y (skŏch'ĕr·ĭ), n. Scottish traits collectively.

Scotch fiddle. The itch; scab. Slang.

Scotch fingering. A loose woolen yarn used in knitting.

Scotch fir. The Scotch pine.

Scotch foursome. Golf. A four-ball match; — incorrectly so called.

Scotch'–Gael'ic, n. Gaelic of the Scotch highlands. See GAELIC. — Scotch'–Gael'ic, adj.

Scotch gale. The sweet gale.

Scotch gambit. See 1st CHESS, 1.

Scotch geranium. The herb Robert.

Scotch grass. = PARÁ GRASS a.

Scotch gray. A color, yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also olive gray. Cf. COLOR.

Scotch Greys. The Scots Greys.

Scotch grubber. Agric. Mach. A grubber cultivator in which the cultivating-tool shanks are on a triangular frame on three wheels.

Scotch hands. A pair of small paddles for cutting and handling butter.

Scotch hearth. = ORE HEARTH.

Scotch heath. a The common heather; — so called in the United States. b The twisted heath.

Scotch heather. The common heather.

scotch'–hop'per, n. Hopscotch.

Scotch'i·fy (skŏch'ĭ·fī), v. t. To make Scotch. — Scotch'i·fi·ca'tion (-ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.

Scotch'i·ness (skŏch'ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Quality of being Scotchy.

scotch'ing, n. Masonry. Act of dressing stone with a pick or pointed instrument.

Scotch'–I'rish, adj. Of both Scottish and Irish extraction; esp., designating one of a people descended from Presbyterian Lowland Scots who settled in Ulster in the early 17th century. — n. A person, or (collectively) persons, of Scottish and Irish extraction; often, specif., Ulstermen descended from Scottish settlers.

Scotch Justinian. David I, king (1124–53) of Scotland.

Scotch kale. A kind of kale or borecole with light-green, tightly curled leaves.

Scotch lovage. The sea parsley Ligusticum scoticum.

Scotch'man (skŏch'mŭn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). 1. A native or inhabitant of Scotland; a Scot. See SCOTSMAN.
2. [not cap.] Naut. a A piece of metal or wood, or a cover of canvas or stiff hide, placed on shrouds and other rigging to prevent chafing; chafing gear. b A ring in an eye on a piece of metal seized to a stay or shroud, used to hook a tackle into or to lead a rope through.
3. The bufflehead (duck). Local, U. S.
4. A two-shilling piece or florin. S. Africa.
5. = SCOTCH CUDDY.
6. A fir. Colloq.
7. A small plant of the Spaniard. See SPANIARD, 3. N. Z.

scotch'man, n. = 1st SCOTCHER.

Scotch marine boiler. See BOILER, 6.

Scotch marriage. Law. A common-law marriage.

Scotch mercury. The common foxglove.

Scotch mile. See MILE.

Scotch mist. A dense mist, like fine rain. — Scotch'–mist'y, adj.

Scotch mist. = WOOD BEDSTRAW.

Scotch nightingale. Sedge warbler. Eng.

Scotch oath. An oath taken merely with adjuration by invocation of the deity with uplifted hand.

Scotch outside. See SCOTCH EDGE.

Scotch pebble. A pebble of cryptocrystalline quartz (agate, chalcedony, etc.) found in parts of Scotland and cut, polished, and used for ornament. See PEBBLE, 1.

Scotch pine. A pine (Pinus sylvestris) of northern Europe and Asia, with spreading or pendulous branches and short, rigid, twisted needles. Its hard yellow wood is a valuable European timber, being known in carpentry variously by the name northern pine, yellow fir, red fir, Scotch fir, and red deal.

Scotch pink. The common garden pink (Dianthus plumarius).

Scotch reel. = 1st REEL, 1 a.

scotch roman. Print. A kind of modern type face. The letters are more regular in design than in the old-style fonts, and there is considerable contrast between the light and heavy strokes.

☞ This line is printed in 6-point SCOTCH ROMAN.

Scotch rose. A very thorny Eurasian rose (Rosa spinosissima) with small leaflets, pink, white, or yellow flowers, and globose black fruit. See SCOTCH BRIER.

Scotch scurvy grass. = SEA BELLS.

Scotch snap. Music. See SCOTCH CATCH.

Scotch stone. = AYR STONE.

Scotch teal. The bufflehead (duck). Local, U. S.

Scotch terrier. The Scottish terrier.

Scotch thistle. Any of several European thistles, as the cotton thistle, the musk thistle, or the bull thistle, used as national emblems of Scotland.

Scotch topaz. A kind of cairngorm resembling yellow topaz.

Scotch trowel. A square trowel.

Scotch troy weight. See TROY, adj.

Scotch verdict. A verdict of "not proven" such as is allowed in some cases by Scotch criminal law, instead of a verdict of "not guilty"; — hence, an inconclusive decision or ambiguous pronouncement. Colloq.

Scotch whisky. Whisky distilled in Scotland in a patent still or pot still. See WHISKY.

Scotch whist. A card game, played with 36 cards, among which the jack counts 11, ace 4, king 3, queen 2, and ten 10. One object of the game is to catch the ten.

Scotch woodcock. Eggs cooked in any form and served on toast or crackers with anchovy paste.

Scotch'y (skŏch'ĭ), adj.; SCOTCH'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCOTCH'I·EST. Having Scotch characteristics.

Scotch'y, n. Scotchman; — nickname. Colloq.

Scotch yoke. Mach. = 1st YOKE, 4 i.

scote (skōt), n. & v. [Cf. Nor. skota pole.] Prop; scotch. Now Dial. Eng.

Scor'pi·oi'de·a (skôr'pĭ·oi'dē·ä), n. pl. [NL. See SCORPIOID.] Zool. = SCORPIONIDA.

scor'pi·oi'des (skôr'pĭ·oi'dēz), n. pl. [NL. See SCORPIOID.] Scorpion grass. Obs.

Scor'pi·o'nes (-ō'nēz), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. = SCORPIONIDA.

Scor'pi·o·nid'e·a (-ō·nĭd'ē·ä), n. pl. [NL.] = SCORPIONIDA.

Scor'pi·o'nis (-ō'nĭs), n., gen. of SCORPIO, 1 a. See SCORPIUS.

scor'za (skôr'dzä), n. [It., lit., bark.] Mineral. Epidote. Obs.

scotcht. Scotched. Ref. Sp.

Scotch'wom'an, n. Feminine of SCOTCHMAN.

sco'ter (skō'tĕr), n.; pl. SCOTERS (-tĕrz), sometimes SCOTER. See PLURAL, Note. [Cf. dial. scote, scoot, to run away, to hurry off.] Any of several sea ducks constituting the genera Oidemia and Melanitta, inhabiting the northern coasts of the Old and New World and occurring also on some larger inland waters; a surf duck. The species, usually called coots in America, but not to be confounded with the true coots (genus Fulica), have the plumage chiefly black in the adult male and dusky brown in the female and young, with or without white markings. They feed mostly on marine animals, and their flesh is tough and rank. The commonest American species are the white-winged and surf scoters (see these terms). On the British coasts O. nigra, the black scoter, without white markings, is the common scoter. O. americana of North America resembles it. See SURF SCOTER.

Scoter (Oidemia americana). (1/4) sco'te·ryth'rous (skō'tē·rĭth'rŭs), adj. [See SCOTO-; ERYTHROSIS.] Affected with protanopia. See COLOR BLINDNESS.

scot'-free' (66), adj. Without payment of scot; untaxed; hence, unhurt; clear; safe.
— to go scot free. To escape quite without penalty.

sco'ti·a (skō'shĭ·ȧ; -shȧ), n. [L., fr. Gr. skotia darkness, a sunken molding in the base of a pillar, so called from the dark shadow it casts, fr. skotos darkness.] Arch. A concave molding used especially in classical architecture, as in the base of a column. Cf. CAVETTO. See MOLDING, Illust.

Sco'tia (skō'shȧ), n. [LL.] Scotland. Poetic.

Scot'ic (skŏt'ĭk), adj. a Of or pertaining to the Scots, esp. the original Scots of Ireland. b Designating the Scottish dialect. See 4th SCOTCH, 2.

‖Sco'ti·ce (skŏt'ĭ·sē), adv. [ML.] In Scotch fashion or language.

sco·ti'no (skō·tē'nō), n. [It. scotano, cotino.] The Venetian sumac; also, its dried leaves.

Sco'tism (skō'tĭz'm), n. The theological system and school of John Duns Scotus (1266?–1308), a Franciscan, the last of the great scholastic thinkers, called the Subtle Doctor. Critical but not constructive, Scotus attacked most of his contemporaries, including Aquinas. His analytic dissection of Thomism, his formalism, his theory of individuation, of the relation between philosophy and theology, his voluntarism, and his views on many other matters provoked controversies that brought Scholasticism into disrepute. His defense of the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception was a signal triumph over Thomism. — Sco'tist, n. — Sco·tis'tic (skō·tĭs'tĭk), -ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj.

Scot'ize (skŏt'ĭz), v. i. To imitate the Scottish; Eccl., to follow the Scottish Presbyterians in opposing prelacy.

Scot'land Yard' (skŏt'lănd). A short street off Whitehall in London, for a long time (until 1890) the headquarters of the Metropolitan Police, now located at New Scotland Yard on the Thames Embankment. Hence, figuratively, the Metropolitan Police force at headquarters, esp. the detective department. — Scot'land Yard'er (yär'dĕr).

scot'o- (skŏt'ō-; skō'tō-). A combining form, Greek skoto-, from skotos, meaning darkness, as in scotograph.

Scot'o- (skŏt'ō-; skō'tō-). A combining form from Late Latin Scotus [see SCOT], Scot, denoting Scottish (and).

Scoto-Britannic	Scoto-Gallic	Scoto-Norwegian
Scoto-Celtic	Scoto-Irish	Scoto-Saxon
Scoto-English	Scoto-Norman	Scoto-Scandinavian Scoto-Gaelic

scot'o·din'i·a (skŏt'ō·dĭn'ĭ·ȧ; -dĭ'nĭ·ȧ; skō'tō-), n. [NL. fr. scoto- + Gr. dinos whirling.] Med. Dizziness with headache and impairment of sight.

scot'o·graph (skŏt'ō·grăf; skō'tō-; 83), n. [scoto- + -graph.] a An instrument for writing in the dark, or without seeing. b Physics. A radiograph; skiagraph. — scot'o·gram (-grăm), n. — scot'o·graph'ic (skŏt'ō·grăf'ĭk), adj. — sco·tog'ra·phy (skō·tŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n.

sco·to'ma (skō·tō'mȧ), n.; pl. -MATA (-mȧ·tȧ). [LL., fr. Gr. skotōma.] Med. A blind or dark spot in the visual field.

sco·tom'a·tous (skō·tŏm'ȧ·tŭs; -tō'mȧ·tŭs), adj. Med. Of, pertaining to, or affected with, scotoma.

scot'o·my (skŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [NL. scotomia, fr. Gr. skotōma dizziness, fr. skotoun to darken, fr. skotos darkness.] 1. Dizziness with dimness of sight. Obs. 2. Also sco·to'mi·a (skō·tō'mĭ·ȧ). Med. Scotoma. — sco·tom'ic (skō·tŏm'ĭk), adj.

scot'o·pho'bi·a (skŏt'ō·fō'bĭ·ȧ; skō'tō-; 159), n. [NL., fr. scoto- + -phobia.] Fear of darkness.

sco·to'pi·a (skō·tō'pĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. See SCOTO-; -OPIA.] Physiol. & Psychol. Vision in dim light with dark-adapted eyes, believed to be mediated by the rods of the retina; — opposed to photopia. — sco·top'ic (-tŏp'ĭk), adj.

scot'o·scope (skŏt'ō·skōp; skō'tō-), n. An instrument for disclosing objects in the dark or in a faint light.

sco·to'sis (skō·tō'sĭs), n. [NL., scoto- + -osis.] Scotoma.

Scots (skŏts), adj. [For older Scottis Scottish. See SCOTTISH.] 1. Of or pertaining to the Scottish; as, Scots law. 2. Of the amount or value current in Scotland; — opposed to sterling; as, a Scots acre; a pound Scots (1s. 8d.).
Syn. — See SCOTCH, adj.

Scots (skŏts), n. The Scottish language or dialect, esp. that of the Lowlands; Scotch.

Scots Confession. See CONFESSION, 7.

Scots convoy. Escorting one's guest to the door, or over the threshold, but not on the way to his home. Cf. KELSO CONVOY.

Scots Grey. The yellow-fever mosquito.

Scots Greys. A famous regiment of dragoons in the British army, raised in Scotland about 1683; — so called from the gray chargers ridden by all the members. It is now the Second Dragoons, or Royal Scots Greys.

Scots Guards. Mil. See GUARD, n., 15 b.

Scots'man (skŏts'mȧn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A Scot.
☞ Scotsman is the form now commonly used by Scots.

Scots money. The money of Scotland previous to its union with England. See 3d POUND, 3 b; SHILLING, 2 a; PENNY, 2 b.

Scots pine. = SCOTCH PINE.

Scots pint. A measure equivalent to about three imperial pints.

Scots'wom'an (skŏts'wŏŏm'ăn), n.; pl. -WOMEN (-wĭm'ĕn; -ĭn; 119). Scotchwoman.

Scott Act. An act of the Canadian Parliament (1878) granting local option to counties and cities.

Scott'-con·nect'ed, adj. Elec. = T-CONNECTED.

Scott connection. Elec. = T CONNECTION.

Scot'ti·cism (skŏt'ĭ·sĭz'm), n. [L. Scot(t)icus Scottish.] 1. An idiom, or mode of expression, peculiar to Scottish people. 2. Predilection for what is Scottish.

Scot'ti·cize (-sīz), v. t.; -CIZED (-sīzd); -CIZ'ING (-sīz'ĭng). To give Scottish form or character to; to make Scottish.

Scot'tie (skŏt'ĭ), n. a A Scotchman. b A Scottish terrier.

Scot'ti·fy (skŏt'ĭ·fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [LL. Scot(t)icus Scottish + E. -fy.] To Scotticize. — Scot'ti·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.

Scot'tish (skŏt'ĭsh), adj. [ME. Scottisc, for AS. Scyttisc. Cf. SCOTCH, adj., SCOTS, adj.] Of or pertaining to the inhabitants of Scotland, their country, their language, or their literature; Scots; as, Scottish industry; a Scottish dialect.
Syn. — See SCOTCH, adj.

Scot'tish, n. a The Scottish language; the Scottish vernacular; Scots. b Collectively, the Scots.
— the Scottish. The Scots.

Scottish asphodel. = SCOTCH ASPHODEL.

Scottish bearded collie. A dog, of about collie size, of a very old Scottish breed unrelated to the collie or to the old English sheep dog but doing practically the same work. It has a medium-length head, with wide skull and droop ears, a long and strong body, and a deep chest. The coat is rugged, harsh and very profuse, the head hair falling over the eyes. The usual colors are steel-gray, with light markings, or black, tan, and white.

Scottish Chiefs, The. A historical romance (1810) by Jane Porter. Its hero is Sir William Wallace (see Biog.).

Scottish Church. = CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.

Scottish Episcopal Church. = EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN SCOTLAND, THE.

Scot'tish·er (skŏt'ĭsh·ĕr), n. A Scotchman.

Scottish Ho'garth (hō'gärth). David Allan; — so called because of his sketches, bordering on caricature, of Italian manners, esp. at Rome during the carnival.

Scot'tish-I'rish, adj. Scotch-Irish.

Scottish Paraphrases. = PARAPHRASE, n., 4.

Scottish reel. = 1st REEL, 1 a.

Scottish rite. Freemasonry. The ceremonial observed by one of the masonic systems, called in full the Ancient and Accepted Scottish rite; also, the system itself, which confers thirty-three degrees, of which the first three are identical with those of the York rite.

Scottish school. Philos. A group of Scottish philosophers including Thomas Reid (1710–96), James Oswald (1727–93), James Beattie (1735–1803), Dugald Stewart (1753–1828), Thomas Brown (1778–1820), Sir James Mackintosh (1765–1832), Sir Wm. Hamilton (1788–1856), Henry Longueville Mansel (1820–71), and James McCosh (1811–94). The characteristic doctrine of the school was natural realism (which see).

Scottish Solomon, the. James VI of Scotland and I of England; — sometimes called the wise fool. Jocose.

Scottish Standard dialect. A form of Scottish, based chiefly on the speech of the Lothian district, which became the accepted spoken and literary language of the Court and University at Edinburgh during the reign of the Stuarts in Scotland.

Scottish terrier. A dog of a breed originating in Scotland, believed to be the oldest indigenous North British dog. It is used to bolt the fox and other vermin. It has short legs, a large head with small prick ears and a powerful muzzle, a broad, deep chest, and a tail about 7 inches long. Its very hard coat of wiry hair, about 2 inches long, is steel-gray or iron-gray, brindled or grizzled, black, sandy, or wheaten. It is from 9 to 12 inches high, and weighs from 16 to 20 pounds.

Scottish Terrier. (1/6)

Scot'ty, adj. Having Scottish characteristics.

scouch (skouch), v. i. [Cf. dial. scouk to lie hidden, or OF. escouchier to lie down.] To crouch. Dial.

scoun'drel (skoun'drĕl), n. [Origin uncert.] A mean, worthless fellow; an unscrupulous villain.

scoun'drel, adj. 1. Scoundrelly; base; mean. 2. Composed of scoundrels.

scoun'drel·ish (-ĭsh), adj. Of somewhat scoundrelly nature.

scoun'drel·ly (skoun'drĕl·ĭ), adj. Pertaining to, of the nature of, or characteristic of, a scoundrel; rascally; also, characterized by scoundrelism.

scoup (skoup), v. i. [Cf. Sw. dial. skopa, skåpa, to dance, to hop.] To run; scamper; skip; leap; — as in the phrase the deil scoup wi'ye, the Devil take you. Now Scot. & N. of Eng.

scour (skour), v.; SCOURED (skourd); SCOUR'ING. [Prob. OF. escorre, escourre, to run out or forth, fr. L. excurrere to run forth. See EXCURSION.] Intransitive: 1. To run swiftly, or move sweepingly; — often with about; now esp., to rove or range in pursuit or search of something. 2. Obs. Slang. a To decamp. b To roister.
—, Transitive: 1. To pass over, or traverse, swiftly (the ground, a region, etc.); also, to go over or through carefully in or as if in search of something; as, to scour the coast in search of a vessel; to scour a book for quotations.

Not so when swift Camilla scours the plain. Pope.

2. To subject to roistering pranks. Obs. Slang.

scour (skour), n. Rapid or hasty motion; a rush.

scour (skour), v. [Prob. fr. MD. schuren, fr. OF. escurer (F. écurer), fr. (assumed) VL. excurare. See EX-; CURE. Cf. SECURE.] Transitive: 1. To rub hard, esp. with something rough, for the purpose of cleansing; to make clean and bright by friction; as, to scour knives, steps, paint. 2. Figuratively: a Archaic. To free or clear; — with of or from; as, to scour one's brain of politics. b To remove as if by rubbing or cleaning; esp., to carry off or sweep away, as by a flood; as, to scour the invaders from the land. c To beat; punish. Cf. SCORE, v. t. 3. To purge; as, to scour a horse; figuratively, to cause the evacuation of, as by purging; also, to clean by purging. 4. To wash thoroughly in order to cleanse or disinfect; also, to remove dirt or debris from. 5. To cleanse from grease, dirt, etc., as by rubbing or scrubbing; as, to scour wool. 6. To cleanse or clear, as by a powerful current of water; to flush; as, to scour a ditch; also, to remove by flushing. 7. To rake with hostile fire. 8. To free (wheat) from dust, loose bran, etc., by aspiration while rubbing it against a rough surface. 9. Specif., of wool, to remove the impurities and skin exudates, as fat, suint, dirt, burs, etc., from raw wool by washing in chemicals and water. 10. Leather. To take the flesh from (a hide) by rubbing, etc. scour the cramp ring. To wear fetters; to lie in chains. Obs. Thieves' Cant.
—, Intransitive: 1. To scour a thing or things by rubbing, washing, etc. 2. To cleanse anything, esp. in a liquid.

Warm water is softer than cold, for it scoureth better. Bacon.

3. To become clean and smooth or bright by rubbing. 4. To undergo or effect purging. 5. In soil tillage, to pass through the ground, as a plow, cultivator, etc., without any soil clinging to the smooth blade; to polish when in contact with the soil.

scour (skour), n. [See SCOUR to rub, purge.] 1. Act of scouring; specif., scouring action of a current of water. 2. A place scoured, specif. one scoured by running water. 3. A large draft, as of liquor. Scot. 4. The cleansing agent used in scouring wool, or the like. 5. Diarrhea or dysentery, as in cattle; — usually in pl. 6. Civil Engin. The gradual removal of the particles composing the bed of a stream, in whole or in part, as the result of flowing water; also, a current for this purpose; also, the engineering structure built to cause such a current. 7. Sulphuric Acid Mfg. A scar.

scour'age (skour'ĭj), n. Refuse liquid after scouring.

scour'age, n. Scouting about or skirmishing. Obs.

scoured (skourd), adj. Polished or cleansed by or as by scouring.

scour'er (skour'ĕr), n. 1. One whose work is at scouring; as: a One who scours the sea. b One who polishes or cleanses by scouring, as textiles, clothes, leather, and metals. c A laborer who cleans drains. d Shoe Mfg. One who removes stains from leather, and sands and polishes it. 2. A thing used for scouring; specif., Obs., a wad or sponge for cleaning out a gun. 3. A cathartic.

scour'er, n. [See SCOUR to run.] 1. = 2d SCURRIER. Obs. 2. One who scours the streets, esp. by night; a vagabond, roisterer, or night thief.

scour'fish' (skour'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz). See PLURAL, Note. [scour to rub + fish; the rough skin of the fish is used for scouring.] The escolar.

scourge (skûrj), v.; SCOURGED (skûrjd); SCOURG'ING (skûr'jĭng). [ME. sco(u)rgen, fr. OF. escorgier, fr. L. corrigia strap, whip; akin to OIr. cuimrech fetters.] Transitive: 1. To whip; lash; flog. 2. a To punish or afflict with severity; chastise; to afflict, esp. for sins or faults and with the purpose of correction.

Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth. Heb. xii. 6.

b To visit with affliction; devastate. 3. To flay by use of satire or criticism. 4. To exhaust, as soil. Scot.
—, Intransitive: To act or serve as a scourge; to be or become a scourge.

scourge (skûrj), n. [ME. sco(u)rge, scurge, fr. AF. escorge. See SCOURGE, v.] 1. A lash, switch, or whip, esp. one used to inflict pain or punishment. 2. A means of inflicting punishment, vengeance, or suffering, esp. as divine castigation; hence, a punishment; also, an infliction or affliction; as, a scourge of mosquitoes or of adversity; a scourge of weeds in the garden. 3. A shoot or sucker. Obs. 4. One who flays by satire or criticism.

Scourge of God. Attila, king of the Huns.

Scourge of Princes. Aretino (1492–1557), the Italian satirist.

scourg'er (skûr'jĕr), n. One who or that which scourges; specif.: a Obs. exc. Hist. A flagellant. b Formerly, a public official charged with scourging.

scourge stick. A whip used with a scourge top. Obs.

scourge top. A whip top.

scourg'ing (skûr'jĭng), n. Act of one who scourges; a flagellation.

scourg'ing, adj. That scourges. — scourg'ing·ly, adv.

scour'ing (skour'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SCOUR. Hence: n. 1. Act of one that scours; the work of a scourer. 2. Specif., in plowing, the slipping smoothly off the moldboard of the furrow slice. 3. Material removed in or as in the process of being scoured; as, the scouring of cities; also, offscouring. 4. The erosion of earth or rock by the action of flowing water. 5. = SCOUR, n., 5.

scour'ing, adj. That cleanses, purges, or erodes.

scouring ball. A ball composed of detergents for removing stains from cloth.

scouring barrel. A tumbling barrel.

scouring cinder. A basic slag produced in the iron blast furnace, rich in ferrous oxide, which attacks the furnace lining by taking silica from it.

scouring rush. The common horsetail (Equisetum hyemale), used, esp. in Europe, as a scouring material; the Dutch rush; also, any other species of Equisetum.

scour'ings (skour'ĭngz), n. Refuse removed in scouring; specif., refuse removed in scouring grain.

scouring stock. Woolen Mfg. A kind of fulling mill.

scour'way' (-wā'), n. Geol. A channel formed by a strong current; esp., one of the channels of temporary streams associated with margins of Pleistocene ice sheets.

scour'weed' (skour'wēd'), n. The soapwort Saponaria officinalis.

scour'wort' (skour'wûrt'; dial. also skŏŏr'wûrt'), n. The soapwort Saponaria officinalis. Dial. Eng.

scour'y (skŏŏr'ĭ), adj. [Cf. SCOUR diarrhea.] Shabby. Scot. — scour'i·ness, n. Scot.

scouse (skous), n. [Cf. LOBSCOUSE.] Naut. A sailor's baked dish. Bread scouse contains no meat. See LOBSCOUSE.

scout (skout), v. [ME. scouten. See SCOUT, n.] Intransitive: 1. To look or search. Obs., exc., specif., Chiefly Mil., to go about to explore a region or country or to obtain information of the movements of an enemy; to act as a scout; also, rarely, to keep watch.

Scout far and wide into the realm of night. Milton.

Scot'i·cism. Var. of SCOTTICISM.
Scot'ish. Var. of SCOTTISH.
Scot'land·wards, adv. See -WARDS. scot'o·graf. Scotograph. Ref. Sp.
sco·to'ma·ta, n., pl. of SCOTOMA. scot'o·mat'ic (skŏt'ō·măt'ĭk), scot'o·mat'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. = SCOTOMATOUS. scott, scotte. Var. of SCOT.
‖Scot'ti·ce (skŏt'ĭ·sē). Var. of SCOTICE.
Scot'tish·ly, adv. of SCOTTISH.
Scot'tish·man, n. = SCOTSMAN.
Scot'tish·ness, n. See -NESS.
Scott'-Rus'sell's straight'-line' mo'tion. [After John Scott Russell (1808–82), Brit. naval engineer.] See STRAIGHT-LINE, 1.
Scott's spleenwort. See FERN, Table. [exc. Scot. scoug. Var. of SCUG, shade. Obs. scouk (skōōk). Scot. var. of SKULK. scoul. † SCOWL. scoule. † SCOLD; SCULL. scoun'drel·dom (skoun'drĕl·dŭm), n. See -DOM. scoun'drel·ism (-ĭz'm), n. See -ISM. scoun'drel·ship, n. See -SHIP. scour'ess, n. Fem. of SCOURER. scourfey, scour'ie. Var. of SCAURIE. scourse (skôrs). Var. of SCORSE. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

2. To go out seeking or watching for something; — with for; as, he spent the day scouting for work. Colloq.
3. To skulk. Obs. exc. Dial.
4. To field at cricket. Local, Eng.
5. To serve as a boy scout or a girl scout.

—, Transitive: 1. To observe, watch, look for, or follow, as a scout; as, to scout the enemy.
2. To pass over or through as a scout; to reconnoiter; as, to scout a country.

scout (skout), n. [ME. scoute, fr. OF. escoute scout, spy, fr. escouter, escolter, to listen, to hear (F. écouter), fr. VL. ascultare, for L. auscultare to hear with attention, to listen to. See AUSCULTATION.] 1. Act of scouting, reconnoitering, or keeping a lookout.

While the rat is on the scout. Cowper.

2. A person sent out to gain and bring in tidings, or to keep watch. Hence, specif.: a Obs. A spy; a sneak. b Obs. A reconnoitering party. c A watchman. d In fighting forest fires, a man who works in advance of the crew, reporting the direction and progress of the fire.
3. = WATCH, n., 16 c. Slang.
4. See BOY SCOUT; GIRL SCOUT.
5. Fellow; chap; as, he was a good scout. Colloq.
6. A college servant; — so called at Oxford University, and formerly at Yale and Harvard. Cf. GYP; 2d SKIP, 3.
7. A vague term of extreme contempt for either sex. Obs. exc. Scot.
8. Aeronautics. An airplane used for scouting purposes, generally for reconnaissance or for pursuit; an air scout.
9. Games. In cricket, rounders, etc., a fielder who plays at a considerable distance from the batsman. Local, Eng.
10. Mil. Specif.: a See PHILIPPINE SCOUTS. b See INDIAN SCOUTS.
11. Mil. & Nav. A soldier or a vessel sent out in war to reconnoiter and gain information of the whereabouts, movements, and condition of the enemy; also, a soldier trained for such service, or a vessel designed for scouting.
12. Mining & Petroleum. One who makes a preliminary investigation or examination of a claim, prospect, or reported mineral or petroleum occurrence.
13. Sports. a A person sent out to secure first-hand information as to the style of play, tactics, etc., employed by a rival. b A person, usually an ex-player, employed by a professional club to travel about the country securing information, esp. by studying players in action and making recommendations to guide his employers in the acquisition of players.

Syn. — See EMISSARY.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES, are:

scout badge	scout oath	scout sign scout boat	scout patrol	scout staff scout camp	scout salute	scout training scout law	scout ship	scout vessel scout motto

scout (skout), v. t.; SCOUT'ED; SCOUT'ING. [Of Scand. origin; cf. ON. skūta a taunt, skūta to jut out, skota to shove, skjōta to shoot, to shove. See SHOOT; cf. SHOUT.] To reject with contempt, as something absurd; to treat with ridicule; to flout; as, to scout an idea or a person. — v. i. To scoff; — with at; as, to scout at religion.

scout (skout; skōōt), n. [ON. skūta to jut out, skūti a cave formed by jutting rocks. Cf. SCOUT to reject.] A high rock, or projecting ridge. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

scout, n. [Eng. dial., also scoot. Cf. SCOTER.] a The common guillemot. b Local, Brit. The razor-billed auk.

scout (skōōt). Var. of SCOOT.

scout (skout), n. [MD. schūte.] = SCHUIT, 1.

scout commissioner. See BOY SCOUT.

scout'craft' (skout'krăft'; 83), n. The craft, skill, or practice of a scout.

scout cruiser. Nav. A vessel of moderate displacement and the highest speed and having an armament heavier than that of the destroyer or light cruiser.

scout'er (skout'ĕr), n. 1. One who scouts.
2. Any adult member, over eighteen years of age, of the Boy Scouts' organization, actively engaged in its work.
3. Cricket, etc. A scout. Eng.
4. Quarrying. A workman who splits off large flakes of stone from projecting masses with the plug and feather or other tools.

scout executive. See BOY SCOUT.

scouth (skōōth), n. Room; range; scope; also, plenty. Scot.

scouth'er (skōōth'ĕr), n. A slight shower or fall of snow. Scot. — v. i. To drizzle or snow slightly. Scot.

scouth'er (skōth'ĕr; skōōth'-). Var. of SCOWDER, n. & v.

scout'hood (skout'hŏŏd), n. [scout + -hood.] State or condition of being a scout; the period during which one is a scout; also, the character of a scout; the qualities befitting a scout or scouts as a class.

scout'ing, n. 1. Act of one who scouts, esp. in reconnaissance.
2. The activities collectively of boy and girl scouts.

scout'ing, adj. That scouts. — scout'ing·ly, adv.

scout'mas'ter (skout'más'tĕr; 83), n. Leader of a band of scouts; now, specif., see BOY SCOUT.

scout'watch' (-wŏch'), n. A sentinel or body of men posted to keep guard; also, act of keeping guard. Obs.

scove (skōv), v. t.; SCOVED (skōvd); SCOV'ING (skōv'ĭng). [Cf. Icel. skōf the crust at the bottom of a pan, Nor. dial. skova the crust at the bottom of a vat.] Brickmaking. To cover the outside exposed surfaces of (bricks in a kiln) with a mask of clay so as to economize heat in burning.

scove (skōv), n. Rich, clean tin ore. Cornwall.

scove kiln. A scoved kiln. scov'el (skŭv'l), n. [W. ysgubell, dim. of ysgub a broom, fr. L. scopa.] A mop for sweeping ovens. Now Dial. Eng.

sco'vil·lite (skō'vĭl·īt), n. [From the Scoville mine, Salisbury, Conn.] Mineral. Rhabdophanite.

scov'y (skōv'ĭ), adj. [Cf. SCOVE, v.] Blotchy; streaky; smeared. Dial. Eng.

scō'vy (skō'vĭ). Aphetic form of MUSCOVY (duck). Southern U. S.

scow (skou), n. [D. schouw.] 1. Naut. a A large flat-bottomed boat, having broad, square ends, — chiefly used as a lighter or for transporting refuse to its place of disposal. b Colloq. A yacht of very light draft, broad beam, blunt bow, and long overhangs, designed chiefly for racing.
2. A coracle. Scot.

scow, v. t. To convey in a scow.

scow (skou), v. t. Naut. To make fast the end of a cable to the crown of (an anchor) with a stop on the cable and the ring. In the event of the anchor's fouling, the stop will part and the anchor may be lifted clear by the crown.

scow'bank' (skou'băngk'), v. i. To loiter; loll; shirk. Dial.

scow'bank'er (-băngk'ĕr), n. A worthless, idle fellow; a lubberly sailor. Chiefly Dial.

scow'der (skō'dĕr; skōō'-), n. & v. [Cf. SCALD, v.] Burn; scorch; singe. Chiefly Scot. & N. of Eng.

scow'der (skō'dĕr; skōō'-), n. Confusion; bustle. Dial. Eng.

scow'der (skōō'dĕr). Var. of SCOUTHER, a shower.

scowl (skoul), v.; SCOWLED (skould); SCOWL'ING. [ME. scoulen, appar. of Scand. origin; cf. Dan. skule. Cf. SKULK.] Intransitive: 1. To draw down or wrinkle the brows, as in malignant ill humor; to put on a frowning look; to look sour, sullen, severe, or angry.

She scowled and frowned with froward countenance. Spenser.

2. To look gloomy or threatening; lower; — of things.
3. To express itself in a scowl, as gloom or menace.

—, Transitive: To affect, influence, bring, express, send, drive, etc., by or as if by scowling; as, to scowl one into silence.

Syn. — See FROWN.

scowl (skoul), n. 1. A pulling down or wrinkling of the brows, as in malignant ill humor.
2. Hence, a gloomy, dark, or threatening aspect.

scowl, n. Rubbish. Obs.

scowl'er, n. One who scowls.

scowl'ing, adj. That scowls. — scowl'ing·ly, adv.

scow'man (skou'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who runs or works on a scow.

scrab (skrăb), n. & v. [D. schrabben. See SCRABBLE.] Scratch; grab. Scot., Ir., & Dial. Eng.

scrab (skrăb), n. [Cf. SCRUB.] Scot. & N. of Eng. A stunted tree or shrub; a stump.

scrab (skrăb), n. [Cf. Sw. dial. skrabba, and E. CRAB apple.] A crab apple.

scrab'ble (skrăb'l), v.; SCRAB'BLED (-'ld); SCRAB'BLING (-lĭng). [D. schrabbelen, freq. of schrabben. See SCRAPE; cf. SCRAMBLE.] Intransitive: 1. a To scrape, paw, or scratch with the hands or feet.

He fell scrabbling in the dirt . . . crying "Have mercy!" Kipling.

b To struggle by or as by scraping or scratching with the hands; loosely, to work drudgingly; as, to scrabble for a livelihood on a hillside farm.
2. To clamber with hands and feet or knees; to scramble.
3. To scribble; scrawl.

David . . . scrabbled on the doors of the gate. 1 Sam. xxi. 13.

—, Transitive: 1. To gather or rake hastily as by scraping or clutching; to scramble; — with up, together, off, etc.; as, the beggar scrabbled the pennies together.
2. To mark with irregular lines or letters; to scribble.
3. To make scratching movements on or with.

scrab'ble (skrăb'l), n. Act or result of scrabbling; as: a A piece of writing carelessly scribbled; a scrawl; also, a picture showing careless drawing. b A scramble.

scrab'bled (-'ld), adj. Scrawled (over).

scrab'bler (skrăb'lĕr), n. One who scrabbles; a scabbler.

scrabe (skrāb), scrab'er (skrāb'ĕr), n. [Cf. Dan. skrabe a scraper, the shearwater.] a The black guillemot. b Local, Eng. The Manx shearwater.

scrae (skrā), n. [Cf. ON. skrā dry skin, Nor. dial. skraa a scrap of leather, skræa shriveled old woman.] A shoe, esp. when worn and shriveled; a skinny person or animal. Scot.

scrae. Var. of SCREE.

scraf'fle (skrăf'l), v. i. & n. [Cf. SCRABBLE.] Scramble; struggle; wrangle. Chiefly Dial. Eng.

scrag (skrăg), n. [Cf. Sw. dial. skraka a great dry tree, a long, lean man, skragg something haggard, old, or torn.] Any of various persons, animals, or objects that are thin or lean and tough; specif.: a A rawboned or scrawny person or animal. b The back or nape of the neck, esp. in a sheep; — called also scrag end. c A scrag whale. d Now Dial. Eng. A rough crooked tree or branch.

scrag (skrăg), v. t.; SCRAGGED (skrăgd); SCRAG'GING (skrăg'ĭng). [Cf. SCRAG neck.] 1. To seize, pull, or twist the neck of; to hang by the neck; to garrote. Colloq.
2. Mech. To bend, as spring steel to test it.

scrag'ged (skrăg'ĕd; -ĭd), adj. Lean; thin; also, Obs., rough; rugged. — scrag'ged·ly, adv. — scrag'ged·ness, n.

scrag'ger (skrăg'ĕr), n. Hangman. Slang.

scrag'ging (skrăg'ĭng), n. A bending test on a spring steel, or a deflection test of a spring.

scrag'gled (-'ld), adj. Scraggly.

scrag'gling (-lĭng), adj. Scraggly.

scrag'gly (skrăg'lĭ), adj. Irregular; jagged; ragged; unkempt.

scrag'gy (skrăg'ĭ), adj.; SCRAG'GI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCRAG'GI·EST (-ĕst; -ĭst; 119). 1. Rough with irregular points; rugged; knotted; as, scraggy woodlands.
2. Lean and thin; bony; meager; scrawny.

His sinewy, scraggy neck. Scott.

— scrag'gi·ly (skrăg'ĭ·lĭ), adv. — scrag'gi·ness, n.

scrag whale. Any of various small whales with no dorsal fin, but having protuberances on the dorsal ridge near the tail, usually regarded as young or abnormal examples of the right whale.

scrail'y (skrāl'ĭ), adj. Scrawny; thin. Dial.

scram (skrăm), v. i. [Var. of SHRAM; cf. dial. scrim to benumb, AS. scrimman to shrink, contract.] To benumb; paralyze. — adj. Benumbed; withered; puny, also, clumsy. Both Dial. Eng.

scram (skrăm), v. i. [From SCRAMBLE.] To go at once; run away; — chiefly imperative. Slang.

scram. Var. of SCRAN.

scram (skrăm; skrăm). Var. of CRAM. Dial. Eng.

scram'a·sax (skrăm'ä·săks), n. [LL. scramasaxus, fr. OFr. scha. See SAX.] Archaeol. A large knife used by the Franks as a weapon or a hunting knife.

scram'ble (skrăm'b'l), v.; SCRAM'BLED (-b'l'd); SCRAM'BLING (-blĭng). [Nasalized form of scrabble; cf. dial. scramb to rake together with the hands, scramp to snatch at. See SCRABBLE.] Intransitive: 1. To move or clamber with or on hands and feet or knees; to progress clumsily or with difficulty, as if on all fours; as, to scramble up a cliff or over rocks; to scramble through difficulties. Cf. SCRABBLE.
2. To struggle eagerly with others for something thrown or being on the ground; hence, to struggle or strive unceremoniously for something; as, to scramble for a seat; to scramble for spoils; to scramble for money in the street.
3. To spread irregularly; as, a scrambling village.
4. Bot. To sprawl or climb, esp. over other plants.

—, Transitive: 1. a To scramble for; to seize as in scrambling. b To scatter to induce scrambling. c To collect by scrambling; — usually with up or together; as, to scramble up wealth.

The scrambled dinners in the small cabin. W. Black.

2. To scale or traverse by scrambling, as a cliff. Colloq.
3. To cause to scramble. Also figuratively; as, to scramble a bill through a legislature.
4. To toss or mix together confusedly, as cards.
5. To cook (eggs) by frying the mixed yolks and whites in milk or butter.

scram'ble (skrăm'b'l), n. A scrambling; specif.: a A jostling and pushing for something desired; eager and unceremonious struggle for possession; as, a scramble for office. b A climbing or moving on all fours; a clambering.

scram'bled eggs (skrăm'b'ld). Eggs of which the whites and yolks are stirred together while cooking, or eggs beaten slightly, often with a little milk, and stirred while cooking.

scram'bler (skrăm'blĕr), n. One who or that which scrambles. Specif.: Bot. = HOOK CLIMBER.

scram'bling (skrăm'blĭng), adj. Characterized by, or suggesting, the awkwardness, struggle, or irregular progression of one who scrambles; straggling; shambling; as, a scrambling frontier town. — scram'bling·ly, adv.

scram'bly, adj. Scrambling.

scram hand. A withered hand. — scram'-hand'ed (66), adj. Both Dial. Eng.

scran (skrăn; skrăn), n. [Origin uncert.] Broken victuals; scraps; food; hence, a scrap; morsel; refuse. Dial. & Slang.

scran, v. i. To provide or collect scran. Slang. — v. t. To obtain scran for; to furnish with scran. Slang.

scranch (skränch; skrŏnch), v. t. [Cf. D. schransen to eat greedily, G. schranzen. Cf. CRAUNCH, CRUNCH, SCRUNCH.] To craunch; crunch. Now Chiefly Dial.

scrank (skrängk), adj. Also scrank'y (-ĭ). Thin; scrawny. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

scran'nel (skrăn'l), adj. [Cf. Sw. dial. skran weak, Nor. dial. skran thin, lean, dry. Cf. SCRAWNY.] 1. Slight; thin; lean; weak; poor. Archaic & Dial. Eng.

Grate on their scrannel pipes of wretched straw. Milton.

2. Hence, harsh; unmelodious.

scran'ning (skrăn'ĭng; skrăn'-), n. Begging for food. Slang.

scran'ny (-ĭ), adj.; SCRAN'NI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCRAN'NI·EST. [See SCRANNEL.] Scrawny; scanty; meager. Dial. Eng. & Scot.

scran'ny, adj. Distracted; crazy. Dial. Eng.

scrap (skrăp), n. [ME. scrappe, fr. ON. skrap; akin to SCRAPE, v.] 1. pl. Fragments of food, esp. left over from a meal; the "bits"; as, a dish of scraps.
2. a A small detached piece; a bit; as, a scrap of paper.

I have no materials — not a scrap. De Quincey.

b Specif., a fragment of something written or printed; a brief excerpt; an extract; as, to read scraps of a letter. Also, something, esp. a picture, cut out or detached from a book or the like for use in a scrapbook or the like. c The least piece; as, not a scrap left.
3. pl. The crisp substance that remains after trying out animal fat, as of whales or fish; cracklings; as, pork scraps.
4. sing. or pl. a Scrap metal. b Cullet.
5. a Material, parts, etc. that have been scrapped because fabricated incorrectly, because of excessive wear, or because the need or demand for them has ceased to exist. b Small pieces, cuttings, chips, etc. of stock removed in the process of making any product. c Fish discarded as unsuitable for food or parts of fish remaining after their oil has been extracted.
6. Coarsely ground animal waste, used as a fertilizer or feed; as, fish scrap, meat scrap.
7. a A by-product of the handling of tobacco, consisting of loose, tangled pieces of leaves, floor sweepings, etc., but no stems. b pl. A kind of coarsely broken or cut tobacco used for chewing and smoking.
8. Also scrap rubber. A piece of burucha.

scrap (skrăp), v. t.; SCRAPPED (skrăpt); SCRAP'PING. To make into scrap or scraps; to discard as refuse; to put on the scrap heap; as, to scrap machinery, buildings, ships, methods.

scrap, adj. 1. In the form of scraps or fragments; valuable only as raw material; as, scrap metal.
2. Used and discarded, or in such condition as to be unfit for further use; secondary; as, scrap iron.
3. Made up of odds and ends; consisting of scraps; as, a scrap dinner; a scrap pie.

scrap (skrăp), n. [Cf. scrape.] Fight; quarrel. Slang. — v. i. To fight; quarrel. Slang.

scrap'a·ble (skrăp'ä·b'l), adj. That can be scraped.

scrap basket. A basket to hold scraps, or refuse.

scrap'book' (skrăp'bŏŏk'), n. A blankbook in which printed items, pictures cut from papers, etc., may be pasted or inserted; hence, a book of miscellaneous contents; — used chiefly as a title. — v. t. To enter in a scrapbook.

scrap box. A box to hold refuse.

scrape (skrāp), v.; SCRAPED (skrāpt); SCRAP'ING (skrāp'ĭng). [ME. scrapen, scrapien, fr. AS. scrapian, or (prob.), fr. ON. skrapa (Sw. skrapa, Dan. skrabe); akin to D. schrapen, schrabben, G. schrappen, AS. screpan, and to E. SHARP. Cf. SCRABBLE, SCRAP.] Transitive: 1. To scratch with the nails or claws; to rake or dig by such scratching. Obs.
2. To erase, as with a knife; — usually with away, off, or out.
3. To rub over the surface of with a sharp or rough instrument that removes portions of the surface; to make smooth or clean by or as by superficial rasping; as, to scrape a bone; also, to grate harshly over; as, to scrape a slate; specif., in highway maintenance, to draw a road grader over.
4. To remove by scraping (as above).

I will also scrape her dust from her. Ezek. xxvi. 4.

5. To collect by or as by a process of scraping; to gather in small portions by laborious effort; — now followed by together or up; as, to scrape money together.
6. To play, as a fiddle, by drawing a bow across. Derogatory.
7. To draw harshly or roughly over; to rub so as to make a scrape or grating; as, do not scrape your feet on the floor.
8. To insult or silence with a noise of scraping feet. Obs.
9. To produce (an engraving) by scraping the previously prepared surface of the plate. Cf. MEZZOTINT.
10. Fur Dressing. To prepare (raw skins, etc.) by removing the flesh, fat, etc. and breaking or loosening the fibers to make more flexible, as by rubbing with a dull-edged instrument. Cf. FLESH, v. t., 6.
11. Turpentine. To collect scrape from (trees).

—, Intransitive: 1. To scratch. Obs.
2. To scrape anything, esp. harshly or gratingly.
3. To gather and hoard goods, esp. money, little by little and laboriously; as, he scraped and saved until rich.
4. To bow a stringed instrument; esp., to play with a rough, unmusical tone.
5. To draw back the foot along the ground or floor when making a bow; as, bowing and scraping.
6. To manage to make one's way with difficulty; as, to scrape along; scrape home.

scout'dom, n. See -DOM. scouting piano. = SCOUT, n., 8. scout'ish, adj. See -ISH. [Dial.] scov'in, n. = SCOVEL. Obs. exc. scowld. Scowled. Ref. Sp. scowl'ful, adj. See -FUL. scowl'proof' (66), adj. See PROOF. scowl'rig. Var. of SCAURIE. scowth'er (skōōth'ĕr). Var. of SCOUTHER, a shower; SCOWDER, burn. [Isle of Man.] scraa (skrā). Dial. var. of SCRAW. scrab'bld. Scrabbled. Ref. Sp. scrab'l. Scrabble. Ref. Sp. scrab'roun, n. [ML. scrabro, -onis, prob. fr. confusion of L. crabro hornet with L. scarabaeus beetle.] A hornet. Obs. scrach. Scratch. Ref. Sp. scracht. Scratched. Ref. Sp. scraich, scraigh (skrāk). Scot. vars. of SCREECH. scrall. ✝ SCRAWL; SCROLL. scram'bl. Scramble. Ref. Sp. scram'bld Scrambled. Ref. Sp. scram'ble·ment, n. See -MENT. scrambling rocket. = HEDGE MUSTARD a. [SCRAMPUN.] scram'pum. See SCRIMPUM.

scrape acquaintance. To make acquaintance by making advances, esp. without an introduction. scrape a leg. To make a leg. Obs. scrape cotton. To hoe the growing plants. Southern U.S. scrape down. To put down or silence by the noise of scraping feet.
scrape through. a To enable to scrape through a test. b To pass through with little room to spare; esp., to succeed in passing a test by a narrow margin.
scrape, (skrāp), n. 1. a Act of scraping (in various senses). b The effect of scraping, as a scratching, harsh sound; a hole, bare place, heap, layer, etc., made by scraping. c A thing used for scraping.
2. A bow made by drawing back the foot.
3. A disagreeable predicament; a situation beset by perplexities and difficulties, esp. one due to one's own fault.
4. Also scrape of the pen. A scrap of writing. Chiefly Scot.
5. A trap for birds; as, the nest was a scrape. Dial. Eng.
6. A shave. Slang.
7. Crude turpentine that collects and hardens on the trunks of turpentined trees, gathered usually at the end of the season.
8. A dredge, esp. for taking crabs or oysters. See DREDGE, 1. scraped (skrāpt), adj. 1. Abraded, removed, or collected by or as by scraping.
2. Ordered; refined; — of the tongue. Scot.
scrape'-fin'ished (skrāp'fĭn'ĭsht), adj. Mech. Finished to a smooth, level surface with the scraper, as a lathe bed after being milled. scrape'-gut', n. A fiddler. scrape'pen'ny (skrāp'pĕn'ĭ), n. One greedy for money; a miser. scrap'er (skrāp'ĕr), n. 1. One who scrapes. Specif.: a One who acquires avariciously and saves penuriously. b A fiddler; also, a barber; — usually contemptuous.

Scraper, 3 a.

2. A bird that scratches the soil.
3. A tool or apparatus that scrapes; an instrument with which something is scraped. Specif.: a A metal device fixed near an entrance, used to scrape dirt, etc., from shoes. b Any of various instruments, tools, or machines used esp. in the different trades for scraping metal, wood, leather, etc., to produce a clean or a smooth finished surface, or for cutting grooves, shaping objects, or the like, by scraping away superfluous material. c Any of various appliances for removing an extraneous coating or layer from something, as a broad hoe for cleaning roads, stables, etc., a device for scraping up snow from ice, a hoelike implement for raking out ashes, a small dredge for gathering shellfish, etc. d A device, armed with curved knives, forced through a pipe line to clear out obstructions. e A flattened bell-shaped metal instrument with sharpened edges, used for scraping the hair from hog carcasses as they come from the scalding vat; — called also a bell scraper. f A curved wooden or metal device for removing the sweat from horses.

Boiler Flue Scraper.

Scrapers, 3 b and c. 1 Scraper for removing burr in line engraving; 2 Scraper used in Mezzotint; 3 Wall Scraper; 4, 5, 6 Molding Scrapers; 7 Butcher Block, 8 Box, and 9 Deck, Scraper; 10, 11, 12 Machinists' Scrapers.

4. A cocked hat. Slang.
5. Archaeol. A thumb flint.
6. Civil Eng. An apparatus, drawn by horses or other means, for scraping up, transporting, and dumping earth in making roads, canals, etc. The drag scraper is a two-handled metal scoop with a bail to which the motive power is attached. The fresno, or buck, scraper is a one-handled, wide, shallow scoop with two steel runners used to elevate the load, thereby facilitating the hauling and dumping. The two-wheeled and four-wheeled scrapers have a metal scoop, suspended from an axle on wheels, that can be raised to clear the ground after loading.

Scraper, 6.

7. Engraving. A three-sided tool to remove lines or burrs.
8. Gr. & Rom. Antiq. A strigil.
9. Lithography. In the old form of press, a board or blade the edge of which rubs over the tympan sheet to make the impression.
10. Mach. = 2d GUMMER, 2.
11. Mining. A contrivance for cleaning out the detritus (bore meal) from a borehole.
12. Zool. A rasping organ, as the roughened areas on the legs or wings of certain insects, used in producing sounds.
scraper conveyer. Mach. A drag conveyer. See CONVEYER, 2. scraper mat. A door mat of metal for scraping the feet. scraper plane. A woodworking tool consisting of a short frame like that of a block plane, to which is attached a scraper blade.
scraper ring. A piston ring designed to scrape excess oil from the cylinder wall to prevent its entrance into the combustion chamber. scrape'-shoe', n. A sycophant; toady. scrape'-trench'er, n. Formerly, a servant whose work was to scrape trenchers after meals.
scrap heap. A heap of scrap iron or other discarded metal; figuratively, the place to which useless things are relegated.
scrap'-heap', v. t. To consign to a scrap heap; to scrap.
scrap'ie (skrăp'ĭ), n. [Appar. fr. scrape, with ref. to rubbing off wool.] Veter. A disease of sheep characterized by twitching, excitability, intense itching, excessive thirst, emaciation, weakness, and, finally paralysis. scrap'ing (skrāp'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SCRAPE. Hence: n. 1. Act of, or noise produced by, one that scrapes.
2. Something scraped off, up, or together; — usually in the pl.; as, the scrapings of the street.
3. pl. Hard earnings; savings collected in small portions.
scrap'ing (skrāp'ĭng), adj. That scrapes; specif., miserly. — scrap'ing·ly, adv.
scrap'man (skrăp'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A man handling, working with, or dealing in, scrap. scrap of paper. A pledge, to be broken when self-interest requires it; an agreement, as an international treaty, considered as worthless in an emergency; — so called in allusion to the remark of the German Chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg, in Aug. 1914, with reference to the treaties (1831, 1839), guaranteeing Belgium's neutrality.
scrap'page (skrăp'ĭj), n. [scrap + -age a.] Scrapped material.
scrap paper. Paper, usually of poor quality, for memoranda, notes, etc.; scratch paper; also, refuse or wastepaper.
scrap'per (skrăp'ĕr), n. One who or that which scraps. scrap'ple (skrăp'l), n. [Dim. of SCRAP.] An article of food made by boiling together bits or scraps of meat, usually pork, with chopped herbs and flour or Indian meal. It is sliced from a mold and fried before serving. scrap'ple, n. [From SCRAPE.] A tool for scraping, as an iron scraper; a coal rake. Dial. Eng. scrap pudding. A pudding made with flour and cracklings Local, Eng.
scrap'py (skrăp'ĭ), adj.; SCRAP'PI·ER (-ĭ-ĕr); SCRAP'PI·EST. Consisting of scraps; fragmentary; lacking unity or consistency; as, a scrappy lecture or dinner. scrap'py, adj. Quarrelsome. Slang. — scrap'pi·ly, adv. — scrap'pi·ness, n.
scrap rubber. = SCRAP, n., 8.
scrap value. Accounting. The value of an item at the time it is discarded; the value which it is estimated an item will have at the time it is discarded.
scrap'works' (skrăp'wŭrks'), n. An establishment handling, dealing in, or manufacturing from, scrap.
scrap'y (skrăp'ĭ), adj. Suggestive of a noise of scraping. scrat (skrăt; skrăt), v. t. & i. [ME. scratten, v. See SCRATCH.] Now Scot. & Dial. Eng. a Scratch. b Toil; drudge. — n. Anything puny, mean, or insignificant; a miser. Chiefly Dial.
scrat, n. [ON. skratti.] Obs. exc. Dial. a A hermaphrodite. b A devil; a hobgoblin. scratch (skrăch), v.; SCRATCHED (skrăcht); SCRATCH'ING. [ME. cracchen (see CRATCH), blended with ME. scratten to scratch; akin to MHG. schratzen, MD. cratsen, ON. krota to engrave, G. kratzen to scratch, OHG. krazzôn. Cf. GRATE to rub.] Transitive: 1. To scrape with the claws or nails; as, to scratch one's eyes out, one's head.
2. To rub and tear or mark the surface of with something sharp or ragged; to scrape, roughen, or wound slightly by drawing something pointed or rough across, as a nail.
Small sand-colored stones, so hard as to scratch glass. Grew.
3. To scrape or rub with something rough, pointed, or edged without abrasion, to allay irritation, cause a pleasant sensation, or the like; as, to scratch a dog's neck.
4. a To dig, heap, or draw with the claws. b Obs. To seize or gather by or as by scraping with the claws. c To scrape together (goods or money).
5. To make incisions, as scratches or furrows, on the surface of; also, to represent by such incisions.
6. To expel from, or to bar admission to, a club; — so termed from erasure of the name on a list of members or of nominees for membership. Obs.
7. To write or draw hastily or roughly; scribble; as, to scratch a note. Colloq. "Scratch out a pamphlet." Swift.
8. To scratchbrush.
9. To scrape along a rough surface; as to scratch a match.
10. To withdraw (an entry from competition); as, his horse was scratched in the third race.
11. To cancel or expunge as by drawing a line through; as, to scratch an item from an account.
12. U. S. Politics. Originally (before the adoption of the Australian ballot), to cross off (the names of candidates from a printed ballot containing the names of candidates of one party, in order to substitute other names); now, usually, to mark (a ballot) so as to vote for most of the candidates of one party, but for some belonging to another party.
—, Intransitive: 1. To use the claws or nails in tearing, wounding, digging, etc.; to make scratches.
2. To rub one's head, back, etc., with something rough.
3. To gather money by hard work and hoarding; scrape.
4. To scrape lightly with a slight grating sound; as, a dog or a pen scratching.
5. To withdraw after one's name is listed. Colloq., Eng.
6. To scratch one or more names of candidates on the ticket of one's party or faction. U. S.
7. Billiards & Pool. To make a scratch; also, in billiards, to score by a scratch. See SCRATCH, n., 12 & 13.
Syn. — Score, rake; cancel, expunge. scratch a ticket. To cancel one or more names of candidates on a party or factional ballot; to refuse to vote the party or factional ticket in its entirety. U. S.
scratch one's back. Figuratively, to gratify one by favors or flattery; as, you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours, you do me a favor and I'll do you one. Colloq.
scratch (skrăch), n. 1. A mark or injury produced by scratching, as a slight, superficial wound.
2. A break in the surface of a thing made by rubbing or rasping with anything pointed, hard, or rough; a mark, furrow, or incision so made.
3. A written scrawl; a scribble. Colloq.
4. A kind of wig covering only a portion of the head.
5. An act, instance, or sound of scratching.
6. The line from which contestants start in a race; hence, figuratively, nothing; as, the periodical's circulation rose from scratch to 50,000 in six months.
7. A line formerly drawn across a prize ring, up to which boxers were brought to join fight; hence, test, trial, or proof of courage; as, to come up to the scratch.
8. In a game or contest where handicaps are allowed, the starting time, station, or other regulated circumstances, of a competitor who neither is allowed odds nor receives a penalty; also, rarely, a competitor who receives neither a handicap nor a penalty in a handicap contest.
9. A scratch crew. See SCRATCH, adj., 3.
10. = OLD SCRATCH. Colloq.
11. Baseball. A scratch hit.
12. Billiards. A shot which scores by chance and not as intended by the player; a fluke; hence, in general, a fluke.
13. Billiards & Pool. A shot which fails to comply with some requirement of the game and involves a penalty of loss of one or more balls or points; hence, esp., a miss, or a pocketing of the cue ball without touching the object ball.
14. Poultry. A feed, esp. grain, scattered in the litter or on the ground to induce the birds to exercise; a scratch feed.
15. pl. Veter. Scratches (which see).
— on a scratch. At a moment of testing; at a pinch. — the scratch. The critical point or moment for action. Colloq. — up to scratch. In standard or prime condition. Colloq.
scratch (skrăch), adj. 1. Made as, or used for, a tentative effort; as, a scratch map; scratch paper.
2. Made or done by chance and not in the way intended; as, a scratch hit or shot.
3. Arranged or put together with little selection of material; haphazard; as, a scratch crew, dinner.
4. Made up of heterogeneous elements insufficient to be representative; as, a scratch vote.
5. In sports, without handicap or allowance; — said of a contest or of a contestant.
6. Horse Racing. Scratched. Colloq.
scratch awl. An awl for scratching guide lines on wood, metal, etc.; a scriber.
scratch'board' (skrăch'bōrd'; 181), n. A kind of smooth-surfaced chalk-covered cardboard with line or stipple tint, for drawing on with crayon, pen and ink, etc., the lights being scratched out with a steel tool. Called also scratch-card. — scratch'board', adj.
scratch'brush' (-brŭsh'), n. A stiff wire brush for cleaning iron castings and other metal. — v. t. To brush or mark with or as with a scratchbrush. — scratch' brush'er.

A revolvable Scratchbrush.

scratch'card', (skrăch'kärd'), n. a = SCRATCHBRUSH. b = SCRATCHBOARD. scratch'card'ing, n. Use of a scratch-card. scratch carving. A type of furniture carving in which the design is outlined by narrow lines.
scratch'cat' (skrăch'kăt'), n. A spiteful, "catty" person. scratch coat. A roughened coating of plaster, usually as the ground for an outer coating. See FIRST COAT a. — scratch'-coat'ed, adj.
scratch comma. A mark (/) formerly used as a comma. scratch cradle. The ribwort Plantago lanceolata.
scratch division. Math. An old Arabian form of division supplanted since the 17th century by long division; — so called because, since the partial products were not set down at all, but only the remainders, it was necessary to scratch out each figure of the dividend from which subtraction was made and place the remainder each time above it. scratch'er (skrăch'ĕr), n. 1. One who scratches; specif.: a A workman who uses a tool in scratching, or tends a machine which does this work. b Colloq., U. S. One who scratches a ticket. c A rasorial bird; — chiefly in pl.
2. One that scratches; as: a An implement for scratching. b A scratch brusher.
3. A cider mill in which the fruit is disintegrated or torn to pieces, a method said to be better than crushing.
4. A toy which makes a sound of tearing when rubbed along one's back; a scratchback.
5. A counterfeiter or forger. Thieves' Language.
6. Bookkeeping. A daybook. Colloq.
7. Forestry. = BARK BLAZER.
8. Plastering. A tool used to roughen or scratch the first, or scratch, coat of plaster to improve the adhesion between the scratch coat and the brown coat.
scratch'es (skrăch'ĕz; -ĭz; 119), n. Sometimes construed as a pl. Veter. An affection of the skin of the hollow of the fetlock of horses, accompanied with swelling, heat, and tenderness, the formation of transverse fissures in the skin, and in severe cases leading to suppuration. It usually causes lameness. Called also clay, or mud fever.
scratch feed. See SCRATCH, n., 14. scratch figure. Any figure which is scratched or crossed to indicate cancellation; specif., Print., a cast type of a figure crossed by a line (thus 8), to denote canceling, or, in mathematical symbols, negation (as, ≠, meaning not equal to).
scratch gauge. A metalworker's scriber or gauge resembling the carpenter's marking gauge; also, a marking gauge for woodworkers.

Adjustable Scratch Gauge.

scratch grass. a The common tearthumb (Tracaulon sagittatum). b The cleavers Galium aparine.
scratch hit. Baseball. A hit credited to a batter as such when ordinarily he would have been out, as when a fly ball drops untouched between two fielders each of whom hesitates to attempt the catch; an accidental hit.
scratch'i·fi·ca'tion (skrăch'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. A spiteful remark. Humorous.
scratch'ing, n. Act of or noise made by one that scratches. scratch'ing, adj. That scratches. — scratch'ing·ly, adv.
scratch'ing (dial. skrăch'ĭn, skrăch'ĭn), n. [For earlier cratchin(g)s; cf. ME. crakan brushwood, LG. krack, Sw. dial. krake.] In pl., refuse strained from melted grease. Obs. exc. Dial. scratching shed. Also scratch shed. A part of a henhouse, often a lean-to, where the birds may get exercise, as by scratching for grain in deep litter or by taking dust baths.
scratch line. Athletics. A starting line; as: a A line which marks the extreme limit of the take-off for a broad jump. b A line from which the javelin is thrown, and which must not be overstepped by the thrower.
scratch'-pad' (skrăch'păd'), n. A pad of cheap writing paper.
scratch'-pen'ny (skrăch'pĕn'ĭ), n. A moneygrubber. scratch player. A player whose handicap is zero.

scrape'age, n. See -AGE. scrape'-good', n. Miser. — adj. Miserly. Br. Obs. scrape'-pelf, n. A miser. Obs. scrape'-scall', n. A miser. Obs. scrap'i·a'na (skrăp'ĭ·ā'nä; -ā'nä; -ăn'ä), pl. [See -ANA.] Miscellaneous literary scraps. Obs. scrap'ler, n. = SCABBLER. scrap'let, n. See -LET.
scrap'ling, n. See -LING. scrap'mon'ger, n. See -MONGER. scrapped (skrăpt), past tense & past part. of SCRAP. scrap'pet, n. Dim. of SCRAP. scrap'ping, pres. part. & verbal n. of SCRAP. — scrap'ping·ly, adv.
scrap'pler, n. Also scrap'ler. = SCABBLER. scrapt. Scrapped. Ref. Sp. scratch'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
scratch'a·bly, adv.
scratch'back', n. a = BACK-SCRATCHER. b = SCRATCHER, 4. scratch'i·ness, n. See -NESS. scratch'less, adj. See -LESS. scratch'like', adv. See -LIKE. scratch'man, n.; pl. -MEN. = SCRATCHER, a forger. Thieves' Language.

scratch'weed' (skrăch'wēd'), n. The cleavers Galium aparine.

scratch wig. = SCRATCH, n., 4.

scratch'y (skrăch'ĭ), adj.; SCRATCH'I-ER (-I-ĕr); SCRATCH'I-EST. 1. Affected with the scratches.
2. Characterized by scratches or scratching; specif.: a Making, or accompanied with, a scratching noise. b Having the appearance of scratches or of being marked or made with scratches; as, scratchy drawing. c That makes scratches.
3. Uneven; straggling.

scrat'ter (skrăt'ĕr), n. An oil-cake trimmer.

scrat'tle (skrăt'l; skrăt'l'), n. & v. [Freq. of scrat to scratch.] Scratch; scramble. Dial. Eng.

scrat'tling (skrăt'lĭng), adj. Scratched; reduced; hence, beggarly; scanty. Dial. Eng.
He gives me a scrattlin' twenty-five (shillings). D. H. Lawrence.

scrau'chle (skrä'k'l), n. & v. Clamber. Scot.

scraw (skrô), n. [Ir. scraith, Gael. sgrath.] Turf used under the thatch for roofing. Ir. & Scot.

scrawk (skrôk), n. & v. [Cf. SCREAK.] Scratch; squeak; screech. Dial. Eng.

scrawl (skrôl), v.; SCRAWLED (skrôld); SCRAWL'ING. [Origin obscure.] Transitive: To draw or mark awkwardly and irregularly; to write hastily and carelessly; to scratch; scribble; as, to scrawl a letter; also, to write on or to mark in such a fashion; as, a book scrawled with pencil notes.
——, Intransitive: 1. a Obs. To sprawl. b Obs. exc. Dial. To crawl. c Obs. To teem.
2. To write awkwardly or carelessly.

scrawl, n. Scrawled writing; a bit of careless, hasty, or inelegant writing; pl., illegible written characters.

scrawl. Var. of SCROLL.

scrawl (skrôl). Var. of CRAWL. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

scrawl'er, n. 1. One who or that which scrawls.
2. Agric. Mach. A device for marking out fields preparatory to the planting of ridged row crops. Eng.

scrawl'y (skrôl'ĭ), adj.; SCRAWL'I-ER; SCRAWL'I-EST. Ill-formed; carelessly irregular; sprawling. — scrawl'i-ness, n.

scrawm (skrôm), n. & v. [Cf. SCRAMBLE.] Scramble; climb; scratch; scrawl. Dial. Eng. & Ir.

scraw'ny (skrô'nĭ), adj. [Var. of SCRANNY.] Thin; rawboned; scranny. — scraw'ni-ly, adv. — scraw'ni-ness, n. All U. S.

scray (skrā), n. [Also scraw, prob. fr. D. schraag trestle, support.] A frame to hold textiles, as for drying. Local, Eng.

scray, n. A bush. Dial. Eng.

scray, scraye (skrā), n. [Cf. W. ysgräen, ysgräell, a tern, Bret. skrav.] The common tern. Local, Brit.

scraze (skrāz), v. t. & n. [A blend of scratch and graze.] Scratch; graze. Dial. Eng.

screak (skrēk), v. i.; SCREAKED (skrēkt); SCREAK'ING. [Cf. ON. skrækja. See SCREECH.] To emit suddenly a sharp, shrill sound; to screech; to creak, as a hinge. — v. t. To utter with a screak.

screak, n. A sound of screaking; a screech; creaking.

screak'ing, n. Act of or sound made by one that screaks.

screak of day. Daybreak; dawn. Scot. & Ir.

screak'y (skrēk'ĭ), adj. Making or resembling a screaking sound.

scream (skrēm), v.; SCREAMED (skrēmd); SCREAM'ING. [ME. scremen, perh. fr. ON. skræma to scare, terrify, skræmast to flee. Cf. SCREECH.] Intransitive: 1. To cry out with a shrill voice; to utter a sudden, sharp outcry, or shrill, loud cry, as in fright, extreme pain, hysterical anger, joy, mirth, etc.
2. To emit a similar sound; — of beasts, birds, and inanimate things.
3. To speak or write with intense, hysterical expressions; as, he wrote in screaming headlines; also, to address the eye with vivid, startling effect; as, natives who prefer screaming colors. Colloq.
——, Transitive: 1. To utter with or as with a scream; as, to scream an alarm.
2. To bring or fetch by screaming.
Syn. — Cry, shriek, screech.

scream (skrēm), n. 1. A sharp, shrill cry, uttered suddenly, as in terror, extreme pain, anger, mirth, etc.; also, a similar sound made by a beast, a bird, or an inanimate object. "Screams of horror." Pope.
2. A person or thing that makes one scream with mirth. Slang.

scream'er (skrēm'ĕr), n. 1. A person who screams, esp. in crying wares or in singing.
2. Anything of remarkable excellence, as a fine woman, a good shot, a large sum, etc. Slang.
3. A writing or person that makes one scream from thrills or mirth. Slang.
4. An exclamation mark. Printers' Slang.
5. One engaged to provoke excitement by screaming.
6. Journalism. A sensationally large or startling headline, sometimes printed in color, esp. in red. Cant, U. S.
7. Zool. a Any of a small group of South American birds of uncertain affinities constituting a family, Anhimidæ, and a suborder, Anhimæ. They show some relationship to the Anseres and are commonly placed in the order Anserifórmes, but the bill is short and stout, suggesting that of a fowl, the toes are elongated and scarcely webbed, and each wing bears two spurs. The ribs do not have uncinate processes. The crested screamers (genus Chauna) and the horned screamer or kamichi (Anhima cornuta) are the only members of the group. The seriema also is called crested screamer. b Local, British. The swift.

1/16
Crested Screamer (Chauna chavaria).

1/16
Horned Screamer (Anhima cornuta).

scream'ing, adj. 1. Uttering or emitting screams.
2. Having the nature of a scream; like a scream in effect.
3. Evoking screams, as of mirth; as, a screaming farce.
4. Excellent; splendid. Slang.
— scream'ing-ly, adv.

scream'ing, n. Act of or sound made by one who screams.

scream'y (skrēm'ĭ), adj. Given to or suggestive of screaming. — scream'i-ness (-I-nĕs; -I-nĭs; 119), n.

scree (skrē), n. [From the pl. screes, fr. ON. Icel. skrītha a landslip on a hillside.] A pebble; a stone; also, a heap of stones or rocky debris; a talus. Great Britain.
The crag had fallen in a scree of big pieces of stone. Masefield.

screech (skrēch), v.; SCREECHED (skrēcht); SCREECH'ING. [Also, formerly, scritch, ME. skrichen, of imitative origin; cf. ON. skrækja, Sw. skrika, Dan. skrige; also ME. skriken, schriken, dial. forms. Cf. SCREAK, SCREAM, SHRIEK.] Intransitive: 1. To utter a harsh, shrill cry or sound; to make a sharp, piercing outcry, as in terror or acute pain.
2. To make a similar sound; — of animals and inanimate objects.
——, Transitive: 1. To utter as or with a screech.
2. To cause to screech. Rare.

screech (skrēch), n. A harsh, shrill cry, as of acute pain or terror; also, a similar sound made by or with inanimate objects.

screech'bird' (skrēch'bûrd'), n. Also screech cock, screech thrush. The fieldfare; — from its cry.

screech'er (skrēch'ĕr), n. 1. One who or that which screeches; hence, Slang, anything harsh or strident.
2. a A swift. b The missel thrush.

screech hawk. The European goatsucker. Local, Eng.

screech'ing, n. Act of or sound made by one that screeches.

screech'ing, adj. That screeches. — screech'ing-ly, adv.

screech martin. The common European swift. Local, Eng.

screech of day, dawn, or morn. Daybreak. Chiefly Scot.

screech owl. 1. a Any of numerous small owls of the genus Otus (syn. Megascops), ranging from southern Canada to Brazil. They are closely related to the Old World scops owls, and have erectile ear tufts and plumage streaked and vermiculated with blackish. The species of eastern North America is O. asio, which has many geographical varieties in the west and southwest. It exhibits two distinct phases of coloration, a reddish brown and a gray. b Brit. The barn owl.
2. One who prophesies, or brings news of, misfortune.

1/6
American Screech Owl.

screech'y (skrēch'ĭ), adj.; SCREECH'I-ER (-I-ĕr); SCREECH'I-EST. Given to or suggestive of screeching; as, a screechy child. — screech'i-ly, adv. — screech'i-ness, n.

screed (skrēd), n. [AS. scrēade. See SHRED, n.] 1. A fragment, esp. one torn off; a shred; also, a strip, as of land. Now Dial.
2. A long strip or band, as around the border of a cap, around a piece of goods, or the like. Dial. Eng.
3. A tearing; rent; breach. Chiefly Scot.
4. A long list or discourse, oral, written, or printed; sometimes, a tirade; a diatribe.
The old carl gae them a screed of doctrine. Scott.
5. Drink or a drinking bout. Scot.
6. A sound as of tearing or scraping.
7. A rasping or shrill sound; a scrape. Scot. & Ir.
8. See FLOATING SCREED.
9. A lute, or strike board, which is used to level up or strike off concrete pavement slabs, cushion courses for block pavements, and the like.

screed (skrēd), v. [AS. scrēadian. See SHRED, v.] Transitive: Scot. & N. of Eng. 1. To rend; tear.
2. To say glibly; to repeat fluently; — esp. with away or off.
3. To smooth off, as with a screed.
——, Intransitive: 1. To make a rasping or shrill sound; to make a sound as of tearing cloth; also, to tear or rip. Scot.
2. Plastering. To make screeds.

screel (skrēl), v. i. & n. Screech; — perhaps a blend of scream, or screech, and yell. Local, U. S.

scree'man (skrē'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A coal screener. Scot.

screen (skrēn), n. [ME. scren, fr. OF. escren, escran (F. écran), of uncert. origin.] 1. Anything in the nature of a partition or curtain, as a portable covered framework, that cuts off inconvenience, injury, or danger; that which shelters or conceals from view; a shield or protection; as, a fire screen; a window screen.
Some ambitious men seem as screens to princes in matters of danger and envy. Bacon.
2. A perforated plate, cylinder, or the like, or a meshed wire or cloth fabric, usually mounted on a frame, used to separate coarser from finer parts, as of sand; also, any similar device for allowing the passage of smaller portions or objects and preventing that of larger. Screen is sometimes restricted to an apparatus with circular openings, sieve to one with rectangular openings.

Sand Screen.

3. Anything serving to screen by securing, obstructing, or concealing.
4. Specif.: a A paper, cloth, or wooden implement with a handle to hold between oneself and the fire. b Scot. A large scarf worn on the head. c A frame holding a metallic or textile netting, used in a window or door, or enclosing a space, to exclude insects. Hence, the netting for such use.
5. A bank note. Slang.
6. Arch. a A dwarf wall or partition of stone, metal, or wood, — solid or pierced and often ornamental, — carried up to a certain height for separation and protection. b pl. In an English house of Tudor or Elizabethan style, a passage screened, or partitioned, off from the lower end of the hall and connecting with the buttery and kitchen.
7. Cricket. An erection of white canvas or wood placed on a boundary to enable a batsman to see the ball better.
8. Eccl. See CHOIR SCREEN; rood screen, under ROOD.

Fire Screen 18th cent.

9. Elec. = SHIELD, n., 11.
10. Furniture. A high-backed settle.
11. Hort. & Forestry. A line of trees planted sufficiently thickly to shelter plantations from the wind.
12. Mil. A body of troops, usually cavalry, thrown out toward the enemy to protect a command or an area.
13. Motion Pictures. A surface, as that afforded by a curtain, sheet, wall, etc., upon which an image, as a picture or a series of pictures, is projected by a lantern, solar microscope, motion-picture projector, etc.; hence, the motion pictures, collectively.
14. Nav. a See SMOKE SCREEN. b A formation of light vessels (destroyers or cruisers) about a formation of heavier vessels such as battleships or a convoy, for protecting the latter formation from attack by submarines or destroyers.
15. Photoengraving. Two pieces of optical glass, ruled in opposite directions, usually 60, 85, 120, 133, or 150 lines to the square inch, the ruled lines being filled in with an opaque substance, and the glasses cemented together; — called also line screen. Messograph screen, a grained glass plate, is a screen having dots and lines, irregular in shape, size and position. See HALFTONE, adj.
16. Photog. A three-color mosaic of regular pattern used in making the negative and viewing the transparency in the separate screen processes of color photography. Cf. SCREEN PLATE.
17. Physics. A part of an instrument or piece of apparatus designed to prevent agencies in one part affecting other parts; as, optical, electric, and magnetic screens.

screen (skrēn), v.; SCREENED (skrēnd); SCREEN'ING. Transitive: 1. To separate or cut off from inconvenience, injury, or danger.
2. To shelter, protect, or conceal with or as with a screen; as, fruits screened from cold winds by a forest or a hill. "They were encouraged and screened by some who were in high commands." Macaulay.
3. To pass, as coal, gravel, ashes, etc., through a screen in order to separate one part from another; to sift.
4. To post as a notice upon a screen.
5. To project (as a picture) upon a screen, as with a lantern or motion-picture projector; also, to adapt (a story, drama, etc.) to motion-picture reproduction.
——, Intransitive: To be screenable; esp., Motion Pictures, to undergo, or be suitable for, projection on a screen; as, she screens well.
Syn. — See SHELTER, SIFT.

screen (skrēn), adj. Of or pert. to the motion-picture screen, or to motion pictures collectively; as, a screen star.

screen'a-ble (skrēn'ă-b'l), adj. That can be screened.

screen'age (skrēn'ĭj), n. [See -AGE b.] Act, process, or an appurtenance of screening.

screen boy. a In coal mines, a boy who picks dirt from coal. b In paper mills, a boy who cleans strainers.

screen door. A door consisting of a frame filled with netting to exclude insects.

screened (skrēnd), adj. Sheltered or hidden by or as by a screen; also, sifted through a screen.

screen'er (skrēn'ĕr), n. 1. One who or that which screens.
2. A workman who feeds or tends a sifting or washing screen; also, one who picks out waste as material passes along a screen.
3. One whose work is to screen a (specified) thing, as in coal screener, seed screener.

screen façade. A façade which conceals the form or dimensions of the building to which it is attached, as by exceeding the latter in height or width.

screen gate. A screen over the outlet of a drain, blocking entrance, but so hinged as to permit the escape of debris.

screen'-grid' tube. Elec. A tetrode in which one of the electrodes, maintained at a suitable potential, serves to eliminate the capacitance between the grid and the plate.

screen'ing, n. 1. Act of one who or that which screens; the work of a screener.
2. pl. a Material which has been screened. b Refuse after screening; specif., the small imperfect grains, weed seeds, and other foreign material having feeding value, separated in cleaning wheat, rice, barley, or other cereals.
3. Photoengraving. The process of stripping a half-tone tint film on a transparent area of another negative.

screen'ing, adj. That screens.

screening effect. Physics. The effect of electrons present in orbits close to the nucleus of an atom in partially neutralizing the electric force due to the positive charge of the nucleus. If N is the atomic number, the positive charge on the nucleus is Ne, where e is the electron charge. Due to the screening effect the electric force is as if the nuclear charge were $(N-z)e$; z is called the screening constant.

screen maker. One who makes screens, esp. as an occupation. — screen making. — screen'-mak'ing, adj.

screen'man (-măn), n. A screener.

screen memory. = CONCEALING MEMORY.

screen plate. Photog. A plate in which the minute color filters, usually red, green, and blue-violet, which are necessary for taking and projecting a color image, are incorporated in the plate itself.

screen'play' (skrēn'plā'), n. Motion Pictures. The written form of a story prepared for motion-picture production, including description of characters, details of scenes and settings, dialogue, and stage directions. See SCRIPT, n., 6.

screen process. Photog. An additive three-color process in which a mosaic screen composed of minute color elements distributed either in an irregular fashion (as in the autochrome) or in a regular order (as in the Paget process) is so placed that the light during exposure must pass through the screen before it affects a panchromatic emulsion behind it. The positives are viewed through a screen of similar character to the one used for the exposure.

screens'man (skrēnz'măn), n. A tender of a grain-cleaning machine.

screen'y (skrēn'ĭ), adj. Suggestive of a screen.

screeve (skrēv), v. i. [OF. escrever to discharge pus.] To exude moist matter; ooze; leak. Now Dial.

screeve (skrēv), v. t. & i.; SCREEVED (skrēvd); SCREEV'ING (skrēv'ĭng). [Prob. fr. It. scrivere. See SCRIVENER.] To write (as begging letters); to draw (designs or appeals) upon a sidewalk, in order to attract passers and elicit charity. Slang. — screev'er (skrēv'ĕr), n. Slang.

screeve, n. A piece of writing, esp. a begging letter; a sidewalk drawing designed to elicit charity. Slang.

screeved (skrēvd), adj. [Of Scand. origin; cf. Dan. skræv the angle between the legs, Sw. skreva to straddle, ON. skrefa to stride.] Split off; — of horses' legs. Dial. Eng.

screw (skrōō), scrow (skrō), n. [Cf. MF. escrouelle (F. écrouelle).] An amphipod crustacean. Cf. SAND SCREW.

scratch'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

scratcht. Scratched. Ref. Sp.

scratch'work' (-wûrk'), n. a = SCRATCH COAT. b = SGRAFFITO.

scrath. Scot. var. of SCARTH.

scrauch (skrăk). Var. of SCREECH. Scot.

scraunch (skränch; skrônch). Dial. Eng. var. of SCRANCH.

scream'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

screecht. Screeched. Ref. Sp.

screek (skrēk). Var. of SCREAK. Obs. exc. Dial.

screen'craft', n. See -CRAFT.

screen'dom, n. See -DOM.

screen'-faced', adj. See -FACED.

screen'less, adj. See -LESS.

screen'like', adj. See -LIKE.

screen'-plate' proc'ess. See COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY.

screen'wise', adj. See -WISE.

screen'work', n. See -WORK.

screet (skrēt). Dial. Eng. var. of SCREECH, cry, yell.

screich, screigh (skrēk; skrāk). Scot. & N. of Eng. vars. of SCREECH.

screve, screw'er. Obs. exc. dial. vars. of SCRIVE, SCRIVER.

screw (skrōō; 242), n. [Formerly scrue, fr. OF. escroue female screw (F. écrou), fr. VL. scrova (ML. scrofa), fr. L. scrofa sow, with influence of L. scrobis vulva, hole, ditch. Cf. SCROFULA.] 1. Any of several varieties of a common mechanical device consisting in its simplest form of a continuous helical rib, or thread, with the cylindrical shank, or spindle, from which it projects; — called specif. external, or male, screw. Commonly, an ordinary small metal male screw with slotted head and either with tapering point, for uniting something with wood, or with blunt point fitting into a nut, for bolting things together. Also, the corresponding part into which an external, or male, screw advances and fits when the end of it is inserted and the screw turned in the proper direction; — called specif. internal, or female, screw. This latter may be considered as just enough of the material around the hole to give conformation to the helical rib and depression. Cf. NUT, n., 4. The screw in its various forms is used as a mechanical device for applying pressure in various ways, as to give an accurate traversing movement (as in changing the rotary motion of machine wheels into a slow traverse for a feed motion or the like), to give the final adjustments to delicate instruments, to transmit power (esp. when a large mechanical advantage and nonreversible motion are desired), etc. It is commonly made by lathe tools, screw dies, die heads, thread milling cutters, hobs, or roller dies. There are many special shapes of threads. See ARCHIMEDEAN SCREW, DIFFERENTIAL SCREW, HINDLEY'S SCREW, INTERRUPTED SCREW, LEFT-HANDED SCREW, MACHINE SCREW, RIGHT-HANDED SCREW, WOOD SCREW, WORM, etc.

Screw, 1. a External, or Male, Screw; b Internal, or Female, Screw, shown in section.

1 Cap; 2 Set; 3 Coach; 4 Flathead; 5 Drive; 6 Dowel.
Screws.

2. a Formerly, a gimlet; now, its worm. b A tool with a worm for pulling, esp. a corkscrew; also, its worm.
3. a = THUMBSCREW, n., 2; — chiefly in pl. b A means of extorting acquiescence.
4. a A screwlike form; a spiral; a contortion. b A turn of a screw; also, any twist like the turn of a screw; a screwing motion or movement. c Threading or grooving.
5. [Cf. Dan. skrog a carcass.] A worn-out, broken-down, or otherwise unsound horse. Colloq.
6. A small packet of tobacco, pepper, or the like; — so called because often wrapped in paper with the ends twisted. Chiefly Brit.
7. An extortionate person; a sharp bargainer; a skinflint.
8. Slang. a A skeleton key; also, a robbery effected by using one. b A prison guard or keeper; turnkey. c American Colleges. An instructor who examines with great or unnecessary severity; also, a searching or strict examination of a student by an instructor. d Chiefly Brit. Salary; pay; esp., small pay; as, a clerk's weekly screw. e = PICK-ME-UP, 1.
9. A screw propeller, or, rarely, a vessel propelled by one.
10. a Billiards, etc., Eng. Spin imparted to a cue ball by screwing it; also, a shot made by screwing the cue ball; a screw shot. b A similar spin or twist imparted to the ball in various other games, as in ping-pong.
11. Geol. A screw stone.
12. Math. An axis in space associated with a fixed length termed pitch; — used to express the displacement of a rigid body, which may always be conceived as a translation parallel to an axis together with a rotation about it. Any system of localized vectors is equivalent to a screw whose axis is the central axis of the system.
13. Rowing. Act of screwing.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

screw-bound	screw-lifted	screw-stoppered screw-capped	screw maker	screw-threaded screw-chasing	screw making	screw-topped screw-clamped	screw-making, adj.	screw-torn screw-cutting	screw-propelled	screw-turned screw-driven	screw-shaped	screw-turning screw-geared	screw-slotting

— a screw loose. Something out of order, so that things do not go smoothly; a disturbing weakness, esp. in one's mental condition. — to put the screw, or screws, on. To torture by or as by an instrument of torture tightened by screws; to use pressure upon, as for extortion.

-screw. A combining form of screw, n., as in:

airscrew	drivescrew	setscrew bedscrew	earscrew	thumbscrew corkscrew	jackscrew	turnscrew screw (skrōō), v.; SCREWED (skrōōd); SCREW'ING. Transitive: 1. a To turn, as a screw; to apply a screw to; to press, insert, fix, move, or the like, by means of a screw or screws; as, to screw a lock on a door; to screw on a nut. b To turn the screw of.

2. a To turn as if by a screw; to twist; contort; as, to screw the body around; to screw the eyes.

He screwed his face into a hardened smile. Dryden.

b To move spirally or tortuously, esp. by squeezing into or through. c To twist or strain, esp. by interpretation to suit one's purposes.

Screwing up misdemeanors into felonies. Bentham.

3. To fasten with or as with a screw or screws.

Screw'd to my memory. Shak.

4. To tighten (a musical string) by turning the screws or keys; to heighten in pitch; figuratively, to make tense; — usually with up; as, screwing up courage.
5. To force as if by the pressure of screws; as, specif.: a To extort information from. b To exact, as money; — with out of or from (a person). c To drive to a reduction of price; as, to screw a shopkeeper down. d To produce with effort; wring; — chiefly with out or out of; as, to screw out a laugh.
6. Hence: To practice extortion upon; to oppress or dispossess by unreasonable or extortionate exactions or conditions; as, to screw one's tenants.
7. Slang. a American Colleges. To examine rigidly, as a student; to subject to a severe examination. b To enter for burglary by means of a skeleton key.
8. To lace tight at the waist.
9. To force by or as by twisting one's way.
10. Billiards, etc. To hit (the cue ball) low down and slightly to the side so that it will be deflected in a curve after striking an object ball. Eng.
11. Games. To cause (a ball) to swerve.
12. Rugby Football. To cause (the scrimmage) to twist round.

—, Intransitive: 1. To turn as or like a screw.
2. To turn with a twisting motion; as, he screwed around uneasily in his chair.
3. To practice extortion, oppression, or exactions.
4. To be parsimonious; to scrimp.
5. To go by means of a screw propeller.
6. Games. To cause a ball to swerve.
7. Rowing. To swing the body toward either side of the boat during the stroke.

screw back. Billiards, etc. = DRAW, v. t., 18. Eng. screw in. To insinuate (oneself). Archaic.
screw into. To insinuate (oneself) into.
screw out. To unscrew.
screw up. a To fasten with screws. b To raise extortionately. c To tighten by or as by the turning of a screw. d To twist in a spiral.

screw (skrōō), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or operated by, a screw or screw propeller; as, a screw brake, curve, lever, shafting, steamer.
2. Having a screw (sense 1) or screw thread, so as to be capable of being screwed in or on; as, screw cap, screw collar, screw hook, screw nut, screw plug, screw post.

screw alley. The passageway housing the screw of a steamer. screw anchor. An anchor in the form of a sharp-pointed screw with broad flanges. It is used principally for moorings. See ANCHOR, Illust.
screw arbor. Mach. An arbor to which a cutter is attached by means of a screw thread.
screw auger. 1. See AUGER, 1.
2. The wild tuberose Spiranthes cernua.
screw'bar'rel (skrōō'băr'ĕl), n. A firearm having a screwed barrel. screw bean. a The curious spirally twisted sweet pod of a shrub or small tree (Prosopis pubescens) of the southwestern United States. It is used for fodder, and ground into meal by the Indians. b The tree itself, commonly called tornillo, producing heavy hard wood. screw bell. An internally threaded, bell-shaped device for recovering tools dropped down a borehole.
screw blower. = HELICAL BLOWER.
screw bolt. A bolt having a screw thread on it.
screw'-bolt', v. t. To fasten with a screw bolt. screw box. a A socket for a screw. See INTERRUPTED SCREW. b A kind of screw stock for cutting wooden screws. screw hunter. = BUNTER DOG. screw chain. See CHAIN, n., 9. screw conveyer. Mach. See CONVEYER, n., 2. screw coupling. An internally threaded sleeve nut, usually having right-and-left threads, for coupling rods, pipes, etc.; a screw socket.
screw'-cut'ting lathe. Mach. See 2d LATHE, 1. screw'-down', adj. That can be closed by screwing. screw'drive' (skrōō'drīv'), v. t. To drive in as does a screw driver. screw driver, or screw'driv'er (skrōō'drīv'ĕr), n. A tool for turning screws so as to drive them into their place; a turn-screw. It has a thin wedge-shaped end which enters the nick in the head of the screw.
screwed (skrōōd), adj. 1. Having threads like those of a screw, or a pattern resembling such threads.
2. Twisted; contorted; contracted.
3. Intoxicated; drunk. Slang.
screwed'-up' (66), adj. Closed, contracted, or contorted by or as by screwing.
screw'er (skrōō'ĕr), n. One who or that which screws; specif., a workman who feeds and operates a screwing machine; also, one who tends a screw thread, one who puts on screw stoppers, one who screws down rolls in rolling mills, etc.
screw eye. a A screw, usually a wood screw, with a head in the form of a loop or eye. b Theater. A long screw with a handle, used by stage carpenters.
screw'-eyed' (skrōō'īd'), adj. Having the eyes screwed up. screw fern. The ebony spleenwort.
screw gear or gearing. Mach. A screw wheel; also, gearing composed of, or having as a chief essential, a worm and worm wheel.
screw'head' (skrōō'hĕd'), n. The head of a screw. screw'ing, n. Act of one that screws.
screw'ing, adj. 1. That screws; as, a screwing machine.
2. Exacting, oppressive, or extortionate; also, excessively economical; parsimonious.

screw jack. A jackscrew. screw joint. Mach. A joint formed by screwing together mating male and female screws. screw key. A wrench or spanner for turning a screw or nut; also, a threaded key.
screw'less, adj. Having no screw.
screw machine. Mach. A form of turret lathe, usually having a hollow spindle through which a bar can be fed to be machined into bolts, studs, and other screws, or any small repetition work, as handles or spindles.
screw machinery. Machinery for making screws; esp., semiautomatic machinery for turning out screws in large quantities.
screw'man (skrōō'măn), n. One who makes or operates screws. screw mill. A mill or factory where screws are made.
screw mouth. A twisted or crooked mouth. screw nail. A wood screw, or a drive-screw.
screw palm. = SCREW PINE. screw peg. A small screw without a head used esp. for fastening boot and shoe soles.
screw pile. A kind of pile, commonly made of cast iron and hollow, having a broad screwlike flange of usually from one to two turns.

Bottom of Screw Pile.

screw'-pile', adj. Built on screw piles. screw'-piled', adj. = SCREW-PILE. screw piling. Pilework in which screw piles are used, as in soft mud where a large supporting surface at the end of the pile is required; a structure, foundation work, or the like, made with screw piles.

screw pine. Any plant of the genus Pandanus, esp. P. tectorius, the textile screw pine of Polynesia, and P. utilis and P. veitchii, common in cultivation; also, any plant of the related genus Freycinetia. See PANDANUS.

Screw Pine. (1/200)

screw'-pine' fam'i-ly. The Pandanaceae. screw'-pitch' gauge. Mach. = THREAD GAUGE. screw plate. Mach. a A threading die together with the necessary collet, guides, etc., by means of which the die is adjusted and held in a die stock. b A die stock and die, esp. one made of a single piece of steel.
screw pod, or screw'-pod' mesquite'. The screw bean. screw press. A press having a ram that is forced downward by the turning of a spindle having a steep-pitched thread.
screw propeller. A device consisting of a central hub with two, three, or four similar radiating blades symmetrically placed and twisted so that each forms part of a helical surface (like that of a screw thread), or a device having a shape approximating this, used to propel steamships, motorboats, aircraft, etc.
screw pump. Mach. A pump in which the working pressure is created by means of screw-shaped impellers in the vertical water column.
screw punch. Mach. A screw press. screw rivet. A short bolt threaded throughout its length and riveted over on the ends when in place.

Screw Rivet.

screw shell. A long, slender, spiral gastropod shell, as those of Turritella and allied genera. See TURRITELLA. screw'ship' (skrōō'shĭp'), n. A ship driven by a screw propeller.
screw shot. Billiards. A shot, between a force shot and a draw, that twists the cue ball sideways. screws'man (skrōōz'măn), n. A thief who picks locks. Slang.
screw smile. A forced or wry smile. screw spanner. A screw wrench.
screw spike. A spike with a screw thread on the upper part of the shank so that the spike can be screwed home after being driven part way in. — screw'-spike', v. t. screw stair. A spiral stair, esp. one with steps radiating from a vertical newel. screw stake. = SCREW PILE. screw stay. = STAY BOLT. screw'stem' (skrōō'stĕm'), n. [screw + stem.] Any plant of the genus Bartonia, having slender and occasionally twisted stems. screw'stock' (skrōō'stŏk'), n. Mech. a A diestock. b = SCREW PLATE b. screw stone. The fossil stem of a crinoid. screw stud. = STUD BOLT. screw surface. Math. A surface whose parametric equations, in Cartesian co-ordinates, are $x = u \cos v$, $y = u \sin v$, $z = bv + f(u)$. The parametric curves u = constant are concentric coaxial helices, and hence the surface is called also skew helicoid.
screw tap. = 3d TAP, 10 a. screw thread. Mach. The projecting helical rib of a screw, the successive turns of which are sometimes called teeth; also, one complete turn of it. Screws are made with one or more such ribs, either right-handed or left-handed. See SCREW, 4th PITCH, 17 b. An external thread is one on the outside of a member, as the thread on a plug gauge. An internal thread is one on the inside of a member, as the thread on a ring gauge Cf. MULTIPLE THREAD, BUTTRESS THREAD, SQUARE THREAD, KNUCKLE THREAD. The Table of Screw Threads, below, gives the dimensions of the usual forms of threads. Cf. TOLERANCE.

Screw Thread. 1 Single-threaded Screw; 2 Double-threaded Screw, with one thread incompletely cut. In fig. 1, the Distances between Consecutive Edges, aaaaa, of teeth is the Lead or Pitch. In fig. 2, the Distance between Alternate Edges, aaa or bbb, is the Lead or True Pitch, and the Distance between Consecutive Edges, ababab, is the Divided, or Apparent, Pitch.

TABLE OF SCREW THREADS

Name	Angle Between Sides of Thread Measured in an Axial Plane	Width of Flat		Radius of Round		Basic Depth of Thread
		At Crest	At Root	At Crest	At Root acme thread[5]	29°	0.3707 p	0.3707 p			0.5 p American National
coarse threads[2, 5]	60°	1/8 p	1/8 p			0.649519 p fine threads[3, 5]	60°	1/8 p	1/8 p			0.649519 p *pipe threads[4, 5]	60°	0.038 p	0.038 p	0	0	0.8 p
British Association thread	47 1/2°			2/11 p	2/11 p	3/8 p international thread	60°	1/8 p	Note[1]			0.6495 p plus clearance
Löwenherz thread	53° 8′	1/8 p	1/8 p			3/8 p
Thury thread	47 1/2°			1/6 p	1/5 p	3/8 p
V thread	60°	0	0	0	0	0.866025 p
Whitworth thread	55°			0.1373 p	0.1373 p	0.64033 p worm thread	29°	0.335 p	0.31 p			0.6866 p worm-wheel hob thread	29°	0.31 p	0.335 p			0.6866 p

[1] Not specified; may be round instead of flat.
[2] Vary from 3 1/2 (major diam. 3″) to 64 (major diam. 0.073″) threads per inch.
[3] Vary from 8 (major diam. 3″) to 80 (major diam. 0.060″) threads per inch.
[4] Taper, 3/4 inch per foot; $E_0 = D - (0.05D + 1.1)p$; $E_1 = E_0 + 0.0625\ L_1$; $L_2 = (0.8\ D + 6.8)\ p$.
[5] Allowances for width of flat and depth of thread have been provided by the National Screw Thread Commission, for various classes of fits.
* Straight threads are also standard for limited applications.
p = pitch; E_0 = pitch diam. of thread at end of pipe; D = outside diam. of pipe = major diam. of pipe at distance L_2 from its end; L_1 = distance from gauging notch to end of pipe; E_1 = pitch diam. of thread at gauging notch; L_2 = length of effective thread.

screw'-thread' fit. Mach. Coincidence of screw-threaded parts in contact or tightness of adjustment of such parts. A wrench fit is one in which there is an interference of metal between the mating surfaces and which requires the application of pressure, as by a wrench, in assembling. A close fit has a minimum of shake or play, as when the average interference of metal is zero, and is obtainable by screw'a·ble (skrōō'ā·b'l), adj. See -ABLE. screw'age, n. See -AGE. screwd. Screwed. Ref. Sp.

screw'-eyed', adj. See -EYED. screw'i·ness, n. See -NESS. screw'ish, adj. See -ISH. screw'like', adj. See -LIKE.
screw·mat'ics (skrōō·măt'ĭks), n. Corruption of RHEUMATICS. Humorous. screw nut. = 1st NUT, 4.

selective assembly. A medium fit is one that is assemblable with the fingers and includes the better grade of screw-thread work. A free fit, that commonly used for fastening screws, is assemblable with the fingers, and is one in which a moderate amount of shake is not objectionable though no allowance is required. A loose fit is one that requires an allowance between the mating surfaces in order to assure quick and easy assembly.

screw'-thread' tol'er·ance. Mach. The difference between the two limiting sizes of a screw thread, known as the extreme pitch-diameter tolerance, and equal to the sum of the net pitch-diameter tolerance and the gauge tolerance (or gauge increment). The net pitch-diameter tolerance for a screw thread having a pitch of 1/20 inch, as standardized by the National Screw-Thread Commission of the Bureau of Standards of the United States and the American Engineering Standards Committee, is as follows:—Grade A, 0.0005 in.; Grade B, 0.0010 in.; Grade C, 0.0015 in.; Grade D, 0.0020 in.; Grade E, 0.0025 in.; Grade F, 0.0030 in.; Grade G, 0.0035 in.; Grade H, 0.0040 in.; Grade I, 0.0045 in., and Grade J, 0.0050 in. For threads having a pitch finer than 1/20 inch, the net pitch-diameter tolerance is to the net pitch-diameter tolerance of any thread having a pitch of 1/20 inch or less as the 0.6th powers of the respective pitches are to each other. For threads having a coarser pitch than 1/20 inch, the net pitch-diameter tolerance is to the net pitch-diameter tolerance of any thread having a pitch of 1/20 inch or greater as the 0.9th powers of the respective pitches are to each other. For a loose fit, the tolerance specified is Grade I; for a free fit, Grade F; for a medium fit, Grade D; and for a close fit, Grade B. The gauge tolerance (or gauge increment) is equal to the difference between (1) the sum of the pitch-diameter tolerance of the go gauge, of the diametrical equivalent of the lead tolerance of the go gauge, of the diametrical equivalent of the angle tolerance of the go gauge, and of the pitch-diameter tolerance of the not go gauge, and (2) one half the diametrical equivalent of the lead tolerance of the not go gauge plus the diametrical equivalent of the angle tolerance of the not go gauge. Cf. LEAD TOLERANCE.

screw tool. = 2d CHASER, 2.

screw tree. The East Indian tree Helicteres isora; — in allusion to the spirally twisted capsules.

screw wedge. Mach. A wedge having a screw-and-nut arrangement for moving it, by means of which lost motion is taken up, as in bearings.

screw wheel. A gear wheel with teeth intersecting the pitch surface in helical lines, and thus being parts of the threads of a many-threaded screw.

Screw Wheel.

screw'worm' (skrōō'wûrm'), n. The larva of a fly (Chrysomyia, syn. Cochliomyia, macellaria), allied to the blowflies, which occurs in the warmer parts of America and sometimes lays its eggs in sores or wounds or in the nostrils of animals, including man. The larvae, which are armed with rings of small spines, bore into the flesh, causing serious and often fatal results.

screw wrench. A wrench for turning threaded bolts, nuts, etc.

screw'y (skrōō'ĭ), adj. 1. Like a screw or its action.
2. Somewhat intoxicated. Slang.
3. Inclined to oppress; oppressive; also, niggardly; mean.
4. Useless; worn out, as a horse. Colloq.
5. Winding; tortuous.

scrib'a·ble (skrĭb'ȧ·b'l), adj. [See SCRIBE.] Fit to write on or to receive the markings of a stylus.

scri·ba'cious, scri·ba'tious (skrī·bā'shŭs), adj. [See SCRIBE.] Fond of, or addicted to, writing. — scri·ba'cious·ness, scri·ba'tious·ness, n. Both Rare.

scrib'al (skrīb'ăl; -'l), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or due to, a scribe, or clerk; as, a scribal error.
2. Of or pertaining to a Jewish scribe or scribes.

scrib'bet (skrĭb'ĕt; 119), n. A charcoal (sense 4 a). Obs.

scrib'blage (skrĭb'blĭj), n. Scribblements collectively.

scrib'bla·tive (-lȧ·tĭv), adj. Given or pertaining to scribbling. Rare.

scrib'bla·to'ry (skrĭb'lȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Characterized by scribbling.

scrib'ble (skrĭb''l), v. t.; SCRIB'BLED (-'ld); SCRIB'BLING (-lĭng). [Cf. Sw. skrubbla to card wool.] Woolen Mfg., etc. To card coarsely; to perform the preliminary operation of tearing apart (the more or less felted fibers) so as to mix them thoroughly, but without attempting to lay the fibers in parallel lines as in carding proper.

scrib'ble, v. [ML., scribillare, fr. L. scribere. See SCRIBE.] Transitive: 1. To write hastily or carelessly, without regard to legibility, correctness, or considered thought; as, to scribble a letter.
2. To fill or cover with careless or worthless writing.
—, Intransitive: To write in haste or without care as to legibility or value; to make meaningless marks.

scrib'ble, n. 1. A writing of little value, esp. a hastily written letter; as, a hasty scribble.
2. Hasty or careless writing; a number of illegible characters; also, an appearance suggestive of such writing.
Syn. — Scrawl, scratch, scrabble.

scrib'bled (skrĭb''ld), adj. Carded by a scribbling machine.

scrib'bled, adj. Written scribblingly; also, that one has scribbled on.

scrib'ble·ma'ni·a (skrĭb''l·mā'nĭ·ȧ), n. Scribbleomania.

scrib'ble·ment, n. A scribbled writing; scribbling.

scrib'ble·o·ma'ni·a (skrĭb''l·ō·mā'nĭ·ȧ), n. A mania for scribbling.

scrib'bler (skrĭb'lĕr), n. One who or that which scribbles (wool fibers); a scribbling machine.

scrib'bler (-lĕr), n. One who scribbles; a writer of worthless or inferior matter; an author of small reputation.

scrib'ble–scrab'ble, adv. Scribblingly. — n. A scribble; a scribbler. — v. t. & i. To scribble. All Humorous.

scrib'bling (skrĭb'lĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of 1st or 2d SCRIBBLE. — scrib'bling·ly, adv.

scribbling lark. The flicker. Local, U. S.

scrib'bly (skrĭb'lĭ), adj. Suggestive of scribbling.

scribbly gum. The white ash Eucalyptus coriacea. Australia.

scribe (skrīb), n. [ME., fr. L. scriba, fr. scribere to write; akin to Gr. skariphasthai to scratch, skariphos stylus, ON. hrīfa to scratch. Cf. ASCRIBE, CIRCUMSCRIBE, CONSCRIPT, DESCRIPTION, ESCRITOIRE, INSCRIPTION, PRESCRIPTION, SCARIFY, 2d SCRIBBLE, SCRIPT, SCRIVENER, SHRIFT, SUBSCRIPTION, SUPERSCRIPTION, TRANSCRIPT.]
1. An official or public writer acting usually as a clerk or keeper of accounts.
2. Obs. a One who writes at dictation. b Hist. An official having secretarial duties; as, the scribe of the court of Henry VIII. c A cuttlefish.
3. A copier of manuscripts; the transcriber to whom a particular text is attributed.
4. One who writes; penman; author; writer; journalist; — used humorously or contemptuously.
5. Jewish Religion & Hist. One of a class of men (Sopherim) devoted to the study and exposition of the law, during the Persian and early Greek periods of Jewish history; a doctor or teacher of the law; a lawyer. The earlier scribes were men of sacred letters — copyists, editors, students, and interpreters of Scripture and esp. of the law; the scribes of the New Testament were mainly jurists.

scribe (skrīb), v. i.; SCRIBED (skrībd); SCRIB'ING (skrīb'ĭng). [Cf. L. scribere. See 1st SCRIBE.] To work as a scribe; to write. — v. t. To write or inscribe (something).

scribe, v. t. [See 1st SCRIBE.] 1. To mark (wood, metal, brick, etc.) by cutting or scratching a line or lines with a pointed instrument, as a scriber or a pair of compasses; also, to make (a line or the like) by such means.
2. To mark or delineate by the scraping of tusks.
3. Carp. To cut (anything) in such a way as to fit closely to a somewhat irregular surface, as a baseboard to a floor which is out of level, a board to the curves of a molding, or the like; — so called because the workman marks, or scribes, with compasses the line that he later cuts.

scribe, n. 1. Mech. Any of various pointed instruments for marking wood, metal, brick, etc.; a scriber.
2. Forestry. = BARK BLAZER.
3. A mark scribed by a pen; a short piece of writing. Dial.
4. Also scribe saw. A sawtooth instrument used in cutting up beef carcasses.

‖scri·ben'di ca'co·ē'thes (skrī·bĕn'dī kăk'ō·ē'thēz). [L.] The itch for writing.

scrib'er (skrīb'ĕr), n. One who or that which scribes, as a liner or marker; specif., a sharp-pointed tool for marking off wood, metal, etc., to be cut.

Scribers.

scrib'ing (skrīb'ĭng), n. Act of one who or that which scribes; an incised marking; writing.

scribing block. Mach. = SURFACE GAUGE a.

scribing compass. See COMPASS, n., 7.

scribing gouge. = PARING GOUGE. See WOODWORKING CHISEL.

scribing iron. An iron-pointed instrument for scribing casks, logs, etc.

scrib'ism (skrīb'ĭz'm), n. The doctrines and activities of the Jewish scribes in the time of Christ; the characteristics generally attributed to them; hence, internal authoritarianism and literalistic legalism, esp. in religion.

Scri·ble'rus, Mar·ti'nus (mär·tī'nŭs skrĭ·blē'rŭs). An imaginary personage in the satirical Memoirs of the Extraordinary Life, Works, and Discoveries of Martinus Scriblerus, written chiefly by Arbuthnot, as stated by Pope, to ridicule false tastes in learning.

Scri·ble'rus Club (skrĭ·blē'rŭs). An authors' club, founded by Swift in 1714 to satirize literary incompetence. Pope, Arbuthnot, Gay, and Bolingbroke were members.

Scrib'ner–Doyle' rule (skrĭb'nĕr·doil'). = DOYLE-SCRIBNER RULE.

Scribner rule. [After J. M. Scribner, Am. engineer.] A formula or rule for determining the board measure of a log.

scride (skrīd), v. i. To creep; to crawl on all fours. Dial.

scrieve (skrēv), v. i. [Cf. ON. skreja to stride, Dan. skræve, Nor. dial. skreva.] To glide along. Scot. — v. t. To reel off (a story or song). Scot. — scriev'er (skrēv'ĕr), n. Scot.

scrieve (skrēv), scriev'er (skrēv'ĕr). Vars. of SCRIVE, SCRIVER. Scot. & N. of Eng.

scrig'gle (skrĭg''l), v. i. Colloq. & Dial. To wriggle; twist; squirm. — n. a A wriggle. b A curlicue.

scrig'gler (skrĭg'lĕr), n. A wriggling creature; an eel. Dial. Eng.

scrig'gly (-lĭ), adj. Scriggling. Colloq.

scrim (skrĭm), n. [Origin unknown.] 1. A light, coarse, cotton or linen fabric, sometimes woven in openwork patterns, used in embroidery, for window curtains, for temporary windows and doors in an erection nearing completion, etc.
2. pl. Thin canvas glued on the inside of panels to prevent shrinking, checking, etc.
3. Theater. A transparency section in a drop.

scrime (skrīm), v. i. [F. escrimer.] To fence (with swords). — scrim'er (skrĭm'ĕr), n. Both Rare.

scrim'mage (skrĭm'ĭj), n. [An alteration of SKIRMISH. Cf. SCRUMMAGE.] 1. Formerly, a skirmish or fencing bout; now, a general row or confused fight or struggle.
2. a Rugby Football. = SCRUMMAGE b. b Amer. Football. The play following the putting in play of the ball by the snapper-back when the teams are on their lines of scrimmage. It does not end until the ball is dead. See LINE OF SCRIMMAGE.

scrim'mage, v. i. & t. 1. To search busily; skirmish.
2. Football. To take part in, or to throw into, a scrimmage.

scrim'mag·er (skrĭm'ĭj·ĕr), n. A participant in a scrimmage.

scrimp (skrĭmp), adj. Scanty; deficient; as, a scrimp wind.

scrimp (skrĭmp), v.; SCRIMPED (skrĭmpt); SCRIMP'ING. [Cf. Dan. skrumpe, G. schrumpfen, D. krimpen. Cf. SHRIMP, SHRINK.] Transitive: 1. To be niggardly in providing for; to put on short allowance; as, to scrimp a son for money; to scrimp one's household.
2. To make too small, short, scanty, or the like; to be sparing or niggardly in or with; to limit too closely; as, to scrimp the pattern of a coat; to scrimp food.
—, Intransitive: To be niggardly in economizing.

scrimp (skrĭmp), n. 1. A meager bit. Dial. Eng.
2. A pinching miser; a niggard. Colloq.

scrimp, adv. Scarcely.

scrimp, v. i. Cloth Mfg. To wrinkle or double on account of strain caused by tension; — said of cloth. — n. A wrinkle lengthwise of a fabric, caused by excessive tension.

scrimped (skrĭmpt), adj. Made scrimpingly.

scrimp'ing bar. A device used to stretch calico fabric breadthways so that it may be smooth for printing.

scrimp'tion (skrĭm'shŭn), n. A pittance; a little bit. Dial.

scrimp'y (skrĭmp'ĭ), adj.; SCRIMP'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCRIMP'I·EST. Scanty; scrimp; given to scrimping. Colloq.

scrim'shank' (skrĭm'shăngk'), v. i. [Cf. SCRIMP, v. and E. dial. shankle to loiter, neglect work.] To shirk one's duty. — scrim'shank'er, n. Both Slang, Eng.

scrim'shaw' (skrĭm'shô'), v. i. & t. [Origin uncert.] Naut. To do any neat small mechanical job; specif., to ornament, as shells, ivory, etc., by engraving, and (often) rubbing ink or pigments into the incised lines.

scrim'shaw', n. Naut. A neat piece of mechanical work; esp., a shell, a whale's tooth, or the like, that is scrimshawed. — adj. Made by scrimshawing.

scrin (skrĭn), n. Mining. A small ore vein. Local, Eng.

scrinch (skrĭnch), n. [Cf. SCRINGE.] A tiny bit. — v. i. To huddle. Both Dial.

scrine (skrīn), n. [OF. escrin (F. écrin), fr. L. scrinium. See SHRINE.] A chest, bookcase, or the like, for writings or curios; a reliquary. Obs.

scringe (skrĭnj), v. i. To flog the water in fishing. Dial.

scringe (skrĭnj), n. A small seine net used in scringing.

scringe (skrĭnj; skrĭnzh), v. t. [Var. of CRINGE.] Dial. Eng. a To squeeze or rub with force. b To pry; search; glean. — v. i. To cringe; flinch. Dial.

scrin'i·ar'y (skrĭn'ĭ·ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr·ĭ), n. [LL. scriniarius. See SCRINE.] A keeper of archives.

scrip (skrĭp), n. [ME. scrippe, fr. ML. scrippum. See 1st SCARF.] A small bag or wallet of the sort formerly carried by palmers, shepherds, etc. Archaic.

scrip, n. [From SCRIPT.] 1. A writing, as a certificate, memorandum, schedule, or list.
Call them generally, man by man, according to the scrip. Shak.
2. A small piece or scrap, esp. of paper or of writing.
3. Any of various documents used as evidence that the holder or bearer is entitled to receive something either absolutely or conditionally; also, such documents collectively. Specif.: a A preliminary certificate (often called a scrip certificate) issued after the allotment, usually on payment of the first installment, to one who has subscribed for stock of a bank, railroad, or other company, or for a share of other joint property, or a loan, stating the amount subscribed for, the amount already paid, and the dates when the installments are due; as, insurance scrip, consol scrip, etc. When all installments are paid, the scrip is exchanged for a bond or share certificate. Scrip carries no right to vote or receive dividends, but often bears interest. b A certificate for a fractional part of a share of stock or of a bond, usually convertible into a share or bond when presented in an amount equal to the face value of a share or bond, as those issued to bondholders for sums less than the full value of a bond upon reorganization or to stockholders in lieu of a cash dividend. c Colloq., U. S. A piece of the fractional paper currency formerly issued in the United States by the State or Federal governments or by banks; a "shinplaster"; also, such currency collectively. d A certificate of indebtedness in the form of a promise to pay or a certification that a person is entitled to receive a sum of money or goods issued by a business concern, as one issued to circulate in lieu of government currency, or an order for money or goods issued in payment of debt by a business concern in need of funds or by a corporation that pays wages partly in orders on a company store, a warrant on a city treasury, etc. e U. S. A certificate, usually one issued by the Federal or a State government, that the holder is entitled to take up or receive an allotment of a certain amount of land.

scrip dividend. Finance. A dividend in scrip instead of cash, usually convertible into stock.

scrip'ee' (skrĭp'ē'), n. One to whom land scrip is issued.

scrip'page (skrĭp'ĭj), n. Contents of a scrip, or wallet. Shak.

scrip'–scrap', n. Miscellaneous items.

script (skrĭpt), n. [OF. and L.; OF. escript, escrit (F. écrit), fr. L. scriptum something written, fr. scribere, scriptum, to write. See SCRIBE; cf. 2d SCRIP, SCRIPTURE.]
1. A writing. Now Rare.
2. Law. An original or principal instrument or document.
3. Written characters; handwriting; a system of writing.
4. Print. Type made in imitation of handwriting.

This line is printed in script.

5. Theater. Short for MANUSCRIPT.
6. A typescript; specif., Motion Pictures, the typescript or mimeographed or published form of a screenplay (which see) for use during the shooting of a picture.

-script. A combining form of script, as in pen*script*, type*script*.

scrip'tion (skrĭp'shŭn), n. [L. scriptio, -onis. Cf. SCRIPT.]
1. Handwriting; style of writing, as of a certain period. R.
2. A writing; an inscription. Obs.
3. Act of writing.

scrip·ti'tious (skrĭp·tĭsh'ŭs), adj. Of the nature of a writing. — scrip·ti'tious·ly, adv.

scrip'ti·to'ry (skrĭp'tĭ·tō'rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Having the characteristics of writing.

scrip'tive (skrĭp'tĭv), adj. Tending to or characterized by expression in writing. W. Watson.

script lichen. The letter lichen Graphis scripta.

scrip'tor (skrĭp'tŏr), n. [L.] One who writes; a scribe.

scrip·to'ri·al (skrĭp·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. Of or pertaining to script or writing.

scrip·to'ri·um (skrĭp·tō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n.; pl. SCRIPTORIA (-ȧ). [ML. See SCRIPTORY.] The room or the carols in a medieval monastery set apart for the scribes or copyists.

scrip'to·ry (skrĭp'tō·rĭ), adj. [L. scriptorius, fr. scribere, scriptum, to write.] Of or pertaining to writing; expressed in, or used in, writing; as, scriptory wills. Rare.

scrip'to·ry, n. Scriptorium.

scrip'tur·al (skrĭp'tûr·ăl), adj. 1. Written, or pertaining to writing.
2. Of, pertaining to, contained in, or according to, the Scriptures; Biblical; as, a scriptural doctrine.

Scrip'tur·al·ism (-ĭz'm), n. [often not cap.] Literal adherence to the Scriptures.

Scrip'tur·al·ist (-ĭst), n. [often not cap.] 1. One who undertakes to derive his religious beliefs and general philosophy of life from the Scriptures, viewed as teaching a single harmonious system of doctrine; also, one who, generally from the same point of view, has become learned in, or a devoted student of, the Scriptures.
2. Moham. Law. A kitabi. See KITAB.

Scrip'tur·al'i·ty (skrĭp'tûr·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [often not cap.] Quality of being Scriptural; a thing that is Scriptural.

Scrip'tur·ar'i·an (-ĕr'ĭ·ăn), n. [NL. scripturarius.] One who bases religious belief solely on the Scriptures. R.

scrim'shan'der (skrĭm'shăn'dĕr), scrim'shan'dy (-dĭ). Vars. of SCRIMSHAW.

scrim'shon (-shŏn), scrim'shorn (-shôrn). Vars. of SCRIMSHAW.

scri'ple, n. Scruple. Obs.

scrip'less, adj. See -LESS.

scrip'tore, n. A writing desk. Obs.

scrip'tur·al·ize, v. i. See -IZE.

scrip'tur·al·ly, adv. of SCRIPTURAL.

scrip'tur·al·ness, n. See -NESS.

screw'wise', adv. See -WISE.

scrib, n. [Cf. SCRIMP, SCRUB.] A miser. Obs.

scrib'ble·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

scrib'ble·dom, n. See -DOM.

scrib'ble·ism, n. See -ISM.

scribe'ship, n. See -SHIP.

scrib'l, scrib'ld. Scribble, scribbled. Ref. Sp.

scrib·oph'i·lous (skrĭb·ŏf'ĭ·lŭs), adj. See -PHILOUS. [Dial. Eng.] scrike (skrīk), n. & v. = SCREAK.

scrike. + SHRIEK.

scrim'ish, n. & v. Skirmish. Obs.

scrimp'i·ly, adv. of SCRIMPY.

scrimp'i·ness, n. See -NESS.

scrimp'ing·ly, adv. of scrimping, pres. part.

scrimp'ly, adv. of SCRIMP.

scrimp'ness, n. See -NESS.

scrimp rail. = SCRIMPING BAR.

scrimpt. Scrimped. Ref. Sp.

scrim'pum scram'pum. Hodgepodge. Obs.

scrip'ture (skrĭp'tûr), n. [L. scriptura. See SCRIPT.] 1. a Archaic. Anything written; a writing or a passage from a writing; a document; manuscript; inscription; motto. b Obs. Written composition. c Archaic. Act of writing; handwriting; penmanship; also, a written character.
2. [cap.] The books of the Old and the New Testament, or of either of them; the Bible; — used by way of eminence or distinction, and chiefly in pl., with the (and often Holy).
3. [cap.] A passage from the Bible; a text. Now Rare.
4. Any sacred writing; as, Buddhist scripture.
5. A thing credible as Scripture.
— in scripture. In writing. Obs.
Scrip'ture (skrĭp'tûr), adj. Of or from the Scriptures; Scriptural; as, a Scripture lesson; Scripture names.
Scrip'tured (skrĭp'tûrd), adj. 1. Versed in or attested by the Scriptures. Obs.
2. [not cap.] Written on. Rare.
scrip·tu'ri·ent (skrĭp·tū'rĭ·ĕnt), adj. [LL. scripturiens, pres. part. of scripturire to desire to write.] Having a desire or passion for writing. — scrip·tu'ri·en·cy (-ĕn·sĭ), n.
Scrip'tur·ism (skrĭp'tûr·ĭz'm), n. 1. Scripturalism.
2. [not cap.] A peculiarly Scriptural expression.
Scrip'tur·ist (skrĭp'tûr·ĭst), n. One deeply versed in the Scriptures, or who undertakes to regulate his religious beliefs by them.
scrip'u·lum (skrĭp'ū·lŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-lȧ). [L.] A scrupulus. See WEIGHT, Table.
scritch (skrĭch), n. & v. Screech. Archaic & Dial.
scritch'-scratch' (skrĭch'skrăch'), adv. With repeated scratching in writing. — n. A continual scratching. — scritch'-scratch'ing, n. scrithe (skrĭth), v. i. [AS. scrīthan.] To go; glide; escape; to turn aside; to err. Obs. scrive (skrīv; skrēv), v. t. & i.; SCRIVED (skrīvd; skrēvd); SCRIV'ING (skrīv'ĭng; skrēv'-). [OF. escrivre to write, fr. L. scribere. See SCRIBE.] To scribe; write; score; specif., to cut (a line) on a scrive board. — n. a A writing; also, handwriting. b A scratch; a scribing tool. c A carving. All Chiefly Scot.
scrive board. Shipbuilding. A large wooden platform on which copies of parts of the body plan showing the frames, floors, etc., are made as models to work by.
scri·vel'lo (skrĭ·vĕl'ō), n.; pl. -LOES (-ōz). [Pg. escrevelho.] An elephant's tusk, esp. one weighing less than 20 lbs. scriv'en (skrĭv'ĕn), v. t. & i. [See SCRIVENER.] To write; to act as scrivener. Archaic.
scrive'ner (skrīv'nĕr; skrĭv'ĕn·ĕr), n. [From older scrivein, fr. OF. escrivain (F. écrivain), fr. L. scribere to write. See SCRIBE; cf. SCREEVE.] 1. A professional or public writer; amanuensis; scribe.
2. A notary; one whose occupation is to draw contracts or prepare writings.
3. Formerly, a money broker.
scrive'ner·y (skrīv'nĕr·ĭ; skrĭv'ĕn·ĕr·ĭ), n. A scrivener's occupation, writing, or place of work.
scrive'ning (skrīv'nĭng), n. The work of a scrivener. scriv'er (skrĭv'ĕr), n. 1. Scrivener. Obs.
2. (skrīv'ĕr; skrēv'-) Scot. & N. of Eng. a An inferior writer. b A scriber, for marking. c Wood Turning. A parting tool. scrob (skrŏb), v. t. [Cf. SCROBBLE.] To scratch. Dial. scrob'ble (skrŏb'l), n. & v. [Cf. SCRABBLE to scrape.] Scratch; scramble; tangle; scrawl. Dial. Eng.
scrobe (skrōb), n. [L. scrobis. See SCREW.] Zool. A groove, specif. that to receive the base of the antenna of a weevil, or one on the outer surface of a mandible. scro·bic'u·la (skrō·bĭk'ū·lȧ), n. [NL. See SCROBICULATE.] Zool. One of the smooth areas surrounding the tubercles of a sea urchin. — scro·bic'u·lar (-lĕr), adj.
scro·bic'u·late (skrō·bĭk'ū·lāt), adj. [L. scrobiculus, dim. of scrobis a ditch or trench.] Bot. & Zool. Having numerous small, shallow depressions or hollows; pitted.
scro·bic'u·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Scrobiculate scrob'i·cule (skrŏb'ĭ·kūl), n. 1. A scrobicula.
2. A small trenchlike depression.
scro·bic'u·lus (skrō·bĭk'ū·lŭs), n.; pl. -ULI (-lī). [L., dim. of scrobis ditch.] Anat. & Med. A small pit or furrow.
‖scro·bi'cu·lus cor'dis (skrō·bĭk'ū·lŭs kôr'dĭs). [L. cordis, gen. of cor heart.] Anat. The pit of the stomach.
scrod (skrŏd), n. [Cf. MD. schroode a strip, shred. See SCROLL.] A young cod (esp. Gadus morrhua) prepared in strips cut across the grain for cooking, as by broiling. Also, one of several other young fish similarly prepared, as haddock. U. S. — v. t. To prepare in the manner of a scrod (any small nonoily fish). U. S. scrod'gill' (skrŏd'gĭl'), n. [scrod + gill.] A pulldevil. — scrod'gill', v. t. & i.
scroff (skrŏf). Dial. var. of SCURF, SCRUFF. scroff, n. [Cf. SCURF.] Refuse; scraps. Dial. Eng.
scrof'u·la (skrŏf'ū·lȧ), n. [ML., fr. LL. scrofulae, pl., dim. fr. scrofa a breeding sow; perh. by a fanciful comparison of the glandular swellings to little pigs. Cf. SCREW.] Med. A morbid condition of a tuberculous nature, manifesting itself especially in a chronic enlargement and cheesy degeneration of the lymphatic glands, particularly those of the neck, with a tendency to the development of chronic inflammations of the skin and tuberculosis of the bones, joints, and other parts; tuberculous lymphadenitis; king's evil. It is most common in childhood.
scrofula plant. a A frostweed (Crocanthemum). b A figwort (Scrophularia). scrof'u·la·root' (-rōōt'; 200), n. The dogtooth violet. U. S. scrof'u·la·weed' (-wēd'), n. The rattlesnake plantain.
scrof'u·lide (skrŏf'ū·lĭd; -līd), n. Med. Scrofuloderm. scrof'u·lism (skrŏf'ū·lĭz'm), n. State of being scrofulous.
scrof'u·lit'ic (-lĭt'ĭk), adj. Scrofulous. scrof'u·lo- (skrŏf'ū·lō-), scroful-. A combining form for scrofula, as in scrofuloderm, scrofulosis; denoting also scrofulous and, as in scrof'u·lo·ra·chit'ic, scrof'u·lo·tu·ber'cu·lous.
scrof'u·lo·derm' (-lō·dûrm'), n. [NL. scrofuloderma. See SCROFULA; -DERM.] Med. Any affection of the skin dependent on scrofula. scrof'u·lo'sis (-lō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. scrofula + -osis.] Med. State of being scrofulous; scrofulous diathesis. scrof'u·lous (skrŏf'ū·lŭs), adj. [Cf. F. scrofuleux.] 1. Pertaining to, caused by, or of the nature of, scrofula.
2. Diseased or affected with scrofula.
3. Resembling scrofula; hence, morally contaminated.
— scrof'u·lous·ly, adv. — scrof'u·lous·ness, n.

scrog (skrŏg), n. [ME. skrogg, of uncert. origin.] 1. A stunted shrub, bush, or branch; scrub; also, usually pl., scrubby land. Scot., Dial. Eng., & Ir.
2. a The crab apple. b = BLACKTHORN, 1. scrogged (skrŏgd), adj. Stunted. Chiefly Scot. scrog'gy (skrŏg'ĭ), scrog'gie, scrog'ie, adj. Stunted; thorny; full of underbrush. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
scroi'noch, scrol'nogh (skroi'nŭk), n. & v. i. [Vars. of CORONACH.] Cry; shout; yell; fuss. Scot. scrol'ar (skrŏl'ĕr), adj. [scroll + -ar.] Of or pertaining to a scroll. scrolar line. Math. A line lying in a surface and such that the tangent planes of the surface at the various points of the line are different.
scroll (skrōl), n. [Earlier scrowle (after rowle roll), fr. ME. scrowe, fr. OF. escroe, escroue (F. écrou entry in the jail book), of Teut. origin; cf. MD. schroode a strip, shred, slip of paper; akin to E. SHRED. Cf. ESCROU.] 1. A roll of paper or parchment, esp. one written on; hence, a writing; a schedule; a list; also, a draft; an outline; as, to preserve the scroll of a letter.
Here is the scroll of every man's name. Shak.
2. a A ribbonlike strip of paper, esp. one written on; also, a representation of one. b A ribbonlike streamer.
3. Something, usually an ornament, in form resembling a roll of paper, esp. one loosely or only partly rolled. Specif.: a The curved head of viol instruments. b A scrollhead. c A spiral part or ornament of furniture, etc. d U. S. A mark or flourish added to a person's signature, esp. one intended to represent a seal, and in some States allowed as a substitute for a seal. e In ornamental design, any of various spiral or convoluted forms, whether self-contained or continuous, based on the curves taken by a scroll of parchment; also, any ornament of such a form. f A somewhat scroll-like molding, common in medieval work. g A curved portion at the end of a leaf spring.

1–5 Scroll, 3 e, showing derivation of Conventionalized Forms.

4. A roll or bundle.
5. Arch. A volute of an Ionic, Corinthian, or Composite capital. Cf. ORDER, Illust.
6. Furniture. A spiral formation or ornament, esp. of the foot of a chair or table. The Spanish scroll has a series of parallel flutes terminating in a sweeping spiral; the French scroll is somewhat softer, ball-shaped, and its spirals are nearly horizontal in position; the Flemish scroll has two S spirals which meet at right angles; the unilateral scroll has two spirals turned in the same direction as in the human ear. See Illust. under FOOT.

Scroll, 3 f.

7. Geom. = SKEW SURFACE.
8. Mach. Any of various parts shaped more or less like a scroll; as: (1) A spiral-shaped rib or slot for gearing with a slot on a radially moving part, as the jaw of a scroll chuck. (2) A casing for a turbine wheel, having a spiral waterway of converging aperture; also, a similarly shaped casing on a centrifugal pump or blower.
9. Shipbuilding. A curved timber, ornamented with fancy scrolls, bolted to the knee of the head.
scroll (skrōl), v.; SCROLLED (skrōld); SCROLL'ING. Transitive: 1. To write upon a scroll; to inscribe; record; engross; also, to draft.
2. To form into or like a scroll; to adorn with scrolls.
——, Intransitive: To take the form of a scroll or scrolls; to roll or curl up like a scroll.
scroll chuck. See 6th CHUCK, 5. scroll creeper. Arch. A crocket.
scroll'-cut', adj. Cut in the form of a scroll or with a scroll saw.
scrolled (skrōld), adj. Formed like a scroll; contained in a scroll; adorned with scrolls; curled.
scroll'er·y (skrōl'ĕr·ĭ), n. Scrollwork. scroll front. Furniture. A front with a compound curve, found in late Empire furniture; a serpentine front. scroll gear. Mach. A device consisting of a gear rack curved in the form of a flat scroll so as to have the teeth showing on one face.
scroll'head' (skrōl'hĕd'), n. A scroll-like ornament at the bow of a vessel. scroll lathe. A wood-turning lathe devised esp. for cutting scrolls and spiral work.
scroll pediment. Arch. A broken pediment with raking cornices in the form of reverse curves.
scroll saw. A ribbonlike saw stretched in a frame, adapted for sawing curved outlines; also, a machine in which such a saw is worked by foot or power. scroll step. Arch. A curtail step. See CURTAIL, n., 2. scroll wheel. = SCROLL GEAR. scroll'work' (skrōl'wûrk'), n. Decorative or ornamental work having a scroll or scrolls as the essential feature; also, thin woodwork cut into designs with a scroll saw.
scroll'y (skrōl'ĭ), adj. Scroll-like. scroo (skrōō), n. & v. [Of Scand. origin; cf. ON. skrūf, Dan. & Nor. skruv, skru.] Stack. Scot. scrooch (skrōōch), n. & v. Crouch. Dial.
Scrooge, Ebenezer (skrōōj). In Dickens's Christmas Carol, an exceedingly hard, avaricious man represented as visited by spirits on Christmas Eve and made kindly by what they show him of human life.
scroop (skrōōp), v. i.; SCROOPED (skrōōpt); SCROOP'ING. [Imitative.] To make a sound as of crunching, squeaking, or grating; to creak; squeak; grate. Chiefly Dial. — v. t. To treat (silk) so that it will make a rustling or crunching sound. — n. A harsh sound, as of creaking, scraping, or grating; specif., the crisp rustle of silk.
Scroph'u·la'ri·a (skrŏf'ū·lā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL. So called because it was reputed to be a remedy for scrofula, or from its knotty root.] Bot. a A large genus of coarse, often strong-smelling, perennial herbs, the figworts, typifying the family Scrophulariaceae, natives of temperate regions, having small flowers borne in a terminal cluster. The corolla is gibbous, with four erect lobes and one spreading lobe, or lip; there are four anthers and one staminodium. b [not cap.] A plant or flower of this genus.

Scroph'u·la'ri·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SCROPHULARIA.] Bot. A family of herbs, shrubs, or rarely trees (order Polemoniales), comprising about 200 genera and over 2,400 species, of very wide distribution; the figwort family. They have extipulate leaves, a more or less, irregular bilabiate corolla with four didynamous stamens, and a 2-celled ovary. The species of some genera possess medicinal properties. Among the important genera are Pentstemon, Veronica, Agalinis, Antirrhinum, Paulownia, Digitalis, Mimulus. — scroph'u·lar'i·a'ceous (-lâr'ĭ·ā'shŭs), adj.
scrot-, scroto-. Med. A combining form for scrotum, as in scro·tec'to·my, scro·ti'tis, scro'to·cele. See -ECTOMY, -ITIS, -CELE. Scrot(o)- denotes also in adjectives scrotal and, as in scro'to·fem'o·ral.
scro'tal (skrō'tăl; -tĭ'l), adj. Of or pertaining to the scrotum. scro'ti·form (skrō'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [scrotum + -form.] Pouch-shaped. scro'tum (skrō'tŭm), n.; pl. -TA (-tȧ), -TUMS (-tŭmz). [L. See SHRED.] The external bag or pouch which in most mammals contains the testicles; the cod. scrouge (skrouj; skrōōj), v. & n. Crowd; press; squeeze. Colloq. scroug'er, n. U. S. a = BOUNCER, 3. b A pulldevil. scrounge (skrounj; skrōōnj), v. t. & i. [Prob. fr. E. dial. scrunge, scrounge, to squeeze (cf. PINCH, v. t., 6).] Slang. a To steal slyly; pilfer; cadge; sponge. b To search; pry about. — scroung'er, n. scroung'ing (skroun'jĭng; skrōōn'jĭng), adj. Sharp; mean; calculating. Slang, Eng. scrout (skrout), v. t. & i. To scratch. Dial. Eng.
scrow (skrō), n. [Cf. ESCROW, SCROLL.] 1. Obs. a A scroll pl., writings. b A schedule; a list.
2. A clipping or cutting from a hide or skin, used for making glue; now, usually, a member of them collectively.
scrow. Var. of 1st SCREW. scroyle (skroil), n. [Orig. uncert.] Fellow; wretch. Archaic.
scrub (skrŭb), n. [Dan. skrub. See SHRUB.] 1. Vegetation consisting chiefly of dwarf or stunted trees and shrubs, often thick and impenetrable, growing in poor soil or in sand; as, mallee or pine scrub; also, a tract of country covered with such vegetation, esp. a palmetto barren of the southern United States, or the "bush" of Australia and South Africa.
2. A stunted tree; specif., Forestry, a low, straggling tree of inferior quality.
3. Stock Breeding. A domestic animal of mixed or unknown parentage, usually without definite type or markings; a mongrel. Cf. GRADE, 12.
scrub (skrŭb), adj. 1. Undersized; mean; inferior; paltry.
How solitary, how scrub, does this town look! Walpole.
2. Sports. Of a crew, nine, eleven, or other team, composed of "scrubs," frequently without previous training or practice together. Hence, hastily got together without careful selection; as, a scrub team of coach horses. Also, of a game or other contest, participated in by scrub teams.
scrub (skrŭb), v.; SCRUBBED (skrŭbd); SCRUB'BING. [Of LG. or Scand. origin; cf. Dan. skrubbe, Sw. skrubba, D. schrobben, LG. schrubben.] Transitive: 1. To rub hard in washing; to wash with rubbing; esp., to rub with something wet, coarse, or rough, so as to clean or brighten; as, to scrub a floor.
2. To wash (a gas). Cf. SCRUBBER, 2.
3. Hence, to cleanse thoroughly, as with a disinfectant.
——, Intransitive: 1. To rub something hard, or to cleanse or brighten something by rubbing, as with a wet brush.
2. To work hard and steadily and, usually, to live savingly; to drudge. Chiefly Dial.
scrub (skrŭb), n. [From SCRUB to rub.] 1. Act or process of scrubbing; a washing and rubbing; as, to give oneself a scrub.
2. One who labors hard and lives meanly; a drudge.
3. A brush or broom to scrub with.
4. Sports. a A player not belonging to the regular or first nine, eleven, crew, etc.; a member of a scrub nine, eleven, crew, etc.; a participant in a scrub game or race; also, a scrub team, crew, or the like. b Baseball. A scrub game.
5. pl. A class of large, damaged fullers' teasels.
6. An undersized, mean, or inferior person. scrub'bed (skrŭb'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Scrubby. Archaic.
scrub'ber (skrŭb'ĕr), n. 1. One who scrubs; esp., a worker who scrubs in cleansing or polishing; a sweeper.
2. That which scrubs or is used for scrubbing, as a brush; specif., Gas Mfg., any of various apparatus for washing (scrubbing) coal gas or other gases, as (1) a tower containing coke (coke tower) or other material down which water or a watery solution trickles and through which the gas ascends; (2) a vessel in which the gas is forced through the liquid, or a tank in which the gas passes over rotating blades or brushes that dip into the liquid.
3. Australia. A domestic animal run wild in the scrub. scrub'bing brush. A brush with hard bristles for domestic scrubbing. scrub birch. A low glandular-warty shrub (Betula glandulosa) with small roundish leaves. It often forms dense growths on mountain tops. scrub'bird' (skrŭb'bûrd'), n. Any bird living in or frequenting brush or scrub; specif., a small bird of the abnormal passerine genus Atrichornis, inhabiting bushy scrub in Australia. Two species (A. clamosus and A. rufescens) are known. They are peculiar, possessing only two pairs of syringeal muscles and only rudimentary clavicles. scrub'bly (skrŭb'lĭ), adj. Scrubby. scrub'board' (skrŭb'bôrd'; 181), n. Arch. Baseboard. scrub bush. The heath aster. scrub'by (skrŭb'ĭ), adj.; SCRUB'BI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCRUB'BI·EST. 1. Of the nature of scrub; small and mean; stunted in growth; shabby; as, a scrubby cur.
2. Having much scrub, or underbrush; as, scrubby woods.
3. Insignificant; paltry. Colloq.
4. Bristly.
scrub chestnut oak. See CHESTNUT OAK b. scrub fowl or hen. A megapode. scrub'grass' (skrŭb'grȧs'; 83), n. [scrub, v. + grass.] The scouring rush.
scrub hickory. An Australian timber tree (Pentaceras australis), family Rutaceae. scrub juniper. The creeping juniper Juniperus horizontalis. scrub'land' (skrŭb'lănd'), n. Land covered with scrub.

Scrip'ture·less, adj. See -LESS.
Scrip·tu'ri·an (skrĭp·tū'rĭ·ăn), n. A Scripturist. Obs. [Obs. scrip'u·lous, adj. Scrupulous. scrit, scrite, n. [See SCRIPT.] Writing; document; scroll. Obs. scri·toire' (skrĭ·twär'). Var. of ESCRITOIRE. scri'vaille' (skrē'vä'y'; -vä'y'), n. = SCRIVELLO. scriv'an, n. Also scri·va'no. [It. scrivano.] A scribe. Obs. scrivein, n. A scrivener. Obs. scrive'ner·ship, n. See -SHIP. scrive'ner's pal'sy. See WRITER'S CRAMP. scriv'en·ish, scriv'en·ish·ly, adv. Like a scrivener. Obs. scriv'en·ly, adj. Emendation of SCRIVENISH. [ALTAR.] scrof'u·lo·der'ma (skrŏf'ū·lō·dûr'mȧ), n. [NL.] = SCROFULODERM. scroll'-like', adj. See -LIKE.
scroll'-shaped', adj. See -SHAPED. scroll'wise', adv. See -WISE. scron'ach (skrŏn'ăk). Var. of SCRODNOCH. scroodge, scrooge (skrōōj). Dial. vars. of SCROUGE. scrooff (skrōōf). Dial. var. of SCURF. scroph'u·les. † SCROFFLES. scrouch. Var. of SCROOCH. scrowge. Var. of SCROUGE. scrub'ba·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
scrub·ba'do, n. [From scrub itch, after scabbado.] Scabies. Obs. scrub'ber·y, n. See -ERY. scrub'bi·ly, adv. of SCRUBBY. scrub'bi·ness, n. See -NESS. scrubbing board. = WASHBOARD, 1. scrubd. Scrubbed. Ref. Sp.

scrub myrtle. = AUSTRALIAN MYRTLE.

scrub oak. Any of several American dwarf oaks. The scrub oaks of New England and the Middle States are Quercus ilicifolia and Q. prinoides; of the Southern States, Q. catesbaei and Q. myrtifolia; of California, Q. dumosa; of the Rocky Mountain region, Q. leptophylla. See TURKEY OAK b.

scrub pine. a Any of many dwarf American pines. The common scrub pine, or Jersey pine, of the eastern United States is P. virginiana; along the Pacific coast the lodgepole pine P. contorta is called scrub pine. b The cypress pine Callitris calcarata, of Australia.

scrub plane. Joinery. See 4th PLANE, 2.

scrub robin. Any Australian singing bird of the genus Drymodes.

scrub sandalwood. A small Australian timber tree (Exocarpus latifolius), family Santalaceae; also, its wood.

scrub shrub. = GUMWOOD b.

scrub turkey. A megapode; esp., the leipoa.

scrub vine. a Australia. A leafless woody vine (Cassytha melantha). b = NATIVE ROSE b.

scrub wren. Any small Australian singing bird of the genus Sericornis.

scruff (skrŭf), n. [Var. of SCURF.] 1. Scurf; dandruff. Obs. exc. Dial.
2. A thin covering; crust; coating; film; also, a surface, as of water. "The scruff of the sky." L. A. Garnet.
3. a Scum; dross; refuse. b Skimmings from tinning pots.

scruff, v. t. [From scruff scurf.] 1. To cover with scruff.
2. To touch slightly; to deal with superficially; slur.

scruff (skrŭf), n. [Cf. SCUFF.] 1. The nape of the neck; the loose skin of the back of the neck or the back.
2. A similarly loose part of the clothing, as of the coat collar or trousers.

scruff, v. i. To seize by the scruff of the neck.

scruff'man (skrŭf'măn), n. A smelter who calcines scruff.

scruff'y (skrŭf'ĭ), adj. Having or suggestive of scurf; scurfy; also, Dial. Eng., stunted.

scrum half (skrŭm). Rugby Football. A halfback whose position is close to the scrummage. Cf. STAND-OFF HALF.

scrum'mage (skrŭm'ĭj; dial. also skrŏŏm'-), n. Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of SCRIMMAGE. Specif., Rugby Football, a certain play or formation (in which one or more players, usually all of the forwards, of each side close round the ball when it is on the ground (loose scrummage), or place themselves in close formation (tight scrummage) in readiness to dribble the ball, as soon as it is put in play between the opposing front ranks, or to heel it so that one of the backs may secure it, and kick, pass, or run with it) used to restart the play after a knock-on, forward pass, etc.; — popularly called scrum. Cf. SCRIMMAGE, 2 b, 1st BULLY, 1.

scrum'mage, v. t. & i.; -MAGED (-ĭjd); -MAG·ING (-ĭj·ĭng). Rugby Football. To play or place (the ball) in a scrummage; to engage in a scrummage. — scrum'mager (-ĭj·ĕr), n.

scrump (skrŭmp; skrŏŏmp), v. t. & i. [Cf. Nor. & Dan. skrumpe to shrivel, to shrink, E. scrimp.] To shrivel; squeeze. Dial. Eng.

scrump, n. Anything shriveled or undersized. Dial. Eng.

scrump (skrŭmp; skrŏŏmp). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of CRUMP.

scrum'ple (skrŭm'p'l), v. & n. Crumple; wrinkle. Now Dial.

scrump'tious (skrŭmp'shŭs), adj. Slang. a Nice; particular; fastidious. b Very fine; capital; "dandy." — scrump'tious·ly, adv. — scrump'tious·ness, n.

scrunch (skrŭnch; 105), v. t. & i., SCRUNCHED (skrŭncht); SCRUNCH'ING. [Cf. SCRANCH, CRUNCH.] To crunch; also, to crush; squeeze; huddle. Colloq. & Dial.

scrunch, n. Act or sound of scrunching. Colloq. & Dial.

scrunch'y (skrŭnch'ĭ), adj. Scrunched. Colloq. & Dial.

scrunge (skrŭnj; skrŏŏnj), v. & n. Crush; squeeze; press. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

scrunge (skrŭnj), v. i. To sponge. — scrung'er (skrŭn'-jĕr), n. Both Southern U. S.

scrunt (skrŭnt; skrŏŏnt), n. Scot. & N. of Eng. a A stunted or worn-down thing; a stump; also, brushwood. b A stunted person; also, a niggard.

scru'ple (skrōō'p'l), n. [F. and L.; F. scrupule, fr. L. scrupulus a small sharp or pointed stone, the twenty-fourth part of an ounce, a scruple, uneasiness, doubt, dim. of scrupus a rough or sharp stone, anxiety, uneasiness; See SHRED.] 1. A minute quantity, amount, or portion; a small part; esp., a small part considered as a unit. Specif.: a Rom. Antiq. (1) The smallest unit of weight, ½88 of an as or ½4 of an uncia. (2) The smallest unit of area, ½88 of a juger or ½4 of an uncia. (3) A coin, worth during the Republic about $0.75 and under the early emperors about $1.00. b A unit of weight, 20 grains or ⅓ of a dram, — now used only by apothecaries. The symbol ℈ denotes this weight. See WEIGHT, Table. c Obs. A minute, as a sixtieth of a degree (as of longitude) or of an hour. d Obs. Among the Chaldeans and other Eastern peoples, 1/1080 of an hour.
2. Hesitation as to action or decision from the difficulty of determining what is right or fitting; unwillingness, doubt or hesitation, proceeding from conscientiousness; a cause of such hesitation; as, to proceed without scruple; scruples of honor.
3. a A particular that causes doubt or hesitation concerning the truth or rectitude of something, esp. one that would be commonly overlooked or disregarded. b A state of uncertainty or doubt caused by such a particular. c Obs. Disbelief; doubt.
Syn. — See QUALM.

scru'ple (skrōō'p'l), v.; SCRU'PLED (-p'ld); SCRU'PLING (-plĭng). Intransitive: To have scruples, esp. conscientious ones; to be reluctant or to hesitate, as regards action or decision, on account of considerations of conscience or the difficulty of determining rightfulness, propriety, or expediency.

We are often overprecise, scrupling to say or do those things which lawfully we may. Fuller.

——, Transitive: 1. To have scruples, esp. conscientious ones, about; to hesitate at.
2. Obs. a To take exception to. b To question; doubt. c To excite scruples in; to cause to scruple.

scru'pler (skrōō'plĕr), n. One who scruples.

scru'pu·lar (skrōō'pū·lĕr), adj. Pertaining or amounting to a scruple. Rare.

scru'pu·list (skrōō'pū·lĭst), n. One who makes or observes scruples in his action or behavior; a scrupler.

scru'pu·los'i·ty (skrōō'pū·lŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. or L.; F. scrupulosité, fr. L. scrupulositas.] 1. Quality or state of being scrupulous.
2. A scruple. Obs.

scru'pu·lous (skrōō'pū·lŭs; 242), adj. [F. or L.; F. scrupuleux, fr. L. scrupulosis.] 1. Full of or having scruples; inclined to scruple; hence, careful or strict in doing what is right or proper; exact; punctilious; as, scrupulous performance of duties.

We should be scrupulous to observe the propriety we exacted of others. Agnes Repplier.

2. Obs. a Distrustful; cautious. b Given to making objections; captious. c Reluctant; chary. d Causing scruples. e Liable to be doubted; doubtful.
Syn. — SCRUPULOUS, PUNCTILIOUS, CONSCIENTIOUS. SCRUPULOUS, as here compared, implies the utmost nicety or exactness; PUNCTILIOUS suggests particularity or preciseness, esp. in the observance of forms and ceremonies; as, "a scrupulous correctness of statement" (Hazlitt); "Mr. James, so precise of outline, so cunning of fence, so scrupulous of finish" (Stevenson); "I am sorry . . . to see you so punctilious as to stand upon answers, and never to come near me till I have regularly left my name at your door" (Gray). CONSCIENTIOUS implies scrupulous, often painstaking, observance of duty; as, "His [Ben Jonson's] whole character . . . was far too sturdily conscientious to allow of any suspicion being cast upon his rectitude" (A. W. Ward); a conscientious workman; the conscientious performance of a task. Cf. CEREMONIAL, RIGID, CORRECT, STRICT.
Ant. — Rascally, unprincipled, dishonest.
— scru'pu·lous·ly, adv. — scru'pu·lous·ness, n.

scru'ta·bil'i·ty (skrōō'tȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being scrutable.

scru'ta·ble (skrōō'tȧ·b'l), adj. Susceptible of being scrutinized; discoverable by scrutiny.

scru'tate (skrōō'tāt), v. t. [L. scrutatus, past part. of scrutari. See SCRUTINY.] To investigate minutely. — scru·ta'tion (skrōō·tā'shŭn), n.

scru·ta'tor (skrōō·tā'tŏr), n. [L.] One who investigates or scrutinizes; a scrutineer.

scru'ta·to'ry (skrōō'tȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Searching.

scru'ti·nant (skrōō'tĭ·nănt), adj. Scrutinizing. Rare.

scru'ti·nate (-nāt), v. t. [ML. scrutinare.] To scrutinize.

‖scru'tin' de liste' (skrü'tăN' dĕ lēst'). [F., voting by list.] In France, in elections for the Chamber of Deputies, voting by each elector for the candidates for the whole department in which he lives, as disting. from ‖scru'tin' d'ar'ron·disse'ment' (dȧ'rôN·dēs'măN'), or voting by each elector for the candidate or candidates for his own arrondissement only.

scru'ti·neer' (skrōō'tĭ·nēr'), n. A scrutinizer; examiner; investigator; specif., an examiner of votes, as at an election.

scru'ti·nize (skrōō'tĭ·nīz; 242), v. t.; -NIZED (-nīzd)·-NIZ'ING (-nīz'ĭng). To examine closely; to inspect or observe with critical attention. — v. i. To make a scrutiny.
Syn. — See SCAN.
— scru'ti·ni·za'tion (-nĭ·zā'shŭn; -nī·zā'shŭn), n. — scru'ti·niz'er (skrōō'tĭ·nīz'ĕr), n.

scru'ti·nous (skrōō'tĭ·nŭs), adj. Closely examining; scrutinizing; given to inquiry. — scru'ti·nous·ly, adv.

scru'ti·ny (-nĭ), n. [L. scrutinium, fr. scrutari to search, examine. See SHRED; cf. INSCRUTABLE, SCROTUM.] 1. Formal vote taking in an election or in the procedure of an assembly; an instance of such vote taking.
2. Critical investigation.
3. Close examination; minute inspection; critical observation; a searching gaze.
4. Parliamentary Practice. An official examination, as by a committee, of the votes or ballots given at an election.
5. R.C.Ch. a A public examination of catechumens before baptism, consisting of catechizings and exorcisms. The three, later seven, scrutinies, extending over several weeks, have been, since the Middle Ages, merged into one rite. b An inquiry and examination preceding elevation to orders. c An ecclesiastical method of election by secret written ballot, as in a conclave, when a two-thirds majority, plus one, is necessary for election.
Syn. — See EXAMINATION.

scru'to (skrōō'tō), n. [Origin uncert.] Theater. A kind of trap door on the stage.

scru·toire' (skrōō·twär'), n. [OF. escritoire. See ESCRITOIRE.] An escritoire. Archaic.

scruze (skrōōz), v. t. To squeeze; crush. Obs. exc. Dial.

scry (skrī), n. & v. [ME. ascry, fr. ascrien, escrien, to cry out, fr. OF. escrier (F. s'écrier). See EX-; CRY.] Cry; shout. Obs. exc. Dial.

scry, n. [Cf. SCREEN.] A kind of sieve. — v. t. To sift. Both Obs. exc. Dial.

scry (skrī), v. t. [Aphetic fr. DESCRY.] To descry. Archaic & Dial. — v. i. To practice crystal gazing.

scry, n. 1. A quick look; a glance. Dial. Eng.
2. Something "scried" in crystal gazing.

scry'er (skrī'ĕr), n. The beholder in crystal gazing.

scud (skŭd), v.; SCUD'DED; SCUD'DING. [Origin uncert., cf. SCUT.] Intransitive: 1. To move or run swiftly; esp., to move as if driven forward by something.

Clouds scudded over the blue heaven. Beaconsfield.

2. Archery. To fly too high and off the proper course; — said of an arrow.
3. Naut. To be driven swiftly, or to run, before a gale.
——, Transitive: 1. To pass over quickly.
2. To cause to scud.
Syn. — See SKIM.

scud, n. 1. Act of scudding; a driving along; a rushing.
2. Loose, vapory clouds or fragments of cloud driven swiftly by the wind; hence, something likened to such clouds; as: a Chiefly Scot. & Dial. Eng. A slight, sudden shower, a gust of wind, or a driving mist. b Colloq. Foam; spray; scum. c pl. Scot. Beer or ale; esp., foaming ale.
3. A blow; slap; spank. Scot. & Ir.
4. A runner. School Slang.
5. Any amphipod crustacean, as a beach flea.

scud (skŭd), n. Leather Mfg. The matter that is worked out of hides or skins in scudding. — v. t. To scrape (a depilated and trimmed hide or skin) in order to remove remaining hairs, lime, etc.

scud'dal·er (skŭd'ăl·ĕr), n. [Origin uncert.] A leader of revelers or maskers. Shetland Islands.

scud·dawn' (skŭ·thôn'), n. [Ir. scadān.] A herring. Ir.

scud'der (skŭd'ĕr), n. A beam man who scrapes skins by hand or machine.

scud'dick (skŭd'ĭk), n. A thing minute in size or value, as a coin. Slang.

scud'dy (-ĭ), adj. Naked. — n. A naked child. Both Scot.

scu'do (skōō'dō), n.; pl. SCUDI (-dē). [It., a crown, a dollar, a shield, fr. L. scutum a shield. See ESCUDO; cf. SCUTE.] A silver coin, and money of account, used (from the 17th to the 19th century) in Italy and Sicily, usually approximating 4 shillings or 97 cents; also, a gold coin worth about the same.

scuff (skŭf), v. [Of uncert. origin.] Transitive: 1. To drag while moving; to shuffle; as, to scuff the feet.
2. To injure or make shabby by wear. Colloq. & Dial.
3. a Scot. To touch lightly in passing; to graze. b To brush aside; wipe off. c Scot. To evade or slight (work).
4. To cuff; buffet. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
5. To scatter, tread, toss, etc., by or as by shuffling with the feet; as, to scuff the leaves.
——, Intransitive: 1. To walk without lifting the feet; to proceed with a scraping or dragging movement; to shuffle.
2. To become scratched or roughened by wear; as, soft bindings scuff easily.

scuff (skŭf), n. 1. Scot. & Dial. Eng. a A touch, a glancing blow; a cuff. b A slight shower; a gust.
2. A noise of or as of scuffing.
3. A rabble; also, a rowdy.

scuff (skŭf; dial. skŏŏf), n. [Cf. ON. skopt hair, Goth. skuft. Cf. SCRUFF.] The scruff of the neck.

scuffed (skŭft), adj. Shabby from wear. Colloq. & Dial.

scuff'er (skŭf'ĕr), n. [scuff + -er.] 1. A light slipper or sandallike shoe for children.
2. = 2d GUMMER, 2. Eng.

scuf'fle (skŭf'l), v.; SCUF'FLED (-'ld); SCUF'FLING (-lĭng). [Prob. of Scand. origin; cf. Sw. skuffa to push, shove. See SHOVE; cf. SHUFFLE.] Intransitive: 1. To strive or struggle at close quarters with disorder and confusion. Cf. TUSSLE.
2. To contend with vigor or resolution. Obs.
3. To make one's way in or as in a scuffle; to go in hurry and confusion.
4. To scuff; to shuffle.
——, Transitive: To take or put scuffingly; to cause to scuffle.

scuf'fle (skŭf'l), n. 1. A rough, haphazard struggle with scrambling and confusion. "Above the scuffle of provincial and unprofessional annoyances." Henry Adams.
2. Act of scuffling; a shuffle.

scuf'fle (skŭf'l), n. Short for SCUFFLE HOE. — v. i. To use a scuffle hoe.

scuffle hoe. Hort. & Gardening. A hoe that is pushed forward; a thrust hoe.

scuf'fler (skŭf'lĕr), n. 1. One who scuffles (with the feet).
2. = 2d GUMMER, 2.

scuf'fly (skŭf'lĭ), adj. Scuffling.

scuff plate. A metal plate fitting over the threshold of the door of an automotive vehicle to cover the flanges of the side body panels.

scuff'y (skŭf'ĭ; Scot. also skŏŏf'ĭ), adj. Shabby; shabby-looking; seedy. Chiefly Scot.

scuft (skŏŏft), n. & v. [See SCUFF, v.] Cuff; buffet. Dial. Eng.

scuf'ter (skŏŏf'tĕr), n. & v. Bustle; hurry. Dial. Eng.

scug (skŭg; skŏŏg), n. [ON. skuggi.] Scot. & N. of Eng. a Shade or shadow; shelter. b A place of shelter or protection, esp. the side of a hill. c A pretense. — scug, v. t. & i.

scug, n. A squirrel. Dial. Eng.

scug, n. A schoolboy who lacks distinction or form. Slang, Eng.

scug'ger·y (skŏŏg'ĕr·ĭ), n. Secrecy. N. of Eng.

sculch (skŭlch), n. [Var. of CULTCH.] Refuse; cultch. Chiefly Dial.

scul·dud'der·y (skŭl·dŭd'ĕr·ĭ), n. Grossness; obscenity. Scot. & U. S.

scull (skŭl), n. [Var. of SKULL.] 1. Metal. = SKULL, n., 6.
2. Turnings from the outsides of wooden bowls. Local, U.S.

scull (skŭl), n. [ME., of unknown origin.] 1. Naut. a An oar used at the stern to propel a boat by sculling. b One of a pair of short oars, usually less than ten feet in length, for one person. c Obs. A small rowboat. d Rare. A sculler. e A boat, usually for racing, for one person, or sometimes two persons, using sculls or short oars. f pl. A sculling race.
2. Act of sculling.

scull (skŭl), v.; SCULLED (skŭld); SCULL'ING. Transitive: 1. Naut. To propel (a boat) with a scull or sculls; specif.: a To propel by means of one or more pairs of sculls. b To propel by means of a large oar resting in a notch in the transom and worked thwartwise with a turning motion giving the effect of a fish's tail.
2. To take or betake by sculling.
——, Intransitive: 1. To scull a boat. Hence: a To propel itself by or as by sculls or a scull. b To admit of being sculled; — said of a boat.
2. To skate without raising the feet from the ice.

scull, n. [Cf. SKUA.] A gull. Local, Eng.

scull, n. [Gael. or ON.; Gael. sgŭlan a large wicker basket, fr. ON. skjŏla bucket.] A large shallow wicker basket, esp. for carrying produce or fishing tackle. Scot.

scull, n. Scullion. Obs.

scull (skŭl; skŏŏl). Obs. exc. Scot. var. of SKULL; (dial. skŏŏl) obs. exc. dial. Eng. var. of SCHOOL, a shoal.

scull'er (skŭl'ĕr), n. 1. One who sculls, esp. proficiently.
2. A boat rowed by one man with two sculls.

scull'er (skŭl'ĕr), n. In metallurgy, a workman who removes scull.

scul'ler·y (skŭl'ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. SCULLERIES (-ĭz). [OF. escuelerie the office of keeping dishes, fr. escuele a dish (F. écuelle) fr. L. scutella a salver, waiter. See SCUTTLE dish.] 1. Formerly, the department of a household having charge of the dishes and kitchen utensils; also, its room or rooms for work.
2. A place where culinary utensils are cleaned and kept; also, a room near the kitchen, for the coarse work.

scul'ler·y, adj. Pertaining or suited to a scullery.

scullery maid. In large establishments, a maid who cleans and tidies up in the kitchen and servants' quarters; a maid who works in the scullery.

scrub'wood', n. a = SCRUB, 1. b = GUMWOOD b. scruf, scruff (skrăf, skrŏf). Dial. vars. of SCURF. scruf. Scruff. Ref. Sp. scruf'fle, n. & v. = SCUFFLE. Dial. Eng. [1. Dial. Eng.] scruft (skrŏft), n. = 3d SCRUFF. scrump'tion (skrŭm'shŭn). Var. of SCRIMPTION. scru'pld. Scrupled. Ref. Sp. scru'ple·less, adj. See -LESS. scru'ple·ness, n. Scrupulousness. Obs. scru'ple·some, adj. See -SOME.
— scru'ple·some·ness, n. scru'pu·lize (skrōō'pū·lĭz), v. t. & i. To scruple. Obs.
scru'pu·lus (-lŭs), scru'pu·lum (-lŭm), n.; pl. -LI (-lī), -LA (-lȧ). [L.] See WEIGHT, Table; MEASURE, Table. scruze. Var. of SCRUZE, to squeeze, crush. scrush (skrŏŏsh; skrŭsh). Dial. Eng. var. of CRUSH. scru'tine, v. i. [OF. scruiner.] To scrutinize; investigate. Obs. scru'ti·nis'ing·ly, adv. of scruinizing, pres. part. [-PROOF.] scru'ti·ny·proof' (66), adj. See scud'dle (skŭd'l), v. i. [Freq. of scud. Cf. SCUTTLE to run.] To hurry; scuttle. Obs. exc. Scot. scud'ler. Var. of SCUDDALER. scuf. Scuff. Ref. Sp. [pres. part.] scuf'fing·ly, adv. of scuffing, scuf'l. Scuffle. Ref. Sp. scuf'ld. Scuffled. Ref. Sp. scul. ✝ SCHOOL, SKULL. scul. Scull. Ref. Sp. sculd. Sculled. Ref. Sp.
scul·dug'ger·y, scull·dug'ger·y. Vars. of SKULDUGGERY. sculk (skŭlk), sculk'er. Vars. of SKULK, etc. scull·dud'der·y. Var. of SCULDUDDERY.

sculling oar. A long oar adapted or used for sculling a boat from over the stern.

scul'lion (skŭl'yŭn), n. [OF. escouillon, escouvillon, fr. F. écouvillon, a swab, which is fr. escouve a broom, L. scopa, scopae.] A servant who cleans pots and kettles, or does other menial services in the kitchen; also, in contempt, fellow; wretch. Archaic.

scul'lion, adj. Base; menial.

scul·log', scul·logue' (skŭ·lŏg'), n. [Ir. scolōg.] A small farmer; a farm laborer; a rustic. Anglo-Ir.

sculp (skŭlp), v. t. [L. sculpere. See SCULPTOR.] 1. To carve; engrave. Obs.
2. To sculpture. Humorous.

sculp, n. An engraving; a piece of sculpture. Obs.

sculp, v. t. [From scalp, fr. scapple. See SCABBLE.] To break (slate) into slabs, suitable for splitting.

sculp, v. t. [Var. of 3d SCALP.] To skin or to remove the skin and blubber of (a seal). — n. The skin or pelt of a seal, esp. a young seal, with the adherent blubber.

scul'pin (skŭl'pĭn), n.; pl. SCULPINS (-pĭnz), sometimes SCULPIN. See PLURAL, Note. [Cf. F. scorpène scorpene. Cf. SCORPENE, SCORPION.] 1. a Any of numerous spiny, large-headed, broad-mouthed, usually scaleless, fishes which constitute the family Cottidae. The flesh of most of them is scanty and bony. The commonest species of the North Atlantic belong to the genus Acanthocottus, syn. Myoxocephalus (cf. FATHER-LASHER), A. groenlandicus and the smaller A. aeneus being common on the New England coasts. b The dragonet (Callionymus draco). c A scorpion fish (Scorpaena guttata) of the southern California coast. d Any of numerous large-headed fishes of a family (Icelidae) allied to the true sculpins (Cottidae) but having a scaly body and hence called scaled sculpins.

Sculpin (Acanthocottus groenlandicus). (⅛)

2. A worthless creature. Contemptuous.

scul'pin, adj. Worthless. U. S.

‖sculp'sit (skŭlp'sĭt). [L., 3d pers. sing. perf. ind. of sculpere.] (He or she) carved or engraved (it).

sculpt (skŭlpt), v. t. & i. [F. sculpter, fr. L. sculptum, past. part. of sculpere.] To carve; sculpture. Humorous.

sculpt, adj. Sculptured.

sculp'tile (skŭlp'tĭl), adj. [L. sculptilis. See SCULPTOR.] Formed by carving; graven. — n. A graven image. Obs.

sculp'ti·to'ry (skŭlp'tĭ·tō'rĭ; -tēr·ĭ), adj. Having the characteristics of sculpture.

sculp'to·graph (-tō·grăf; 83), n. [L. sculptus, past part. + -graph. See SCULPTOR.] A photograph which shows objects in relief. — sculp·tog'ra·phy (skŭlp·tŏg'rə·fĭ), n.

sculp'tor (skŭlp'tĕr), n. [L., fr. sculpere, sculptum, to carve, fr. scalpere to cut, to carve, scratch. See SHELF.]
1. One who sculptures.
2. Hence, an artist who designs works of sculpture, his model being usually in a plastic material, from which model the marble is cut or the bronze is cast.
3. A graving tool. Obs.
4. [cap.] gen. SCULPTORIS (skŭlp·tō'rĭs) Astron. A southern constellation between Cetus and Phoenix; the Sculptor('s Workshop).

Sculp'tor·id (-ĭd), n. [Sculptor + 1st -id.] Astron. Any of the meteors whose radiant is in the constellation Sculptor.

sculp'tress (-trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. A female sculptor.

sculp'tur·al (skŭlp'tŭr·ăl), adj. Of or pert. to sculpture; also, like sculpture; sculpturesque. — sculp'tur·al·ly, adv.

sculp'tur·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. A sculptured marking.

sculp'ture (skŭlp'tŭr), n. [L. sculptura.] 1. Act or art of carving, cutting, or hewing wood, stone, metal, etc., into statues, ornaments, etc., or into figures; hence, the act or art of producing figures and groups, whether in plastic or hard materials, but now esp. in marble or bronze.
2. Carved work in stone, wood, metal, etc.
3. Engraving; an engraved figure or design. Obs.
4. Phys. Geog. The modification of the forms of the earth's surface by sculpturing. See SCULPTURE, v. t., 2.
5. Bot. & Zool. The impressed or raised markings, or the pattern of such markings, on the surface of any part.

sculp'ture (skŭlp'tŭr), v.; SCULP'TURED (-tŭrd); SCULP'TUR·ING. Transitive: 1. To form with the chisel or other tool on, in, or from wood, stone, metal, etc.; to adorn or cover with sculpture or carved work; to carve; engrave.
2. Phys. Geog. To change (the forms of the earth's surface) by erosion or by erosion and deposition; as, the sculpturing of a canyon or a valley by a river.
—, Intransitive: To carve as a sculptor.

sculp'tured (skŭlp'tŭrd), adj. Made by sculpturing; also, Nat. Hist., appearing as if engraved by reason of having raised or impressed markings on the surface.

sculptured glass. = CAMEO GLASS.

sculptured tortoise or turtle. The wood tortoise.

sculp'tur·er (skŭlp'tŭr·ĕr), n. One who or that which sculptures.

sculp'tur·esque' (skŭlp'tŭr·ĕsk'), adj. In the manner of, or resembling, sculpture; statuelike; clearly outlined; majestic. — sculp'tur·esque'ly, adv. — -esque'ness, n.

sculp'tur·ing (skŭlp'tŭr·ĭng), n. Action of one who sculptures; the work of a sculptor; a sculptured marking.

scum (skŭm), n. [ME. scume, fr. MD. schūm (D. schuim); akin to OHG. scūm, G. schaum, and to ON. skumi twilight, L. obscurus dark; basic idea: a covering. See OBSCURE; cf. MEERSCHAUM, SCUTAGE, SCUTTLE dish, SKIM.] 1. Foam; froth; also, a bubble. Obs.
2. a Extraneous matter or impurities risen to, or formed on, the surface of liquids; any foul filmy covering floating on a liquid, as on a stagnant pool. b The scoria of metals in a molten state; dross.
3. Refuse; offscourings; anything vile or worthless; hence, vile or worthless persons; a rabble of low people.
4. = POND SCUM.

scum, v.; SCUMMED (skŭmd); SCUM'MING. Transitive: 1. To take the scum from; to skim; to remove as scum.
2. To sweep or range over; to skim; scour. Obs.
3. To cover with or as with scum.
—, Intransitive: 1. Obs. a To foam. b To rise as scum.
2. To skim or pass lightly; — with over. Obs.
3. To form a scum; to become covered with scum.

scum (skŭm). Dial. past part. of SKIM.

scum'ber (skŭm'bĕr; -ẽr), v. i. [Cf. OF. escombrer to clean out, and E. DISCUMBER.] To void excrement. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

scum'ber, n. Dung, esp. of foxes. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

scum'ble (skŭm'b'l), v. t.; SCUM'BLED (-b'ld); SCUM'BLING (-blĭng). [Freq. of SCUM.] Painting & Drawing. a To render less brilliant by covering with a thin coat of opaque or semiopaque color applied with a nearly dry brush; also, to apply (a color) in this manner. b To soften the lines or colors of (a drawing) by rubbing lightly with a stump, the finger, etc. c To paint, draw, or produce by either of these processes.

scum'ble, n. Act or result of scumbling; a softened effect produced by scumbling; also, that put on in scumbling; the quantity, as of paint, used for scumbling.

scum'bling (-blĭng), n. Painting & Drawing. The effect produced by, or the color applied in or as in, a scumble.

scum'board' (skŭm'bōrd'; 181), n. A device for the removal of scum in sewage-treatment plants.

scum'fish (skŭm'fĭsh), v. t. & i. [Cf. SCOMFIT, DISCOMFIT.] Scot. & N. of Eng. a To suffocate; choke. b To discomfit; overpower.

scummed (skŭmd), adj. Skimmed; also, covered with scum.

scum'mer (skŭm'ĕr), n. [See SCUM; cf. SKIMMER.] 1. A utensil for removing scum; also, one who skims.
2. A sea rover. Obs.

scum'mer. Var. of SCUMBER.

scum'ming, pres. part. & verbal n. of SCUM. Specif.: n. Removal or formation of scum; also, matter so formed or removed.

scum'my (skŭm'ĭ), adj.; SCUM'MI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); SCUM'MI·EST. a Covered with scum. b Of the nature of or like scum.

scun'ner, scun'der (skŭn'ĕr), n. Chiefly Dial. Dislike; prejudice; — esp. in to take a scunner at or against.

scun'ner (skŭn'ĕr; skŏŏn'ĕr), v. t. & i. [Cf. SHUN.] Scot. & Dial. Eng. a To loathe; to sicken with disgust or loathing or with fright. b To shrink or flinch (from).

scup (skŭp), n.; pl. SCUP, sometimes SCUPS (skŭps). See PLURAL, Note. [Narraganset mishcùppaŭog, pl. (fr. mishe big + kuppe close together, referring to the scales + -ŭog, pl. suffix), whence also E. mishcup, paugie, scuppaug. Cf. also POGY, PORGY.] A marine fish (Stenotomus versicolor, syn. chrysops), family Sparidae, common on the Atlantic coast of the United States, and esteemed as a pan fish; — called also porgy. Also, the allied more southern species S. chrysops, syn. aculeatus.

Scup (Stenotomus versicolor). (⅛) scup (skŭp), n. & v. i. [D. schop.] Swing. Local, U. S.

scup'paug (skŭp'ôg; skŭ·pôg'), n. [See SCUP.] The scup (fish).

scup'per (skŭp'ĕr), n. [Origin uncert.; cf. SCOOP.] Naut. 1. An opening cut through the waterway and bulwarks of a ship, so that water falling on deck may flow overboard.
2. An opening in the wall of a building to permit water to drain off a floor or flat roof; also, a device placed in the opening to facilitate drainage.

scup'per, v. t. Slang, Brit. To put or leave in danger or difficulty; to massacre in a surprise attack.

scup'per·nong (skŭp'ĕr·nŏng), n. [From Scuppernong river and lake in N. Carolina, fr. Virginian Askŭponong, lit., at the place of the magnolias, fr. askŭpo magnolia.] 1. An American grape, a form of the muscadine (Muscadinia rotundifolia) of the southern Atlantic States. It is large, yellowish-green in color, and of plumlike flavor.
2. An aromatic wine, golden in color and usually sweet, made from this grape.

scupper pipe or shoot. Naut. A drainpipe from a deckhouse roof to the scuppers or from the deck to an opening in the side.

scup'pet (skŭp'ĕt; -ĭt), n. Also scup'pit (-ĭt). [Dim. of scoop.] A small spade or shovel. Dial. Eng. — v. t. To shovel. Now Rare.

scur (skûr), n. A small rounded portion of horn tissue attached to the skin of the horn pit of a polled animal.

scur. Var. of SKIRR.

scur'dy (skŭr'dĭ), n. Whinstone. Scot.

scurf (skûrf), n. [AS. scurf, sceorf; akin to MLG. schorf, OHG. scorf, G. schorf, to AS. sceorfan to gnaw, and to L. carpere to pluck. See SCARCE; cf. SCARF to unite, SCURVY.]
1. A skin condition, as in scurvy, producing laminae; also, one of these laminae. Obs.
2. Branlike material which becomes detached from the epidermis in thin dry scales, esp. in an abnormal skin condition. Cf. DANDRUFF.

Bones foul with leprous scurf. Swinburne.

3. a Anything like flakes or scales adhering to a surface. b Hence, the foul remains of anything adherent.

The scurf is worn away of each committed crime. Dryden.

4. a The offscourings of society. b Slang, Eng. A mean shabby fellow. Cf. SCAB, n., 3.
5. Bot. The scaly pubescence found on certain leaves.
6. Plant Pathol. a A localized or general browning and roughening of a smooth plant surface, more pronounced than russeting. b Any of several diseases characterized by such symptoms, as that of sweet potatoes caused by Moniliochaetes infuscans, silver scurf, etc.

scurf, v. Transitive: 1. To whiten or cover like scurf.
2. To remove scurf, or roughnesses and irregularities, from.
—, Intransitive: To rise in the form of scurf.

scurf'er (skûr'fĕr), n. 1. A workman who removes scurf, as by chipping or scraping.
2. A wooden tool coated with coarse emery for smoothing, as leather, after scraping.

scurf'y (skŭr'fĭ), adj.; SCURF'I·ER (-fĭ·ĕr); SCURF'I·EST. [Cf. SCURVY, adj.] Having or producing scurf; covered with or as with scurf; resembling, or consisting of, scurf.

scurfy bark louse. = SCURFY SCALE.

scurfy pea. = SCURVY PEA.

scurfy scale. A scale insect (Chionaspis furfura) injurious to apple and pear trees.

scur'ri·er (skŭr'ĭ·ĕr), n. One who or that which scurries.

scur'ri·er, n. [Cf. SCOUR to run, run over.] A scout; an avant-courier. Obs.

scur'rile (skŭr'ĭl; 155), adj. Also scur'ril. [L. scurrilis, fr. scurra buffoon, jester; cf. F. scurrile.] Such as befits a buffoon or vulgar jester; scurrilous.

The wretched affectation of scurrile laughter. Cowley.

scur·ril'i·ty (skŭ·rĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. scurrilitas; cf. F. scurrilité.] Quality or state of being scurrile; also, a thing that is scurrile; a scurrilous remark or act.

scur'ril·ous (skŭr'ĭ·lŭs; 245), adj. [See SCURRILE.] 1. Using, or given to using, the language of low buffoonery; marked by scurrility.
2. Containing low indecency or abuse; coarsely opprobrious; obscenely jocular; as, scurrilous language.
Syn. — Abusive, insulting; gross, vile, vulgar, low, foulmouthed, indecent, scurrile. See OPPROBRIOUS.
— scur'ril·ous·ly, adv. — scur'ril·ous·ness, n.

scur'ry (skŭr'ĭ), v. i.; SCUR'RIED (-ĭd); SCUR'RY·ING. [Apparently a blend of scatter and hurry.] To hasten briskly; to scour. — v. t. To cause to scurry.

scur'ry, n. 1. Act of scurrying; a hurried movement.
2. A short run or race, esp. on horseback.
3. a A flurry, as of snow. b Dial. A flock in confused flight.

scur'ry (skŭr'ĭ), adj. Scurrying.

S curve. An S-shaped curve.

scur'vied (skŭr'vĭd), adj. Diseased with scurvy; scorbutic.

scur'vish (skŭr'vĭsh), n. The evening primrose Oenothera biennis.

scur'vy (skŭr'vĭ), adj.; SCUR'VI·ER (-vĭ·ĕr); SCUR'VI·EST. [From SCURF; cf. SCURVY, n.] 1. a Obs. Covered or affected with scurf or scabs; scurfy. b Like scurf.
2. Mean; contemptible; discourteous; as, a scurvy trick. — scur'vi·ly (skŭr'vĭ·lĭ), adv. — scur'vi·ness, n.

scur'vy, n. [From SCURVY, adj.] 1. Med. A disease characterized by a tendency to hemorrhage, esp. into the skin and mucous membranes, and by a spongy condition of the gums, foul breath, loosening of the teeth, anemia, and debility. It results from a lack of vitamin C. Orange juice and lemon juice are a specific cure.
2. A case of attack by scurvy. Obs.

scurvy grass. a Any of several cresses, esp. one (Cochlearia officinalis) found in arctic regions. It is a remedy for scurvy. b In Australia, the dayflower (Commelina).

scurvy pea. Any of several plants of the genus Psoralea, esp. P. floribunda of central North America, with whitecanescent foliage and purplish flowers in oblong spikes; — called also wild alfalfa.

scut (skŭt), n. [Origin uncert. Cf. SCUT short, SCUD, SCUTTLE to run.] 1. The short erect tail of an animal, esp. of a hare or rabbit; rabbit's fur; also, Obs., a hare.
2. Slang. a Dregs, as of beer. b A contemptible fellow.

scut, v. i. To scuttle.

scut. Var. of SCOUT, a boat.

scu'tage (skū'tĭj), n. [ML. scutagium, fr. L. scutum shield. See SCUTE.] Feud. Law. An impost tax or fine levied upon a tenant of a knight's fee in commutation for, or for default in, the render of the military service thereto attached.

scu'tal (-tăl; -tĭ), adj. Pert. to a shield, scute, or scutum.

scu'tate (-tāt), adj. [L. scutatus armed with a shield, fr. scutum a shield.] 1. Bot. Buckler-shaped; peltate.
2. Zool. Covered by bony or horny plates, or large scales.

scu'tat·ed (skū'tāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Bot. Scutate.

scu·ta'ti·form (skū·tā'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [scutate + -form.] Scutiform.

scu·ta'tion (skū·tā'shŭn), n. Zool. Arrangement of scutes.

scu·tch (skŭch), v. t.; SCUTCHED (skŭcht); SCUTCH'ING. [Prob. fr. OF. escouche scutch, swingle; cf. Nor. skoka, skoko a flax swingle.] 1. To whip; switch. Scot. & Dial.
2. To separate the woody fiber from (flax, hemp, etc.) by beating; to swingle.
3. To loosen and dress the fiber of (cotton or silk) by beating; to free (fiber, etc.) from dust by beating and blowing.

scutch, n. 1. An instrument or machine used in scutching flax and hemp; a scutcher.
2. The woody fiber or flax; the refuse of scutched flax.
3. A bricklayer's hammer for cutting bricks, etc.

Scutch 3.

scutch, n. = SCUTCH.

scutch (skŭch), n. = SCUTCH GRASS.

scutch'eon (skŭch'ŭn), n. Contr. of ESCUTCHEON. Hence, anything shaped like an escutcheon; specif., Zool., a scute.

scutch'eoned (-ŭnd), adj. Escutcheoned.

scutch'er (skŭch'ĕr), n. 1. One whose work is scutching; specif.: a A mason who cuts with a scutch. b A collier who scutches irregularities left on a face. c Textile Mfg. A tender of a scutching machine.
2. A machine or device that scutches; specif.: a An implement or machine for scutching hemp, flax, etc.; a scutch. b An attachment of a threshing machine for striking grain from the ear.

scutch grass (skŭch). a The couch grass Agropyron repens. b The Bermuda grass.

scutch'ing, n. Act or work of one who scutches.

scutching tow. The shorter fibers produced in scutching flax; — called also codilla.

scute (skūt), n. [L. scutum a shield, a buckler, whence OF. escu (F. écu). See SCUDO.] 1. A small shield or buckler. Obs.
2. a Obs. exc. Hist. An old French coin, probably the écu. Cf. ÉCU. b Archaic. A coin of small value.
3. Zool. Any external bony or horny plate; a large scale; a scutum; as: a One of the large scales on the head of a snake or other reptile. b One of the broad transverse scales on the belly of a snake. c One of the tergal plates of a myriapod. d An elytron of a scaly annelid, etc.

scu·tel'la (skū·tĕl'ä), n.; pl. -LAE (-ē). [NL., fem. dim. of L. scutum.] Zool. a = SCUTELLUM, n., 2 b. b A very small dermal bone or ossicle; a small scute.

scu·tel'la, n., pl. of SCUTELLUM.

scu·tel'lar (-ĕr), adj. Bot. & Zool. Pertaining to a scutellum; having scutella.

Scu'tel·la'ri·a (skū'tĕl·lā'rĭ·ä; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. scutella salver, tray; — in allusion to the appendage of the calyx.] 1. Bot. A very large, widely distributed genus of herbs of the mint family (Lamiaceae), having purple, blue, pink, or even red, yellow, or white, flowers, either axillary or in a terminal raceme. The calyx is bilabiate, with a scale or a helmetlike appendage above, whence the species are called skullcap or helmetflower. S. integrifolia, the hyssop skullcap, and 30 other species are found in North America. 2. [not cap.] Pharm. a The dried overground portion of S. lateriflora, used as a bitter tonic, antispasmodic, and stomachic. b The dried overground portion of S. ovata, used as an adulterant of the above.

scu·tel'la·rin (skū·tĕl'ȧ·rĭn), n. [See SCUTELLARIA.] Pharm. a An eclectic resinoid prepared from the root of the mad-dog skullcap Scutellaria lateriflora, and related species, and used as a tonic and nerve sedative. b A yellow crystalline compound, $C_{21}H_{18}O_{10}$, obtained from it.

scu'tel·late (skū'tĕ·lāt), adj. [L. scutella a platter. See SCUTTLE dish.] Bot. & Zool. Platterlike in form.

scu·tel'late (skū·tĕl'ȧt; skū'tĕ·lāt), adj. [NL. scutellatus, fr. scutellum, dim. of L. scutum shield.] Zool. a Covered with scales, small plates, or scutella; specif., of the tarsus (or a part of the tarsus) of a bird, covered with a series of broad more or less imbricated plates. b Like a scutellum, or small plate. c Having a scutellum; — said of insects, esp. beetles.

scu'tel·lat'ed (skū'tĕ·lāt'ĕd; -ȧd; 119), adj. Scutellate.

scu'tel·la'tion (skū'tĕ·lā'shŭn), n. The state of being scutellate; the entire covering, or mode of arrangement, of scales, as on the legs of a bird.

Scu'tel·ler'i·dae (skū'tĕ·lĕr'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Scutellera, type genus (fr. scutellum) + -idae.] Zool. A family of broadly oval, flattened terrestrial insects (order Hemiptera) having the antennae five-jointed, the legs spineless, and a large scutellum that almost entirely covers the abdomen. — scu·tel'le·rid (skū·tĕl'ē·rĭd), n. & adj.

scu·tel'li·form (skū·tĕl'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. scutella a dish + E. form.] Shaped like a scutellum.

scu'tel·lig'er·ous (skū'tĕ·lĭj'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [scutella + -gerous.] Having scutella; scutellate.

scu·tel'li·plan'tar (skū·tĕl'ĭ·plăn'tĕr), adj. [See SCUTELLATE; PLANTAR.] Having the tarsi scutellate in front and behind, as certain birds; — opp. to laminiplantar. — scu·tel'li·plan·ta'tion (-plăn·tā'shŭn), n.

scu·tel'lum (skū·tĕl'ŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-ȧ). [NL., neut. dim. of L. scutum a shield. See SCUTUM.] 1. Bot. a In lichens, a rounded apothecium having an elevated rim formed of the proper thallus. b The specially differentiated cotyledon in grasses. It is a shield-shaped organ through which the embryo absorbs food from the endosperm. c The conical cap of the endosperm in cycads.
2. Zool. a The third of the four pieces forming the upper part of a thoracic segment of an insect, situated between the scutum and the postscutellum; often, specif., that of the mesothorax. b One of the transverse scales on the tarsi and toes of birds.

scutellum rot. A seedling disease of germinating corn, caused by various fungi, esp. of the genera Rhizopus, Mucor, Penicillium, and Fusarium.

Scu'ti·bran'chi·a (skū'tĭ·brăng'kĭ·ȧ), Scu'ti·bran'chi·a'ta (-ā'tȧ), n. pl. [NL. See SCUTUM; BRANCHIA.] Zool. In older classifications, a division of heterogeneous gastropods having a simple, shield-shaped shell. — scu'ti·branch (skū'tĭ·brăngk), n. — scu'ti·bran'chi·an (-brăng'kĭ·ăn), adj. & n. — scu'ti·bran'chi·ate (-ăt), adj. & n.

scu'ti·fer (skū'tĭ·fĕr), n. [ML., fr. L. scutum shield + ferre to carry.] A shield-bearer. Rare.

scu·tif'er·ous (skū·tĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. scutum shield + E. -ferous.] Carrying a shield; bearing scutes or scales.

scu'ti·form (skū'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. scutum shield + E. -form.] Shield-shaped; scutate.

scu'ti·ger (skū'tĭ·jĕr), n. [LL., fr. scutum shield + gerere to bear.] 1. A squire.
2. Zool. One of the scutigeridae. — scu·tig'er·al (skū·tĭj'ĕr·ăl), adj.

Scu·tig'er·a (skū·tĭj'ĕr·ȧ), n. [NL.] The genus containing the house centipede. It is the type of a family, Scu'tiger'i·dae (skū'tĭ·jĕr'ĭ·dē), subclass Notostigma.

scu·tig'er·ous (skū·tĭj'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [scute + -gerous.] Zool. Bearing a scute or scutes.

scu'ti·ped (skū'tĭ·pĕd), adj. [L. scutum a shield + pes, pedis, a foot.] Zool. Having scutellate tarsi. Rare.

scut'ter (skŭt'ĕr; skŏŏt'ĕr), v. i. & t. [Cf. SCUTTLE, v. i.] a To scuttle; scurry. b Scot. To work in a clumsy or untidy manner; to make a mess with (something). — n. A rapid running; a noisy rush; a scurry. Scot. & Dial.

scut'tle (skŭt'l), n. [AS. scutel; fr. L. scutella, dim. of scutra dish or platter; prob. akin to L. scutum shield. See SCUTUM. Cf. SCULLERY, SKILLET.] 1. A broad, shallow dish. Obs.
2. Dial. Eng. a A basket for sifting or winnowing grain. b A casting shovel.
3. A shallow, open basket of wood or wickerwork, for carrying grain, garden produce, etc.
4. A coal scuttle.
5. Automobiles. = COWL, 4 a. Eng.

scut'tle, v. i.; SCUT'TLED (skŭt'ld); SCUT'TLING (-lĭng). [Cf. scuddle, fr. scud.] 1. To run swiftly or with affected precipitation; to scurry.
2. Politics. To withdraw from or abandon (a possession or country once occupied) in a hasty manner, as if running away from a responsibility. Slang.

scut'tle, n. 1. A quick pace; a short swift run; also, a mincing or affected gait.
2. U. S. Politics. Hurried withdrawal from occupation or control of a country; — chiefly in policy of scuttle, as applied in criticism of the anti-imperialists.

scut'tle, n. [MF. escoutille (F. écoutille), fr. Sp. escotilla, of obscure origin.] 1. A small opening in an outside wall or covering, furnished with a lid. Specif.: a Naut. A small opening or hatchway in the deck of a ship, large enough to admit a man, and with a lid for covering it; also, a like hole in the side or bottom of a ship. b New U. S. An opening in the roof or a floor of a house, fitted with a lid; the lid which covers or closes such an opening.
2. An airport. Brit.

scut'tle (skŭt'l), v. t. To cut a hole or holes through the bottom, deck, or sides of (a vessel); specif., to sink, or attempt to sink, by making holes through the bottom of.

scut'tle, n. Naut. A top. Obs.

scut'tle, n. A cuttlefish or octopus.

scuttle butt or cask. Formerly, on shipboard, a butt or cask to contain the fresh water for the day's use; now, the drinking fountain on a ship.

scut'tle·man (skŭt'l·măn), n. One who attends to coal scuttles, fires, etc. Eng.

scut'tler (skŭt'lĕr), n. [From 2d SCUTTLE.] 1. One who scuttles; a participant in or advocate of a scuttle.
2. The swift Cnemidophorus sexlineatus.

scut'ler, n. One who scuttles a ship.

scut'tling, n. Act of one that scuttles; specif.: a Obs. A flogging. b Local, Eng. Fighting, esp. in public.

scut'tock (skŭt'ŭk; skŏŏt'-), n. The common guillemot. Local, Eng. & Scot.

scut'ty (skŭt'ĭ; skŏŏt'ĭ), n. [Cf. SCUT short.] The common wren. Local, Eng.

scut'ty (skŭt'ĭ; skŏŏt'ĭ), adj. Short-tailed; stumpy. Dial.

scu'tu·lar (skū'tŭ·lĕr), adj. Pertaining to or characterized by scutula.

scu'tu·late (-lāt), adj. Also scu'tu·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ȧd; 119). [NL. scutulatus, fr. L. scutulum small shield.] Scutellate.

scu'tu·lum (skū'tŭ·lŭm), n.; pl. -LA (-lȧ). [L., a small shield.] Med. One of the yellow, cup-shaped crusts occurring over hair follicles in favus.

scu'tum (skū'tŭm), n.; pl. -TA (-tȧ). [L. See 2d ESQUIRE.] 1. Rom. Antiq. An oblong leather-covered shield, sometimes with an iron rim, esp. for heavy-armed infantry.
2. Zool. a bony, horny, or chitinous plate; a scute; specif.: a The second and largest of the four parts forming the upper surface of a thoracic segment of an insect, between the prescutum and the scutellum. b One of the two lower valves of the operculum of a barnacle.
3. [cap.; gen. SCUTI (-tī).] Astron. A small constellation in the Milky Way, adjoining Sagittarius on the north and between Sagittarius and Serpens. It is pictorially represented by a shield. Called also ‖Scu'tum So·bies'ki·i (sō·byĕs'kĭ·ĭ), ‖Scu'tum So·bies'ci·a'num (sō·byĕs'ĭ·ā'-nŭm) [NL., after John Sobieski, King of Poland].

scyb'a·lum (sĭb'ȧ·lŭm), n.; pl. SCYBALA (-lȧ). [NL., fr. Gr. skybalon dung.] Med. A hardened fecal mass. — scyb'a·lous (-lŭs), adj.

scye'lite (sī'līt), n. [From Loch Scye, Caithness, Scotland.] Petrog. An amphibole-biotite-peridotite composed of olivine, hornblende, biotite, chromite, and magnetite. The mica is poikilitic, due to the included rounded olivine grains.

Scyld (shĭld), n. [AS. Scyld, ON. Skjöldr. See SHIELD.] Teut. Legend. The eponymous hero of the Danish royal house of the Scyldings, or Skjoldungar. In Beowulf he is made the son of Sceaf, whose place in myth he has partially assumed. In Norse tradition he is the descendant of Odin.

Scyl'la (sĭl'ȧ), n. [L., fr. Gr. Skylla.] 1. A rock on the Italian coast opposite the whirlpool Charybdis off the Sicilian coast.
2. Gr. & Rom. Myth. a A female monster of partly human form, with the heads of fierce dogs growing about her waist, who was a menace to seafarers. In the classical period Scylla was localized as inhabiting the rock in the strait of Messina. In Greek legend, Jason's ship, the Argo, whose helmsman was Glaucus, passed Scylla. Cf. CHARYBDIS. Hence, between Scylla and Charybdis, between two dangers, either of which is difficult to avoid without encountering the other. b A daughter of Nisus, king of Megara. She fell in love with Minos, who was besieging the town, and to give him the victory cut from her father's head a golden or purple lock on which his life depended. Minos, repelled by the act, drowned her. According to some versions of the myth she was transformed into a sea bird.

Scyl·lae'a (sĭ·lē'ȧ), n. [NL. See SCYLLA.] Zool. A genus of oceanic nudibranch gastropods having the small branched gills situated on the upper side of four fleshy lateral lobes, and on a median crest on the posterior part of the back. The species live among and mimic the sargassum and other floating seaweeds. The genus constitutes a family, Scyl·lae'i·dae (-ĭ·dē).

Scyllaea (S. edwardsii). (½) scyl·lar'i·an (sĭ·lăr'ĭ·ăn; 79), adj. Of or pertaining to the Scyllaridae. — n. One of the Scyllaridae.

Scyl·lar'i·dae (sĭ·lăr'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Scyllarus, type genus, fr. Gr. skyllaros the hermit crab.] Zool. A family of macruran crustaceans having the body broad and flat, the antennae short and scalelike, and the eyes in sockets in the carapace. The species are all marine and live in shallow water, buried in mud or sand. Scyl'la·rus (sĭl'ȧ·rŭs), is the type genus. — scyl'la·roid (-roid), adj.

One of the Scyllaridae (Ibacus peronii). (¼) Scyl'li·o·rhi'nid·ae (sĭl'ĭ·ō·rĭn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. skylion dogfish + rhinē kind of shark.] Zool. A family of sharks (Euselachii) including the spotted dogfishes. The type genus is Scyl'li·o·rhi'nus (-rī'nŭs). — scyl'li·o·rhi'noid (-noid), adj. & n.

scyl'li·tol (sĭl'ĭ·tōl; -tŏl), scyl'lite (sĭl'ĭt), n. [From NL. Scyllium, genus including dogfishes, fr. Gr. skylion dogfish.] Chem. A sweet, colorless, crystalline, polyhydroxy alcohol, $C_6H_6(OH)_6$, found in the leaves of the coco palm, and in flowering dogwood.

scy'phate (sī'fāt), adj. [L. scyphus a cup.] Cup-shaped.

scyphi-. Bot. A combining form for scyphus, as in scyphif'er·ous, scy'phi·form, scy·phiph'o·rous.

scy·phis'to·ma (sĭ·fĭs'tō·mȧ), n.; pl. -TOMAE (-mē). [NL., fr. Gr. skyphos cup + -stoma.] Zool. An attached polyp-like stage of many Scyphozoa which develops from the fertilized egg. It may remain in this condition for some time, often reproducing by budding, but eventually it becomes transversely constricted to form one or more ephyras which, becoming detached, develop into the medusa form. — scy·phis'to·moid (-moid), adj. & n. — scy·phis'to·mous (-mŭs), adj.

scy'pho- (sī'fō-). A combining form, Greek skyphos, from skyphos, meaning a cup or can, as in Scyphozoa.

Scy'pho·me·du'sae (-mē·dū'sē), n. pl. [NL., fr. scypho- + NL. medusa.] Zool. A division, generally a class or subclass, of Coelenterata, which includes most of the large jellyfishes; — equiv. in its broadest and usual sense to Scyphozoa of most modern classifications, but in a restricted sense to Stauromedusae.—scy'pho·me·du'san (-săn), adj. & n. — scy'pho·me·du'soid (-soid), adj. & n.

Scy·phoph'o·ri (sĭ·fŏf'ō·rī), n. pl. [NL., fr. scypho- + -phore, -phorus.] Zool. A suborder of fishes (order Isospondyli) consisting of the families Mormyridae and Gymnarchidae. — scy'pho·phore (sī'fō·fōr; 181), adj. & n. — scy·phoph'o·rous (sĭ·fŏf'ō·rŭs), adj.

scy'pho·pol'yp (sī'fō·pŏl'ĭp), n. [scypho- + polyp.] Zool. A scyphistoma.

scy'phose (sī'fōs), adj. [L. scyphus cup.] Having scyphi.

Scy'pho·zo'a (sī'fō·zō'ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. scypho- + -zoa.] Zool. A class of coelenterates including jellyfishes which have endodermal gastric tentacles, endodermal gonads discharging their products into the digestive cavity, and, usually, tentaculocysts. There is usually no velum. — scy'pho·zo'an (-ăn), adj. & n.

scyph'u·la (sĭf'ū·lȧ), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. scyphus cup.] Zool. a A scyphistoma. b The hypothetical ancestral form of Scyphozoa.

scyph'u·lus (-lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī). [LL., dim. of scyphus cup.] Bot. In liverworts, the vaginula.

scy'phus (sī'fŭs), n.; pl. -PHI (-fī). [L., a cup, fr. Gr. skyphos.] 1. Gr. Antiq. Also sky'phos (skī'fŏs); pl. SKYPHOI (-foi). A deep cup or bowl with a wide base and no stem, and with two rather small handles at the sides.
2. Bot. a The corona. b A cup-shaped enlargement of the podetium in lichens; — called also scypha.

scyt'a·le (sĭt'ȧ·lē), n. [L., fr. Gr. skytalē, prop., a staff.] 1. A serpent described by ancient writers as cylindrical; also, erroneously, a shrewmouse. Obs.
2. A method of cipher writing, used by the Spartans, in which a narrow strip of parchment was wound on a rod and the message written across the adjoining edges. Also, the parchment or message.

Scyth (sĭth), n. & adj. Scythian.

scythe (sīth), n. [ME. sithe, fr. AS. sīthe, sigthe; akin to ON. sigthr sickle, LG. segd, seged, seed, seid, OHG. segansa sickle, scythe, G. sense scythe, and to E. saw a cutting instrument. See 2d SAW.] 1. An instrument for mowing grass, grain, or the like, by hand, composed of a long, curving blade, with a sharp edge, made fast to a long, bent handle, called a snath.

Scythe, 1. a Blade; b Tang.

2. Antiq. A scythe-shaped blade attached to war chariots.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

scythe-armed	scythe maker	scythe-shaped scythe-bearing, adj.	scythe making	scythesmith scythe-leaved	scythe-making, adj.	scythework scythe (sīth), v. Transitive: To cut with or as with a scythe; to mow; formerly, to equip with scythes, as a war chariot. —— Intransitive: To move as a scythe in mowing.

scythe'man (sīth'măn), n. 1. One who uses a scythe; a mower.
2. One of an irregular body of troops armed with scythes.

scythe'stone' (-stōn'), n. A whetstone for sharpening scythes.

Scyth'i·an (sĭth'ĭ·ăn; sĭth'ĭ·-), adj. [L. Scythia, fr. Gr. Skythia.] 1. a Of or pertaining to the region anciently inhabited by the Scythians, or its inhabitants or their language. b Obs. Designating the Ural-Altaic languages.
2. Geol. Designating or pertaining to the basal series of the pelagic Triassic of the Mediterranean basin.

Scyth'i·an, n. 1. One of an ancient people (mentioned by Hesiod, Herodotus, etc.), of nomadic habits and famed for their savagery, who dwelt in two separate regions, the steppes north of the Black Sea and the region east of the Aral Sea. In the 7th century B.C. they overran western Asia, but were finally driven back. They are last heard of about 100 B.C. The race of the Scythians is unknown.
2. The language of the ancient Scythians, of Iranian origin, but strongly influenced by other idioms. See IRANIAN; cf. OSSETIC, SARMATIAN.

Scythian antelope. The saiga.

Scythian lamb. a The shaggy rootstock of an Asiatic tree fern (Cibotium barometz), sometimes used as a styptic. b In ancient legend, the cotton plant.

Scyth'ic (sĭth'ĭk), adj. [L. Scythicus, fr. Gr. Skythikos.] Scythian. — n. The Scythian language.

Scyth'ism (-īz'ĭm), n. The paganism developed by the Scythians. Obs.

Scyth'ize (-īz), v. i. To make like or adopt into the Scythians.

Scyth'o- (sĭth'ō-). A combining form, from Latin Scytha, Scyth, denoting Scythian and, as in Scyth'o–Ar'y·an, Scyth'o–Greek', Scyth'o–Me'di·an.

Scyth'o–Dra·vid'i·an (sĭth'ō·drȧ·vĭd'ĭ·ăn), adj. Designating a mixed racial type, chiefly of the Bombay Presidency, India, characterized by brachycephaly, medium stature, fair complexion, scanty beard, and well-formed nose. The chief representatives are the Marathas.

scy'to- (sī'tō-), scyt-. [See HIDE skin.] A combining form, Greek skyto-, skyt-, from skytos, meaning leather, used to denote skin, integument, as in Scytonema, scy·ti'tis scy'to·blas·te'ma.

scy'to·dep'sic (sī'tō·dĕp'sĭk), adj. [Gr. skytodepsikos, fr. skytos leather + depsein to knead.] Of or pertaining to a tanner or tanning.

Scy'to·nem'a·ta'ce·ae (-nĕm'ȧ·tā'sē·ē), n. pl. Also Scy'to·ne·ma'ce·ae (-nē·mā'sē·ē). [NL., fr. Scytonema, type genus (fr. scyto- + -nema) + -aceae.] Bot. A family of blue-green algae (order Hormogoneales). They differ from the Rivulariaceae in having no differentiation in the tips of the filaments. Scy'to·ne'ma (-nē'mȧ) is the type genus. — scy'to·nem'a·ta'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

scy'to·nem'a·toid (sī'tō·nĕm'ȧ·toid), adj. Also scy'to·ne'moid (-nē'moid). Bot. Pertaining to or resembling the genus Scytonema or the family Scytonemataceae.

scy'to·nem'a·tous (-tŭs), adj. Bot. Scytonematoid.

Scy'to·pet'a·la'ce·ae (-pĕt'ȧ·lā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A tropical African family of shrubs and trees (order Malvales) having coriaceous leaves, small clustered flowers with numerous stamens, and woody or drupaceous, one-seeded fruits. There are two genera, Scy'to·pet'a·lum (-pĕt'ȧ·lŭm), the type, with ten species, and Rhaptopetalum, with five. — scy'to·pet'a·la'ceous (-pĕt'ȧ·lā'shŭs), adj.

'sdeath (zdĕth), interj. Corrupted form of God's death, used as an expletive. Archaic.

sdruc'cio·la (zdrŏŏt'chō·lȧ), adj. & n. [It.] Designating triple rhyme, the last accent falling on the antepenultimate syllable, as in femina, semina.

se (sā), demonstrative pron. & def. art. [AS. sē, se. Cf. THE, article.] The; that. Obs.

se (sā), n. sing. & pl. [Jap.] See MEASURE, Table.

se (sā). Music. See SOL-FA SYLLABLES.

Scu'ti (skū'tī), n., gen. of SCUTUM, 3. scut'l. Scuttle. Ref. Sp.

scut'ld. Scutled. Ref. Sp.

[scu'to bo'nae vo'lun·ta'tis tu'ae co'ro·nas'ti nos. [L.] Thou hast crowned us as with a shield of thy good will (Ps. v. 13, Vulgate; v. 12, A. V.); motto of Maryland.

scut'tle·ful, n. See -FUL.

scu'tu·la, n., pl. of SCUTULUM.

scye (sī), n. [Eng. dial. sey.] = ARMSCYE.

Scyl'i·o·rhin'i·dae, scyl'i·o·rhi'noid, Scyl'i·o·rhi'nus. Vars. of SCYLLIORHINIDAE, etc.

Scyl'li·dae (sĭl'ĭ·dē), Scyl·li'i·dae (sĭ·lĭ'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Syns. of SCYLLIORHINIDAE.—scyl'li·oid (sĭl'ĭ·oid), adj.

Scyl'li·um (sĭl'ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] Syn. of SCYLLIORHINUS.

scy'pha (sī'fȧ), n., pl. -PHAE (-fē). [NL.] = SCYPHUS, 2 b. scy'phi (-fī), n., pl. of SCYPHUS.

scy'pho·man'cy (sī'fō·măn'sĭ), n. See -MANCY.

scy·phos'to·ma (sĭ·fŏs'tō·mȧ). Var. of SCYPHISTOMA. scyt-. = SCYTO-.

scythe'less, adj. See -LESS.

scythe'like', adj. See -LIKE.

Scy·thop'o·lis (sĭ·thŏp'ō·lĭs; sĭ-). Bib.

Scyth'o·pol'i·tans (sĭth'ō·pŏl'ĭ·tănz). Bib.

sdain, sdeign, v. & n. [It. sdegno, n., sdegnare, v.] Disdain. Obs.

sdeign'ful, adj. [See SDAIN.] Disdainful. Obs.

se. † SEA, SEE, SHE, SO.

---

se (s; z). Var. of SHALL. Chiefly Scot. & N. of Eng.

se-. A prefix in words from Latin, from Latin se, sed, meaning without, aside, apart, as in secure, sedulous, select, secret, separate.

sea (sē; the older sā (ea as in great) was the accepted pron. until about 1750), n. [ME. see, fr. AS. sǣ; akin to D. zee, OS. & OHG. sēo, G. see, OFris. se, Dan. sø, Sw. sjö; ON. sær, Goth. saiws.] 1. One of the larger bodies of salt water, less than an ocean, on the earth; a body of salt water of second rank, more or less landlocked and generally forming part of, or connecting with, an ocean or a larger sea; as, the Mediterranean Sea.
2. An inland body of water, esp. if large or if salt or brackish; as, the Caspian Sea; the Sea of Aral; sometimes, a small fresh-water lake; as, the Sea of Galilee.
3. The ocean; the body of salt water covering a large part of the globe. See HIGH SEA.
4. a Naut. The disturbance of the ocean or other body of water due to the wind blowing at the time and place of observation; as, there was a high sea. b Surface motion on a large body of water, or its direction; rough water; a heavy swell or wave; as, the sea sits southward; a sea struck us; the vessel shipped a sea.
5. Something suggesting a sea, as a vast expanse, an overwhelming flood, or an agitated surface; as, a sea of faces; lost in a sea of folly; a sea of blood.
6. The expanse of the high seas as a field of life, business, or naval operations; voyaging as a livelihood; also, a sea voyage; as, to follow the sea; dread of the sea; to put out to sea.
7. Water or waters, as distinguished from land. Poetic.
Sooner let earth, air, sea, to Chaos fall. Pope.
8. Seashore; seaside; as, to go to the sea for a rest.
9. Sea water. "The salt sea was frozen on her breast." Longfellow.
10. Astron. = 2d MARE.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

sea-bathed	sea-driven	sea-scented
sea-blue, adj.	sea-encircled	sea-scourged sea-bounded	sea fish	sea-shouldering, adj.
sea-bounding, adj.	sea fishery	sea-surrounded sea-bred	sea fishing	sea-swallowed sea-broke	sea-gray, adj.	sea-torn sea-built	sea-lost	sea-tossed sea-circled	sea-loving, adj.	sea-tost sea-compelling, adj.	sea-packed	sea-traveling, adj.
sea-convulsing, adj.	sea-potent	sea-wandering, adj.
sea-deep	sea-racing, adj.	sea-wide sea-deserted	sea-rounded	sea-wildered
sea-divided	sea-sailing, adj.	sea-wrecked

—at sea. a On the sea; on a sea voyage, including the time from the beginning of the voyage till the arrival of the vessel at her port of destination, or until the intention of proceeding on the voyage is abandoned. Thus, a vessel is at sea when she has been forced to anchor by head winds after leaving port but before she has reached the sea (3 Hill 118, 123); a sailor may be at sea for the purpose of making a nuncupative will when ashore on leave of absence while on a voyage (4 Bradf. Surr. (N. Y.) 154, 158). b Figuratively: Without landmarks for guidance; lost; bewildered. — beyond seas or sea, or beyond the sea or the seas. Law. On the farther side of, or over, the sea; hence, out of the territory, realm, or jurisdiction of a state. In the construction of statutes of limitation of actions in the United States the term is held in some States to mean out of the United States, in other States to mean out of the State. — to go to sea. a To go on a voyage by sea. b To adopt or follow the occupation of a sailor.

sea (sē), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to, or characteristic of, the ocean or a sea; as, sea arm, brim, chart, floor, or waves.
2. Of or pertaining to a ship or ships, ship personnel, equipment, etc.; of or used by seamen, esp. in service, or passengers on a ship; as, sea captain, cook, discipline, or news; sea biscuit, pay, or terms; sea bags.
3. On, upon, or over, the waters of the ocean or a sea; of or pertaining to navigation, shipping, etc.; as, sea traffic or routes; also, sea-going; as, a sea yacht.
4. Of or pertaining to the navy; naval; as, sea general, army, or engagement; sea base.
5. Having the sea or part of the sea for field, territory, subject, object, or the like; as, sea robber, lover, or painter; sea poem; sea dominion.
6. Having its habitat in the sea or on the seashore; as, sea birds; sea grape; sea nymphs.
7. Deposited by the sea; as, sea gravel or warp.
8. Of, on, or belonging to, the seacoast or seashore; as, sea forts; sea flats or dunes.
9. Coming from or showing over the sea, or occurring at sea; as, sea smell, clouds, sunset, roar, or music.
10. Made, formed, or shaped by the sea or the action of the sea; as, sea frontier; sea pull; sea cobbles.

sea, see. Dial. vars. of SO.

sea acorn. = ACORN SHELL, 2.

sea adder. a The European fifteen-spined stickleback (Spinachia spinachia). b Any of several European pipefishes of the genus Nerophis (family Syngnathidae).

sea air. Air, as that over the sea and neighboring regions, markedly affected by the evaporation of salt water.

Sea Anchor. s Spreader; t Tripping Lines.

sea anchor. A drag (cf. DRAG, n., 7 a), typically an open canvas cone, thrown overboard to retard the drifting of a vessel and to keep her head to the wind; also, in aeronautics, a similar device to restrain a seaplane resting on the water; a drogue.

sea anemone. Any of numerous, almost invariably solitary, and often large and beautifully colored, polyps of the order Actiniaria of the class Anthozoa (cf. POLYP b). Their form, bright and varied colors, and numerous tentacles surrounding the mouth, often give them a superficial resemblance to a flower. They develop no skeleton, and rarely reproduce by budding or fission. They prey on small animals that they catch with their tentacles, which are armed with stinging cells.

Sea Anemone (Actinoloba dianthus) of Europe. (¼) sea ape. a The thresher shark. b The sea otter.

sea apple. a The fruit of the bussu, often found floating in the sea. b = SEA COCONUT, 1 b.

sea apron. Any kelp or seaweed of the genus Laminaria having a broad, flat thallus.

sea arrow grass. The arrow grass Triglochin maritima.

sea ash. The prickly ash Zanthoxylum clava-herculis; also, the related Z. americanum.

sea aster. = SEA STARWORT.

sea bank. a The bank of the sea; also, a sand bank or dune. b A sea wall.

sea basket. A basket fish.

sea bass (băs). a Any of numerous marine fishes of the family Serranidae (which see); — often used as a general name for the fishes of that family. Specif., on the Atlantic coast of the United States, Centropristes striatus, an abundant and important food fish of that family. It is dark bluish, with black bands, and more or less varied with small white spots and blotches. Often called black sea bass. b In California, a food fish (Atractoscion nobilis) allied to the weakfish and often called white sea bass; also, a jewfish (Stereolepis gigas).

Sea Bass (Centropristes striatus).

sea bat. a = BATFISH a. b = DEVILFISH, 1.

sea'beach' (sē'bēch'), n. A beach lying along the sea.

seabeach morning-glory. A cosmopolitan tropical vine (Ipomoea pes-caprae) having coarse succulent leaves and showy purple flowers.

seabeach sandwort. A perennial succulent herb (Honkenya peploides) having decussate leaves and small, solitary, axillary or terminal flowers.

sea bean. 1. Bot. Any of various beans or beanlike seeds of tropical origin, often carried by ocean currents to remote shores, and often used as ornaments; also, any plant producing such seeds. Specif.: a The large, chocolate-colored seeds, often called mackay beans, of the snuffbox bean (Entada scandens). b The oxeye bean (Mucuna urens). c The nicker nut (see GUILANDINA).
2. The hard, rounded and flat, calcareous operculum of any of various mollusks; as those of the family Turbinidae.

sea bear. a A fur seal. b A polar bear.

sea'beard' (sē'bēr'd'), n. A marine seaweed (Cladophora rupestris) growing in dense tufts.

sea'-beat'en, adj. Also, Poetic, sea'-beat'. Battered or lashed by the sea; also, Now Rare, worn by life at sea.

sea beef. The flesh of a porpoise or whale used as food.

sea beet. a A wild beet (Beta maritima) of Europe, almost certainly the ancestor of the common garden beet. b The sea lavender.

sea bells. A seabeach morning-glory (Convolvulus soldanella) having pink campanulate flowers.

sea belt. 1. A large seaweed (Laminaria saccharina) growing on rocks, and having a beltlike frond often 30 feet long.
2. = SEA GIRDLE.

sea bent. a The beach grass (Ammophila arenaria). b = SAND SEDGE.

sea'ber'ry (sē'bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr·ĭ), n. a = REDBERRY, 1. b Either of two Australasian species of Haloragis (H. alata and H. tetragyna).

sea bindweed. Sea bells.

sea bird. Any of various birds frequenting the ocean, as gulls, petrels, shearwaters, and albatrosses.

sea biscuit. Ship biscuit.

sea bladder. The Portuguese man-of-war.

sea blite. The plant Suaeda maritima, growing in salt marshes. It has pale-green linear leaves. See SUAEDA.

sea bloom or blossom. A free-floating blue-green alga (Trichodesmium erythraeum) having a red pigment in addition to the phycocyanin. It sometimes occurs so abundantly in the warmer seas as to color the water red, as in the Red Sea.

sea blubber. A jellyfish.

sea blue. A color, greenish green-blue in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sea'board' (sē'bōrd'; 181), n. [sea + board, F. bord side.]
1. The seacoast; the country bordering a seacoast.
2. The side of a ship toward the sea; — with a, at, on, or to. Obs.

sea'board', adj. Bordering on, or being near, the sea.

sea boat. [AS. sǣbāt.] 1. A boat or vessel adapted to the open sea; a vessel considered with reference to her power of maintaining herself in a heavy sea; as, a good sea boat.
2. A chiton (mollusk).

sea book. Naut. A nautical map. Obs.

sea boots. Very high waterproof boots, used by sailors, etc.

sea'bor'der-er (sē'bôr'dĕr·ĕr), n. One living on the seaboard. Obs.

sea'-born', adj. a Born of or in the sea; also, born at sea. b Chiefly Poetic. Originating or rising from the sea; as, the Sea-born City, that is, Venice.

sea'-borne', adj. 1. Borne over or upon the sea; transported by a ship or ships; as, sea-borne supplies.
2. Engaged in, or carried on by, oversea shipping.

sea bottle. a A marine green alga (Valonia ventricosa), whose thallus is a single inflated flasklike cell, the largest known isodiametric cell. b Any of various species of Fucus; — so called from the inflated pods or vesicles in the thallus; also, sometimes, one of these pods.

sea'bound' (sē'bound'), adj. 1. Bounded by the sea.
2. Bound for the sea.

sea boy. A ship's boy a boy sailor.

sea brant. a Common brant. b White-winged scoter. U. S.

sea breach. a A breaking or overflow of a bank, dike, etc., by the sea; also, Rare, seabeach. b A destructive breaker or series of breakers.

sea bread. 1. Ship biscuit.
2. A porous siliceous sponge (Halichondria panicea).

sea bream. 1. Any of the many marine fishes of the family Sparidae; esp.: a The common European Pagellus centrodontus, or allied species, of which a number occur in the Mediterranean. b Any Australian species of Sparus, of which S. australis, called black bream, is the most important.
2. The pomfret (genus Brama), or allied species.

sea breeze. A cooling breeze blowing, generally in the daytime, from the sea.

sea brief. = SEA LETTER.

sea buckthorn. A Eurasian maritime shrub (Hippophaë rhamnoides) with silvery leaves and orange-red edible berries. The plant yields a yellow dye.

sea bugloss. The sea lungwort.

sea burdock. Any maritime species of cocklebur (Xanthium).

sea bush. The sea oxeye.

sea butterfly. A pteropod.

sea cabbage. a The sea kale. b A European maritime plant (Brassica oleracea), from which the cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, etc., were derived by cultivation.

sea calf. The harbor seal.

sea campion. A European maritime, perennial herb (Silene maritima), often in double-flowered form.

sea'can'nie (sē'kăn'ĭ), sea'con'ny (-kŏn'ĭ). Vars. of SEACUNNY.

sea captain. Naut. The master of a merchant vessel; also, one who has commanded merchant ships.

sea card. a Card of a mariner's compass. b Sea chart.

sea carp. The red morwong. See MORWONG.

sea cat. a Fur seal. b Harbor seal. c A chimaera. d Greater weever. See WEEVER. e Wolf fish. f Short for SEA CATFISH. g A monkey.

sea'catch' (sē'kăch'), n. = SEECATCH.

sea catfish. Any of numerous marine fishes of the family Ariidae, mostly of little value as food, as the gaff-topsail catfish and Galeichthys felis, which occur on the southeastern coast of the United States. Most of them exhibit oral gestation.

sea catgut. = SEA LACE.

sea cauliflower. A multilobed alcyonarian (Alcyonium multiflorum) of the North Atlantic fishing banks. U. S.

sea celandine. The horn poppy.

sea change. A change wrought by the sea, as in the forming of a pearl; hence, marked transformation, as to something richer or finer. See Shakespeare's Tempest, I. ii. 400.

sea chest. a Shipbuilding. The short pipe connecting an opening in the hull below the water line with a sea valve within the inner bottom plating. b Naut. A sailor's chest or trunk.

sea chickweed. The seabeach sandwort.

sea clam. The surf clam.

sea cliff. A cliff formed by the erosive action of sea waves.

sea cloth. Theater. A painted cloth representing waves.

sea club rush. A common North American bulrush (Scirpus robustus); also, S. lacustris, a closely related Old World species.

sea coal. Mineral coal; — so disting. by the English either because first found in seacoast veins or because chiefly seaborne. Archaic.

sea'coast' (sē'kōst'), n. The shore or border of the land adjacent to the sea or ocean.

seacoast angelica. A stout perennial herb (Coelopleurum actaeifolium), family Ammiaceae, with compound leaves on inflated stalks, compound umbels of greenish flowers, and prominently ribbed fruit.

seacoast laburnum. = LABURNUM, 2 a. Australia.

sea cob. A sea gull.

sea cock. 1. A cock or valve close to a vessel's hull, to open or close a pipe which communicates with the sea.
2. The black-bellied plover. Local, U. S.
3. A dashing or "cocky" sailor or seaman.

sea cock's-foot grass. The spart grass.

sea coco. = SEA COCONUT, 1 a.

sea coconut. 1. a A lofty fan palm (Lodoicea seychellarum) found only in the Seychelles. The leaves are used for hats, thatching, etc. b The seed of this palm, an immense bilobed nut with a smooth rind; the fruit, containing three or four of these nuts, often weighs 50 pounds and requires 10 years to ripen. Called also double coconut.
2. The fruit of the bussu.

sea colander. A large olive-green or blackish seaweed, or kelp (Agarum turneri), the frond of which is punctured with numerous holes.

sea cole. = SEA KALE.

sea colewort. The sea kale.

sea compass. Mariner's compass.

sea coot. a A scoter. b A guillemot.

sea corn. The mass of yellow egg capsules of certain marine snails, as whelks, suggestive of Indian corn.

sea cow. 1. Any sirenian, as a manatee or dugong; esp., the Steller's sea cow, or rytina. See STELLER'S SEA COW.
2. a A walrus. b Rare. A hippopotamus.

sea'craft' (sē'krăft'; 83), n. 1. Sea-going ships.
2. Skill in navigation.
— sea'craft'y (-krăf'tĭ), adj.

sea crayfish. A marine macruran crustacean of Palinurus or allied genus; a spiny lobster. See LOBSTER, 1.

sea cress. Any species of glasswort (Salicornia).

sea crow. a Chough (Pyrrhocorax pyrrhocorax, syn graculus). b Cormorant. c Black-headed gull. d The skua Catharacta skua. e Eng. Razor-billed auk. f The coot Fulica americana. g Black skimmer (see SKIMMER, n., 3). h U. S. Oyster catcher.

sea cucumber. A holothurian, esp. one of the genus Cucumaria, as the common American and European species C. frondosa.

Sea Cucumber (Cucumaria frondosa).

sea cudweed. A hoary cottonweed (Diotis maritima), family Cardua-ceae, of Europe.

sea'cun'ny (sē'-kŭn'ĭ), n. [Per. sukkāni, fr. Ar. sukkān helm.] A steersman or quartermaster. Anglo-Ind.

sea cushion. The herb thrift. See THRIFT, Illust.

sea'-cut', adj. Geol. Formed by the erosive action of sea waves; wave-cut; as, a sea-cut terrace.

sea daffodil. a A white-flowered bulbous herb (Pancratium maritimum) common along the Mediterranean. b A similar plant (Hymenocallis calathina) of Peru and Bolivia.

sea dahlia. Any plant of the genus Leptosyne, of the Pacific coast of the United States, with flowers resembling yellow dahlias.

sea daisy. The plant thrift. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

sea date. Any of various bivalves of the genus Lithodomus, somewhat resembling date seeds in shape.

sea day. Navig. Formerly, a period of 24 mean solar hours beginning at local mean noon.

sea devil. a = DEVILFISH, 1, 2, or 3. b = ANGEL FISH a. c See CERATIIDAE.

sea dock. The bear's-breech Acanthus mollis.

sea dog. 1. a A dogfish. b The harbor seal.
2. Her. A seal depicted with a beaver's tail, a long back fin, web feet, and scaly legs and body.
3. An experienced sailor; one long at sea.
4. Formerly, a pirate or privateer.
5. A rough breaker at a river's mouth. Dial. Eng.

sea'dog' (sē'dôg'; 185), n. = FOGDOG.

sea dog's grass. The sea lyme grass.

sea dotterel. a The turnstone. b The ring plover (Charadrius hiaticula). Both Local, Brit.

sea dove. a The dovekie (Alle alle). b A black guillemot.

sea dragon. a A dragonet (fish). b A fish of the genus Pegasus; a sea moth. c Any of several beautifully colored Australian fishes, intermediate between the pipefishes and the sea horses, of the genera Phyllopteryx and Phycodurus, esp. Phycodurus eques. They have many large leaflike appendages on the plates of the body which imitate the seaweed among which they live.

Sea Dragon (Phycodurus eques). (¼) sea drake. a A cormorant. b The male of the eider.

sea'drome' (sē'drōm'), n. Aeronautics. A floating airdrome serving as an intermediate landing place for airplanes.

sea duck. a A duck of the subfamily Fuligulinae (which see), most of which chiefly frequent salt water. b New Eng. An eider duck.

sea dust. Fine dust, or the like, generally red, blown to sea by winds from arid lands. Caught in falling raindrops, it gives rise to the so-called blood rain.

sea eagle. a Any of certain eagles, allied to the bald eagle, which feed largely on fish, as the white-tailed sea eagle (Haliaeetus albicilla), which has brown plumage with a white tail when adult, and is widely distributed in the northern parts of the Old World, and Steller's, or the Kamchatkan, sea eagle (Thalassoaëtus pelagicus), having when adult white shoulders, rump, and tail, found on the coasts of the western North Pacific. b The fishing eagle of India. c Local, U.S. The osprey. d An eagle ray.

sea'-ear', n. An abalone.

sea eel. The conger eel; also, the sea lamprey.

sea egg. 1. A sea urchin; — usually applied to the bare test, from which the spines have fallen off.
2. A European medic, or bur clover (Medicago echinus), with an ovoid, bristly pod.

sea elephant. = ELEPHANT SEAL.

sea endive. A marine brown alga (Dictyopteris polypodioides) with flat, forked, tufted fronds.

sea fan. Any gorgonian which branches in a fanlike form, esp. Gorgonia flabellum of Florida and the West Indies.

sea'fare' (sē'fâr'), n. a Food at sea or from the sea. b Rare. Seafaring.

sea'far'er (sē'fâr'ĕr), n. One occupied in or given to seafaring; specif., a mariner.

sea'far'ing (sē'fâr'ĭng), n. Traveling over the sea or seas as a pursuit or recreation; esp., the mariner's calling. — adj. Of, given to, or engaged in, seafaring.

sea feather. Any gorgonian which branches in a plumelike form, esp. a sea pen.

sea fee. = SEA PAY.

sea fennel. = SAMPHIRE a.

sea fern. Any gorgonian which branches like a fern.

sea fig. The beach apple.

sea fight. An engagement between vessels at sea.

sea'-fight'er, n. One who fights at sea.

sea fir. A sertularian hydroid, esp. Abietinaria abietina, common on the British coast, which branches like a miniature fir.

sea fire. Bioluminescence of the sea. See NOCTILUCA, 2.

sea fisherman. Also sea fisher. One who fishes, esp. as an occupation, out in the open sea.

sea flea. A beach flea.

sea'flood' (sē'flŭd'), n. The sea; esp., the flood tide. Archaic.

sea'flow'er (-flou'ĕr), n. A sea anemone or other related actinozoan.

sea foalfoot. Sea bells.

sea foam. a Foam of sea water. b Meerschaum, or sepiolite; — called also sea froth. — sea'-foam', adj.

sea'-foam' green. A color, greenish-yellow in hue, of low saturation and very high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sea-foam yellow. A color, greenish-yellow in hue, of low saturation and very high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sea fog. A fog drifted onshore, or condensed from relatively warm onshore winds.

sea'folk' (sē'fōk'), n. Seafaring people; mariners.

sea food. Edible salt-water shellfish; also, salt-water fish.

sea'-form', n. Seat on the sea; — in Europa's sea-form, alluding to the horns of the bull on which she sat. Obs.

sea'fowl' (sē'foul'), n. [AS. sǣfugol.] Any bird which frequents the sea, as an auk, gannet, gull, tern, or petrel.

sea fox. The thresher shark.

sea'-fram'ing (sē'frām'ĭng), adj. Framing of an inlet of the sea by land. Tennyson.

sea fret. Dial. Eng. a A sea fog. b A temporary thaw due to salt vapor during a rising tide.

sea front. The water front of a seaside place; hence, the line of buildings, promenade, etc., on such a front.

> Southend's glittering sea front was in line with us. H. G. Wells.

sea'-front', adj. Of, pertaining to, or located on, a sea front; as, sea-front hotels or activities.

sea frontage. Frontage on the sea; an extent of sea front.

sea froth. a = SEA FOAM, 1 & 2. b Obs. Seaweed.

sea furbelow. a A marine brown alga of the genus Sacchoriza. b = FURBELOW, 2.

sea gasket. Naut. A fixed furling line, such as is used at sea.

sea'-gate', sea'-gait', n. A long, rolling swell of the sea; also, the position of the vessels forced alongside by such a swell.

sea gate. a A gate, beach, channel, or the like, which gives access to the sea or a sea. b A gate which serves as a protection against seas.

sea gillyflower. The herb thrift.

sea girdle. a A Venus's-girdle. b Any of various kelps of the genus Laminaria, esp. L. digitata, with palmately cleft fronds.

sea'girt' (sē'gûrt'), adj. Surrounded by the sea.

sea'-god', n. A deity supposed to live in or rule the sea, or a part of the sea, as Neptune. — sea'-god'dess, n.

sea'go'er (sē'gō'ĕr), n. One who travels by sea; a seafarer.

sea'go'ing (sē'gō'ĭng), adj. a Designed or adapted for sailing the open sea in distinction from rivers or harbors; as, a seagoing tug. b Fitted to be used on a seagoing vessel; as, a seagoing chronometer. c Seafaring. d Weather-beaten; capable of withstanding weather; as, a seagoing hack.

sea'go'ing, n Travel by sea; seafaring.

sea goose. a A phalarope. b A dolphin; — from its beak.

sea goosefoot. The sea blite.

sea gown A garment for use at sea. Obs. Shak.

sea grape. 1. Bot. a Gulfweed. b Any tree or shrub of the genus Coccolobis, esp. C. uvifera of the sandy shores of Florida and tropical America. It has large rounded leaves, cordate at the base, and clusters of grapelike berries. c A leafless shrub (Ephedra distachya) of southeastern Europe. d = GLASSWORT a.

Sea Grapes (2), or Egg Cases of Squid (Loligo). (⅙)

2. pl. The clusters of gelatinous egg capsules of squids (as those of the genus Loligo).

sea grass. 1. a The tassel grass Ruppia maritima. b Any plant of the genus Salicornia, esp. S. europaea. c The plant thrift. d The eelgrass Zostera marina; also, its dried stems, widely used for stuffing furniture, and in making coarse fabrics.
2. Any green alga of the genus Enteromorpha, often causing fouling of the bottoms of ships.
3. A cirrus cloud of wavy hairlike elements. Colloq.

sea grass wrack. = EELGRASS a.

sea green. 1. a A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance; — called also seawater green. Cf. COLOR. b = SEA BLUE.
2. Land overflowed by the sea in spring tides.

sea'-green' (66), adj. Of the color sea green; esp., of a bluish-green color, like sea water or soundings.

sea gromwell. The sea lungwort.

sea gudgeon. Any of various marine gobies.

sea gull. Any gull frequenting the sea.

sea gypsy. Any member of a seagoing Malay tribe, as the Bajaus of Borneo or the Samal Laut of southern Philippines.

se'ah (sē'ä), n. [Heb. sē'āh; cf. Assyr. seu grain.] A Hebrew dry measure. See MEASURE, Table.

sea hanger. A Venus's-girdle.

sea hare. Any of the large naked mollusks of the tectibranchiate genus Tethys; — so called from their arched back. See TETHYS, Illust.

sea hawk. A jaeger, or skua.

sea hay. Eelgrass. See EELGRASS.

sea heath. Any plant of the genus Frankenia (which see).

sea'-heath' fam'i-ly. The Frankeniaceae.

sea hedgehog. a Sea urchin. b Porcupine fish.

sea hen. Any of several sea birds; esp., the skua, and in parts of England, the common guillemot.

sea herdsman. The common loon, or great northern diver. See LOON, 2. Local, Eng.

sea herring. The common herring (Clupea harengus).

sea hog. A porpoise.

sea holly. a A European evergreen herb (Eryngium maritimum), formerly used as an aphrodisiac. b The bear's-breech Acanthus mollis.

sea hollyhock. = ROSE MALLOW a. U.S.

sea holm. = SEA HOLLY a.

sea horse. 1. Gr. & Rom. Myth. A fabulous creature, half horse and half fish, represented as driven by sea gods or ridden by the Nereids. Cf. HIPPOCAMPUS, 1.
2. a A walrus. b Erroneously, the hippopotamus. c Brit. Columbia. The white-winged scoter.
3. a Any of a number of small fishes (family Syngnathidae) mostly of the genus Hippocampus, related to the pipefishes, having the head and fore part of the body suggestive of the head and neck of a horse. They are covered with rough bony plates, and the tail is prehensile. The male has a short broad pouch immediately behind the vent in which he hatches the eggs. They occur in most warm and warm-temperate seas. The common species of the American Atlantic coast (Hippocampus hudsonius) reaches a length of about three inches. b South Africa. The sea panther.

Sea Horse (Hippocampus hudsonius). (½)

4. A large whitecap (sense 2).
5. Her. A monster represented with the fore part of a horse joined to the tail of a fish, and with web feet.

sea'hound' (sē'hound'), n. A dogfish (shark).

sea hulver. = SEA HOLLY a.

sea ice. Masses of floating ice which have drifted to sea.

sea'-is'land, adj. Of certain islands along the coast of South Carolina and Georgia; as, sea-island cotton.

sea-island cotton. Also sea island. A cotton (Gossypium barbadense) with unusually long and silky fiber, grown esp. in the West Indies. Formerly, until the boll weevil made its culture unprofitable, it was grown along the coast region of the southeastern United States.

seak (sēk), n. Wool grease in hard cakes. Eng.

sea kale. A European fleshy plant (Crambe maritima) used as a potherb.

sea'-kale' beet. = 1st CHARD, 2.

sea kemps. The sea plantain.

sea kidney. An alcyonarian of the genus Renilla.

sea'-kind'ly, adj. Well adapted to handling at sea; — of a ship. — sea'-kind'li-ness, n.

sea king. [After ON. sækoningr, AS. sǣcyning.] a A Norse pirate chief of royal blood. Cf. VIKING. b A prehistoric king in Crete. c Neptune.

sea kittie. A kittiwake. Eng.

seal (sēl), n.; pl. SEALS (sēlz), sometimes SEAL. See PLURAL, Note. [ME. sele, fr. AS. seolh; akin to OHG. selah, Dan. sæl, ON. selr.] 1. Any marine aquatic carnivorous mammal of the group Pinnipedia and family Phocidae or Otariidae, including, respectively, the true seals and the eared seals; any pinniped except the walrus. They mostly inhabit seacoasts and floating ice of the colder regions, but a few occur in warm regions. They feed on fish and marine animals, and have webbed flipperlike limbs with which they swim and dive well, but they crawl out on land more or less and always have their young there. In the true seals the hind limbs are of little use except for swimming, external ears are not present, and the nostrils are somewhat dorsal. The eared seals (including sea lions, fur seals, etc.) are less modified from land animals and use the limbs for progression on land (see EARED SEAL for characters). Seals are hunted for fur, hides, and oil, and, as they are often highly gregarious, many species have been nearly exterminated. Hair seals, so called in distinction from fur seals, have the hair short, coarse, and without soft underfur. See FUR SEAL, SEA LION, ELEPHANT SEAL.

Common Seal (Phoca vitulina). (1/20)

2. The fur or pelt of a fur seal; sealskin. It is never used in its natural state, but is plucked and dyed. Other furs, esp. muskrat and rabbit, are often sheared and dyed to imitate seal. Cf. SEALINE.
3. A leather made from the skin of a seal Pin seal is leather from a very young seal.
4. A brown, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance; — called also autumn brown, seal brown. Cf. COLOR.

seal (sēl), adj. 1. Of sealskin; as, a seal coat.
2. Pertaining to seals or hunting seals.

seal, v. i. To hunt seals; — chiefly used in pres. part.

seal (sēl), n. [ME. seel, fr. OF. seel (F. sceau), fr. L. sigillum a little figure or image, a seal, dim. of signum a mark, sign, figure, or image. See SIGN, n.; cf. SIGIL.] 1. a Any device bearing a design so made, as by engraving, that it can impart an impression in relief upon a soft tenacious substance, as clay or wax. b An impression made by such a device on wax, wafer, or some other tenacious substance capable of being impressed; also, the piece of wax, wafer, or other substance bearing the impression. This is the traditional common-law definition, and is in some jurisdictions construed to include an impression made in the substance of the paper or parchment of a document. Originally, in English law, seals were used in lieu of signatures to authenticate documents, being annexed directly or by ribbons, cords, strips of parchment, or the like; the seal operated to estop the person sealing an instrument from denying the recitals and so was used for formal contracts. With the rise of the idea of consideration it came to be said to import a consideration (cf. CONTRACT, 1; CONSIDERATION, 7; DEED, 6). By statute in some of the United States the distinction between sealed and unsealed instruments has been abolished.
2. That which confirms, ratifies, authenticates, or makes secure; a guaranty or assurance.
3. a That which seals, firmly closes, or secures, literally or figuratively; security; esp., the wax or wafer placed on a letter, envelope, etc.; also, a fastening, as on a door.

> Under the seal of silence. Milton.

b An obligation or pledge that prevents disclosure as if by sealing the lips; as, under the seal of confession; the seal of secrecy.
4. a The engraved or inscribed stamp used for making an impression in wax or other tenacious substance capable of being impressed for use upon documents. b The figure or inscription on it or made by it.
5. Obs. a A document authenticated by a seal. b The office of an official sealer or authenticator. c A ceremony of affixing the great seal to documents.
6. Chiefly pl. The indication or mark of office; as, to resign the seals of the secretary of state. Eng.
7. a Any device to prevent the passage or return of gas or air into a pipe or container, as by submerging the open end of a pipe in a liquid, by keeping filled with liquid a deep bend in a pipe, or by projecting a partition or gland into a liquid-filled space; as, a water seal; a gland seal. b The tight joint formed by the lap or bearing of a valve or similar member beyond the opening or space which the valve closes.
8. An ornamental stamp affixed to letters and packages, as at Christmas, frequently in furtherance of a charity.
9. Eccl. The cemented stone cover of an altar sepulcher.
10. Law. Any impression, device, sign, or mark given by statute law or by American local custom recognized by judicial decision, the effect of a common-law seal, as the word "seal" or the letters "L. S." written or printed, or a scroll made with the pen, or any device made as a seal.
11. Magic. An image or sigil.

☞ PHRASES are:

seal cutter, seal cutting, seal maker, seal making.

— the seals. The official seals of a chancellor or secretary of state, esp. as a symbol of his official status.

seal (sēl), v.; SEALED (sēld); SEAL'ING. [ME. selen, fr. OF. seeler, seieler (F. sceller). See SEAL a stamp.] Transitive: 1. To set or affix a seal to; hence, to authenticate; to confirm; to ratify; as, to seal a deed.
2. To destine or associate by or as by a seal; to confirm in association; — often in allusion to Rev. vii. 5–8.

> Sealed with the mark of the Lamb. Spenser.

3. To fasten with a seal or a fastening impressed with a seal, to guarantee security; as, to seal a letter; to seal a door.
4. a To mark with a stamp, esp. as an evidence of standard exactness, legal size, or merchantable quality. b To give under, or as under, seal; to grant authentically.

> Now must your conscience my acquaintance seal. Shak.

5. Hence, to shut close; to close; also, to confine; imprison; make fast; as, vessels sealed in ice.

> Seal up your lips, and give no words but "mum." Shak.

6. To serve as a seal to; attest.
7. To close by a seal, coating, or other fastening that prevents access; as, sealed up hermetically; to seal files for examination.
8. To determine irrevocably or indisputably; as, this sealed his fate or triumph.
9. To fix, as a piece of iron in a wall or a wire in the wall of a glass tube or bulb with cement, plaster, fusible glass, or the like; hence, to close up the chinks, crevices, holes, etc., of, as with plaster.
10. To close securely, as a letter or jar with some viscous substance.
11. To fasten when applied; — said of a seal or a substitute for one.
12. Figuratively, to fix steadily as if fastened.
13. Elec. To complete the movement of (a member, as a contactor, switch, or relay) after the contacting parts touch each other.
14. Mormon Ch. To solemnize for eternity, as a marriage or an adoption of a child.
15. Figuratively, Theol., to give a character to (a person), so that he may be recognized as belonging to the agent; — said of God in relation to the faithful; and variously interpreted as accomplished by the gift of the Holy Spirit (see SEAL OF THE SPIRIT), baptism, confirmation, or the Eucharist.
16. Weights and Measures. To test by comparison with standards in order to determine weighing or measuring accuracy.

——, Intransitive: 1. To affix one's seal, or a seal; hence, to assent. Obs.
2. To perform the act of sealing something.

Syn. — Validate; close, secure, fasten; fix. Cf. CONFIRM.

seal a move. Chess. To file a sealed statement of a move to be made on resumption of an adjourned game.

seal under. To become surety. Obs.

seal (sēl), adj. a Bearing a signet; as, a seal stone; the seal top of a spoon. b That seals; as, a seal pipe or stamp; the seal top of a milk bottle.

---

sea'far'ding-er, n. [Cf. D. zeevaarder.] = SEAFARER. Archaic.

Sea-for'thi-a (sē-fōr'thĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., after Francis, Lord Seaforth.] Bot. Syn. of PYCHOSPERMA.

Seaghán (shōn; shăn; shān), n. Irish var. of JOHN. Cf. EOIN, SEÁN.

sea'ish, adj. Of or pertaining to the sea. Obs.

seak. ✝ SICK, adj.

seak. Var. of SEEK. Dial.

seal (sēl), n. [AS. sǣlan, v., fr. sāl rope.] A rope or chain used to bind cattle by the neck. Scot. & Dial. Eng. — v. t. To fasten with a seal. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

seal. Var. of SEEL.

seal'a·ble (sēl'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of sealing or being sealed.

sea lace, or laces. The seaweed Chorda filum, having blackish cordlike fronds. See CHORDA, 2.

sea ladder. 1. A rope ladder or set of steps to be lowered over a vessel's side for use in coming aboard, as at sea; a Jacob's ladder.
2. U. S. Navy. = SEA STEPS.

sea lamprey. A lamprey (Petromyzon marinus) of the Atlantic coasts of North America and Europe, which on maturity ascends the streams to spawn and then dies. It becomes about three feet long and in some places is esteemed as food. Smaller landlocked varieties occur in some inland waters. See LAMPREY, Illust.

sea language. Sailors' cant.

sea lark. a The rock pipit. b Local, Brit. Any of several small shore birds, as a ringed plover, turnstone, dunlin, or sanderling.

sea laurel. A coarse American commercial sponge (Euspongia dura).

sea lavender. Any plant of the genus Limonium. See LIMONIUM, 2.

sea law. Maritime law, specif., formerly, certain compilations of customary maritime laws made during the Middle Ages, as the Consolato del Mare, the Laws of Wisby, Laws of Oléron. See LAWS OF OLÉRON.

sea lawyer. 1. a The gray snapper. b A shark.
2. Naut. An argumentative, captious sailor. Colloq.

seal brown. The color seal. — seal'-brown', adj.

sealch (sēlk; sēlk), n. [AS. seolh a seal.] A harbor seal. Scot. & Ir.

seal character. An early type of Chinese writing still employed on seals and inscriptions. The Greater Seal form is said to have been invented about 800 B.C.; the Lesser Seal, a simplified form, about 200 A.D.

sealch'ie, sealk'ie (sēl'kĭ), n. [Dim. See SEAL.] Seal; esp., a coat of seal fur. Scot.

sealch'ie's bub'ble (-klz). A jellyfish.

seal coat. The final coat of bituminous material applied during construction to a bituminous macadam or concrete. It seals the surface of the pavement.

seal cylinder. = CYLINDER, n., 4 a.

sea league. Three nautical miles.

sealed (sēld), past part. of SEAL. Specif., adj.: a Unknown or unknowable like a sealed book; as, a sealed language. b Undisclosed at the start like sealed orders; as, sealed handicaps in a race. c Having a seallike mark.

sealed bank bill. See BANK BILL, 3 a.

sealed book. Something as inaccessible to the understanding as a book which cannot be opened.

Sealed Books of Common Prayer. Certain copies of the English Prayer Book of 1662, certified under the great seal as standard and ordered by Parliament in that year to be deposited in cathedrals and collegiate churches for ensuring the preservation of the text.

sealed orders. Sealed written directions not to be opened until a certain time, or, esp., such directions given to the captain of a ship whose destination is not to be known until it is at sea.

sealed verdict. See VERDICT.

sealed will. = MYSTIC WILL.

sea legs. Legs enabling their owner to keep his balance at sea; hence, freedom from seasickness; as, to get one's sea legs, to get accustomed to the rolling and pitching of the vessel. Sailors' Slang.

sea lemon. Any of several nudibranchiate mollusks of the family Dorididae (see DORIS) having a smooth, convex yellow body.

sea lentil. Gulfweed.

sea leopard. a Either of two spotted antarctic seals (Hydrurga leptonyx and Leptonychotes weddellii) of the family Phocidae. b The harbor seal.

seal'er (sēl'ẽr), n. 1. One who seals; specif.: a An official who attests or certifies conformity to a standard of correctness or quality; as, a sealer of weights and measures; a sealer of leather. b Obs. Slang. One giving bond and judgment for goods and money. c One who seals boxes, cables, etc.; an operator of a sealing machine.
2. A device or machine that seals; as, a can sealer.
3. Size applied to prevent subsequent coats of paint or varnish from sinking in.

seal'er, n. A mariner or a vessel engaged in hunting seals.

seal'er·y (sēl'ẽr·ĭ), n.; pl. SEALERIES (-ĭz). a = SEAL FISHERY. b The business of catching and killing seals, esp. for their fur.

sea letter. Naut. A vessel's passport, an instrument issued in time of war to a neutral vessel on leaving a port, entitling the master to sail under the flag and pass of the nation to which she belongs, and specifying her cargo and crew, the names of her captain and owners, place of lading, port of registry, and destination.

sea lettuce. Any seaweed of the genus Ulva, the green fronds of which are sometimes eaten.

sea level. The level of the surface of the sea; specif., this level at its mean position, midway between mean high and low water, adopted as a standard for the measurement of heights, etc., and called also mean sea level.

seal fishery. The occupation of capturing seals for their oil or skins; also, the place where the seals are hunted. — seal fisher. — seal fishing.

seal'flow'er (sēl'flou'ẽr), n. = BLEEDING HEART a.

seal hole. A breathing hole made in the ice by a seal. When enlarged for emergence, as in summer, it is called a sealing hole.

sea light. a A light, or beacon, at sea. b The light over, or peculiar to, the sea.

sea'like' (sē'lĭk'), adj. Like the sea. — adv. In the manner of the sea.

sea lily. A crinoid, esp. one of the stalked forms.

sea line. 1. A sea outline, as the horizon or coast line.
2. A line used in the sea, as for sounding or deep-water fishing.

seal'ine' (sēl'ēn'), n. [See 1st SEAL.] Furriery. Rabbit fur from Australia and New Zealand, sheared and dyed to imitate seal.

seal'ing (sēl'ĭng), pres. part. and verbal n. of SEAL, to hunt seals. Hence: n. The hunting of seals; seal fishing.

seal'ing (sēl'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SEAL, to stamp with a seal. Specif.: n. 1. An impression made by a seal.
2. Archaeol. A small piece of clay or other malleable material on which an intaglio seal has been imprinted.

sealing hole. See SEAL HOLE.

sealing nut. A nut used in making a seal; specif., a nut for sealing the terminal post of a battery at the point where the post leaves the cover of the case.

sealing tape. A gummed paper tape used in securing wrapped or boxed packages.

sealing wax. A resinous composition, plastic when warm, used to seal letters and documents, dry cells, etc. In medieval times, it contained beeswax, but now contains no wax. The best is made by fusing shellac with Venice turpentine and coloring matter (vermilion for red sealing wax). Perfume is sometimes added.

sea lion. 1. Any of several large, eared seals, natives of the Pacific Ocean. Though related to the fur seals, their coat is not valuable. The largest (Eumetopias jubata, syn. E. stellerí) inhabits the North Pacific and reaches a length of about 12 feet. Otaria byronia, syn. O. jubata, of the Pacific coast of South America, is smaller, and has lengthened hair on the neck forming a slight mane. The California sea lion (Zalophus californianus) is still smaller. A related species (Z. lobatus) inhabits Australian waters.

Sea Lion.

2. Her. A monster represented as the fore part of a lion with web feet and the tail of a fish.

sea lizard. A marine lizard; specif., Amblyrhynchus cristatus. See AMBLYRHYNCHUS.

Sea Lion, 2.

seal'less (sēl'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Lacking seals, as a document.

seal'less, adj. See -LESS; 1st SEAL.

seal lock. A lock having a seal, as of glass, that must be broken to be unlocked.

sea loach. = ROCKLING a.

seal maker. One who makes seals, esp. as an occupation. — seal making. — seal'-mak'ing, adj.

seal of confession. Eccl. The obligation binding a priest to divulge nothing said to him by a penitent in sacramental confession.

seal of the fisherman or fisher. See FISHERMAN'S RING.

seal of the Spirit. Bib. Theol. Participation in the life of the Holy Spirit, as the spirit of holiness, which sets a mark upon the faithful, and is an earnest of their ultimate complete emancipation. Eph. i. 13; 2 Cor. i. 22.

seal oil. See OIL, Table II.

Sea Lords. See LORD COMMISSIONER OF ADMIRALTY.

sea louse. Any of various marine isopod crustaceans. Cf. WOOD LOUSE, FISH LOUSE.

sea lovage. The sea parsley.

seal press. Any of various presses having an engraved die in one jaw, for embossing crests, making seals, etc.

seal ring. A ring engraved with a seal or similar device or containing an engraved stone; a signet ring.

seal'skin' (sēl'skĭn'), n. The skin of a seal, esp. of a fur seal after the removal of the coarse outer hair; also, a jacket, coat, cape, etc., of this material.

seal'skin', adj. Of sealskin, as a cap; also, designating one of various textiles whose surface resembles sealskin; as, sealskin cloth, a mohair cloth with a long nap.

sea luce. The European hake Merluccius merluccius.

sea lungs. A jellyfish; esp., a ctenophore.

sea lungwort. A fleshy perennial herb (Mertensia maritima) of the northern coasts of both hemispheres, with long-stalked blue or nearly white flowers.

seal wax. Sealing wax. Obs.

seal'wort' (sēl'wûrt'), n. a The Solomon's-seal. b The pearlweed Sagina procumbens.

Sea'ly·ham ter'ri·er (sē'lĭ·hăm; -ăm). Also Sea'ly·ham, n. A terrier of a breed developed from crossings whose exact nature is unknown, at Sealyham, the Welsh estate of Capt. John Tucker-Edwardes, about 1860. It was so bred that its short legs, strong jaws, and long, supple body, would give it an advantage in tackling the badger underground, but it is also used in bolting the fox and the otter. Gameness is one of its dominant characteristics. The head is long, and the skull wide between low-set ears, the chest is well let down between the straight, heavily boned forelegs; the feet are equipped for digging, the undercoat is dense and the top coat hard and wiry. The color of the body is usually all white; the head has lemon, tan, or brindle markings. The height is between 8 and 12 inches, and the weight from 16 to 22 pounds.

Sealyham. (1/16)

sea lyme grass. A grass (Elymus arenarius) of the Pacific seacoast, useful as a sand binder.

seam (sēm), n. [AS. sēam; akin to D. zoom, OHG. soum, G. saum, ON. saumr, Sw. & Dan. söm, Skr. syūman, and to E. SEW. Cf. HYMEN.] 1. a The fold or line formed by sewing together two pieces or edges of cloth, leather, or the like; also, the edges or fold of material left, usually on the wrong side of a garment, after pieces have been joined. b An ornamental seaming; as, a seam of lace.
2. A crevice or interstice where edges of planks, plates, etc., abut; as, the seams of a ship.
3. A line of junction; a line, groove, ridge, or the like formed by the abutment of edges; as, seams in brickwork.
4. Art of sewing; also, material being, or to be, sewed; hence, cloth; clothing. Now Chiefly Scot.
5. A line left by a cut or wound; a scar; also, a wrinkle.
6. A narrow strip, streak, or the like. Rare.
7. Anat. & Surg. Suture. Obs.
8. Geol. & Mining. A thin layer or stratum. Of coal or other valuable mineral, a bed, whether thin or not.
9. Iron & Steel Mfg. A surface defect of limited length caused by a blowhole which working has made visible.
10. Naut. & Shipbuilding. The space between adjacent planks or strakes; — chiefly pl.
11. Veter. A cleft in the quarter of a horse's foot.

seam (sēm), v.; SEAMED (sēmd); SEAM'ING. Transitive: 1. To join by sewing together (pieces of cloth, leather, etc.); to unite with stitches, esp. running stitches; to make the seams of (a garment, glove, etc.); often with up or together; as, to seam together the skirt lengths; to seam up a dress.
2. To ornament or finish (as a garment or glove) at the seams; to give a finish to the joined edges of; as, to seam a dress with insertion; to stitch and seam a shoe.
3. To mark (a surface) with lines suggesting seams; to line, furrow, scar, thread, or the like; as, a face that is seamed with saber cuts or worry; creeks that seam a valley.
4. Knitting. To make an apparent seam in, as a stocking, by a line of purled stitches; hence, to purl.

—, Intransitive: 1. To sew. Dial.
2. To become fissured or ridgy; to crack open.
3. Knitting. To do seaming. See SEAM, v. t., 4.

seam (sēm), n. [AS. sēam, fr. VL. sauma, for LL. sagma packsaddle, fr. Gr. sagma. Cf. SUMPTER.] A horseload; a load; hence, a varying weight or measure; specif., of grain, 8 bushels. Now Dial. Eng.

seam, v. t. & i. To load; to burden; to be a heavy weight. Obs.

seam (sēm). Var. of SAIM.

sea magpie. An oyster catcher. Local, Brit.

sea'-maid', n. Also sea'-maid'en. A mermaid; also, a sea goddess or nymph. Poetic.

sea mallow. = TREE MALLOW.

sea'man (sē'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). [AS. sǣmann.] 1. One whose occupation is to assist in the management of ships at sea; a mariner; a sailor; — applied to officers and esp. to common sailors. Opposed to landsman. Specif.: a In the English Merchant Shipping Act, s. 742 (1894), any person (except masters, pilots, and apprentices duly indentured and registered) employed or engaged in any capacity on board any ship. b In the United States Revised Statutes (§ 4612), any person (apprentices excepted) employed or engaged to serve in any capacity on board a vessel.
2. Also sea man. A merman. Rare.
Syn. — See SAILOR.

seaman branch. A division of the naval service including those grouped as seamen. Cf. BRANCH MARK. U. S.

seaman gunner. U. S. Navy. Formerly, an enlisted man who had passed through courses of instruction in construction and handling of ordnance, torpedoes, explosives, electricity, etc. He received extra pay and was usually soon promoted to the rating of gunner's mate.

sea'man·ite (sē'mȧn·ĭt), n. [After A. E. Seaman (b. 1858), Am. mineralogist.] Mineral. A rare mangano-phosphoborate occurring in pale-yellow orthorhombic crystals.

sea'man·like' (-lĭk'), adj. Characteristic of or befitting a seaman; indicating seamanship. — adv. With seamanship.

sea'man·ship, n. The skill of a good seaman; the art, or skill in the art, of working, and navigating, a vessel.

sea mantis. A squilla.

sea marigold. = SEA OXEYE.

sea'mark' (sē'märk'), n. 1. A line on a coast marking the tidal limit; hence, full seamark (which see).

Upon the seamark a small boat did wait. Shelley.

2. An elevated object discernible at or from sea and serving to guide or warn mariners; a beacon; a landmark; hence, a sign of danger.

Remote St. Kilda, lone and loved seamark. Wordsworth.

Seam'as (shām'ȧs), n. Also Seam'us (-ŭs). [Ir. Seamas.] Masc. proper name: James. Ir.

sea mat. A bryozoan of Flustra or an allied genus.

sea matweed. The beach grass.

seam'bit'er (sēm'bĭt'ẽr), n. A tailor. Jocose. Scot.

seam blasting. The act or process of shattering a boulder by packing a charge of dynamite into a crack or seam in it, tamping clay on top of the charge, and exploding.

sea meadow. = SALT MARSH.

sea meadows. The upper layers of the open sea which by reason of the abundance of the phytoplankton furnish food for the animal life.

seamed (sēmd), adj. 1. Having a seam or seams; joined by seams.
2. Wrinkled; furrowed; as, a seamed face, brow.

sea membrane. The dulse Rhodymenia palmata.

Sea'men's Act (sē'mĕnz). An act, passed March 4, 1915, to improve the condition of American seamen in the merchant marine of the United States. It abolished arrest and imprisonment for desertion, and required as a language test that 75 per cent of the seamen must understand the language of the minor officers, which was in fact a provision against Asiatic crews.

seam'er (sēm'ẽr), n. One who or that which seams or makes seams. Specif.: a An operator of a seaming machine; also, a seamstress. b A worker who removes seams. c One whose work is to seam a (specified) thing or in a (specified) way; as, saddle seamer. d A sewing machine for seaming fabrics together. e A machine for making seams or joints in sheet metal.

sea mew. A sea gull; esp., the European Larus canus.

seam face. The face on a building stone formed by a natural seam in the rock.

sea mile. A nautical mile. See MILE.

sea milkwort. A small fleshy herb (Glaux maritima) of northern seashores. See GLAUX.

seam'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SEAM. Specif.: n. 1. Act or process of forming, making, sewing, etc., a seam.
2. A kind of insertion used to form an ornamental seam, as in children's dresses; also, lace, gimp, or braid used in upholstery to ornament seams or cover edges.
3. In making mungo and shoddy, the act or process of removing the threads from the seams of woolen garments, etc.
4. Fishing. The cord or rope which is attached to the edge of a net.

seaming dies. Mach. A set of shaping dies which press against folded sheet-metal edges and by squeezing the folds together make a seam.

sea mink. The kingfish Menticirrhus saxatilis.

sea mist. 1. Mist from the sea.
2. The color art gray.

seam lace. Lace used in seaming. See SEAMING, n., 2.

seam'like' (sēm'lĭk'), adj. Resembling or suggesting a seam.

sea monk. The monk seal.

sea monster. a Any large or extraordinary sea animal; specif., a chimaera (fish). b A fabulous monster of the sea, often represented as man-devouring. c [caps.] Astron. = CETUS.

sea moss. 1. a Any of various red algae with rose to violet or purple, gracefully elaborate fronds, as carrageen and dulse. b = SEAWEED.
2. Any branched marine bryozoan resembling moss.
3. a The color laurel green. b The color Persian green.

sea'most (sē'mōst; -mŭst), adj. Nearest the sea. Rare.

sea moth. Any fish of the Pegasidae. See PEGASUS, 5 a.

---

seald. Sealed. Ref. Sp. sea'less, adj. See -LESS. sea'let, n. Dim. of SEA.

sealgh (sēlk). Var. of SEALCH. sealk'ie. Var. of SEALCHIE. seal'like', adj. See -LIKE.

sea'man·craft', n. = SEAMANSHIP. sea'man·ly, adj. & adv. = SEAMANLIKE.

seamd. Seamed. Ref. Sp. seamed (sēmd), past tense & past part. of SEAM.

seam'i·ness, n. See -NESS. seaming lace. = ENTREDEUX a. seam'less, adj. See -LESS. — seam'less·ly, adv. — seam'less·ness, n. seam'let, n. Dim. of SEAM.

sea mouse. a A large, broad, marine polychaetous annelid of Aphrodite or allied genus, covered with long, slender, hairlike setae. b Local, Eng. The dunlin. c Local, U. S. The harlequin duck; — from its note. d A flattened sea urchin (suborder Spatangina) with relatively long spines, esp. one of the genus Lovenia.

Sea Mouse (Aphrodite aculeata), lower surface. (½) seam presser. 1. A device for pressing seams, as an iron for flattening seams in clothing, a tool used by paper hangers to make the seams lie flat, etc.

2. Agric. Mach. A rollerlike device attached to, or following, the plow to smooth out and press down the opened-up furrows.
seam'rend' (sēm'rĕnd'), v. t. To rend, or rip apart, at the seams.
seam'–rent', adj. Ripped at the seams; also, clothed in garments that are ripped at the seams. Now Dial.
seam roller. = SEAM PRESSER. seam set. Any of various tools for flattening the seams of metal sheets, leatherwork, etc.
seam'ster (sēm'stĕr; sĕm'-), n. [See SEAMSTRESS.] A seamstress; a tailor; — now limited to men. — v. i. To do sewing as an employment. Both Archaic & Dial.
seam stitch. Knitting. = 3d PURL, 4. seam'stress (sēm'strĕs; -strĭs; sĕm'-; 119), n. [From older seamster, prop. fem., fr. AS. sēamestre. See SEAM.] Any woman who does sewing; esp., a woman whose occupation is plain sewing rather than dressmaking.
seam strip. = EDGE STRIP. sea mud. Mud from the sea; specif., a slimy deposit along the seashore sometimes used as a manure; — called also sea ooze.
sea mugwort. The sea ragweed. sea mulberry. The button tree Conocarpus erectus. Bermuda.
sea mullet. Any of certain mullets; esp.: a Mugil dobula, an important food fish on the Australian coasts. The young, which frequent fresh water, are known as hardgut mullet, mangrove mullet, river mullet, etc. b In Victoria Agonostomus forsteri.
seam weld. A joint made by seam welding.
seam'–weld', v. t. To unite by a seam weld.
seam welding. Resistance welding in which the weld is made linearly between two rollers, a roller and a bar, or the equivalent; — called also line welding.
seam'y (sēm'ĭ), adj.; SEAM'I-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); SEAM'I-EST. 1. Forming or resembling a seam or seams; also, marked by seams; seamed. "Marked with many a seamy scar." Burns. "A scarred and seamy face." G. Eliot.
2. Showing rough seams, as the underside of a garment; hence, worse; darker; less pleasant or presentable; as, to see the seamy side of a character or of city life; also, disreputable; degraded; as, a seamy trade.
Everything has its fair, as well as its seamy side. Scott.
seam'y–sid'ed (66), adj. Having a seamy side.
Sean'ad Bir'eann (shăn'ăd ûr'ĭn). [Ir. seanad senate + Eireann of Ireland.] The upper house, or Senate, of the legislature (Oireachtas) of the Republic of Ireland, consisting of 60 members. See LEGISLATURE, Table.
sé'ance' (sā'ăns'; sā'ŏns), n. [F., fr. seoir to sit, fr. L. sedere. See SIT.] 1. A sitting; esp., a session, as of some public body, a learned society, a class, for deliberation, discussion, etc.
2. A meeting of spiritualists for the purpose of receiving spirit communications.
3. Specif.: a A treatment, as by electricity or massage. b A sitting for a portrait. sea necklace. The string of disk-shaped egg capsules of the large whelks of the genus Busycon. Local, U. S. sea nettle. A jellyfish; — so called from their nematocysts. sea oak. Any of various rockweeds, as Fucus vesiculosus and F. serratus. sea oat. A tall grass (Uniola paniculata) with oatlike panicles, growing on the coast of the southern United States, and useful as a sand binder. sea officer. A naval officer.
Sea of Japan. = TSUSHIMA. See BATTLE, Table. sea onion. a The officinal squill (Urginea scilla). b See SCILLA, 1 a. sea ooze. = SEA MUD.
sea orach. The fat hen Atriplex hastata, used in Europe as a substitute for spinach. sea orange. A large American holothurian (Psolus fabricii) having an orange-colored convex body. sea ore. Seaweed. Obs. or Dial. Eng.
sea otter. a An otter (Enhydra lutris), subfamily Enhydrinae, of the North Pacific coasts. It grows about four feet long, and has short legs, a blunt cylindrical tail, and large webbed hind feet. It feeds largely on shellfish, crushing them with its broad flatcrowned molars. Its pelt furnishes the most valuable of all fur, and consists of rich dark brown underfur with an outer coat of gray-tipped coarser hairs. It is now near extinction. b The fur or pelt of this animal.
sea'–ot'ter's–cab'bage, n. A gigantic kelp (Nereocystis lütkeana) of the North Pacific. The sea otter makes its home on its large floats. See NEREOCYSTIS. sea owl. a The lumpfish. b Eng. A puffin. sea oxeye. Any yellow-flowered species of Borrichia, esp. B. frutescens and B. arborescens of the southern United States and tropical America.
sea palm. An olive-brown kelp (Postelsia palmaeformis) of the Pacific coast, having an erect, trunklike stalk and palmately divided fronds at the apex. sea panther. A black-spotted South African fish (Agriopus torvus) of, or related to, the family Scorpaenidae. sea park. A colonial tunicate of the genus Amaroecium. sea parrot. a A puffin. b Brit. Columbia. The black oyster catcher. See OYSTER CATCHER. sea parsley. A stout perennial herb (Ligusticum scoticum) found in saline places in cool regions of the North Temperate Zone, having aromatic roots, ternately compound leaves, and white flowers in compound umbels; also, the lovage Levisticum officinale.
sea parsnip. Any European plant of the genus Echinophora (family Ammiaceae), esp. the white-flowered, prickly-foliaged E. spinosa. sea partridge. The European cunner (Crenilabrus melops). sea pass. A sea letter or passport. See PASSPORT, 6. sea pay or wages. Pay for service on a ship in commission sea pea. The beach pea.
sea peach. An ascidian (Cynthia pyriformis) of the coasts of northeastern North America having the velvety surface and color of a ripe peach. sea pear. A stalked ascidian of Boltenia or allied genus. sea peat. See PEAT.
sea pen. Any of numerous alcyonarians, belonging to Pennatula and allied genera, in which the colony has a featherlike form. The stem or shaft of the colony contains a calcareous or horny axis, and is embedded at the lower end in the mud of the sea bottom. Some are over three feet long, and many are brilliantly bioluminescent.

Sea Pen (Pennatula). (⅓) sea perch. Any of various marine spiny-finned fishes more or less resembling the true perch; as: the European bass (Dicentrarchus labrax); the American sea bass (Centropristes striatus); the rosefish; and in Australia the morwong (Dactylosparus carponemus), and fishes of the genus Hypoplectrodes (family Serranidae). sea perils. = PERILS OF THE SEA.

sea pheasant. a The pintail. b Local. The old squaw. sea pie. Oyster catcher. Brit.
sea pie. A mixture of meat and vegetables baked or boiled in a crust of paste, or between layers of such crust.
sea'piece' (sē'pēs'), n. A representation of the sea, esp. in a painting; a seascape. sea piet. Var. of 1st SEA PIE.
sea pig. a A porpoise or dolphin. b A dugong.
sea pigeon. a A small guillemot of the genus Cepphus; a black guillemot or pigeon guillemot. b Scot. & Ir. The rock dove. c New Jersey. The dowitcher. sea pike. A trident. Bryant.
sea pike. Any of various marine fishes resembling the true pike in their elongate form and voracity, as garfish, robalo, barracuda, or hake (Merluccius).
sea pimpernel. The seabeach sandwort.
sea pincushion. a A sea purse. b A short-armed, stout-bodied starfish.
sea pine. a Any maritime pine, esp. the cluster pine, often planted along the seashore, in Europe. b A rockweed or other dark seaweed.
sea pink. a The herb thrift. See THRIFT, Illust. b A marsh pink. c A European chickweed (Cerasium repens). sea plain. Geol. A plain produced by marine erosion. sea'plane' (sē'plān'), n. Aeronautics. An airplane designed to rise from and alight on the water. A flying boat is a seaplane whose hull not only serves as a fuselage but also forms the support on water.
seaplane carrier. = AIRCRAFT CARRIER. sea plantain. A Eurasian beach plantain (Plantago maritima); also, a similar plant (P. decipiens) found along the cooler coasts of North America.
sea plume. Any gorgonian of plumose form, esp. Gorgonia acerosa or G. setosa. sea poacher. Also sea poker. Any of the slender, angular, mailed fishes constituting the family Agonidae (group Scleroparei), closely allied to the sculpins; esp., the pogge (Agonus cataphractus) or Aspidophoroides monopterygius of the North Atlantic. sea poppy. The horn poppy.
sea porcupine. = PORCUPINE FISH. sea'port' (sē'pōrt'; 181), n. A port, harbor, or town, on the seashore, and accessible to seagoing vessels.
sea post office. Also sea post. A post office maintained on a steamer or packet boat for letters mailed at sea.
sea potato. An ascidian (Boltenia rubra) of the northeastern coast of North America the body of which is borne on a long stalk and in form resembles a potato.
sea power. a A nation having formidable naval strength. b Naval strength. sea preacher. = SEA LAWYER, 2. Hawthorne. sea pumpkin. A sea cucumber. sea purse. 1. The horny egg case of skates and of certain sharks. They are usually of quadrangular outline, with the angles produced into filaments by which they become attached to seaweeds, etc., and commonly contain but one egg or embryo.

Sea Purse. (⅙)

2. A spongelike coenocytic marine green alga of the genus Codium. sea purse. = SEA PUSS.
sea purslane. a The seabeach sandwort. b The fat hen Atriplex hastata; also, any of several other species of Atriplex. c Any plant of the genus Sesuvium. sea puss (pŭs). A dangerous, whirlpoollike form of undertow, due to the combined effect of several breakers; also, an undertow setting along shore; — called also sea purse. sea pyot. Var. of 1st SEA PIE.
Sea Quadrant. Astron. = GOLDEN YARDARM. sea quail. Local, U. S. a A turnstone. b Cassin's auklet. See AUKLET. sea'quake' (sē'kwāk'), n. A seismic disturbance appreciable at sea; a submarine earthquake. sear (sēr), n. [F. serre a grasp, etc., fr. serrer to press, hold, grasp, close, lock up, fr. (assumed) VL. serrare, fr. LL. serare to bolt, bar (fr. L. sera a bolt, bar) and LL. serrare to saw. Cf. SERAGLIO, SERRY.] 1. a The catch in a gunlock holding the hammer at cock or half cock. b A saw.
2. Figuratively, the releasing, or yielding, point or stage; — usually in the phrase of, or upon, the sear.
The clown shall make those laugh whose lungs are tickle o' the sear. Shak.
sear, sere (sēr), adj. [ME. seer, fr. AS. sēar; akin to D. zoor dry, LG. soor, OHG. sōrēn to wither, AS. sēarian, Lith. sausas dry, Gr. auein to parch, to dry, Skr. śoṣa drying up. Cf. AUSTERE, SORREL, adj.] 1. Dried up; withered; — commonly written sere. "The sere, the yellow leaf." Shak.
2. Worn with age or use; as: a Threadbare. b Exhausted of vitality or vigor; deadened; effete. "What made that vernal spirit sere?" Shelley.
sear (sēr), v.; SEARED (sērd); SEAR'ING. [ME. seeren, fr. AS. sēarian. See SEAR, adj.] Transitive: 1. To wither; to dry up; to parch.
2. To burn, scorch, or harden, esp. the surface of, by exposure to or the application of heat or fire; specif.: a To cauterize, as a wound, or to brand, as sheep with a searing iron or the like. b Cookery. To cook quickly the surfaces of (a piece of meat being roasted, broiled, etc.), so that it will retain juices in later slower cooking.
Or will he touch me with his searing hand
And leave a black memorial on the sand? Keats.
3. In figurative senses: a To harden; to deaden; to make callous or unfeeling; as, vice sears the conscience. b To brand; to mark as with a stigma. "Calumny will sear virtue itself." Shak.
—, Intransitive: To be or become sear. Archaic.
Syn. — See SCORCH.
sear up. To close by or as by searing. "Cherish veins of good humor, and sear up those of ill." Sir W. Temple.
sear (sēr), n. The mark, scar, or brand left by searing or by a searing iron.
sear. Var. of CERE; SERE. sea radish. A European wild radish (Raphanus maritimus). sea ragweed. A European mostly seaside ragweed (Ambrosia maritima), with small heads of green flowers. sea ragwort. = DUSTY MILLER a (1). sea rat. A pirate. Rare.

Sea Raven (Hemitripterus americanus). (½) sea raven. a A sculpin (Hemitripterus americanus), of the northern Atlantic coast of America. b The squaretail. c A cormorant. searce (sûrs), n. Also search (sûrch). [ME. saarce, fr. OF. saas (F. sas), fr. (assumed) VL. saetaceus setaceous, fr. L. saeta bristle.] A fine sieve; a strainer. Now Rare. searce (sûrs), v. t. [Cf. OF. saacier. See SEARCE, n.] To sift; bolt. Now Rare.

searc'er (sûr'sĕr), n. Also search'er (sûr'chĕr). A searce, or sieve. Now Rare.
search (sûrch), v.; SEARCHED (sûrcht); SEARCH'ING. [ME. serchen, cerchen, fr. OF. cerchier (F. chercher), fr. LL. circare to go about, fr. L. circum, circa, around. See CIRCLE; cf. RESEARCH.] Transitive: 1. To go through and examine for the purpose of finding or ascertaining something; to explore or look throughout in pursuing a quest. "Search the Scriptures." John v. 39. "To search the house." Shak.
2. To seek; to look or make search for; — usually with out; as, to search out the truth.
To search the secret treasons of the world. Shak.
3. To examine or investigate so as to penetrate deeply; — often with out.
Search me, O God, and know my heart. Ps. cxxxix. 23.
4. To examine or explore with an instrument; to probe; tent; hence, to pierce or penetrate.
5. To subject to a thorough inspection for an article or articles presumably concealed; as, to search a prisoner.
6. Law. To examine a public record, as of judgments of a court, or register, as a register of deeds, etc., of land, or of wills, usually for information pertinent to the title to land or to a legal proceeding. Colloq.
7. Mil. To distribute (fire) over an area; specif., in gunnery with automatic weapons, to distribute (fire) by changes in elevation; also, to concentrate fire over (a limited area).
—, Intransitive: To seek; to look (for something); to make inquiry, exploration or examination; to investigate.
It sufficeth that they have once with care sifted the matter, and searched into all the particulars. Locke.
Syn. — Scrutinize, investigate; inquire, seek; ransack. search out. To seek till found; to find by seeking.
search (sûrch), n. [Cf. OF. cerche. See SEARCH, v.] 1. Act or action of searching; an endeavor to find, ascertain, recover, or the like; as, a prolonged search for a lost will; hence, pursuit with a view to finding, etc.; as, to go south in search of health; the search after truth.
2. Specif.: a Examination; critical scrutiny; survey; — esp. of a ship's cargo or baggage. b Obs. An examination of conscience. c Research; investigation.
3. A person or party that searches. Rare.
Lead to the Sagittary the raised search. Shak.
4. Power or range of searching, esp. of penetrating; also, a penetrating effect.
'Tis well nigh past man's search, their hearts to see. Keats.
5. Mar. Law. Act of boarding and inspecting a vessel, on the high seas, in exercise of right of search (which see).
search, search'er. Vars. of SEARCE, SEARCER. search'ant (sûr'chănt), adj. Searching; — after heraldic adjective in -ant. Humorous.
search coil. Elec. & Magnetism. A small coil of wire which, when attached to a ballistic galvanometer, may be used to study the nature of a magnetic field by virtue of the currents induced in it when it is moved from point to point in the field.
search ephemeris. Astron. An approximate ephemeris for use in locating a returning comet, asteroid, or planet suspected but not yet discovered. search'er (sûr'chĕr), n. [Cf. OF. cercheor inspector.] 1. One who searches; as, a searcher after knowledge.
2. One employed to search, as an inspector, looker, tracer, etc.; specif.: a Formerly, an inspector to maintain standards of workmanship and quality. b An officer of the customs who searches ships, merchandise, luggage, etc. c Formerly, an officer in London appointed to examine the bodies of the dead and report the cause of death. d Formerly, a civil officer appointed to observe and report objectionable conduct. e A minor police officer appointed to search persons arrested. f A person employed to search public records, as by a title insurance company.
3. An implement used in searching, as a probe; specif.: a An implement for sampling butter or other food products; specif., a butter tester. b Gun. An instrument for examining the bore of a cannon, to detect defects. c Med. An instrument for feeling after calculi in the bladder, etc.; a sound.
4. A large metallic blue-green North American ground beetle (Calosoma scrutator) which feeds on caterpillars.

---

seam'-ripped', seam'-ript', adj. = SEAM-RENT. seam'rog (shĭm'rŏg), n. = SHAMROCK, 1. Gaelic. seam'stress-y, n. Sewing. Obs. seam'stry. Rare var. of SEMPSTRY. [SEAMAS.] Seam'us (shām'ŭs), n. See Sean (shōn; shăn; shān), n. Irish var. of JOHN. Cf. EOIN, SEAGHÁN. seanachie. Var. of SHANACHIE.
‖Sean'ad, n. Short for SEANAD EIREANN (which see). sean'chas (shăn'ĸăs; shăn'd-ĸăs). Var. of SHANACHAS. sean'na-chie' (shăn'd-ĸē'; shăn'd-ĸē). Var. of SHANACHIE. sear. + SER, weight; SORE. search'a-ble (sûr'chə-b'l), adj. See -ABLE. — -ble-ness, n. search'er-ess, n. Fem. of SEARCHER. search'er-like', adj. See -LIKE. search'er-ship, n. See -SHIP.

search'ful (sûrch'fŏŏl; -fl), adj. Full of searching; inquiring; interested or active in searching.

search'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SEARCH. Specif.: adj. Exploring thoroughly; scrutinizing; penetrating; keen; as, a searching discourse; a searching glance; a searching of heart. "Piercing, searching, biting, cold." Dickens. — search'ing-ly, adv. — search'ing-ness, n. Syn. — Acute, sharp, discerning. Ant. — See CURSORY.

search lamp. = SEARCHLIGHT, 1 a.

search'less, adj. Impossible to be searched; inscrutable.

search'light' (sûrch'lĭt'), n. 1. a An apparatus for projecting a powerful beam of light of approximately parallel rays, usually devised so that it can be swiveled about. b The beam of light projected by this apparatus. ‖ = FLASHLIGHT d.

Electric Searchlight.

2. Something which reveals that which is obscure, concealed, or the like, in the manner of a searchlight.

searchlight lantern. See LANTERN, n., 1, Illust.

search room. A room, as in the Public Record Office, in which visitors are allowed to examine public documents. Eng.

search warrant. Law. A warrant legally issued, authorizing an examination or search of a house, or other place, originally chiefly for stolen goods, but in modern practice under statutory provisions for intoxicating liquors, gambling implements, counterfeiters' or burglars' tools, obscene literature, smuggled goods, or other articles kept or concealed in violation of the law, and in some instances for the discovery of persons. A general search warrant is either one which does not describe or name the person to be apprehended, or one which gives to the officer the right to search such places as he shall see fit. Such warrants were made illegal in England by the decision in John Wilkes's case (1763), and are forbidden in the United States by the Constitution (Amend. Art. IV.).

sea reach. The straight course of a river when it reaches or approaches the sea.

seared (sēr'd), past tense & past part. of SEAR. Specif.: adj. Scorched; cauterized; hence, figuratively, callous; insensible, esp. to moral influences. — sear'ed-ness (sēr'ĕd-nĕs; -ĭd-nĭs; sēr'd'nĕs; 119), n.

seared green. A color, greenish-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance; — called also glowworm. Cf. COLOR.

sea reed. The beach grass.

sear'er (sēr'ĕr), n. One who or that which sears.

sear'er, n. [Corrupt. fr. Sp. sierra. Cf. CERO.] = 1st PINTADO, 3.

sea rim. a Obs. Seashore. b The horizon, as seen over the sea.

sear'ing (sēr'ĭng), n. A dry or dried-up place or tract.

sear'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SEAR. Specif. adj. a Becoming seared; as, a searing forest. b Causing searing; as, a searing sun; a searing memory.

sea risks. = PERILS OF THE SEA.

searles'ite (särlz'ĭt), n. [After John W. Searles, California pioneer.] Mineral. A hydrous sodium borosilicate, $NaB(SiO_3)_2.H_2O$, occurring in small white spherulites.

sea road. a A sea route. b A roadstead. See 1st ROAD, 5.

sea robber. 1. A robber at sea; specif., pirate.

2. A jaeger.

sea robin. a Any of several gurnards, esp. the American species of the genus Prionotus, having more or less red or brown on the body and fins. The first three rays of the pectoral fin are separate from the others and are used in walking about over the sea bottom. The common species of the northern Atlantic coast is P. strigatus. b Local, U. S. The red-breasted merganser (see MERGANSER, 1).

Sea Robin (Prionotus evolans). (⅛) sea rocket. Any plant of the genus Cakile.

sea rod. a Any gorgonian with long round branches. b A virgularian.

sea room. a Naut. Room or space at sea to maneuver without peril of running aground or of collision. b Hence, opportunity for action, free movement, etc.

sea rosemary. a = SEA LAVENDER. b = SEA BLITE.

sea rover. One who roves the sea; hence, a pirate. See 2d ROVER, 1. — sea'-rov'ing (-rōv'ĭng), adj. & n.

sea ruffle. A sea necklace.

sea'-run', part. adj. Having ascended a river from the sea, as a salmon or sea trout. — sea'-run'ning, adj.

sear'y (sēr'ĭ), adj. Somewhat sear.

sea salmon. a A young pollack. b Either of two weakfishes, Eriscion nebulosus and Cynoscion nobilis.

sea salt. Salt resulting from the evaporation of sea water.

sea'-salt', adj. Salty with or like sea salt.

Sea'san (sē'săn), n. The color nude. See 2d NUDE, 3.

sea sand. Sand of the sea floor or seashore; also, sometimes pl., a sandy seabeach.

sea sand grass, sea sand reed. The beach grass.

sea sandpiper. Purple sandpiper.

sea sandwort. The seabeach sandwort.

sea scallop. The giant scallop (Pecten magellanicus).

sea'scape (sē'skāp), n. [Cf. LANDSCAPE.] a A view of or over the sea. b A picture representing a scene at sea. — sea'scap'ist (-skāp'ĭst), n.

sea scorpion. a A scorpion fish. b Paleontol. A eurypterid.

sea scout, or sea'scout' (sē'skout'), n. A boy scout who is a member of the seascouting department.

sea'scout'ing, n., or sea scouting. That branch of the boy scout program which provides training for older boys in seamanship and water activities.

sea sedge. Any of several maritime sedges, esp. the sand sedge (Carex arenaria).

sea serpent. 1. A large marine animal more or less resembling a serpent, often reported to have been seen at sea. There is no known animal which answers to the popular conception of the sea serpent, and the accounts which appear from time to time are either fictitious or probably based on incomplete and deceptive views of schools of porpoises, various cetaceans, or other large marine animals.

2. A sea snake.

3. The king of the herrings; a snake eel.

4. [caps.] Astron. = HYDRA, 4.

sea service. Service at sea or aboard a seagoing vessel; sometimes, naval, as distinguished from military, service.

sea shell. a The shell of any marine snail, whelk, clam, oyster, scallop, etc. b = SHELL PINK a.

sea'shell' pink (sē'shĕl'), A color, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and very high brilliance; — called also shell pink, tussore. Cf. COLOR.

sea'shine' (sē'shīn'), n. The shine of the sea.

sea'shore' (sē'shōr'; 66; 181), n. 1. The land adjacent to the sea; seacoast; seabeach.

2. Law. All the ground between the ordinary high-water and low-water marks; the foreshore (which see).

— sea'shore', adj.

seashore heliotrope. = SEASIDE HELIOTROPE.

seashore pea. The beach pea.

sea shrub. Any bushlike gorgonian.

sea'sick' (sē'sĭk'), adj. a Affected with seasickness. b Sick of, or rarely, for, the sea.

Thy seasick, weary bark. Shak.

sea'sick'ness, n. Nausea, prostration, etc., affecting persons on the water, from the pitching or rolling of the ship.

sea'side' (-sīd'; 66), n. a The district or land bordering the sea; country adjacent to the sea; seashore. b The side, as of a town, facing the sea. — sea'side', adj.

seaside alder. A small tree (Alnus maritima) of the southeastern U. S., with soft, light-brown wood.

seaside arrowgrass. A grasslike perennial herb (Triglochin maritima) found in salt marshes throughout cooler regions in the North Temperate Zone, with an erect, slender spike of small greenish-white flowers.

seaside aster. The sea starwort.

seaside balsam. = CASCARILLA b.

seaside bean. The jack bean Canavalia ensiformis.

seaside bent. A coarse seashore grass (Agrostis maritima) found along the Atlantic coasts of North America and northern Europe.

seaside brome grass. See GRASS, Table.

seaside crowfoot. A widely distributed perennial herb (Halerpestes cymbalaria), family Ranunculaceae, common in saline situations, having mostly basal, nearly round or reniform leaves, yellow solitary flowers, and tightly compressed heads of small achenes.

seaside daisy. A perennial maritime herb (Erigeron glaucus) of the Pacific coast, with solitary heads of lilac or violet flowers.

seaside finch. The seaside sparrow.

seaside gerardia. A slender annual herb (Agalinis maritima) found along the Atlantic coast of the United States, having narrow leaves and purple, nearly regular flowers.

seaside goldenrod. The beach goldenrod.

seaside grape. = SEA GRAPE.

seaside heliotrope. A widely distributed tropical annual weed (Heliotropium curassavicum) found mostly in saline situations, with one-sided spikes of small, white, yellow-eyed flowers, which become blue. Called Chinese pussley in California.

seaside laurel. = SEA LAUREL.

seaside millet. The joint grass Paspalum distichum, used for forage. Australia.

seaside morning-glory. = SEABEACH MORNING-GLORY.

seaside oat. = SEA OAT.

seaside oxeye. = SEA OXEYE.

seaside pea. The beach pea.

seaside pimpernel. The seabeach sandwort.

seaside pine. The cluster pine.

seaside plantain. = SEA PLANTAIN.

seaside plum. a The mountain plum. b The sea grape.

seaside poppy. = HORN POPPY.

sea'sid'er (sē'sīd'ĕr), n. One who lives at the seaside.

seaside radish. = SEA RADISH.

seaside sandwort. A common sand spurry (Spergularia) found in salt marshes throughout the North Temperate Zone.

seaside sparrow. A salt-marsh sparrow (Ammospiza maritima) of the Atlantic coast. U. S.

seaside spurge. A prostrate annual weedy herb (Chamaesyce polygonifolia) with opposite, small, linear-oblong leaves and small axillary solitary flowers, found along the Atlantic coast and shores of the Great Lakes.

sea silk. Any of certain fibers derived from marine algae or seaweeds.

Sea Sled. A trade-mark applied to a gliding speedboat, of oblong shape and concave bottom; hence [sometimes not cap.] the boat, or one like it, bearing this trade-mark.

sea slope. A slope, as of land, toward the sea.

sea slug. a A sea cucumber. b Any naked marine gastropod; specif., a nudibranch.

sea snail. [AS. sǣsnæġl.] a Any creeping marine gastropod with a spiral shell, as the species of Littorina, Natica, etc. b Any of numerous small, tadpole-shaped, mail-cheeked fishes of the family Liparididae, found in cold seas. They are covered with very lax skin and usually have the pelvic fins modified to form a sucker. The common species of the North Atlantic coasts is Liparis liparis.

sea snake. 1. Any of numerous venomous aquatic snakes of the family Hydrophidae. They have a flattened oar-shaped tail, and small scales on the under side, and with one known exception live entirely in the sea, esp. in the warmer parts of the Indian and Pacific Oceans. They are viviparous and feed on fishes. They are mostly of moderate size, but some species become eight or ten feet long.

2. = SEA SERPENT, 1.

sea snipe. a A phalarope; also, any of various shore birds. b = BELLOWS FISH a.

sea soldier. 1. A marine. See MARINE, 2 b.

2. A marine hermit crab (see HERMIT CRAB). Bahamas.

sea'son (sē'z'n), n. [ME. seson, fr. OF. seson, seison (F. saison), prop., the sowing time, fr. L. satio a sowing, a planting, fr. the root of serere, satum, to sow, plant. See SOW, v.] 1. A period in which a special type of agricultural work is normal and a particular type of weather prevails; as, the season of the harvest. Hence, variously: a Obs. A period of bad weather. b Chiefly Southern U. S. A period of rain or damp weather. c Local, Eng. State of soil with respect to planting.

2. a Obs. A favorable occasion; an opportunity. b The suitable, fitting, or natural time or occasion; the proper conjuncture; as, the season for rest. Cf. SEASONABLE.

3. a A period of time, esp., a relatively short period, characterized by some particular occurrence or feature; as, the usual season of reflection.

Blind, not seeing the sun for a season. Acts xiii. 11.

b A particular time or occasion in the course of the day or of events; as, visitors who come at all seasons.

4. One of the divisions of the year, marked by alterations in the length of day and night, or by distinct conditions of temperature, moisture, etc., caused mainly by the relative position of the earth's axis with respect to the sun. In the North Temperate Zone four seasons are generally recognized, namely, spring, summer, autumn, and winter, marked respectively by the entry of the sun into the signs of Aries, Cancer, Libra, and Capricornus. Some parts of the world have three seasons, — the dry, the rainy, and the cold; other parts have but two, — the dry and the rainy.

5. A recurrent period in the course of heavenly bodies.

6. A brief annual period in which a festivity, as Christmas, occurs; as, the compliments of the season.

7. pl. Years; — in reckoning age.

8. The annual period in which plants bloom, flower, and fructify.

9. The annual period in which animals migrate and breed; also, that in which they are hunted.

10. Term time, as of a court or university. Obs. exc. Hist.

11. Figuratively, time of flourishing or development.

12. a Any period of the year set off, or conceived of as set off, by increased activity in any special line, as by social or business activity, by increased production or marketing of a certain commodity, etc.; as, the theatrical or social season; the strawberry season. b The complementary period of inactivity; — used ironically with such adjectives as dead, dull, off. c The annual period when a place is most resorted to for social activities or amusement; specif., the season, May to July in London.

13. [FROM SEASON, v.] That which gives relish; seasoning. Obs. "The season of all natures, sleep." Shak.

14. Eccl. Any of certain periods in the Christian year commemorative chiefly of Christ's life. The church seasons in order are Advent, Christmastide, Epiphany, Lent, Eastertide, Ascensiontide, Whitsuntide, and the Trinity season. — in season. a At the right or fitting time; opportunely; hence, in good season; early. b In a state or the stage of greatest fitness for use, marketing, eating, or the like; as, peaches are now in season. c In condition to be hunted or taken, esp. as dictated by law; as, trout is in season. d In heat; — of animals. e In its fashionable season; — of places. — in season and out of season. At the right or appointed time and the reverse; hence, at all times. — out of season. Not in season; esp., marketed in other than its or the local season; artificially or tropically grown; as, out-of-season vegetables.

sea'son (sē'z'n), v. SEA'SONED (sē'z'nd); SEA'SON-ING. Transitive: 1. a To render palatable by adding a tasty ingredient; to give zest or relish to; to spice; as, to season food. b Hence, to render more agreeable; to adapt to taste.

The proper use of wit is to season conversation. Tillotson.

2. To treat by such process as will put in the best condition for use; to mature; as, to season a tobacco pipe by frequent smoking.

3. To fit or prepare by time or habit; to habituate; acclimatize; inure; as, to season one to a climate.

4. Archaic. a To qualify by admixture; to moderate; to temper.

When mercy seasons justice. Shak.

b To imbue; to tinge. "Who by his tutor being seasoned with the love of the truth." Fuller.

5. In obsolete senses: a To embalm. b To copulate with; to impregnate. c To flesh (claws). d To manure (land). e To gratify (the palate). f To disinfect. g To discipline; train.

6. To dry (lumber) either in the open air or in a kiln.

—, Intransitive: 1. To become seasoned.

2. Specif., to become dry and hard by escape of the natural juices, or by being penetrated with other substance; as, timber seasons well in the open air.

3. To give token; to savor. Obs.

sea'son-a-ble (sē'z'n-ȧ-b'l), adj. [AF.] Occurring in good or proper time; opportune; as, seasonable advice; a seasonable time for discussion; suitable to, or in keeping with, the season or circumstances; timely; as, seasonable weather.

Mercy is seasonable in the time of affliction. Ecclus. xxiv. 20.

Syn. and Ant. — Cf. OPPORTUNE.

— sea'son-a-ble-ness, n. — sea'son-a-bly, adv.

sea'son-al (-ăl; -l), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or occurring at, a particular season or seasons; as, seasonal rates, demand, diseases, storms, or opportunities.

2. Characterized by having or being affected by seasons; not continuously active, open, etc.; as, seasonal industries, laborers, or employment.

— sea'son-al-ly, adv.

sea'son-al'i-ty (sē'z'n-ăl'ĭ-tĭ), n. Quality or state of being seasonal.

season check or crack. Forestry. A longitudinal crack in timber or lumber caused by rapid or uneven seasoning or drying. See FROST CRACK.

season crack. a Forestry. See SEASON CHECK. b Metal. A kind of crack sometimes occurring in brass or other metal that has been severely strained in rolling or other process of manufacture and left in a condition of internal stress; — so called because it is esp. likely to form in a warm atmosphere. — sea'son-crack', v. t. & i.

sea'soned (sē'z'nd), adj. 1. Flavored.

2. Matured or finished for use, as wood dried and hardened.

3. Habituated; accustomed; as, a seasoned traveler.

4. Of a quality made superior by seasoning; — esp. of furs gathered during the winter.

sea'son-er (sē'z'n-ĕr), n. 1. One who or that which seasons; a seasoning.

2. One who seasons leather, mantles, etc.

3. A seaman or fisherman who hires for the season; by extension, a loafer; a beachcomber. U. S. Cent. Dict.

sea'son-ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SEASON. Hence: n. 1. That which seasons; as: a A condiment, spice, or the like. b Something that brightens, enlivens, or the like; as, wit is the seasoning of conversation. c In the tropics, an attack of disease suffered by one not yet acclimated.

2. Diamond Cutting. The diamond dust with which a lapidary's mill is charged.

Sea'sons, The. A poem (published in parts, 1726–30) by James Thomson. It marked the beginning of 18th-century literary romanticism in England.

season ticket. A ticket giving its holder a privilege for a specified season, as entrance to all games at an athletic field, or daily transportation between two places.

---

search'ment, n. Search. See -MENT, 2. Ded. searcht. Searched. Ref. Sp. sear'cloth' (sēr'klŏth'; 185), n. = CERECLOTH, n. seard. Seared. Ref. Sp. sear'ment (sēr'mĕnt). Var. of CEREMENT. sear'ness, n. See -NESS. sea'son-a-bl. Seasonable. R. Sp. sea'son-age, n. Seasoning. Obs. sea'son-al-ness, n. See -NESS. sea'son-al-ty. Var. of SEASONALITY. sea'soned-ly, adv. of SEASONED. sea'son-less, adj. See -LESS. sea'son-ing-like', adj. See -LIKE.

sea spear grass. A grass (Puccinellia maritima) found on sea beaches and in salt marshes in the North Temperate Zone.
sea spider. a A spider crab. b Any pycnogonid. c An octopus. d New Eng. A basket fish. sea spleenwort. See FERN, Table. sea squirt. A simple ascidian.
sea stack. An isolated rock pillar at or near the coast line.
sea staff. The kelp Laminaria digitata.
sea star. a A mariner's guiding star; — chiefly an emblematical title of the Virgin Mary, now oftener in form Star of the Sea. b A starfish. c The marsh pink (Sabbatia). sea starwort. A common European salt-marsh aster (Aster tripolium). sea steps. Naut. Projecting metal plates or bars attached to the side of a vessel by which it may be boarded; — called sea ladder in the United States Navy. sea stickleback. The fifteen-spined stickleback. See STICKLEBACK. sea stores. Naut. Supplies, esp. of foodstuffs, laid in before starting on a voyage.
sea'strand' (sē'strănd'), n. Seashore. Archaic. sea'stroke' (-strōk'), n. The dashing of a heavy sea over a ship. Emerson.
sea sulphurweed. The brimstonewort Peucedanum officinale.
sea surgeon. A surgeonfish.
sea swallow. a A tern; esp., the common tern. b Local, Eng. The stormy petrel. sea swine. a A porpoise. b The ballan wrasse. seat (sēt), n. [ME. sete, sæte, fr. ON. sæti (Sw. säte, Dan. sæde); akin to D. gezeet, G. gesäss, and E. SIT.] 1. Act of sitting, esp. at table. Obs.
2. a Scot. The court of session. b Scot. & Dial. Eng. A sitting; a session.
3. Posture or way of sitting, as on horseback; as, a rider has a good or bad seat.
4. = 5th SET, 10. Rare.
5. a The place on or at which one sits; as, one's seat at table. b A right to sit; a sitting; also, place of sitting; as, a seat in Congress or in the House of Commons; room or space to sit in; as, a seat in a church or theater.
6. A place occupied by anything, or where any person or thing is situated, resides, or abides; abode; residence; as, tribes driven from their seats.
Seats of everlasting day. Watts.
7. Specif.: a Archaic. A see; as, the seat of a bishop. b A place, esp. a city, from which authority is exercised; capital; as, a seat of government. c A site, esp. with reference to habitability. "This castle hath a pleasant seat." Shak. d A locality in which a (specified) thing or condition is prevalent; as, a seat of learning; the seat of a disease. "In this seat of peace." Shak. e Obs. Location; situation; place. f A country seat.
And guest politely call'd his house a seat. Crabbe.
8. Anything made to sit in or on, as a chair, bench, or stool; as, a seat in the grandstand.
9. The special chair or throne of one in eminence; figuratively, the status of which it is a symbol; as, the consul's seat.
The crown and seat of France. Shak.
10. The part of the body which bears the weight when sitting; the buttocks; the gluteal region.
11. A place prepared for the erection of a building. Obs.
12. The part at the base; as, the seat of a wall.
13. The particular part of a thing on which one sits; as, the seat of a chair; the seat of a pair of trousers.
14. Arch. That surface of a bridge abutment on which one end of the bridge rests.
15. Mach. A part or surface on which another part or surface rests; a seating; as, a valve seat; an engine seat.
16. Mining. The floor. See 1st FLOOR, 10.
17. Shoe Mfg. a That part of a shoe sole to which the heel is secured. b Obs. Eng. A place, situation, or engagement to work in a shop.
18. Stock Exchange. A right to the privileges of membership; a membership.
☞ PHRASES are:

seat angle	seat cover	seat maker
seat arm	seat coverer	seat making seat back	seat designer	seat-making, adj.

seat (sēt), v.; SEAT'ED; SEAT'ING. Transitive: 1. To place in or on a seat; as: a To cause to sit down; as to seat one's guests. b To establish in a place of residence; settle.
They had seated themselves in New Guiana. Raleigh.
c To establish or install in a seat of special dignity or office, as in a legislature. d To set firm; to fix on, or as on, a firm seat or base.
2. To settle; to plant with inhabitants. Obs.
3. To provide seats or sittings for; to furnish with seats; to accommodate with sittings; as, the hall seats two thousand; to seat a church, or persons in a church.
4. To put a seat in; to repair the seat of.
5. Mech. To adjust on a seat; to fit to a seat.
—, Intransitive: 1. To take one's seat; sit or lie down; settle. Archaic.
2. Mach. To fit correctly on its seat; — said esp. of a valve.
— be seated. a To sit; to take a seat or seats. b To be situated or located; to have its seat; — often with in.
seat (sēt; sĕt), n. A kind of chisel used to cut hot iron. Chiefly Dial. Eng.
sea tangle. Any of various seaweeds or kelps, esp. of the genus Laminaria; tangle. seat bath. Sitz bath. seat board. A board supporting a seat; a board serving as a seat; specif., Horol., the shelf that supports the movement, as in a long case clock.
seat bone. The ischium. seat clip. = SPRING CLIP a. seat'ed (sēt'ĕd; -Id; 119), adj. 1. Having or equipped with a seat or seats; — often in combination, having a specified kind of seat; as, double-seated trousers; a soft-seated chair.
2. Situated; located; settled or established in or as in a seat; as, a deeply seated disease, that is difficult to alleviate.
seat'er (-ĕr), n. 1. One who puts in seats; as, a chair seater; also, one who seats customers.
2. One who or that which seats; — often in combination; as, single-seater. See SINGLE-SEATER, etc. sea term. A seaman's term; a nautical word or phrase.
sea thief. = SEA ROBBER, 1. Now Rare.
sea thong. a A fucoid seaweed (Himanthalia lorea) found on the northern coasts of the Atlantic. It has a thonglike thallus rising from a top-shaped base or holdfast. b Any of several other seaweeds having cordlike fronds, as sea lace (Chorda filum), species of Laminaria, etc.
sea thrift. a The herb thrift. See THRIFT, Illust. b The sea lavender. sea time. Time spent at sea; also, time as reckoned at sea, from noon to noon.
seat'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of SEAT. Specif.: n. 1. Act of providing with a seat or seats; as, the seating of the crowd took a long time; also, the making of seats.
2. a Material for covering or upholstering seats. b Mach. A seat; also, a part or surface that beds on a seat.
seat'ing, adj. That seats or provides seats; as, seating arrangements or accommodation. sea titling. The rock pipit. Local, Eng.
sea toad. a A sculpin. b A toadfish. c The angler. sea tortoise. = SEA TURTLE. sea town. A seaside town. Now Rare. seat owner. a Formerly, in England, one who owned a pocket borough. b The owner of a countryseat. sea'train' (sē'trān'), n. A kind of ocean-going steamship for carrying freight cars. sea tree. Any treelike seaweed.
sea'tron (sē'trŏn), n. An edible product made from bladder kelp (Nereocystis Lütkeana). sea trout. 1. a Any of certain true trout which inhabit the sea, but ascend rivers to spawn; esp., the European species Salmo trutta, often called salmon trout. It resembles the salmon, but is smaller, weaker, and has smaller scales. A number of varieties of it, or closely allied species, some of them landlocked, occur in different regions. b A brook trout living in salt water. See SALTER, 4.
2. a Any of several weakfishes (Cynoscion regalis and Eriscion nebulosus on the Atlantic, and Atractoscion nobilis on the Pacific coast). b A rock trout, esp. Hexagrammos decagrammus.
sea trumpet. 1. A gigantic olive-brown kelp (Ecklonia buccinalis) of the South Atlantic. Its thallus consists of an elongated hollow stalk expanding into a cluster of fronds. The dried stem is used as a trumpet and as a siphon.
2. Any large marine univalve shell of the genus Triton. See TRITON, Illust.
3. Music. = TRUMPET MARINE.
seats'man (sēts'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who makes seats, esp. of shoes. sea turn. A breeze or gale from the sea, often bringing mist. sea turnip. The sea-otter's-cabbage; — so called from the turnip-shaped float at the end of the stipe. sea turtle. Any of certain large turtles inhabiting the sea and having the feet modified into paddles. The existing species are the leatherback, hawksbill, loggerhead, and green turtles. They are widely distributed in warm seas.
sea twine. = SEA LACE.
seat'work' (sēt'wûrk'), n. Work done at one's seat, esp. in school.
seat worm. The pinworm.
sea unicorn. The narwhal.
sea urchin. 1. Any echinoderm of the class Echinoidea (which see), esp. one of somewhat flattened globular form having a thin brittle shell or test of calcareous plates covered with well-developed (and often very sharp) movable spines, as distinguished from the disk-shaped sand dollars or cake urchins, and the heart urchins, which also belong to the Echinoidea. The typical sea urchins have the mouth situated at the middle of the lower surface, with five converging jaws adapted for scraping small organisms from the surface of rocks or shells. They live on the sea bottom or among rocks, or bury themselves in the sand, and crawl about by means of tube feet which protrude through pores in the shell, assisted by movements of the spines. They feed on small organisms, dead animals, offal, etc., and are found in all seas. Some are used as food. Cf. SPATANGINA.

Sea Urchin (Strongylocentrotus drobachiensis).

2. A boy sailor. Jocose. Irving.
3. Bot. The cushionflower. Australia.
sea valve. Naut. A valve in the bottom or side of a ship communicating with the sea.
sea vampire. = DEVILFISH, 1. seave (sēv), n. [ON. sef.] A rush; a rushlight. N. of Eng. seav'y (sēv'ĭ), adj. Rushy. Dial. Eng.
sea wall. [AS. sǣweall.] A wall, or embankment, to resist encroachments of the sea.
sea'-walled', adj. Provided with or protected by a sea wall.
sea walnut. A ctenophore of typical, ellipsoidal shape, as Pleurobrachia.
sea wand. The kelp Laminaria digitata.
sea'ward (sē'wĕrd), n. 1. The direction or side away from land to the open sea; also, any location in this direction; as, to fly to the seaward; three leagues to seaward.
2. O. Eng. Feud. Law. A service consisting in certain guarding or watching against enemies from the sea.
sea'ward (-wĕrd), adj. a Directed or situated toward the sea. b From the sea; — of wind.
sea'ward, sea'wards (-wĕrdz), adv. Toward the sea or ocean.
sea'ward-ly, adj. Accustomed to looking or traveling at sea; as, seawardly eyes. — adv. Seaward. sea'ware' (sē'wâr'), n. [Cf. AS. sǣwār seaweed.] Sea wrack used esp. as manure. sea'-washed', adj. Wet or washed by sea waves.
sea water. Water in or from the sea; salt water.
sea wax. = MALTHA, 2 b. sea'way' (sē'wā'), n. Naut. a A moderate or rough sea; — chiefly in in a seaway. b A vessel's headway. c The sea as a route for travel; also, one of the ocean traffic lanes.
sea'-wea'ry, adj. Worn out or wearied by sea voyaging. sea'weed' (sē'wēd'), n. 1. A mass or growth of marine plants, esp. algae.
2. Any plant growing in the sea; specif., any marine alga, as kelp, dulse, rockweed, sea lettuce, etc. Seaweeds are widely distributed in the ocean, and occur from tide level to considerable depths. They may float free or be anchored by specialized portions of the thallus (haptera). Many are used for food and they also furnish fertilizers, vegetable gelatins (as agar-agar), fibers, potash, iodine, etc. Sometimes, loosely, any of various fresh-water algae. See ALGA, ALGAE.
seaweed ferm. = HART'S-TONGUE a. seaweed glue. = FUNORI b. seaweed green. A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR. seaweed isinglass. = ISINGLASS, 3. sea'weed'y (sē'wēd'ĭ), adj. Of, or abounding in, seaweeds. sea whip. a A gorgonian having a long, flexible, little-branched, or branchless, stem. b = SEA THONG b.
sea whipcord or whiplash. = SEA THONG b. sea whistle or whistles. A rockweed (Ascophyllum nodosum) with bladders used by children as whistles. sea widgeon. a A scaup duck. b Local, U. S. Pintail duck. sea'wife' (sē'wīf'), n.; pl. -WIVES (-wīvz'). Either of two European wrasses (Labrus vetula and Acantholabrus yarrelli) related to the tautog. sea willow. A gorgonian coral with long flexible branches.
sea withwind. = SEA BELLS. sea wolf. 1. A fabulous sea beast. Obs.
2. A pirate; also, a privateer.
3. a = WOLF FISH a. b Elephant seal. c Sea lion. sea woodcock. The bar-tailed godwit. Local, Eng.
sea worm. a A marine annelid. b = SEA SERPENT, 1. sea wormwood. The Levant wormseed (Artemisia pauciflora). sea'worn' (sē'wōrn'; 181), adj. a Impaired or eaten away by the sea; as, seaworn shores. b Sea-weary. sea'wor'thi·ness (sē'wûr'thĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. The state of being seaworthy. In marine insurance, specif., the fitness of a vessel for a particular voyage, with reference to the condition of its hull and machinery, the extent of its fuel and provisions supply, the quality of its officers and crew, and its adaptability for the type of voyage proposed. Ordinarily, a warranty of seaworthiness is implied, thus affording protection to the underwriter who might otherwise be unwilling to assume the risk.
sea'wor'thy (sē'wûr'thĭ), adj. Fit for a sea voyage; able to stand stormy weather in safety; as, a seaworthy ship.
sea wrack. a Seaweed, esp. of the large species, as rockweeds and kelps. b Any of these plants, esp. the bladder wrack. c The eelgrass Zostera marina. Cf. WRACK, 4.
Se'ba (sē'bȧ), n. [Heb. Sĕbhā.] Bib. A country and people, probably of southern Ethiopia. seb'a·cate (sĕb'ȧ·kāt; sē·bās'āt), n. Chem. A salt or ester of sebacic acid.
se·ba'ceous (sē·bā'shŭs), adj. [L. sebaceus, fr. sebum tallow, grease. See SOAP.] Physiol. a Pertaining to, secreting, or composed of, fatty matter, or sebum; as, the sebaceous glands of the skin. b Of the appearance of fat; as, the sebaceous secretions of some plants.
sebaceous cyst. Med. A cyst filled with sebaceous matter formed either by distention of a sebaceous gland as a result of obstruction of its excretory duct, or by the isolation of a sac of epidermis in the subcutaneous tissue in embryological development.
sebaceous gland. Anat. Any of the small sacculated glands, lodged in the substance of the corium, and usually opening into the hair follicles, which secrete an unctuous material, composed in great part of fat, which softens and lubricates the hair and skin. They are especially abundant in the scalp and face.
se·bac'ic (sē·băs'ĭk; sē·bās'ĭk), adj. [See SEBACEOUS.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating a colorless, crystalline diacid, $C_8H_{16}(CO_2H)_2$, variously obtained, as by dry distillation of oleic acid and fats; 1,8-octane-dicarboxylic.
Se·ba'go salm'on (sē·bā'gō). [From Sebago Lake, Maine, fr. the Pennacook name, lit., it spreads or extends.] The landlocked salmon (Salmo sebago). se·ba'it (sā·bā'ĭt; -bīt'), n. [Beng. sebāit, fr. sebā attendance, service, fr. Skr. seva.] Hindu Law. A person appointed to manage the endowment of a temple or idol; also, a devisee of a share in an ancestral estate.
se'-bap'tist (sē'băp'tĭst), n. [L. se one's self + baptista a baptizer.] Eccl. Hist. One who baptizes himself; — a name given to John Smith (or Smyth), reputed founder of the General Baptists, said to have baptized himself in Amsterdam in 1608. — se'-bap'tism (-tĭz'm), n.
Se·bas'tian (sē·băs'chăn), n. [Gr. Sebastianos; cf. Gr. sebastos reverenced, reverence.] 1. Masc. proper name. L. Sebastianus (-chĭ·ā'nŭs); F. Sébastien (sā'bās'tyăn'); It. Sebastiano (sā·bās·tyä'nō); Sp. Sebastián (sā·bās·tyän'); Pg. Sebastião (sā·bās·tyoun'); G. Sebastian (zā·bās'tĭ·än').
2. A saint and martyr of the 3d century. He was a favorite subject in Renaissance art and is usually represented as a youth pierced by many arrows.
3. a In Shakespeare's Tempest, the brother of the king of Naples. b In Twelfth Night, the brother of Viola. se·bas'tian·ite (sē·băs'chăn·īt), n. Petrog. A lava from Monte Somma, Italy, composed of automorphic anorthite and a little augite with biotite and apatite. It is rich in potash, resembling puglianite in chemical composition, but the potash enters biotite instead of leucite.
Se'bas·tich'thys (sē'băs·tĭk'thĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sebastos august, reverend + -ichthys.] A genus of fish, family Scorpinidae, including certain of the rockfish.
Se'bas·to'des (-tō'dēz), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sebastos august + -odes.] A genus of fish, family Scorpinidae. See ROCKFISH.
Se·bas'to·pol goose (sē·băs'tō·pŏl; sĕb'ȧs·tō'pŏl). [From Sebastopol (now Sevastopol), Russia.] A goose of a domestic variety, having many of its feathers fantastically curled and twisted. se'bate (sē'bāt), n. Chem. A sebacate.
Seb'ek (sĕb'ĕk), n. [Egypt. Sbek.] Egypt. Myth. A deity of evil, with a crocodile head, typifying the destroying power of the sun.
se·bes'ten (sē·bĕs'tĕn), n. [Ar. sibistān, fr. Per. sipistān.] 1. a An East Indian tree (Cordia myxa). b The fruit of this tree, the sebesten plum, used in India for pickles, and dried as a demulcent. c In tropical America, the related Sebesten sebestena; also, its white, edible, fruit.
2. [cap.] A small genus of tropical American trees and shrubs (family Ehretiaceae) having large, alternate leaves, showy, often orange or red flowers, and ovoid, often edible drupes. S. sebestena is called also geiger tree.
sebi-. A combining form from Latin sebum, meaning tallow, suet, as in se·bif'er·ous, se·bip'a·rous. See -FEROUS; -PAROUS. se'bic (sē'bĭk), adj. Sebacic. Obs.
se·bif'ic (sē·bĭf'ĭk), adj. Fat-producing; fatty. Rare.
se·bil'la (sē·bĭl'ȧ), n. [F. sébile, fr. Ar. zabīl date basket, sack.] A wooden receptacle used by stonecutters, ore assayers, etc.
seb'kha (sĕb'kȧ), n. Also seb'ka. [Ar. sabkhah saline infiltration, shallow lagoon.] In northern Africa, a smooth, flat, often saline, plain, sometimes occupied after a rain by a shallow lake; a playa; an alkali flat.
seb'o·lith (sĕb'ō·lĭth), n. [sebum + -lith.] Med. A concretion formed in a sebaceous gland. seb'or·rha'gi·a (sĕb'ō·rā'jĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. See SEBUM; -RRHAGIA.] Med. Seborrhea.

---

seat. † SETH.
sea'tang', n. See 5th TANG. seathe. Obs. exc. Dial. var. of SEETHE. seat'less, adj. See -LESS. sea'wan, sea'want. Vars. of SEWAN. [1 a. sea'-wa'ter green. = SEA GREEN, sea'wom'an, n. Fem. of SEAMAN. seax (sĕăks). Archaic var. of SAX, sword. [GEB.
Seb (seb). [Egyptian.] Var. of Se·bat'. Var. of SHEBAT. See JEWISH CALENDAR. seb'el, n. [Ult. fr. Ar. sabal cataract (of the eye); cf. OF. sebel.] Inflammation of the veins of the eye. Obs.
Se'be·ni'a (sē'bē·nī'ȧ), Se'be·ni'as (-ăs), Se'be·on (sē'bē·ŏn), Se·beth'a·i (sē·bĕth'ȧ·ī), Se·bi'a (sē·bī'ȧ). D. Bib.
Seb·ni'a (sĕb·nī'ȧ). D. Bib.
Se·bo'im (sē·bō'ĭm). D. Bib.

N O P Q R S

seb'or·rhe'a, seb'or·rhoe'a (sĕb'ō·rē'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. sebum tallow + Gr. rhein to flow.] Med. A morbidly increased discharge of sebaceous matter, which tends to collect on the skin in scales; stearrhea. — seb'or·rhe'al, -rhoe'al (-ăl), adj. — seb'or·rhe'ic, -rhoe'ic (-ĭk), adj.

Se'bright (sē'brīt), n. [After Sir John S. Sebright (1767–1846), Eng. agriculturist.] A breed of bantams.

se'bum (sē'bŭm), n. [L., tallow, grease.] Anat. The fatty matter secreted by the sebaceous glands.

se·bun'dy (sē·bŭn'dĭ), n. sing. & pl.; pl. also -DIES (-dĭz). Also Se·bun'dee. [Hind. sibandī, fr. Per. si- three + band band, bond, agreement; — orig. paid every three months.] Irregular native soldiery of the British in India.

sec-. Chem. A combining form for the adj. secondary.

‖sec (sĕk), adj. [F. See SACK wine.] Dry; — of wine.

sec (sĕk), n. a Colloq. Short for 1st SECOND. b Short for SECANT, n., 2.

Se·ca'le (sē·kā'lē), n. [L., a kind of grain.] Bot. A genus of cereal grasses having the 2-flowered spikelets in a dense spike, the lemma tipped with a long awn, and the empty glumes one-nerved. There are two Old World species; S. cereale is the common rye. See 2d RYE, 1.

sec'a·lin (sĕk'ȧ·lĭn), n. 1. Biochem. A prolamine obtained from rye.
2. Preferably sec'a·line (-lĭn; -lēn). = TRIMETHYLAMINE.

sec'a·lose (-lōs), n. [Secale + -ose.] Chem. A sugar, probably a mixture, obtained from green rye and oats.

Sec'a·mo'ne (sĕk'ȧ·mō'nē), n. [NL., fr. Olt. secamone, for scammonia. See SCAMMONY.] Bot. A genus of Old World tropical woody vines of the milkweed family (Asclepiadaceae), bearing flowers with rotate corollas, the scales of the crown having distinct tips. The roots of S. emetica are used in India as an emetic and purgative.

se'cant (sē'kănt), adj. [L. secans, -antis, pres. part. of secare to cut. See SECTION.] Cutting; as, a secant line. — se'can·cy (sē'kăn·sĭ), n. — se'cant·ly, adv.

se'cant, n. [From SECANT, adj.] 1. Geom. A line that cuts another; esp., a straight line cutting a curve in two or more points. See CIRCLE, Illust.; cf. CHORD, n., 5.
2. Trig. A right line drawn from the center of a circle through one end of a circular arc to a tangent drawn from the other end; the ratio of this line to the radius of the circle; the reciprocal of the cosine. Abbr. sec. See TRIGONOMETRIC FUNCTION.

sec'a·teur' (sĕk'ȧ·tûr'), n. [F. sécateur.] Pruning shears; also, wire cutter.

sec'chio (sĕk'kyō), n.; pl. SECCHI (-kē). [It.] A varying liquid measure of Northern Italy usually containing somewhat more than ten liters. Obs.

‖sec'co (sĕk'kō), adj. [It.] Dry.

‖sec'co, n. Also secco painting. Painting on dry plaster. Cf. FRESCO, n., 2.

se·cede' (sē·sēd'), v. i. SE·CED'ED (-sēd'ĕd; -Id; 119); SE·CED'ING (-sēd'ĭng). [L. secedere, secessum, fr. se- aside + cedere to go, move. See CEDE.] 1. To withdraw into privacy, the background, or the like. Rare.
2. To withdraw from an organization, communion, or federation; esp., to withdraw formally from a political or religious body.

se·ced'er (sē·sēd'ĕr), n. 1. One who secedes.
2. [cap.] Eccl. Hist. A member of the Secession Church (of Scotland) or of any of the daughter churches. See SECESSION, 2 c; ASSOCIATE PRESBYTERY.

se·cern' (sē·sûrn'), v.; -CERNED' (-sûrnd'); -CERN'ING. [L. secernere. See SECRETE.] Transitive: 1. To separate; distinguish; esp., to discriminate.
2. Physiol. To secrete; as, mucus secerned in the nose.
—, Intrans.: To separate; secrete; — chiefly in pres. part.

se·cern'ent (-sûr'nĕnt), adj. [L. secernens, pres. part.] Separating; secreting. — n. That which secretes, or promotes secretion.

se·cern'ment (sē·sûrn'mĕnt), n. Act or process of secerning.

se·cesh' (sē·sĕsh'), n. Secessionist; also, secessionists collectively. Colloq., U. S.

se·cesh'er (-ĕr), n. A secessionist. Colloq., U. S.

se·cess' (sē·sĕs'), n. [L. sesessus.] Retirement; also, secession. Obs.

Se·ces'si·a (sē·sĕsh'ĭ·ȧ), n. [In imitation of L. nouns. See SECESSION, SECEDE.] Secessiondom; — a popular name. U. S.

se·ces'sion (sē·sĕsh'ŭn), n. [L. secessio. See SECEDE.]
1. Act of, or condition following, seceding; withdrawal, as into privacy, solitude, or from view; retirement.
2. Formal separation from an organized body such as a religious communion or a federation of states. Specif.: a [often cap.] Rom. Hist. Any one of several political withdrawals of plebeians from the city, between 494 and 287 B.C., in order to force the patricians to grant them civil rights. b [often cap.] U. S. The withdrawal of a State from the national Union, as that of eleven States in 1860–61. c [cap.] Scot. Eccl. Hist. The withdrawal of four ministers and their followers from the Church of Scotland in 1733. See ASSOCIATE PRESBYTERY. Hence, the Seceders collectively; — called also Secession Church. See SECEDER, 2; PRESBYTERIAN, adj.

se·ces'sion·al (-ăl; -l), adj. Of or pertaining to secession or [cap.] the Secession Church. — se·ces'sion·al·ist (-Ĭst), n. & adj. Rare.

Se·ces'sion·dom (-dŭm), n. The eleven States which seceded from the United States in 1860–61. Collog. U. S.

se·ces'sion·ism (-Ĭz'm), n. The doctrine or policy of secession; the tenets of secessionists.

se·ces'sion·ist (-Ĭst), n. One who upholds secession or secessionism; specif. [often cap.], U. S. Hist., one who held that a State has the right to separate from the Union at its will; esp., one who participated in, or sympathized with, the secession of the eleven Southern States in 1860–61.

se·ces'sion·ist (sē·sĕsh'ŭn·Ĭst), adj. Of or pertaining to secession or secessionists.

Se'chi·um (sē'kĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sēkos a pen, fold.] Bot. A genus of herbaceous vines (family Cucurbitaceae) having as the only known species S. edule, the chayote. Syn. Chayota.

Se·chua'na (sē·chwä'nä), n. Also Chwa'na (chwä'nä). A group of Bantu dialects spoken southwest of the central course of the Zambezi. See BECHUANA, 2.

seck (sĕk), adj. [F. sec, prop., dry, fr. L. siccus.] Barren; unprofitable; — said of rents. See RENT SECK.

seck (sĕk). Var. of SACK, SEEK. Obs. exc. Dial.

Seck'el (sĕk''l; sĭk''l), n. [After the owner of the farm near Philadelphia where it originated.] Hort. An American variety of a small, reddish-brown, sweet, juicy pear.

se·clude' (sē·klōōd'; 242), v. t. [L. secludere, seclusum, fr. se- aside + claudere to shut. See CLOSE, v.] 1. To shut up apart; — often with from. Specif.: a Now Rare. To put (a person or thing) in a place hard to reach or enter; to make inaccessible; to confine; secrete; hide. "How could we . . . permit the Greek seclude His secret till today?" Browning. b To remove or separate (oneself or another) in order to avoid or prevent intercourse or outside influence; to withdraw into solitude; to isolate; as, to seclude one's children from companions; to live secluded from the world.
2. To exclude, as from a place, right, or membership; to exclude the consideration or participation of; to deny admission or admissibility to; to debar; expel; prohibit; except; as, to seclude certain members of the Long Parliament. Now Rare.
3. To screen; to protect by shutting off or being shut off; — chiefly in past part.; as, a spot secluded from city noises.
4. To separate as or as by a barrier; to keep apart or distinct. "Nothing but clergy could us two seclude." Marvell.

se·clud'ed (sē·klōōd'ĕd; -Id; 119), past part. & part. adj. of SECLUDE. Hence: adj. a Screened or hidden from view; sequestered; as, a secluded valley or scene. b Solitary; living in seclusion; as, secluded monks.
Syn. — Remote, hidden. Ant. — Exposed, public.
— se·clud'ed·ly, adv. — se·clud'ed·ness n.

se·clud'ing (-ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SECLUDE. Hence: adj. Serving to seclude.

se·cluse' (sē·klōōs'; 242), adj. [See SECLUDE.] Secluded. — n. The secluded; recluses, collectively. Rare.

se·clu'sion (sē·klōō'zhŭn), n. [ML. seclusio. See SECLUDE.] 1. Act or action of secluding; as, the seclusion of prisoners in cells.
2. The state or fact of being secluded; an instance of such; as, to live in seclusion; the seclusion of this valley.
O blest seclusion from a jarring world. Cowper.
3. A secluded place; a place of retirement.
4. Act of keeping out; exclusion. Obs. exc. Scots Law.
Syn. — Solitude, aloofness, retirement, privacy.

se·clu'sion·ist (-Ĭst), n. One favoring seclusion. Specif.: a An advocate of monasticism. b One who advocates exclusion of immigrants of certain races from his country.

se·clu'sive (-sĭv), adj. Tending or serving to seclude; secluding; also, exclusive. — se·clu'sive·ly, adv. — se·clu'sive·ness, n.

sec'o·dont (sĕk'ō·dŏnt), adj. [L. secare to cut + -odont.] Zool. Having, or designating, teeth adapted for cutting.

sec·ohm'me·ter (sĕk·ōm'ē·tĕr; sĕk·ōm'-), n. [secohm + -meter.] Elec. A revolving circuit interrupter, devised by Ayrton and Perry, used with a Wheatstone's bridge for inductance measurement.

sec'ond (sĕk'ŭnd; -ŭnt), n. [F. seconde, fr. ML. secunda minuta, lit., second minute (the minute being the first or prime). See SECOND, adj.] 1. The sixtieth part of a minute of angular measure, that is, the second regular subdivision of the degree (symbol ″); as, 5 minutes and 10 seconds (5′ 10″) north of this place. See MEASURE, Table; 1st MINUTE, 1, Note, & 7 a.
2. Hence, the sixtieth part of a minute of time, that is, the second regular subdivision of the hour — as, 1 minute and 15 seconds of time (1m. 15s.)
☞ Second is sometimes used in the names of derived units; as, ampere-second, centimeter-gram-second, etc.
3. A moment; an instant. Colloq.
4. pl. The unit of measurement of viscosity of liquids. The viscosity, as determined by any one of several types of viscosimeters, is the time of efflux of 60 c.c. of the liquid, in seconds.

sec'ond (sĕk'ŭnd; -ŭnt), adj. [OF., fr. L. secundus second, prop., following, fr. root of sequi to follow. See SUE; cf. SECUND.] 1. Immediately following the first; — the ordinal of two; as, a second witness.
2. Next to the first in order of place or time; hence, occurring again; another; other.
And he slept and dreamed the second time. Gen. xli. 5.
3. Of the same kind as another; another, like a prototype; as, a second Cato; a second deluge.
4. Next to the first in value, power, excellence, dignity, or degree; hence, secondary; subordinate; inferior.
May the day when we become the second people upon earth . . . be the day of our utter extirpation. Londor.
5. Of a grade distinguished as next to the best in fineness, finish, etc. Archaic. Cf. 3d SECOND, 4.
6. Ranking immediately below first; — in denoting official status; as, second lieutenant; second mate.
7. Helpful; assisting. Rare. Shak.
8. Being next after the first in a series or line; — used as an affix to names; as, the second James of England. Cf. the second, under 3d SECOND.
9. Short for second floor, second place, second-rate, etc.
10. Automotive Vehicles. Designating a forward gear or speed higher or next higher than the first.
11. Gram. Designating a type of declension or conjugation as coming second in a standard arrangement of the types; as, a noun of the second declension.
12. Music. Lower in pitch; rendering a part of lower pitch.
13. Gr. Gram. Designating or pertaining to certain tenses, the second aorist, the second perfect, and the second past perfect, (active); and the second future (passive). They are generally of more primitive formation than the first (or ordinary) aorist, etc.
☞ For many phrases beginning with second, see the principal word.

sec'ond (sĕk'ŭnd; -ŭnt), n. 1. a One who or that which follows, or comes after; one next and inferior in place, time, rank, merit, etc. b Short for second-in-command.
2. The next in order or series after the first; as, he is the second who has asked that same question; the second in line; the second is the one I choose.
3. One who follows or attends another for his support and aid; a backer; an assistant; specif., one who acts as another's aid in a duel or prize fight; (cf. PRINCIPAL, n., 5); also, Obs., aid; help.
4. An article of merchandise of a grade inferior to the best or which does not conform to a standard grade; — usually in the pl.; esp., pl., a coarse or inferior kind of flour or bread made from it; or, also pl., tobacco leaves of an inferior quality.
5. One twelfth of an inch, or prime; a line. See INCH, 1.
6. A place in a group rated as secondary, esp. in an examination; one obtaining such a place; as, the winners and seconds.
7. Automotive Vehicles. Second gear or speed.
8. Baseball. Short for second base.
9. Math. In systems of fractional numeration, esp. the sexagesimal, the second subdivision below the unit. Cf. MINUTE, 7 b.
10. Music. a The interval embracing two diatonic degrees. See INTERVAL, 8. b A tone at this interval. c The harmonic combination of two tones a second apart. d The second tone of a scale, when reckoning up from the tonic e The next to the highest in a concerted piece or the voice or instrument performing such a part; popularly, the alto.
— the second, or second. An affix to a name, indicating: a The one after the first in a succession, as of monarchs or popes, bearing this name; as, George the Second; Philip the Second of Spain. b The younger in a family; — distinguished from junior in not being restricted to a son. Abbr. 2d; as, John Doe 2d.

sec'ond (sĕk'ŭnd), v.; SEC'OND·ED; SEC'OND·ING. [F. seconder, fr. L. secundare, fr. secundus. See SECOND, adj.] Transitive: 1. To follow or attend so as to assist; to act as a second of, to assist; support. "To second our attempt." Shak.
2. To encourage or reinforce; further; forward; as, deeds must second words.
3. Obs. a To succeed to the place of. b To confirm; corroborate. c To add to, follow, repeat, or match as a second.
4. Mil. To remove (an officer) temporarily from his regiment or corps, for employment on the staff, or in some appointment outside of his regiment. Eng. Oxf. E. D.
5. Parl. Practice. To support, as a motion or nomination, by adding one's voice to that of the mover or proposer, esp. as a preliminary to further debate or a vote.
—, Intrans.: To act or speak as second; to give support.
Syn. — Abet, aid, back, sustain.
Ant. — Oppose, hinder, hamper.

sec'ond (sĕk'ŭnd; -ŭnt), adv. Secondly; in second place, rank, etc.; as, to come in second.

Second Adam, Second Man. Theol. Christ. 1 Cor. xv. 45, 47.

Second Advent. Theol. The second coming of Christ, expected by many Christians, to judge both the living and the resurrected dead.

Second Adventist. See ADVENTIST.

sec'ond·ar, sec'ond·er (sĕk'ŭn·dĕr), n. At St. Andrews University, a student of the second social rank. Hist.

sec'ond·ar'i·ly (sĕk'ŭn·dĕr'ĭ·lĭ or, esp. Brit., -dĕr·ĭ·lĭ; emphat. also, -där'ĭ·lĭ), adv.
1. Secondly; for a second time; again. Obs.
2. Not immediately or directly; through intermediate agents, causes, or the like; as, it is only secondarily the result of the use.
3. In a secondary place, manner, degree, sense, etc.; as, a society that is secondarily political.

sec'ond·ar'y (sĕk'ŭn·dĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -dĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. secundarius. See SECOND, adj.] 1. Next below the first in importance; of second place or class; hence, loosely, below the first; subordinate or inferior.
Wheresoever there is moral right on the one hand, no secondary right can discharge it. L'Estrange.
2. Immediately derived from or dependent on that which is original or primary; as, a secondary cause or authority.
3. Obs. a Of the second or a lower grade. b In rank or authority next below the chief; subordinate.
4. That is used to second or is resorted to in the second place; auxiliary; as, secondary bases.
5. Pertaining to the second order or stage of a series; as, a secondary color or axis.
6. Second-rate.
7. Biol. Pert. to or derived from a second stage.
8. Bot. Produced by the activity of formative tissue other than that at the growing point; developed subsequently.
9. Chem. Characterized by replacement in the second degree; resulting from the substitution of two atoms or groups; as, a secondary salt, etc. Cf. PRIMARY, adj., 5; TERTIARY, adj., 2. Specif., designating or characterized by a carbon atom which is united by two valences to chain or ring members; as, secondary butyl, $CH_3CH_2CH(CH_3)$-.
10. Educ. Intermediate between elementary and collegiate.
11. a Elec. In an induction coil or transformer, pertaining to or designating the induced current or its circuit; as, the secondary coil; secondary winding. See INDUCTION, 6. b Low-tension.
12. Geol. a [cap.] Mesozoic. b Formed subsequently to and often at the expense of, some earlier deposited material; — said particularly of minerals or ores that have resulted from the action of atmospheric agencies or downward moving water upon minerals or ores of an earlier generation; epigene; supergene.
13. Gram. a Expressive of past fact; as, the secondary tenses. In Greek grammar the imperfect, aorist, and pluperfect indicative, and in Latin the imperfect, historical perfect, and pluperfect are called the secondary (or historic) tenses, as distinguished from the present, perfect (Latin present perfect), future, and future perfect, called the primary (or principal) tenses. b Doing duty as the part of speech named, although functioning normally as another part of speech; as, a secondary conjunction (whither, normally an adverb). c Formed from another part of speech; as, a secondary adverb (brightly, from bright). d See PRIMARY, adj., 9 d.
14. Med. a Dependent or consequent on another disease; as, Bright's disease is often secondary to scarlet fever. b Occurring or being in the second stage; as, secondary symptoms of syphilis. c Occurring some time after the original injury; as, a secondary hemorrhage. d Surg. Performed after a similar operation; as, a secondary amputation.
15. Metal. Produced by a second process, not directly from ore; — said of metals obtained by treatment of old metal and alloys, sweepings, drosses, and the like.
16. Mineral. & Petrog. Subsequent in origin; — said of rocks or minerals derived from other rocks or minerals, or of minerals deposited in a previously formed rock, or of characters (as cleavage, etc.), developed by pressure or other causes.
17. Nat. Philos. a Obs. exc. Hist. Derivative from primary qualities. b See QUALITY, n., 13 b.
18. Phonet. = LAX, adj., 5.
19. Zool. Designating, or pert. to, the second joint of the wing (the forearm) of a bird, or its quills. See BIRD.
Syn. — Second, second-rate, subordinate, inferior.
☞ For many phrases beginning with secondary, see the principal word.

seb'or·rhoe'ic (sĕb'ō·rō'ĭk). Var. of SEBORRHEIC.

sec'a·bil'i·ty (sĕk'ȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [LL. secabilitas.] = DIVISIBILITY. Rare.

sec'a·ble (sĕk'ȧ·b'l), adj. [LL. secabilis.] = DIVISIBLE, adj. Rare.

Se·ca'cah (sē·kā'kȧ; sĕk'ȧ·kä). Bib.

secale cornutum. [NL.] = ERGOT, 2.

Sec'chi's types (sĕk'ēz). [After Angelo Secchi, It. astronomer.] Astrophysics. See STAR, n., 1.

Secession Church. See SECESSION, 2 c; PRESBYTERIAN, adj.

se·ces'sion·er, n. = SECESSIONIST, n.

se·ces'sive, adj. [L. secessus, past part.] Set apart; isolated; private. Obs.

sech (sĕk·h), n. [secant + -h.] Math. See HYPERBOLIC FUNCTIONS.

sech (sĕch). Dial. var. of SUCH.

Sech'e·ni'as (sĕk'ē·nī'ȧs). Bib.

Sech'et (sĕk'ĕt). Var. of SEKHET.

Se'chi·a (sē'kĭ·ȧ). D. Bib.

Se·chro'na (sē·krō'nȧ). D. Bib.

Se'chu (sē'kū). Bib.

se'cle, n. [L. saeculum, saeclum, cf. F. siècle. See SECULAR.] A century; also, a cycle. Obs.

se·cluse'ness, n. Secludedness. Obs.

se·clu'siv. Seclusive. Ref. Sp.

sec'ohm' (sĕk'ōm'), n. [second (of time) + ohm.] Elec. = 2d RENRY.

sec'ond·ar'i·ness (sĕk'ŭn·d'r·ĭ·nĭs; -dĕr·ĭ-; -nĭs; 119), n. See -NESS.

secondarly. † SECONDARILY.

sec'ond·ar'y (sĕk'ŭn·dĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -dĕr·ĭ), n. 1. One not a principal; one in a subordinate or auxiliary position; specif.: a A delegate or deputy. b An officer of the corporation of the City of London.
2. Something not primary, original, or fundamental.
3. Amer. Football. A player in a secondary line of defense as distinguished from a forward.
4. Astron. a A secondary circle. b A satellite.
5. Elec. A secondary circuit or coil.
6. Meteorol. a A cyclone of relatively small extent, but often intense, within the outer isobars of an older and larger storm. b A small area of low barometric pressure associated with a larger or primary one.
7. Zool. a Any of the quill feathers arising from the forearm of a bird. See BIRD, Illust. b One of the hind wings of an insect, esp. of a butterfly or moth. c One of the tubercles on the test of a sea urchin, which is noticeably larger than a miliary tubercle, but much smaller than a primary; also, a spine borne by such a tubercle.

secondary accent. 1. Music. In compound measures, an accent other than that on the first beat, as on the third beat in ♩, and on the fourth in ♩ time.
2. Phonet. A stress next weaker than the strongest in the same word; the mark (ˊ in this Dictionary) to indicate this; as in horse'shoe', reg'ulate', re'habil'ita'tion; also, any subordinate word stress. Cf. PRIMARY ACCENT, 1; see Pron. §§ 60–68.
secondary alcohol. Chem. An alcohol characterized by the group > CHOH, which forms part of a chain or ring. On oxidation the secondary alcohols yield ketones. secondary amine. Chem. See AMINE. secondary amputation. See AMPUTATION. secondary attack. Mil. See ENVELOPMENT, 2. secondary axis. Optics. Any line through the center of a thin lens or through the center of curvature of a concave or convex mirror, other than the principal axis of the lens or mirror.
secondary battery. a Elec. A storage battery. b Nav. The guns of lesser caliber in a man-of-war having more than one caliber of guns, exclusive of antiaircraft guns. — sec'ond·ar'y-bat'ter·y, adj.
secondary boycott. The boycott of (A) by an organized group (B) to compel a third party (C) to do, or abstain from doing, a thing for which A has no direct responsibility.
secondary bud. Bot. An accessory bud.
Secondary Canon of Pauline Epistles. See NEW TESTAMENT. secondary capitulum. Bot. One of the three to six small cells surmounting each of the head cells, or capitula, in the antheridium of Characeae. secondary cell. Elec. A cell that converts chemical energy into electrical energy by reversible chemical reactions. It may be recharged by passing a current through it in the opposite direction of that of their discharge; — called also storage cell. Cf. PRIMARY CELL; IRON-NICKEL ALKALINE CELL; LEAD-LEAD (ACID) CELL.
secondary chord or triad. Music. Any chord not based on the tonic, dominant, or subdominant of the key.
secondary circle. Geom. & Astron. A great circle through the poles of another great circle and therefore perpendicular to its plane. secondary color. A color formed by mixing any two primary colors in equal or equivalent quantities. See COLOR, n., 1. secondary conveyance. Law. See CONVEYANCE, 4 (1). secondary coverts. Zool. See COVERT, n., 6; BIRD, Illust. secondary degeneration. Med. Degeneration following upon and due to a primary injury; specif., Wallerian degeneration. secondary discount. See CHAIN DISCOUNT. secondary enrichment. Geol. = ENRICHMENT, 2. secondary evidence. Law. Evidence admitted upon failure to obtain the primary, or best, evidence.
secondary fever. Med. A fever coming on after the subsidence of the initial fever, as that at the outbreak of the pustules in smallpox. secondary foci. See FOCUS, n., 6. secondary growth. Bot. Growth by the activity of the cambium, resulting in increase in diameter and responsible for the bulk of the plant body, supplying protective and conducting tissues; — disting. from primary growth.
secondary hemorrhage. Med. Hemorrhage occurring from a wounded blood vessel, as from an injury or operation, some time after the original bleeding has ceased. secondary host. See 3d HOST, 3. secondary linkage. See LINKAGE, n., 6. secondary meristem. See MERISTEM. secondary object. Gram. See OBJECT, n., 6 a. secondary parasite. Biol. See PARASITE, n., 3. secondary phosphate. See PHOSPHORIC ACID, 1. secondary planet. Astron. A satellite. See PLANET, n., 1. secondary quality. See QUALITY, n., 13 b. secondary rays. Physics. Rays emitted by molecules or atoms as the result of the incidence of a primary radiation and of the same general nature as the latter, as secondary X rays, or secondary beta rays. secondary right. Law. See 3d RIGHT, n., 2 b. secondary rocks. See PRIMARY ROCKS. Now Rare.
secondary roots. Bot. a The lateral branches of the primary root or roots. b Adventitious roots. secondary school. A school providing secondary education, as an American high school, an English public school, a French lycée, and a German Gymnasium or Realschule. — sec'ond·ar'y-school' (66), adj.
secondary seventh. Music. A seventh chord based on some other tone than the dominant of the key.
secondary sex character. Biol. A character other than the sex organs which distinguishes sex, as the antlers of the male deer, the spurs and comb of the cock, etc.
secondary spermatocyte. See SPERMATOCYTE. secondary spore. Bot. A sporidium. secondary syphilis. See SYPHILIS. secondary tint. Paint. Any tint, as gray, made by the mixing of the primary hues and not having strong coloration.
secondary triad. = SECONDARY CHORD. secondary twinning. See TWINNING. secondary tympanic membrane. Anat. A membrane closing the fenestra cochleae and separating the scala tympani from the middle ear.
secondary union. Surg. The union of wounds after suppuration; union by the second intention.
secondary use. Law. See SHIFTING USE. secondary wood. Bot. Wood formed by the cambium in dicotyledonous stems.

second base, second baseman. See BASEBALL. second bass. The lower bass. second best. One who or that which is second in order of rank, quality, desirability, fitness, aptitude, condition, etc.; as, he was the second best in his class in mathematics; he led his second best in spades; sometimes, with derogatory implication, an inferior in rank, quality, etc.; a mediocrity. — sec'ond-best' (66), adj.

Democracy prefers second bests always. G. B. Shaw.

second birth. a = REGENERATION, 6. b Obs. = AFTERBIRTH. second board. Exchanges. The second call on exchanges where there are calls of securities or grain, cotton, etc.
second brass. Numis. The dupondius of Imperial Rome. second breath. = SECOND WIND.
second cause. A cause caused by something else; Theol., a cause through which God works, God being the first cause.
Second Chamber. See LEGISLATURE, Netherlands.
second change. See SOAP, n., 1. second childhood. State or time of dotage.
sec'ond-class' (66), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a class next below the first, as in a school, an examination, a train or ship, the postal service, etc.; as, second-class honors.
2. Second-best; mediocre; second-rate. sec'ond-class', adv. By a second-class conveyance; with second-class accommodations, etc.; as, they traveled second-class.
second-class mail. See 6th MAIL, 3. second-class scout. See BOY SCOUT. second coherence. See COHERENCE, 6.
Second Coming. Theol. = SECOND ADVENT.
Second Corinthians. See NEW TESTAMENT. second cousin. See COUSIN, n., 2. second curvature. Math. Torsion.
Second day. Monday; — so called by the Friends.
second death. Theol. Condemnation to eternal separation from God; the punishment or destruction of the souls of the lost after bodily death. Rev. xxi. 8. sec'ond-de·gree' (66), adj. Of a degree next to the first; as, convicted of second-degree murder; a second-degree equation. — second degree.
second derivative. Math. See DERIVATIVE, n., 4. second differential. Math. a Of a function $f(x)$, the expression $\frac{1}{2!}\frac{d^2f}{dx^2}(dx)^2$. b Of a function of several variables $f(x, y, \ldots)$, the expression $\frac{1}{2!}\left(\frac{\partial f}{\partial x}dx+\frac{\partial f}{\partial y}dy+\ldots\right)^2$ where after squaring $\left(\frac{\partial f}{\partial x}\right)^2$ is to be replaced by $\frac{\partial^2 f}{\partial x^2}\frac{\partial f}{\partial x}\frac{\partial f}{\partial y}$ by $\frac{\partial^2 f}{\partial x \partial y}$; and so on.
second distance. Art. = MIDDLE DISTANCE a. Rare.
second dogwatch. See WATCH, n., 15. second double corner. See CHECKERS, n.
Second Dragoons. See SCOTS GREYS. se·conde' (sĕ·kŏnd'; F. sĕ·gôndʹ), n. [F., fr. second second.] Fencing. A position in parrying. See Cit.

Lunge, and Parry in Seconde.

Seconde: The hand opposite the right hip (slightly higher), the finger nails turned downwards, the arm straight without stiffness, the point very little lower than the hand. Encyc. of Sport.

Second Empire. 1. The French empire (1852–70) under Napoleon III.
2. See EMPIRE, adj., 2.
Second Epistle. See 2d CLEMENTINE c. sec'ond·er (sĕk'ŭn·dĕr), n. 1. One who seconds or supports what another attempts, affirms, moves, or proposes.
2. One in second place or rank; a secondary. Local, Eng.
Second Esdras. See ESDRAS.
second estate. a In England, orig. the barons and knights, later the lords temporal. b In the kingdom of Scotland, orig. the tenants in chief, after 1428 the commissioners of shires. c In the kingdom of France, the nobles and the clergy.
sec'ond-feet', n. pl. Cubic feet per second. second fiddle. In phrase, to be, or play, second fiddle. A subordinate, a substitute, or a second choice; also the status of such; — from the secondary or subordinate part played in orchestral music by the second violin.
sec'ond-first' (66), adj. Eccl. Designating the Sabbath second between Passover and Pentecost and first after the beginning of the Paschal week; — translating deuterprōtos in the received Greek text of Luke vi. 1. second floor. See SECOND STORY. — sec'ond-floor' (66), adj.
second fluxion. Math. The second derivative as to the time; — denoted by two dots above.
sec'ond-foot', n. A unit of flow, used esp. in connection with the flow of streams, equal to one cubic foot per second.
second growth. 1. A growth developing after another growth, or on land devoted primarily to some other crop; specif., forest trees, collectively, that come up naturally after removal of the first growth, as by cutting or by fire.
2. In potatoes, a resumption of growth resulting in branched and knobby tubers.
— sec'ond-growth' (66), adj.
sec'ond-hand' (sĕk'ŭnd·hănd'; 66), adj. 1. Not original or primary; received from or through another; derived; borrowed; as secondhand knowledge, impressions, or ideas.
2. Used or worn previously; not new or fresh; as, secondhand books or clothes; hence, pertaining to, or dealing in, such merchandise; as, a secondhand store.
sec'ond-hand', adv. At second hand; as, something viewed secondhand.
second hand. a An intermediate person or means; one not directly concerned with an affair; — now obsolete except in at second hand, indirectly or through an intermediary. b An assistant foreman, esp. in textile industries. c An assistant hand, or manual laborer; a helper. d Usually sec'ond-hand'. That which is secondhand; secondhand material, clothing, furniture, etc. e At bridge, the second player on any trick. f The hand marking seconds on a timepiece.
Second Helvetian Confession. See CALVINISM; Helvetic Confession, under CONFESSION, 7. sec'ond-in-com·mand', n. The person ranking next to the head; in the military and naval service, the officer ranking next below the commanding officer.
second intention. a See INTENTION, n., 7 & 8. b That connoted by a word; hence, the use of words with regard to their connotations and literary associations.
Second International. See INTERNATIONAL, n., 2 h. second inversion. Music. A chord with its fifth in the bass. See TRIAD, n., 5.
Second Isaiah. = DEUTERO-ISAIAH.
second joint. The thigh segment of a fowl's leg; — a carving term. second Lautverschiebung. See GRIMM'S LAW.
second lieutenant. Mil. A commissioned officer ranking next below a first lieutenant. See LIEUTENANT, 2; cf. ENSIGN, 4. sec'ond·ly (sĕk'ŭnd·lĭ), adv. a Obs. For a second time. b In the second place, as in a series of topics.
Second Man. See SECOND ADAM.
second mean line. Opt. Mineral. See BISECTRIX. second mortgage. A mortgage the lien of which is subordinate to that of a prior mortgage.
Second Mrs. Tan'que·ray, The (tăng'kĕ·rā). A play (1893) by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. Paula Tanqueray is a woman of loose life who marries with sincere love and a longing for respectable life, but cannot rise above the degrading effects of her past. second nature. One's nature, or character, as acquired rather than innate; as, discipline that gives one a second nature; hence, fixed, ingrained habit or habits; as, vices that have become second nature to him.
second nerves. Anat. The optic (second cranial) nerves. second number. See LLOYD'S NUMBERS.
‖se·con'do (sā·kŏn'dō), n.; pl. -DI (-dē). [It.] Music. The second part in a concerted piece, esp. the lower part in a pianoforte duet, or its performer. second of exchange. See EXCHANGE, n., 7 a. second officer. See OFFICER, 3 b. sec'ond-or'der re·ac'tion. Physical Chem. See REACTION, 6. second person. Gram. See PERSON, n., 7.
Second Person (of the Trinity). Theol. The Son. See PERSON, n., 9 a. second Pherecratic. See PHERECRATIC. second platform. See DECK, n., 2 b. second position. Music. See SHIFT, n., 17 a.
Second Prayer Book. See BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER. sec'ond-rate' (66), adj. Of second, or inferior, quality, value, etc.; mediocre; lacking excellence. — n. A second-rate thing or person. — sec'ond-rate'ness, n.
sec'ond-rat'er (-rāt'ĕr), n. A second-rate person or thing.
second reading. Parl. Practice. See REPORT STAGE, READING OF A BILL.
Second Republic. The French republic of 1848–52. second self. A thoroughly congenial trusted friend; an alter ego.
second service. Ch. of Eng. The Communion service; — so called because it follows Morning Prayer.
second sheet. a A sheet of writing paper without a letterhead used for the second, and subsequent, pages of a letter. b A sheet of cheap manifold paper.
second sight. 1. The power of discerning what is not visible; a capacity for seeing visions, foreseeing future events, or the like; as, the gift of second sight.
2. Ophthal. Myopia caused by swelling of the lens in incipient cataract. sec'ond-sight'ed (66), adj. Having second sight. — sec'ond-sight'ed·ness, n.
second slip. See 3d SLIP, 16; 2d CRICKET, Illust.
Second Source. = Q, 4. sec'onds pen'du·lum (sĕk'ŭndz; 111). A pendulum requiring exactly one second for each swing. In latitude 45° at the level of the sea its length is 99.353 cm. Cf. PENDULUM, 1. second story, second floor. In the United States, the story just above the ground floor; in England and the Continent, the second story above the ground floor. — sec'ond-sto'ry, sec'ond-floor' (66), adj.
second tap. See 3d TAP, 10 a.
Second Temple. The temple built (c. 516 B.C.) to replace the Temple of Solomon, which had been destroyed (586 B.C.). second thought or thoughts. Reconsideration of a matter after coming to an impulsive decision or conclusion; the second decision.
second touch. Organ Building. The second point to which organ keys or pistons may be moved in a double-touch action. — sec'ond-touch', adj.
second twilight. = ANTITWILIGHT. second water. See DIAMOND, 1 a. second wind. Recovered full breath or power of respiration after the first exhaustion during exertion, due to improved action of the heart. Hence, recovered capacity for effort; power to continue after fatiguing exertion. Colloq.
secque (sĕk), n. [Origin unknown.] A shoe similar to the sabotine, but lighter; a clog. See SABOTINE. se'cre·cy (sē'krĕ·sĭ), n. [From SECRET.] 1. The quality or state of being secret, hidden, or concealed; the fact or state of being kept secret; as, to maintain secrecy during negotiations; to provide for the secrecy of the ballot; also, a secret manner; as, to return in secrecy.
2. The action or practice of keeping a secret; the quality of secretiveness; as, to observe the strictest secrecy.
3. Something concealed; a secret; a mystery. Now Rare.
4. Obs. a Confidence; confidential or trusted relationship. b Seclusion; privacy.
Syn. — Concealment, hiding; reticence.
Ant. — Openness, frankness. se'cret (sē'krĕt; -krĭt; 119), adj. [OF. secret, fr. L. secretus, past part. of secernere to put apart, to separate, fr. se- aside + cernere. See CERTAIN; cf. SECERN, SECRETARY, SECRETE.] 1. Kept from the knowledge of others; hidden; concealed; revealed to none or to few; — esp. in "to keep (something) secret."
2. a Faithful to a secret; not inclined to divulge confidence; reticent; secretive; close; as, secret as the grave. b Obs. Held in confidential relations; intimate.
3. Withdrawn from general intercourse or notice; in retirement or secrecy; secluded; retired.

There, secret in her sapphire cell,
He with the Naïs wont to dwell. Fenton.

‖se·con'da vol'ta. [It.] Music. See 1st VOLTA, 3. sec'ond-cut' file. See 4th FILE, 1. sec'ond-hand'ed (66), adj. = SECONDHAND. — sec'ond-hand'ed·ly, adv. — -hand'ed·ness, n. sec'ond-in-hand', n. Cards. = SECOND HAND. sec'ond·ment, n. See -MENT. sec'ond·ness, n. See -NESS. se'cos. = SEKOS. [PARESEC. sec'par' (sĕk'pär'), n. Astron. = se·cre', adj. [OF. secré.] Secret. — se·cre', adv. — se·cre'ly, adv. — se·cre'ness, n. All Obs.
se·cre', n. [OF. secré.] A secret. Also: = 2d SECRET, 7. se'cre·sy. Var. of SECRECY.

4. Hence: a Known or felt inwardly without avowal; as, secret alarm; inmost; as, in his secret soul. b Not disclosed to ordinary comprehension; recondite; occult; as, the secret workings of nature. c Esoteric. d Executed or undertaken in a manner indicating intention to conceal; as, a secret attachment, injury, negotiation. e Kept from the knowledge of the public; as, a secret treaty.
5. Concealed from view. Poetic.
6. Constructed so as to escape observation; as, a secret drawer or corridor.
7. That is or does something with concealed intent; as, a secret bride or enemy.
8. Separate; distinct. Obs.
9. Law. See CONVEYANCE, n., 4.
10. Liturgics. Low; inaudible; as, the secret prayers.
11. Mech. Designating, or pertaining to, a construction in which the method of construction is not visible or apparent from the outside; as, secret nailing, dovetailing, etc.
Syn. — Unknown, privy. — SECRET, COVERT, CLANDESTINE, SURREPTITIOUS, UNDERHAND. SECRET is the general term for that which is hidden or concealed; that is COVERT which is not open or avowed; as, "These . . . virtues are the hidden beauties of a soul, the secret graces which cannot be discovered by a mortal eye" (Spectator); "She seized a lamp . . . and hurried towards the secret passage" (Walpole); "a covert glance at her face, as he walked beside her" (Dickens); "a mischievous child, with an eye on the face of a covertly watching elder" (H. James); "How was she, who was as innocent as a child, to know what was the meaning of the covert addresses of a villain?" (Thackeray). That is CLANDESTINE which is secretly conducted, usually with evil intent; SURREPTITIOUS emphasizes the idea of stealth or craft, an implication which is heightened in UNDERHAND; as, "the clandestine, insidious, treacherous admirer of Maria Bertram" (Jane Austen); a clandestine marriage; "There he kept his surreptitious quids of tobacco, his pipe, and his small hoards" (Mary Wilkins); "Over the paling of the garden we might obtain an oblique and surreptitious view" (H. James); "He had suspected his agent of some underhand dealings" (Jane Austen); "I say all this to them as to you. . . . I will have nothing underhand" (Byron). Cf. STEALTHY, LATENT, MYSTERIOUS.
Ant. — Open, frank, evident. See MANIFEST.

se'cret (sē'krĕt; -krĭt), n. [F. secret (cf. Pr. secret, Sp. & Pg. secreto, It. secreto, segreto), fr. L. secretum. See SECRET, adj.] 1. A fact, matter, or purpose kept from the knowledge of others or disclosed confidentially to but one or few; as, the secrets of the confessional; a thing kept from general knowledge; what is not, or is not to be, revealed.
2. a A thing not discovered, or not explained; a mystery.
> All secrets of the deep, all nature's works. Milton.

b In art or industry, a device or fact concealed from general knowledge; as, a trade secret c Archaic. A remedial specific.
3. Secrecy. Rare except in in secret (see below).
4. The key to the solution or explanation of something difficult, mysterious, puzzling, or the like; hidden cause or explanation; — with of; as, the secret of his success.
5. Obs. A secret place.
6. Armor. a A privy coat. b A steel skullcap worn with the camail.
7. Liturgics. A silent prayer; specif. [cap.], in the Roman rite prayers said in a low or inaudible voice by the celebrant just before the Preface in the Mass.
— in secret. In a private place; in privacy or secrecy.

se'cret (sē'krĕt; -krĭt), v. t. To secrete. Obs.

se'cret, adv. Secretly. Now Poetic.

se·cre'ta (sē·krē'tȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Physiol. Products of secretion.

‖se·cre'ta (sē·krē'tȧ), n.; pl. SECRETAE (-tē). [ML. See SECRET, adj.] Liturgics. = 2d SECRET, 7.

se'cret·age (sē'krē·tĭj; -krĭ·tĭj), n. [F. secrétage.] Furriery. The process of carroting.

secret agent. A secret-service agent.

se·cre'ta·gogue (sē·krē'tȧ·gŏg; 185), -to·gogue (-tō·gŏg), n. [See -AGOGUE.] Physiol. A substance stimulating secretion, as of the stomach or pancreas.

‖se·cré'taire' (sē·krā'târ'), n. [F.] A secretary.

sec're·tar (sĕk'rē·tĕr), n. A secretary. Scot.

sec're·tar'i·al (sĕk'rē·târ'ĭ·ȧl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or befitting, a secretary or secretaries.

sec're·tar'i·an (-ăn), adj. Secretarial. Rare.

sec're·tar'i·at (-ăt), n. [F. secrétariat.] 1. The office of a secretary.
2. a The entire body of secretaries in an office; the secretarial force and assistants of a secretary-general. b The place where a secretary transacts business, keeps records, etc.; also, a department headed by a governmental secretary.
3. [cap.] The permanent organ of the League of Nations, comprising the Secretary-General, with officials and secretaries appointed by him from among citizens of all member states of the League and from the United States.
4. In the Indian government, a central administrative office or bureau.

sec're·tar'i·ate (-ĭt), n. A secretariat.

secretariate of state. a The secretariat of the state department, as of a government. b [cap.] See ROMAN CURIA.

sec're·tar'y (sĕk'rē·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -TARIES (-ĭz). [ML. secretarius, orig., a confidant, one entrusted with secrets, fr. L. secretum a secret. See SECRET, adj. & n.] 1. One entrusted with secrets, the understanding of mysteries, or the like; esp., one in another's confidence; a confidant. Obs.
2. A confidential clerk, esp. one who attends to correspondence, records, etc., of a private or confidential character; as, the Treasurer's secretary; hence, in an organization, one having oversight of, or responsibility for, the correspondence, records, etc., of the organization or its directorate; as, the secretary of a corporation.
3. An officer of state whose business is to superintend and manage the affairs of a particular department of government, and who is usually a member of the cabinet or advisory council of the chief executive; as, in the United States, the Secretary of State, of Labor, etc. (see DEPARTMENT, 4); in Great Britain, the Secretary of State for India, for War, etc., or the Secretary for Scotland. See PRECEDENCE. See Forms of Address, in Appendix.

Secretary, 18th cent., with broken pediment top and bombé base.

4. One who writes, esp. that dictated by another; an amanuensis. "Him, secretary of thy praise." G. Herbert.
5. A writing desk; an escritoire; specif., such a desk with a top section for books (called also secretary bookcase).
6. Short for SECRETARY BIRD.

sec're·tar'y (sĕk'rē·tĕr'ĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Of, or characteristic of, a secretary; specif., designating a style of handwriting used in engrossing, etc., or a type imitating this; — chiefly in secretary hand, secretary type.

sec're·tar'y-at-war', n. Also Secretary at War. Formerly, before 1855, the representative of the army in Parliament. Eng.

secretary bird. [From its crest, which suggests a bunch of pens stuck behind the ear.] A large long-legged raptorial bird (Sagittarius serpentarius) of Africa (chiefly South Africa). It has a powerful hooked beak, a crest of long feathers, and a long tail. Its general color is blue-gray, with black wing quills, thighs, abdomen, and bars on the tail. It feeds largely upon reptiles, and is often tamed to rid premises of them.

Secretary Bird. (1/25)

secretary bookcase. = SECRETARY, 5.

sec're·tar'y-gen'er·al, n.; pl. SECRETARIES-GENERAL. A chief or superior secretary.

secretary hand. See SECRETARY, adj.

secretary of briefs. An official of the papal court. Cf. APOSTOLIC BRIEF.

secretary of embassy or of legation. An official ranking next to a diplomatic agent; in the American service, one of the Foreign Service officers, forming with consuls general the higher classes. When assigned as a law officer he is called counselor of embassy or of legation.

secretary of nature. A philosopher. Obs.

Secretary of State. An official having charge of some department of business of state. In Great Britain there are seven Secretaries of State, viz., for foreign affairs, for home affairs, for the colonies, for the dominions, for war, for India, and for air. In the United States national government the term is restricted to the cabinet officer at the head of the Department of State, which has charge of all foreign relations. The Federal Secretary of State in the United States and the seven principal Secretaries of State in England are now primarily executive heads of departments. The Secretaries of State in States of the United States have as their chief duty the making and keeping of records. See PRECEDENCE; Forms of Address, in Appendix.

sec're·tar'y·ship (sĕk'rē·tĕr'ĭ·shĭp; -tĕr·ĭ-), n. The duties, office, or post of a secretary.

sec're·tar'y-treas'ur·er, n. An officer of an organization or society, whose duties combine those of a secretary and a treasurer; specif., the clerk of a town or city in certain Canadian provinces.

secretary type. See SECRETARY, adj.

secret caucus. See CAUCUS, n., 3 a. secret conveyance. Law. See CONVEYANCE, 4.

se·crete' (sē·krēt'), v. t.; -CRET'ED (-krēt'ĕd; -Id; 119); -CRET'ING (-krēt'ĭng). [L. secretus separated, secret, hidden, past part. of secernere. See SECRET; cf. DISCRETE, DISCREET.] 1. To keep secret or hidden; esp., to deposit in a place of hiding; to conceal; as, to secrete stolen goods.
2. To appropriate (another's possessions) secretly.
3. Furriery. = CARROT, v. t.
4. Physiol. & Biol. To separate, elaborate, and emit as a secretion. See SECRETION, 3.
Syn. — See HIDE.

se'cret-false' (66), adj. Secretly faithless. Rare.

se·cre'tin (sē·krē'tĭn), n. Biochem. A hormone found in the mucous membrane of the intestine, capable of stimulating the pancreas to secrete its juice. It is said to be formed from a precursor, prosecretin.

secret ink. Sympathetic ink.

se·cre'tion (sē·krē'shŭn), n. [F. sécrétion, fr. L. secretio.]
1. A secreting or concealing; as, the secretion of goods.
2. Philol. The assigning, by metanalysis, of grammatical function to an integral part of a word (ozen, where -en of the stem has become a plural ending). Cf. 2d CLIPPING, 3.
3. Physiol. & Biol. a Act or process of secreting. b That which is secreted; material separated, elaborated, and discharged by a cell or cells, esp. (in animals) by the epithelial cells of glands (see 2d GLAND). A secretion is usually significant for some special function, as saliva, but may consist of waste matter, as urine (cf. EXCRETION, 2). The source of secreted material is usually the blood, in animals, and the protoplasts, in plants. The process of elaboration is gradual, often resulting in the storing up of the products, or of some intermediate compound (cf. ZYMOGEN). The cell wall in plants is often regarded as a secretory product.

se·cre'tion·al (-ăl; -ĭ), adj. Secretory. Shak.

se·cre'tion·ar'y (-ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ēr·ĭ), adj. Of or pertaining to secretion; formed by secretion.

se'cre·tĭ'tious (sē'krē·tĭsh'ŭs), adj. Produced by secretion. Rare.

se·cre'tive (sē·krē'tĭv), adj. 1. Disposed to keep secrets or to make secrets, esp. of one's own concerns; not frank; extremely reticent; as, a secretive nature.
2. Manifesting secretiveness; as, a secretive mouth.
3. Physiol. & Biol. Secretory.
— se·cre'tive·ly, adv. — se·cre'tive·ness, n.

se'cret·ly (sē'krĕt·lĭ; sē'krĭt-), adv. of SECRET, adj. Specif.: a In secret; not openly. b Obs. Allegorically. c In secrecy or retirement. Shak. d Inaudibly, as prayers.

secret mark. Philately. Any of a number of minute markings introduced for identification purposes by the engraver in making dies of stamps; esp., any of the marks placed on the United States stamps of 1873.

se'cret·mon'ger (sē'krĕt·mŭng'gĕr; sē'krĭt-), n. See -MONGER.

se'cret·ness, n. See -NESS.

se·cre'to (sē·krē'tō), adv. [L.] Liturgics. Secretly.

se·cre'to- (sē·krē'tō-). A combining form for secretion, as in secretomotor.

se·cre'to·gogue (sē·krē'tō·gŏg; 185). Var. of SECRETAGOGUE.

se·cre'to-in·hib'i·to'ry, adj. Physiol. Checking secretion.

se·cre'to·mo'tor (sē·krē'tō·mō'tĕr), adj. [secreto- + motor.] Physiol. Promoting secretion; specif., designating nerves, the stimulation of which leads to secretion.

se·cre'tor (sē·krē'tĕr), n. One who or that which secretes.

secret order. = SECRET SOCIETY.

se·cre'to·ry (sē·krē'tō·rĭ), adj. [Cf. F. sécrétoire. See SECRETE.] Physiol. Secreting; connected with, or promoting, secretion. — n. A secretory organ or gland.

secret partner. See PARTNER, 5.

secret parts. = PRIVATE, n., 2.

secret reserve. Accounting. A reserve concealed by accounting methods, profits earned being hidden by undervaluation of assets. Cf. 2d RESERVE, 7.

secret service. a Eng. A secret political work, for the expense of which no account is given to Parliament. b The detective service of a government. In the U. S. it is a division under the Treasury Department, chiefly charged with the suppression of counterfeiting, the protection of the President, investigations of tax-law and loan-law violations. k also aids other government departments in personnel and espionage investigations, etc.

secret society. A society having a secret ritual, oath, sign of recognition, or the like. See FRATERNITY.

Secrets of Enoch. See PSEUDEPIGRAPHA.

se·cre'tum (sē·krē'tŭm), n.; pl. SECRETA (-tȧ). [ML.] A private seal.

sect (sĕkt), n. [F. secte, fr. L. secta, fr. sequi to follow; often confused with L. secare sectum, to cut. See SUE; cf. SEPT, SUIT.] 1. Obs. A class, order, or kind of men. Specif.: a A religious order. b Sex; — now found in vulgar use.
2. Apparel of a class; also, human likeness. Langland.
3. A group having in common a leader or a distinctive doctrine or way of thinking. Specif.: a A following; a train. b A school of philosophy or of philosophic opinion. "The sect Epicurean." Milton. c A group holding similar political, economic, or other views; a party; sometimes, an opinionated faction.
> Sworn to no master, of no sect am I. Pope.
> Socialism is rather a sect than a party. Lilly.

4. In religion, the believers in a particular creed, or upholders of a particular practice; esp., now, a party dissenting from an established church; a religious denomination; a separate religious organization. Historically, a sect differs from a religion in that it differs from other sects of the same religion in its interpretation or application of what is recognized by all as the same revelation, while different religions differ as to what is to be taken as revelation.
5. One of the organized bodies of Christians; a denomination; as, too many sects; open to all sects.
> A value for religion's self,
> A carelessness about the sects of it. Browning.

6. In philosophy, the disciples of a master; a school.

sect (sĕkt), n. [L. secare, sectum, to cut.] 1. A cion. Rare.
2. A section; a part; as, divided into sects.

-sect (-sĕkt), -sect'ed (-sĕk'tĕd; -tĭd; 119). [L. secare, sectum, to cut. See SECTION.] Suffixes used to signify cut, divided, as in bi*sected*, multi*sect*, vivi*sect.*

sec·tar'i·al (sĕk·târ'ĭ·ȧl), adj. Sectarian.

sec·tar'i·an (-ăn), adj. 1. Orig., of or pertaining to a sectary or sectaries; as, sectarian preacher or tracts; now, usually, of or pertaining to a sect or sects, esp. of a religious character; as, sectarian differences or schools.
2. Denominational in character or interests, esp. narrowly so; characterized by bigotry; as, a sectarian mind.
Syn. — See HERETIC.
— sec·tar'i·an·ly, adv.

sec·tar'i·an, n. 1. [often cap.] A sectary; a dissenter. Hist.
2. One of a specified or implied sect, esp. of a religious sect.
3. One limited to denominational or partisan interests; a narrow or bigoted denominationalist. The term was first used of the Independents (by the Presbyterians) and somewhat later of the Nonconformists (by the Anglicans).

sec·tar'i·an·ism (-Iz'm), n. Sectarian spirit or beliefs; exclusive or narrow-minded attachment to a sect, denomination, party, school, or the like; as, philosophical sectarianism; freedom from sectarianism.

sec·tar'i·an·ize (-Iz), v. t.; -IZED (-Izd); -IZ'ING (-Iz'ĭng). To imbue with sectarian principles or feelings; to subject to the control of a sect; as, sectarianized colleges. — v. i. To act as sectarians; to become divided into sects.

sec'ta·rism (sĕk'tȧ·rĭz'm), n. a = SECTARIANISM. b A sect. Jefferson.

sec'ta·rist (-rĭst), n. A sectary. Now Rare.

sec'ta·ry (sĕk'tȧ·rĭ), n. [F. sectaire, or ML. sectarius. See SECT.] 1. An adherent, esp. a zealous adherent, of a sect; as, religious or political sectaries.
2. [often cap.] A dissenter from the established church; specif., a Protestant nonconformist, esp. an Independent.
> My lord, my lord, you are a sectary, > That's the plain truth. Shak.

3. A zealous follower, disciple, or partisan. Now Rare.
4. Obs. a A sect. b A votary.
5. Specif.: [cap.] Mohammedanism. A Shiite.

sec'ta·ry, adj. Sectarian.

sec·ta'tor (sĕk·tā'tĕr), n. [L., fr. sectari, v. intens. fr. sequi to follow.] A follower; a disciple. Archaic

-sect'ed (-sĕk'tĕd; -tĭd· 119). See -SECT.

sec'tile (sĕk'tĭl; 155), adj. [F., fr. L. sectilis, fr. secare, sectum, to cut. See SECTION.] 1. Capable of being cut; specif.: a Mineral. Capable of being severed by the knife with a smooth cut, but yet pulverizable; — disting. from brittle and malleable. b Bot. Cut into small divisions.
2. Designating a type of mosaic formed of relatively large pieces of marble, shaped to fit one another.

sec·til'i·ty (sĕk·tĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. The property or condition of being sectile.

sec'tion (sĕk'shŭn), n. [F. or L.; F. section, fr. L. sectio, fr. secare, sectum, to cut. See 2d SAW; cf. DISSECT, INSECT, SECANT, SEGMENT, SEX.] 1. a Act or instance of cutting; separation by cutting; as, the section of bodies. b A part separated, or so conceived of; a division; portion; slice.
2. A distinct part or portion of a writing; usually, a subdivision of a chapter; also, a division of a law; a paragraph.
3. The description or representation of anything as it would appear if cut through by any intersecting plane; depiction of what is beyond a plane passing, or supposed to pass, through an object; profile. In mechanical drawing, as in these illustrations of a cannon, a longitudinal section (a) usually represents the object as cut through its center lengthwise and vertically; a cross, or transverse, section (b), as cut crosswise and vertically; and a horizontal section (c), as cut through its center horizontally. Oblique sections are made at various angles. In architecture, a vertical section is a drawing showing the interior, the thickness of the walls, etc., as if made on a vertical plane passed through a building.

Section, 3.

4. a A distinct part of a country or people, community, class, or the like; a part of a territory separated by geographical lines, or of a people, considered as distinct. b U. S. Region. c One of the portions, of one square mile each (640 acres), into which the public lands of the United States are divided; one thirty-sixth part of a township. See QUARTER SECTION, 2; MEASURE, Table.
5. One of several componentlike parts that may be assembled or reassembled, as of a bookcase.
6. Beekeeping. One of the frames, about four inches square, placed in a hive for the bees to build their surplus honeycombs in. A filled section weighs about a pound.
7. Biol. A natural subdivision of a classificatory group, esp. of a genus, but often of a family or other group. It does not imply a fixed rank.

8. Bookbinding. A signature (sense 9 c).
9. Educ. One of the classes formed by dividing a group taking a particular course; as, ten sections of English I.
10. Fort. A profile on a plane perpendicular to the plane of the principal line or trace.
11. Geol. An exposed surface revealing successive strata.
12. Math. a The plane figure resulting from the cutting of a solid by a plane; also, its area. b The assemblage of all the elements common to two assemblages; as, the section of two plane curves (a set of discrete points, in general), of two surfaces, etc. c Any cut made through a plane from a branch point of an algebraic function to infinity and crossing neither itself nor any other such section. d A separation of all rational numbers into two classes L and R such that every member of the L class is less than every member of the R class. e Obs. A segment of a circle.
13. Micros. A very thin slice. Cf. MICROTOME, n.
14. Mil. & Nav. A subdivision of a tactical unit or part of a unit; Mil., a unit ordinarily composed basically of a headquarters and two or more squads. Sections are normally led by sergeants and are combined to form a platoon.
15. Music. a A subdivision of a period (sense 13).

> A tone succession which, extending beyond the limits of one measure, renders the meter recognizable by the ear, is called . . . specifically a section, when its usual extent is that of two measures. The section, in this sense, constitutes the fundamental element of our classical instrumental forms. J. H. Cornell.

b = GROUP, 11 b.
16. Printing. The character §, often used to mark a division or to indicate a footnote. See REFERENCE MARK.
17. Pros. A hemistich. Guest.
18. Railroads. a In a sleeping car, a division including both an upper and a lower berth or, when these are not made up, two double seats facing each other. b A portion of the permanent way under the care of a particular set of men. c One of two or more trains running on the same schedule and for which special signals are shown.
Syn. — See PART.
— in section. In the view revealed by a section (sense 3).

sec'tion (sĕk'shŭn), v. Transitive: 1. To cut or separate into sections; to make a section of.
2. To shade, as a part of a mechanical drawing, with crosshatching to indicate a section; to represent in sections.
—, Intransitive: To cut or form sections; to become separated into parts.

sec'tion·al (sĕk'shŭn·ăl; -l), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to a section; as, a sectional drawing; belonging to a distinct part of a larger body or territory; local; as, sectional prejudices, interests.
2. Consisting of, or divided into, sections; as, a sectional wire; made up of sections to be added to or reduced at will; as, a sectional hose or bookcase.
3. Like or suggesting a section; incomplete or imperfect; partial; as, a sectional view.

sec'tion·al·ism (-Iz'm), n. Devotion, esp. disproportionate, to the interests peculiar to a section of the country; sectional feeling, spirit, prejudice, etc. Chiefly U. S. — sec'tion·al·ist (-Ist), n. Chiefly U. S.

sec'tion·al·ize (-Iz), v. t.; -IZED (-Izd); -IZ'ING (-Iz'Ĭng). To make sectional: a To make in, or divide into, sections. b Chiefly U. S. To divide according to geographical sections or local interests. — sec'tion·al·i·za'tion (-I·zā'shŭn; -i·zā'shŭn), n.

sec'tion·ar'y (sĕk'shŭn·ĕr'I or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·I), adj. Sectional; partisan. — n. A partisan. Both Rare.

section bar. A bar of iron or steel rolled so as to have a definite cross section.

section boss. The foreman in charge of a section gang.

section cutter. Micros. A microtome.

section gang. Also section crew. A gang or crew of trackmen employed on a railroad section.

section hand. A laborer belonging to a section gang.

sec'tion·ize (sĕk'shŭn·Iz), v. t. To divide into, or study in, sections.

section line. Boundary line of a section (sense 4 c).

section man. A section hand.

section modulus. Engin. = MODULUS OF A SECTION.

section paper. = GRAPH PAPER. Eng.

section plane. A surface seen in section, as in cross section; also, a hypothetical plane cutting a section.

sect'ism (sĕk'tIz'm), n. Sectarianism. Rare.

sect'ist (-tIst), n. 1. A sectarian. Rare.
2. A sectary (sense 2); a separatist. Obs.

sec'tor (sĕk'tĕr), n. [LL., prop., a cutter, fr. secare, sectum, to cut. See SECTION.] 1. Geom. The figure bounded by two radii and the included arc of a circle, ellipse, or other central curve. See CIRCLE, Illust.
2. A mathematical instrument, consisting of two rulers connected at one end by a joint, and marked with several scales, as of equal parts, chords, sines, tangents, etc.
3. a An astronomical instrument the limb of which embraces only a portion of a circle, used for measuring angles too great for the compass of a micrometer. When used for measuring zenith distances of stars, it is called a zenith sector. b An arc-shaped attachment to an equatorial mounting, often used for communicating the motion of the driving clock to the polar axis.
4. Something suggestive of a sector (sense 1), esp. in shape.
5. Loosely, section; quarter.
6. Mach. A part of an apparatus whose principal kinematic lines form a sector (sense 1); as, an index sector or a sector gear.
7. Mil. A subdivision of a defensive system or position assigned to a commander as an area of responsibility. It is bounded by arbitrary lines on the sides and rear, and in front extends to the maximum range of the weapons of the garrison. See ZONE OF ACTION.

sec'tor, v. t.; -TORED (-tĕrd); -TOR·ING. To divide into, or furnish with, sectors.

sec'tor·al (sĕk'tĕr·ăl), adj. Of or pertaining to a sector.

sec'tored disk (sĕk'tĕrd). Also sector disk. Photometry. A disk with alternate opaque and open sectors, used in sector photometers to vary the brightness in a known manner.

sector gear. Mach. a A toothed device resembling a portion of a gear wheel containing the center bearing and a part of the rim with its teeth. b A gear having such a device as its chief essential feature.

sec·to'ri·al (sĕk·tō'rI·ăl; 181), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or shaped like, a sector or the sectors of a circle.
2. Zool. Adapted for cutting; carnassial.

sec·to'ri·al (sĕk·tō'rI·ăl), n. A carnassial tooth.

sector of a sphere. Math. The solid generated by the revolution of the sector of a circle about one of its radii, or, more rarely, about any straight line drawn in the plane of the sector through its vertex; — called also spherical sector.

sector wheel. = SECTOR GEAR a.

sect'wise' (sĕk't'wīz'), adj. According to sects.

sec'u·lar (sĕk'ū·lĕr), adj. [OF. and L.; OF. seculer (F. séculier), fr. L. saecularis, fr. saeculum a race, generation, age, the times, the world; akin to E. SEED.] 1. Of or pertaining to the worldly or temporal as distinguished from the spiritual or eternal; as, secular considerations. Chiefly in specific senses: a Belonging to the state as distinguished from the church; noneccleiastical; civil; as, secular courts, magistrates, or power. See SECULAR ARM. b Not religious in character nor devoted to religious ends or uses; not sacred; profane; as, secular drama, music, or architecture. c Rare. Of the laity; not clerical; also, Obs., not learned; ignorant; vulgar. "A secular shop wit." B. Jonson. d Not concerned with training in religious subjects; as, to combine secular and religious instruction; also, providing only secular instruction; as, secular schools.
2. Eccl. a Living in the world as distinguished from in a monastery or religious community; not bound by monastic vows or rules; — opposed to regular; as, a secular priest; the secular clergy. Cf. MONK, 1. b Of or pertaining to secular clergy; as, secular vestments.
3. Coming or observed once in an age or a century; as, secular phenomena. See SECULAR GAMES.
4. Existing or continuing through ages or centuries; centuried; as, secular oaks; secular enmities; also, requiring or taking ages for operation, completion, or the like; of the nature of a long-enduring process; as, secular forces; secular progress; the secular contraction of the earth's crust.
5. [often cap.] Of, pertaining to, or advocating, secularism; secularistic; as, a secular review.
Syn. — Temporal; worldly; profane. See EARTHLY.
Ant. — Eternal; sacred, ecclesiastical.

sec'u·lar, n. Eccl. a A secular ecclesiastic, as a parish priest. b An unordained official whose functions are confined to the vocal department of the choir. c A layman.

secular acceleration (of the moon's motion). Astron. A slow and apparent diminution in length of the lunar month, due to decreasing eccentricity of the earth's orbit, and amounting to about 6″ per century by mathematical theory, but rather more than this by actual observation.

secular arm. The secular or civil power as distinguished from that of the church.

secular canoness. See CANONESS, 1.

Secular Canons of St. John the Evangelist. See BONI HOMINES.

secular equation. Astron. The algebraic or numerical expression for the inequalities in the moon's or a planet's motion that remain after the inequalities of a short period have been allowed for. Mathematically the equation is formed by equating to zero the determinant $$\begin{vmatrix} a_{11-s} & a_{12} \cdots & a_{1n} \\ a_{21} & a_{22-s} \cdots & a_{2n} \\ \cdots & \cdots & \cdots \\ a_{n-1} & \cdots & a_{nn-s} \end{vmatrix}$$ where the elements a_{rs} are real quantities such that $a_{sr} = a_{rs}$.

secular games. Rom. Antiq. Games in honor of gods, celebrated at long irregular intervals, for three days and nights, with sacrifices, theatrical shows, feasting, and singing of secular hymns, hymns composed for, or appropriate to, the occasion.

sec'u·lar·ism (sĕk'ū·lĕr·Iz'm), n. 1. A system of social ethics based upon a doctrine advanced by G. J. Holyoake (1817–1906) that ethical standards and conduct should be determined exclusively with reference to the present life and social well-being.
2. Any view of life, education, etc., or any policy or program referring to such, based on the premise that religion and religious considerations, as of God and a future life, should be ignored or excluded.

sec'u·lar·ist (-Ist), n. One who theoretically rejects every form of religious faith and worship, and undertakes to live accordingly; also, one who believes that education and other civil matters should be without religious element.

sec'u·lar·ist, adj. Also sec'u·lar·is'tic (-Is'tĭk). Advocating, or attached to, secularism.

sec'u·lar'i·ty (-lăr'I·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. sécularité, or ML. saecularitas.] 1. The state or quality of being secular. Specif.: a Excessive attention to worldly or temporal affairs. b The character of being nonreligious or divorced from religion. c Secular (def. 4) extent. "The secularity of nature." Emerson.
2. Something secular. Specif.: a Obs. Civil jurisdiction; also, the civil governing body. b Chiefly pl. Worldly or material concern; as, to shun secularities on the Sabbath.

sec'u·lar·ize (sĕk'ū·lĕr·Iz), v. t.; -IZED (-Izd); -IZ'ING (-Iz'Ĭng). [F. séculariser.] To render secular; specif.: a To authorize (one bound by monastic vows) to live temporarily or permanently outside the monastery or convent. b To transfer from ecclesiastical to civil or lay use, possession, or control; as, to secularize a benefice or a hospital. c To make worldly or unspiritual; to exclude religious, ecclesiastical, or sacred matters from; as, to secularize Sunday. d To convert to, or imbue with, secularism. e To change the status of, as a priest, from regular to secular. — sec'u·lar·i·za'tion (-I·zā'shŭn; -i·zā'shŭn), n. — sec'u·lar·iz'er (sĕk'ū·lĕr·Iz'ĕr), n.

secular music. Music not intended for use in a religious service; — contrasted with sacred music.

secular parallax. Astron. See PARALLACTIC MOTION.

secular perturbation or variation. See PERTURBATION, 5.

secular vicar. See CLERK VICAR.

se'cund (sē'kŭnd; sĕk'ŭnd; 277), adj. [L. secundus following. See SECOND, adj.] Bot. Arranged on one side only; unilateral, as flowers in some racemes, spikes, etc.

se·cun'date (sē·kŭn'dāt), v. t. [L. secundatus, past part. of secundare to direct favorably.] To make prosperous. — sec'un·da'tion (sĕk'ŭn·dā'shŭn), n. Both Rare.

se·cun'di-. A combining form, Latin secundi-, from secundus, meaning second.

se·cun'di·flo'rous (sē·kŭn'dI·flō'rŭs; 181), adj. Bot. Having the flowers second.

se·cun'di·grav'i·da (-grăv'I·dă), n. [NL., fr. secundi- + L. gravida pregnant.] Med. A woman in her second pregnancy.

Second Raceme of Chamaedaphne calyculata.

sec'un·dine (sĕk'ŭn·dīn; -dĭn), n. [LL. secundinae, pl., fr. secundus following.] 1. The afterbirth; — chiefly in pl.
2. Bot. The second coat, or integument, of an ovule, within the primine, and investing the nucellus.

se·cun'dus (sē·kŭn'dŭs). Bib.

se·cur'a·ble (sē·kūr'ă·b'l), adj. See -ABLE.

se·cure'ful, adj. Protecting. Obs.

Se·cu·rif'er·a (sĕk'ū·rĭf'ĕr·ă), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. securis AX + ferre to bear.] Syn. of SERRIFERA. — se·cu'ri·fer (sē·kū'rI·fĕr), n. — se·cu·ri·fer'ous (sē·kū'rI·fĕr'ŭs), adj.

se·cu'ri·tan, n. One feeling secure from attack. Obs.

se·cun'dum·dip'a·ra (sē·kŭn'dĭp'ă·rá), n. [NL. See SECUNDI-; -PAROUS.] Med. A woman who has borne children in two separate pregnancies. — se·cun·dip'a·rous (-rŭs), adj. — se·cun'di·par'i·ty (sē·kŭn'dI·păr'I·tĭ), n.

se'cund·ly (sē'kŭnd·lĭ; sĕk'ŭnd-), adv. Bot. In a secund manner; unilaterally.

‖se·cun'do (sē·kŭn'dō), adv. [L.] Secondly; in the second (year).

se·cun'do·gen'i·ture (sē·kŭn'dō·jĕn'I·tūr), n. [L. secundus second + genitura a begetting, generation.] 1. State or fact of being the second born, esp. among sons.
2. The right or system by which inheritance belongs to the second son; also, a property or possession so inherited.

se·cun'do·pri'ma·ry (-prI'mĕr·I; -mā·rI), adj. Between primary and secondary.

‖se·cun'dum (sē·kŭn'dŭm), prep. [L.] According to.

‖se·cun'dum ar'tem (är'tĕm). [L.] According to art, rule, or science.

‖se·cun'dum le'gem (lē'jĕm). [L.] According to law.

‖se·cun'dum na·tu'ram (nȧ·tū'răm). [L.] According to nature; naturally.

‖se·cun'dum or'dI·nem (ôr'dĭ·nĕm). [L.] According to, or in, order; orderly.

‖se·cun'dum re'gu·lam (rĕg'ū·lăm). [L.] According to rule.

‖se·cun'dum u'sum (ū'sŭm). [L.] According to custom or practice, or ecclesiastical ritual.

se·cur'ance (sē·kūr'ăns), n. [secure + -ance.] The act or fact of securing or assuring.

se·cure' (sē·kūr'; 199), adj. [L. securus, fr. se- without + curo care. See CURE care; cf. SURE.] 1. Archaic. a Free from fear, care, or anxiety; easy in mind; not feeling suspicion or distrust; overconfident.

> The way to be safe is never to be secure. Quarles.

b Confident in opinion or expectation; not feeling, or without reason to feel, doubt; as, secure of a welcome.
2. Safe; as: a Not exposed to danger; as, secure from foes. b In safe keeping or possession; secured. c Affording safety; as, a secure retreat. d Trustworthy; dependable; as, a secure argument. e So strong, stable, or firm as to ensure safety; as, a secure foundation.
3. Having a sure or safe prospect; as, secure of eternal life. "Secure to please." Goldsmith.
4. That may be expected or counted on with confidence; assured; sure; certain; as, a secure victory.
Syn. — Undisturbed, easy; firm. See SAFE.
Ant. — Uneasy, perturbed, uncertain, doubtful.
— se·cure'ly, adv. — se·cure'ness, n.

se·cure' (sē·kūr'), v.; SE·CURED' (sē·kūrd'); SE·CUR'ING (-kūr'Ĭng). Transitive: 1. To free from care, fear, doubt, or anxiety; also, to make carefree or overconfident. Obs.
2. a To relieve from apprehensions of, or exposure to, danger; to guard; make safe; — now with from or against.

> How to secure the lady from surprisal. Milton.

b Mil. To shield or make secure (a position, a movement, etc.) from capture or hostile interference.
3. a To put beyond hazard of losing or of not receiving; to make secure or certain; to ensure; as, to secure a debt by a mortgage; this secures him of eternal happiness. b To give adequate pledge of payment to (a creditor) or of (an obligation); as, secured by mortgage; to secure a note by the pledge of collateral security.
4. a To seize and confine; as, to secure a prisoner. b To make fast; as, to secure a door, the hatches of a ship.
5. Obs. a To prevent. b To give certitude to; to assure.
6. To get possession of, esp. something eagerly sought or competed for; to make oneself secure of; to acquire certainly; as, to secure an estate; hence, to obtain; as to secure information.
7. To engage for service, as a lecturer.
—, Intransitive: To be or become secure; to have or provide security; — with against.
Syn. — See ENSURE.

se·cure'ment (sē·kūr'mĕnt), n. a Obs. Security. b Act of securing.

se·cur'er (sē·kūr'ĕr), n. One who or that which secures.

securi-. [See 2d SAW.] A combining form, Latin securi-, from securis, meaning ax, hatchet, as in Securigera, se·cu'ri·cor'nate, se·cu'ri·form, sec'u·rig'er·ous.

Sec'u·rig'er·a (sĕk'ū·rĭj'ĕr·ă), n. [NL., fr. securi- + L. gerere to bear.] Bot. A genus of European herbs of the pea family (Fabaceae) having as the only known species (S. coronilla), the hatchet vetch. Syn. Bonaveria.

se·cu'ri·ty (sē·kū'rĭ·tĭ; 199), n. [L. securitas. See SECURE; cf. SURETY.] 1. The quality or condition of being secure. Specif.: a The condition of being protected or not exposed to danger; safety; also, a place of safety; as, to doubt the security of the troops; to seek security in a fort. "Offer him warmth, security, and rest." Cowper. b Freedom from fear, anxiety, or care; a feeling or, formerly, an unfounded assumption, that one is secure; as, to rest in false security. "He spoke of apprehension and anxiety, but his countenance expressed real security." J. Austen. c Freedom from uncertainty or doubt; confidence, esp. well-grounded confidence; assurance. "Distinguished by a certain security of judgment." Lowell. d The condition of being firmly fastened or fixed; as, the security of a knot.
2. That which secures. Specif.: a A means of protection, defense, etc.; a guard; as, to provide a security from invasion. b A guarantee of safety, adequate protection, certainty, etc.; a ground for believing oneself or something safe or secure. "Joy is its [love's] own security." Wordsworth.
3. Law. a Something given, deposited, or pledged, to make secure, or certain, the fulfillment of an obligation, the payment of a debt, etc.; property given or serving to render secure the enjoyment or enforcement of a right; surety; pledge; as, the security is poor. b One who becomes surety for another, or engages himself for the performance of another's obligation; a surety.
4. Chiefly pl. An evidence of debt or of property, as a bond, stock certificate, or other instrument, etc.; a document giving the holder the right to demand and receive property not in his possession. Securities are: personal, giving a claim against a particular person; on property, giving a lien or claim on property, which may be specified, the security then being termed specific, or may be designated in a general way so that the identity of the property is subject to change, the security then being shifting or floating; and of various other kinds disclosed by their names, as corporation, trustee, or government, etc.
Syn. — Protection, defense, guard, shelter; guarantee.

security for costs. Law. An undertaking to pay the costs of litigation in event of an adverse result, which may be required of a nonresident plaintiff.

---

sectional boiler. See BOILER, 6.

sec'tion·al·i·ty, n. = SECTIONALISM.

sec'tion·al·ly, adv. of SECTIONAL.

sec'tiond. Sectioned. Ref. Sp.

sec'tion·ist, n. = SECTIONARY, n.

sec'ti·o·pla·nog'ra·phy (sĕ k'shI·ō·plā·nŏg'rā·fĭ), n. = PLANE SECTIONING.

sec'ti·un'cle (sĕk'tI·ŭng'k'l), n. [After L. dim. words in -unculus or -uncula.] Dim. of SECT.

sec'tive (-tĭv), adj. = SECTILE. Rare.

sect'mas'ter, n. The leader of a sectorial harmonic. Math. See SPHERICAL HARMONIC. [GROIN, 4.]

sec'troid (sĕk'troid), n. See 1st sec'tu·ar'y, n. Sectary. Obs.

sec'u·lar·ly, adv. of SECULAR.

sec'u·lar·ness, n. See -NESS.

sec'u·lum. Var. of SAECULUM.

se·cun'dus (sē·kŭn'dŭs), adj. See PRIMUS, adj.

N

O

P

Q

R

S

‖se·cu'rus ju'di·cat or'bis ter·ra'rum (sē·kū'rŭs jōō'dĭ·kăt ôr'bĭs tĕ·rā'rŭm). [L.] Dispassionate (or unperturbed), the world passes its judgment.

‖se'cus (sē'kŭs), adv. [L.] Otherwise; — used in law books of a rule applicable to a distinguishable state of facts, or of an exception to a rule, or of a dissenting or divergent view of the rule.

se·cu'tor (sē·kū'tĕr), n. = EXECUTOR. Obs.

‖se·cu'tor (sē·kū'tôr), n. [L., pursuer.] A kind of light, armed gladiator who fought with the retiarius.

se·dan' (sē·dăn'), n., or sedan chair. [Appar., via Sicily, fr. Sp. sillón, fr. silla, fr. L. sella chair, saddle, sedan. See SADDLE.] 1. A portable chair or covered vehicle for carrying a single person, usually borne on poles by two men. They were brought to England early in the 17th century from Spain and Italy.

Sedan, 1.

2. Any conveyance borne similarly, as a litter or palanquin.

3. An automobile having an enclosed body of one compartment seating four to seven persons, including the driver. Some sedans are made with permanent top but disappearing or removable sides.

4. Hence, a type of powerboat similarly fitted out.

Se·dan' (sē·dăn'; sē·dăn'), n. See BATTLE, Table.

sedan chair. = SEDAN, 1.

Se·dang' (sē·dăng'; sā·dăng'), n. One of the southeastern group of the Austroasiatic languages spoken in Indo-China. Also, one who speaks that language.

se·dan'i·er (sē·dăn'ĭ·ĕr; -yĕr), n. [sedan + -ier.] A sedan bearer. G. Meredith.

sedan landaulet. An automobile body similar to the sedan except that the top behind the rear doors is collapsible.

sedan limousine. A sedan with an adjustable partition behind the front seat.

se·date' (sē·dāt'), adj. [L. sedatus, past part. of sedare, sedatum, to allay, calm, causative of sedere to sit. See SIT.] 1. Uninfluenced by that which disturbs; quiet; calm; dispassionate; — now chiefly of mental habits, processes, or the like; as, a sedate judgment; sedate temper or counsel.

Composed in sufferings, and in joy sedate. Pope.

2. Of a staid, sober, or grave nature or constitution; not inclined to levity; as, too sedate for her years.

3. Suitable to sedate persons; unobtrusive in color and design.

Syn. — Settled, quiet, serene, unruffled, sober, serious. See DECOROUS. Ant. — Frivolous, flighty. See CAPRICIOUS.

— se·date'ly, adv. — se·date'ness, n.

se·date', v. t. To quiet, as passion or pain. Obs.

se·da'tion (sē·dā'shŭn), n. Med. The act of making calm or allaying nervous excitement or the state of being calmed, specif. by the use of sedatives.

sed'a·tive (sĕd'ȧ·tĭv), adj. [F. sédatif, fr. ML. sedativus.] Tending to calm, moderate, or tranquilize; specif., Med., allaying irritability and irritation; assuaging pain.

Syn. — Soothing, lenitive, palliative.

Ant. — Stimulant, irritant.

sed'a·tive, n. A sedative agent; Med., a remedy which allays irritability, irritation, nervous excitement, or pain.

sedative salt. Old Pharm. Boric acid.

‖se de'fen·den'do (sē dĕf'ĕn·dĕn'dō). [L.] Defending himself.

se'dent (sē'dĕnt), adj. [L. sedens, -entis, pres. part.] Sitting; — esp. of statues.

Sed'en·ta'ri·a (sĕd'ĕn·tā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. pl. [NL. See SEDENTARY.] Zool. a In old classifications, an order of Polychaeta including all forms except the Nereidiformia; — disting. from Errantia. They are devoid of a protrusible pharynx and of jaws and teeth. The parapodia are reduced on the posterior segments and usually without cirri, and branchiae, if present, are usually confined to the anterior end. b A group of spiders containing those which spin a web and lie in wait for their prey to become entangled.

One of the Sedentaria (Amphitrite ornata): b Branchiae; c Cirri; s Ventral Shields; t Tori.

sed'en·tar'y (sĕd'ĕn·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [F. sédentaire, fr. L. sedentarius, fr. sedere to sit. See SEDENT.] 1. Characterized by, or requiring, sitting; as, a sedentary posture; — often opposed to active; as, a sedentary employment or life.

2. Stationary; settled; staying in one or the same place; not migratory; as, sedentary birds or Indians; hence, characteristic of nonmigratory peoples.

3. Accustomed to sit much or long; as a sedentary man.

4. Obs. a Inactive. b Motionless. c Deliberate; tranquil. d Slothful.

5. Zool. a Permanently attached, as an oyster or barnacle. b Of spiders, belonging to Sedentaria.

— sed'en·tar'i·ly (sĕd'ĕn·tĕr'ĭ·lĭ; -tĕr·ĭ·lĭ; 68), adv. — sed'en·tar'i·ness, n.

sedentary soil. Soil remaining on the rock by whose decay it was formed.

sed'en·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n. The pursuit or attainment of a sedentary mode of life.

Se'der (sā'dĕr), n. [Heb. sēdher lection. Cf. SEDARIM.] The Jewish home festival or service on the first night of the Passover (repeated by Orthodox Jews on the second except in Palestine), commemorating chiefly the Exodus from Egypt.

se·de'runt (sē·dē'rŭnt), n. [L., they sat.] 1. A sitting; a session, as of a judicial body or, now esp., an ecclesiastical assembly; loosely, any prolonged sitting, for discussion, reading, etc.

2. Those who sit in a sederunt; also, the roll of such.

‖se'des va'cans (sē'dēz vā'kănz). [ML.] A vacant see.

‖se'de va·can'te (sē'dē vȧ·kăn'tē). [ML.] The seat, or see, being vacant.

sedge (sĕj), n. A flock or brood (of herons or bitterns).

sedge (sĕj), n. [ME. segge, fr. AS. secg; akin to LG. segge, AS. secg sword. L. secare to cut. See 2d SAW.] 1. a Any plant of the genus Carex, the species of which are grasslike herbs, often growing in dense tufts in marshy places. See CAREX. b Hence, by extension, any other plant of the Cyperaceae. c The sweet flag. d The yellow iris.

2. Any of the caddis flies (Trichoptera) common along trout streams; hence, any artificial fly imitating a caddis fly.

3. A brown, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

sedge bird. The sedge warbler.

sedge cane. The sweet flag.

sedged (sĕjd), adj. Made of, or bordered with, sedge.

sedge family. The Cyperaceae.

sedge fly. Any of several species of May flies and caddis flies.

sedge grass. a The sweet flag. b The broom sedge Andropogon virginicus.

sedge hen. Clapper rail. Local, U. S. sedge'like' (sĕj'lĭk), adj. Resembling or suggesting sedge.

Sedge'ly curse (sĕj'lĭ). An old imprecation, usually recorded as: "The fiend ride through him booted and spurred, with a scythe at his back." Obs.

sedge root. The chufa; also, any other edible-rooted sedge.

sedge warbler. A small warbler (Acrocephalus schoenobaenus, syn. phragmitis) which breeds among reeds and sedges in Europe and Asia and winters in Africa. It is rusty brownish above, with dark centers to the feathers, and buffy white below. Its song is loud and sweet.

sedge wren. The sedge warbler. Local, Eng.

sedg'y (sĕj'ĭ), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or like sedge.

2. Overgrown, fringed, made, or thatched with sedge.

se·dil'i·a (sē·dĭl'ĭ·ȧ), n. pl.; sing. SEDILE (-dīl'ē). [L., pl. of sedile seat.] Eccl. Seats in the chancel near the altar for the officiating clergy during intervals of service. Usually they are three in number and in English churches are customarily placed in niches or recesses in the south wall.

sed'i·ment (sĕd'ĭ·mĕnt), n. [F. sédiment, fr. L. sedimentum a settling, fr. sedere to sit. See SIT.] 1. The matter which settles to the bottom from a liquid; settlings; lees; dregs.

2. Geol. Material, or a mass of it, deposited, as by water.

sed'i·ment, v. t. To deposit as sediment. — v. i. To settle to the bottom in a liquid; to deposit sediment.

sed'i·men'tal (-mĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. Formed of or from sediment.

sed'i·men'ta·ry (-mĕn'tȧ·rĭ), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or containing, sediment; as, sedimentary deposits.

2. Formed by or from deposits of sediment; as, sedimentary rocks (which see).

— sed'i·men'ta·ri·ly (-rĭ·lĭ), adv.

sed'i·men'ta·ry, n.; pl. -TARIES (-rĭz). Geol. A sedimentary deposit, rock, or the like.

sedimentary clay. See CLAY, n., 1.

sedimentary rock. Geol. Rock formed of sediment, mechanical, chemical, or organic; esp.: (1) Clastic rocks, as conglomerate, sandstone, and shale, formed of fragments of other rock transported from their sources and deposited in water. (2) Rocks formed by precipitation from solution, as rock salt and gypsum, or from secretions of organisms, as most limestone.

sed'i·men'tate (sĕd'ĭ·mĕn'tāt), v. t. To cause to deposit sediment, as sewage.

sed'i·men·ta'tion (-mĕn·tā'shŭn), n. The act or process of depositing sediment; also, the depositing, esp. by mechanical means, of matter suspended in a liquid; as, the sedimentation of a water supply.

sedimentation test. Any test based upon the occurrence or character or speed of sedimentation, as of agglutinated bacteria or red blood corpuscles in plasma.

sediment bulb. A bulb retaining the sediment separated by gravity from the liquid in the main tank.

sed'i·men'tous (sĕd'ĭ·mĕn'tŭs), adj. Full of sediment.

sed'i·met'ric (sĕd'ĭ·mĕt'rĭk), sed'i·met'ri·cal (-rĭ·kăl), adj. Anal. Chem. Of or pertaining to measurement of a precipitate (sediment) by volume; — opposed to gravimetric and volumetric.

se·di'tion (sē·dĭsh'ŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. seditio, orig., a going aside, hence, an insurrectionary separation, fr. se-, sed-, aside + itio a going, fr. ire, itum, to go. See ISSUE; cf. SUDDEN.] 1. Dissension; strife between factions; partisan violence. Obs.

2. An insurrection against constituted authority; a tumult caused by dissension, partisan hatred, or discontent. Now R.

3. A commotion, or the raising of a commotion, in a state, not amounting to an insurrection; conduct tending to treason, but without an overt act; excitement of discontent against the government, or of resistance to lawful authority.

Syn. — SEDITION, TREASON. SEDITION is conduct which tends to TREASON, but which falls short of it for want of an overt act. Cf. REBELLION, FACTIONS.

Sedition Act. Also Sedition Law. U. S. Hist. a See ALIEN AND SEDITION ACTS. b An act passed May 16, 1918, imposing heavy penalties on anyone hindering the prosecution of the World War. See ESPIONAGE ACT.

se·di'tion·ar'y (sē·dĭsh'ŭn·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), adj. Of or pertaining to sedition; seditious. — n An inciter or promoter of sedition.

se·di'tion·ist (-ĭst), n. A seditionary.

se·di'tious (sē·dĭsh'ŭs), adj. [OF. seditieux, fr. L. seditiosus.] 1. Of, pertaining to, of the nature of, or tending to excite, sedition; as, seditious strife; seditious words.

2. Disposed to arouse, or take part in, sedition; turbulent; factious; guilty of sedition; as, seditious citizens.

Syn. and Ant. — See FACTIOUS.

— se·di'tious·ly, adv. — se·di'tious·ness, n.

se·dja'deh (sē·jä'dĕ), n. [Turk. sejjādeh a small rug, prayer rug, fr. Ar. sajjadāh, fr. sajada to kneel.] A small Oriental rug, about 4 ft. by 6 ft.; a scatter rug.

Sed'ley, Jos. (sĕd'lĭ). In Thackeray's Vanity Fair, a fat, lazy, epicurean India official who falls victim to the wiles of Becky Sharp, school companion of his sister Amelia. See 1st AMELIA, 3; OSBORNE, JOHN; SHARP, BECKY; DOBBIN, MAJOR.

Sed'na (sĕd'nä), n. A goddess or culture heroine of the Eskimos.

Sed'ra (sĕd'rȧ), Sid'ra (sĭd'rȧ), n. Jewish Relig. The weekly portion of the Law or Pentateuch read in the synagogue.

se·duce' (sē·dūs'), v.; SE·DUCED' (sē·dūst'); SE·DUC'ING (-dūs'ĭng). [L. seducere, seductum, fr. se- aside + ducere to lead. See DUKE; cf. REDUCE, SUBDUE, TRADUCE.] Transitive: 1. To persuade (one) as into disobedience, disloyalty, or desertion of a lord or a cause.

Subtle he needs must be who could seduce Angels. Milton.

2. To lead or draw (one) aside or astray, as into an evil, foolish, or disastrous course or action or from that which is good, wise, etc.; as, to be seduced into war; to seduce one from his duty; to tempt or entice; as, pleasures that seduced her from home.

3. To induce to evil; to corrupt; specif., to induce to surrender chastity; to debauch. Cf. SEDUCTION, 1.

For me, the gold of France did not seduce. Shak.

4. To induce or force (one) to come or go to a place specified or implied.

Staircases which seduce us upwards. Hawthorne.

—, Intransitive: To practice seduction.

Syn. — Tempt, mislead, decoy, inveigle. See ALLURE.

se·duc'ee' (sē·dūs'ē'), n. One seduced.

se·duce'ment (sē·dūs'mĕnt), n. 1. A seducing or seduction.

2. That which serves to seduce, a seductive temptation; an enticement.

se·duc'er (sē·dūs'ĕr), n. One who seduces; specif., one who induces a woman to surrender her chastity. See SEDUCTION, 1.

se·duc'i·ble (sē·dūs'ĭ·b'l), adj. Also se·duce'a·ble (-dūs'ȧ·b'l). Capable of being seduced.

se·duc'ive (-ĭv), adj. Tending to seduce.

se·duct' (sē·dŭkt'), v. t. To seduce. Rare.

se·duc'tion (sē·dŭk'shŭn), n. [F. séduction, fr. L. seductio. See SEDUCE.] 1. Act of seducing; enticement, esp. to wrongdoing; specif., Law, enticing a woman to unlawful sexual intercourse by promise of marriage or other means of persuasion without use of force.

2. Persuasion to desert allegiance.

3. That which seduces, or is adapted to seduce; means of corrupting; now, also, without implication of evil, allurement; attraction; as, the seductions of wealth; the seductions of art.

4. The state or fact of being seduced. Obs.

Syn. — Debauchment; corruption, temptation; lure, charm.

se·duc'tion·ist (-ĭst), n. One who practices or believes in seduction or corruption in public affairs, esp. by bribery.

se·duc'tive (sē·dŭk'tĭv), adj. Tending to seduce; serving as a seduction; alluring; tempting; attractive.

How seductive is the influence of example. Sir W. Hamilton.

— se·duc'tive·ly, adv. — se·duc'tive·ness, n.

se·duc'tress (-trĕs; -trĭs; 119), n. A woman who seduces.

se·du'li·ty (sē·dū'lĭ·tĭ), n. [L. sedulitas. See SEDULOUS.] Quality of being sedulous; sedulous activity; also, a sedulous action.

sed'u·lous (sĕd'ū·lŭs), adj. [L. sedulus, fr. sedulo busily, zealously, prop., in good earnest, fr. se- without + dolo, abl. of dolus guile, fraud. See DOLE guile.] Diligent in application or pursuit; persevering in endeavors to effect an object; steadily industrious; as, a sedulous student; also, constant; persistent; assiduous; as, sedulous application; sedulous industry.

Syn. — Assiduous, diligent, industrious, laborious, unremitting, untiring, unwearied, persevering. See BUSY.

Ant. — Dilatory, inconstant, unsteady. See FITFUL.

— sed'u·lous·ly, adv. — sed'u·lous·ness, n.

Se'dum (sē'dŭm), n. [L., houseleek.] Bot. a A genus of 200 species of fleshy, widely distributed herbs (family Crassulaceae), the stonecrops or orpines, often with tufted stems. They have cymose yellow, white, or pink flowers, the stamens twice as many as the petals, and follicles. S. acre is the common stonecrop, or wall pepper; S. telephium, the orpine. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

Sedum (S. acre).

see (sē), n. [ME. se, see, fr. OF. sie, sied, fr. L. sedes seat. See SIT.] 1. A seat; esp., a seat of power; a throne; the power or dignity pertaining to a throne; also, a dwelling place. Obs.

2. Eccl. a Obs. The official chair or throne of a bishop; cathedra. b Obs. The church containing the cathedra; cathedral. c The seat or center of the power or authority of a bishop, whether of ordinary or of higher rank (archbishop, pope, etc.); the diocesan center; hence, the rank, office, power, authority, etc., of a bishop (in the case of Rome, the Pope or papal court); the jurisdiction (diocese, province, etc.) of a bishop.

see (sē; 71), v.; past tense SAW (sô); past part. SEEN (sēn); pres. part. & verbal n. SEE'ING. [ME. seen, sen, seon, fr. AS. sēon; akin to OFris. sīa, D. zien, OS. & OHG. sehan, G. sehen, ON. sjá, Sw. & Dan. se, Goth. saihwan. See SAY, v.; cf. SIGHT.] Transitive:

I. To receive an ocular or experiential impression of.

1. To perceive by the eye, to have knowledge of the existence and apparent qualities of by the organs of sight; to behold; descry; as, to see an accident.

2. To undergo; have experience of; as, to see service.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, if a man keep my saying, he shall never see death. John viii. 51.

3. To witness as present or contemporary; to know in the course of experience; as, when Rome saw civil war.

True wit has seen its best days long ago. Dryden.

4. To behold as if with the eye in imagination, vision, or sleep.

5. To behold with approval or acquiescence; as, I'll see thee hanged first.

6. a To have presented to observation; — of something narrated or stated; as, we saw in the last chapter. b To read of; as, I saw her marriage in the newspaper. c To refer to; as, see Vol. II, p. 50. Cf. VIDE.

II. To direct one's attention to.

7. To direct one's sight to; to look at, examine, or scrutinize; as, to see a parade, a race, a new model; hence, to visit, traverse, or attend as an observer or spectator; as, to see Paris, a play, the sights.

8. To inspect (a document); — often in the formula of certification "seen and allowed."

9. a Obs. To watch over; to guard; take care of. b To take care or heed; to bring about; effect; provide; make sure; — followed by a noun clause. Cf. LOOK, v. t., 6.

See thou say nothing to any man. Mark i. 44.

c To accompany in person; to escort; to wait upon; as, to see one home; to see one aboard the cars.

10. a To meet and converse with, as in a call or interview obtained, received, or granted; as, to see company; esp., to make a call upon; to visit; as, to go to see a friend. b Colloq., U. S. To interview or consult in order to influence, esp. improperly, as in order to bribe.

Se·da'ce·ae (sē·dā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Sedum + -aceae.] Syn. of CRASSULACEAE.

Sed'a·da (sĕd'ȧ·dȧ). D. Bib.

Se'dar. Var. of SEDER.

Se·da'rim (sē·dä'rĭm), n. pl. [Heb. sēdhārīm, pl. of sēdher. See SEDER.] See MISHNAH d.

sed'a·tiv. Sedative. Ref. Sp.

sede, n. A seat. Obs.

sedeane. † SUBDEAN.

Sed'e·ci'as (sĕd'ē·sī'ăs). Bib.

Se'de·l (sē'dē·l). D. Bib.

Sed'e·ur (sĕd'ē·ŭr). D. Bib. sedg'ing (sĕj'ĭng), n. Plant Pathol. = TULIP ROOT. G. Brit.

sed'ia (sĕd'yȧ), n. [It., chair.] A sedan chair. Obs.

se·dig'i·tate, se·dig'i·tat'ed (sē·dĭj'ĭ·tāt, -tāt'ĕd), adj. = SEXDIGITAL. [SEDILIA.]

se·dil'e (sē·dīl'ē), n., sing. of se·dil'ion-proof' (66). See -PROOF.

Sed'litz (sĕd'lĭts). Var. of SEDLITZ.

se·duc'ing (sē·dūs'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of SEDUCE. Specif.: adj. = SEDUCTIVE. — se·duc'ing·ly, adv.

se·duc'tion-proof'. See -PROOF.

se·duc'tiv. Seductive. Ref. Sp.

se·duc'tor (sē·dŭk'tĕr), n. [LL.] A seducer. Obs.

sedull. † SCHEDULE.

sedyr. † CIDER.

III. To discern.

11. a To perceive by mental insight; to form an idea or conception of; to note with the mind; to discern; understand; comprehend; as, to see the truth. "Jesus saw that he answered discreetly." Mark xii. 34. b To infer from obvious evidence; as, you could see she was vexed.

12. To regard as; deem; as, whatever he sees fit to do; — formerly also, in the phrase, to seem.

As shall be seen to thee expedient. Book of Common Prayer.

13. a To know by investigation; ascertain; as, see if the hat fits. b To learn or discover by observation or experience; to come to know; as, we shall see the outcome.

14. a To perceive with discrimination or from a particular point of view. "To see ourselves as others see us." Burns. b Colloq. To get a favorable impression of; to perceive the advantage or attraction of, esp. to the point of agreement or acceptance; as, I cannot see this expenditure now.

I only hope you'll be able to make her see it. Somerset Maugham.

15. In poker and similar games at cards, to meet (a bet), or to equal the bet of (a player), by staking the same sum; call. See 5th POKER.

—, Intransitive: 1. To have the power of sight; to perceive by the sense of vision; as, he sees distinctly.

Whereas I was blind, now I see. John ix. 25.

2. To look. Obs., exc. imper. or interj.: Look! behold! lo!

3. To have intellectual sight or understanding; to comprehend; discern; — often followed by a preposition; as, to see through or into, to comprehend thoroughly; to penetrate.

4. To have perception or discernment in accord with a definite point of view; — chiefly in assent or argument; as, I see; we must, you see.

5. a To make investigation or inquiry; as, run and see. b To have knowledge by experience; as, we shall see.

6. To see each other; to meet. Obs.

Syn. — SEE, LOOK. To SEE is to perceive with the eyes, whether with or without voluntary attention; to LOOK, which always implies volition, is to direct the eyes in order to see. Cf. GAZE, SCAN, SEEM.

see about. To attend to; to find out what can be done or arranged in regard to; also, Colloq., to think over before deciding.

see after. To attend to or care for; also, to search for.

see away. To use up in payment for seeing. Rare.

see a wolf. To lose one's voice; — from an ancient notion that being seen first on meeting a wolf caused dumbness.

see daylight. To discover indications assuring an early completion of an undertaking or a solution of a difficulty. Colloq.

see eye to eye. To be in entire agreement.

see fit. To decide by an act of choice; as, he saw fit not to divulge his reasons.

see for. To look or search for. Dial. Eng.

see into. To perceive the inner and hidden nature or condition of.

see into, or through, a millstone. To have or show remarkable perspicacity; — used ironically.

see life. To acquire experience; specif., to experience dissipation. Colloq. "With all that money in his pocket an impulse to 'see life' beset him." Galsworthy.

see on or upon. To look at. Obs.

She was full more blissful on to see. Chaucer.

see one off. To escort or assist in departure, esp. by boat or train.

see one's way. To discover a course, or contrive a way, clear of adverse considerations; as, I cannot see my way to lending you that much.

see out. a To see, hear, participate in, etc., to the end.

They are all in for it together, and must see it out. T. Hughes.

b Colloq. To outdo or surpass, esp. in drinking. c Scot. To outlive.

see red. To become inflamed with murderous fury; to become enraged. Colloq.

see service. Mil. To serve as a soldier or sailor in time of war.

see stars. To see flashes of light, like stars as from a blow on the head. Colloq.

see the back of. To be quit of.

see the light. To grasp an idea or its application or a situation, esp. by drawing inferences; to discover a solution.

see the light or the light of day. To be born; to come into public notice; to be made public or published; as, his book never saw the light.

see the wood for the trees. To gain a comprehensive view on account of a multiplicity of small considerations; — with a negative.

see through. a To perceive what is under or on the other side of; hence, to detect the hidden nature or object of; to penetrate; as, to see through protestations of friendship, an imposture or impostor. b Colloq. To stay with (a task, problem, etc.) until it is finished or solved.

see (an undertaking or person) through. To give continued attention or assistance to, up to the end of a difficult period or the accomplishment of an undertaking.

see to. a Obs. To look at. Josh. xxii. 10. b To take the necessary steps to bring about the actual execution or provision of; to provide for the security, comfort, or wants of; to attend to; take care of; look after; as, to see to the cooking, patients, or baggage. c To make sure of; as, see to it that not one escapes.

see what (or if) one can. To endeavor to the best of one's ability; — used in promises.

— let one see. a To give one a sight or visible demonstration of; to show; as, eager to let them see how brave we were. b In the imperative, grant (me, us) a moment to consider or recall; as, let me see how many years it has been; — often elliptical; as, let's see, it must be ten years.

— to have seen better days. To have been formerly well-to-do; to show signs of loss of means; to show signs of wear. Colloq. — to have seen one's, or its, best days. To be on the decline or wane. — to have seen service. To be much worn by long use.

see (sē), interj. An exclamation expressing an appeal: a To look. b To understand; — used interrogatively. c For another's sympathy or participation in one's feeling (as admiration or compassion), or resentment or self-congratulation on account of an untoward outcome.

see, n. A look or glance; also, as a cognate object, what one wishes to see. Rare.

See'beck (sē'bĕk), n. [After N. F. Seebeck, head of the New York company.] Philately. Any stamp of certain issues by Ecuador, Honduras, Nicaragua, and El Salvador between 1890 and 1899, printed by a New York bank-note company, remainders and plates of which were returned under contract each year to the bank-note company after the issues had been demonetized. Many reprints were manufactured and sold.

See'beck ef-fect' (zā'bĕk). [After J. T. Seebeck, Ger. physicist.] Physics. Thermocurrent.

see'-bright' (sē'brīt'), n. The clary Salvia sclarea.

see'catch' (sē'kăch'), see'catch'le (-l), n. [Russ. sekach.] A grown male fur seal. Alaska.

seed (sēd), n.; pl. SEED or SEEDS (sēdz). [ME. seed, sed, fr. AS. sēd; akin to D. zaad seed, G. saat, ON. sāth, sæthi, Goth. manaseths seed of men, world, and to AS. sāwan to sow. See sow, v.; cf. COLZA.] 1. a The grains or ovules of plants used for sowing; also, one of these grains. Mark iv. 3. b Any small seedlike fruit, as a dandelion seed (achene); grass seed (caryopsis), beet seed (utricle), etc.

2. Progeny; descendants; as, the seed of David.

3. That from which anything springs; as: a Teaching from which better conditions should develop. b First principle; original; source; as, the seeds of virtue or vice. c Stock; ancestry.

Of mortal seed they were not held. Waller.

4. The stage or condition of bearing seed; hence, figuratively, overripeness; decay.

5. a Scot. & Dial. Eng. Bran; husk. b N. of Eng. A sown crop of clover or grass; land bearing such a crop.

6. a The eggs of an insect, as of the silkworm moth. b Young oysters suitable for transplanting.

7. Agric. Any propagative portion of a plant, whether of true seeds and seedlike fruits, or of tubers, bulbs, etc.

8. Biol. & Physiol. a Semen; sperm; milt. b = 1st SPAT.

9. Bot. The small body produced by flowering plants which contains an embryo capable of developing by germination; a fertilized and ripened ovule. It is primarily the sporophyte rudiment in a resting stage. Most seeds have a single integument (testa), some two (testa and endopleura), derived from the outer coating of the ovule, thus being morphologically a remnant of the megasporangium. The embryo is usually well developed when the seed ripens. It is often surrounded by a nutritive tissue (endosperm) representing the gametophyte of the parent plant. Sometimes part of the nucellus may persist as perisperm. The seed may also develop subsidiary appendages (aril, arillode, caruncle, etc.). The position and mode of attachment of the seed in the fruit are often of classificatory importance (see ANATROPOUS, ORTHOTROPOUS, CAMPYLOTROPOUS). The development of the megaspores into seed structures characterizes the highest plants, which are on this account grouped as the phylum Spermatophyta. See OVULE, 1; GERMINATION, 1; EMBRYO, n., 3.

Seed. A Anatropous Seed of Violet, enlarged. B Same in Vertical Section; c Cotyledons, ca Hypocotyl; e Endosperm; h Hilum; r Raphe.

10. Chem. Solid material added to a liquid to cause crystallization. See SEED, v. t., 6.

11. Glass Mfg. A small bubble in glass; — called also boil, ream. See STRIA; 2d SKIM, 4.

12. Her. Any of the stamens of a rose.

13. Med. A small capsule, usually of glass and gold or platinum, used as a container for radium, radon, etc. to be applied to a morbid lesion, as a cancer.

— to go to seed. a To develop seed. b Colloq. To become worn out, shabby, or ineffective. — in seed. In the stage of bearing seed.

-seed (-sēd). A combining form of the noun seed, meaning esp. seeds or seedlike fruits of a particular plant massed together in bulk, usually as a commercial product, as in:

allseed	cottonseed	heartseed	scarletseed aniseed	cupseed	hempseed	sickseed birdseed	dillseed	linseed	stoneseed blackseed	dropseed	lintseed	tickseed bladderseed	flaxseed	lopseed	tileseed bugseed	gapeseed	moonseed	velvetseed burseed	goldseed	oatseed	wingseed chaffseed	hagseed	oilseed	wormseed colesseed	hayseed	rapeseed seed (sēd), adj. Grown or retained for the production of seed; as, a seed crop; selected or used for planting to produce a new crop; as, seed corn; seed flax; seed cane.

seed (sēd), v.; SEED'ED; SEED'ING. [AS. sēdian.] Transitive: 1. To sprinkle with or as with seed; to plant seeds in; as, to seed a plot with or to barley; also, to plant by scattering on or in the soil; as, to seed another crop in the same field; to seed potatoes in the spring.

2. Tournament with seedlike decorations. Obs. B. Jonson.

3. To allow or cause to form seed (granules or crystals) by cooling, as lard or sirup.

4. To extract the seeds from (stone fruit, as raisins); to ripple (flax).

5. Bacteriol. To inoculate.

6. Chem. To treat (a liquid) with solid particles, usually crystals of the substance concerned, in order to induce crystallization.

7. Sports. In arranging a tournament, to modify (the draw for positions) by so predistributing the names of the superior contestants that any possibility of their meeting in the early rounds is eliminated; also, in such a draw, to place the name of (a contestant) in one of certain predetermined positions, or to choose (a position) for the name of a seeded player.

—, Intransitive: 1. To sow seed; to plant.

2. To bear or shed seed.

3. To go to seed; to grow to maturity and produce seed.

4. To grow up or mature as from seed; — usually with into.

5. Chem. To crystallize with the aid of an added solid. Cf. SEED, v. t., 6.

seed down. To sow with grass seed.

seed (sēd). Dial. & illit. past tense & past part. of SEE.

seed'age (sēd'ĭj), n. 1. A sowing or planting of seed. Obs.

2. Hort. Propagation of plants by seeds or spores.

seed ball. a A capsule. b The collection of one-seeded fruits, often utricles, found in certain plants, as the beet.

seed'bed' (sēd'bĕd'), n. 1. The soil or forest floor upon which seed becomes bedded; specif.: a The surface soil of cultivated land, as prepared by tillage for the seeding of a crop. b A bed, usually of fine soil, for growth of plants from seeds, preparatory to transplantation. c A subdivision of a tree nursery, for raising seedlings.

2. A place of germination or a hotbed, as of disease.

seed beetle. Any beetle that feeds on the seeds of plants, esp. a bean or pea weevil.

seed'bird' (sēd'bûrd'), n. a Local, Eng. The mew gull. b The pied wagtail.

seed'box' (-bŏks'), n. a A capsule. b A North American swamp herb (Ludwigia alternifolia) with yellow flowers and a loosely seeded, angled capsule.

seed'cake' (sēd'kāk'), n. 1. A cake or cooky containing aromatic seeds, such as caraway.

2. = OIL CAKE.

seed'case' (sēd'kās'), n. A seed vessel.

seed coat. Bot. The integument of a seed. See TESTA.

seed coral. Small irregular bits of coral used in ornaments.

seed'-corn' mag'got. The corn maggot.

seed cotton. The unginned seed with the attached lint.

seed crown or down. = COWN, 3 c.

seed'eat'er (sēd'ēt'ĕr), n. a Any of several South African canarylike finches of the genus Serinus. b A grass quit. c Any grain-eating bird.

seed'ed (sēd'ĕd; -Id; 119), adj. 1. Producing, or running to, seed; hence, matured; full-grown.

2. a Supplied or sprinkled with seed; sown. b Having many or large seeds; as, a seeded breadfruit. c Inoculated.

3. Having the seed or seeds extracted; as, seeded raisins.

4. Shot or flecked with small dots like seeds; — of silk.

5. Her. Having seeds or seed vessels of specified tincture.

-seed'ed (-sēd'ĕd; -Id; 119). A combining form of seeded, denoting having (so many or such) seeds, as in:

few-seeded	prickly-seeded	single-seeded many-seeded	ridge-seeded	three-seeded narrow-seeded	rough-seeded	two-seeded one-seeded	round-seeded	well-seeded seeded breadfruit. A common, probably wild form of the breadfruit, little prized on account of its large seeds.

seeded plum. The persimmon Diospyros virginiana.

seed'er (sēd'ĕr), n. [AS. sǣdere a sower.] 1. A sower of seeds. Obs.

2. An implement used for planting or sowing seeds.

3. An apparatus for seeding fruit; as, a raisin seeder.

seed feed cup. See CUP DRILL.

seed fern. Paleontol. Any plant of the Cycadofilicales or Pteridospermaphyta; a cycadofilicale.

seed fish. A fish full of ripe spawn.

seed fowl. A bird that feeds upon seeds. Obs.

seed'ful (sēd'fŏŏl; -fl), adj. Full of seed; teeming with promise; generative.

seed'gall' (-gôl'), n. Any gall which resembles a seed, esp. one caused by a phylloxera.

seed hair. a Kapok. b = COMA, 3 c.

seed'kin (sēd'kĭn), n. A little seed.

seed'-lac', n. See 1st LAC, 1.

seed leaf. 1. = BROADLEAF, 2 b.

2. An original leaf of a seed embryo. See COTYLEDON, 2.

seed'less bread'fruit' (sēd'lĕs; -lĭs; 119). The common breadfruit, which, from much cultivation, has become almost seedless.

seedless orange. The navel orange.

seed'ling (sēd'lĭng), n. 1. Hort. A plant grown from seed; — distinguished from one propagated by layers, buds, etc.

2. Forestry. a Any young tree under three feet in height. b Any tree grown from seed, as distinguished from one developed as a stump sucker.

3. A small seed; hence, a generative particle, or germ, as of ambition.

4. One of the young hatched from eggs resembling seeds. Obs.

Seedling of Hornbeam (Carpinus). 1 Primary Root; 2 Rootlet; 3 Root Hairs; 4 Hypocotyl; 5 Cotyledon; 6 Young Stem; 7, 7 True Leaves.

seed'ling, adj. 1. Grown from seeds; also, hatched from seedlike eggs.

2. Resembling a small seed in power of growth.

seed'lip' (sēd'lĭp'), n. [AS. sǣdlǣap, fr. sǣd seed + lǣap basket.] A basket or vessel in which seed is carried. Now Dial.

seed mesquite. See GRASS, Table.

seed'ness, n. a Sowing; also, seed. b Now Dial. Seedtime.

seed oyster. A young oyster, esp. of a size suitable for transplantation.

seed pearl. 1. A very small and, often, irregular pearl; also, minute pearls imbedded in some binding material.

2. The color putty.

seed plant. A plant that bears seeds; any plant of the Spermatophyta.

seed planter. = SEEDER, 2.

seed plat or plot. Hort. A seedbed.

seed plate. Agric. Mach. A round perforated metal plate in the bottom of the hopper of a corn or cotton planter which determines the correct amount of seed to be dropped at regular intervals.

seed plow, seed'ing plow (sēd'ĭng). Agric. Mach. A plow equipped with an automatic seeding device.

seed pod. A seed vessel.

seed screener. See SCREENER.

seeds'man (sēdz'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). Also seed'-man (sēd'măn). 1. A sower; one who sows or scatters seed.

2. An employee who directs the sorting and stowing of seed.

3. A person who deals in seeds.

seed snipe. Any of several South American charadriiform birds of the genera Attagis and Thinocorus constituting a family, Thinocoridae. They are related to the sheathbill, but are quaillike in general appearance and frequent dry inland regions.

seed'stalk' (sēd'stôk'), n. The fruiting stalk of a flowering plant.

seed stitch. = FRENCH KNOT.

seed tick. The six-legged, first-stage nymph of any tick, esp. the cattle tick.

seed'time' (sēd'tĭm'), n. [AS. sǣdtīma.] The season of sowing seeds, esp. late spring or early summer.

seed treatment. Agric. The treatment before planting of seeds, tubers, and bulbs with dust or liquid fungicides, hot water, dry heat, etc., for the destruction of seed-borne parasites.

seed tree. Any tree that bears seed, specif. Forestry, a tree that provides seed for forest reproduction.

seed vessel. Any dry hollow fruit which contains the seeds as a capsule or pod; a pericarp.

seed weevil. Any of numerous small weevils, esp. of the genus Apion, which live in seeds.

Seed Weevil (Apion sayi) (× 5) seed'y (sēd'ĭ), adj.; SEED'I-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); SEED'-I-EST. 1. Abounding with seeds; bearing seeds; having run to seeds; also, containing seeds.

2. Of a fish, full of spawn.

3. Worn out; shabby; shabbily clothed; also, spiritless; debilitated; feeling or looking miserable or wretched; as, a seedy coat. Colloq.

4. Of glass, containing small bubbles.

5. Lousy.

see'dy (sē'dĭ). Variant of SIDI.

see † SEA.	see'a-ble-ness, n.	see'dee (sē'dē). Var. of SIDI.	seed'less-ness, n. See -NESS.	seed'like', adj. See -LIKE.
see'a-ble, adj. See -ABLE. —	seech. Var. of SEEGE.	seed'i-ly, adv. of SEEDY.	seed'less, adj. See -LESS. —	seed'let, n. See -LET.
				seed'ster, n. A sower. Obs.

seedy buckberry. = PRIVET ANDROMEDA.

seedy toe. Veter. An affection of a horse's foot marked by separation of the wall from the sole in the white line.

seedy wool. Wool containing weed seeds, soft burs, etc., not removable during manufacture and often requiring carbonization before use.

seege (sēj), n. [Cf. AS. secg sea.] The foaming crest of a breaker rushing up a beach. Now Dial. Eng.

see'–ho', interj. Coursing. The huntsman's cry at first sight of the quarry.

see'ing, n. 1. Act of using one's sense of sight; sight; vision or power of vision; as, a view worth seeing.
2. pl. Eyes. Obs.
3. Astron. The condition of telescopic vision, as influenced chiefly by the state of steadiness of the atmosphere.

see'ing, adj. Having the power of sight or discernment; esp., having insight or penetrating intuitively; as, a seeing eye; also, formerly, having the gift of a seer. — see'ing-ly, adv. — see'ing-ness, n.

see'ing, conj. In view of the fact that; considering; taking into account that; inasmuch as.
Wherefore come ye to me, seeing ye hate me? Gen. xxvi. 27.

seeing glass. A mirror. Now Dial.

seek (sēk), v.; past tense & past part. SOUGHT (sôt); pres. part. & verbal n. SEEK'ING. [ME. seken, sechen, fr. AS. sēcan; akin to OS. sōkian, D. zoeken, OHG. suokhan, G. suchen, ON. sækja, Goth. sokjan, OIr. saigim I seek, L. sagire to perceive keenly, Gr. hēgeisthai to lead. Cf. BESEECH, EXEGESIS, HEGEMONY, RANSACK, SAGACIOUS, 1st SAKE.] Transitive: 1. To go in search of; to look for; to search for; as, to seek a wise man; to seek out an enemy; — now unusual in speech.
The man asked him, saying, What seekest thou? And he said, I seek my brethren. Gen. xxxvii. 15, 16.
2. To try to reach or come to; to go to; to resort to; as, to seek a court, a shrine, the shade.
3. To inquire for; to ask for; request; beseech; entreat.
Others, tempting him, sought of him a sign. Luke xi. 16.
4. To try to acquire or gain; to strive after as an aim; as, to seek wealth or fame, one's ruin, relief.
5. To endeavor to make discovery of; to seek out reasons, causes, the truth.
6. To try; attempt; — followed by an infinitive; as, he sought to bring it about; he sought to cry out.
7. Obs. a To follow or advance against in order to attack; harass; pursue. b To examine; probe; consult. c = SEE, 6 c.
8. To search; look through; explore.
Have I sought every country far and near? Shak.
9. To court; woo; — chiefly in the passive.
——, Intransitive: 1. To make search or inquiry; to endeavor to make discovery.
2. To go or resort; have recourse; apply. Archaic.
My counselors and my lords sought unto me. Dan. iv. 36.
3. To go; proceed; pass. Obs.
4. Hunting. To retrieve killed game; — chiefly in the imperative, as a command to dogs; often followed by dead.
Syn. — Hunt, search; pursue; solicit, beg; essay, endeavor.
Ant. — Eschew, shun. See AVOID.

seek (sēk) after. To attempt to find or take; to desire or invite as associate, guest, speaker, etc.; to pursue; court.
How men of merit are sought after. Shak.

seek dead. See SEEK, v. i., 4.

seek for. To go in search of; to try to find, find out, or get.

seek on, or upon. Obs. a To attack. b To attend or call upon, esp. with the purpose of gaining something. c To make trial of.

— to seek. a Needing to be sought; not reached or acquired; wanting; as, a solution still to seek or not far to seek. "The occasion was not long to seek." Hawthorne. b At a loss to know; as, what is best I am still to seek. c Needing to seek or search; lacking; deficient; also, formerly, ignorant or mistaken.
Unpracticed, unprepared, and still to seek. Milton.

seek, n. Formerly, the notes sounded on the hunting horn on discovering the deer's lair.

seek (sēk). Var. of SICK. Obs. exc. Dial.

seek'er (sēk'ĕr), n. 1. One who seeks or searches.
2. [cap.] Eccl. One of a small sect or group of the 17th-century English Independents who claimed religious liberty and professed to seek further revelation as to the true church, ministry, and sacraments. They were mystically inclined, and many of them joined the Friends.
3. That which is used in seeking or searching; esp.: a A slender instrument having a smooth rounded end, used in dissecting to follow up delicate tubular structures; a slender probe or tracer. b Astron. = FINDER, 2.

Seeker, 3.

Seek'er-ism (sēk'ĕr-ĭz'm), n. The doctrine or practice of the Seekers.

seek'ing, n. Act of one who seeks; specif.: a One's invitation or search, or choice of action; as, a misfortune of one's own seeking; an honor not of my seeking. b Obs. The object of one's inquiry or search. Shak.

Seek'-No-Fur'ther, n. A variety of winter apple.

seel (sēl), v. t.; SEELED (sēld); SEEL'ING. Also seal. [ME. silen, fr. OF. siller, ciller, fr. cil eyelash, fr. L. cilium. See CILIA.] 1. Falconry. To close the eyes of, as a hawk, by drawing through the lids threads which were fastened over the head.
2. Hence, to shut or close, as the eyes; to blind.
Cold death, with a violent fate, his sable eye did seel. Chapman.

seel, v. i. [Prob. fr. F. siller to plow the waves.] To keel over or roll, as a ship. — n. Both Obs.

seel. Variant of SELE. Obs. exc. Dial.

seel'ful (sēl'fŏôl; -fl), adj. [seel, var. of sele + -ful.] Blessed; happy; also, of good import. Scot.

see'ly (sē'lĭ), adj. [AS. sǣlig. Cf. SILLY.] Archaic & Dial. a Blessed; happy; blissful. b Good; kind. c Innocent; harmless. d Weak; feeble; poor; wretched; frail. e Simple; timid; foolish; silly. — see'li-ly (-lĭ-lĭ), adv. Obs. — see'li-ness, n. Obs.

seem (sēm), v.; SEEMED (sēmd); SEEM'ING. [ME. semen to seem, to become, befit, of Scand. orig.; cf. ON. sæmen to honor, to bear with, conform to, sæmr becoming, fit, sōma to beseem, to befit, sama to beseem, semja to arrange, settle, put right; akin to AS. sēman to satisfy, pacify, Goth. samjan to please, and to E. same. See SAME; cf. SEEMLY.] Intransitive: 1. To be fitting or suitable. Obs.
2. To be in appearance; to strike one's apprehension or fancy as being; to look to be; to appear; followed by a noun or adjective complement.
All seemed well pleased; all seemed, but were not all. Milton.
3. To present such outward signs as cause the speaker or other percipients to suppose one or it (to be, act, go, etc.); as, the star seems to be variable in color; a fact that seems to deserve consideration.
☞ Past tenses of seem in senses 2 and 3 and present tenses with a complement of second or third person often bear an implication of opposition to fact.
4. To offer itself to view or notice as existing; as, there seems no need of help; to offer a semblance of existing or being present, with an implication of delusion; as, angels but seem; also, Obs., to manifest oneself or itself; to be seen.
There did seem in him a kind of joy to hear of it. Shak.
5. To make pretense of being; to pretend or feign.
Either you are ignorant, or seem so craftily. Shak.
6. To appear to one's own mind or opinion; as, I seem to feel no pain; I seem to hear strange voices.
7. In a negative expression, to find how or have occasion (to do what is to all appearances expectable or possible), esp. for some unaccountable reason; as, I can't seem to unlock the door; — often equivalent to an adverbial phrase such as "so far as the speaker's information goes"; as, good corn does not seem to grow there.
8. Specific uses with expletive it: a To present all the signs or indications of being the case; to be apparently true or one's impression or opinion; to be seen, become clear, or come to light; — followed by a clause introduced by that; as, it seems to me that this is drudgery; it seems that he had been embezzling for a long time. b Preceded by the auxiliary would, formerly should, to be apparently true; — with an implication of hesitancy to present something positively or as one's own opinion. c To look to be; to have the appearance of being; — followed by a predicate adjective; as, it seemed best to compromise. d To present the same or such outward signs or look; — followed by a clause introduced by as if or as though; as, it seemed as if the hour would never come. e To be reported or rumored; to come to be known; — used parenthetically; as, he, it seems, was a spy.
——, Transitive: 1. To befit. Obs.
2. To hold in opinion; to consider; to deem; also, to think best. Obs.
Syn. — SEEM, LOOK, APPEAR are often used without marked distinction. They may imply opposition to what is, or may merely emphasize without further implication the idea of show or semblance. SEEM is the most general; that APPEARS which is thought of as presenting itself to view; LOOK suggests most definitely appearance to the eye; as, "He . . . made intricate seem straight" (Milton); "His tongue . . . could make the worse appear the better reason" (id.); "The blasted stars looked wan" (id.). Cf. SEE, APPEARANCE.

seem (sēm), n. Outward appearance. Obs.

seem'er (sēm'ĕr), n. One who or that which seems; one that carries or assumes an appearance or semblance; a pretender.

seem'ing, adj. 1. Befitting; suitable; proper. Obs.
2. Having a semblance, usually as differing from reality; apparent; ostensible; pretended; as, seeming friendship, truth.

seem'ing, n. 1. Manner of appearing to sight or mind; specif.: a External appearance, as not corresponding to inner nature or as deceptive; specious appearance; semblance. b Way of appearing or of seeing or judging; outward appearance; opinion; — formerly in phrases with by and to, now chiefly with in; as, done in seeming only.
Tell me what is thy cause for to singe Sith that thy throte is cut, to my seminge? Chaucer.
2. Seeming form or condition; look; as, his stern seeming.

seem'ing-ly, adv. Seemingly; — used chiefly in combination.

seem'ing-ly, adv. 1. Seemly. Now Rare.
2. As it seems from outward appearance or from the circumstances, whether really or not.
A house that lacks, seemingly, mistress and master. Robert Frost.

seem'less (sēm'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Unseemly. Archaic.

seem'li-head (sēm'lĭ-hĕd), n. [See 2d -HEAD.] Seemliness. Archaic.

seem'ly (sēm'lĭ), adj.; SEEM'LI-ER (-lĭ-ĕr); SEEM'LI-EST. [ON. sæmilig-r, fr. sæmr becoming, fit. See SEEM, v.]
1. Comely; handsome; well-formed. Obs. exc. Dial.
2. Having properties pleasing to the eye; agreeably fashioned or proportioned.
3. Fitting or proper in respect to conventional standards of good form or taste; decorous.
4. Suited to the occasion, purpose, or one's character or position; fit. Obs. "To make a seemly answer." Shak.
It was not seemly that one so old should go out of his way to see beauty, especially in a woman. Galsworthy.
5. Archaic. a Likely. b Seeming.
Syn. — Cf. DECOROUS, FIT. Ant. — See IMPROPER.
— seem'li-ly (-lĭ-lĭ), adv. — seem'li-ness, n.

seem'ly, adv. 1. In a manner pleasing or attractive to the eye or according with fitness or propriety; becomingly; appropriately; decently.
Not rustic as before, but seemlier clad. Milton.
2. Passably; rather. Rare.
3. Seemingly. Archaic & Dial.

seen (sēn), past part. & part. adj. of SEE. Hence: adj. a That is or has been perceived or verified by sight; specif., visible, as opposed to unseen; as, seen beauty. b Archaic. Learned in a particular sphere; versed.

seen, prep. & conj. Seeing; in view of; considering. Obs.

seen (sēn). Dial. & illit. past tense of SEE.

seen. Dial. var. of SOON.

see'nie bean (sē'nĭ). [From seenie, obs. var. of SENVY.] The seed of a yellow-flowered shrub (Sesbania longiflora) of the southern United States and northern Mexico, once used as a substitute for coffee.

seep (sēp), v. i. [Cf. AS. sipian, and E. SIP.] Chiefly Scot. & U. S. 1. To run or leak through fine pores and interstices; to ooze; to percolate slowly.
Water seeps up through the sidewalks. G. W. Cable.
2. To become free from moisture by its gradual dripping.

seep (sēp), n. [See SEEP, v. i.] Chiefly Scot. & U. S. a A spot where water or petroleum oozes out slowly and gathers in a pool; a small spring. b Water or moisture which oozes; seepage. c A sip. d A subdued sound suggestive of seeping or dripping water.

seep'age (sēp'ĭj), n. Act or process of seeping; slow percolation; oozing; a fluid, or the quantity of it, that has seeped or oozed through porous material, as soil; leakage. U. S., Dial. Eng., & Scot.

seeped (sēpt), adj. Seepy, as land.

seep'weed' (sēp'wēd'), n. [seep + weed.] A glabrous undershrub (Suaeda intermedia) of alkali plains of the western United States, with narrowly linear leaves. It is believed to indicate the proximity of ground water.

seep'y (-ĭ), adj. Oozy; full of moisture; poorly drained. U. S.

se'er, n. 1. (pron. sē'ĕr) One who sees.
2. (pron. sēr) One who foresees events; a prophet; among transcendentalists, one having extraordinary intuitive and spiritual insight; also, one gifted with second-sight; specif., a crystal gazer; a scryer.
Syn. — Soothsayer, forecaster, predictor.

seer (sēr; sâr). Variant of SEE.

seer (sēr). Obs. var. of CERE.

seer'band (sēr'bănd), n. [Hind. sirband, lit., headband.] A turban. India.

seer'ess (sēr'ĕs; -lĭs; 119), n. Female seer; prophetess.

seer'fish' (sēr'fĭsh'), n. [Pg. serra, lit., saw, fr. L. serra.] a Any of several large mackerellike fishes of the genus Cybium of Indian seas. b An Indian threadfin (Polynemus indicus).

seer'hand' (sēr'hănd'), n. [An error for seerband.] A kind of muslin of a texture between nainsook and mull.

seer'paw (sēr'pô), n. [Hind. sar-ā-pa, fr. Per. sar-ā-pa head to foot.] A complete suit presented as a dress of honor by the sovereign. Anglo-Ind.

seer'suck'er (sēr'sŭk'ĕr), n. [Hind. shīrshakar, fr. Per. shīrushakar kind of cloth, lit., milk and sugar.] A light linen fabric, orig. made in the East Indies, usually with alternating stripes of plain and of slightly creped or puckered weave; a similar cotton fabric.

see'saw' (sē'sô'), n. [Redupl. fr. SAW to cut with a saw.]
1. A children's pastime of riding on the ends of a plank balanced in the middle, one end going up as the other goes down; also, a plank or board so used.
2. Any action likened to the motion of a seesaw, as a race in which two contestants frequently alternate in the lead; a reciprocating motion.
A seesaw between the hypothesis and fact. Sir W. Hamilton.
3. A sound imitative of the up and down strokes of a saw; — used in nursery jingles.
4. The motion of a seesaw (sense 1).
5. Whist. A crossruff.

see'saw', adj. Moving up and down, or to and fro; having a reciprocating motion; reciprocal.

see'saw', v. i.; SEE'SAWED' (-sôd'); SEE'SAW'ING. To play at seesaw; hence, to move with a reciprocating motion; to move back and forth, or up and down; to alternate in the lead. — v. t. To cause to move in seesaw fashion.

see'saw'i-ness (sē'sô'ĭ-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. The condition of alternating in direction or fortune continuously.

see'see (sē'sē), n., or seesee partridge. A small sand partridge (Ammoperdix griseogularis). India.

seethe (sēth), v.; past tense SEETHED (sēthd), Obs. SOD (sŏd); past part. SEETHED, SOD'DEN (sŏd''n); pres. part. & verbal n. SEETH'ING (sēth'ĭng). [ME. sethen, fr. AS. sēothan; akin to D. zieden, OHG. siodan, G. sieden, ON. sjōtha, Sw. sjuda, Dan. syde, Goth. sauths a burnt offering. Cf. SOD, n., SODDEN, SUDS.] Transitive: 1. To decoct or prepare for food in hot liquid; to boil or stew. Archaic.
2. To digest, as food. Obs.
3. To purge or separate by boiling; — with out, away. Obs.
4. To soak or saturate in a liquid; to reduce by soaking or boiling to a flabby, lifeless condition; hence, to dull with excess of intoxicating liquor.
——, Intransitive: 1. To boil, or be boiled in liquid, from application of heat; to move or issue in a state of ebullition or violent agitation; as, the rapids seethed; also, to hold contents in the state of boiling or surging.
2. To suffer violent internal excitement or commotion; to stir or be involved in riotous confusion; as, the countryside seethes with discontent; wild projects seethe in his brain.
3. To cook food by boiling. Obs. exc. Dial.

seethe (sēth), n. Act of seething, or state of being seethed; as, a seethe of waves or of patriotism.

seeth'ing (sēth'ĭng), adj. 1. Orig., boiling; hence, intensely hot.
2. Tumbling or surging violently with internal agitation or with the processes of putrefaction; as, seething waves, brains, or corruption.
— seeth'ing-ly, adv.

see'tul-put'ty (sē'tŭl-pŭt'ĭ), n. [Hind. sītalpāṭī, fr. Skr. śītala cool + paṭṭikā cloth.] A kind of grass or reed mat for resting or sleeping upon. Anglo-Ind.

seg (sĕg), n. [ON. sigg.] A callosity. Dial. Eng.

seg, n. [See SEDGE.] Chiefly Dial. a Sedge. b The iris.

seg (sĕg). Scot. & dial. Eng. of SAG, to sink.

seg, or segg, n. [Cf. Dan. dial. seeg, sæg, seg, a boar castrated at maturity.] Any animal castrated when full-grown. Dial. Eng. & Scot.

Se'ger cone (sā'gĕr; zā'-). [After Hermann August Seger (1839–94), Ger. ceramist.] One of a graduated series of small cones prepared of various compositions of clays and fluxes so that each has a definite, known fusing point, indicated by its cone number. Cone 1 fuses at about 1150° C. (2102° F.) and cone 42 at about 2015° C. (3659° F.). Seger cones are used in determining high temperatures, esp. in ceramics as affording visible indication of kiln heat.

segged (sĕgd), adj. Having a bottom made of sedge or rushes. Dial.

‖seg'gio (sĕd'jō), n. [It.] Fine Arts. A seat; esp., a throne.

seg'grom, seg'grum (sĕg'rŭm), n. The common ragwort (Senecio jacobaea). Dial. Eng.

seg'ment (sĕg'mĕnt), n. [L. segmentum, fr. secare to cut off. See SECTION.] 1. A severed piece; fragment; portion.
2. Any of the parts into which a body naturally separates or is divided; any part divided or cut off; a section; as, a segment of an orange or of a compound leaf.
3. One of the parts into which anything may be marked see'-er, n. = 1st SEER, 1.

---

see-gar', Var. of CIGAR.
Se-el'a-da (sē-ĕl'ä-dä). D. Bib. seeld, seelde. Obs. vars. of SELD. seeld. Seeled. Ref. Sp. seem'a-ble, adj. Similar. Obs. — seem'a-bly, adv.
seemd. Seemed. Ref. Sp. seem'ing-ness, n. See -NESS. see'nil. Var. of SINDLE. se'en'night, se'n'night. Vars. of SENNIGHT. seept. Seeped. Ref. Sp. seer'craft', n. See -CRAFT. seer'hood, n. See -HOOD. seer'ky. Var. of SERKI. seer'like', adj. See -LIKE. seer'ship, n. See -SHIP. seer'sawd'. Seesawed. Ref. Sp. seese. Var. of SEISE. see'soo, see'su. Vars. of SISSOO. seet (sĕt). Dial. Eng. var. of SIGHT; obs. or dial. Eng. var. of SET; obs. or dial. past tense of SIT. se'eth. Archaic 3d pers. sing. pres. indic. of SEE. seeth'er (sēth'ĕr), n. One that seethes, esp. a pot. Obs.
See'va. Var. of SIVA. see'wee. Dial. var. of SIEVA, the bean. see'wee bean. Var. of SIEVA BEAN. Local, U. S.
Se-fekh'et (sĕ-fĕk'ĕt). [Egypt. Sefekhit, fr. s-fekh to loosen, remove.] = SESHAT. [TORAH.] Se'fer To'rah. Var. of SEPHER. sef'i-ra, sef'i-roth'ic, etc. Vars. of SEPHIRA, SEPHIROTHIC, etc. se-gar' (sĕ-gär'). Var. of CIGAR. segathy. Var. of SAGATHY. sege. † SAGE, herb; SEDGE; SAY; SEE; SEG; SIE; SIEGE. segerstane, -stone. Obs. vars. of SEXTON. [SEG, sedge.] segg (sĕg). Var. of SEG, boar; segg. Dial. var. of SEDGE. [GER.] seg'gar (sĕg'ĕr), n. & v. = SAGGER. seg'gard, n. = SAFEGUARD, n., 4. segge, n. [AS. secg. See SOCIAL.] A man. Obs. segge. † SAY, SEDGE, SIEGE.
‖seg'gio-la (sĕd'jō-lä), n. [It.] Fine Arts. Dim. of SEGGIO. seg'gy. Dial. var. of SEDGY. segh. Obs. var. of SIGH. [SIEGE.] segh. Obs. past tense of SEE; † se-ghol' (sē-gōl'). Var. of SEGOL. se-gho'late (sĕ-gō'lāt). Var. of SEGOLATE. [STAR, Table.] Se-gi'nus (sē-jī'nŭs), n. See off, as though divided or separated, for consideration; as, a segment of time or of behavior.

---

4. Arch. A segmental arch.
5. Biol. & Embryol. Specif.: a A somite or metamere. b A division of a jointed appendage or limb of an arthropod. c A cell formed by segmentation or cleavage, as of a developing egg. d See CRANIAL SEGMENTS.
6. Geom. a A part cut off from a figure by a line or plane; esp., that part of a circular area bounded by a chord and an arc of that circle, or so much of the area as is cut off by the chord. See CIRCLE, Illust. b The part of a sphere cut off by a plane, or included between two parallel planes. c The finite part of a line between two points in it; any of the finite parts of a divided line.
7. Mach. a A piece in the form of the segment, or sometimes the sector, of a circle, or part of a ring; as, the segment of a sectional flywheel. b A segment gear.
8. Physics. Each of the portions between the nodes in stationary vibrations, as of a string or wire.
Syn. — See PART.

seg'ment (sĕg'mĕnt), v. t. To separate into segments; to divide by segmentation, or cleavage. — v. i. To divide or separate into parts; to undergo segmentation, or cleavage. See CLEAVAGE, 3.

seg·men'tal (sĕg·mĕn'tăl; sĕg'mĕn·tăl; -t'l), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a segment.
2. Arch. & Furniture. Having the form of a segment or arc of a circle or characterized by the use of such a segment; as, a segmental corner.
3. Zool. & Embryol. a Specif., of or pertaining to the body segments (somites or metameres) of a segmented animal; repeated in successive segments of such an animal. b Of or pertaining to the segmental organs.

segmental apparatus. Anat. The brain stem, exclusive of certain parts developed in connection with the cerebellum and cerebral cortex; — so called from the segmental arrangement of the cranial nerves. Cf. SUPRASEGMENTAL APPARATUS.

segmental arch. Arch. An arch of which the intrados forms the segment of a circle, meeting the jambs or imposts at an angle. The extrados is usually parallel, or nearly so, to the intrados, and the archivolt thus forms part of a circular band, with its center below the springing line. Also, loosely, a pointed arch of two centers, both below the springing line. See ARCH, Illust.

segmental duct. Embryol. The duct of a segmental organ of a vertebrate embryo, esp. that of the pronephros, which persists after the degeneration of the pronephros, receiving the tubules of the mesonephros and becoming the mesonephric or Wolffian duct, and in lower vertebrates also giving rise to the Müllerian duct.

segmental organ. a Zool. A nephridium (which see). b Embryol. An embryonic excretory organ of a vertebrate (the pronephros, mesonephros, or metanephros). See KIDNEY, 1.

segmental plate. Zool. = VERTEBRAL PLATE.

seg'men·tar'y (sĕg'mĕn·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Of, pertaining to, or resembling a segment; composed of segments; segmental.

seg'men·tate (sĕg'mĕn·tāt), adj. Segmented.

seg·men·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n. Act or process of dividing into segments, or state of being so divided; esp., Biol. & Embryol., the formation of many cells from a single cell; cleavage, as in a developing egg. See CLEAVAGE, 3.

Segmentation of a Centrolecithal Egg. a Two-celled, b Four-celled, and c Eight-celled, Stage.

segmentation cavity. Embryol. The central cavity of a blastula (see BLASTULA, Illust.); a blastocoele.

segmentation nucleus. = CLEAVAGE NUCLEUS.

segmentation sphere. a = BLASTULA. b = BLASTOMERE.

seg'ment·ed (sĕg'mĕn·tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. Divided or marked off into segments or joints; articulated.

segment gear. a = SEGMENT RACK. b = SECTOR GEAR.

segment rack. Mach. A curved rack.

‖se'gno (sā'nyō), n. [It. See SIGN.] Music. A sign; specif., the sign that marks the beginning or end of a repeat, or 𝄋. See AL SEGNO, DAL SEGNO.

se'go (sē'gō), n. [Of Shoshonean origin; cf. Paiute sego, Ute sigo.] A perennial herb (Calochortus nuttallii) of western North America; also, its edible bulb. It is the State flower of Utah. Called also sego lily. See STATE FLOWER, Plate.

se·gol', se·ghol' (sĕ·gōl'), n. [Aram. sĕghōl cluster of grapes.] Heb. Gram. The vowel sign (ְ), written below its consonant and nearly equivalent to English short e as in set, but sometimes long as e in there.

se·go'late, se·gho'late (sĕ·gō'lāt), n. [NL. segholatus.] Heb. Gram. A noun or noun equivalent typically of a developed dissyllabic form, with a long tone vowel in the first syllable and a short segol in the second.

seg're·ant (sĕg'rē·ănt), adj. [Corrupted French.] Her. Probably, rampant with expanded wings; — of griffins and wiverns.

seg're·ga·ble (sĕg'rē·gȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being segregated.

seg're·gant (-gănt), n. A segregate.

seg're·gate (sĕg'rē·gāt), adj. [L. segregatus, past part. of segregare to separate, fr. se- aside + grex, gregis, a flock or herd. See GREGARIOUS.] Apart, or separated, from others of the same kind; set apart; separate; select.

seg're·gate (-gāt), n. That which has segregated; specif.: a Biol. An individual of a class resulting from the separation of characters during segregation (sense 4). b Bot. & Zool. A species separated from an aggregate species.

seg're·gate (-gāt), v.; SEG'RE·GAT'ED (-gāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); SEG'RE·GAT'ING (-gāt'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To separate or cut off from others or from the general mass or main body; to set apart; to isolate; to seclude.
2. To cause to segregate.
——, Intransitive: 1. To separate from the general mass, and collect together or become concentrated at a particular place or in a certain region, as in the process of crystallization or solidification; hence, to separate or withdraw as a group from a main body, as from a nation.
2. Biol. To separate, as allelomorphic genes or characters, during meiosis. See SEGREGATION, 4.

seg're·ga'tion (sĕg'rē·gā'shŭn), n. [LL. segregatio.] 1. Act of segregating, or state of being segregated; separation from others or from the general mass or main body.
2. Specif.: a Obs. Secession from an ecclesiastical body; schism. b Obs. Dispersion. Shak. c Isolation or seclusion of a particular class of persons, as of foreign or defective school children or of the colored or Oriental population of a city.
3. A segregated portion; formerly, a schismatic group.
4. Biol. The separation of allelomorphic genes or characters, typically during meiosis. See MENDEL'S LAW.
5. Ceramics. The condition of a surface having more than four spots, blisters, or pinholes in any pottery square.

seg're·ga'tion·al (-ăl; -'l), adj. Of or pert. to segregation.

seg're·ga'tion·ist (sĕg'rē·gā'shŭn·ĭst), n. One who believes in a policy of segregation, as of races in a city.

seg're·ga'tive (sĕg'rē·gā'tĭv), adj. 1. Tending to segregate; characterized by segregation; also, inclined to seclude or sequester oneself.
2. Of a proposition, having its clauses joined by a segregative conjunction. Obs.
3. Gram. Disjunctive; adversative. Rare.

seg're·ga'tive, n. A numerative.

seg're·ga'tor (sĕg'rē·gā'tĕr), n. a One that segregates. b Surg. An appliance for collecting the urine from each kidney separately.

‖se'gue (sā'gwā), v. i. [It.] Literally, it follows; specif., in musical directions: a Perform what follows at once. Cf. ATTACCA. b Perform what follows like that which has preceded. Cf. SIMILE.

‖se·guen'do (sā·gwĕn'dō), adj. [It.] Following.

‖se'gui·dil'la (sā'gē·dēl'yä; 170), n. [Sp.] 1. A Spanish stanza of four or seven short verses partly assonant.
2. pl. An air to which a group of such stanzas is sung and its accompanying dance; — usually further designated to indicate native province, locality, or the like; as, se'gui·dil'las ma'la·gue'ñas (-yäs mä'lä·gwā'nyäs) (of Málaga), se'vil·lia'nas (sā'vēl·yä'näs) (of Seville), or gi·ta'nas (hē·tä'näs) (gypsy).
3. Music for such a dance or in its triple measure.

‖sei·cen'to (sā·chĕn'tō), n. [It.] The 17th century, as a period of Italian art or literature. Cf. CINQUECENTO. — sei·cen'to, adj.

seiche (sāsh), n. [Swiss F., of obscure origin.] An oscillation of the surface of a lake or landlocked sea, varying in period from a few minutes to several hours. It is thought to be initiated chiefly by local variations in atmospheric pressure, and perpetuated by the oscillations of the water surface, after the inequalities of atmospheric pressure have disappeared.

se'id (sā'ĭd). Var. of SAYID.

Se'id (sā'ĭd), n. sing. & pl. One of a Turkoman tribe in the Turkomen republic, claiming Arab descent.

sei'del (zī'dĕl), n. sing. & pl. [G.] a See MEASURE, Table. b [often cap.] A large glass for beer, usually having a hinged cover.

Seid'litz (sĕd'lĭts), adj. Also Sed'litz. Of or pertaining to Seidlitz, a village in Bohemia.

Seidlitz powders. Effervescing salts consisting of two separate powders, one of 40 grains of sodium bicarbonate mixed with 2 drams of Rochelle salt and the other of 35 grains of tartaric acid. The powders are mixed in water, and drunk while effervescing, as a mild cathartic; — so called from the resemblance to the natural water of Seidlitz. Called also Rochelle powders.

Sei'gnette', or Sei'gnette's', salt (sĕn'yĕt', -yĕts'). [See SALT OF SEIGNETTE.] a Rochelle salt. b Less commonly, sodium ammonium tartrate, $Na(NH_4)C_4H_4O_6.4H_2O$.

sei·gneur' (sĕn·yûr'; F. sĕn'yûr'). [F.] 1. A lord or gentleman; a seignior (sense 1). Specif.: a Fr. Hist. A feudal lord. b Can. Hist. One of the landed class who held a seigneury.

seign'eur·ess (sĕn'yĕr·ĕs; -ĭs), n. [F. seigneuresse.] Wife of a seigneur.

sei·gneu'ri·al (sĕn·yū'rĭ·ăl), adj. Seigniorial; — strictly, applying only to France or Canada.

seign'eur·y (sĕn'yĕr·ĭ), n. [F. seigneurie.] 1. A seigniory; specif.: a Fr. Hist. The jurisdiction of a seigneur. b Can. Hist. The domain or landed estate of a French seigneur under feudal tenure (ceased in 1854); also, the manor house upon it.
2. Dominion. Obs.
3. Specif., the difference between the circulating value of a coin and the cost of the bullion and the minting (brassage). Sometimes, less properly, brassage (which see).
4. Formerly, a royalty or charge paid to an overlord, or owner of the fee of the land, upon the mining output of certain minerals, such as tin.

seign'ior·al·ty (sĕn'yĕr·ăl·tĭ), n. The territory or authority of a seignior, or lord of the manor.

seign'ior·y (sĕn'yĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [ME. seignorie, fr. OF. seignorie (F. seigneurie).] 1. Lordship; dominion. Obs. except specif., the power or authority of a seignior; feudal lordship. Hist.
2. The territory over which a lord holds jurisdiction; a province or manor; a domain. Cf. SEIGNEURY.
3. A right of feudal superiority, with the rent or services thereto attached, annexed to land apart from its ownership; — sometimes called a seigniory in gross.
4. = SIGNORY.

seign'ior·y, v. t. & i. To rule as lord or seignior. Obs.

seign'or·al (sĕn'yĕr·ăl), adj. Seignorial.

sei·gno'ri·al (sĕn·yō'rĭ·ăl), adj. [Cf. F. seigneurial.] 1. Of or pertaining to a seignior; manorial.
2. Hence, vested with large powers; independent. Now R.

seign'or·ize (sĕn'yĕr·īz), v. i. To act the part of a seignior.

‖Sei'mas (sā'mäs), n. [Lith.] The Assembly or Diet of Lithuania, elected for five years by universal suffrage on a proportional basis.

seine (sān; sēn; 277), n. [AS. segne, fr. L. sagena, fr. Gr. sagēnē; cf. F. seine, fr. L.] Fishing. A large net, one edge provided with sinkers and the other with floats. It hangs vertically in the water, and when its ends are brought together or drawn ashore encloses the fish.

seine (sān; sēn), v. t. & i.; SEINED (sānd; sēnd); SEIN'ING (sān'ĭng; sēn'-). 1. To catch (fish) with a seine.
2. To trawl through with or as with a seine.

seine gang. Fisheries. A crew detailed from a fishing vessel for seining, together with their boats and gear.

sein'er (sān'ĕr; sēn'ĕr), n. One who or that which seines.

sei'ro·spore (sī'rō·spōr; 181), n. [Gr. seira a cord + spore.] Bot. One of several spores arranged in a chain, as in certain red algae (genus Seirospora) of the family Ceramiaceae. Obs. — sei'ro·spor'ic (-spŏr'ĭk), adj.

seise (sēz), v. t. [Var. of SEIZE.] To put in possession; to take possession of. Cf. SEIZE, v. t., 10. Archaic, except in legal use.

seism (sīz'm; sīs'm), n. [See SEISMIC.] An earthquake.

-seism. A combining form from Greek seismos, an earthquake, denoting a (specified) type of seismic movement, as in bathy*seism*, tachy*seism*. Derivative adjectives are formed in -seis'mal (-sīz'măl; -sīs'-) and -seis'mic (-mĭk).

seis'mal (sīz'măl; sīs'-), adj. Seismic.

seis·mat'i·cal (sīz·măt'ĭ·kăl; sīs-), adj. Of or pertaining to the study of seismic phenomena.

seis·met'ic (sīz·mĕt'ĭk; sīs-), adj. Seismic.

seis'mic (sīz'mĭk; sīs'-; 277), seis'mi·cal (-mĭ·kăl), adj. [Gr. seismos earthquake, fr. seiein to shake.] Of, pertaining to, of the nature of, subject to, or caused by, an earthquake. — seis'mi·cal·ly, adv.

seis·mic'i·ty (sīz·mĭs'ĭ·tĭ; sīs-), n. State, quality, or degree of being seismic; relative liability to earthquakes; specif., the frequency of earthquakes occurring in a given region as measured by the ratio between the total number of recorded earthquakes and the area in square miles.

seismic sea wave. One of many gravitational water waves propagated outward in all directions from the epicenter of a submarine earthquake. Such waves as they sweep into shoal water may attain heights of over 90 feet. Often popularly called tidal wave.

seismic vertical. The point on the earth's surface vertically over the focus whence the earthquake's impulse proceeds, or the vertical line joining these two points.

seis'mism (sīz'mĭz'm; sīs'mĭz'm), n. [Gr. seismos earthquake.] Earthquake phenomena, collectively.

seis'mo- (sīz'mō-; sīs'mō-). A combining form, Greek seismo-, from seismos, meaning earthquake, as in seismology.

seis'mo·chron'o·graph (-krŏn'ō·grȧf; 83), n. [seismo- + chronograph.] A chronograph adapted to determining the exact time of earthquake shocks.

seis'mo·gram (sīz'mō·grăm; sīs'mō-), n. [seismo- + -gram.] Physics. The record of an earth tremor made by a seismograph.

seis'mo·graph (sīz'mō·grȧf; sīs'-; 83), n. [seismo- + -graph.] Physics. An apparatus to register the shocks and undulatory motions of earthquakes.

One form of Seismograph. The lead Weight (1) is hung by the Wires (2) and the horizontal Strut (3) so as to have a free lateral swing on P as a pivot. The Yoke Piece (4) has pivoted to it a needlelike Lever (5), of which the short end rests against a projection of 1, and the long end bears a stylus. During an earthquake 1 remains steady, so that the movements of 4 cause oscillations of 5, which are recorded on the smoked surface of a Drum (6). A Magnet (7) connected with a clock marks off minutes on the record sheet.

seis·mog'raph·er (sīz·mŏg'rȧ·fĕr; sīs-), n. One versed in, or practicing, seismography; a seismologist.

seis'mo·graph'ic (sīz'mō·grăf'ĭk; sīs'-), seis'mo·graph'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Of, pert. to, or indicated by, a seismograph or seismography.

seis·mog'ra·phy (sīz·mŏg'rȧ·fĭ; sīs-), n. The description of earthquakes; also, the art of registering the shocks and undulatory movements of earthquakes; also, seismology.

seis'mo·log'i·cal (sīz'mō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl; sīs'mō-), adj. Also seis'mo·log'ic (-lŏj'ĭk). Of or pertaining to seismology. — seis'mo·log'i·cal·ly, adv.

seis·mol'o·gist (sīz·mŏl'ō·jĭst; sīs-), n. A specialist in seismology.

seis'mo·logue (sīz'mō·lŏg; sīs'mō-; 185), n. [seismo- + -logue as in cata*logue*.] A description or catalogue of earthquakes.

seis·mol'o·gy (sīz·mŏl'ō·jĭ; sīs-), n. [seismo- + -logy.] The science of earthquakes and attendant phenomena.

seis·mom'e·ter (-mŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [seismo- + -meter.] An accurate form of seismograph which furnishes data for determining the actual movements of the ground during an earthquake.

seis'mo·met'ric (sīz'mō·mĕt'rĭk; sīs'-), seis'mo·met'ri·cal (-rĭ·kăl), adj. Of or pertaining to seismometry or a seismometer.

seis'mo·met'ro·graph (-mĕt'rō·grȧf), n. [seismometer + -graph.] A seismograph, particularly a seismometer.

seis·mom'e·try (sīz·mŏm'ē·trĭ; sīs-), n. The art or process of using the seismometer.

seis'mo·mi'cro·phone (sīz'mō·mī'krō·fōn; sīs'mō-), n. A microphone adapted to the detection of earthquakes by sound.

seis'mo·scope (sīz'mō·skōp; sīs'mō-), n. [seismo- + -scope.] An instrument for recording only the time of fact of occurrence of earthquakes. — seis'mo·scop'ic (-skŏp'ĭk), adj.

seis'mo·tec·ton'ic (-tĕk·tŏn'ĭk), adj. [seismo- + tectonic.] Geol. Designating or pertaining to structural features of the earth which are associated with, or revealed by, earthquakes.

seis'mo·ther'a·py (-thĕr'ȧ·pĭ), n. [See SEISMIC; THERAPY.] Med. Treatment of disease by vibration, as by vibratory massage.

seis·mot'ic (sīz·mŏt'ĭk; sīs-), adj. Producing earthquakes; seismic.

---

seg·men'tal·ly, adv. of SEGMENTAL. segra, n. Var. of SEQUA. seg're·gate·ness, n. See -NESS.
Se'gub (sē'gŭb). Bib. [Bib.] = SEGNORIAL.
Se·hes'i·ma (sē·hĕs'ĭ·mȧ). D.
Seh'na (sā'nȧ). Rugi. Var. of SENNA. [Obs. exc. Dial.] seigh (sā). Var. of SEE, SIGH. seign'eur·age. = SEIGNIORAGE. seign'ior. † SENIOR.
seign'ior·esse, seign'or·esse, n. Seigneuress. Obs.
sei·gnior'i·al (sĕn·yōr'ĭ·ăl), adj. = SEIGNORIAL. sei·gnior'i·ty, n. = SEIGNORITY. seign'ior·ship, n. See -SHIP. seign'or·age, n. = SEIGNIORAGE. sei·gnor'i·ty, n. Lordship. Obs. seign'or·y (sĕn'yō·rĭ), n. & v. = SEIGNIORY. seik (sēk). Scot. var. of SEEK.
Seik, Seikh. Vars. of SIKH. seil (sīl). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of SILE, strain. [happiness.] sell (sĕl). Scot. var. of SELE, sell. † CELL.
sei·le'nos (sī·lē'nŏs), pl. SEILENOI (-noi). Var. of SILENUS. seim (sām; sēm). Var. of SAIM. Obs. exc. Dial.
‖Seim (sām). Var. of SEJM. sein, v. i. To sign. Obs. seind. Seined. Ref. Sp. seintuarie. † SANCTUARY. seip (sēp). Var. of SKEP. seip'age. Var. of SKEPAGE.
Se'ir (sē'ĭr). Bib. seir. † SORE.
Se·i'ra (sē·ī'rȧ; sē'ĭ·rȧ). D. Bib.
Se·i'rath (sē·ī'rȧth; sē'ĭ·rȧth). Bib. seir'fish' (sēr'fĭsh'). Var. of SEIZE. † SICK. seise. † SICK.
sei'er, n. Law. Seizure. Obs. sei'sin (sē'zĭn). Var. of SEIZIN. seis'mo·graf. Seismograph. Ref. Sp. [Obs.] seis'tow. Contr. of sayest thou. seit (sāt), n. [Burmese seik (written sit).] See MEASURE, Table.
seith. Var. of SAITHE. seith. † SCYTHE.

se'i·ty (sē'ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. se one's self.] A quality peculiar to oneself; selfhood; individuality.

Sei·u'rus (sī·ū'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. seiein to shake + -urus.] Zool. The genus of warblers consisting of the North American ovenbird and the water thrushes.

Sei'yu·hon·to (sā'yōō·hŏn·tō), n. [Jap.] Jap. Politics. A minority faction of the Seiyukai which formed an independent party in 1924 and merged with the Minseito in 1927. See MINSEITO.

Sei'yu·kai (sā'yōō·kī), n. [Jap.] Japanese Politics. The moderate party, representing largely the interests of the landowners and advocating commercial and industrial expansion.

seize (sēz), v.; SEIZED (sēzd); SEIZ'ING (sēz'ĭng). [ME. seisen, saisen, fr. OF. seisir, saisir (F. saisir), fr. LL. sacire to effect legal possession (cf. gasacio adversary, in the lex Salica), of Teut. (OF.) origin. See 1st SAKE.] Transitive: 1. Orig., to put in possession of a feudal holding. See sense 10, below.

2. a To confiscate; annex; as, to seize a fief. b To take possession of by force; as, to seize the throne.

3. Obs. a To establish in an abiding place; seat; — with in. b To grant.

4. To lay hold of suddenly or forcibly; to take hold of; to reach and grasp; to clutch; as, to seize one's arm.

5. To take prisoner; to arrest.

6. To take immediate advantage of, as an occasion or opportunity.

7. To affect so as to oppress, overwhelm, or control; — of bodily and mental affections, misfortune, etc.; as, seized with dizziness or with a passion.

The young prince was seized by the smallpox. Macaulay.

8. To fascinate or impress; grip; — of persons and things which rivet attention.

9. To grasp with the mind; to comprehend fully and distinctly; as, to seize an idea.

10. Law. a Orig., to put in possession; later, to put into seizin (of); — usually with of and in the passive; as, A B was seized and possessed of the manor of Dale. In this sense seise is the commoner spelling. b To take possession of, or appropriate, in order to subject to the force or operation of a warrant, order of court, or other legal process; — said of an officer of law.

11. Naut. a To bind or fasten together with a lashing of small stuff, as yarn, marline, or fine wire; as, to seize ropes. b Obs. To arrive at; make.

—, Intransitive: 1. To take or lay hold, or take possession, suddenly or forcibly; to grasp; — with on or upon.

2. To penetrate; bite; — of weapons. Obs.

3. To make a snatch or clutch.

4. Mech. To cohere or stick fast to a relatively moving part, as a bearing, a gas-engine piston, a slide valve, etc., through excessive pressure, temperature, or friction.

Syn. — Catch, grip; apprehend, arrest, take, capture.

seize claws on. To fasten claws in. Spenser.

seize up. To fasten to the shrouds for a flogging.

seized of (sēzd). a Legally possessed of. b Archaic. In possession of.

seiz'er (sēz'ẽr), n. One that seizes; specif.: a = SEIZOR. b A dog trained to seize game.

sei'zin, or, more commonly, sei'sin (sē'zĭn), n. [OF. saisine. See SEIZE.] Law. 1. Orig., in early English law, possession, whether of land or chattels; possession with quiet enjoyment; later, that possession of, or status with relation to, land that arose from the completion of feudal investiture by livery of seizin. Hence, in the later common law, possession of a freehold estate in land by one having title thereto, this being seizin in deed when consisting in actual possession, and seizin in law when consisting in a mere right of present possession. Now, where delivery of a deed is equivalent to livery of seizin, the term seizin is often construed in some jurisdictions as equivalent to actual possession, in others as equivalent to ownership.

2. Possession; as, to take seizin of subject territory.

sei'zin, v. i. & i. Chiefly Law. To seize. Obs.

seiz'ing (sēz'ĭng), n. 1. Act of taking or grasping suddenly or forcibly.

2. Naut. a The operation of fastening together or lashing with small stuff, generally tarred; also, the cord or lashing so used. b The fastening so made. If the parts of the ropes to be seized cross each other the seizing is called a throat seizing. If the ropes are parallel the seizing is called a round seizing where two layers of marline are used; it is called a flat seizing if only one layer is used.

seiz'ing, adj. That seizes, esp. the attention; arresting.

seizing truck. A truck, like a parrel truck, with a score round the middle to admit a seizing, used as a fair-lead, or at the end of a timenoguy.

sei'zor (sē'zẽr; -zôr), n. Law. One who seizes, or takes possession.

sei'zure (sē'zhẽr), n. [seize + -ure.] 1. Act of seizing, or state of being seized; sudden and forcible grasp or clutch; a taking into possession; as, the seizure of a thief, a throne, etc.

2. Obs. a Retention within one's grasp or power; hold; grip. b Possession; ownership; seizin. c That which is seized.

3. A sudden attack, as of a disease; a fit.

se'jant, se'jeant (sē'jănt), adj. [F. séant, pres. part. of seoir to sit, fr. L. sedere.] Her. Sitting, as a lion or other beast.

Lion Sejant.

‖Sejm (sām), n. Also Seim, Seym (sām). [Pol. sejm assembly.] Assembly, or Diet; specif., the Constituent Assembly of the Polish Republic (1918–22), and later the lower chamber of the Polish Parliament. Cf. SEIMAS.

se·join' (sē·join'), v. t. [See SE-.] To separate. Now Rare.

se·joined' (-joind'), adj. Disjoined.

‖sé'jour' (sā'zhōōr'), n. [F.] Sojourn.

sej'u·gate (sĕj'ōō·gāt; sē·jōō'gāt), v. t. [L. sejugatus, past part. of sejugare.] To sunder.

sej'u·gous (-gŭs), adj. [NL. sejugus, fr. L. sex six + jugum yoke; cf. L. sejugis a team of six horses.] Bot. Having six pairs of leaflets. Rare.

se·junct' (sē·jüngkt'), adj. [L. sejunctus.] Separate. Rare. — se·junct'ly, adv. Rare.

se·junc'tion, n. [L. sejunctio.] Separation. Obs.

se·junc'tive (sē·jüngk'tĭv), adj. Separate. Rare. — se·junc'tive·ly, adv. Rare.

Se·ka'ne (sā·kā'nĕ), n. Also Se·ka'ni. An Indian of an Athapascan tribe of British Columbia. See MONTAGNARD, 2.

Sekh'et (sĕk'ĕt), n. [Egypt. Skhemit, fr. skhem to be strong, prevail over.] Egypt. Relig. The wife of Ptah, represented as lion-headed. She typifies the destructive heat of the sun; she destroys the souls of the wicked in the underworld. She is called the "eye of Ra."

Sek'hwan' (sĕk'hwän'), n. sing. & pl. [Chin., Amoy dial., for Pek. shu²-fan¹; lit., tamed (shu²) barbarians (fan¹), i. e., those who have submitted to Chinese rule.] One of the distinct aboriginal tribes of Formosa, sedentary in habits and good agriculturists.

se'kos (sē'kŏs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. sēkos a pen, a shrine.] Gr. Antiq. A sacred enclosure; an inner sanctuary in an Egyptian temple.

se·la'chi·an (sē·lā'kĭ·ăn), adj. Zool. Pertaining to the Selachii. — n. One of the Selachii; a shark or ray.

Se·la'chi·i (-ī), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. selachos a fish having cartilages instead of bones.] Zool. A group of elasmobranch fishes to which various limits and ranks have been assigned. In the broadest senses it comprises either all the elasmobranchs (being thus equiv. to Elasmobranchii in the usual sense) or all except the chimaeras, and ranks as class or subclass. In restricted senses, it ranks as a subclass or order comprising the existing sharks and rays as disting. from the extinct Pleuropterygii, Acanthodii, and Ichthyotomi (Plagiostomi is a common equiv. in this sense), or as a suborder containing the existing sharks as disting. from the rays.

Sel'a·choi'de·i (sĕl'ā·koi'dē·ī), n. pl. [NL. See SELACHII; -OID.] Zool. A group of elasmobranch fishes consisting of the sharks as distinguished from the rays (Batoidei). It was formerly regarded as an order or suborder of Selachii (which see) but the sharks are now placed in several separate orders. — sel'a·choid (sĕl'ā·koid), adj. & n.

Sel'a·chos'to·mi (-kŏs'tō·mī), n. pl. [NL. See SELACHII; -STOMA.] Zool. In some classifications, an order of ganoids constituted by the paddlefishes. — sel'a·cho·stome' (sĕl'ā·kō·stōm'), n. — sel'a·chos'to·mous (-kŏs'tō·mŭs), adj.

se·la'dang (sā·lä'dăng), n. [Malay sĕladaṅ.] The gaur or wild buffalo. Malaysia.

Sel'a·gi·nel'la (sĕl'ā·jĭ·nĕl'ä), n. [NL., dim. fr. L. selago, -ginis, name of a plant.] Bot. a A genus of fern allies (see FERN ALLY) constituting the family Selaginellaceae. See RESURRECTION PLANT. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

Se·lag'i·nel·la'ce·ae (sē·lăj'ĭ·nĕ·lā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See SELAGINELLA.] Bot. A family of terrestrial mosslike plants of the order Lycopodiales. They have branching stems and scalelike leaves which are many-ranked and uniform, or 4-ranked and of two kinds spreading in two planes. The one-celled sporangia contain both megaspores and microspores. The only genus (Selaginella) includes over 700 species, chiefly tropical. — se·lag'i·nel·la'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

sel'a·gite (sĕl'ā·jĭt), n. [Gr. selagein to illumine, shine brightly.] Petrog. A mica-trachyte containing innumerable phenocrysts of mica in a holocrystalline groundmass of orthoclase, subordinate oligoclase, and abundant augite.

Se·la'go (sē·lā'gō), n. [L., a kind of shrublike plant.] Bot. A large genus of low, heathlike African shrubs of the figwort family (Scrophulariaceae), having spicate flowers with a nearly regular corolla, four didynamous stamens, a two-celled ovary, and drupaceous or capsular fruit.

se'lah (sē'lä), n. [Heb. selāh.] Bib. Probably, a musical or liturgical sign of some kind, occurring often in the Psalms and three times in Hab. iii. Hence, a pause.

se·lam'lik (sē·läm'lĭk), n. [Turk. selāmlıq, fr. Ar. salām + Turk. suff. -lıq. See SALAAM.] In a Turkish house the men's quarters, where guests are received; also, formerly, a ceremonial visit to a mosque paid by the sultan on Fridays.

sel'berg·ite (sĕl'bûrg·īt), n. [From the Selberg, near Quiddelbach, on the Laacher See, Rhenish Prussia.] Petrog. A dike rock, corresponding in composition to the extrusive leucitophyre.

sel'couth (sĕl'kōōth), adj. [AS. selcūth, seldcūth. See SELDOM; UNCOUTH.] Unusual; strange; marvelous. Archaic. — n. A wonder; a marvel. Obs.

sel'dom (sĕl'dŭm), adv. [AS. seldan, seldon, seldum; akin to OFris. sielden, D. zelden, G. selten, OHG. seltan, ON. sjaldan, Dan. sjelden, Sw. sällan, Goth. sildaleiks marvelous.] Rarely; not often; not frequently; in few cases.

Wisdom and youth are seldom joined in one. Hooker.

sel'dom, adj. Rare; infrequent. Archaic.

sel'dom·cy (sĕl'dŭm·sĭ), n. Infrequency. Rare.

seldom ever. Very seldom. Now Illit.

sel'dom·ly, adv. Rarely. Rare.

sel' d'or' (sĕl' dôr'). Photog. A white crystalline salt, sodium aurothiosulphate, $Na_3AuS_2O_3 2H_2O$, made by treating gold chloride with sodium thiosulphate in solution. It was used in the daguerreotype process, and later in toning certain prints.

seld'seen' (sĕld'sēn'), adj. [AS. seldsēne; akin to OHG. seltsāni, ON. sjaldsēnn.] Seldom seen; rare. Archaic.

sele (sēl), n. [AS. sæl.] Scot. & Dial. Eng. a Time; season; opportunity; occasion. b Happiness; welfare. Obs., except in proverbs and phrases; as, sele of your face or upon you, happiness be yours.

se·lect' (sē·lĕkt'), adj. [L. selectus, pres. part. of seligere to select, fr. se- aside + legere to gather. See LEGEND.] 1. Taken from a number of the same or an analogous kind by preference; selected; picked; as, a select chapter or bibliography.

2. Of special value or excellence; choice; as, select poems; also, of specially good social standing; exclusive; as, a select club.

A few select spirits had separated from the crowd. Macaulay.

3. Characterized by fastidiousness or special care in selecting; nice in choosing; as, to be select in making friends.

4. Lumbering. Chosen as being generally clear and of a quality that will be smooth when finished.

Syn. — SELECT, ELECT, EXCLUSIVE. That is SELECT which is the result of discriminating choice; ELECT often implies admission to some select or inner circle; EXCLUSIVE suggests the fastidiousness or (often) snobbishness of a clique or coterie; as, a select audience; "that delicious phantom of being an elect spirit . . . unlike the crowd" (Kingsley); "the exclusive in fashionable life" (Emerson).

se·lect' (sē·lĕkt'), v.; SE·LECT'ED; SE·LECT'ING. Transitive: 1. To take by preference from among others; to pick out; to cull; as, to select the best books for reading.

2. To devote specially. Obs.

3. Australian Land Laws. To take up (crown land) under the Land Acts; — formerly free-select (and hence free selection, free selector).

—, Intransitive: To make a selection; choose.

Syn. — See CHOOSE.

se·lect' (sē·lĕkt'), n. 1. One selected or formed by selection.

2. One of a select class.

select committee. Eng. Parliamentary Practice. A committee appointed to acquire information with a view to legislation and to examine into the constitution and management of an administrative department.

se·lect'ed, adj. 1. Chosen from a number.

2. Select; choice; specif., of a higher grade or quality than ordinary; as, selected steel compared with mill-run steel. — se·lect'ed·ly, adv.

se·lec'tion (sē·lĕk'shŭn), n. [L. selectio.] 1. Act of selecting, or state of being selected.

2. One that is selected; a collection of things chosen; as, a choice selection of books.

3. A passage or piece selected, as for reading or musical performance. Colloq.

4. Australian Land Laws. Act of selecting land (see SELECT, v. t., 3); also, a piece of land thus taken up; cf. CONDITIONAL PURCHASE.

5. Biol. Specif., any process, natural (see NATURAL SELECTION) or artificial, which results or tends to result in preventing certain individuals or groups of organisms from surviving and propagating, and in allowing others to do so with the result that the particular traits of the latter are given pronounced expression. See NATURAL SELECTION, SEXUAL SELECTION, DARWINISM.

6. Insurance. The action by which the risks insured by a company are secured or retained. In life insurance, specif., called selection by the company when it is the action of the company in aiming to secure healthy lives, and selection against the company when it is adverse, that is, when it consists in the action of policyholders in withdrawing or allowing their policies to lapse.

selection forest. Forestry. A forest in which trees of all age classes are represented.

se·lec'tion·ism (sē·lĕk'shŭn·ĭz'm), n. Any system or theory based on the doctrine of natural, artificial, or social selection.

se·lec'tion·ist, n. Biol. One who considers natural selection an especially important factor in evolution.

selection principle. Physics. A rule stating the numerical changes in quantum numbers in a quantum transition which may occur with the emission of light, generally in the form that the possible transitions involve a change of one in the quantum number.

selection system. See CONDITIONAL PURCHASE; SELECT, v. t., 3.

selection value. Biol. The presumed value of a trait or characteristic for the effective operation of the processes of natural selection (which see).

se·lec'tive (sē·lĕk'tĭv), adj. 1. Of, pert. to, or characterized by, selection; selecting or tending to select; as, selective action or breeding; a selective screen, stain, or mind.

2. Radio. Pertaining to or designating the degree of ability of a circuit or apparatus to respond to a desired frequency and not to others.

selective absorption. Physics. Absorption of radiation which is not the same for all wave lengths; as, selective absorption of green means that green light is absorbed more than other colors.

selective dispersion. Physics. See DISPERSION, 4.

Selective Draft, or Service, Act. U. S. Hist. An act (officially known as the War Army Act) passed May 18, 1917, which provided for increasing the regular army and National Guard to full war strength and for the raising of an additional force of 500,000 men by selective draft (see DRAFT, n., 14 b) from men of ages 21 to 30 inclusive. Registrations on June 5, 1917 and later dates, together with that under the Manpower Act (sense b), produced nearly 24,000,000 Americans of military age available for service.

selective flotation. Ore Dressing. That form of flotation in which only one mineral is floated from an ore pulp containing two or more floatable minerals. Called also differential flotation, preferential flotation.

se·lec'tive·head' lathe. Mach. See 2d LATHE, 1. selective mating. Zool. Assortative mating.

selective radiation. Radiation in which waves of certain lengths are intense compared with the other waves.

selective reflection. Reflection in which waves of certain lengths are reflected with little loss of intensity compared with the loss in case of other waves.

selective sliding gear. A clash gear.

selective transmission. Mach. A transmission for automobiles, etc., by which the gear can be changed directly from one speed to any other by a single lever.

se·lec'tiv'i·ty (sē·lĕk'tĭv'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality or state of being selective; specif., Colorimetry, the quality of exhibiting selective reflection to a noticeable degree.

se·lect'man (sē·lĕkt'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A person chosen to exercise special powers in a system of government; esp., one of a board of officers chosen annually in towns in the New England States, except Rhode Island, to transact the general public business of the town. The number is usually from three to seven or nine in each town. The office seems to have been derived from that of the English select vestryman.

select meeting. In the Society of Friends, a meeting of ministers and elders.

select mortality table. See MORTALITY TABLE.

se·lec'tor (sē·lĕk'tẽr), n. [LL.] One that selects. Specif.: a One who selects, as for purchase, stowage, or distribution; a sorter; grader; classer. b Any one of many mechanical or electrical devices for automatically selecting predetermined shapes, sizes, materials, or devices to be chosen or actuated, as the electromagnetic selector by which one of several moving elevators is stopped at a particular landing. c A pyromagnetic device for determining temperatures for rolling rails. d In automotive vehicles, the element in a transmission gearshift which is guided by the gearshift lever so that the desired gearshift bar is actuated; also, in an automatic gearshift, the lever operated by the driver to select the desired speed. e Australian Land Laws. A person who selects land; less exactly, a small farmer. See SELECT, v. t., 3. Cf. SQUATTER, n., 3. f Copper Smelting. A kind of converter with hori-seiz'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

seke. † SEEK, SICK.
Seker. = SOKARIS. sekere. † SICKER.
Sekh'met. Var. of SEKHET.
sel. † SEAL, n.; SELE, time; SELL; SHALL.
sel. Sell. Ref. Sp.
sel, sell. Scot. & dial. vars. of SELF. — the sel, or sell, of it, him, etc., itself, himself, etc.
Se'la (sē'lä). Bib.
se·la'dang. Var. of SALADANG. sel'a·don. Var. of CELADON.
Se·lag'i·ne'ce·ae (sē·lăj'ĭ·nē'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Selago + -aceae.] Syn. of SCROPHULARIACEAE (in part).
Se'la·ham·mah'le·koth (sē'lä·hä·mä'lĕ·kōth; -kŏth). Bib.
Sel'a·hi (sĕl'ä·hī). D. Bib.
Se'la·ites (sē'lä·īts). D. Bib.
sel'a·min' (sĕl'ä·mĭn'), n. [Pg. selamim, pl. -im.] See MEASURE, Table.
selanders. † SALLENDERS.
Se'la·wig'miut (sē'lä·wĭg'mŭt), n. See ESKIMO, 1.
Sel·bor'ni·an (sĕl·bôr'nĭ·ăn), adj. & n. [From Selborne, Hampshire, Eng.] Geol. = ALBIAN. seld (sĕld). Dial. Eng. past tense & past part. of SELL. seld, adv. & adj. = SELDOM. Archaic. sel'den, adv. Seldom. Obs. sel'dom·er. Rare compar. of SELDOM. sel'dom·ness, n. See -NESS. seld'speech', n. [seld + speech.] Taciturnity. Obs.
Sel'e·bin (sĕl'ē·bĭn). D. Bib.
se·lect'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
se·lec'tiv. Selective. Ref. Sp.
se·lec'tive·ly, adv. of SELECTIVE.
se·lec'tive·ness, n. See -NESS. se·lect'ly, adv. of SELECT.
se·lect'ness, n. See -NESS.
selector switch. Elec. See SWITCH, n., 5.
Se'led (sē'lĕd). Bib.
Sel'e·mi'a (sĕl'ē·mī'ä). Bib.
Sel'e·mi·a'u (-mĭ·ä'ū). D. Bib.
Se·le'mith (sē·lē'mĭth). D. Bib.

zontal tuyères, to produce bottoms (see BOTTOM, n., 9 a) and a purified copper in one operation. g Elec. & Teleph. A type of switch mechanism designed to move over a number of terminals and to select a particular one or group in accordance with the signal received. h Radio. = STATION SELECTOR. i Railroading. An apparatus for operating either or any of two or more signals by a single lever, devised so as automatically to connect the particular signal controlling the route or track for which a switch has been set.

selen-. 1. = SELENO-.
2. Chem. A combining form for selenium.

sel'e·nate (sĕl'ē·nāt), n. Chem. A salt or ester of selenic acid.

Se·le'ne, Se·le'na (sē·lē'nē, -nȧ), n. [Gr. Selēnē, fr. selēnē moon.] Gr. Relig. The goddess of the moon, merged in Artemis and Hecate. See ENDYMION a; ASTARTE, 1.

se·le'ni·an (sē·lē'nĭ·ăn), adj. [Gr. selēnē moon.] Astron. Of, pertaining to, or designating, the moon.

se·le'ni·ate (sē·lē'nĭ·āt), n. A selenate.

se·len'ic (sē·lĕn'ĭk), adj. Of, pert. to, or like the moon.

se·le'nic (sē·lē'nĭk; -lēn'ĭk), adj. Chem. Of, pertaining to, or containing, selenium; specif., designating those compounds in which the element has a higher valence as contrasted with selenious compounds.

selenic acid. An acid, H_2SeO_4, crystalline when pure, resembling sulphuric acid but weaker, obtained by oxidation of selenious acid, and in other ways. Its aqueous solution dissolves gold, copper, iron, etc.

Se·le'ni·ce're·us (sē·lē'nĭ·sē'rē·ŭs), n. [NL., fr. Selene + Cereus.] Bot. A genus of sixteen species of mostly epiphytic climbing cacti (family Cactaceae) ranging from southern Texas to Argentina, with ribbed or angled and not very spiny stems. Their immense, white, night-blooming flowers are much prized in northern greenhouses. See NIGHT-BLOOMING CEREUS a.

sel'e·nide (sĕl'ē·nīd; -nĭd), n. Also -nid. A compound of selenium with an element or radical.

Sel'e·nid'er·a (sĕl'ē·nĭd'ēr·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. selēnē moon + derē neck; — so called from the crescent-shaped markings below the neck.] Zool. See TOUCANET.

sel'e·nif'er·ous (-nĭf'ēr·ŭs), adj. [selenium + -ferous.] Containing or yielding selenium.

se·le'ni·o- (sē·lē'nĭ·ō-). Chem. A combining form from selenium, used for selenious.

se·le'ni·on (sē·lē'nĭ·ŏn), n. [NL.] Chem. Selenium.

se·le'ni·ous (-ŭs), adj. Chem. Of, pertaining to, or containing, selenium; specif., designating those compounds in which the element has a lower valence as contrasted with selenic compounds.

selenious acid. A colorless crystalline poisonous acid, H_2SeO_3, formed by oxidation of selenium and easily yielding the element by reduction.

Se·le'ni·pe'di·um (sē·lē'nĭ·pē'dĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. selēnē moon + pedion a plain.] Bot. A genus of tropical American orchids closely related to Cypripedium, containing only three species. They are of immense, reedlike habit. The pods of S. chica, of Central America, yield a native substitute for vanilla.

sel'e·nite (sĕl'ē·nīt; sē·lē'nĭt), n. [Gr. selēnitēs, fr. selēnē moon.] An inhabitant of the moon.

sel'e·nite (sĕl'ē·nīt), n. [From SELENIUM.] Chem. A salt or ester of selenious acid.

sel'e·nite, n. [L. selenites, fr. Gr. selēnitēs (sc. lithos), fr. selēnē the moon; — so called because supposed to wax and wane with the moon.] Mineral. A variety of gypsum, occurring in transparent crystals or crystalline masses. — sel'e·nit'ic (-nĭt'ĭk), -nit'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj.

sel'e·nit'ic (-nĭt'ĭk), adj. Pertaining to or influenced by the moon.

se·le'ni·um (sē·lē'nĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. selēnē the moon; — so called from its resemblance to tellurium (fr. L. tellus the earth.] Chem. A nonmetallic element, related to sulphur and tellurium and resembling them chemically, found to a small extent in native sulphur and (combined) in native sulphides, also in a few selenides, as clausthalite. Symbol, Se; at. no., 34; at. wt., 78.96. It was discovered in 1817 by Berzelius in the deposit from sulphuric acid chambers. It is now obtained chiefly as a by-product in the refining of copper. Like sulphur, selenium occurs in several allotropic forms, being obtained as a brick-red amorphous powder (sp. gr. 4.26), as a brownish-black, glassy mass of vitreous selenium (sp. gr. 4.28), as red crystals (sp. gr. 4.5), and as a gray metallike crystalline mass of so-called metallic selenium (sp. gr. 4.8). Selenium burns in air with a bluish flame. Metallic selenium conducts electricity much more readily in the light than in the dark, its conductivity increasing with the intensity of the light. Selenium is used in various photoelectric devices, as talking films, optophones, and photometers, in decolorizing glass, in coloring glass and enamels red, etc.

selenium cell. Elec. A piece of metallic selenium in circuit with a battery and a galvanometer, used in certain optical experiments because, under the action of light, the electrical resistance of selenium changes.

se·le'no- (sē·lē'nō-), selen-. 1. A combining form, Greek selēno-, selēn-, from selēnē, meaning the moon, as in selenocentric, selenium.
2. Chem. a A combining form for selenium, as in *seleno*bismuthite. b Specif., designating bivalent selenium, Se<, analogous to thio-.

se·le'no·bis'muth·ite (sē·lē'nō·bĭz'mŭth·īt; -bĭs'-), n. [seleno- + bismuth + -ite.] Mineral. Chem. A compound containing both selenium and bismuth.

se·le'no·cen'tric (sē·lē'nō·sĕn'trĭk), adj. [seleno- + centric.] Astron. Relating to the center of the moon; referred to the moon as a center.

se·le'no·dont (sē·lē'nō·dŏnt), adj. [selen- + -odont.] Zool. Having, or designating, molar teeth with crescentic ridges on the crown, as in the majority of artiodactyls. — n. A mammal with selenodont teeth.

Se·le'no·don'ta (sē·lē'nō·dŏn'tȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A group of artiodactyls having selenodont teeth. It includes the Tylopoda and Pecora.

se·le'no·don'ty (sē·lē'nō·dŏn'tĭ), n. State of being selenodont.

se·le'no·graph (-grȧf; 83), n. [seleno- + -graph.] A picture or delineation of the moon's surface, or of any part of it.

sel'e·nog'ra·pher (sĕl'ē·nŏg'rȧ·fēr), n. A specialist in selenography.

se·le'no·graph'ic (sē·lē'nō·grăf'ĭk), se·le'no·graph'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [Cf. F. sélénographique.] Of or pertaining to selenography. — se·le'no·graph'i·cal·ly, adv.

selenographic chart. Astron. A map representing the surface of the moon.

sel'e·nog'ra·phist (sĕl'ē·nŏg'rȧ·fĭst), n. A selenographer.

sel'e·nog'ra·phy (sĕl'ē·nŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [seleno- + -graphy.] The science of the physical features of the moon; the physical geography of the moon.

sel'e·nol'o·gy (-nŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [seleno- + -logy.] That branch of astronomy which treats of the moon; loosely, selenography. — se·le'no·log'i·cal (sē·lē'nō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — sel'e·nol'o·gist (sĕl'ē·nŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

se·le'no·man'cy (sē·lē'nō·măn'sĭ), n. [seleno- + -mancy.] Divination by observation of the moon.

se·le'no·scope (-skōp), n. [seleno- + -scope.] Astron. An instrument for observing the moon.

sel'e·not'ro·pism (sĕl'ē·nŏt'rō·pĭz'm), n. Also sel'e·not'ro·py (-pĭ). [seleno- + -tropism.] Biol. Phototropism in which moonlight is the orienting factor. — se·le'no·trop'ic (sē·lē'nō·trŏp'ĭk), adj.

sel'en·sil'ver (sĕl'ĕn·sĭl'vĕr), n. [G. selensilber, fr. selen selenium.] Naumannite.

sel'en·sul'phur (sĕl'ĕn·sŭl'fĕr), n. Mineral. A vitreous brownish-red mixture of selenium and sulphur.

Se·leu'ci·an (sē·lū'shĭ·ăn; -sĭ·ăn), adj. Seleucidan.

Se·leu'cid (sē·lū'sĭd), n. One of the Seleucidae.

Se·leu'cid, adj. Seleucidan.

Se·leu'ci·dae (sē·lū'sĭ·dē), n. pl. A dynasty (312–64 B.C.) which, at the height of its power, ruled over Bactria, Persia, Babylonia, Syria, and part of Asia Minor. It was founded 312 B.C. by Seleucus Nicator, one of the generals of Alexander the Great.

Se·leu'ci·dan (sē·lū'sĭ·dăn), adj. Of, pert. to, or named from, the Seleucidae; as, the Seleucidan Era (see ERA, Table).

self (sĕlf), adj. [AS. self, seolf, sylf; akin to OS. self, OFris. self, D. zelf, G. selb, selber, selbst, Dan. selv, Sw. sjelf, ON. sjálfr, Goth. silba. Cf. SELVAGE.] 1. Same; particular; very; identical. Obs.
2. Of or pertaining to oneself; one's own. Obs.
3. a Having its own or a single nature or character, as in material, color, composition, etc., without addition or change; unmixed; as, a self flower, one all of one color; self-colored. b Of the same material, color, etc. as that which it accompanies; as, a self trimming or belt. c Of an arrow or bow, made of a single piece of wood; as, a self-yew longbow. See 3d BOW, 2; cf. FOOTED ARROW.

self, pron. 1. The very person or thing mentioned; the same; — superseded by the combinations of -self. Archaic.
2. Myself; himself; as, payable to self; self and friends. Colloq.
3. Own; personal. Obs. "By self and violent hands." Shak.

self (sĕlf), n.; pl. SELVES (sĕlvz), exc. SELFS in senses 6 & 8.
1. The entire, esp. the essential, person of an individual; — preceded by a personal pronoun; as, your own dear self.
2. The identity of anything considered abstractly.
She was beauty's self. Thomson.
3. An individual considered as an identical person; a being regarded as having personality; a being in its relations to its own identity; the subject of consciousness, or a consciousness considered as subjective and individual; in a narrower sense, the individual as the object of his own reflective consciousness; the man viewed by his own cognition as the subject of all his mental phenomena, the agent in his activities, the subject of his feelings, and the possessor of capacities and character.
A man's self may be the worst fellow to converse with. Pope.
The self, the I, is recognized in every act of intelligence as the subject to which that act belongs. Sir W. Hamilton.
The self is the general subject or capacity for feeling, willing, knowing. W. T. Harris.
4. A phase of one's personality predominant at a certain time or under certain conditions; as, one's former self; his better self.
5. Personal interest or advantage, or love of private interest; selfishness; as, self is his whole concern.
6. A self bow or arrow. See SELF, adj., 3 c.
7. In Hinduism: a [cap.] The Supreme Self, the Absolute, Brahma. b The innermost being of man, ultimately identical with the Supreme Self. c In Buddhism, the Ego, regarded simply as a continuum of experience. Cf. VEDANTA, UPANISHAD, BUDDHISM.
8. Biol. a An individual produced by self-fertilization; — distinguished from crossbred. b An individual that is self-colored.
— be oneself. To be in full possession of one's powers.
— the self. Obs. a The same person or thing. b Itself.

self (sĕlf), v. t. & i. Biol. a To cause individuals of the same race or strain to breed together; to inbreed. b To fertilize with pollen from the same flower or plant; to self-pollinate. c In genetics, to self-fertilize.

-self. A combining form of the pronoun self, used with personal pronouns, as in him*self*, my*self.*

self-. The noun self used as a prefix in many compounds, usually of obvious meaning, in most of which it denotes: a The object of the action, quality, or state of being denoted by the word with which it is joined; the person or thing affected by the action; as in self-approving, self-abnegation, self-advertiser, self-command, self-conscious. b The agent that of itself acts in a manner denoted or implied by the word with which it is joined, or that which of itself has or embodies a quality or state implied by the word to which the prefix is joined; the subject of the action; as in self-assumed, assumed by oneself; self-begotten, self-inflicted, self-uniform, uniform in or of itself. c With adverbial force: (1) To, with, for, or toward oneself, as in self-consistent, self-centered, self-addressed. (2) Of or in oneself inherently, as in self-evident, self-existent; — used also adjectively, as in self-holiness. (3) From oneself, as in self-initiative. d With adjectival force: (1) Obs. Personal; individual; as in self-affair, self-mettle. Shak. (2) Independent, as in self-rule. (3) Directed upon self, as in self-desire. e Automatic; — in nouns denoting, or adjectives describing, apparatus, as in self-coupler, self-filling. The meanings of the following can be supplied from the definitions of the words to which self- is affixed:

self-abandon	self-accusatory	self-adjusting self-abandonment	self-accused	self-administer self-abased	self-accuser	self-admiration self-abasement	self-accusing	self-admired self-abasing	self-acknowledged	self-admirer self-abdication	self-acquaintance	self-adorer self-abhorrence	self-acquainter	self-adorned self-abhorring	self-acquisition	self-adornment self-ability	self-acquitted	self-adulation self-abnegation	self-actualizing	self-advanced self-abnegatory	self-adapting	self-advancement self-abominating	self-adaptive	self-advantage self-absorbed	self-addiction	self-advantageous self-absorption	self-addressed	self-advertise self-accorded	self-adhesion	self-advertisement self-accusation	self-adjoint	self-advertiser self-accusative	self-adjustable	self-advertising self-affair	self-concentration	self-dispraise self-affecting	self-concept	self-disquieting self-affectionate	self-condemnable	self-dissatisfaction self-afflicting	self-condemnant	self-dissatisfied self-affliction	self-condemnation	self-dissecting self-affictive	self-condemnatory	self-disserving self-affrighted	self-condemned	self-dissociation self-agency	self-condemnedly	self-dissolution self-aggrandized	self-condemning	self-dissolved self-aggrandizement	self-condemningly	self-distinguishing self-conditioning	self-disunity self-agrandizing	self-confessed	self-divided self-aim	self-confinement	self-division self-aligning	self-conflict	self-doctrine self-amplifier	self-conflicting	self-dominance self-amputation	self-conformance	self-dominion self-amusement	self-confounding	self-donation self-analysis	self-confuted	self-doomed self-angry	self-congratulating	self-dosage self-annealing	self-congratulation	self-doubt self-annihilated	self-congratulatory	self-drawing self-annihilation	self-conquest	self-drinking self-answering	self-conservation	self-dropping self-antithesis	self-conservative	self-drown self-apparent	self-conserving	self-dualistic self-applauding	self-consideration	self-dubbed self-applause	self-consoling	self-dumping self-applausive	self-consolingly	self-easing self-application	self-constituted	self-eating self-applied	self-consumed	self-effort self-applying	self-consuming	self-elaborated self-appointed	self-contemner	self-elation self-appointment	self-contempt	self-elected self-appreciation	self-contracting	self-election self-approbation	self-contraction	self-emitted self-approval	self-contradicter	self-emolument self-approved	self-contradicting	self-employer self-approver	self-contradictory	self-employment self-approving	self-convened	self-emptiness self-arched	self-converse	self-emptying self-arching	self-convicted	self-enamored self-arising	self-conviction	self-enclosed self-assumed	self-cooking	self-engrossed self-assuming	self-cooled	self-engrossment self-attachment	self-correction	self-enriching self-attracting	self-corrective	self-entertainment self-attraction	self-correspondent	self-entity self-attractive	self-corrupted	self-erected self-attribution	self-coupler	self-escape self-auscultation	self-cozening	self-essence self-authority	self-created	self-essentiated self-authorized	self-creating	self-estimate self-aware	self-creation	self-estimation self-awareness	self-creative	self-estrangement self-bailing	self-credit	self-eternity self-balanced	self-credulity	self-evacuation self-banished	self-criticism	self-evolved self-banishment	self-cruel	self-evolving self-basting	self-cruelty	self-exaltation self-beautiful	self-cure	self-exaltative self-beauty	self-cutting	self-exalted self-bedizenment	self-damnation	self-exalting self-befooled	self-danger	self-excellency self-begetter	self-deaf	self-exclusion self-begotten	self-debasement	self-exculpation self-beguiled	self-debate	self-excuse self-being	self-deceiver	self-excused self-belief	self-deceiving	self-excusing self-benefit	self-declared	self-exhibited self-besot	self-declaredly	self-exhibition self-betrayal	self-dedication	self-exile self-betrayed	self-defeated	self-exiled self-betraying	self-defeating	self-expansion self-betrothed	self-defended	self-expatriation self-blame	self-definition	self-explication self-blamed	self-deflation	self-exploiting self-blessed	self-degradation	self-exposed self-blind	self-deifying	self-exposure self-blinded	self-dejection	self-extermination self-blinding	self-delation	self-extolled self-boarding	self-deluded	self-exultation self-boasted	self-deluder	self-exulting self-boasting	self-deluding	self-fame self-boiled	self-demagnetizing	self-farming self-bored	self-dependence	self-fearing self-born	self-dependency	self-felicitation self-burning	self-dependent	self-felony self-canceled	self-dependently	self-fermentation self-canting	self-depending	self-figure self-capacity	self-depraved	self-figured self-captivity	self-depreciation	self-filling self-care	self-depreciative	self-fitting self-castigation	self-deprived	self-flagellation self-catalysis	self-derived	self-flattered self-causation	self-desertion	self-flatterer self-caused	self-deserving	self-flattering self-centralization	self-design	self-flattery self-chain	self-designer	self-flowing self-changed	self-desirable	self-fluxing self-changing	self-desire	self-focusing self-charging	self-despair	self-folding self-charity	self-destroyed	self-fondest self-chastisement	self-destroyer	self-fondness self-cheatery	self-destroying	self-forbidden self-checking	self-detaching	self-formation self-chosen	self-developing	self-formed self-clamp	self-devised	self-forsaken self-cleaning	self-devouring	self-fountain self-clearance	self-differentiating	self-friction self-closed	self-differentiation	self-frighted self-closing	self-diffidence	self-fruition self-cognizably	self-diffident	self-fulfillment self-cognizance	self-diffusion	self-furnished self-coherence	self-diffusive	self-furring self-coiling	self-digestion	self-gaging self-collected	self-dilation	self-gain self-collectedness	self-directed	self-gauging self-collection	self-directing	self-generated self-color	self-direction	self-generation self-combating	self-directive	self-generative self-combustion	self-director	self-gentleness self-commande	self-diremption	self-giving self-commendation	self-disapprobation	self-glazed self-disapproval	self-glorification self-comment	self-disclosed	self-glory self-commissioned	self-disclosing	self-glorying self-committal	self-disclosure	self-gotten self-committing	self-discoloration	self-gracious self-communed	self-discontented	self-gratification self-communicative	self-discovery	self-guard self-disdain	self-guarded
self-communing	self-disengaging	self-guidance self-communion	self-disgrace	self-guiltiness self-comparison	self-disgracing	self-guiltless self-compassion	self-disgust	self-guilty self-compensation	self-dislike	self-gullery self-competition	self-disliked	self-hammered self-complaisance	self-disparagement	self-hang self-completion	self-dispatch	self-harming self-comprehending	self-display	self-healing self-comprised	self-displeased	self-heating self-conceived	self-displicency	self-helpful self-concentrated	self-disposal	self-helping seleni-. = SELENO-, as in *selenifer*ous, selenigenous, selenituret, etc.

sel'e·nig'e·nous, adj. See -OGENOUS.

se·len'i·tif'er·ous, adj. See -FERIOUS.

sel'e·nit'ish, adj. See -ISH.

sel'e·ni'u·ret (sĕl'ē·nī'ū·rĕt; sē·lē'nū·rĕt), n. A selenide. Obs.

se·le'no·graf. Selenograph. Ref. Sp.

sel'e·nol'a·try (sĕl'ē·nŏl'ȧ·trĭ), n. See -LATRY. [RE; SEALER; SOLER.]

seler. † CELLAR; CELURE, SELLÆ-Sel'e·tnai (sĕl'ē·thī). D. Bib.

Sel'eu·cid'e·an (sĕl'ū·sĭd'ē·ăn), Sel'eu·cid'i·an (-ĭ·ăn), Sel'eu·cid'ic (-ĭk), adj. = SELEUCIDAN.

N O P Q R S

self-helpfulness self-helpless self-hid self-hidden self-hitting self-holiness self-homicide self-honored self-hope self-humbling self-humiliation self-hypnotism self-hypnotization self-idea
self-idolater self-idolatry self-idolized self-idolizing self-ignition self-ignorance self-ignorant self-illumined self-imitation self-immolating self-immolation self-immurement self-immuring self-impairable self-impartation self-imparting self-imposed self-imposture self-impregnated self-impregnating self-impregnation self-impregnator self-impulsion self-inclosed self-inclusive
self-incurred
self-indignation self-indulged self-indulger self-indulging self-inflation self-inflicted self-infliction self-initiative self-injurious self-injury self-inking self-inoculation self-insignificance self-inspection self-instructed self-instruction
self-instructor
self-insufficiency self-integration self-intelligible self-intensifying self-interpretative self-interpreting self-interrogation self-interrupting self-intersecting self-intoxication
self-introduction
self-intruder self-invented self-invention self-invited self-ionization self-irony self-irrecoverable self-irrecoverable-ness self-irreformable self-issuing self-jealous self-jealousing self-jealousy self-judged self-judging self-judgment self-justification self-justified self-justifier self-justifying self-killed self-killer self-killing self-kindled self-kindness self-lacerating self-lashing self-laudation self-laudatory self-leveler self-leveling self-levied self-levitation self-lighting self-liking self-limitation self-loathing self-locating self-locking self-lost self-lubricating self-luminescence self-luminosity self-luminous self-maceration self-mad self-maimed self-maintenance self-making self-manifestation self-mapped self-martyrdom self-mastered self-mastering self-matured self-measurement self-mediating self-merit
self-minded self-mistrust self-misused self-mortification self-mortified self-multiplied self-multiplying self-murder self-murdered self-murderer self-mutilation self-named self-neglect self-neglectful self-neglecting self-nourishment self-objectification self-oblivion self-oblivious self-observation self-occupation self-occupied self-offense self-offered self-offering self-oiling self-opened self-opener self-opening self-operative self-operator self-oppressor self-ordainer self-originated self-originating self-origination self-ostentation self-outlaw self-outlawed self-ownership self-oxidation self-paid self-painter self-pampered self-pampering self-panegyric self-parasitism self-parricide self-paying self-peace
self-penetrability self-penetration self-perceiving self-perception self-perceptive self-perfect self-perfectibility self-perfecting self-perfectionment self-performed self-permission self-perpetuated
self-perpetuating self-perpetuation self-perplexed self-persuasion self-physicking self-pictured self-piquer self-pitiful self-pitifulness self-pity self-pitying self-pityingly self-placated self-player self-playing self-pleached self-pleased self-pleaser self-pleasing self-poised self-poisoner
self-policing self-policy
self-politician self-posed self-posited self-positing self-posting
self-postponement self-potence self-praise self-praising self-precipitation self-preference
self-preoccupation self-preparation self-prescribed self-presentation self-pretended self-primer self-priming self-prizing self-proclaimant self-proclaimed self-procured self-procuring self-proditoriously self-produced self-professed self-profit self-projection self-pronouncing self-propagating self-propulsion self-protecting self-protection self-protective self-proving self-provision self-puffery self-punished self-punisher self-punishing self-punishment self-punitive self-purifying self-purity self-quotation self-raised self-raising self-reckoning self-recollection self-recollective self-reconstruction self-reduction self-reduplication self-refining self-reformation self-refuting self-regardant self-regarding self-regulated self-regulating self-regulation self-regulative self-regulatory self-relish self-relying self-renounced self-renouncement self-renouncing self-repeating self-repellency self-repellent self-repose
self-representation self-repressed self-repressing self-repression self-reproducing self-repulsive self-reputation self-resentment self-resigned
self-resourceful self-resourcefulness self-respectful self-respectfulness self-respecting self-resplendent self-responsibility self-restoring self-restrained self-restraining self-restriction self-retired self-revealed self-revealing self-revealment self-revelation self-revelative self-revelatory self-reverence self-reverent self-rigorous self-roofed self-ruin self-ruined self-rule
self-safety self-satirist self-scanned self-schooled self-schooling self-science self-scorn self-scourging self-scrutinizing self-scrutiny self-sealer self-sealing self-searching self-sedimented self-sent self-serve self-serving self-set self-severe self-shadowing self-shelter self-shine
self-shining self-shot
self-significance self-similar self-sinking self-solicitude self-soothing self-sophistication self-sought self-sovereignty self-spacing self-speech self-spitted self-sprung self-stability
self-steered self-stimulated self-strength self-stripper self-strong self-stuck self-subdual self-subdued self-subjection self-subordination self-subsidation self-subversive self-suppression self-suppressive self-survey self-surviving self-survivor
self-suspicion
